KUDOS FOR SEED POTATO GROWERS

Pemberton potato growers were congratulated on the general high grade of their seed potatoes by agricultural representative Meville Meyers, at a meeting of the Farmers' Institute in the Upper Valley Hall, April 22.

Plant diseases of special interest to growers of seed potatoes, was discussed by Eric Hughes.

Retarded Children To Get Local Attention

Formation of a local group of the Association for Retarded Children of B.C. will be sponsored by the Public Health Service at a meeting in the High School Cafeteria, May 20 at 8 p.m.

Purpose of this organization is to bring together parents and others interested in finding ways and means of providing educational service for children in the School District who are so handicapped that it is impossible for them to have the privilege of attending regular classes.

There will be a member from the Vancouver Branch to speak on the association's activities and to assist in the organizing of a local chapter.

Dairying Urged For Pemberton Farmers

Forestry Service Ready As Fire Season Opens

Forestry service is at full strength now that fire season has begun.

Staff for this season is: Joe Henderson, ranger in charge; Joe Flint, ranger supervising clearing of B.C. Electric right-of-ways from Vancouver to D'Arcy; Noel Haymes, assistant ranger at Alta Lake; Angus Ferreira, assistant ranger; Ken Avery, dispatcher; Brock Kilfoyle, lookout man.

LARGE DISTRICT

Their district is large, from West Vancouver boundary to Green Lake, north of Alta Lake, and the Squamish and Elaho watersheds.

Long range weather forecast for the next six months for the southeast corner of B.C. is wet until July 15, then hot and dry, much the same as last year.

Already, before recent rains, there have been one logging fire, one slash fire, and three PGE fires requiring the attention of the forest service.

ELECTRICAL STORM

Last year at the peak of the fire season there were six fires blazing at one time, 160 men were on the fire lines, and the cost was running to $3000 per day.

An expenditure of $90,000 was incurred in this district during the past season.

Most of those fires were started by an electrical storm, according to Mr. Henderson. Though the weather may be much similar to that of last year, as forecast, said Ranger Henderson, the absence of electrical storms might make all the difference between a good or bad year.

PGE PATROL

Railway patrol service from Squamish to Alta Lake, formerly handled by the Forestry Service, is being undertaken by the PGE this year.

Heavy braking by trains on downgrades creates considerable fire hazard with hot metal falling from wheels and brake shoes.

Cabaret Dance Successful

The Cabaret Dance sponsored by the Britannia Community was successful financially and as a happy get-together.

Johnny Zapp and the Western Comrades supplied the music very ably assisted by the popular singer Sandra Loringer.

The dance was convened by John Watson with members of the executive forming his committee.

The committees were assisted in the final cleanup by a group of young people who worked with John the next day to make the Upper Club ship-shape again.

Crown Copper Queen At Britannia May 30

Britannia Copper Queen will be crowned Saturday, May 30.

The "24th of May" festivities usually held on the nearest Saturday to May 24, are being held at the later date because May 23 is a working day in the mines.

Betty Bradley is reigning Copper Queen. Her successor has yet to be chosen.

Program for the celebration is to be announced soon by the PTA in charge of the day's activities.

The Boy Scouts have been given the hot dog concession, which should be an excellent opportunity for them to increase their funds.

Barrel Derby Sponsored By Brackendale Group

Barrel Roll Derby, becoming an annual feature of May Day in the Squamish Valley, will again be sponsored by Brackendale Women's Institute, May 18th.

Closest estimated time taken for a barrel to float from Ned's Riffle to Buckley's Crossing on the Squamish River wins the derby.

According to Mrs. E. B. MacDonald it took one hour, 28 minutes and three seconds last year.

Mrs. Louise Riis, Brackendale, is in charge of tickets. They may also be obtained at Squamish Hardware, Brackendale Store and Economy Grocery.

Mill Rate Down .28 Mills at 17.53

Lower School Taxes As Government Grant Up

Tax rate for school purposes is down .28 mills to 17.53 for this year due to increased government grants.

The reduction is small but it is a reversal of an almost universal trend.

School costs are up and before government grants were recently set a higher mill rate was anticipated.

BUDGET UP

Budgets over the past three years have risen: ('57) $495,006; ('58) $559,068; ('59) $628,828.

But the government grant, which varies inversely with the property assessment, is up this year to $191,664 while assessment value is set at $22,895,529.

ASSESSMENT DOWN

In '58 high assessment of $24,440,664 brought lower grants of $102,506. In '57 the assessment was $13,531,413; the grants $255,503.

Also a contributing factor to lower tax requirements is increased sundry revenue up to $35,131. In '58 sundry revenue was $20,974; in '57, $9,361.

Taxes and mill rates over three years: $230,142 at 17.01 mills; ('58) $435,588 at 17.81; ('59) $402,033 at 17.53.

Tourist Guide Map

By Art Fraboni

Art Fraboni of Chieftain Motors has had prepared for distribution to tourists a map of the Squamish Valley showing roads, lakes, rivers and other points of interest. Drawn by Joan Brandvold, the map is a concise, graphic guide designed for easy direction to visiting motorists.

Subdivision Takes Shape as Nine Lots Sold

Subdividing of Garibaldi Park Estates, about 4 miles north of Squamish, is proceeding with nine lots sold and 20 spoken for, according to Pat Goode, an official of the company.

About two miles of streets on the 80-acre site have been cleared in a width of 66 feet and plans are, said Mr. Goode, to pave them with pulvi-mix next year.

The area is laid out to provide 240 lots, a four acre park and 11 acres for commercial development.

Mr. Goode said negotiations are under way for construction of 12 houses to sell at $12,600 each.

Enjoyed by Full House

Spring Concert At Britannia School

A capacity house witnessed the spring concert of the Britannia Elementary School.

Every child in the school was on the stage at some time during the evening—and the parents loved it. The program was varied.

There were dances, tableaux, songs, recitations, a fantasy, a musical comedy, a three-act comedy.

And all the unscheduled incidents occurred that make a school concert—the bit of hamming, the offstage remarks, the violent promptings by fellow performers, the humorous error, the busy stage hands and the desperate earnestness of the performers.

Mrs. S. Anderson was presented with a beautiful corsage from the teachers for her assistance with the music.

The teachers, Mr. Friscen, Mrs. Pringle, Miss Dale and Mrs. Fairburn all deserved a bouquet for providing such good entertainment.

Disappointment Of the Week

Mrs. Eve Worthington of the monster Lions Bingo at Vancouver last week came within one small digit of winning a new car.

Her card was complete but for 0,74 and the announcer called: under the 0, S-E-V-E-N-T-Y - T H R E E, and somebody yelled BINGO!!

Local Lions supplied a Squamish Coach Lines bus free to take Squamish bingo players to the big event.

FAMILY MEETS AT VANCOUVER

A surprise family reunion took place in Vancouver when Bruce Fitch of Squamish met with four generations of his family at a three-day Jehovah's Witnesses convention.

Enjoying the reunion were his grandmother, Mrs. E. Anderson, his mother, Mrs. A. Eror, his son Charlie, and granddaughter, Sheila.

AFTERNOON TEA at the Catholic Women's League sale of home work and baking held in St. Joseph's Parish Hall, May 2. Enjoying the hospitality of CWL hostesses, Mrs. Nan McKay and Mrs. Jessie McKinnon, are from left: Mrs. Marg Hendrickson, Mrs. Freda Munro and her grandson, Don Halvorson. Mrs. Pete Sache, and Mrs. Ellen Thorne. Mrs. McKinnon, serving tea to Mrs. Thorne, is president of the CWL. The bazaar is an annual event with the ladies of the parish.

Feed the Junio Gobbler . . .

Hearty congratulations to the inspirational move taken by the British Columbia Department of Recreation and Conservation in creating the brightly coloured useful litter-bag for motorists and the like.

For those who have not had a "Junio Gobbler" bag, it is a white paper container (could hold 10 lbs. of sugar) with a convenient hole at the top so as to be easily hung inside the car. Printed on the back and front are attractive green and gold figures of the gobbler, the B.C. evergreen, and an outline of our province. Cleverly embroidered are warnings against forest fire and throwing away of refuse.

Comes the tourist season with the harassed, wall-eyed motorist, his burden laden wife and car full of fretful, bewildered offspring. Where will he go? One does not really know, only that wherever he ventures he and his brood will leave a trail of litter.

Whether it is in the city of Vancouver with its half-million souls or the Village of Squamish the control of rubbish is a problem. And the problem extends over the entire civilized world.

Mayor Hynes, of Boston, for instance, has promised those brown-bean citizens an unrelenting campaign against litter-bugs. But it is with considerable interest that we see he is using the massive deterrent of threatened $20 fines for second offenders, as well as the come-on of 300 new trash baskets.

While such toughness, coupled with a program of gentler warnings may be necessary to hit just the right formula for reaching the problem. Boston, we feel that the wide-spread distribution and use of Junio Gobbler bags in B.C. should get the message across to the literati of our province.

How successful will be the Junio Gobbler gimmick depends on the distribution, which according to information on the bag, will be done by the B.C. and Yukon Junior Chamber of Commerce. Next autumn's report of the tourist season and the cleanliness of our massive, rugged province will decide on whether the government's campaign got the message across.

At least for the effort, boys of the Dept. of Recreation and Conservation deserve praise. . . . but no confetti, please.

All Plain English . . .

"What is a 'wool hat'?" asks the Man from Overseas who happens to be reading a copy of the Squamish Times.

Well, that's easy to answer generally, but not so easy precisely; A wool hat is first cousin to an apple knocker on one side of the family and to a jerk to the other side of the family. And all three of them are close kin to a wahoo.

It's when you get down to the fine distinctions that the definitions get tough. A wool hat is a sort of apple knocker with a southern accent. And an apple knocker is a drip who says "I say there," for "Hey, you." A drip is a stuffed shirt who generally strolls for an early constitution along the rock-studded shore line of Victoria. And a stuffed shirt is a bumpkin who drives over the Britannia to Squamish highway everyday. This in reality is a North Howe Sound man who Victoria politicians have been wont to call a hayseed.

A hayseed is a bumpkin who comes away back of the backwoodsman.

This is all seen looking in one direction, of course. Turning things around, however, a dude is a city slicker who has gone to live in West Vancouver. And a city slicker . . . but why go on? A Sasquatch, is a Sasquatch, is a Sasquatch. It's all plain English.

Education As It Should Be

Since we are all recoiling from the first shock on the deficiencies and critical observations in British Columbia's education system, through the Chant Commission hearings, numerous proposals have been advanced to improve the standards. Some have been as bold as to suggest that we put the emphasis back on teaching of the subjects and discipline.

There are others who would raise scholastic standards, strengthen the curricula, eliminate the frills, permitting students to advance at the rate of their ability rather than according to arbitrary formulae.

We think, however, one might profit by a study of the Swiss educational system which was outlined not too long ago by a Prof. Sarold L. Clapp of Iowa's Grinnel College. Prof. Clapp and his family were in Geneva a year while he was studying for a degree. Two of his children went to school there and learned what democracy in schools can mean.

"They attended a grass-roots small town public school. What I learned that year as a Genevese parent pro-tem increased my respect for the Swiss as educators and defenders of democracy."

From kindergarten on, going to school in Switzerland is a serious business. "Swiss school authorities believe in discipline . . . and that doesn't mean just good manners. They insist on neatness, order, and method in mental development.

"A Swiss first grade student does more writing than many western world students have ever done when they enter college. Geometry is taught in the third grade; a sixth grader must have a vocabulary of seven thousand words.

"Geneva fifth grade students read Moliere, Flaubert, Maubassant, Gide and Giono . . . that would be like expecting our ten year olds to read selections from Shakespeare, Thackeray, Dickens, and Steinbeck."

And parents get into education and the learning process too.

"A parent does not take it for granted that his child has school work to do at home. The regulations stipulate among the rights and duties of the parents that parents must supervise school work done at home."

From the history of Switzerland and its people, we wouldn't say that it is a nation of regimented, frail neurotics. Rather they are tough-minded and tough-bodied, healthy and happy specimens. Intelligent discipline does not stifle; it creates power and poise.

The Chant Commission may observe that Switzerland has a low rate of delinquency and crime. Democracy, it appears, can be served in schools without being equated with mediocrity.

Time Will Tell . . .

For the last few years, The Times has endeavored through articles published in our columns to bring home to our readers the advantages of shopping at home.

Apart from being loyal to their community, money spent in the local store works for the well-being of all, helping to pay the taxes necessary for upkeep of sidewalks, streets, sanitation and most important of all, our schools. Money sent out of the district, however, weakens the local economy.

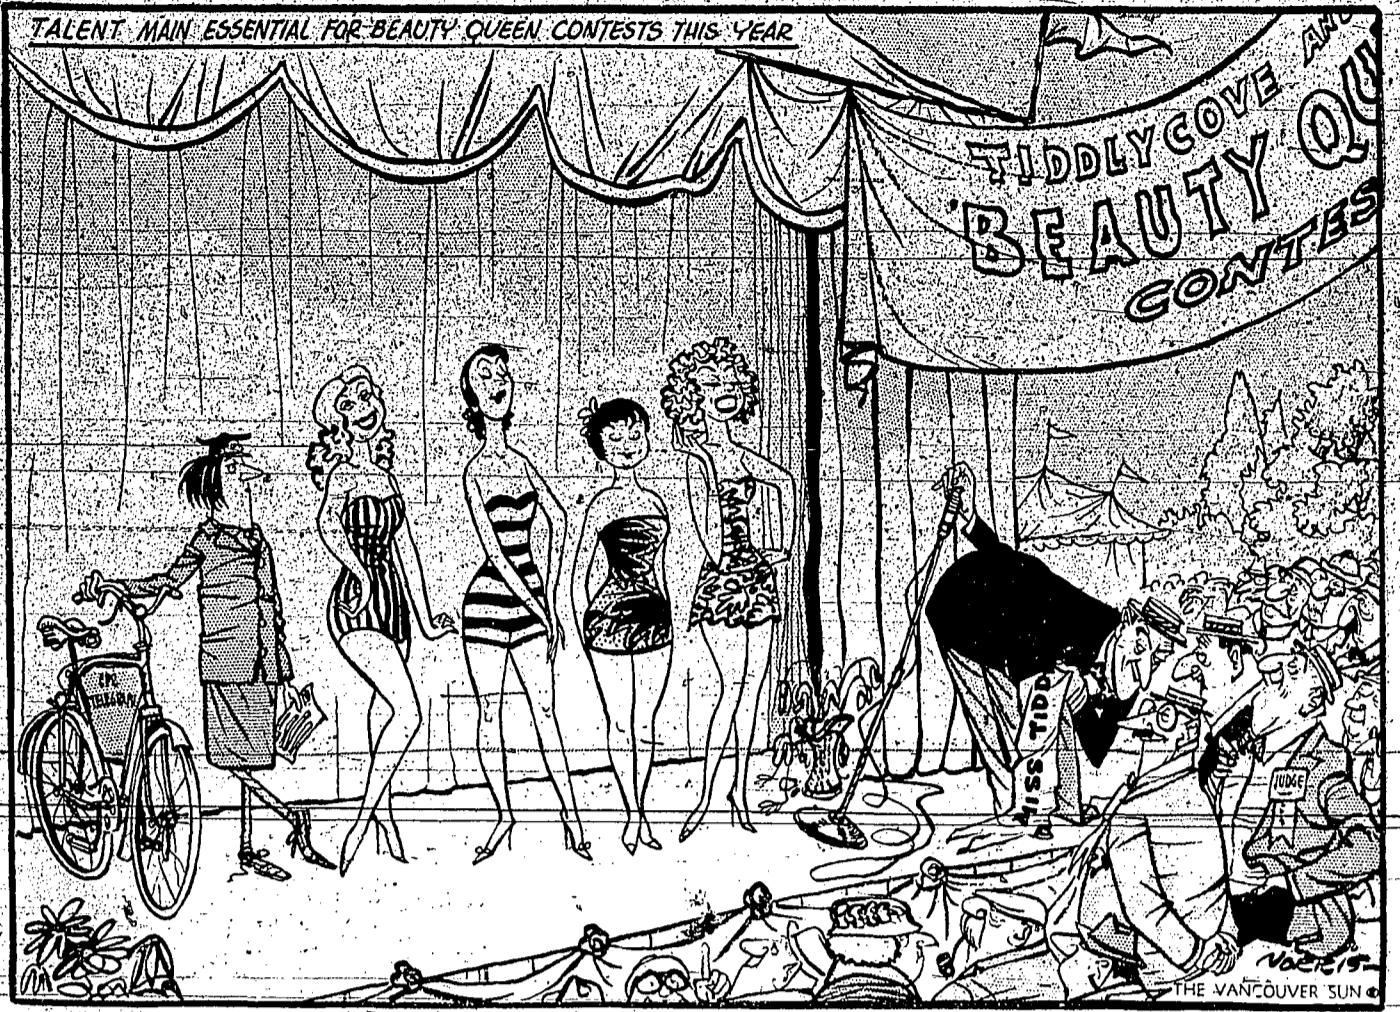

But it is not an easy task in getting the message across. However, we are making progress, and the most assistance is coming from the least expected source . . . the city, itself.

Big town — you name it — is now driving business away by their parking restrictions, with their attendant fines for violations. The maze of city traffic regulations are confusing and bewildering to our out of town dwellers and and $25 fines for a simple display of ignorance is having a telling affect.

The metropolitan centres are also in danger of losing population to the smaller towns as a larger number of people prefer to live safely than to live dangerously. In fact, Squamish now has several businessmen who commute to work daily in Vancouver.

You cannot beat the quiet freshness and serenity of the smaller centres. This will prove stiff competition to noise, smell and congestion of the city . . . to say nothing of tax burdens now being born by Mr. and Mrs. Metropolitan. Vancouver.

Microwave Links 790 Miles Of PGE

The Pacific Great Eastern Railway on May 4 became the first line in the world to adopt microwave telephone and teletype communication for its entire system. This includes train dispatching, transmission of records, railway service and commercial telegrams.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, president of the PGE, opened the new microwave operation at the Vancouver offices of the line by sending out the first official message.

ANOTHER FIRST FOR PGE

The Premier stated that "the microwave system will be another service for the PGE to add to its impressive record of assistance for the newly-developing areas of British Columbia."

"It is another first for this fast-growing railroad," he said. "The PGE entered the front ranks of rail modernization when it led all other North American lines in becoming 100 per cent diesel serviced. It has added other facilities that have since been copied and now it is proud to present its patrons with the fastest message delivery device science can provide."

DISPATCH FROM VANCOUVER

The microwave dispatching office was built in the Vancouver headquarters, the nerve centre of the railway, where traffic, transportation, operation and engineering departments are located.

When the decision was made to extend the railway 270 miles north and modernize operations, a complete rebuilding of its two-wire telephone line on the existing right-of-way became necessary, as well as construction of a new pole line on the extension.

After an examination of costs, a decision was made in favor of the microwave system of communications. Microwave is a very high frequency radio system where no interference is experienced from extraneous electric circuits or equipment that affects standard radio wave channels.

OVERCOMES NATURAL OBSTACLES

Also taken into consideration were geographic and climatic conditions. Over most of the rail route, the terrain is rugged with areas subject to landslides. There are also stretches of swampy ground and miles of heavy timber.

These obstacles not only imposed high initial costs for a pole line service, but maintenance and operation costs would be abnormally high.

Consideration was also given to the extras which microwave made available: end-to-end train communication; communication from trains in motion to stations, other trains and even head office; from head office in Vancouver to every station on the line and even from automobiles of railway officials.

When the PGE contemplated extending its railway lines in 1956, geographical, operational and scheduling requirements indicated the installation of comprehensive radio systems. It was also necessary to have the equipment operative in the shortest possible time.

Construction of the communication facilities thus had to take place simultaneously with the survey of railway right-of-way and laying of track in the area north of Prince George.

STARTED IN 1956

Accordingly, a start was made with the installation of microwave equipment early in 1956. With the completion of the Vancouver-Clinton link, the microwave system now covers the entire railroad from Vancouver to Fort St. John, a distance of 790 miles.

With the new system in operation, an official in Vancouver has only to lift a telephone receiver to speak to the conductor on a train speeding between Quesnel and Prince George, or question an agent in Dawson Creek.

Repair teams will no longer have to fight through blizzards to fix lines. Duplicate equipment takes over instantly and at the same time, electronic detectors immediately record any defect in the microwave equipment.

240 CHANNELS

Total cost of installing these communications was $2,750,000, representing a cost of $3480 per mile. The system provides a capacity of 240

Britannia Scouts On Hiking Trip

Three patrols of the 1st Britannia Scouts went for a day hike on the week-end to find a suitable campsite for future use at Daisy Meadows above Mount Sheer.

In charge of the expedition were Dale McGregor, troop leader, and George Blakestone, assistant scoutmaster. Twenty scouts took part.

Some of the scouts working towards badges were required to cook a stew on a camp fire.

Pat MacCawley went along as official taster of their culinary efforts.

He came back.

channels, 62 of which are now being occupied. The estimated cost of a wire line was $4200 per mile.

The microwave electronic equipment transforms sound waves from the voice into very high frequency radio waves which are then transmitted on certain defined channels. At each relay station, they are received on reflectors and beamed to the next station with an extra boost. The message is carried this way at the speed of light until it comes to the receiver at the other end where it is re-transformed into the spoken word.

Teletypewriter messages are sent in a similar manner, electrical impulses substituting for sound waves.

The system was constructed in four stages. The Vancouver-Squamish link was first, Prince George - Fort St. John - Dawson Creek next, followed by Prince George - Clinton, and finally Clinton - Vancouver.

Miss Ritchie has been a cheer leader all the way through high school and university and she now has her own group at H.S.H.

In 1956 Miss Ritchie was the UBC Football Queen. She was on the executive at the Pep Club, belonged to the Jazz Society and a sorority. Miss Ritchie said many people have the wrong ideas about sororities.

She said sororities are not just a social group but they are mainly devoted to plain projects and raise money.

1. The students belonging to a sorority take turns reading to the blind students at UBC.

2. They plan and give a Christmas party each year for the children at the TB hospital.

3. To help plan the Mardi Gras which raises money for the crippled children, and

4. They work with cerebral palsy children. In a sorority you meet people like yourself.

The sororities in Canada are not like the high-priced, mainly social ones in the U.S.

Bridge at Cheekye

LAST FALL, ROOM TO DRIVE D8 CAT UNDER . . .

. . . LAST WEEK, FILLED TO CRAWL SPACE

River bed of Cheakamus River at Cheekye Bridge again filled by gravel bars to within few feet clearance of bridge stringers after heavy rains a week ago. Turbulent Cheekye River which flows into Cheakamus a few hundred yards from bridge is said to be mainly responsible for heavy discharge of silt, rock and gravel. Piers supporting new bridge (built a year ago) tend to obstruct free flow of water causing bars to build up.

Britannia Swimming Pool Readied For Busy Season

Casual remarks about the dirty swimming pool at Britannia led to the talkative group being challenged by the Community Club to clean it up.

Consequently the first activity of the season was seen there Saturday afternoon.

Lorna Bjorkman, Joy McLeod, Mary Louise Smith, Dale MacGregor and Jim Bells did a thorough job of scrubbing and bleaching it in preparation for a new coat of paint.

A general meeting of the Community Club will be held May 7 to discuss general financing of the pool and the possibility of hiring a qualified instructor.

Register Now For Dental Clinic Work

By J. ANDERSON, Public Health Nurse

Parents of pre-school children eligible for preventive Dental Clinic service are asked to notify the local Health Office before May 15.

This service, sponsored by the School Board and the Health Department, is brought to the children, age 3 to 9 yrs. of the Squamish, Pemberton and Brackendale areas.

Because the School Board and Health Branch assume the bulk of costs, parents are able to have children receive dental care each year from age 3 to 9 years for $6 a year.

This service includes a dental examination and instruction to child and parent and, if necessary, repair of dental cavities.

If the parent conscientiously maintains this preventive care while the baby teeth are present the child's health not only benefits from the absence of carious teeth and sometimes serious complications but proper spacing for the permanent teeth is maintained and the child appreciates the value of good dental preventive care.

Very little cost in money and health will be involved in this maintenance of permanent teeth if good preventive care has gone before. Health teaching, via school, PTA and local health and medical services constantly urge parents to invest only $6 for an annual check-up, yet there are still those who consider this a poor investment unless the child is actually suffering some carious teeth.

Money grants from the Health Branch are based on the estimated number of children needing the service (about 400 this year). This is generous considering little more than one-third will apply for this service.

Yet, because of late and broken appointments and because the dentist must be paid for his professional time, the dental committee has still had to raise $300 over and above the fees collected and generous donations from local organizations.

This all adds to the tremendous amount of unpaid work and worry by the volunteers in the PTA dental committee to keep this service going.

Efforts are being made this year to interest Mount Sheer, Britannia and Woodfibre communities in organizing for preventive dental service and a meeting will be held in the near future with the regional dental consultant at the School Board Office.

Cabinet Come to Squamish?

Don Robinson, MLA, Meets Bd. Of Trade

By FREDA MUNRO

Don Robinson, M.L.A., promised to arrange a meeting between members of the Provincial Cabinet and the Board of Trade in order to implement as many as possible of the six points which are of the greatest concern to local residents.

Mr. Robinson met with members of the Board of Trade last week, with president Bernhard Brown presenting the six projects necessary to the economic progress of this valley.

Flood Control

By means of a colored map Bob Lasser showed changes in the course of the Squamish River during past year.

It is common knowledge that the river will break through just south of the Brackendale store, past the Crocker residence, across the PGE tracks to the swamp on which the B.C. Electric power line is located.

Unless effective measures are undertaken immediately this will happen within the next two years.

The Board of Trade advo-icates the immediate implementation of the Feeny Report which recommended the cutting of a straight channel on the west side of the valley from Judd's Slough to a point just south of the junction of the Mamquam and Squamish Rivers.

While no department of the government has, as yet, assumed responsibility for this work, Mr. Robinson gave his audience his assurance that investigations are being undertaken and some control may be expected.

Dock Building Program

The Board of Trade is deeply concerned about the change in the dock-building programme.

New PGE wharves will be built in North Vancouver instead of Squamish.

Until more adequate wharves are available outside firms will not build in Squamish.

Mr. Robinson explained that docks in North Vancouver were of greater advantage to the PGE because of the expensive railway interchange.

Docks will be built in Squamish as soon as additional business warrants the expenditure.

Roads

The Board of Trade expressed concern over the condition of the road between Squamish and Britannia, the dust problem, the need for a gravel crusher and the paving of the road to Cheekye.

Until fall, when the work will be done by day labour, no extensive amount of work will be done on the highway to Britannia.

In many places the new road will be in a new location, therefore any major expenditure on the present section is unwarranted. The proposed new road to Cheekye would make paving of the present road inadvisable.

In regard to the application of calcium chloride and the acquisition of a portable gravel crusher, Mr. Robinson promised to give these matters his immediate attention.

Crown and PGE Lands

While heartily endorsing government policy of freezing land in order to prevent speculation, the Board feels that land needed for bona fide local development should be made available. Mr. Robinson agreed to look into this matter.

Parks

The Board of Trade feels that Alice Lake Park should be developed and that park sites at Furry Creek, Brown-ing's Lake and Porteau should be set aside at once.

Mr. Robinson stated that major development of the Alice Lake Park would be delayed until private holdings within the park area had been acquired by the government.

Garibaldi Park

The chairman reminded Mr. Robinson that he had formerly stated his approval of turning Garibaldi Park over to the federal government unless the Social Credit Government had immediate plans for its development. The Board expressed disappointment in the lack of interest in this park on the part of the government.

Mr. Robinson said he was still in favour of federal development of Garibaldi Park if assurance was given as to a date for beginning work on the project.

However, he was certain that the provincial government would do something about the park in the near future; road surveys were being undertaken this year.

In closing Mr. Robinson recommended a meeting between the Board of Trade and members of the provincial cabinet to be held in Squamish. At such meeting the Board could present its problems, backed by all available information.
