CD Exercise Wins Kudos For Squamish

NORTH SHORE EVACUEES EFFICIENTLY HANDLED

Squamish, Saturday, October 31, was focal point of a token evacuation, a Civil Defence exercise, the first of its kind in British Columbia.

Twenty-five cars "evacuated" North Vancouver to Squamish in 1 hour and 15 minutes. When they arrived 138 people were quickly put through the CD centre at the high school.

EFFICIENT HANDLING

Local CD personnel under CD officer J. F. Jacobsen and his deputy W. J. Elliott, drew praise from Brig. G. A. McCarter, provincial CD co-ordinator from Victoria, for their efficient handling of evacuees.

Immediately after checking through the CD centre, evacuees were directed to Cheekye for emergency feeding by Fergie's and Cheekye Dog House.

In the afternoon 48 top CD personnel from Victoria and Lower Mainland cities and towns gathered at the high school for a forum discussion.

Mr. Jacobsen presented his operational paper outlining the means by which 40,000 to 60,000 evacuees from the North Shore would be passed through Squamish staging area in the event of nuclear attack on Vancouver.

VERY GOOD PLAN

Brig. McCarter said the plan was one of the most practical and comprehensive that he had yet heard. The plan dealt only with the essentials for survival.

"Evacuees will have no right to be fussy," McCarter said. "This will be a battle for survival."

Mr. Jacobsen's plan in brief is to get everyone on high ground from Brackendale north to Cheekye and Cheakamus station. A tidal wave from a possible nuclear explosion in the Gulf of Georgia might seriously affect the Squamish lowlands.

40,000 OUT IN 2 1/2 DAYS

From the three stations, Brackendale, Cheekye and Cheakamus, Pacific Great Eastern Railway officials claim they can move 40,000 people north to dispersal areas in 2 1/2 days. To do this, flat cars, box cars, cattle cars, and all suitable equipment on the line would have to be used.

Parking for 10,000 cars is possible in the Cheekye substation area and Paradise Valley, according to Mr. Jacobsen. In most cases evacuees will use the cars for shelter until boarding the trains.

Spring Fair, Firecrackers, Reading at PTA

Initial planning was begun at the elementary PTA meeting, October 28, for a Spring Fair, Mrs. P. Kirby offered to convene the fair and Mrs. P. Hoodkoff, Mrs. W. Brander, Mrs. J. Marsh, Mrs. C. Pringle, Mrs. C. Sherriff and Mrs. Wahlstrom volunteered their assistance.

A petition is to be circulated for presentation of Britannia Stores asking that in future the sale of firecrackers to children under 16 be refused. Richard Hoodkoff is still in hospital as a result of a firecracker accident about two weeks ago.

An excellent demonstration on the teaching of reading was given by the teachers, Mrs. Fairburn, Mrs. Pringle, Miss Flack and Mr. Friesen explained and illustrated what was taught in each grade.

LIONS RESUME BINGO GAMES

Weekly bingo sponsored by Squamish Lions Club will be held every Tuesday night, beginning November 10 in the Parish Hall.

All proceeds from bingo and other activities are returned to the community in such projects as ambulance, oxygen tent, resuscitator, life saving apparatus, blood donor clinics, little league, fall fair, Labour Day, Centennial project, life saving demonstrations and Easter Seal campaign.

Squamish Host To PTA Conference

Squamish Elementary PTA hosted a regional conference at the Squamish Elementary School, October 29. Guest PTAs included those from Britannia Beach and Howe Sound High.

Programs for afternoon and evening sessions were prepared by Mrs. L. Horan, provincial vice-president, and Mrs. M. Zelmer, promotional chairman.

Other guests included H. H. Bailey and L. Allan, representing the school board; G. S. Clarke and S. R. Bishop, representing the village council, and B. Thorsteinsson, superintendent of schools.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Zelmer took charge of the program. Each member present was given a sheaf of letters and asked to deal with them as though she were a PTA president. A comparison of decisions showed variety as well as unanimity among the answers.

Topic for the evening program was "The Best For Our Children - A Challenge to PTAs."

Three topics were discussed. First, "What is the greatest challenge facing the PTA today?" brought forth a number of ideas. It was emphasized that PTAs should encourage a more serious attitude towards education, closer cooperation between parents and teachers and more active participation on the part of members.

Second question, "Where does the responsibility of the home end and that of the school begin?" found most groups in agreement as it was felt that the responsibility of the school is primarily to educate while that of the home is never ending.

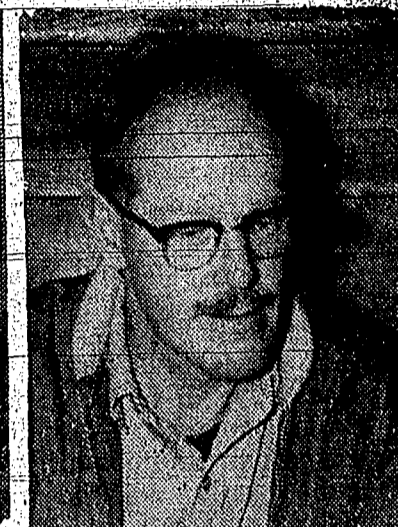

Third question, "Do you think the present educational system meets the needs of all children?" showed that most members felt that there was not adequate technical training offered for those students not academically inclined.

Chairman for the afternoon session was Mrs. J. Harley, vice-president of Squamish Elementary PTA, while A. A. Martin, president, took the chair during the evening. Mrs. L. G. Ingraham was in charge of refreshments for both occasions.

The B.A. Oil Station Application . . .

The Times is rather surprised and somewhat disappointed with the action taken by property owners of Southridge who protested the building of a B.A. Oil gas station at the south entrance to Squamish. But it was just as encouraging to see the adult manner in which the Village Commission handled the matter.

The chairman and commissioners are considering zoning the area commercial, which will allow a service station but not a bulk plant.

Basically, all of us want Squamish to develop economically and expand into a prosperous municipality that will eventually enjoy all the amenities of a modern, progressive town. Primary and secondary industry must not only be encouraged to come into our area, but also be shown all the cooperation possible in getting established.

Unfortunately, some of us will find that we shall have to bear the odd mild discomfort as a result of zoning, but any dissatisfaction must be weighed in the light of the entire purpose of progress for Squamish. That is, the decision which benefits the majority is the one to be considered and given the preference.

Now, just how serious and valid is the complaint of the good people of Southridge? Homeowners, not only of this area, but all along the east bank of the valley overlooking the townsite, will be facing an ever-changing scene as Squamish expands. There will be, we sincerely hope, new commercial buildings, new industrial plants, mills and stores covering the industrial and commercial zones.

In fact, we feel that citizens of Southridge have missed the point. For every dollar invested commercially in this area will be a dollar to lower our taxes and increase our property values. Unless we want to continue as a struggling village unable to provide for proper services, we must accept progressive growth towards a strong economic entity.

It is the same old story . . . "don't build here; we would rather have a park." Such was the statement of Southridge ratepayers.

But just what chance would our tax-poor commission have of turning the B.A. Oil property into a parksite. Property is selling for $50,000 an acre, most of which is swamp land. In fact, it has taken 6,000 yards of fill just to make the 160-foot reclamation for the service station. Again, who would want their children playing in a parksite, located squarely between a busy main line of the PGE and the main arterial highway.

We are quite sure that the well-meaning Southridge folk really didn't give their petition a great deal of forethought . . . particularly when they will see one of the most modern service stations in B.C. being built.

Are You Happy With Municipal Govt. . . ?

Some taxpayers are and some are not entirely satisfied with their village commission activities throughout the last year. But if you didn't take much interest in the municipal affairs at election time, then you have no valid reason to complain.

The time for municipal elections in Pemberton and Squamish valleys is only weeks away and property owners living in these areas are advised to do some thinking now.

Beyond what one reads in their local weekly, what does the average taxpayer know of what goes on at municipal meetings. They and school board gatherings are open to the public as spectators. But over the space of one year, the number of spectators at any municipal government meeting could be counted on two hands.

However, there are those residents who have the gall to blow their top over some small item which could easily be understood if attention was paid to municipal matters. This intolerance is a fool's paradise and does not help the proper administration of towns.

Take an interest in your village commission. If you are happy with their deliberations, then see that they are re-elected. But if you think that there is somebody who could do a better job, if elected, then by all means put him up for office and get him elected.

There isn't a healthier sign of good government than the interest taken by the voters. Where there is lots of activity and interest, there is sure to be a live, and on-the-toes commission.

Crowding Is Relative . . .

Population experts claim there is enough standing room in New York's Central Park for all the world's people. This is interesting when considering the famous Gotham playground is approximately the size of Ambleside Park.

If, as anthropologists say, the human race is increasing in physical stature as well as numbers, it would seem that Alice Lake Park would fast become statistically incommensurate. In fact, even the men might have to wear girdles.

The question boils down to how much standing room the statisticians would allot per person. Will two square feet suffice? Public Works Superintendent Frank Wilson might think so.

If so, then the much publicized Alice Lake area would have to be added to accommodate the world's estimated 2,500,000,000 people. Even so, we would advise that one should make reservations ahead of time.

Getting the Most Out of Life

The Parson's Column

—by REV. N. PENROSE

Many people today believe that the most important thing in life is security. They want a good-paying job, a beautiful well-furnished house, a smart new car and a comfortable growing bank account. They think that if only they could succeed in getting these things, then they would be really happy.

But the Bible teaches that they are on the wrong track—a track that leads only to frustration and disappointment.

Jesus said, "Whoever would save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it (Matt. 16:25)." This is a very forceful way of saying that true happiness comes not by getting and keeping, but by giving and serving.

This story by Margaret Eggleston helps to make this clear:

A young man tramped wearily along a snow-covered trail, many miles from the nearest camp. He was numb, with cold and nearly exhausted. And it was getting dark.

How he longed to stop and rest but a warning voice kept ringing through his mind: "Remember, your life depends upon keeping awake. If you lie down on the trail, you'll never get up."

But now, as the icy north wind blew against him, he began to stumble and lose his path. His muscles ached and he became so drowsy that it seemed only a matter of time before he fell asleep as he walked.

Then he saw a great rock straight ahead, by the side of the path. He decided that when he reached the shelter of that rock he would just have to lay down and rest for a few minutes. But just as he got there he stumbled on some object which was half covered with snow.

To his horror, he discovered that it was a human body—the body of a young man who had fallen asleep on the trail.

Quickly he rubbed the hands and feet, breathed on the chest and rolled the body over and over in the snow until he saw a sign of life come into the face. For two more hours he worked as hard as he could to save the life of this stranger, and then he helped him to get to the camp.

It wasn't until he reached the camp and sat down to drink a cup of steaming tea that he remembered that he, too, had planned to lie down beside that rock. But his weariness and sleepiness had both vanished when he found the man and went to work to help him.

He realized then that in saving someone else, his own life had been saved.

To this story, I would like to add this closing thought:

We are only half alive, we merely exist, as long as our lives are centered in our own desires for security and comfort. But when our self-centeredness is shattered by the love of Christ, and we long to share His love with others, then God gives us new spiritual resources that enable us to really live.

New Heating Plant Installed at Public Library

A gas heating system has been installed in the Public Library replacing the temporary oil heater loaned by J. F. Jacobsen.

At a meeting of the board last week, M. V. Seymour reported that the reading table he is making is almost completed.

A number of small chairs are to be purchased for the children's reading table.

The board expressed its regret at the loss of the services of Mrs. W. H. Cudmore who has been operating the library with G. L. Campbell on Wednesday evenings.

Mrs. C. E. Tatlow has offered to assist Mrs. Campbell. Wednesday nights are usually the busiest times at the library. Books ordered last summer are still arriving.

Mr. & Mrs. Rogers 30 Years Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, proprietors of the Pemberton Hotel Cafe, celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary October 24.

They were guests of honor at a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shore.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Len McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Resnyck, Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Shore, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Max Menzel and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collister.

Weekly Services Begin

"Revival" Planned By Anglican Church

The Sector Plan was revealed at the Anglican Dinner October 28 as a means of rejuvenating the Anglican community at Squamish.

Anglicans, 150 of them, pledged unanimously to work together to provide the means to support their church (formerly a mission church), and their rector for the good of the community in general and themselves in particular.

As an immediate outcome the Rev. C. H. Gibbs, rector, has willingly agreed to hold services in St. John's Anglican Church every Sunday instead of every other Sunday as before.

These weekly services will begin November 8 with a special Remembrance Day service. Every Anglican is expected to attend.

Members of the Sector Plan committee are: D. Fenton, R. W. Robinson, G. W. Forsythe, J. H. Murren and L. G. Urquhart.

Twenty-two hostesses from the Anglican W.A. served the dinner.

Letters to The Editor

Editor, The Squamish Times:

I have at hand your issue of August 20th in which is published a letter signed by Mr. R. H. E. Taylor, as president of the Board of Trade. This letter condemns the Howe Sound Board of School Trustees for its action in allocating a contract for school construction here to a firm located out of the district. The letter further trusts "That on future occasions the trustees will take into consideration all factors that have a bearing on the well-being of the district they serve."

How thankful I am that I am not an active-member of the Board of Trade this year. This letter represents the most immature, undemocratic piece of petty peevishness I have seen in 34 years of active participation in the affairs of this area. I have waited for two months expecting that the Board of Trade would apologize for its hasty, unfair criticism. None has been offered.

I know, Sir, that I speak for the taxpayers and citizens of this area when I go on record here stating that we are blessed with a foreseeing, mature, responsible Board of School Trustees that has taken into consideration "All factors that have a bearing on the well-being of the district they serve," to the point that the school system of this district is the envy of the province. I need not stand up for the Board in its action re the allocation of contract here except to state that they acted fairly in this matter and were themselves keenly disappointed that they could not award the contract to a local firm.

group that, up to the publication of this disastrous letter, has acted in the best interests of the well-being of the district it has failed to serve.

Teach In High Schools

Driver Training Campaign Launched

A campaign to have driver training courses conducted in high school across Canada has been launched by the B.C. Automobile Association in concert with 15 other constituent clubs of the Canadian Automobile Association.

BCAA President J. Howard Boothe said that driver education is a major factor in the prevention of traffic accidents and that all provinces lag badly in giving youth proper driving training.

MOST DRIVE AT 16

In a new booklet "Teach Them to Live" which is being used in the campaign, the Canadian Automobile Association points out that 86 per cent of teenagers drive cars as soon as they can get licenses and that 31 per cent of accidents are caused by 18 per cent of drivers—those between the ages of 16 and 25.

The CAA booklet states: "The effective way of teaching the young to live on the road is to give them scientifically conducted driver training in school. Most teenagers still learn to drive by archaic methods. Dad's knowledge of driving techniques is now probably badly outdated. Teen-age friends are hardly more competent to give driving lessons."

WORTH PROVEN

"Driver training in schools is not on trial; its worth has been proven. Results can be measured on the basis of fairly long experience in the United States. Nearly 12,000 high schools there have driver training in their curricula. Well-kept records show that school-trained drivers are involved in only half as many accidents as untrained drivers."

Mr. Boothe said that the B.C. Automobile Association was solidly behind the campaign of the Canadian Automobile Association.

CASUALTY of football games in the Municipal Park, about four feet of main stem, has been broken from this weeping willow being examined by G. S. Clarke, chairman of the municipal parks committee. Other ornamental trees, planted one year ago, have suffered a similar fate though the trees are well fenced and signs on the perimeter of the park prohibit ball playing. And so the battle goes on: the trees for survival, the council for protection of this beauty spot and the youths who find it a handy playground. The spacious high school playgrounds are about four blocks north of the park. In all, 20 ornamental trees were planted in the park. The shapes of some have already been ruined.

Wild Flowers - English & Canadian

By Joan Greenwood

Time was, and not so very long ago, when I was no more curious about the names of trees and flowers than about the names of the people I passed on the street.

Flowers were flowers, people were people. Life was too full, anyway, to try and learn more.

PINES LED WAY

It took the ragged magnificence of a pine to break me down.

Why had this tree three needles in each sheaf when the scrawnier pines I knew had only two?

What were their names?

And so I bought a book, the simplest one I could find, C. P. Lyons' Trees, Shrubs and Flowers.

From that day forward the White Pines, the Limber Pines, Ponderosas and Jack Pines or Black Pines all began putting their roots down in my life.

Later, in Garibaldi's Black Tusk Meadows, I found the banks of the alpine streams started with white flower cups nodding on slim stems, and the book told me that here was Grass of Parnassus, which is not a grass at all.

LEARNING TAKES TIME

Again, among the moist forests above Bella Coola I learned to recognize the dramatically ribbed leaves of Indian Hellebore; and everywhere I go, along all roadsides, I greet Yarrow and Pearly Everlastings like old friends. True, these are the commonest of flowers, but when you start from zero, learning them takes time.

At last, wanting more than bare details, I borrowed the library's beautiful volume, Engishman's Flora, by Geoffrey Grigson, and plunged into the histories and mysteries of wild flowers' names. Alas, this large and lovely book is all about Old Country blooms; names and plants are different there. Our B.C. Hellebore (Veratrum eschscholtzii), for instance, 'is not the same as England's Helleborus Viridis which is a close relative of the Christmas Rose.

And so, while October rains drip wetly from the arbutus trees and the Michaelmas daisies bend and bow their purple heads outside my window, two books of wild flowers, bring summer back, and at the same time make next summer seem not so far away.

Jungle School

On The Good Ship Schwabenstein

By MANSON TOYNBEE

At the time of writing I am enjoying a very pleasant holiday cruise on the MS Schwabenstein, a West German passenger-carrying freighter. It is a most comfortable ship, having large air-conditioned cabins for 86 passengers.

The Schwabenstein operates a regular service between Germany and the Far East with the return voyage taking approximately four months.

Ports of call include Southampton, Marseilles, Genoa, Port Said, Djibouti, Colombo, Singapore, Miri (Sarawak), Manila, Hong Kong, Kobe, Nagoya, Yokohama and on most trips, Shanghai.

Life of Ease and Luxury

Travelling on the Schwabenstein offers completely different living conditions from those of Sarawak.

The change from roughing it in the jungle to relaxing in the luxurious surroundings found on this ship is so radical it takes a little adjusting.

There is the luxury of being able to have a bath with both hot and cold water and having quantities of crystal-clear ice water to drink whenever you are thirsty. Perhaps the most gratifying change of all is the nearly endless variety of foods.

A whole week can go by without a person having to eat a single spoonful of rice. Rice is a nourishing food and I have become accustomed to eating quite a bit of it, but it does lose some of its appeal when it must be faced at every meal including breakfast.

On the Schwabenstein we receive the most tantalizing array of food with the chef's specialties hors d'oeuvres and frozen desserts that are both eye appealing and delicious.

The Schwabenstein's passenger list is very nearly as representative as the United Nations. On the ship are people from Germany, Austria, France, England, Greece, Egypt, China, Japan, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the United States and, of course, one from Canada.

We have our share of diplomatic notables including the new British Ambassador to the Philippines and the Brazilian Counsel-General in Hong Kong. Nationality differences do not interfere greatly with the passengers getting along well together.

All printed matter on the ship is put out in both German and English and most conversation is also in these two languages.

JUVENILES FACE CHARGES

Juveniles will be charged for the theft of binoculars and a leather brief case from the B.C. Electric office on Pemberton Road.

The articles, stolen some time before October 26, have been recovered by Squamish police.

SOCIAL NOTES

By Freda Munro

Mr. and Mrs. S. Munro and their family have moved into the house formerly occupied by the Cudmores.

Mrs. Nellie Powell is visiting relatives in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Allan of Sea Island were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Castle last week.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J. Leech of Lillooet, formerly of Squamish, on the birth of a daughter, November 1, in Grace Hospital, Vancouver.

When the Schwabenstein was entering Manila Harbour he pointed out Corrigidor where "America saved the world."

Never mind the Battle of Britain or the defense of Stalin grad.

However, as a concession to the Philippines he told us that in Manila there was a university that is "even" older than hearing that Canada should become the fifty-first star.

As for George, he is now a firm subscriber to the theory that it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. His wife has been laid low by the rough seas caused by Typhoon Vera.

George has thus been granted a few days' reprieve, of which he is taking full advantage. It is a case of eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow his wife may be up again.

As for the rest of us, after a hard day spent playing shuffleboard, swimming in the ship's pool, sunbathing, and eating three large meals and three in-between-meal snacks; we find that we are really exhausted when bedtime rolls around. I heartily recommend a holiday cruise on the good ship Schwabenstein.

Chocolate Cakes Good to Last Delicious Morsel

Rich chocolate beauties are everyone's idea of the perfect cake for tea time or family use.

Whether you pile them high with fluffy white frosting or a simpler glossy-smooth icing, they conjure up thoughts of something special in cake craft.

Devil's Food cakes are quite common, but this recipe from Mrs. G. Binning is worthy of special attention. Deliciously light and tender, it cannot fail to please the best of home bakers.

- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 1/4 cups cake flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 sqs. unsweetened chocolate
- 1 tsp. baking soda

Bankers Advise Advertising

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers Magazine, as it might give you a new slant on business — your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town.

"No business in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper.

"This is the best possible town advertising.

"The man or woman who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising businessman."

European Trip By Pemberton Women

A Pemberton woman recently returned from Europe told of her trip at a Women's Institute meeting at the home of Mrs. P. Hjeft, October 19.

Mrs. J. O. Decker, as provincial representative to the conference of Associated Country women, toured Holland, France and the Scandinavian countries this summer.

She was particularly impressed with the beauty of the old towns, the extensive welfare schemes for old people and children and the numerous bicycles.

As guest of the WIs of Sweden, she found the homes of that country modern and beautifully furnished. Everywhere there was much evidence of local handicrafts.

Mrs. Decker hopes to give a further talk in January illustrated with colored slides.
