Sam Bonde Returns To Theatre, His First Love

Sam Bonde, who claims, "Denmark," has taken over the theatre as my first love when I started in business as a young man in

Bonde said, "My wife and I want to continue to bring good, first run pictures to Squamish as the DeBeers did before us."

Mr. and Mrs. Caspar DeBeer are moving to Hazelton to establish a theatre business there.

The new owner, who operated his own dry cleaning business in Calgary for 20 years, has been working with Hume & Rumble on transmission line construction for the past six years, most of it in the Squamish to Bridge River area.

"I am no stranger to Squamish," he said. "I was at Cheeky for one and a half years when Hume & Rumble had the camp there."

"The mountains fascinate me," Mr. Bonde said, "and I consider myself fortunate to be able to be near and enjoy them."

"I also like fishing."

Brackendale PTA Plans For Oct. 31

Brackendale PTA is sponsoring a Halloween Party for children in their area. There will be a monster bonfire with hot dogs and cocoa for all.

Plans for the event were finalized at the PTA meeting at Brackendale School October 18.

As this is a fairly new PTA, Mrs. Freda Munro, the Regional Representative, was asked to speak on the work and scope of Parent-Teacher work.

She emphasized the fact that PTA's throughout B. C. were once providers of books, records, sports equipment, projectors, bicycle sheds, hot lunches and pictures, to name just a few of their projects.

Now that school boards are better able to provide such items, PTA's have gone into good programming and the promotion of better legislation in the fields of education and welfare.

To keep members interested, Mrs. Munro stressed the importance of good programs on topics of deepest concern to the area. In order to function well an organization must have the healthy co-operation of the school principal and his staff, she said.

Cultus Lake Most Used Park

Cultus Lake has been rated as the most heavily used Provincial park during the past season with 380,000 visits.

Others in order were: Mount Seymour, 250,000; Miracle Beach, 173,000; Alouette Lake, 160,000; Goldstream, 143,000; Shuswap Lake, 123,000.

Total for these six parks was 1.25 million visits while an almost complete compilation of park figures indicate that 3,500,000 park visits were made in all provincial parks.

An estimated 2,770,000 were day visits and 730,000 were "camper nights."

Park use by British Columbians declined during the year but this factor was more than made up by out-of-town guests for a total 12.5 per cent increase in park use.

Farewell Party For Zanders

Farewell party was given for Mr. and Mrs. Len Zander by members of Squamish Recreational Association at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan MacDonald, Brackendale, October 21.

In making the presentation of TV tables, Mr. MacDonald drew attention to Mr. Zander's work in SRA, particularly as secretary.

Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. D. DeBeck, Mr. and Mrs. P. Alder, Mr. and Mrs. J. Tinney, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. N. Candy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott, Mrs. F. Munro, Mrs. H. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. L. Urquhart.

Their lone touchdown was scored by Bobby Skerratt.

They play at home next Sunday against the Browns at 2:30 p.m. at the high school grounds.

Potatoes & Turnips

Good Harvest For Pemberton

Potato digging in the Pemberton Valley is almost finished with yields ranging from fair to excellent.

John Cosulich, manager of the Pemberton and District Co-Op reports a total acreage increase over last year and some farmers with bumper crops.

Market prices for commercial is much much the same as last year, he said, with No. 1 Netted Gems bringing $70 per ton as of last Saturday.

Pemberton growers own trade name for these potatoes is Snowflake.

Crops on some fields suffered from summer droughts and here the yield was light.

Two potato harvesting combines were in use this year but most farmers still hire gangs of pickers from the Mt. Currie Indian Reserve.

The combines are owned by R. Spetifore of C and S Farms and by Dr. Wright Dill of Texas Farms.

There is an excellent turnip crop in the valley this year with the yield triple that of last year.

The turnips are of even size and have sweetened well since the first frost.

Acres in turnips was also increased this year.

On the whole, weather conditions during the growing and harvesting seasons have been favorable.

Indians And The Liquor Questions ...

Hardly a month goes by in Squamish and Pemberton but the spectacle of the Indian's second class status under the existing liquor laws is not demonstrated in the courts.

As it now stands, Indians are allowed to drink in beer parlors, but are not permitted to buy liquor for consumption in any other place, not even in their own homes on the reserves. Unfortunately, the result of such restrictive regulations has been that liquor has attained an importance far greater than it deserves or would otherwise have had.

To the Indians, it has understandably become a symbol of inequality.

Remember what happened when Canada and United States enjoyed or suffered the prohibition era and an abortive attempt was made to prohibit the sale and consumption of liquor?

Almost the entire continent deliberately set out to flout the law with many people drinking just to show their independence.

The attorney-general has the authority, under existing federal law, to allow the Indians to determine by plebiscite whether they want liquor on the reserves. Some of them will want it, most will not. But this offers them the opportunity to say for themselves what they want and would also throw onto them the onus of helping to enforce their own regulations.

Granted there would, perhaps, be endorsement problems in the beginning, but there is no reason to believe that these could not be overcome. Certainly it would be no harder than trying to enforce the present law.

Autumn's Remnant Counter ...

An afternoon walk Sunday through our beautiful land contrasting countryside—woven tapestries of chicory blue, nutmeg brown, primrose gold and all the colors of the floral spectrum—yields hints that another year is running down.

The tapestries are on autumn's remnant counter—rust is on the dying bracken... a maple leaf is a crimson hue.

And Still They Grow ...

The fall term began here and one Canadian in every four are in school from kindergarten through college. The predicted thousands are something to take one's breath away, to rejoice over to view soberly.

Not only is the population increasing, but people are going to school longer than they used to. Ten years ago, 81 out of 100 children of high school age went to high school; now the proportion is 89 out of 100.

More than one third of the young people of college age are attending college, and that proportion, too, is rising. Extension colleges, night schools, and all forms of adult education are becoming more popular. Education is the biggest business in Canada.

Everyone knows that an enormous slice of local and provincial tax money, blade... a yellow leaf sifts earthward... and the alder's naked fingers begin to show.

Winter is a-comin' and soon the frost defiant mums will wink their eyes of varied colors and the timber stands along the hills takes on a new blue suit for formal winter wear. Yes, the year is running out... and whatever happened to the Dog Days?

and a small but increasing amount of federal assistance, is going to education. Manufacturers and merchants and contractors know that school construction, school supplies, school clothing and so on are very important items on their balance sheets.

Yet too many teachers, especially at the higher levels, are underpaid; too many colleges are under-endowed and operating at a deficit.

This fall's enrollment in Squamish is formidable enough, but it is going to be exceeded next year and the year after that, certainly through 1970. It is going to need foresight and careful planning, and all the financial sacrifice, of which this country is capable, to realize the potential of learning and teaching on such a scale.

Protecting A Day Of Rest ...

The lines are being drawn for what could become the crucial battle for survival of Sunday as a day of rest. Unfortunately, because of our proximity to Vancouver, residents of West Vancouver are directly affected by the decision whether the big city will keep open its movie houses on Sundays.

Obvious pressure is being applied from both sides upon Mayor Alsbury and his aldermen to throw the question to the public in a form of a plebiscite. This is not an unfair request and it would be a wise move for Vancouver city council to acquiesce.

Commercialism has for a number of years been a threat to the metropolitan Sabbath. It may be true that the chief impulsion for laws regarding observance of Sunday has changed during the two centuries or more since many such statutes were enacted in colonial times. If so, it is partly because everyday secular experience has corroborated the wisdom of the injunction in the Christian and some other religions to set apart one day in seven as a day of rest.

It is the opinion of this newspaper that the lawmakers down the years prescribed that there should be a weekly respite from all labor and not necessarily create an establishment of religion nor to interfere with the free exercise of religions which regard Saturday rather than Sunday as their Sabbath.

This divergence of doctrine raises a situation which Mayor Alsbury and council cannot, in charity, overlook even though the highest court may grant their power to be arbitrary. If the essence of the intent to ban movies on Sunday and to provide that no one shall as a rule be required to work more than six days in seven, then the purpose still is served if he chooses as a matter of faith a different day from the majority.

But in so far as part of the intent is to preserve a peaceful surrounding on a given day for religious services, meditation or family relaxations, there is no reason for resolving that this atmosphere shall not be invaded by the theatres running full blast, bargain sales with their attendant noise and traffic jams.

Let Your Lights Shine ...

The weekends, particularly the long weekends, are the killers and society has for countless years strived to figure out ways of stopping the auto accidents. Labour Day weekend, for instance, highway safety groups in co-operation with the newspapers, radio and TV, suggested that every motorist drive with his lights on day and night.

Most of them did and the accident total dropped dramatically.

It would be interesting, however, after some holiday weekend, to have a computation of how many thousands of drivers and passengers reached their destinations safely. Whatever the number was for B.C. over Saturday, Sunday and Labour Day, it is a tribute to the manner in which most west coasters have mastered handling a complex machine in growingly congested traffic.

If the truth were known most motorists sincerely want to drive safely and the press report that Labour Day weekend this year, substantially fewer persons lost their lives on the highways proves our point. Which is another way of saying that more had a good time, wove their way through an increasing number of cars and got home safely.

Ham 'n' Eggs, Comrade ...?

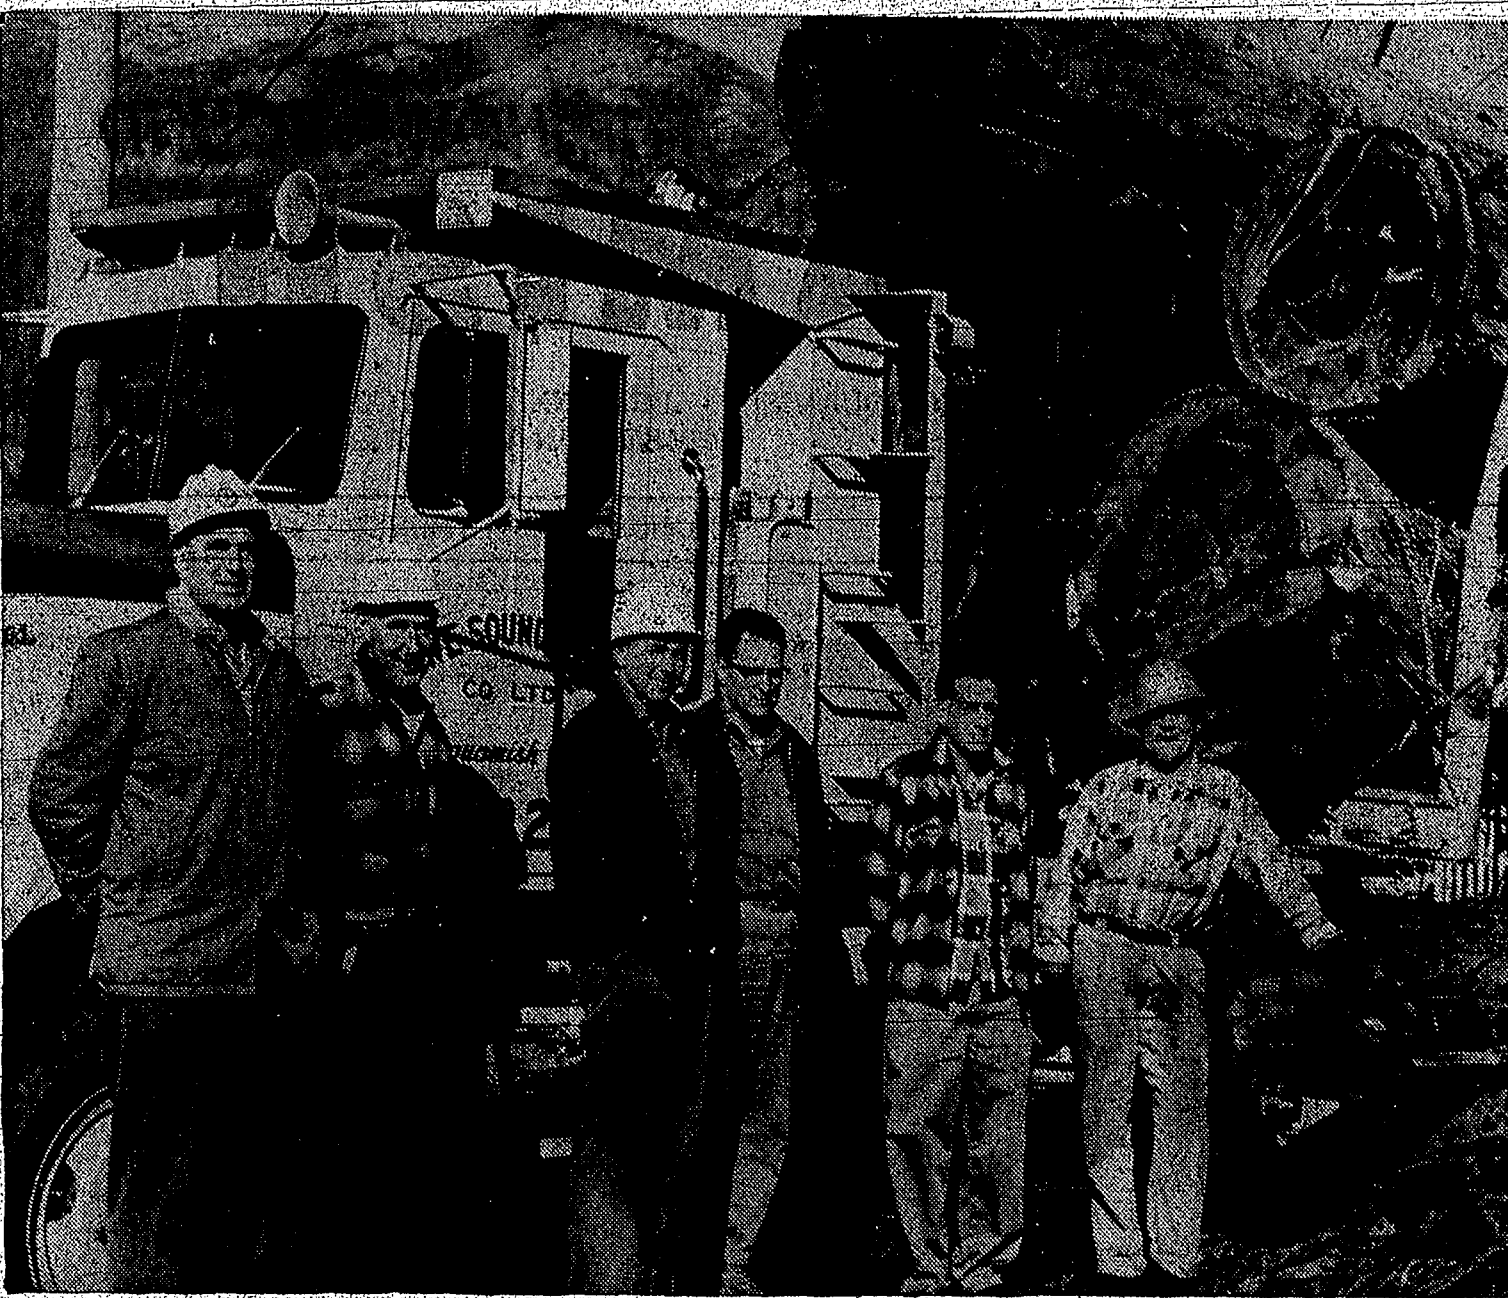

A recent letter to the Times' editor questioned the propriety of Canadian Legion members using the term "Comrade" in their meetings because it is being used by Communists.

How shallow can an individual's thinking get?

We are wondering what would happen if the Communists began eating ham and eggs for breakfast. Would the local and all the thousands of Legionnaires across Canada ban ham and eggs? It would be hard for us to stop eating ham and eggs (sunny side up, please) and, in fact, we don't think we would.

Would we be termed a subversive or a Communist? Hardly.

FIRST LOAD OF LOGS to come out of Empire Mills tree farm licence was greeted at the dump October 18 by (from left) Ross Chapman, a director of Empire; John Drenka, yarding and hauling contractor; Bill Manson, another director; John McKinnon, truck driver; Norm MacDonald, of Howe Sound Timber, and Leo Davis, dump man. These logs are from the first year's cutting permit of 27 million feet on Cloudburst Mountain, 25 miles up the Squamish Valley north of the village. According to the TFL contract the plywood plant for which it was granted must be in production in the spring of 1963. Construction is expected to start early in the new year.

The Credit Union Way

There are 15,000,000 people throughout the world who have benefited from the credit union way of life which began 112 years ago with an idea conceived by a compassionate German mayor.

Times were hard for the German farmers that year. The country was deep in a depression and drought had destroyed two years' crop. To keep their families from starving, the villagers of Flammersfeld plunged into debt to greedy moneylenders. In an effort to meet the high interest rates, they were eventually forced to forfeit their cattle, their parcels of dried-up land and even their homes and household goods.

Friedrich Wilhelm Raiffeisen, Mayor of Flammersfeld, was deeply troubled by his people's plight. There must be some way to help them to save them from the twin ogres of poverty and usury. Charity was not enough, even if he could persuade some of the wealthy German merchants to give them charity. It was degrading and would eventually destroy their initiative. The only lasting solution was for the people to help themselves. He suggested that the villagers pool their savings and lend to each other at low interest rates—in essence the credit union idea.

Because the villagers believed in this idea and were willing to work hard, the first credit union proved to be a success. Raiffeisen, eager to continue helping his fellow man, worked day and night for the rest of his life to spread the idea, even though he was sick and half blind. Before he died, he had formed 425 credit unions among his countrymen.

He believed that the people in a credit union must have a common bond holding them together—some tie that gave each member a strong sense of responsibility to the entire group. He believed that a man's character was the most important security he could offer for a loan. These still remain the basic principles of the credit union movement all over the world.

The torch that Raiffeisen lit in that small German town passed from hand to hand, from country to country, down through the years. Italy was next to take up the idea. Luigi Luzzatti, from a table and chair on a Milan sidewalk, taught the Italian workers to solve their financial problems the credit union way. Alphonse Desjardins, a Canadian legislative reporter, studied the work being done by European credit unions and organized the first North American credit union in 1901 among his neighbors in Levis, Quebec. This year, that same credit union celebrated its 60th anniversary and now has assets of over $1 million. The French-Canadian credit unions were called Caisses Populaires, and are so known to this day.

Desjardins also started the first credit union in the United States—the Sainte Marie Parish Credit Union, in Manchester, N.H., in 1909. It was also in 1909 that a prominent Boston merchant, Edward A. Filene, was urging passage of a credit union law in his home state of Massachusetts. Filene, a well-known philanthropist, had learned of credit unions on a trip to India. Deeply impressed with the benefits they offered, he was convinced that the idea should be advanced in the United States. He set up a bureau to promote credit unions, got credit union laws enacted and set up a permanent national association. He spent a million dollars promoting credit unions in the United States.

As a result of the start given by Filene, credit unions were able to stand on their own feet in 1934. Leaders from all parts of the country met at Estes Park, Colo., to form CUNA, the nonprofit association which is dedicated to helping more people share the benefits of credit unions.

Today the credit union idea has spread all over the world—from the Yukon Territory to Puerto Rico, from Korea to Basutoland, bringing financial security to millions of people—the credit union way.

Several new clubs are being introduced this year. The Model Custom Car Club and the Interscholastic Christian Fellowship Club are two of the new ones being added to the list of regulars.

Most of the work of getting these club started has been done by Mary Lou Smith, our Student Council vice-president, and Maureen Hall.

Our football team, the Howe Sound Chargers, has been having a better season than last year. So far we have played Albergrave, winning 27-0; Coho Lake, losing 6-3; St. Thomas of Aquinas, winning 24-0; and West Vancouver, losing 21-8.

Next week the Chargers have a game with North Vancouver at Squamish, Sunday, Oct. 29, 1 o'clock at the high school.

For the first time Howe Sound High has a girls' grass hockey team. The girls have played two games, one against University Hill (losing 2-1) and the other against West Vancouver (losing 3-1).

In closing, we would like to say a special cheery "hello" to the new group from Woodfibre and to the teacher who is still trying to figure out the connection between millions of balloons and his pay cheque.

News From Woodfibre

Another fall and winter season is here. The bowling leagues are in full swing. Teen Town, badminton club, bridge clubs and many other activities that make a busy community have started.

The Guides and Brownies are active in Woodfibre once more under the very able guidance of several busy ladies. Mrs. C. Rasmussen is the Guide Captain with Mrs. J. Schott and Mrs. L. Woods as her lieutenants.

Mrs. D. Nelson is Brown Owl with Mrs. F. Whitfield as Tawny Owl for the newly formed Brownie Pack.

Tuesday evening October 17 the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, sponsored a showing of a cancer film for women only. Dr. L. C. Kindree of Squamish was in attendance for a question and answer period after the 20 minute film.

Coffee and do-nuts were served and a silver collection taken for the Cancer Research Fund. Mrs. Kindree was a guest for the evening.

A. Smith, C. Tiechman, L. Walker, G. Ewing, R. Hodgson of Woodfibre and E. Schmidt of Vancouver have returned after a hunting trip in the Clinton area. Walker, Tiechman and Schmidt branched off to a ranch at Bridge Lake where, with a guide, they did some hunting on horse back. A new experience to one or two and I hear there were a few stiff muscles afterward.

Woodfibre welcomes Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Kropinik who have moved into the house adjacent to the clinic. Dr. Kropinik spent a year at the Vancouver General Hospital and comes to us after taking post graduate work in Phoenix, Arizona.

We hope their stay in Woodfibre will be a long and happy one.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Rudkin with Heather and Kathleen spent last weekend in Seattle. Kathleen is home on holidays and will be going back soon to the Vancouver General Hospital where she is a nurse on staff.

Glen Rudkin and Jerry Boothridge have returned from a hunting trip to Williams Lake district. They bagged a moose.

Mason Dixon has returned after spending a few days in Shelton, Washington. The C. W. L. of Woodfibre is holding a buffet supper November 4 in the church basement. Tickets are limited and selling at 1.50 each.

Just because potatoes are served almost every day is no excuse for them to become dull and uninteresting.

There are many different ways they can be prepared and Mrs. G. Eaton found this soufflé brought favorable comments from her family. And tried potatoes are among the most favored especially with the man of the house and the youngsters.

Try this little trick and see what they say.

★ WATER DOESN'T BURN

If you were one of our customers who were disappointed last Friday, there was a real good reason.

Somehow it seemed that the whole of the Squamish River ended in our oil tank.

After it was put right, the service man assures us that no matter how good the oil burner, it will not burn water.

This is the first time that we have ever been forced to close down in the more than 10 years we have been in Squamish.

30 Points For Sullivan Cards Rout Als In 44 to 0 Game

Squamish Cardinals claimed another victory from the Eastern division of North Shore 'GSL' by 44 to 0 score against the Als last weekend.

Sullivan is emerging as a player with many talents, not the least of which is scoring touchdowns. He scored five against the Als. He is fast and hard to stop as proved last Sunday when he carried the ball only nine times for the 30 points.

Coach Lochie Brock made good use of his second string and they performed well for him. Kenny Munro got one of the majors.

The other touchdown went to McKintuck who also made one convert and kicked for a single.

This game was played for Alistair Mackenzie, who is a director of the league and a loyal booster of the Cards.

Next Sunday the Cards play their third home game at Squamish. This one is against the Packers. Game starts 1:00 p.m. at the high school grounds.

For the kickoff sports, celebrates Barney Therrian of the B.C. Lions and Bob Lasko of the New York Yankees baseball chain will be on the field.
