Mexicans In Photos At Library

Photo exhibition by Manuel Carillo, Mexico's famous amateur, entitled My People, will be on display at Squamish Public Library Thursday and Friday of this week.

Al Bird and Victor Bopp obtained these 96 prints for a showing in Squamish as part of their North American tour.

Channel 6 Satellite Approved

Application for a satellite booster station by Squamish TV Society has been approved by the Board of Broadcast Governors, and construction of the station on the highlands section of Garibaldi Park Estates is ready to begin.

The satellite will pick up, strengthen and re-broadcast Channel 6, Victoria, programs.

Gals and Pals Visit Pemberton

The 'Gals and Pals' square dance club were guests of the Pemberton 'Mountain Dewes' on Sunday, April 29.

Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. G. Sellars, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gebhart, Mr. and Mrs. W. McAbee, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Timney.

Upon arrival, the guests were taken to members' homes for dinner, followed by some lively square dancing in the Community hall to caller Bernie Salter. Guest caller from Squamish was Jim Tinney. A light refreshment was served prior to leave-taking and a wonderful time was had by all.

It is hoped the 'Mountain Dewes' will make a return visit in the near future.

Ask Clubs To Help

Village Donates Funds To Improve Cemetery

The municipality, with the help of the service clubs, hopes to start and sustain a beautification program for Squamish Valley Cemetery.

Commissioner Clarke, who is secretary of the Cemetery board, reported to council that the bracken should be cut every two weeks, as was done last year, in an effort to kill it, but there was no money to do it.

Chairman Brennan proposed a $300 donation from the village and offered to contact the service clubs to raise enough for top soil, harrowing and seeding. Council agreed.

Once the grass is established it was suggested that an old age pensioner be hired for about $50 a month to look after it.

Last year the council donated $80 to the Cemetery Board but it was felt that such small sums were of little help in the over-all improvement of the area.

Revenues from fees in 1961 were only $10, Mr. Clarke said, from two burials.

However, though fees were revised at a recent meeting, he said the income from burials could not be expected to be very high, certainly not enough for a decent renovation and maintenance of the grounds.

Burial fees for adults were raised from $5 to $10; for infants, from $2.50 to $5.

A new fence around about half of the cemetery has just been completed by the H.C.s.

On the Cemetery Board are L. Dent, chairman; G. S. Clarke, secretary; H. Hurren, E. Axen and F. Buckley.

Swimming Pool Bulletin

Ed. Note: The following bulletin is being circularized by mail throughout the community this week and will be followed within a day or two by canvassers. More than half the objective of $25,000 has been reached — the figures below have been revised since the circulars were printed.

"To be or not to be — that is the question"

This is the final stage of our campaign that will determine whether or not we go ahead with construction of the swimming pool within the next few weeks.

Consider with care, the following points:

- CHILDREN:
  - Safe, supervised, unscheduled recreation.
  - Instructions, water safety program.
  - Competitive swimming.
- MOTHERS:
  - Only a mother can truly appreciate the peace of mind that comes from knowing that Johnny is not jumping from log boom to log boom, but, is safely partaking in the best form of recreation known.
- SCHOOL:
  - There is a rapidly growing trend to incorporate swimming and water safety in the school P.E. curriculum.
- YOU:
  - Personal use, recreation for all ages.
  - Each new community improvement makes the town more desirable as a home site and attracts residential construction.
  - Industry asks the question, "What has the town to offer?" before deciding to locate in a community.
- HOME OWNER:
  - There is little doubt that a good swimming pool here would increase the value of your property by $100 or more.
  - It is apparent that everyone stands to gain and nobody stands to lose.

A hard working committee has raised the sum of $14,000 towards our goal; another $11,000 is needed (this price includes change rooms). We have asked for $100 donations, these can be made out in post-dated cheques, if desired.

Please remember that once the pool is built, you will reap the benefits for the next 20 years or so, yet, IT MUST BE PAID FOR NOW.

We would not presume to put a price tag on the lives that may be saved, all we ask is that you make an honest appraisal — what's it worth to you?

Please fill in the enclosed cheques — they're tax deductible. A representative of the swimming pool committee will call at your home to pick up the cheque in the next few days.

We thank you for your generous contribution. We shall keep you informed through the press on the outcome of this campaign.

Sincerely yours,
SWIMMING POOL COMMITTEE.

Big Day May Day To End Weekend

Fish Can't Resist "Duffer"

Werner Schmid of Vancouver has been a regular weekend fisherman at Cheeky Lodge since March and he has been just as regular in catching steelhead and dolies. Last Saturday his fish weighed 13 and 11 pounds.

What confounds the "experts," according to Mrs. Mae Gorsuch of the lodge, is that this quiet, unassuming chap doesn't seem to know much about fishing and his equipment is far from the ultimate, but he catches fish right alongside them when they can't even get a nibble.

Parade & Dance On Final Day

May Day celebrations, sponsored by the Elementary PTA will be held May 21 in the High School gymnasium.

The weekend will commence with a Cabaret Dance sponsored by the Mamquam V.F.D. in the Parish Hall on Saturday, May 19. For tickets call Mesdames G. Dickie, H. Dyke or P. Candy.

SUNDAY SOCCER
It is hoped there will be a boys' soccer match on Sunday afternoon.

On Monday, the parade led by the R.C.M.P. and Legion will leave from the old P.G.E. offices at 1:00 p.m. rather than in the morning as in the past. It was felt this would enable participants to be less hurried and also allow for afternoon warmth.

FLOATS
Parade master, Mr. N. Candy, would like to hear from anyone wishing to enter a float.

The B. & M. Challenge Trophy will go to the best float in the parade, and there will be watch-cups for the best commercial float and best float entered by J. Timney.

Money prizes donated by local businessmen will go to the children's section for best decorated bikes, trikes, buggies, etc., the best costume, and the best comical costume.

CROWNING
Following the crowning of Queen Patsy McConnell by retiring Queen Barbara Campbell, there will be the traditional Maypole dance and a program presented by the Elementary schools.

Later a tea will be served in the cafeteria for those requiring a rest and some tasty refreshments. Other concessions will be on the school grounds, weather permitting.

The S.R.A. will once again sponsor the children's races, commencing about 3:45 p.m.

It is hoped everyone will come and enjoy a pleasant day. For further information watch this paper or contact cups for the best commercial float and best float entered by J. Timney.

Any constructive suggestions will be welcome and given consideration by the committee.

Portion Of Sewer Bonds Approved

A portion of the financing of sewers for Garibaldi Park Estates is now in sight with Victoria's recent approval of a $50,000 bond issue.

All that remains now is to get approval from Ottawa of the federal share, according to Pat Goode, which will be about the same amount.

The Mamquam Sewer Board hopes to call for tenders to construct the sewers in June.

Opening of the Highlands, with 30 lots to be fully developed by June, will coincide with preparation of 30 lots on the lower level near the southeast section of the new V.I.A. subdivision.

United Church Celebrates Latest Move

The 10th anniversary, one of the most recent in the Squamish history of the United Church, will be celebrated with a special morning service, May 6.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. J. Rinta of the Finnish United Church, Vancouver, who will bring his choir, also.

It was 10 years ago that the church building was moved four lots up the street to its present site and the church hall added to it.

The church had been built in 1921 on the lot next to Ed Carson's. Prior to that services had been held at the theatre, Freda Munro, then known as the Rex.

Before that the Presbyterian school, vacated when the Mashter school was built in 1915, and used it for a church.

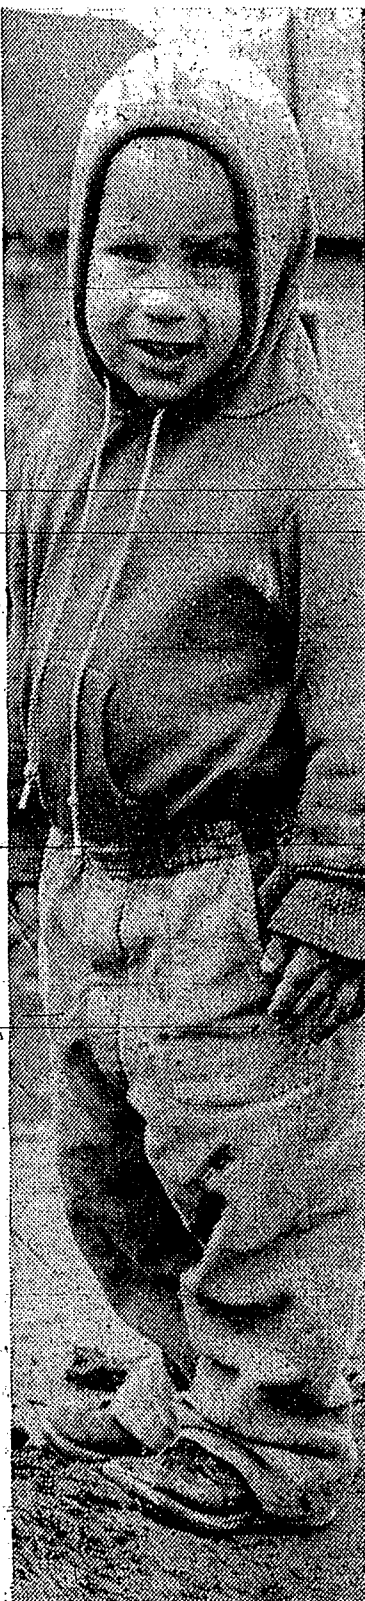

This building was then located where Paul Drenka lives now on Third Avenue and was later moved to Second Avenue to Second Avenue and was later moved to Second Avenue and is presently occupied by Mrs. Freda Munro.

Coming Events

May 19

May Day Cabaret Dance. Sponsored by the Mamquam V.F.D. Parish Hall. Local Orchestra. $5.00 per couple includes cold plate dinner and 3 drinks. Liquid refreshment available. Time: 10 p.m. to 1 a.m.

THERE IS really no story connected with this little chap, except that he has been out and about for an hour or so with no one to hitch up his pants. He said his name is Paddy James, or something like that.

Trail Rides At Easter

Trail rides occupied Squamish Valley Riding Club over the Easter weekend. One was close to home up the Cheakamus valley and the other was at Chilliwack.

On the local ride were Shirley McCann, Darlene Richards, Heather MacDonald, Pauline Drenka, Linda Bodie, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Street, Al McIntosh and Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kilby and Jack Stephenson.

At Chilliwack for the four-day outing were Linda Street, Linda Harrison, Robbie McPherson and Johnny Miller.

Swimming Classes Cancel

Anticipating the completion of the Community Swimming Pool at Squamish this summer, the SRA will not transport children to Britannia for swimming lessons as has been done in other years.

George Lyons, director of this program, said that the large number of children in the pool at one time under this system, made effective instruction practically impossible during the past season.

CHARLES E. CONROY, owner of Brandywine Falls and 400 adjacent acres, is contemplating resort development to coincide with the building of the road to Alta Lake.

RAY GALLAGHER with his Garibaldi Tours jeep has been running 75-mile weekend excursions to Brandywine Falls from Vancouver for over a year. He offers a package deal which includes transportation, food and overnight accommodation at the 210-foot falls at the head of Daisy Lake north of Garibaldi Station.

PICTORIAL

Child Safety Day, May 6...

The British Columbia Safety Council is sponsoring Child Safety Day next Sunday and the day has been proclaimed as such by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to focus attention on the tragic toll of accidental deaths and injuries suffered by the children.

Statistics show an alarming increase of 41 deaths amongst B.C. children under 10 occurred during 1961, with a total of 168 deaths in the year. The main causes were fire, traffic and drownings.

The above picture illustrates one of the hazards that exist needlessly on one of the vacant lots right in the middle of our village. Council has been successful in persuading most owners of such property to fill their lots and over the past year a considerable amount of fill has been dumped on the edge of this old slough. Could it not now be pushed in and the hazard removed?

Children are attracted to water holes and are often heedless and unknowing of the danger. Though it is one of the terrible responsibilities of parenthood to protect them and teach them safety habits it is difficult to give constant supervision. In this particular case, we would say, let's remove the hazard.

Children in traffic is another hazard we have on our main streets. Here the onus bears more heavily on the parents. The streets are for traffic and not for unsupervised, untrained children, which according to the chairman of the village council, "dart around on Cleveland Avenue like mice."

Crosswalks, traffic lights and careful drivers are not the solutions for jaywalking children. Here the children depend solely on adults for protection and safety training. There has been no death on our streets for a long time and we must do everything possible to keep it that way.

Sunday has been especially chosen for Child Safety Day. This is the one day of the week when families are together and have time to check homes, habits and responsibilities to ensure constant safety for children.

We ask you to do your part on this day.

It Touches You...

It seems to be gradually getting through to the man on the street that there is something in the way in which the provincial government took over the B.C. Electric utility which touches him. There is evidence of a growing realization that this is not simply an issue between big business and big government, that there is a democratic principle involved which concerns the rights of every person.

Many people who derived a certain satisfaction from seeing the "rich capitalists" get it in the eye, are beginning to realize that they themselves can be classed as capitalists because they own their own homes, their own cars, their own life insurance. It is not a long step

Think For Yourself...

Intellect and reason are God's greatest gift to man, but too many of his creatures, because of mental lethargy, let others do their thinking for them.

Nowadays, particularly with the gamut of pre-election hustings, the rabble-rouser, the special pleader and ecclesiastical bigot use the Madison Avenue technique developed for commercial advertising and exploitation to put across their message. Unfortunately its general application is to slight, ignore or twist facts to the end that a desired "image" is created.

A thinking man's only defense against this subtle psychological bombardment is a healthy skepticism, plenty from this illuminating thought to the realization that a government which will take away the property of one group of owners at an arbitrary price and without recourse to the courts, could quite easily take other private property in the same way.

It will probably be a long time before any large number of people translate their concern over the handling of this issue into action, but this is something that they are not likely to forget. It will stick in their minds to color their thinking on things this government may do in future.

Public Power Man Woos Investors

Less than a year ago, Premier Bennett of British Columbia enraged them by expropriating the province's biggest privately owned utility. Now he comes to market, hat in hand.

When government decides to take over private property, there is precious little that its owners can do to prevent it, but the next time, the same government seeks funds from private sources, there is an opportunity to retaliate.

This is the situation confronting William A. C. Bennett, premier of Canada's rich province of British Columbia. Bennett created a furor in investment circles less than a year ago when his government expropriated British Columbia Electric Co. Ltd., the largest privately owned utility in the province. But he didn't have to worry about alienating investors, since the government had no need then to borrow funds.

Now, however, Bennett needs funds — and must woo investors. His reputation in financial circles will be a big factor in determining his most important political program — the development of British Columbia's mineral and forest resources by generating low-cost electric power on the Peace River about 500 mi. north of Vancouver. For this he needs a whopping $900-million.

HAT IN HAND

When Bennett began sounding out investment bankers in the U.S. and Canada about the prospects for getting the funds, he got a decidedly cool reception. This is hardly surprising. The major capital markets, in the U.S. and abroad, are becoming increasingly cautious about providing funds at a high degree of political risk.

International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. has just had a subsidiary expropriated in Brazil, and there is talk that Brazilian Traction, Light & Power Co., Ltd., a Canadian outfit, also will be taken over. Investors are also worried about the Argentine crisis, and they remember too well what happened in Cuba.

This uneasiness is now spreading to Canada. For years, institutional and individual investors, mainly in New York and London, poured billions into Canada. This capital invasion led to some resentment among Canadians, mainly directed against the U.S. But until Bennett took over B.C. Electric, foreign investors were relatively unconcerned about this anti-U.S. feeling. They continued to look upon Canada as a secure haven for funds.

Now they are not so sure.

TANGLED LITIGATION

They are particularly incensed at Bennett's lack of concern about private investors last year. He offered to pay $170-million for the company, while British Columbia Power Corp., Ltd., which owned the utility, held out for $225-million.

Just about the time Bennett was conferring with bankers in New York, the B.C. Electric case flared up again. The supreme court in Vancouver placed the company's assets in receivership to present their seizure by Bennett.

Bennett moved swiftly by getting the provincial parliament to pass a law that forbids the courts to intervene (while his opponents mocked him with shouts of "Sieg Heil").

At midweek, constitutional experts in Vancouver said the situation was hopelessly confused, with both the court and the government claiming jurisdiction over B.C. Electric assets.

ALREADY COMMITTED

Meanwhile, Bennett is out on a limb, for he has already started the Peace River project through short-term bank loans. Construction contracts totaling $20-million have been awarded, a 500-ft. steel bridge has been built across the Peace, and the government has budgeted $3-million for a five-year supply of petroleum products.

This is only the beginning. The project calls for spending $450-million over the next six years. But Bennett may have to abandon work unless he can raise the funds to pay off the bank loans and assure financing to completion of the project.

The need for long-term financing from private investors has forced Bennett to change his tactics. He is trying to sell the project on the grounds that power from the project can be sold profitably, so that there is little risk to prospective lenders.

Despite all the bitterness he stirred up over B.C. Electric, some bond dealers have indicated that they might help with the financing. But they are taking a tough line, refusing to buy Bennett's argument that power from the project can be sold profitably within the province.

COLUMBIA RIVER PROJECT

The upshot is that Bennett must find another source of income for the province in order to assure financing for the Peace. He has been forced to go to Ottawa to reopen discussion on still another controversial power project — a joint Canadian-U.S. development of the Columbia River, under a treaty signed in 1960.

This project calls for the cooperation of Bennett's province, for British Columbia would build water storage facilities in return for half the power that was generated, all on the U.S. side of the border.

The Columbia project has bogged down because Ottawa and Bennett have disagreed over how to share Canada's estimated $458-million of construction costs. Moreover, Bennett demanded permission to sell his province's portion of the power back to the U.S. The Ottawa government is firmly opposed to long-term contracts for power exports, so there was a deadlock at this point.

BREAKING THE JAM

Bennett now indicates a willingness to compromise on the Columbia, if he can win the Peace project. But unless Ottawa allows him to sell power to the U.S. the two projects would yield more power than his province can use. And he needs income from Columbia sales to convince investors it's safe to finance the Peace venture.

So he's taking a softer line with Ottawa.

Two weeks ago, Canadian Finance Minister Donald Fleming agreed to discuss the matter with Bennett. There was no official announcement after the two met in Victoria last week, but both indicated that progress had been made. This contrasted sharply with the harsh words that marked their previous meetings.

Bennett has one advantage in deciding to work for a compromise. The federal government faces a general election this year and counts on winning seats in British Columbia. So Bennett knows Fleming is eager to come to terms before the election.

Ottawa will probably offer to pick up more of the cost of the Columbia project. However permission to export power to the U.S. would require a major policy change, one that would give fresh ammunition to the anti-U.S. group in Canada. It may yet come about under the election pressures; in fact, some government officials are saying in private that they have never favored the export ban.

MUST PERSUADE LENDERS

Even with a concession on export of power, Bennett won't have an easy time arranging long-term financing. Some investment bankers say he faces what amounts to a "lenders' strike". Bennett has been swamped with letters from investors protesting his action on the utility company. Many stated flatly that they would never again buy British Columbia securities unless they got more for their B.C. Electric holdings.

Bennett cannot finance his project without the help of the investment community, particularly the New York market. And bond men who traditionally distribute Canadian securities have serious reservations. They have told Bennett to settle the B.C. Electric case and reach agreement with Ottawa on the Columbia project. Then they say they will be willing to talk business.

Their attitude is summed up by one investment banker who says, "No one is going to seize our property one year and expect to get a loan the next."

STILL HOPING

Bennett, though, is optimistic that the money will be found. He is not yet prepared to give in on B.C. Electric even though his latest move to block a hearing in court stirred further anger among investors. He faces rising criticism in the province itself, but he is countering this by reducing power rates. And he is quoting a letter from the New York firm of B. J. Van Ingen & Co., Inc., which says it "would welcome an opportunity to discuss future financing for your electrical system."

Van Ingen confirms that it is interested but that it wants to get the facts before it makes any decisions.

Meanwhile, some Canadian dealers are refusing to handle any British Columbia securities. Officially, the Investment Dealers Assn. of Canada is playing down the problem, saying it will help British Columbia or any other province to raise money for a worthwhile project.

History Notes

By W. Green

REAL ESTATE & BRICKYARDS

The real estate business of Shannon and McLachlan was established in 1888 by William Shannon and Charles McLachlan with offices in Vancouver. Besides dealing in land, these gentlemen promoted mining, speculated in timber and operated a brickyard.

It was in January, 1889, that the firm gave notice of intention to apply to the Crown to buy three parcels of land in the Squamish Valley. Parcel No. 1 of 160 acres, was on the west side of the Squamish River and was never developed.

Parcel No. 2 was described as being two small islands opposite the Stawamus Reserve, and as containing 70 acres. This was the land south of the slough which was filled in a few years ago to form the park, and these islands, after being bought from Shannon and McLachlan by George Magee, who had them dyked and reclaimed, later became George Paddy's Island, which was the northern-most of the two, and Jim Magee's island which extended from today's small boat harbour to the government wharf.

Parcel No. 3 was the property now occupied by Shannon Falls Resort. (The origin of the name of the falls is obvious, although they were known as the Fairy Falls.) This 160-acre block had a mile of foreshore which included Darrel or Shannon Bay and the site of the present Woodfibre ferry landing. Soon after buying this property, Shannon and McLachlan built one of Squamish's first industries on it; a brick yard. This was located on the little creek which flows into the bay and the spot is now buried under the terry approach fill, just above the PGE tracks.

OTHER BRICK YARDS

In recent years bricks have gone out of style, but up until the 1920 the hills on the city streets were paved with them, and most business blocks too were built of brick, so that brick making was an important industry.

One of the first plants for making bricks locally was on Bowen Island and Joseph Manning, the gentleman who inaugurated the first scheduled steamer service to Squamish in 1890 with his SS Saturna, was the agent for the brickyard there.

On Anvil Island there were two companies engaged in the business. The largest of these was the Columbia Clay Co. which, according to the B.C. Sessional Papers, dated 1909, was then operating the largest brickyard in the province there, and was turning out 30,000 bricks a day. Its yard stood on the south end of the island and is shown in a photo in the above mentioned papers. The other establishment was the Anvil Island Brick Co. which was incorporated in 1910.

Just when these yards went out of business I do not know, but it is unlikely that any of them survived the First World War.

Liberal Candidate

For Coast-Capilano Riding

On June 18, Canadians will make a choice that will affect not only our lives but the lives of our children and, perhaps, the future of the world. It will be one of the most important national elections in Canada's history.

Because I feel it is vital that you fully understand the issues, I propose to use this space to present the Liberal point-of-view. If you disagree with anything I say, please write or call me. If you agree, then give me your support. In any case, let's talk things over.

I'll be in Squamish soon. Watch this column for the exact date.

Perhaps you think I exaggerate the importance of the election. I don't think so. I feel that the election of our Liberal leader, Mike Pearson, as Prime Minister can do more for world peace than any other single action we Canadians can take. As everyone knows, Mike Pearson has a tremendous record as an international leader. There's not a person in Coast-Capilano Riding who doesn't know about Mr. Pearson's efforts in promoting understanding between the great powers of the world. I feel that with Mike Pearson as Prime Minister of Canada, the whole world will breathe a little easier and we can get on with the business of building a better Canada. Without a lasting peace, nothing else matters.

game, April 17, to win the league trophy donated by the Howe Sound Teachers Association.
 This was the juniors' second final game. The first one was played to a 0-0 draw a week before.
 Presentation of the trophies will be made at a banquet in the high school cafeteria on May 11. The senior division trophy, donated by the Howe Sound School Employees Association, will also be presented to the winning Woodfibre team.
 In the juniors last game Don Ross' boys had the edge on the play most of the way. Shane McCann scored twice

Net results, gross results, or just results, a lot depends on what is expected or required.
 When you are selling property, what you are concerned in is the net results, or the amount of the cheque after expenses.
 When you are buying a house, you are primarily interested in the gross results, or the amount of house you are getting for your money.
 Either way, you are assured of the most value when you deal with us, because we are interested in the end results, or in other words, 'customer satisfaction.'

Washington U Offers Roger A Scholarship

One of the more lasting rewards for athletic effort was offered to Roger Mercier last week in the form of an athletic scholarship to University of Washington at Bellingham.
 Roger, at 18, is in his last year at Howe Sound High and says he will probably accept. The only reason that he wouldn't accept, he said, would be if another university offered a better scholarship.
 As a member of the Vancouver Olympic Club he has competed in several track and field meets in Washington this year and has been top or near top performer in high jump and broad jump.

THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART

Crisp sizzling bacon. Soft, tender fried eggs. Light golden pancakes. And the fluffiest omelettes. This is cooking to delight any man — or woman or child!

This is electric cooking. Perfect cooking for one simple reason: complete temperature control. Take surface cooking for example. Each electric element has a dial. And each dial gives you a choice of five, seven, even infinite heat settings — from gentle simmer to sizzling sear. This wide choice of heats, and the precise way the range responds, give you perfect cooking results every time. A special feature of the modern electric range is the thermostatically controlled element. You set the dial for the exact temperature you want and the element adjusts automatically to maintain that temperature — hour after hour!

Your appliance dealer can show you these features and many more — meat thermometers, rotisseries, timed surface elements, automatic clock controls — all automatic and all designed to take the guesswork out of cooking.

May Day Was Roman Celebration, Also

May Day feasts and maypoles date from Roman times. They honored the spring goddess Flora and called the occasion Floralia. The Romans took the feast to England.

Even the Puritans weren't able to ban this popular celebration and so it came right along to the new world where it is enjoyed today.

The Germans had the maypole, too, and they used the festival also for planting trees.

Babe Ruth League Action Starting

Talent scouts are out looking for boys, 13 to 16, who would like to play Babe Ruth Baseball this season.

About 40 have already been signed by manager Frank Downing and there will be a meeting at the school diamond May 5 at 10:30 to see those who have not been contacted.

In the meantime any hopeful new players may contact Mr. Downing by phoning 767.

Umpires are needed for this league and the Little League. Sponsors are welcome, too. Coaches are also in short supply.

Britannia and Woodfibre boys may play with the Squamish teams but Mr. Downing said it would make league competition better if these towns could enter their own teams.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Squamish Times:

May we, through this medium, correct a wrong impression which may have been given to your readers in a news report given in your issue of April 26, concerning improper procedure by the Board of Trustees of the Squamish General Hospital in respect to the proposal to build a Nurses' Residence at the Hospital.

Procedure, as laid down by the Government, through BC-HIS, to be followed is that, first, approval in principle must be given by the Minister, establishing the need. Approval has been given for this project.

Next, sketch plans must be developed and submitted, with approximate costs of building and operating, when built, to the Manager of the Construction Division, BCHIS; following the approval of which, working plans must be submitted with an estimate of costs, for final approval. This usually takes some time as several revisions are required.

Now we go to the Trustees of the Garibaldi Hospital Improvement District and ask that a by-law be submitted, by them, to the taxpayers for the purpose of raising the required funds to finance the construction and furnishing of the Residence. Until such time as it is assured that the building can go ahead, no request is made to the Trustees of GHID that a by-law be submitted, and certainly no request has yet been made to this body by the SHS.

If, and when, the by-law is approved, the Trustees of the GHID are then, and not until then, responsible for the funds so raised, releasing them as required, on approved progress reports. The decision as to whether this is a propitious time, or not, for this or any other purpose, is in the hands of the voter.

Two years ago the by-laws of the Hospital Society were amended to provide representation on the Hospital Board of the GHID and a trustee was appointed. Unfortunately, non-attendance at Board meetings of their representative appears to have left the Trustees of the GHID uninformed as to the affairs of the Hospital.

MANUEL V. SEYMOUR, President, Squamish Hospital Society.
