Service Station Operators Ask For Midnight Closing

A proposal by Squamish service station operators to extend their hours of opening from 6 p.m. to 12 midnight, including Sundays and holidays, will come to a vote, August 3.

Operators, only, will vote. The ballot box will be at the village office. Returning officer will be village clerk Rod Horne.

At the present time the operators are governed by the B.C. statutory closing hour of 6 p.m.

Roger To Get BEG Try Out

Roger Mercier, the 18-year-old junior athlete from Squamish, is just one jump away from the British Empire Games in Perth, Western Australia, this September.

He goes to Toronto for the Canadian championships, August 5 and 6, and the winners go from there to Perth, Australia.

At Brockton Oval last Saturday in open competition he jumped six feet, four inches to win the event; he took first in the hop, skip and jump with 41 feet, nine inches, and he came fourth in the broad jump, 20 feet, nine inches, to win the trophy for the highest men's aggregate in the Western Canadian Track and Field Championship Meet.

His high jump was his highest yet but at the Caledonian Games in Nanaimo, two weeks ago, he did his best in broad jump, 21 feet, 11½ inches.

In aggregate points last Saturday he beat favored Harry Jerome by 1½ points with 24.

On his way back from Toronto, he plans to stop at Saskatoon for the Junior Western Championships.

Roger, training on his own now with no coach, manages to get in an hour and a half to two hours a day in the evening. In the day time, since he graduated from Howe Sound High this spring, he has been working at the PGE shops.

He has accepted an athletic scholarship with the University of Washington and will go there in the fall.

He was formerly coached by Stu Foreman, physical education teacher at Howe Sound High, who moved away this year.

Stag For C. Bradley

Farewell stag party for Cecil Bradley was held Saturday night by the mill crew at Britannia.

Jack Morrison presented him with a pen and pencil set as a memento of his years here.

Mr. Bradley is leaving shortly to join the staff of Bethlehem Copper Mine near Ashcroft.

About 90 Attend Old Timers Meet

Fourth Annual Gathering of Old Timers from the Squamish Valley was held at the picnic grounds near the duck pond in Stanley Park, July 21, with almost ninety people turning out to renew old friendships and to augment newer ones.

This event, which brings together Squamish residents and those who have moved to the Vancouver area, was started four years ago at the instigation of Mrs. Jessie Bazley, Mrs. Theo Graham, Mrs. Mary Powell, Mrs. N. Dixon and Mrs. M. Williams of Vancouver and Mr. Jack Castle locally.

Under sunny skies and amid beautiful scenery, the chatter of "Do you remember?", "I haven't seen you in donkey's years!", "What HAVE you been doing with yourself?" and "Married! Why it seems only yesterday that she was just so high!" was heard on every side.

A few of those attending who have been missing from Squamish for some time were Mrs. Margaret MacCallum, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McLeod, Mr. A. McLennan, Mrs. J. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacDonald and their grandchildren, and Mrs. G. Blundell.

Among the local people who chartered Squamish Coach Lines bus for the trip were Mrs. Rose McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McNamee, J. Castle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. W. James, Alex Fraser, Mrs. Daisy Barnfield, Mrs. W. Webster, Eric Axen, Jack Edwards, Harold Bailey, Sandy Fowler, Mrs. L. Rae, David Rae, and Mrs. Minnie Armstrong.

Squamish may be the locale for this gathering next year.

Ex-Valley Merchant Dies

Al Friend, former owner of Brackendale Store, died recently in Alberta.

His daughter, Mrs. Don Kerr-Lyons, and her husband of Britannia Beach have joined the family during the bereavement.

Swimming Pool Bulletin

Opening hours of Squamish Swimming Pool have been adjusted to encourage maximum recreation for swimmers and to try to overcome an operating deficit.

In the first two weeks of operation costs were $255 greater than the income from fees. Those two weeks were unseasonably cold and cloudy.

The new hours are: Saturday, Sunday, Monday, 12 noon to 5 and 6 to 9.

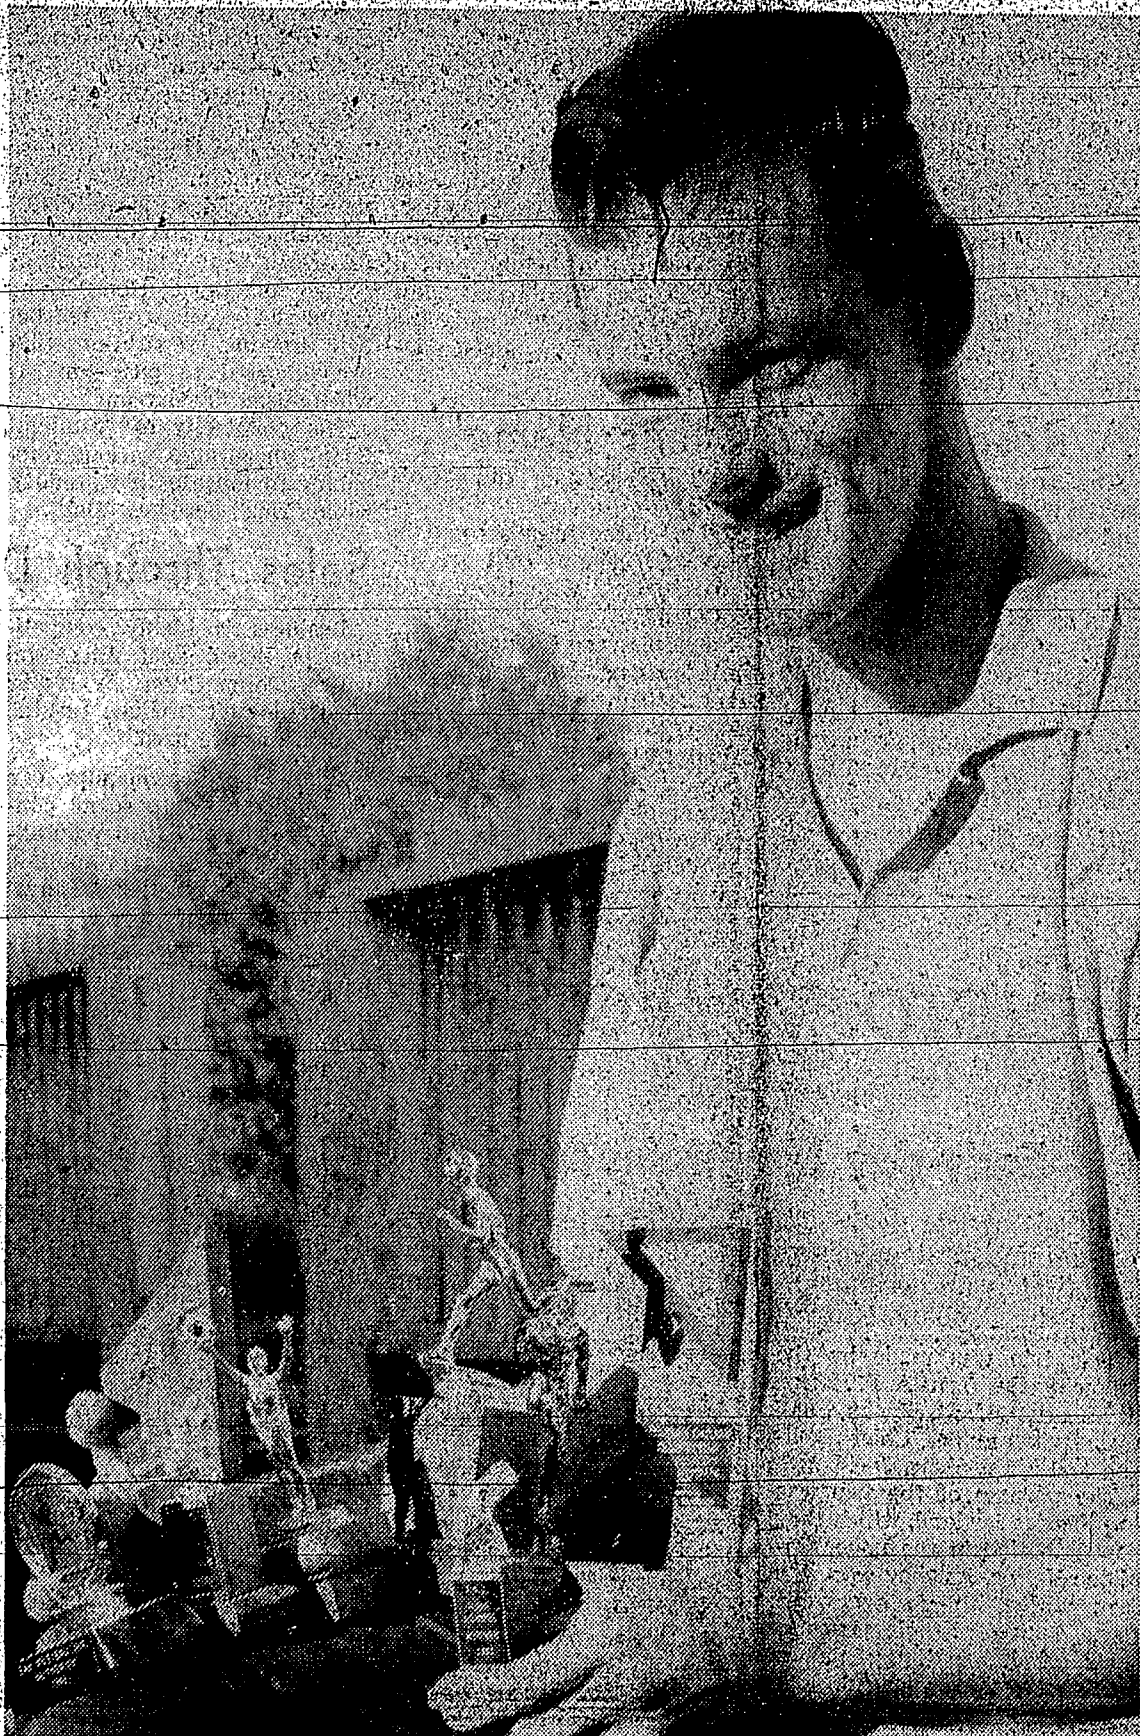

Tuesday to Friday — 9 to 12, 2 to 5, and 6 to 9. From 6 to 9 p.m. students not accompanied by adults will be charged adults rates.

Admission rates to members: Adults — 20 tickets for $5.00. Children — 20 tickets for $2.50.

Admission rates to non-members: Adults — 50 cents per swim. Children — 25 cents per swim. Swimming pool membership cards are now available from Jim Elliott at his office.

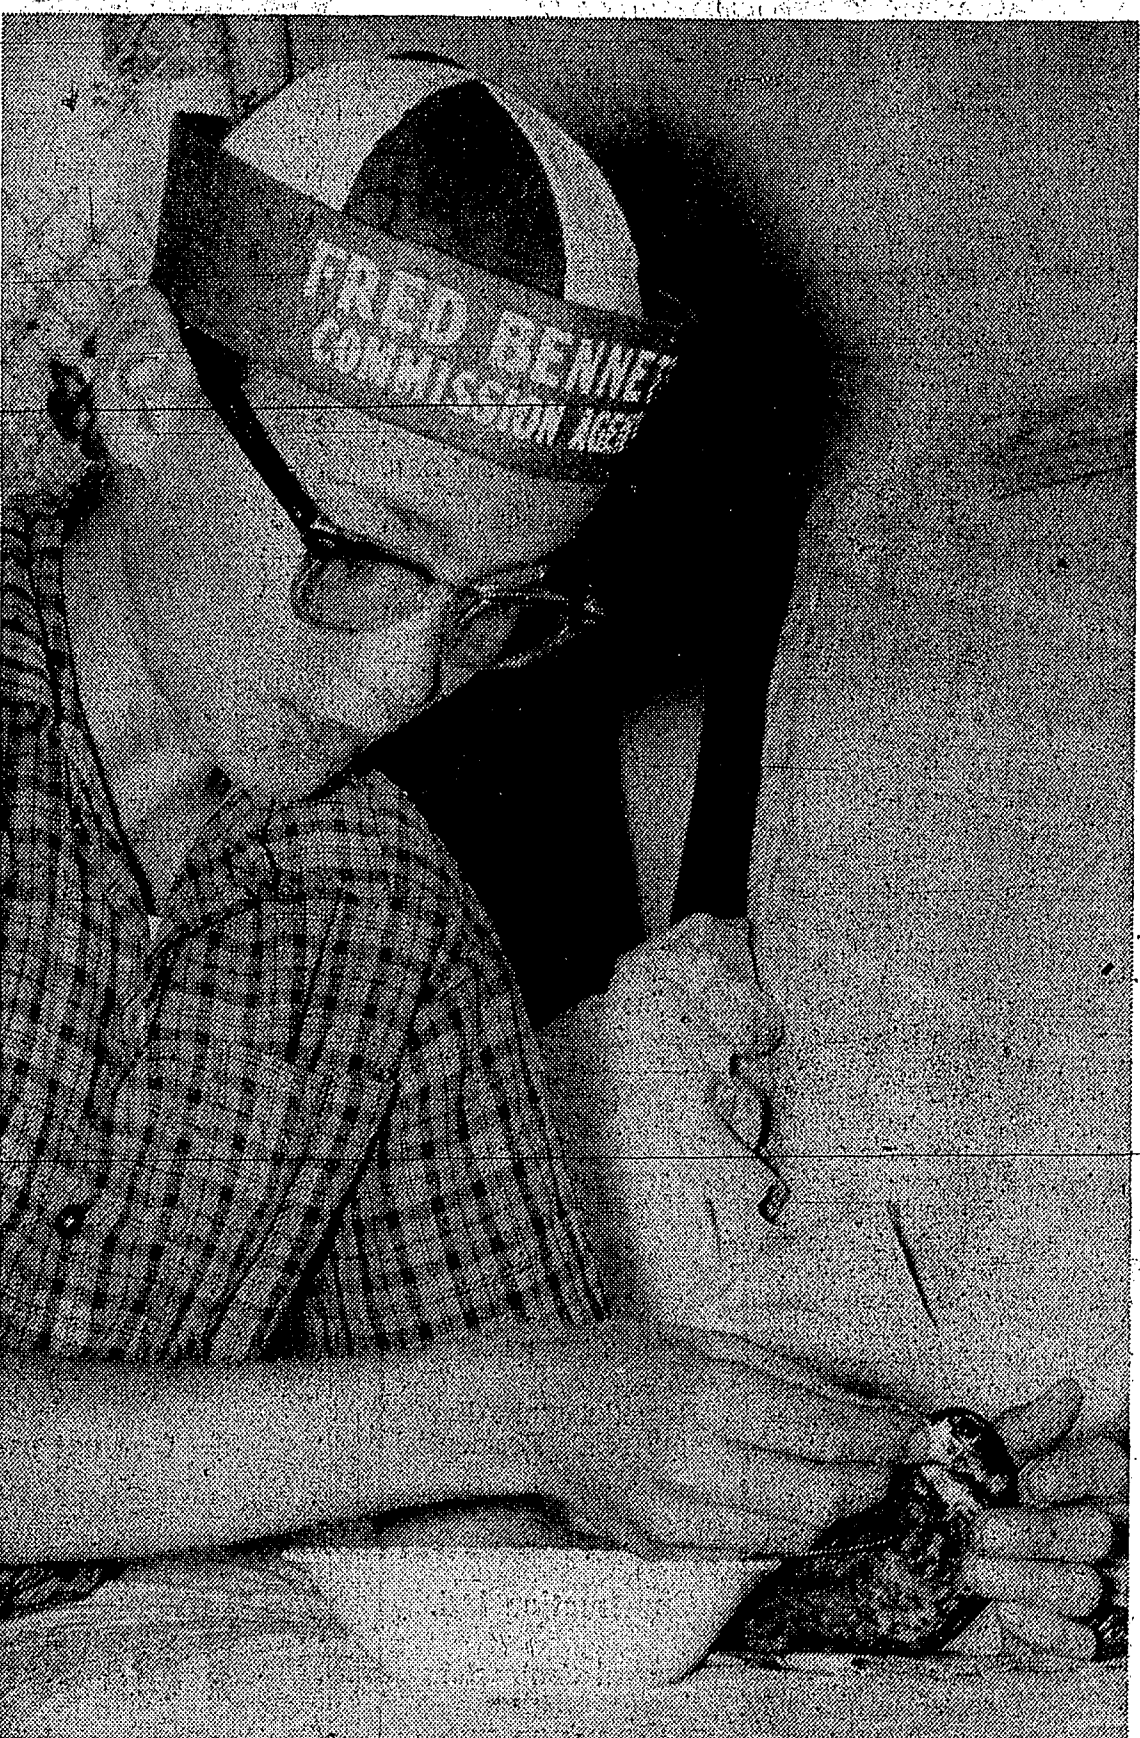

Swim tickets will be on sale at the pool, at the Royal Bank, at Mackenzie's Store, and from any of the operational committee members: Harold Bailey, Lyle Benzley, Dick Woodcock, Al

Hendrickson, Don Ross, George Lyons, Mrs. P. Millie, John Drenka and Larry Urquhart.

BRITISH EMPIRE GAMES prospect, Roger Mercier with six of the seven major trophies he has won over the past few years. The first three were won at the Fort Lewis High School Track Meet in 1961; next is the trophy for the Canadian Midget Broad Jump Record in 1959; then the Vancouver Olympic Club's All-round Athlete Trophy for the year 1961; last and most recent, the Men's aggregate trophy won July 21 at the Western Canadian Track and Field Championship meet at Brockton Oval. It was here that Roger qualified to try out in Toronto, August 5 and 6, for the B.E. Games in Australia. Another trophy he holds is that for Senior Boys' Division at Howe Sound High.

TOMMY CLUBB feeds robin which he has nurtured from days-old infancy to flying age — about three weeks. The bird now comes and goes as it wishes and is most friendly when it is hungry.

Village To Pay More For Gravel

Britannia Farewell For Organist

Mrs. C. Bradley, organist for four years at the Britannia Community Church, was bidden farewell by members of the church board and their husbands and wives at the home of A. T. Smith, July 19.

In appreciation of her faithful service she was presented with a trillight table lamp from the congregation by A. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley and Betty are moving to Ashcroft.

Owner Must Have Trades License

The price of gravel from the B. J. Keeley pit opposite the forestry station has gone up five cents per yard.

A letter to the council, July 18, stated that effective July 1 the cost per yard would be 30 cents. Most of the gravel for municipal works has come from this pit.

Commissioner Hendrickson said, though the gravel from this pit was excellent pit run gravel and packed well on road grades and fill, the village should consider a pit of its own.

Chairman Brennan summed up the commissioners' feeling saying, "We'll have to pay until we get another pit."

He instructed the clerk to ask Mr. Keeley to take out a trades licence.

MASHITER FOR ARCHIVES

Council was informed by J. S. Matthews, city archivist, that he, in conjunction with Bill Green of Brackendale, had collected considerable data on Squamish pioneer William Mashiter. Photostatic copies had been made of letters and newspaper clippings and all had been assembled in a hard covered book of which three copies had been made.

One of these books had been sent to the Provincial Archives at Victoria, one was kept by Mr. Matthews and the other is in the possession of Mr. Green. The council felt that one of these books be obtained for the village archives.

Mr. Green, who writes a weekly column on local history for The Times, said he would sell his copy to the village for $20, the price it cost him.

UNDERWATER WATER LINE

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. have asked permission to put a water supply line from the east end of the Victoria Street Main, directly across the former Mamquam river bed to their mill site.

Plans show the proposed line to be embedded 10 feet below the river bottom.

Council was dubious of the underwater line believing that a major leak go unnoticed and unintended. The mill operation does not require much water and a meter is not called for.

In lieu of a meter which would register any major loss of water through leakage, council stated that a pressure testing valve be installed on the line so that periodic checks could be made to determine if leaks had developed.

The small houses on the west side dyke will not be disturbed by the water line.

TRADE LICENCE REFUND

A refund on a $25 pedlar's licence was granted to a door-to-door photographer who found that the village had been canvassed a few weeks previously by another studio.

Council was not aware that the other studio had been here. No application for licence had been made and no queries from citizens had been received.

Co-operation of citizens in this matter was stressed by council. Every door-to-door salesman is required by municipal law to have a pedlar's licence.

Chairman Brennan said he would like to see a by-law prohibiting peddlars from operating in the village. The city of Nanaimo has such a by-law, he said.

Pemberton Hosts Squamish Guns

Members of Squamish Valley Rod and Gun Club were treated to that famous Pemberton hospitality on the weekend of July 21 as guests of the newly formed Pemberton Rod and Gun Club.

Going from Squamish were: Dick Woodcock, Ed Bishop, Len Gorsuch, Danny Thom and Jim Hurren.

On Saturday the Squamish sportsmen were taken out on the Birkenhead river for fishing and some fishing was done Sunday morning.

The main event was the trap shoot Sunday afternoon but it was preceded by a rifle shoot for a rifle won by Bishop.

This rifle had belonged to a man now deceased, who had left not many things of value. Pemberton Rod and Gun Club members fixed up his rifle and offered it as a prize in large bore rifle shooting.

Competitors paid $1 for the privilege and the money went to the man's widow.

The Squamish club hopes to host the Pemberton men sometime in the fall, though train transportation is not conducive to such a gathering. The train goes south in the evening and north in the morning so anyone coming from Pemberton Saturday and staying over Sunday would not get back to Pemberton until Monday noon.

Pemberton members are talking of holding some sort of meet in which three clubs, including Lillooet, could take part.

Rescued Robin Ready To Try Nature's Way

Three weeks ago Tommy Clubb picked up a little ball of fluff, took it home, cared for it and watched it grow rapidly into a fledgling robin ready to go back to its natural way of life.

At two weeks the tail feathers started to sprout and in just a few days were quite developed, enough for flight, but the bird, though given its freedom every day still comes back in the house to be fed occasionally and to spend the night.

Tommy, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Clubb, lives on Wilson Crescent in Squamish but was raised on a farm in Manitoba where he always had an animal pet of some sort.

He has raised wild rabbits knowing that he couldn't keep them when they got big enough and strong enough to look after themselves. He knows that he can't keep this robin and that it will leave soon so in the meantime he allows it full freedom to go when it likes.

Of course, he hopes it will continue to come back to him and it may do so for this season but he has little hope that it will remember him next year.

When he found the little bird it seemed to be only a few days old. It had fallen from the nest and escaped unnoticed by whatever marauder had taken the other nestlings.

He fed it worms at first and a bit of water given with an eye dropper. Later he added mashed egg and brown bread to the menu and as the bird right in and had a real splash-bath.

On the farm Tommy always had animal pets, lambs or dogs, and often wild rabbits. According to his mother he has an intense curiosity about animals and birds and trained his dogs to do all sorts of ingenious tricks.

The little robin is a very good house pet very careful not to soil the living quarters of his cage. With the door open he goes and comes when he likes, even begs food from the table at meal time. Now as the bird is getting older he is becoming less and less dependent on his human friends and less trusting.

This is good, says Mrs. Clubb, the way it has to be even though he hates to think of the time when his robin will no longer return.

Vol. 6, No. 30 SQUAMISH, B.C. THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1962

Thank You, Woodfibre...

Though Thanksgiving is some months away we must be thankful for small mercies while we have them.

The air in our valley has never been more crystal clear, more stimulating, more delightful.

Thank you, Woodfibre. This brief respite is appreciated.

We don't know whether or not this small prayer is directed to the right place but if, during this shutdown for overhaul, something could be done to make this blessing permanent we are certain you would be enriched ten-fold by our esteem.

We are grateful for the industry you provide in our valley and we realize that our esteem is not something that you can put in the bank but it is something that it would be awfully decent of you to consider.

Collect History...

Village council's decision to purchase historical material on pioneer William Mashiter is commendable but the man who really deserves the praise is Bill Green of Brackendale.

In his search for historical material he sought the assistance of Vancouver archivist Major Matthews who showed him the complete file on Mashiter and it was he that suggested that photostatic copies be made of all relative items.

The major knew Mashiter personally and had on file about 30 letters of correspondence as well as numerous newspaper clippings of his activities in the Squamish valley.

These he made available to Green for his research and the two men took it upon themselves to have three books of the photostats made up.

This is an excellent means of collecting scattered bits of history concerning our valley's past and one that Mr. Green intends to pursue.

It would be admirable foresight on the part of the village council and the public library if some financial encouragement were given to him for this work.

Ask Peddlers For Licence...

Citizens of the village who are pestered by peddlars would be doing themselves and the village a big favor by requesting these door-to-door salesmen to show their trades licence.

Everyone doing business in the village is required by municipal law to have a licence. The village has no way of detecting offenders unless the local householders co-operate.

Some peddlars do come to the municipal hall to enquire how they may lawfully do business. A door-to-door photographer did so a few weeks ago, asking if anyone had been around recently.

Employees at the office replied that no one had been to their knowledge. But when the man started canvassing he found that another photographer had just beat him to it.

The only hold the village has on these itinerant salesmen who accept none of the civic responsibilities of established businesses is through the trades licence.

Every citizen should make it his business to see this licence and if there is none, phone the village office.

Take Time - Be Safe...

While the tall timbers and the many varied industries which stem from them comprise the big majority of our North Howe Sound economy, we still have a considerable number active in agriculture.

Squamish and Pemberton Valleys boast of many excellent farms the products from which have been award winners at many exhibitions. So this editorial is directed to the man of the soil.

Farm Safety Week is marked from July 22 to July 28 and is designed to make those employed on the farm more safety conscious during the busy harvest season. Last year there were 42 farm deaths due to accidents in B.C. compared to 32 in 1960.

These tragedies do not include accidental deaths incurred in the farm home or on rural highways or private roads. The fatal mishaps included falls, tractor upsets, drowning and gunshot wounds.

The most hazardous months for farmers still lie ahead. And The Times urges farmers to keep safety guards in place, use safe methods when refueling tractors and farm equipment and stop moving machinery before making adjustments.

Most accidents happen when an individual takes a chance to save a little time. Please, for the sake of your family and yourself, take time to be safe.

Defensive Driving...

Traditionally the drivers of the North Howe Sound area are a careful lot with an enviable record of practically no serious accidents ever recorded. But with the influx of more and more tourists, visiting motorists, to whom the winding roads of our valley are strange, there is a very great danger of auto accidents occurring.

It won't be long, either, when citizens of Pemberton will have cars from lower mainland and points east and south speeding along the roads of their beautiful valley. If Mr. Gagliardi, our minister of highways, keeps his promise of a through road, next year should see the trickle of motorists from other lands and highways.

Now we ask ourselves, are we prepared for heavy traffic; have we the qualities of the expert driver?

To answer that, the B.C. Automobile Assoc. have drawn up a set of standards for those who wish to compare their own ability to the qualities of an expert.

The expert driver can park easily, quickly.

Can change gears efficiently, up or down.

Can travel slowly, forwards or backwards, smoothly, safely.

Does not accelerate sharply or brake suddenly unless in an emergency.

Handles his vehicle smoothly at all times and under all conditions.

Keeps both hands on the wheel except when signalling or changing gear.

Is constantly aware of all that is happening around him and keeps his eyes moving across his driving range.

Knows and observes the traffic regulations.

Knows, and applies, the rules for safe following distances.

Slows down at sundown.

Consults the rear-view mirror to assist following faster drivers.

Does not "hog" the centre line.

Gives hand signals correctly, clearly.

Practises patience.

Does not use speed as a habit.

If he has any disability, knows it and makes allowances for it.

Can handle a skid, a blowout, a sudden braking emergency.

Exercises good judgment — never takes a risk.

Appreciates the need to be especially alert where children are on or near the road.

Has the right outlook on driving because he respects the rights of other road users.

Is courteous.

Keeps his car in first-class safety condition.

Drives in harmony with his fellow motorists.

On this subject of "defensive driving" it is interesting to recall a test made a few years ago to prove how wrong the jack-rabbit driver is when he thinks that speeding is a fast way to go anywhere.

A famed Indianapolis Speedway race driver, Cliff Bergere, drove a 15-block course through a city, adhering to all traffic rules. He took 9½ minutes to travel the 15 blocks. Then, with police co-operation, he made the same route, at illegal speeds, and breaking 52 traffic rules in all to "make time".

He cut only FOUR SECONDS off his time!

Defensive driving is also summed up in this instance:

A New York taxi driver, who had driven a million miles without an accident, was asked to give a fifteen-minute talk on safe driving as part of the celebration of his record.

"It won't take me any 15 minutes to tell how to avoid accidents," the taxi driver said. "It's simple... just drive on the theory that every other driver you see is crazy."

LETTER FROM SARAWAK

All Is Not Colgate That Polishes Teeth

By Manson Toynbee

For most youngsters in Sarawak, especially those who have received some schooling, the brushing of their teeth is a task that is taken very seriously.

I have never seen Canadian youngsters clean their teeth so thoroughly as children do here.

It is not at all unusual for a Sarawakian child to devote as much as ten minutes both morning and night to the brushing of his teeth.

Yet should you mention the word "toothpaste", very few children in Sarawak would understand what you were talking about.

This is because children here don't clean their teeth with toothpaste. They use "Colgate". When you go to a shop you receive only a blank look if you ask for "toothpaste", but ask for "Colgate" and the storekeeper knows immediately what you want.

The name "Colgate", the red carton with the white lettering, and the white tube with the red lettering have become so firmly associated with the cleaning of teeth that other brands of toothpaste can hardly command any sales without stooping to deception.

Many companies, especially ones with headquarters in Hong Kong, do just this.

Thus we find toothpaste called "Calgate", "Caldent", "Col-

Pirating Is Prevalent

This pirating of trade names and packages of well-known widely-respected products is very prevalent in this part of the world.

A Japanese business concern markets "Sun Made" razors that are packaged in an identical manner to the well-known American "Sun Maid" razors.

Two or three Hong Kong commercial concerns market half dressing preparations that are intended to pass for the widely-used "Brylcreem".

The popularity of "Sunlight Soap" encourages various companies to imitate this product, while "Duz" becomes "Daz".

Numerous facsimiles of various name-brand watches and cameras are turned out in Hong Kong, some of these being so well executed that only an expert can tell them to be phony.

Even in the field of printing is copying widely practiced.

There are printers in Hong Kong and Singapore who have turned out hundreds of thousands of text-books that are faithful reproductions of books produced in England and the United States.

This sort of copying is of course illegal, but it is extremely difficult to stamp out.

Sales Through Deception

Business is highly competitive in South East Asia, and where competition by fair means doesn't produce results, foul means are used.

While large companies can generally afford to spend considerable sums of money on advertising and sales promotion, most of the smaller business concerns cannot.

Many of these small companies depend on gaining most of their sales through deception, as they are aware that without this their products would be purchased by few people.

The flouting of regulations concerned with copyrights, trade-marks and packaging may be unethical, as well as being illegal, but in this part of the world business ethics do not always seem to be regarded as being very important.

The important thing is for sales to be made, even if to do this means resorting to questionable business practices. Free enterprise is thought of as meaning not only freedom from government controls, but freedom to make us of any and every ruse that might promote sales.

History Notes

By W. Green

Early-day Mountaineering

This article deals with four separate expeditions, but more or less related. The first is an account of a trip up Furry Creek and down the Capilano River in May, 1890.

This trip was made by the following five men: A. P. Horne, R. M. Fripp, H. M. Mackay, and their Indian guides, Chief Capilano and his nephew, Joe.

The purpose of the trip was to prospect for land, which they hoped to find in the upper Capilano Valley. As they were the first whites to go over this route, they gave their names to three of its features, names which were later changed.

The creek which they went up the first two days, they called Horne Creek. The two lakes near the summit were named Fripp (Marion) Lake and Mackay (Phyllis) Lake. The expedition took a total of seven days reaching the mouth of the Capilano River, although they arose at five o'clock each morning.

It is worth mentioning, in passing, that there were two men: one of whom probably gave his name to Furry Creek. Oliver Furry was a co-discoverer of Britannia Mine in 1898, while Ira Furry was a logging operator on Howe Sound about the same time.

THE ASCENT OF THE LIONS

The western Lion was first scaled by a party comprised of Messrs. A. T. Dalton, A. D. King, and Geo. Martin on Aug. 11, 1903. It was again scaled on Labor Day, Sept. 7, 1903, by the three Latta brothers, who were the first up the eastern Lion the following day: the first to climb both Lions.

I believe it is not known by many that a close-up view of the Lions can be had from the bridge at Lions Bay, looking directly up the valley.

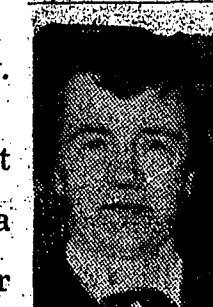

MT. GARIBALDI FIRST CLIMBED IN 1907

(From the Can. Alpine Journal, vol. 1, 1928.)

Prior to 1906, Mr. A. T. Dalton, of Vancouver, had made some short trips from the Squamish Valley along the old Pemberton Trail, and up Cheekye River toward the base of Garibaldi Mountain, and in that year a party led by him succeeded in reaching a point about two hundred feet below the peak. In 1907, a party composed of Messrs. A. T. Dalton, W. T. Dalton, Atwell D. King, T. Patterson, J. J. Torrey, and G. B. Warren, all of Vancouver, succeeded in accomplishing an ascent.

The Vancouver Mountaineering Club entered the region in 1910, and with some members of the Alpine Club of Canada, thoroughly investigated the southern approaches of Mt. Garibaldi, in succeeding seasons and made the ascents of Mts. Mamquam, (at first named Mt. Rosa), Sentinel, and Castle Towers.

The first women to scale Garibaldi were Miss E. C. Hanafin and Miss Pansy Munday of Vancouver. They reached the top on July 29, 1913. The party was led by W. A. D. Munday.

SOCIAL NOTES

by Freda Munro

Judy Wright has been visiting her grandmother in Penticton.

Bill Gosling came over from Victoria to take in the Loggers Sports and help his softball teammates win one game, lose one and tie one. Howe's that for variety?

Mrs. J. Clarke is working at the post office while regular staff workers are taking holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Griffin and their children have returned from a holiday spent in Vancouver and Garibaldi.

Mr. and Mrs. F. McRae of Lillooet were in Squamish recently; on their return home they were accompanied by his mother, Mrs. A. McRae, Sr.

Mrs. R. Wilson and her children Randy and Janice of Nelson have been visiting her sisters and their families, Mrs. A. Hendrickson and Mrs. Jim Hurren. Also visiting them from Vancouver were nieces Leslie and Maureen Edwards while their brother Ross Edwards is spending the summer working for John Hurren.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mulhern and their three young children have returned from a trip through the southern interior, Spokane and the World's Fair. Jo-anne stopped off in Nelson to visit Susan Henderson.

RECENT PUBLISHERS' RELEASES

ALL THOSE IN FAVOUR?

— by C. H. Rolph

This book is a condensed report, with an eyewitness commentary, on the recent High Court action against the Electrical Trades Union and a number of its Communist or pro-Communist leaders. The trial lasted forty days, cost over $250,000, and was generally regarded as marking a crisis in the development of British Trade Unionism.

THE FURNITURE DOCTOR

— by George Grotz

Practical information for everyone about the care, repair and refinishing of furniture with easy-to-follow directions and tricks of the trade that use commonly available materials.

ON BOARD NOAH'S ARK

— by Ludwig Bemelmans

Bemelmans appears in a new role, as yachtsman aboard his own ancient and beloved pilot boat, adventuring in Mediterranean waters. This is a narrative of true adventure in wonderfully congenial company.

ON MORAL COURAGE

— by L. Compton Mackenzie

Everyone admires physical courage but moral courage often meets with hatred and derision. In this witty and controversial book, Compton Mackenzie gives his views on the subject, drawing on the experiences of a long and eventful life.

PROPAGATING HOUSE PLANTS FOR AMATEUR AND COMMERCIAL USE

— by Arno and Irene Nehrling

Here is a book devoted exclusively to multiplying house plants. Written simply and non-technically, it helps you to understand the basic ways in which plants multiply and tells in clear detail how to increase your supply of any species.

THE VIEW FROM NO. 13 PEOPLE'S STREET

— by Aline Mosby

"No. 13 People's Street" is a large Moscow apartment house which served the author as both home and office during her tour of duty in Moscow. She tells the stories behind the stories she dispatched to the United States as reporter for the United Press International.

Here are vacation ideas for years to come. This book is not only a report on hundreds of historic sites, battlefields, towns, homes and restorations, but a fascinating explanation of their significance.

BEYOND THE URAL MOUNTAINS

— by Ivan Aramilev

In the Soviet Union, Ivan Aramilev is the most widely read of all writers of hunting tales. The best of these have been brought together and translated into English for the first time.

CREATIVE CRAFTS FOR CHILDREN

— by Mabel Early

This book covers a wide field of creative crafts for children, from elementary paper and card sculpture, to modelling and carving and from puppet and doll-making to fabric printing with potato blocks and real types.

WAMMY WAGON MARRIAGE

— by Rosemary Uwemedimo

Rosemary Howard met and fell in love with a young Nigerian lawyer. She tells the story of an Afro-European marriage with clear-sighted and disarming candour. The picture she has painted is one of the most hopeful to come out of Africa in a long while.

SOLD TO THE LADY IN THE GREEN HAT

— by Emma Bailey

America's first woman auctioneer, Emma Bailey, has written an intriguing account of her life in a field of endeavour long dominated by men. Her account of her adventures is told with high good humour.

YOUNG ARTISTS

— by Jolcey Horne

The delightful illustrations at the beginning of this book clearly demonstrate that drawing comes as naturally to children as the urge to talk and sing. To parents and teachers alike it will bring new insight and keener pleasure in the work of their budding artists.

YOUNG EUROPEANS' TRAVEL GUIDE

— by Peter Latham

Though this book is primarily written for young people of sixteen to twenty-one, many of the holiday opportunities it describes offer an exciting challenge to adults. All the countries of Western Europe are covered and every activity from archaeology to zoology.

THE BIG LAUGH

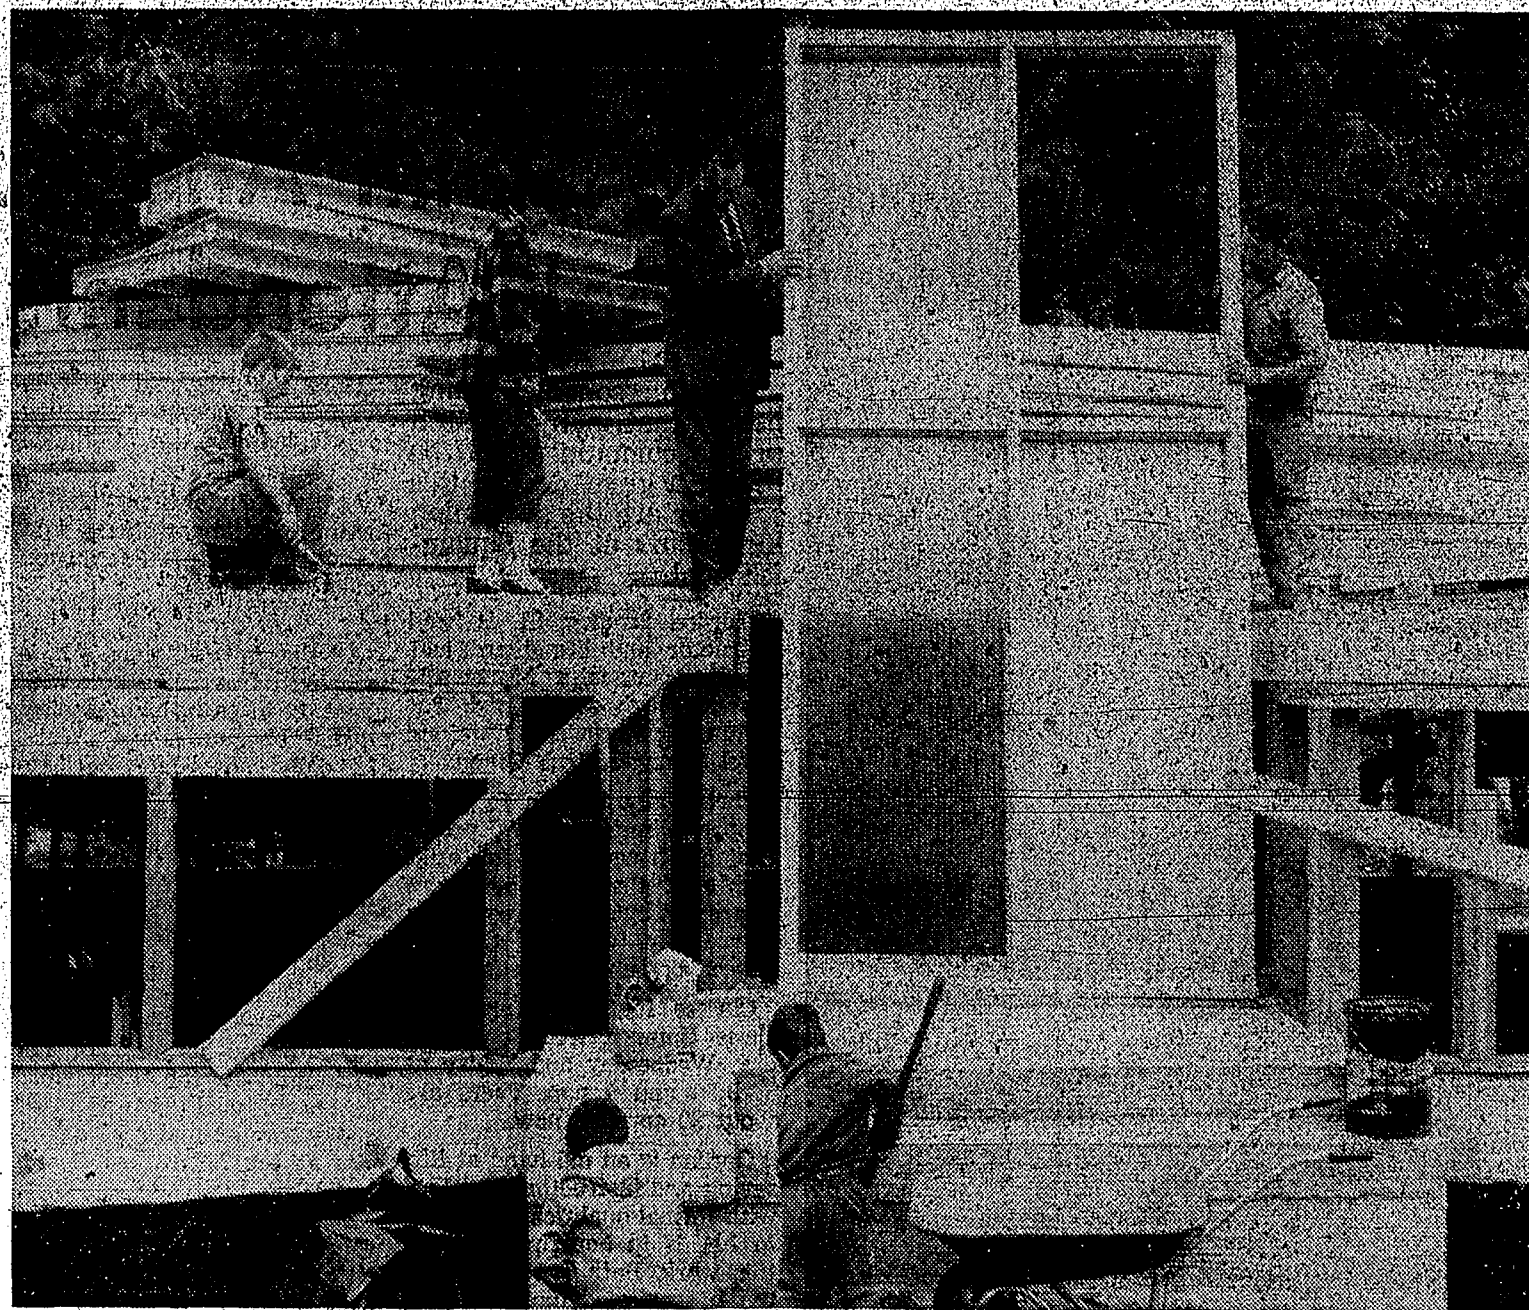

by John O'Hara

This is a story about a man who tried to be something he was not; who wasted his time and asked for and got a lot of trouble. The time is the late twenties and early thirties in the theatrical world of New York and Hollywood.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN COMMUNITY SERVICE

by Donald and Keith Monroe

A complete, practical guide for all men and women who are giving their spare time to unpaid work for the public good, through community organizations of any kind.

HOME BUILDING is a family project for the Martins, seen here working on their new house at the VLA subdivision. Down below are sons Greg and David; on main floor is another son, Doug, Mrs. Martin, Brian Poeck, lumber company agent which supplied the materials in pre-fitted panels, and father Tony. He took the VLA home builder's course at night school and is now putting what he learned to use.

Brennan's Cherokee Tass Paces To New Record And New Owners

A big, rangy colt with a Roman nose became the property of racing greenhorn Pat Brennan three years ago for $700. None of the experienced horsemen at the sale would have him, even at that price. Three years later, Cherokee Tass pushed that Roman nose around the Ladner track in record time, making his story for himself and an undisclosed four-figure sale for Brennan.

In three short seasons Cherokee rose from being the laughing stock of the Patterson Park stables to be the most respected horse there. Repeatedly handicapped in 10 starts this season he finished first in seven heats, second in two and, because of an accident, failed to finish in one.

SETS LADNER RECORD

Last Thursday, against the seven best pacers in Western Canada, Brennan drew the rail position and Cherokee kept him easily in front all the way, setting a track record, two minutes, six and four-fifths seconds for the mile. And he did it with "a notch or two to spare," said Pat.

"He is a real race horse," says Brennan. "He goes the same speed every time out. He doesn't have bad nights as some horses do and he loves competition. If I was out by myself I would have a hard time getting him to go around in 2:40."

LIKES BIG HORSES

Cherokee has come a long way in a short time. Raised on the Tass Stock Farms, Oakdale, Calif., he came north with 12 others for a sale at Ladner. It was here that Pat saw him and bought him because he likes big horses. Having just completed his first season of racing, Brennan was not considered by veteran horsemen to have made a very good choice.

He took the unbroken two-year-old home and spent most of the first two weeks trying to get a stable blanket on him. In the spring he took him out on the track at Brackendale and patiently trained him to race but midway through the first season at Ladner Cherokee "ran out of gas. . . . He would really go for the first half or three-quarters of the race and then the reins would go slack. . . . He just didn't have the stamina."

"I was pretty blue at having to bring him home in mid-season. . . . But the next year, as a four-year-old, he went from lowest position to top and was beaten out only by Pride Woolen, who set the 2:07 record last season."

COULD BE CHAMPION

"He is getting tougher every year and if nothing happens to him he could become a champion."

This will probably be decided soon. His new owners, a Vancouver syndicate, now have him at Edmonton. If his performance continues one of the next steps will be Hollywood track and from there to Chicago and New York.

The racing season at Ladner closed last Saturday. Pat had decided to bring Cherokee home for the winter. On Sunday he had a blacksmith remove his racing shoes and had him loaded in the truck ready for the trip to his Brackendale winter quarters when the Vancouver offer was made.

CHANGE OF PLANS

"We unloaded him on the spot and his new owners took him. He will now be driven by Monkman, the man who has been trying to beat him all season."

Brennan plans a trip south to Tass Farms to pick out another

KITCHEN KAPERS

— by PEG TINNEY

Very few housewives feel like spending any more time than is absolutely necessary cooking and baking during the summer months. But with the family home on holidays the cookie jar seems to empty even faster than usual.

Here are a couple of tasty sweets that are fairly quick to make and will be enjoyed at any time.

COCO-NUT CREAMS

1/2 cup cocoa
2/3 cup Eagle Brand milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups icing sugar
17 cup coarsely chopped, chopped walnuts
Sift cocoa and icing sugar together. Reserve 1/4 cup of mixture to roll creams in, and coconut together and To Borden's milk add vanilla, cocoa and sugar, blend well, add nuts. Shape into balls and roll in reserved sugar and coconut mixture. Keep cool.

in flour until crumbs are formed, then blend with hand until it forms soft dough. Press evenly into bottom of 9X9X2 pan with about 1/4 inch extending up the sides. Prick the bottom with fork. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until a crust begins to form. Remove from oven. Spread pineapple evenly over top. Blend Eagle Brand milk and coconut together and spread evenly over pineapple. Return to oven and cook 25 minutes longer. Cool and cut into 1 inch squares.

HEAVENLY PINEAPPLE SQUARES

1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sifted pastry flour
two thirds cup Eagle brand milk
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple
1 1/2 cups shredded coconut
Cream butter and sugar, mix

To Swim And To Teach, Pool Attendants' Job

Two personable young people that many children of the community will be seeing a great deal of this summer are the swimming instructors at the Squamish pool.

Gordon Bradley, 21, is head instructor and life guard and his assistant is a pretty 16-year-old high school girl, Pat Quinn, daughter of Chieftain Hotel manager, Jack Quinn.

Their daily task is to teach proper swimming to 170 people ranging in age from six to 60. Eighty of these are beginners at present, but most progress in a week or two into the advanced beginners classes.

Classes for adults are held three times a week on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday at 8, 8:30 and 9 p.m. There are about 20 enrolled now.

Gordon is an old hand at life saving and instructing and Pat, with formal qualifications equal to his, is in her first year at this work. Both are holders of the bronze medallion and bar from the Royal Life Saving Society and have their junior, intermediate and senior swimming awards from the Red Cross.

GORDON

A native of Victoria, he spent a considerable part of his youth in Nova Scotia where his dad was stationed with the RCAF. It was here at Greenwood Air Force station that he learned most of his swimming, qualifying for his senior badge at 15.

When he was sixteen his family moved to Halifax and though he was too young to get an instructor's badge, he was considered capable of teaching children and given the job, which included life saving, at a public beach on the North West Arm.

That winter he got his bronze medallion and the following summer he was appointed supervisor of a beach handling up to 5000 people a day.

The combination of hot weather, cold sea water, storms and tidal waves gave him and his crew plenty of practice in rescue work. In the winter he taught classes of underprivileged children in Halifax. It was with summer and winter jobs like these that he supported himself while going through high school.

Loggers Compete At Sooke

A number of the local loggers and their families, travelled to Sooke to take in the All Sooke Sport Day. Bruce Carson and Richard Munro entered the contests with the former winning a first and two fourths while the latter came second in the speed climb.

Bruce came first in the log chopping and fourth in the log rolling and the axe chopping. Log rolling at Sooke involves rolling a log up a ramp with a peavy.

These boys displayed their prowess before a crowd of approximately ten thousand. Among the audience were a few friends and relatives who went over to cheer them on. Attending from Squamish were Mr. and Mrs. Chris Arnet and their four eldest children, reward seems to come from Mrs. Bruce Carson with Evelyn and Bruce Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. Short by $300 in their recent drive for funds, the East Howe Sound Boy Scouts Association will make another public appeal.

Chairman Alex Sullivan reported a response from 42 people in this area for a total of $200 in the first drive.

The association's budget for Scout work has been set at $500. Donations may be sent to the association in care of the secretary-treasurer Glen Bailie.

The big one hour and 45 minute spectacular includes everything from massed bands and a human cannonball to the dazzle and noise of a colorful fireworks finale.

Nowhere in North America does a fair offering so many free attractions, also offer a topnight grandstand show for 50 cents.

A percentage of seats are available for those who care to book in advance but the bulk will be on sale at the gates for 50 cents.

32 HORSEMEN

The 32 scarlet-coated Mounties have already played to capacity audiences throughout the world. When the Ride last performed at the PNE in 1958 it was a house-full story.

These magnificent horsemen on jet-black mounts will thrill the grandstand crowds from the moment they enter into the floodlit arena until the thrilling charge that winds up their act.

DANNY SAILOR

Along with this will be performances by Danny Sailor, the world's champion logger. Danny will show his spar-climbing style that has set the world mark and then amaze with his acrobatic feats at a height of 100 feet.

The crowd will gasp as human cannonball Hugo Zacchini is hurled down the length of the Stadium from the mouth of a smoking cannon. His flash-edited body is hurled almost 90 feet in the air before he lands in a safety net.

FIREWORKS

B.C.'s own Junior Tattoo with massed brass and pipe bands, marchers, massed dancers, and a cast of hundreds will also perform.

There are other acts before the show winds up with the big fireworks display featuring aerial pieces and set pieces depicting an Indian attack on a settler's cabin.

Chess Matches At University

Arthur Bisguier, one of the top 40 chess players in the world, will visit Vancouver Tuesday, July 31, for an exhibition match against the ten best players in British Columbia.

3rd Squamish And Parents Dine Out

Cubs and parents of the 3rd Squamish Cub Pack had dinner in the parish hall, June 23.

High point of the evening was the presentation of stars for tests passed. Thanks was given to Scout Berry Kennedy for his valued assistance to the pack.

About 60 sat down to dinner of beans and spaghetti. Grace was offered by pack chaplain, the Rev. C. H. Gibbs, who also spoke to the group, as did Cub leader Marsh Hurren.

Mr. Hurren thanked the boys for again winning the Sports Day trophy. Competing packs were 1st Squamish, 2nd Squamish, Brackendale and Britannia.

Games were played and movies were shown of the activities of 3rd Squamish Pack over the past three years.

The match will be played from 7:30 to 12 p.m. in International House at the University of British Columbia. Bisguier, who holds the coveted chess title of grand master, will play all ten local players at once.

Bisguier, 32, is an employee of International Business Machines in New York. He has competed in most of the world's major chess tournaments.

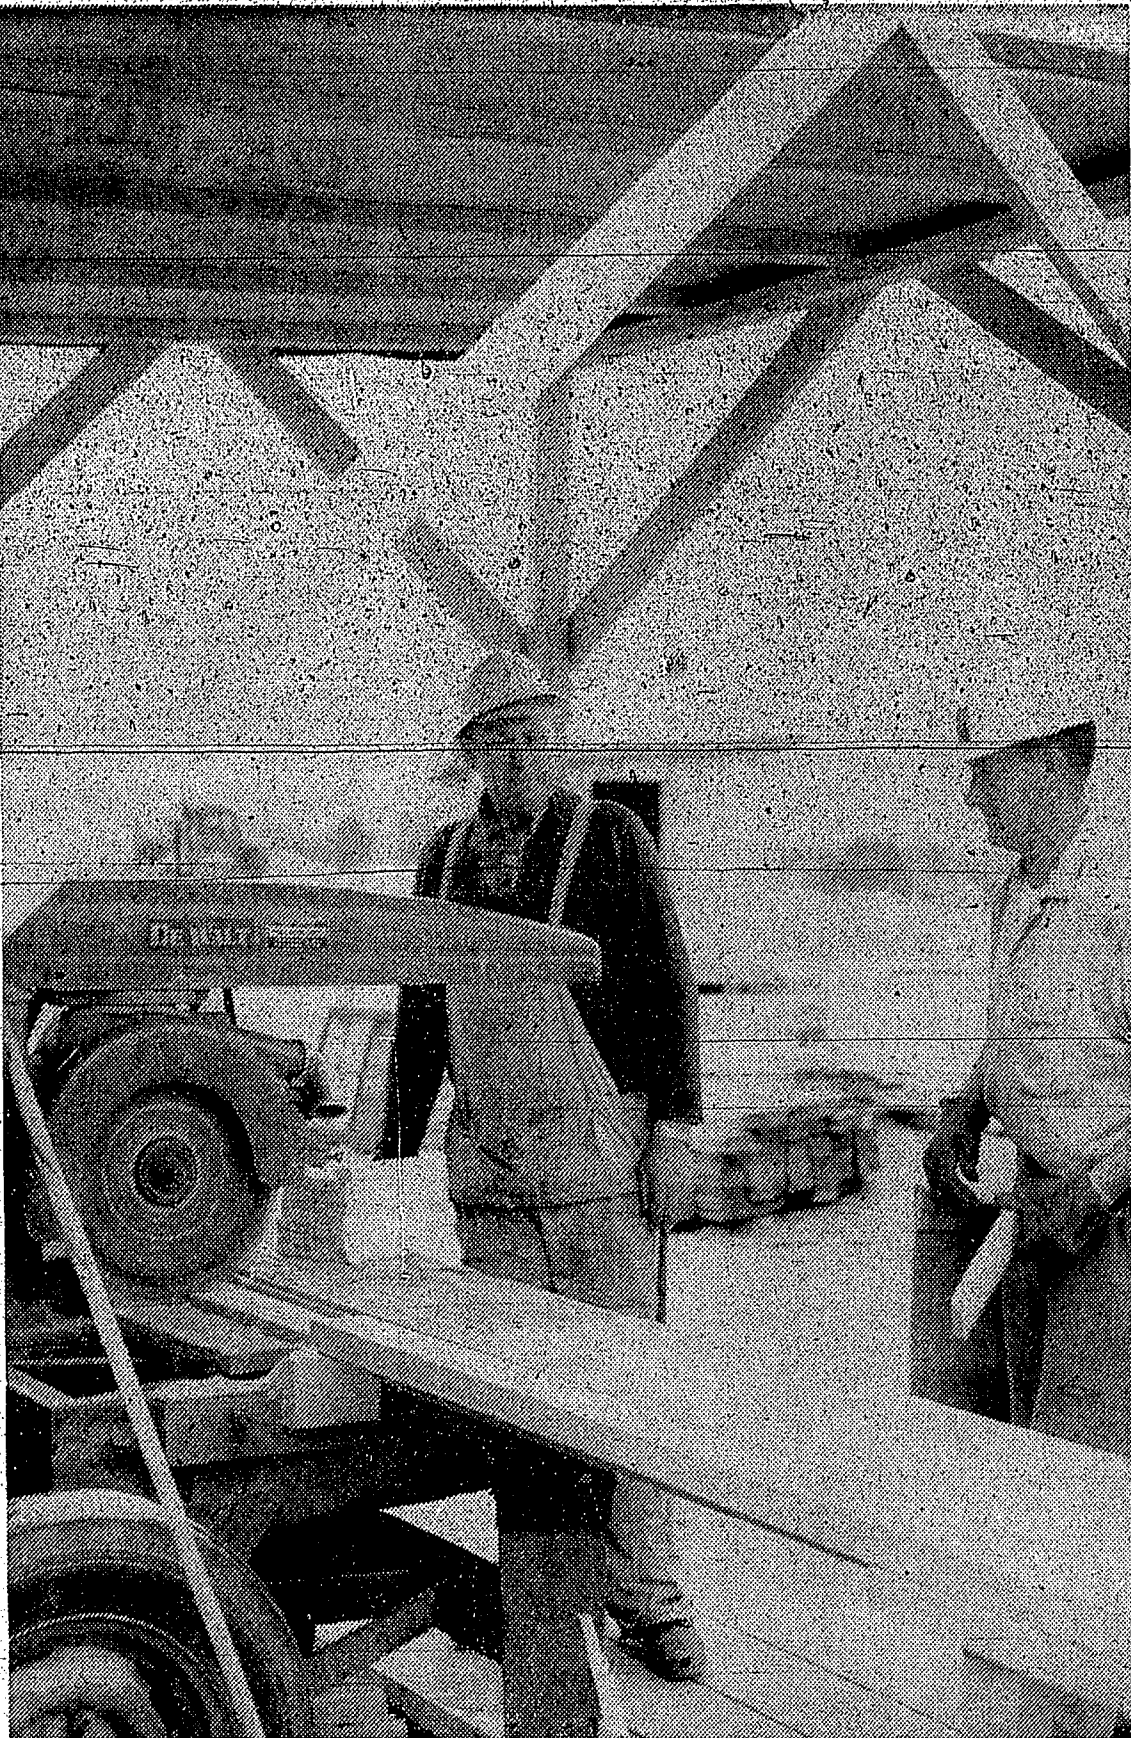

Among the Vancouver players who will oppose Bisguier are Elod Macskasy, assistant professor of mathematics at UBC and present chess champion of B.C.; Dr. Nathan Divinsky, associate professor of mathematics at UBC and editor of Canadian Chess Chat, official organ of the Canadian Chess Federation; Mr. John Prentice, president of the Canadian Chess Federation, and 16-year-old high school student Duncan Suttles.

The match is sponsored by the B.C. Chess Federation and has been arranged by Dr. Divinsky. The public is invited to attend.
