Barbara Campbell Dies In Train-Car Accident

Former resident of Squamish, Barbara Campbell, 13, died in a level crossing accident on Labor Day weekend, along with her aunt, Jean Campbell, 51, and a lady from Calgary. The accident occurred about 70 miles east of McBride.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Campbell who lived until last July in Squamish where he was principal of Howe Sound High School. They now live in McBride.

Barbara's sister, Shirley, 15, escaped with a broken arm and lacerations.

W. W. Baldry:

First Term Views Of New Principal

W. W. Baldry, new principal of Howe Sound Secondary School and a teacher for 15 of his 36 years, expects a good year this term.

"The staff is mostly new, young and enthusiastic," he says, "and my intention is to weld it into a good working unit."

"There is a lot of interest among the new teachers. Every one has been in to look over the school and the community before starting classes, while in some places I have been new teachers often do not arrive until school starts."

With the good working unit he intends to build, Mr. Baldry aims to get the most scholastically out of each individual student and to give them the best education they, the teachers and the school are capable of.

He sees two factors, supplementary to actual teaching, which will be of great importance if this goal is to be attained. They are careful counselling to guide the student along the educational path most suited to his ability, and community co-operation, through which a knowledge of the community's need will be considered in the education of students to best fit them to become useful citizens.

Mr. Baldry is a firm supporter of the P.T.A., not necessarily in the ritualistic and meandering social get-together it sometimes becomes, but as a vital force linking the parents with the education of their children.

Community co-operation will be sought among the industries and businesses of the area to find out the kind of graduate they can employ and to acquaint them with the educational capabilities of the school.

It is inevitable that, in a school this size, there are certain limitations, but we are opening up all avenues of education possible, says Mr. Baldry. However, he finds the high school generally well equipped for a school of its size.

Mr. Baldry was vice-principal last year of a junior high school at Prince Rupert with 700 students. Before that he was principal of an elementary school at Campbell River for nine years and prior to that he taught five years at Rossland.

He is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Linda Mitchell Honored

Linda Mitchell was presented with a Hymnary at the morning service in Squamish United Church on Sunday, September 2.

In making the presentation, Mrs. F. Munro drew attention to the work Linda has done within the church. She received all her Sunday School training locally and then sang with the Junior Choir for a number of years. Just three years ago she became one of the Squamish United Church's regular organists.

Last May Linda received the McMillan Bloedel and Powell River Company's University Scholarship for the Howe Sound district in recognition of her high scholastic standing. She will leave shortly to enter UBC.

The presentation from the Squamish United Church congregation was a token of appreciation of her continuing interest and work with the church. She is the daughter of Mrs. Erma Mitchell and the late A. F. Mitchell.

Complete Service Offered

A new business enterprise for Squamish offering complete building service, will open next week with office and showroom in the former Shell Building at the corner of Cleveland and Winnipeg.

Plumbing, heating, electrical and building contracting will be offered by Darcy Ayles, his son Roger, and associates.

The Ayles have been in business in Burnaby and Vancouver since 1936 and have a branch office at Gibsons. Their firm is Aberdeen Gas & Oil Company.

Band Music And Helicopter Rides

Free transportation will take fair-goers to Paradise Valley for the Squamish Fall Fair next Saturday. Pick-ups will be on the hour, starting at 1:30 p.m. from the Chevron station at the corner of Pemberton and Cleveland.

Also free will be entertainment by the 76-member West Vancouver Boys and Girls Band, recently back from winning honors at the Calgary Stampede.

HELICOPTER RIDES

Another attraction will be helicopter rides with a charge of so much per minute. Thunderbird Helicopters of North Vancouver will be on the grounds in the morning as well as the afternoon.

The Squamish Lions, handling concessions, expect to have pony rides and trout fish ponds as well as other attractions.

As stated previously, exhibitors may bring entries to the vacant store, next to Squamish New and Used, on Friday and those up the valley can have their's picked up at Axen's.

Admission to the fair is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Tickets at the gate will be numbered and the lucky one will win the door prize.

Fair planners and organizers are enthusiastically looking forward to the biggest and best Fall Fair in Squamish history. They ask exhibitors to check their books for any changes in entries. A few prize lists are still available.

LATE ENTRY

A late entry under the cooking section has come in. Nabob Products offers two hampers, one valued at $3 and the other at $2, for the most original product made with peanut butter. Included must be the recipe and the peanut butter jar.

Call Mrs. F. P. Flack or Mrs. J. Jardine for further information.

Puttkamer Enlarges Restaurant

Quick response to the deluge of Labor Day weekend tourists is forthcoming from Paradise Valley where additional restaurant space will be ready for the weekend of September 8.

Proprietor J. V. Puttkamer is extending the glassed-in section to include the open patio along the wall opposite the entrance.

Triple Birthday Celebration

Three birthdays in the family of Mr. and Mrs. E. Aldridge were the occasion for Open House at their home on Saturday evening August 25. During the weekend birthdays were celebrated by Mrs. Aldridge's of Vancouver and Mrs. J. Ardette of Port Moody as well as Terry Aldridge.

Some seventy guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge during the evening. Those from out-of-town included Mr. and Mrs. Audette and sons Raymond and Eddie of Port Moody, Mrs. Frances Pearce and daughter Mavis of Vancouver, Mrs. J. Gulewich of Ladysmith and Sonny Davis of Prince George.

Times' Editorials Win 2nd Place Cross-Canada

Thirty three weeklies gained national recognition in newspaper publishing at the recent convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association in Winnipeg. The Times came second for best editorial page in the under 1000 circulation class.

The Oakville (Ont.) Journal repeated its 1961 triumph in again taking the Mason Trophy for the best all-round weekly newspaper in the largest circulation class (3000 and over).

Second place in the Mason Trophy event went to the Trenton (Ont.) Trentonian. The Abbotsford (B.C.) News was third.

The Milton (Ont.) Canadian Champion won the competition for the best all-round weekly in the 2001 and 3000 class. The Quesnel (B.C.) Cariboo Observer was second and the Williams Lake (B.C.) Tribune was third.

Top honor as the best all-round weekly in the 1001 to 2000 class was won by the Elliott Lake (Ont.) Standard. The Campbell River (B.C.) Courier was second and the Ladner (B.C.) Optimist was third.

Best all-round weekly in the 1000 and under circulation section was the Nanton (Alta) News, followed in second place by the Hinton (Alta) Herald, with the Winkler (Man.) Pembina Triangle Progress third.

Summary of the results show Ontario took 24 of the 55 awards; British Columbia, 17; Alberta, six; Manitoba, five; Saskatchewan, two, and Quebec, one.

81 Awards Cap Swim Season

Bright sunshine and bright faces were the order of the day as the Squamish Swimming Classes held their final exams, August 28.

Both the water and the weather were fine for the closing exercises.

A total of 23 swimmers won Junior, Intermediate and Senior Red Cross awards. Thirty students were enrolled in these classes.

Fifty-eight children won their beginner swim awards. A total of seventy children were enrolled in these classes.

Miss Judy Jack of Vancouver, a university student at UBC, was the Red Cross examiner in charge.

Miss Jack stated that the Squamish swimming pool was in an ideal surrounding and that the people of Squamish should be congratulated on their community spirit in building it.

Examinations continued from 9 in the morning to 12 noon. At 2 o'clock Mr. Evan Mac-Donald presented the Red Cross awards to the successful candidates (see pic.). He is president of Squamish Recreational Committee.

Winner of the Canadian Senior Red Cross Award was David Morris, 14, of Squamish.

Winners of the Canadian Intermediate Red Cross Award were Carl Green, 14, Spencer Hinde, 14, Linda Lush, 15, Jacqueline Buffrey, 14, Judy Fenton, 14, Grant Dawson, 16, Colin Chapman, 13, and Carol Fenton, 13.

LEADING ACTOR in the show is crane operator with hand poised to make huge machine respond to signals from workmen above.

Goodbye To "Number Please...?"

Squamish Valley, in the same quiet, efficient manner as Pemberton Valley did two years ago, will convert to dial phone. September 9 is the "Goodbye" day to "Hello, Number Please."

"Who is going to do the work?" This question asked by a retired telephone operator when she read about the new dial system sums up the attitude of services performed in modern society.

Our former operator was not alone in questioning to what extent human agency was still being employed in the common task of placing a phone call. She and her successors have played a useful and even vital role in serving and maintaining community life in Squamish and in preserving the community's links with neighboring and distant communities.

The telephone has been the centre-piece of her life and now, even in Squamish, it has become "cited."

The new telephone exchange is a sight to behold. High rows of metal equipment composed of hundreds of small units would mystify anyone on Cleveland Street.

But without going into the voluminous writings on the wonders of micro-miniaturization and automation, we can do no better this first week of the dial telephone system and its direct-distance dialing than to pause to offer a warm and sincere "Thank You" to all the former operators who have served us over the years.

As they are, we are mystified by the fandango of modern contraptions. As they are, we have more than a strong hunch the latest aids are not the last on the list of wonders from the laboratories of science.

However, like them also, we reserve the right to put man himself in first place, forever and a day, as the most wonderfully complex and puzzling of all "Critters" we are likely to come across this side of eternity.

But good luck to automation and a special thanks to the B.C. Telephone Co. for the new innovations of dial phone.

Turn Left Only When Confused...

In his most delightful current best seller, "Travels With Charley" — available in our famous Memorial Library — author John Steinbeck writes this succulent literary gem:

"Now for the first time I became aware that each state had its individual prose style, made sharply evident in its highway signs. . . . New England states use a terse form of instruction. . . . New York state shouts at you the whole time. . . . Some states use a turgid style which can get you lost with the greatest ease."

Lost, yes — and clobbered, too. Like our highway sign on the Upper Levels highway which combines the turgid with a sort of Old English prose that is very typical: "Yield."

Things Are Not Bad; They're Good...

If we look back over the past year we recall that despite certain definitely bad reactions to the expropriation of B.C. Electric by the Provincial Government last August, the business community of this Province, viewed the future with confidence and with optimistic expectation that the coming year would bring with it a continued up-surge in the economy.

By late Spring of the year, however, the rush of political events at the national level, the stock market crash, and, following the national election, the rapid sequence of fiscal and financial developments, both nationally and provincially, had so clouded and confused many of our minds that, in some measure, confidence had been replaced by uncertainty, and optimism by anxious gloom. Nor has this state of mind been improved or brightened, by the crusading antics of certain important elements of the press, which are frankly and emphatically dedicated to the destruction of the government now in office, and which (as a prelude apparently deemed justifiable as well as necessary thereto) openly, deliberately and continuously incite distrust and fear of the existing order of things.

In the face of this situation, and in the light of these circumstances, there could have been no surprise if, economically, things had gone to pot. But they haven't. Contrary to what might have been expected by those who rely upon the major newspapers for guidance, most of the conventionally accepted indices of economic vigor tell us that, as of now, things are not bad; they're good.

That this is so is a reminder that a sound economy, despite its complexity and the delicacy of adjustment of its many components, is nowhere nearly so fragile as some may believe. It is also a comforting reminder that the merchants of political bias and malice are not notably successful in selling their views to the responsible elements of the business world when those views do not square with fact and truth. We can be grateful for the evidence that the composite judgment and wisdom of our business leaders cannot be as easily distorted as can the elements of fact and truth.

This is not to suggest that such psychological influences as uncertainty, anxiety and fear are not important economic factors. Nor is it to suggest that distortions of fact and truth cannot ever be successfully disseminated and nurtured into acceptance in a significant degree. The lessons of history are clear in this regard. In the field of economics, probably no single factor is more important than the element of confidence. Destroy this and, likely, you destroy all.

Because this is so, it is clear that a very heavy burden of responsibility rests upon the shoulders of the press, and other opinion makers, to exercise the greatest care and wisdom in their political fulminations lest they seriously damage the economic well-being of the Province in the process. The extent to which this measure of responsibility has not been accepted and discharged, there has been culpability and criticism has been earned.

Henry Judd's Letters From Diary

"My hand commences to mend. Snow comes during the night but goes away with the rain.

Nov. 25. Wood and Creolman are getting quite a clearing of the wet weather continues. My hand is still being carried in a sling. Have seen lots of deer tracks, but I've not sighted the deer yet.

Dec. 5. Mr. Creolman becomes quite ill. Four canoes of Indians go down the river.

Dec. 9. Six inches of snow. Two more canoes of Indians go down.

Dec. 14. The men are putting another day on the claim above us. It is a mile up the river. This has been my busiest day. I bake bread, cook dinner and carry it up to the men who are working on Robson's claim. We eat dinner in the snow around the camp-fire.

Dec. 15. Sunday. Our dinner is down to hardpan. Our bill-of-fare consists of bread, butter, pork-and-beans and tea. I set a trap and catch an otter. We discuss the best way to get down river without Indians, who have abandoned us to our fate. We cannot agree to any one plan that is proposed.

Dec. 16. Snowing, Mr. Wood and Mr. Creolman adopt my plan for getting down the river and we commence building a canoe: that is a dugout built on fine lines. We hear trees falling in the night and one would think a battle was on.

Dec. 17. Our provisions consist of fifteen pounds of flour, one pound of beans, three pounds of pork, also tea without milk or sugar. I use salt and butter for substitute for the last two. It is a tough look-out,

W. "Bill" Green is a Brackendale resident who began a search for the truth in our local history because I found most references to it in contemporary publications were not correct."

He began writing this weekly series for The Times on April 19, 1962.

He is still collecting historical material and welcomes it from any reliable source.

considering we are fifty miles from civilization. We expect to launch our canoe in the morning.

Dec. 18. Raining all day and the canoe begins to take shape. We have her all ready for launching tomorrow.

Dec. 19. We start down the river at daylight and canoe all the way to Vancouver.

THE JUDD RANCH

It was on March 7th the following year when Henry Judd returned to the valley along with Ed. Baynes, Bert Chrysler and Mr. Drummond: All were just twenty year of age that spring. The group were working on their claims: Henry Judd on the present Judd Ranch, Ed. Baynes on Baynes Island in the Squamish River and Drummond further down river. (He sold to Tom Read the next year.) They returned to Vancouver in the middle of May.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Times, Sir:

I read with interest your editorial of August 16 (TV Is A Great Educator, Isn't It . . . ?) in which you recounted the violence shown on television during children's viewing hours in Los Angeles. Heading the list were 144 murders, 143 attempted murders, and assorted druggings, muggings, kidnappings and torturings — a total of 441 items of violence in a single week, and all before 9 p.m.

Appropriate programming for the family is a serious consideration at CBC, so as a matter of interest, I took the CBC Times for the week of your editorial and checked possible violence before 9 p.m. on CBUT, Channel 2.

I thought the result would interest you. In the whole week, there were only seven programs before 9 p.m. that entailed any violence. Here they are:

—Saturday, 4 p.m. — William Boyd as "Hopalong Cassidy"; 7:30 p.m., the BBC film series "Sir Francis Drake".

—Sunday, none.

Monday, 4 p.m. the BBC film series "Sir Lancelot".

—Tuesday, 4:30 p.m., the children's adventure series, "The Buccaneer"; 7 p.m. "Bunco": a series made in co-operation with the Vancouver police and the Better Business Bureau, exposing fraud schemes.

—Wednesday, none.

Thursday, 4:30 p.m., "Sir Lancelot" again.

—Friday, none.

In the same period CBC-TV presented during the children's viewing hours among other programs:

A real-life nature film on Africa; the scientific side of agriculture; a film from Chilliwack; a documentary on the Canadian Navy; film reports on off-the-beaten-track places around the world; comedy; the news documentary "CBC Newsmagazine"; variety; a program on Canadian glaciers and how they develop; a real-life documentary adventure series; an illustration of Canadian courts in action ("A Case for the Court"); film of vacation spots in Saskatchewan and Manitoba; a young Canadian ventriloquist; swimming film and instruction in lifesaving; a marine biology feature series; a report on Tanganyika a few months after independence; a visit to the Swedish embassy in Ottawa; a film about a zoo veterinarian; a circus from New Brunswick; photography tips; a film of the historic Ripple Rock blast; a report on the history and training of hunting dogs; more than a dozen music shows; four cartoon features; and regular news and sports reports.

I think you'll agree that this is the more balanced programming your editorial calls for; certainly we share your concern that the educational potential of television should not be wasted in follow-the-leader trends of violence.

It is welcome to find support for serious and intelligent TV programming in the community press.

Yours truly,
RON GRAY, Publicity Editor,
Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

THIS QUEER looking fish washed up on a Squamish beach is commonly called a skate and is a relative of the shark family, according to an encyclopedia. It is a bottom feeder and its

Mrs. Axen Takes Prizes For Honey At PNE

A cold wet summer is not the best for producing prize-winning honey, according to Mrs. Eric Axen of Brackendale, who won only one first for her entries at the PNE.

She took first for amber honey, fourth for white, third for golden, third for granulated, and third for beeswax.

This list was not available for last week's publication in which Mrs. Axen's accomplishments in home arts were listed.

$300,000 Renovation Phone System Becomes Modern

At one minute past midnight, Sunday (September 9), the British Columbia Telephone Company will place Squamish's new $300,000 dial telephone system in service.

At the same time, the Howe Sound community's new seven-digit telephone numbers will become effective, and Direct Dialing, the modern and faster way of making continent-wide station-to-station, long distance calls, will be inaugurated.

Also coincident with the changeover of Squamish's 70 magneto crank-type telephones to dial instruments, Vancouver will replace Squamish as the long distance centre for Squamish, Pemberton and Britannia.

As a result of this change, Vancouver will handle all calls requiring the services of an operator, in addition to providing the DDD—Direct Distance Dialing—service.

Automatic telephone service and seven-digit numbering will establish Squamish, Pemberton and Britannia as dialable points for the 52,000 telephones in Canada and the United States which now have access to DDD machinery.

The new telephone numbers, special service codes and instructions on direct distance dialing are contained in the new Howe Sound and Sechelt Peninsula telephone directory.

United Church Sunday School

Sunday School enrolment at Squamish United is expected to reach 225 this fall with a staff of 30 teachers to give instruction.

Reopening September 9 with five separate departments, the Sunday School will serve children ranging in age from three to 16.

There is no change in schedules from last year. Classes will meet in the same places and at the same times.

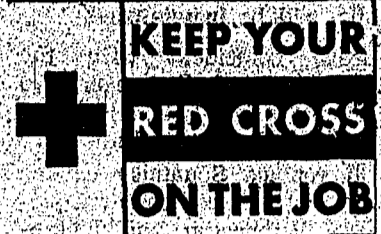

The new Christian Education Centre, which would bring all the Sunday School to one building, may be started this fall.

Approval of the United Church Board of Home Missions is awaited and expected later this month.

Results of last June's building fund campaign were very good and the congregation has approved plans for securing loans.

If approval is forthcoming from the Board of Home Missions, which meets later this month in Toronto, tenders will be called so that construction may begin as soon as possible.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL MACKENZIE

Fall Wedding For Paul Mackenzie & Kolly Helgason

St. Joseph's Catholic Church was decorated with white gladiolas for the wedding of Alistair Paul Mackenzie and Karolina Borg Helgason at 12 noon, August 25. The Rev. O. F. Sorel officiated.

The groom is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mackenzie and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Helgason.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess-line white brocade gown with satin flowers around the waist to hemline in back. Her fingertip veil fell from a pearl crown and she carried pink rosebuds. Her jewellery was a necklace of pearls, a gift of the groom. In her bouquet was a spray of white heather brought from Scotland by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Powell.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. W. Brynson, Mrs. H. Guy, Mrs. C. Patterson and Miss Helga Helgason. They wore gowns of gold tissue nylon over taffeta and gold net head-dresses with roses. Their flowers were white gladiolas.

Assisting the groom were his brother, Campbell Mackenzie, best man, and ushers Gary Hendrickson, Richard Munro and Donald Behrner.

The bride's going away party for a honeymoon in California and Nevada was a brown worsted suit with ranch mink collar and accessories in beige.

Soloist at the church was the groom's cousin, Wallace Henderson of Burnaby, and the organist was Mrs. Whitehead of Squamish.

Hundreds of guests gathered for the reception in the Mackenzies' garden in the afternoon and in the evening for dancing at St. John's Parish Hall.

Toastmaster at the reception was Don Kirkwood of Squamish and the toast to the bride was proposed by alderman Frank Fredrickson of Vancouver.

Telegrams were read from Iceland, the bride's former home, Williams Lake, and California. The bride's sister, Mrs. Grettir Bjornsson, phoned the newlyweds from Iceland after the ceremony.

The young couple will live on Third Avenue in Squamish.

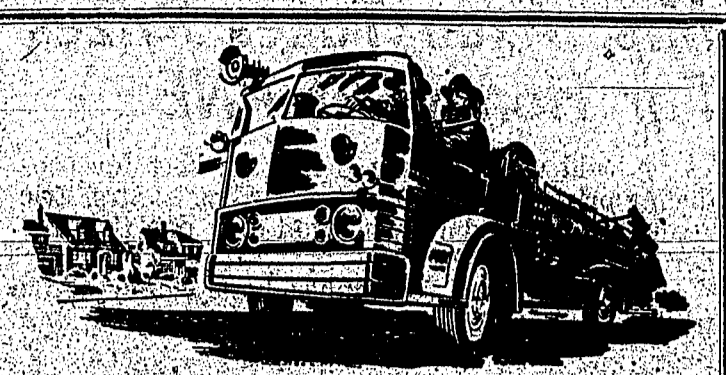

Out of town guests at their wedding were too numerous to mention.

Christenings In Two Families

The families of Mr. and Mrs. J. Chapman and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanderson held a joint christening for four of their children on Sunday, Sept. 2. The ceremony took place in the Squamish United Church with Rev. N. J. Penrose officiating.

The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chapman received the christening tea was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanderson. Special guests were bestowed upon their year-old daughter. Sponsors for James were Mr. and Mrs. G. Barone, mother of the Chapman child, while Miss Heather Isbell and Murray Isbell of Transcona are Bonnie's godparents.

Sponsors for the children of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sanderson were Mrs. E. Klontz and W. Smith. Dawn Lynn were the names given to the three-year-old daughter while her year-old sister was named Laura Lee. Following the service and Zelda.

★ SQUAMISH TELEPHONES GO DIAL

1. All Squamish telephone numbers will be changed. The new numbers will begin with the prefix "892", followed by four other figures. A typical number will be "892-1234".
2. To make local calls, dial all seven figures. The assistance of an operator is not required.
3. Consult your new telephone directory for correct numbers and instructions, including new police and fire emergency numbers.
4. Special Service Numbers:

Dial "O" (Operator) for Assistance and Long Distance
Dial "113" for Information
Dial "114" for Repair Service

★ ALL NUMBER CALLING FOR PEMBERTON AND BRITANNIA

All Pemberton and Britannia telephone numbers will have new prefixes. Pemberton numbers will begin with the prefix "894", Britannia numbers with the prefix "896". In both exchanges the last four digits remain unchanged.

To make local calls, dial all seven figures. Consult your new telephone directory for correct numbers, including police and fire emergency numbers.

Important Note for SQUAMISH Subscribers

At the time of the conversion — 12:01 a.m. on Sunday, September 9 — Squamish subscribers should cut with a pair of scissors the wire, marked with a tag, connecting their old telephone to their new dial instrument. They will then be able to dial other subscribers directly.

A Change Of Lanes Could Change Game

by Bert Garside and Jim Houli
 Almost every bowler has noticed that there are some nights when everything goes just right. No matter what you do, the pins keep tumbling down. Then, there are those other nights — when all that your ball seems able to do is pick out the headpin, or else veer off from it with frustrating perversity.

the amount of "break" on your ball. Some lanes will always cause a ball to break to the right, or left. A lane that has been freshly dressed may hardly "work" the ball at all. You simply can't throw a hook or back-up ball on it.

Then a few nights later, when the surface finish has been slightly worn, the same lane will give your ball a good, wide break.

Expert bowlers will often roll

Perhaps you have noticed that the eggs of birds that cover their nests during a temporary absence or are naturally concealed or hidden from view by darkness or vegetation are usually white, while species that nest more or less in the open generally lay coloured or mottled eggs which are not so likely to be seen from above by prying eyes.

You have to be really expert before you start taking account of the different action your ball will have between one lane and the next. But, even amateur bowlers should at least be aware that these differences do exist. They make handy excuses, too.

Most common difference you may notice between lanes is
