Underground fire in mine at Britannia Beach

Sketchy reports indicate at press time, December 11, that the fire in the copper mine at Britannia Beach was still burning.

No specific information was available except that the fire was on the 4600-foot level and probably started early Monday morning because the Sunday graveyard shift in another section reported smelling smoke.

The Howe Sound Company men are sealing off the area to snuff out the fire.

At every level

More incentives for top students

As long as the number of students graduating from the Howe Sound High School was small the three or four available scholarships appeared sufficient; more recently the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company added two very substantial awards.

In view of the very rapid growth of the high school population and the greater number of students completing Grade 12, more scholarships of every type as well as at every level are being sought by the scholarship committee.

In ten years the number of graduates has increased over 400 percent.

LETTERS TO LOCAL FIRMS

Realizing the need of a drive for funds or gifts to encourage good students, the Scholarship Committee of the Howe Sound Secondary PTA has sent out letters to all local firms and organizations asking for their support in this endeavour.

The proposed outline of awards and scholarships is wide and varied.

● Top academic students at each grade level would receive an award as well as at the terminal Grade 12 level.

● A bursary fund would be set up to assist deserving students who are financially unable to continue their studies.

- For students who excel in school activities while maintaining good scholastic marks there would be citizenship awards and recognition would be given to those who are outstanding in special fields.
- To the top athletes would be given crests or pins at the lower level but cash scholarships could be made available to a Grade 12 student of high athletic ability who also has a good scholastic record. This would help such a student to carry on further studies at an advanced training institution.

It must be made clear that, except at the Grade 12 level, these awards would take the form of trophies, crests or pins and thus would not involve too great an amount of money.

Scholarships and bursaries are proposed only for those students who are proceeding to further studies from Grade 12.

NEXT WEEK: The Student Assistance Fund.

Council protests blocked crossing by PGE train

A PGE train, which is claimed to have held up traffic for 17 minutes at Castle's crossing in the village, has brought a protest from the Squamish council.

The council, fearful of an ambulance or fire emergency call being blocked by a train, have asked general manager J. Broadbent to limit such stoppages.

SUNSHINE brings the children out, these two with Debbie Franson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Franson, who own the surrey, and Linda Theriault.

PGE houses going

Two PGE houses at Castle's crossing, one a duplex and the other a single dwelling, have been sold to Squamish people.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Clubb have bought the smaller one and will move it to a lot on Second Avenue, south of Main Street. They intend to use it for their home.

Robert Stammers has the duplex and is moving it to a lot across the street from Clubb's. He plans to rent it.

The village is negotiating to obtain this commercially zoned land from the railway company in order to extend Second Avenue through to Cleveland Avenue to provide another route in and out of downtown.

Anti-smell group ask gov't help

A delegation from the Woodfibre Smell Committee was in Victoria, December 5, to seek government assistance in their fight to free their communities from this nuisance.

John Menzies, chairman West Vancouver, and Alistair MacKenzie, Squamish, saw deputy attorney general Dr. Kennedy and the Hon. Ray Williston.

TAKE TO UBCM

It was suggested that the committee take their problem to the UBCM, Union of British Columbia Municipalities, which in turn could present a resolution to the government asking for air pollution control throughout the province.

The following morning, along with J. V. Puttkamer of Paradise Valley, they met in Vancouver with Breitenbach, president of Rayonier Canada, the company that owns Woodfibre, and Draeseke, the executive secretary.

The company officials seem willing to talk about this matter but are reluctant to admit responsibility for the smell, especially to West Vancouver, or to say what they will do about it.

NO PROOF YET

They claim that no one has

Phoenix rises

Earl McDougall's Phoenix heating service is moving up in the world to one of the highest jobs in the country: an installation at 5000-foot Diamond Head Chalet.

He put in propane gas cooking and hot water facilities last week, replacing the oil fired system installed a year ago.

Stove oil in the rarefied atmosphere at this height was not satisfactory.

Mike Flack to Greece

Michael Flack, 17, will attend a world Scouting jamboree in Marathon, Greece, in August.

In the meantime he is working at and looking for all sorts of odd jobs to help pay his expenses.

He has been in Scouting nine years, four as a Cub, five as a Scout, achieving top rank, Queen's Scout, last year.

Rod and Gun dine, dance at Pemberton

First annual dinner and dance of the Pemberton Rod and Gun Club was held in the Community Hall, November 30.

The meal, which included deer and moose, was cooked by the Red Cross ladies.

Playing in the orchestra for the dance were Mrs. H. Pipe, Mr. Hayes, Mr. Popenov and J. Cosulich. Guest speaker was Mr. Littler, a representative of the Associated Rod and Gun Clubs of B.C.

Two short films were shown, one on safety in the woods and the other showing some of the best fishing spots in the province.

Last big hurdle for more housing

The plebiscite to include 305.45 acres in expansion of the village of Squamish was approved by voters, December 6.

The vote was light, 16.8 percent, but the majority in favor was large—87 yes, nine no.

Three ballots were spoiled.

Only owner-electors could vote and 99 out of 590 voted.

This approval will allow the council to proceed with the development of the proposed Valleycliffe subdivision in the Stawamus River valley.

STAWAMUS VALLEY

With the exception of 31.15 acres at the north boundary of the village at Buckley's crossing, all the new area is in the Stawamus Valley and will be in the new residential subdivision or adjacent to it for use in river control, sewage plant and logging road.

Housing in the village has long been scarce and various councils have attempted to tackle the problem without success. In the meantime, hundreds of workers commuted from the Vancouver area to work at Britannia, Woodfibre and Squamish.

On the strength of this need, two major subdivisions opened up about four miles north of the village, Garibaldi Park Estates and the adjoining Garibaldi Highlands Development.

To get NHA money, federal loans for housing these companies installed sewers. It was the lack of these in the village and the seemingly high cost of installation that kept NHA loans out of the village.

GROWTH ALL AROUND

This year, council took a hard look at the growth all around the municipality and decided something must be done in the village.

An added spur was the building of Canadian Collieries' new sawmill and the resident potential it represented.

First permission was gained from the provincial government, the Department of Municipal Affairs, to acquire land and sell it. This had been a stumbling block on previous occasions.

Most of land needed was held by the Crown and this will be transferred to the village, which in turn will sell it to the subdividing company, Westway Developments Ltd., at $100 per acre.

This money, less legal fees, etc., will be turned back to the Crown when the land is sold.

The remaining portion was owned by Rayonier, the company that owns Woodfibre. Here the village negotiated a five-year option for 35 acres at $100 an acre and a seven-year option for 90 acres at $700 per acre.

This, in turn, will be sold to the subdivider at cost as the development progresses. The higher priced land is considered choice residential property.

Westway has agreed to put in sewers, treatment plant, paved streets and other services. They have also submitted a layout plan of this and it is being studied by the engineers retained by the village. They intend to start building houses for sale just as soon as possible. Many will be in the $12,000 price range. The plan is for 600 homes in the subdivision.

Night school choir to hold annual concert

Annual carol concert of the Squamish Night School Choir will be held in Squamish Elementary School, December 17, at 8 p.m.

Old and new songs of this festive season will be presented along with a piano soloist and other features.

There will be a silver collection. The choir is now in its eighth year, all of them under the direction of Jim Tinney.

ALL EYES on clay pigeon as young Gerry Kennedy shows Squamish Rod and Gunners how it's done. His aim was deadly at the turkey shoot, December 9.

ONE OF THE busier places in town on Friday afternoon, Dec. 7, was the Howe Sound Health Unit. Nurse Mary Small reported giving 26 injections, one of the reasons for these gatherings on the first and second Fridays of each month. Mothers with babies awaiting their turn are, from left: Mrs. Tom Barber, holding Gerri with sisters Jill and Lorie along for support; Mrs. Frank Hoy with Erin; Mrs. Don Baker with Yvette; Mrs. Hugh McMillan with Kelli. Dawn Boys in picture made a fast get-away before names could be taken.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — THURSDAY, DECEMBER, 13, 1962

Is Farming Practical In The Squamish Valley...

Is there opportunity in the Squamish valley for the farmer? We would take an uneducated guess and say that there is. As population continues to grow there will be an increasing demand for food, for livestock, livestock products, fruits and vegetables.

A successful livestock farm requires considerable acreage and there may not be enough suitable land for more than the two such farms at Brackendale. But are there not acres of smaller plots that would grow vegetables and fruits of marketable quality and in economic quantity?

In the relatively few years we have lived here we have found little interest in the production of food in the valley. One gets the impression from the inhabitants that just about every past venture has failed. Reasons are various, such as flood, drought, or pestilence of some sort.

No one says that the soil is no good and it is on this, partly, that we base our optimism. Floods and pests can be controlled and drought can be overcome.

Another reason for optimism is the research being done at our experimental farms on disease resistant varieties of fruits and vegetables.

Just recently, the horticulture branch of the B.C. department of agriculture has developed cabbage that is resistant to club-root, a disease which thrives in the acid soils of the Coast region. The seed of one variety, named Badger Shipper is now available from local seed firms.

Information and advice is to be had for the asking from these experimental stations. One thing they stress — use certified seed. Soil analysis facilities of the University of British Columbia are also available to the local grower and could save much trial and error in applying the proper fertilizers.

To get maximum yields, in quantity and quality, farmers all over the country are depending more and more on the help of the scientific research provided by the government sponsored experimental farms.

Not having access to such information may have been one of the reasons for farming failures in the earlier days. Crops may have been attempted that were not suited to the soil and climate. That need not happen now.

For instance: does the McIntosh apple grow well here? If not, there is a new variety similar in appearance and flavor that ripens a full three weeks earlier than the McIntosh, which, incidentally, is one of its parents. Maybe it would suit our season just fine. This apple is called Tydemans Red.

The waste of land in this valley is really quite considerable. The fact that it now grows weeds and brush and scrub is not an indication that the land is no good but perhaps, in a way, a commentary on the people.

Many of them are refugees from prairie farms that didn't quite survive the dirty thirties. Even if they were now in need, their pride wouldn't let them again have any personal and close dependence on the earth. Not in this generation, anyway — it will take a few more years for the memories to fade.

Then there is the hard work of farming, and what is more frightening, the loneliness. No one minds too much to work hard, if at the end of the day or of the job they know that someone will be patting them on the back and saying well done.

But the farmer might have to go on until the end of the season — till the crop is harvested — to get his reward. Then, as in just about every business, there are always those few things over which you have no control. It's quite a gamble.

The farmer must be a self-starter. No one is going to complain if he doesn't start on time. He knows what he has to do and it is entirely up to him to get it done.

The successful farmer must have many of the qualities of the successful leader, except, if his farm be small he doesn't have to worry too much about handling people. But, we would think, there is challenge enough to satisfy the average man.

This May Mean Something...

In the rash of municipal elections that have just been completed in British Columbia, a wife asked her husband for his opinion on their municipal candidates. The ensuing conversation may throw some light on why women have such difficulties in getting ahead in politics after around 44 years of obtaining the hard-won right to vote.

This married pair tell each other a reasonable approximation of the truth, allowing only a bit off for tact.

In this case, the husband came right out and said he was voting for the lady candidate. He disliked her policies (so far as he had been able to figure them out) less than what seemed to be the policies of the other candidates. And furthermore, the lady seemed more intelligent, a better person than the men who were running.

To this his wife added this rejoinder: "I imagine you are entirely right; but dear, as for me, you can't actually expect a woman to vote for another woman."

Is Drinking Your Problem...?

While we do not suggest that alcoholism is a general problem in our community we believe it to be quite probable that there are those who could benefit through Alcoholics Anonymous.

There is a group in Squamish that meets every Friday night at St. Joseph's Parish Hall. Their purpose is to stay sober themselves and to help other alcoholics achieve sobriety.

The only requirement for membership is an honest desire to stop drinking. A. A. has no dues, no fees. It is not allied with any sect, denomination, politics, organization or institution.

It is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others recover from alcoholism.

We hope their help will not be shunned by those in need. We are sure it will make a merrier Christmas for all concerned.

What Is A Town...?

Our town is the place where our home is found, where our business or job is situated and where our vote is cast.

It is where our children are educated, where our neighbors dwell, where our life is chiefly lived. It is the home spot for us.

Our town has the right to our civic loyalty. It supports us and we should support it.

Our town wants our citizenship, not our partisanship; our friendliness, not our dissension; our constructive suggestion, but not our destructive criticism; our intelligence, not our indifference;

Our town supplies us with protection, trade, friends, education, churches, schools, and the right to free moral citizenship. It has some things that are better than others. The best things we should seek to make better; the worst things we should help to improve.

Take it all-in-all, it is our town and it is entitled to the best there is in us.

Therefore we should resolve to show a keener interest in our local government and possibly start the ball rolling with the formation of a Squamish taxpayer group for studying improved municipal affairs.

Put your locks on your lockers

Lately, whenever a student has that look of concentration he undoubtedly is doing just that: concentrating.

But, chances are he is not thinking of the questions on the board, or the teacher's questions, or even questions in the first place; he may very well be listening to the sounds that come from the typing room. No, not to the clackety clacking of the typewriters — though that in itself is a pleasant diversion, but to the music. The music that comes from Room 8's record player.

Depending on the level of speed of the typists, it may be a slow tune, or a quick one. Sometimes the record is an old one and drags or scratches a bit; but no matter. Sometimes it plays loudly and sometimes softly.

The Mashiter building has its music room with its piano, but our school has the typing room and the short music drills that go with it.

We all like the tunes very much and even a teacher will sometimes ask the standard question when music echoes down the hall: "Shall we dance?" Only sometimes we wish the school could buy some different records, but really no one is complaining.

Only superlatives are adequate to describe last Friday night when Howe Sound played basketball against Pemberton. These superlatives deserve to be showered on the heads of spectators. It was the crowd that made this one of the best games yet. Ask any centre forward or guard, and he will tell you that the thing he liked best was the cheering people.

It was quite wonderful to be able to play before such a crowd, even if our playing, itself wasn't too wonderful.

In the manner of our unofficial school song: GIVE A CHEER TO THE supporters of last Friday night's game in the gym.

Artist painting Squamish

A series of oil paintings depicting local subjects are now being produced by a professional artist and illustrator.

Lawrence Barrs of Vancouver, known nationally for his paintings which have been reproduced on magazine covers and calendars has just completed a scene showing the entire town of Britannia.

Squamish is now in the process of being painted, with completion expected by mid-December.

Just what magazine covers or manner in which Britannia and Squamish are to be reproduced will not be known until after the approaching holiday season.

Plans are also under way for the production of a painting of Woodfibre by the same artist next June.

The completed original Britannia painting now hangs in the Alex Fraser Art Galleries on Granville Street in Vancouver. The Squamish painting will appear in the same gallery when completed.

Mr. Barrs has made some eight trips out to the district already in connection with the project and has usually been accompanied by his wife, Judy.

Vancouver people new owners of Kosy Motel

The Kosy Motel has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Taylor of Vancouver. They take over February 1.

Present owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Makowichuk are going to build a new home on Judd Road, Brackendale, next to Ted Casey's.

They built the eight-unit motel six years ago before the road to Vancouver opened. The house adjoining was built four years later.

It was the first motel in the Squamish area.

Our congratulations to Alice Bonde who has the highest three game total in all leagues.

Kuhn is a runner up and top for the men with 721. Burnett Wood, high single, of 335 and Grace McDonald still holding 308 single for the ladies.

The Scatterpins of the Britannia League have a three game total of 2942, while the Gutter Gang of the Independents have 1136 single game team total.

To get on to the individual leagues, the Early Birds had a tie for high single, Ruth Lipsey and Alta Aldridge both having 217. Ruth, however, got the three game total with 557. Gladys Wood's average, holds high at 153, and the Mocking Birds top the league with 25 points.

The Elks League are bowling their second quarter and Jack Shaw is showing the men how with a 182 average and 617 total three. Jim Antosh has 274 high single. Donna Calverly holds high average for the ladies with 171. Dot Chapman made 224 high single and Sally Allott has 532 three game Seems there were a lot of gals went to town that day. I understand there were six players made over 200 each. The Bouncers (Alice's team) lead with 23 points.

My humble apologies to Doug Rudy. In error, I gave his single game total at 52. Doug was very hurt and I don't blame him. I assured a correction in this issue. The correct score is 55!

Rita Barnfield showed the way for the PGE gang this week. She has 215 high single and 487 high three. Bob Kuhn got a 550 three game total and Jack Quinn single of 237. The Hi Ballers are 11 points over the nearest contender with a total of 30 points.

The Bantams came up with a tie for doubles, Linda McDonald and Sherry Hurren having 217. Gay Bowman got a high single of 130 and 103 high average.

In the boys' section of this league, Sam McRae has 158 high average and Alex McDougal got 302 for double game. Darwin Hurst has 174 high single. Nice going gang!

KITCHEN KAPERS

—by PEG TINNEY

HEARTY SOUP IS HARD TO BEAT

The word "chowder," it is believed, came to us from the French. In days gone by, when fishermen from coastal villages in Brittany returned from their voyages, the people of the town held a celebration.

A huge pot, called a chaudiere, was heated and everyone brought something to cook in it—some fish, others vegetables and still others seasonings of different kinds. When the food was cooked the community gathered for the festivities and to eat the nourishing soup or stew from the common pot.

A real chowder is traditionally made from seafood, but through the years many rich and hearty soups have come to be called by this name.

Although soup is a year-round favorite, what is tastier or more nourishing on a cold winter day than a bowl of hot soup?

CORN CHOWDER

6 slices bacon, diced
1 small onion, finely diced
1 1/4-c. can whole kernel corn
1 20-oz can cream-style corn
2 tbsp flour
2 cups light cream
2 cups diced potatoes
1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
2 tsp salt
1 tbsp sugar

Keep your tap shut... or else!

If any passers-by noticed one of the local housewives wielding a broom at her front door at midnight she wants them to know that she is NOT a candidate for Crease Clinic and that there is a perfectly logical if highly stupid reason for her actions.

Last Wednesday, you may remember, the water was shut off. Our heroine had plans to go out for the evening and, in spite of a sketchy wash, had a most enjoyable time.

On arriving home she noticed a dark spot on the corner of the rug and immediately thought, "Damn it, I left the cat in the house." But it was worse than that. She had left the cold water tap in the bathroom on and there was water in abundance on some of her floors.

Nothing daunted but mad as hops she took a broom and swept as much as possible out of the front door. Then, with the help of a couple of old towels, she began the mopping up job.

At present, the rugs are almost dry but it has been a slow process.

Her only comment is, "If anyone in Squamish has cleaner floors than mine, I want to see them!"

JACK DAVIS

Ottawa Diary

The exclusive right of Parliament to levy taxes for the use of the government goes back a long way. The Bill of Rights of 1689 which ranks with Magna Carta in constitutional importance declares that:

"Levying money for the use of the Crown without consent of Parliament is illegal."

The charge has now been made by the Liberal and New Democratic parties that the government has, in effect, ignored the Canadian Constitution by levying taxes without the consent of Parliament.

At issue are the surcharges on tariffs which the government imposed as part of its austerity program in June. An exchange crisis existed at that time and the government had to act quickly in order to bolster up our foreign exchange reserves.

INGENIOUS FORMULA

But how could the government take this action without the consent of Parliament? An ingenious formula was devised. The Customs Tariff Act gives the government the power to withdraw from any country the benefits of Preferential or Most-Favoured Nation rates.

This power was used to increase tariffs on a wide range of imports. Revisions under the Financial Administration Act were also made so that the effective increase was 5, 10 or 15 per cent, according to the type of goods involved.

The two opposing parties argue that the government levied taxes without consulting Parliament by using powers in a way which Parliament could never have foreseen at the time these Acts were passed.

UNWILLING TO DEFEAT

A majority of the members, meanwhile, were unwilling to defeat the government on a constitutional issue or, for that matter, on any other issue.

The fact remains that, if the government's actions did breach the Constitution, either in letter or in spirit, a precedent has been set which might haunt us in the future.

The government, in my view, should submit the tariff surcharges for the approval of the House of Commons.

This would not involve any admission of illegality, but would be proof beyond doubt of the Government's desire to buttress the traditional rights and privileges of Parliament.

In Greece

Scout will attend world jamboree

Thirty-nine Boy Scouts and four Leaders have been chosen to represent the 40,000 Boy Scouts in British Columbia at the 11th Boy Scout World Jamboree to be held at Marathon, Greece, during August 1963.

Michael Flack, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Flack, Squamish, is one.

The boys will leave Vancouver by train about July 23rd to join 400 others at a camp in Ontario before embarking on special aircraft for the flight to Greece. The group will be away about one month.

Cost of the trip is being borne by the boys themselves and many are now working at odd jobs and saving their money towards this adventure. The Jamboree site is near the ancient city of Marathon where the Olympic Games were held during the great days of the old Greek civilization. Boy Scouts from nearly every country not under Communist domination will be camped together in a vast city of tents.

World Jamborees are held every four years and locations are selected by the World Conference of Scouting from applications submitted by countries willing to host these events.

W. G. H. Roaf, Provincial Commissioner of Scouts, recently reported that the selection boards had a most difficult time deciding among the many applicants to fill the few places allotted to British Columbia. Only those boys with the highest standing in their Scout work and whose characters exemplify the Scouting ideals were chosen.

Xmas activity at Britannia church

The weekend of December 16 is full of activity for the Britannia Community Church and its organizations.

The W.A. begins the celebration of Christmas on Thursday evening when their monthly meeting takes the form of a pot luck supper at the home of the Rev. W. E. Fullerton, at Sunger Beach.

Saturday afternoon, December 15, the Explorers, a group of girls 9 to 11 years old, under the leadership of Mrs. D. MacGregor, are serving tea at the church. This is their only fund raising project of the year, so a good turnout is expected.

Sunday morning the Sunday School is meeting with the church at 11 a.m. for the White Gift service. Each class will conduct part of the service under guidance of the superintendent, Mrs. G. Pickard.

Harry Dodyk's class will lead in prayer. The classes of Mrs. L. Cartwright and Mrs. A. Smith are in charge of the scripture reading. Mrs. L. Moncrieff's class have formed a choir and plan special music.

Mrs. H. Shuttleworth's and Mrs. R. Oakes' classes will give recitations and the pre-school Smith and Amber Bishop will group of Mary Lou and Willa sing an action song.

Gifts and donations will be received during the service and forwarded to needy families.

Can you stop car on a dime?

Think you can stop your car on a dime? You probably can, says the B.C. Automobile Association, but only if the dime is placed about six inches in front of a solid mass of concrete. Doesn't matter how fast you are going — you'll stop. Probably forever.

Sound foolish? It isn't. The highways are crowded with people who habitually over-estimate their ability to stop in time. How about you? Do you over-estimate your stopping ability?

How many feet would be required to make an emergency stop at 60 miles per hour—100 feet? 150 feet? 200 feet?

AT 60—366 FEET TO STOP!

For the answer, just add 166 feet to the last figure. That's right! Under good driving conditions your car will travel about 366 feet between the time you spot the danger and the time you come to a full stop. That's more than the length of a football field. And poor road conditions, worn tires or defective brakes can double or even treble the distance required for a quick stop!

A CAR LENGTH FOR EVERY 10 M.P.H.

Keep these facts in mind next time you get behind the wheel of your car—particularly when you are following another car. If he stops unexpectedly, will you have space enough to stop before hitting him or being forced off the road? Can you really count on him not to stop short?

Whenever you are following another car, stay back at least one car length for every 10 miles per hour of speed. And when driving conditions are bad give yourself an even greater margin of safety.

Remember, when the lead driver's tail-lights flash, his foot is already on his brake pedal. You will need at least 1/4 of a second before your foot hits your pedal. That means that at 60 miles an hour, your car will travel 66 feet before you even start to stop!

See why you must keep back at least one car length for every 10 miles an hour of speed? Without that allowance, you may hit the lead car before your foot hits the pedal. Keep your distance! The BCAA says: Your life may depend on it!

Pemberton basketball

Squamish singers at Britannia PTA

Jim Tinney brought his Glee Club from Squamish to provide the entertainment at the Britannia Elementary P.T.A., December 6.

Following their most enjoyable program the whole meeting joined in singing Christmas carols.

A letter from Lorne Cope of last year's teaching staff, who is now teaching in Soest, Germany, proved most interesting to the members.

The business part of the meeting showed the Kindergarten, sponsored by the P.T.A., to be successfully operating, and Mrs. F. Baxter announced that the children have saved over $3400 in the four years she has operated the children's savings accounts.

The P.T.A.'s co-operation with the Community Club's party for the children was planned and volunteers obtained to assist. This will conclude the P.T.A.'s activity for 1962.

Woodfibre Digester

by Arthur Saul

The draw for the transistor radio which was the prize from the sale of tickets by the local boys' soccer club, was won by Daryl Stech at the movie house on Friday, November 30.

Local hunters have reported a record year as far as bagging deer is concerned. A total of nine deer were brought in this year. It was suggested that the increase would be due perhaps to the fire last year as it drove them closer to this area. We have also had several mild winters. It is reported that two hunters have seen large bucks with six points. Jim Erickson has been one of the most successful hunters.

Monday night saw Woodfibre Hoopsters edged out by the Squamish senior basketball team. In spite of the noble efforts of Jim Fraser and his six dribblers, they lost the meet by some 20-odd points.

The Woodfibre team has only recently been organized and it is felt that with a little practice they will have little trouble in gaining basketball supremacy on Howe Sound.
