Squamish loggers put on colorful sports show

Arnett winner for second year

Approximately five thousand people saw 1960 winner Chris Arnett obtain the Challenge Trophy at Saturday Loggers' Sports Day for the second time. The event was keenly followed by the crowd. Arnett won the obstacle climb trophy for him. Previous year he had come first in the obstacle pole bucking race. Mollie Hogan race. Arnett and Sooko were the winners of the Point Grey trophy for log

Tetz of Chilliwack with a time of 36 9/10 seconds. This award was given by the Chieftain Hotel and presented by Ross Brown. In addition to the trophies which the winners will retain for a year, they were each given replicas which they will keep. From the moment Harvey Trudeau fired the shot which topped the tree to start the show until Danny Sailor did the twist on top of one of the 130-foot climbing trees, the spectators enjoyed an exciting fast-paced show. Roy Hall gave an exhibition of tree topping and once again the crowd gasped as Bill Bost carol rode the shackle down the line suspended from the top of one of the climbing trees. Tom Kirk, the champion axe-chopper from New Zealand, clearly demonstrated why he won his title. He simply cut through his log as if it were butter. Later in the afternoon he put on a display which amazed the crowd. He literally made those chips fly. While he entered the contest, he relinquished first place to the runner-up, P. Whittaker of North Vancouver. WICKHEIMS SURE-FOOTED The Wickheim brothers, Ardy and Jube, showed the style and sure-footedness which have made them champions as they competed with each other and with Art Williams of Nanaimo for the log burling trophy. They stood on chairs on the log floating in the pond and then, to top it all, put a small stool on top of the chair and stood on that. Ike Middlemiss won the pole falling event accurately hitting the peg to take top points in that competition. The chokerman's race was won by D. Woodrow of Courtenay in 16 seconds, while Alan Woodrow, also of Courtenay, won the hand bucking competition. An exhibition of old style hand falling, now an almost forgotten art, was put on by Ed Antosh and Doug Nell. THE GIRLS TOOK PART The ladies were not forgotten and they competed in teams in the log bucking competition. Here Shirley Halvorson was again a winner. This year she was teamed with Rita Dickie. Jim Boyd won the novice burling competition and this always is an interesting event for the audience. They just love to see the contestants get wet. This year, for the first time, a girl, Edna Woodcock, entered the competition. But the climbing events are always the most thrilling of any loggers' sports, and this year they provided the usual excitement. Ron Pappenberger, of Victoria, won the speed climbing by 3 seconds when he defeated Richard Munro by making the climb in 1 minute 37 9/10 seconds. It was a close race. OBSTACLE CLIMB In the obstacle climb, Chris Arnett climbed the tree, caught a shackle with the rope, and then choked the tree with the shackle before coming down. He did all this in 3 minutes and 19 seconds. Danny Sailor wound up the show with a thrilling exhibition of climbing. He stood on his head on top of the tree, did the twist, and then gave an imitation of a diver preparing to plunge from the top of the tree. As he leaned forward until he seemed about to fall, you could hear the crowd gasp. Then he threw his hat from the top of the tree and beat it to the ground.

Once again John Drenka, ably assisted by his staff, was on duty at the barbecue and the amount of delicious beef sandwiches consumed as a chef. The final fillip to the enjoyment was provided by witty remarks of Al Hendrickson as master of ceremonies. A post he filled with a good humour that drew a full response from the audience. The sixth annual Loggers' Sports Day was a wonderful show and one that will be hard to beat. The Loggers' Sports Committee wish to thank the St. John Ambulance Association for their valuable assistance during the day, as well as all the guests of Squamish.

Road To Park Is A Disgrace

The road to Base Camp, which is the only access to the Diamond Head area, is a disgrace.

Yes, that is still the only word for it, even after work crews composed of local and Vancouver outdoor enthusiasts turned out on the weekend to work on it.

From the park boundaries, just past Mamquam where CRB's logging road is, the road to Base Camp is rutted, washed, and full of pot holes. Sharp turns and all the gravel has been washed away. A few spots need to be repaved. A few more parking spaces are required. The road is a disgrace.

Three miles involved, the third, is the responsibility of the Department of Highways. The road is within the Park boundaries under the Department of the Interior.

Nothing has been done on this road in twenty years and heavy rains washed away what little gravel was on it. One third of it could be repaved without any difficulty and the remainder could be, if it was widened and the corners not quite so sharp.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Charlie Westwood in a press release on July 18th stated that "current examinations and studies are in progress whereby the Diamond Head area of the Park will have better access. This area has long been a popular one and its popularity for skiing and other activities on a year-round basis increases annually."

While we are waiting for the long promised "better access," the good road which has been promised for many years but has never materialized, we would be quite willing to settle for some improvements to the road now in existence. Instead we are being put off with vague promises of a good road someday.

Surveys for new road access have been made several times. In fact a road from Base Camp to the lower meadows was started four years ago. Today this is blocked by a gate and no one except park personnel can use it.

If the access road was improved, very little work would be necessary to enable people to drive to the campsites in the lower meadows.

We are quite sure that the government could lease the road to Base Camp to an amusement palace for a new attraction. It could be offered as a thrilling ride. Certainly the potholes and corrugated washboard effect would be exciting for a moment or two. But when it is prolonged for three miles it gets beyond a joke.

This area is visited by thousands of people annually and they have one expression to cover it, "bloody awful!"

Another complaint is that while campsites have been set aside in the Diamond Head area no work has been done on them. There aren't even any latrines. And hundreds of people camped below the chalet last year.

It's a sad situation when the public has to do the work which the government should be doing. People with picks and shovels can only fill in the worst of the holes and take out the sharper rocks. They can't do the graveling, grading or maintaining that should be done.

And this in the park which the minister calls "one of the world's greatest regions of natural wonders."

Go For A Boat Ride...

Thousands of Squamish and Pemberton residents are not actually boat-minded, but rather they prefer to enjoy the luxury of their homes, the beauty of the country around them.

But because Squamish is on the sea and because Pemberton is near the large Chilkoote Lake, there is good reason for families of both locations to want to take an afternoon in a small boat. It could be for fishing, water skiing or a picnic along the shore.

But did you know that nearly one hundred Canadians died in 1962 because they neglected simple rules of safety? Most of these drownings occurred during July and August and many a family of them are caused by boating mishaps.

The Canadian Insurance Federation has these rules for safe boating:

1) Do not overload your boat. Leave plenty of freeboard.

2) If weather is threatening, stay close to shore.

3) Beware of canoes. Fishing from canoes or using them as sailing craft is hazardous.

4) Keep approved life-preservers in your boat. Non-swimmers should wear these at all times.

5) Do not use your boat with a motor of excess power.

6) Keep your speed down. Speeding in motor boats can be just as dangerous as in cars.

7) Stay away from areas where people are swimming.

8) Do not attempt long trips across open water in small boats.

9) If your boat overturns, do not try to swim to shore. Stay with the boat.

10) Use proper lights at night.

Thank You Alice And Pat...

This newspaper does not hand out a lot of public favor, but that kindness and co-operation should be the norm of all of us in the North Howe Sound area.

When an individual goes out of their way as a genuine gesture of service beyond the norm, then we feel that special mention should be made.

In this case we have in point involves two women of widely divergent fields of endeavor yet working towards the one goal of putting Squamish "on the map."

This "putting Squamish on the map" in turn brings prosperity to the community and makes our town a better place in which to live.

Mrs. Alice Makowichuk, retired motel operator and businesswoman, deserves thanks of the Chamber of Commerce and growing number of business people of the valley. Through her efforts over the past year, Squamish has finally got the all important, year-round tourist information booth.

Pat Carney, award-winning columnist for the Province and nationally recognized authority on business affairs, has done more to put the Squamish Valley before the public eye than practically any other single person. Her factual accounting and fair analysis of our growing problems are well read and respected by leaders of industry who, in turn, make the decision for future industrial sites.

The women of this district can be proud of the achievements of these two people which proves that it doesn't matter whether you are a man or woman, or of what social status, it is the individual who can help in making our valley strong, prosperous and the best place in which to live.

Place Litter Cans At Ends Of Bridge...

We would like to see litter cans placed at the stop signs at either end of the Red Bridge. We have noticed that a pile of wrappers and cigarette butts have accumulated by these signs. Probably it is only human for people to throw their refuse out of the car windows while they are waiting for the light to change. Receptacles at the above mentioned spots might induce them to reduce the roadside clutter.

Our People Have Green Thumbs...

People in this valley must have green thumbs. Practically every home has gardens, either flower or vegetable, and high green lawns. And the roses have been particularly beautiful this year.

Perhaps our damp (or should we say plain wet) weather has something to do with the lawns, but they require a great deal of care, and gardens of any kind require hard work.

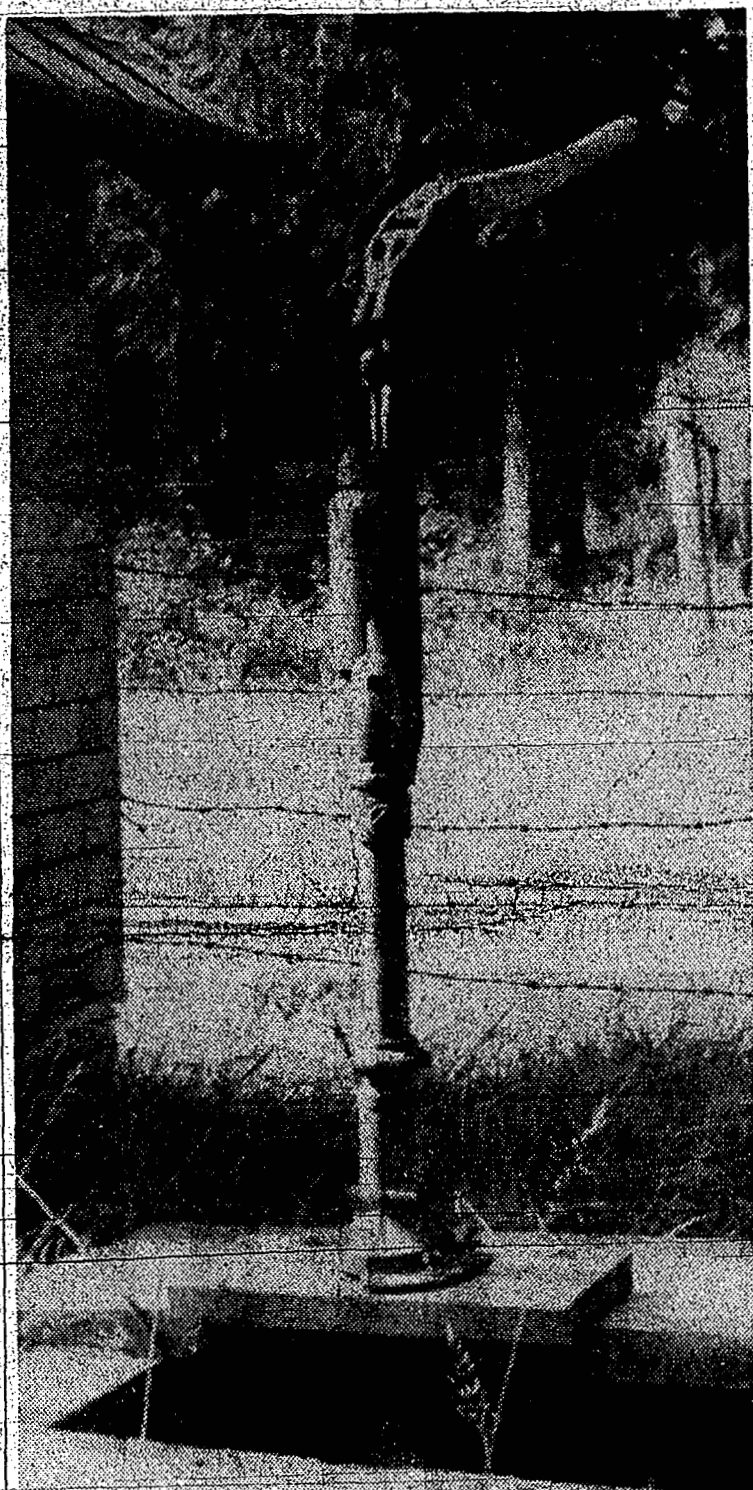

We've noticed beautiful gladioli, dahlias and chrysanthemums, already in bloom, exceptionally early too. But it's not all flowers. One of our readers tells us she has picked fourteen water-pails of peas from four short rows, seven and one half of them in one picking. That's a lot of vegetables.

Just take a look at some of these gardens the next time you are out for a drive. And if you don't believe we have some top notch gardeners wait till the Fall Fair when the produce will be on display.

THE NEW LOOK to the exterior of the Brackendale Store where Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Eventson are making considerable changes to the building which is more than fifty years old.

BELIEVED TO BE the only hand pump left in Brackendale. This one is at the Axen home. Although an electric pump is used, now he still keeps the old one in case the power goes off. "When it does," Mr. Axen said, "we are the water supply for the whole neighborhood, as they all have electric pumps. We even supply the B.C. Hydro with water."

Mr. T. Kelly has gone to Vernon to visit relatives.

Sorry to hear of Neil McNeil's recent accident while logging.

Volunteers repair road

Approximately eighty people turned out on the week-end to work on the road to Base Camp. The majority of them came from Vancouver.

On the three mile stretch between Mamquam Manor and Base Camp, holes were filled, rocks dug out, rough spots levelled and some trees were cut.

Considerable work remains to be done before the road is in even a reasonably fair condition.

When the group were asked how they were progressing they kiddingly said that they were all going to turn out again next week-end "To paint the white lines."

They enjoyed a corn roast and watermelon feed at Alice Lake after they were finished with the work.

Employers in B.C. industry pay the TOTAL cost of workmen's compensation benefits, which amounts to over Twenty Million dollars every year. The Truck Loggers Association of B.C. urges all employers and workers to back the attack on accidents, or as the loggers themselves say: "Learn from the mistakes of others—you haven't time to make them all yourself."

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Squamish Times:

Would the person or persons who took all our vegetables (but NOT all the potatoes) from our lot in the Garibaldi Estates kindly leave us some potatoes if you do trespass in our garden again. We really worked hard clearing and preparing this lot during last winter for our garden which we fully expected to have for ourselves instead of finding it all stolen.

Mr. & Mrs. V. Johnson.

son.

We wish to thank everyone in Squamish for their tremendous hospitality during our recent visit.

We have found Squamish to be a very lovely town and its people extremely friendly.

Particular thanks to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hendrickson and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tatlow.

Students may apply for loans

Any student requiring a loan for further education or training is invited to apply to the Students' Loan Committee.

Application forms may be obtained from Mrs. J. Brock at the Credit Union office.

The amount of loans will not be determined until the board of directors has a meeting to discuss the matter. So far four people have already applied for these loans.

The Howe Sound Students' Loan Association was started by the donation from the PGE Employees' Association when the PGE hall was sold. W. Gedde is chairman of the Association.

The directors would like to emphasize that memberships in the association are always welcome.

Ottawa Diary

Since the Second World War, Canada has spent billions of dollars for defence. Now the Canadian taxpayer is confronted with evidence that he has received very little value for his money.

This is the conclusion drawn from the statements of Lieutenant General Geoffrey Walsh, Chief of the General Staff, before the Commons defense committee. He says that while our forces in Europe are not fully equipped, the brigades at home are in worse shape.

If General Walsh's estimate of the situation is accepted, we can only conclude that there has been waste on the grand scale.

Waste and inefficiency are built-in features of military establishments. In the United States, for instance, the Secretary of Defence, Mr. Robert McNamara, is busily demonstrating that expenditures are substantially cut without reducing the military strength of the U.S.

He is applying sound business practices and common sense. Elaborate equipment is replaced with less expensive items. "Excess" inventories are transferred from one department to another and unused items are being abandoned in favour of competitive bidding. Mr. McNamara estimates that $11 billion of dollars a year will soon be saved in this way.

There is no reason the same approach cannot be adopted in Canada. The Royal Commission on Government Organization has already pinpointed a number of areas where costs can be brought down. The armed forces, the Clocked shop, have over a $750 million worth of items which are not needed. Much is spent on fringe benefits. High-paid officers are doing ordinary jobs. Dozens of services are tremendously costly.

Defense Minister Pearson has named Dr. R. J. Sutherland as chairman of a committee that will review the spending of the defense department. Sutherland's committee will take a businesslike approach to this great area of public waste and inefficiency. This and other measures are essential if Canada is to put its financial house in order.

The towns of Rock Island, Quebec, and Derby Line, Vermont, share a public library that straddles the international boundary.

SQUAMISH BALL TEAM TAKES SEMI-FINALS

Squamish won the semi-finals with Lynn Valley in two games with scores of 5-4 at Squamish on Friday night and 10-1 in Lynn Valley on Sunday afternoon.

They will meet the winner of the semi-finals between Port Mellon and Avalon Hotel on Tuesday when the final play-offs start.

In Friday's game Keith Hendrickson tied up the game when he brought Harvey Trudeau and Dale Mennier home in the final inning and a fielder's error brought in the winning run.

Harvey Trudeau with a two-bagger and a single and Tom Rivett with a two base hit and a single were the stars of Sunday's game. Tommy also struck out ten players on the opposing team.

At Woodfibre

Union negotiates wage increases

A brand new all-Canadian union at Woodfibre has successfully completed its first negotiations with Rayonier gaining a four per cent increase for its 300 members, effective July 1, 1963.

Two other locals for a total of 1100 members are involved in the new union's agreement: Cotton, Local 2, and Watson Island, Local 4.

Known as Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada, the new union is to be joined by Castle-gar, Local 1, with 400 members at the end of the year.

The four locals represent the largest break-away group from an international union in Canada. They were formerly represented by the Pulp, Sulphate and Paper Mill Workers Union with headquarters in New York and 35,000 members.

Woodfibre, Local 3, just received certification June 18. Castle-gar expects to be certified in November. The other two were recently approved.

EXPECT TO GROW

Other pulp workers on the Coast are expected to join the new union, bringing membership up to approximately 5000. Ontario mill workers are reported to be interested in joining this Canadian union.

Representing Local 3, Woodfibre, at negotiations with Rayonier in Vancouver, July 15 to July 19, were Al Smith, president; R. Shervaz, vice-president; and Bert Biglow, wage delegate.

Acting for Rayonier, W. E. Breitenbach, president; William Dale, resident manager of the Woodfibre mill; Dave Reid, personnel manager; John Harrison, public relations officer; and Keith LaBerge, vice-president in charge of operations.

The national union, with temporary headquarters at Lady-smith, was represented by Evan Moore, of Castle-gar, vice-president of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

BASIC RATE INCREASE

The four per cent increase means an eight cent per hour gain to $2.18. Present per hour basic is $2.10.

Welfare benefits will also increase to $50 per week from $40 for a maximum period of 39 weeks from 26. A minimum life insurance will also be provided.

Besides the wage increase it was agreed to improve the present meal policy and to grant leave of absence to employees in office to which they have been elected.

It was agreed that the present meal policy, which provided for four workers, should be changed to include all day workers having one hour or more overtime and for every extra four hours, one extra meal.

The meal will be eaten on company time except in the case of longshoremen.

If an employee is called in early with less than two hours notice, a meal shall be provided at each regular meal time.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Leave of absence will be granted to employees who have been elected or appointed to an office or position in the union, nominated or elected to federal, provincial or municipal office.

Seniority shall accumulate during the period of such employee's leave of absence.

However, it is not the intention of the company to grant life-time leave of absence.

The road comes to Pemberton

by Vera McCulloch

On a recent visit Don Robinson, M.L.A. had a lot to say about the coming of the road to Pemberton.

He said, "The road may be open in the fall—it won't be a good road that soon, but a passable one."

"I guess it takes an awful lot of planning and hard-rock blasting to complete such a big link."

"A lot of hectic changes will take place."

● The hotel won't be big enough.

● The cafe won't be big enough.

● The town won't be big enough.

"We, in Pemberton, have been an isolated section of the province for a good many years. But in some ways it has been a nice place to live. The mountains are majestic and beautiful in the winter as well as the summer."

"The roads to and from Pemberton, as far as they go, are very good gravel roads kept in good driving condition by the Public Works."

"The houses are changing and getting more modern all the time."

"The country grows on you—each year you like it more and more."

An old resident in the valley for fifty years has this to say: "We were without modern conveniences of any kind until one day a man with a big truck"

(brought in by the PGE) stopped at my door and told me that it was time to connect the power into my house."

"The wiring had been done all through my seven-room house and then left for some time not connected to the pole."

"Then the day came."

"When the connection was finished it was 4 p.m. The B.C. Electric man asked me if I would like to turn on my first light switch."

"I got a very serious look on my face and said, 'Please don't turn on a switch until I go out on the road to watch'."

"This I did and saw my house, after fifty years, light up like a Christmas tree."

This old resident is Mrs. Fraser.

"So let's get on with the road to Pemberton."

Mitchells expand billiard parlor

An expansion program is underway at the billiard parlor. Mrs. Mitchell and Sons are doubling the size of the present billiard parlor to three thousand square feet and installing eight new National pool tables.

The new addition, which will be of frame construction, will be two steps lower than the present floor and will be entirely finished in natural wood.

The new addition should be completed and ready for use by Sept. 15.

Gray Mitchell hopes to have some billiard competitions this fall. He states that some of the younger women in town are already taking an interest in the game and that they hope to see more women playing the game when the new addition is completed.

He added that plans are underway to have a shoe shine stand installed in the barber shop in the near future.

Austin Harry recalls a long, colorful career

Austin Harry, a native son of the Squamish Valley and one of the few men who can remember the early days of logging in the valley, wasn't going to miss the loggers' sports last Saturday. He wanted to see the climbers again. Perhaps he wasn't aware that he had done things just as colorful as climbing trees.

The first work he can remember doing was assisting in the river drives in the early 1900's when the logs were driven down the river from the area close to the Ashlu flats.

He recalls standing in icy water up to his chest rolling logs free so they would drift down with the current.

LOTS OF SWIFT WATER

Charlie Douglas was the river boss in those days and there was "lots of swift water".

The logs would be set free and the crew would drift down the river with them. And this for six dollars for a ten-hour day.

Austin recalls falling trees with a spring board and the days when he worked for Madill in the hayfields in Squamish for ten cents an hour.

He also worked as a longshoreman in Vancouver loading lumber on the windjammers.

Ten hours a day at 35 cents an hour. But lunch only cost 15 cents. Now one dollar, he added.

During the depression years he went fishing at Rivers Inlet as a gillnetter. Sockeye salmon were worth 35 cents in those days and the canneries let the fishermen use their gear.

When Merrill & King Logging Co. came to Squamish he worked for them for four years boring boomsticks and later went to work for Empire Mills as a boomman. He stayed with Empire for fourteen years.

BORN YEAR AFTER FIRE

Mr. Harry was born at Cheakamus in 1888, "the year after the big fire in Vancouver." He spent most of his life in the Valley, leaving it at times to go to the reserve at Seymour Creek.

Today he lives by himself at the Stawamus, with his two sons, George and Ernie, and their families nearby. A daughter, Mrs. Herbie Baker, lives in North Vancouver.

When Mr. Harry was asked about the hunting and fishing in the valley in years gone by he had a wealth of tales to tell. He often used to troll for salmon off Watts Point and one evening caught nine of them.

"I called my wife to bring down the wheelbarrow for the fish, she didn't believe me. Then she came down to the beach. She believe me."

THREE SHOTS, THIRTY DUCKS

He spoke about hunting ducks at the slough by Harry Judd's place. "Three shots, thirty mallards. Heavy load."

One winter there was a very heavy snow, with over four feet on the flat at Cheekye. He made himself a pair of snowshoes and climbed the hills behind Paradise Valley, where he saw a herd of fourteen deer. He shot two of them because they were short of food.

"In those days Indians could shoot as many deer as they needed," he added.

He spoke about fishing for Dolly Varden in the Cheakamus. "I used minnows for bait, like a white man. Fish won't bite. Take minnows off, use salmon eggs. Catch lots of fish."

He recalls one time when he was living at Seymour Creek and had just got up. He looked out of the window and saw a deer. He ran out in the snow in his bare feet, snatching his gun as he ran. He got the deer and his wife followed him with his shoes.

Many years ago when they were loading lumber on ships in Vancouver harbor he was working with a group of Indians. They worked so fast they outdistanced the crew working on the other side of the ship and almost caused it to turn over. Then they would have to wait till the other crew caught up with them.

TALES OF OLD DAYS

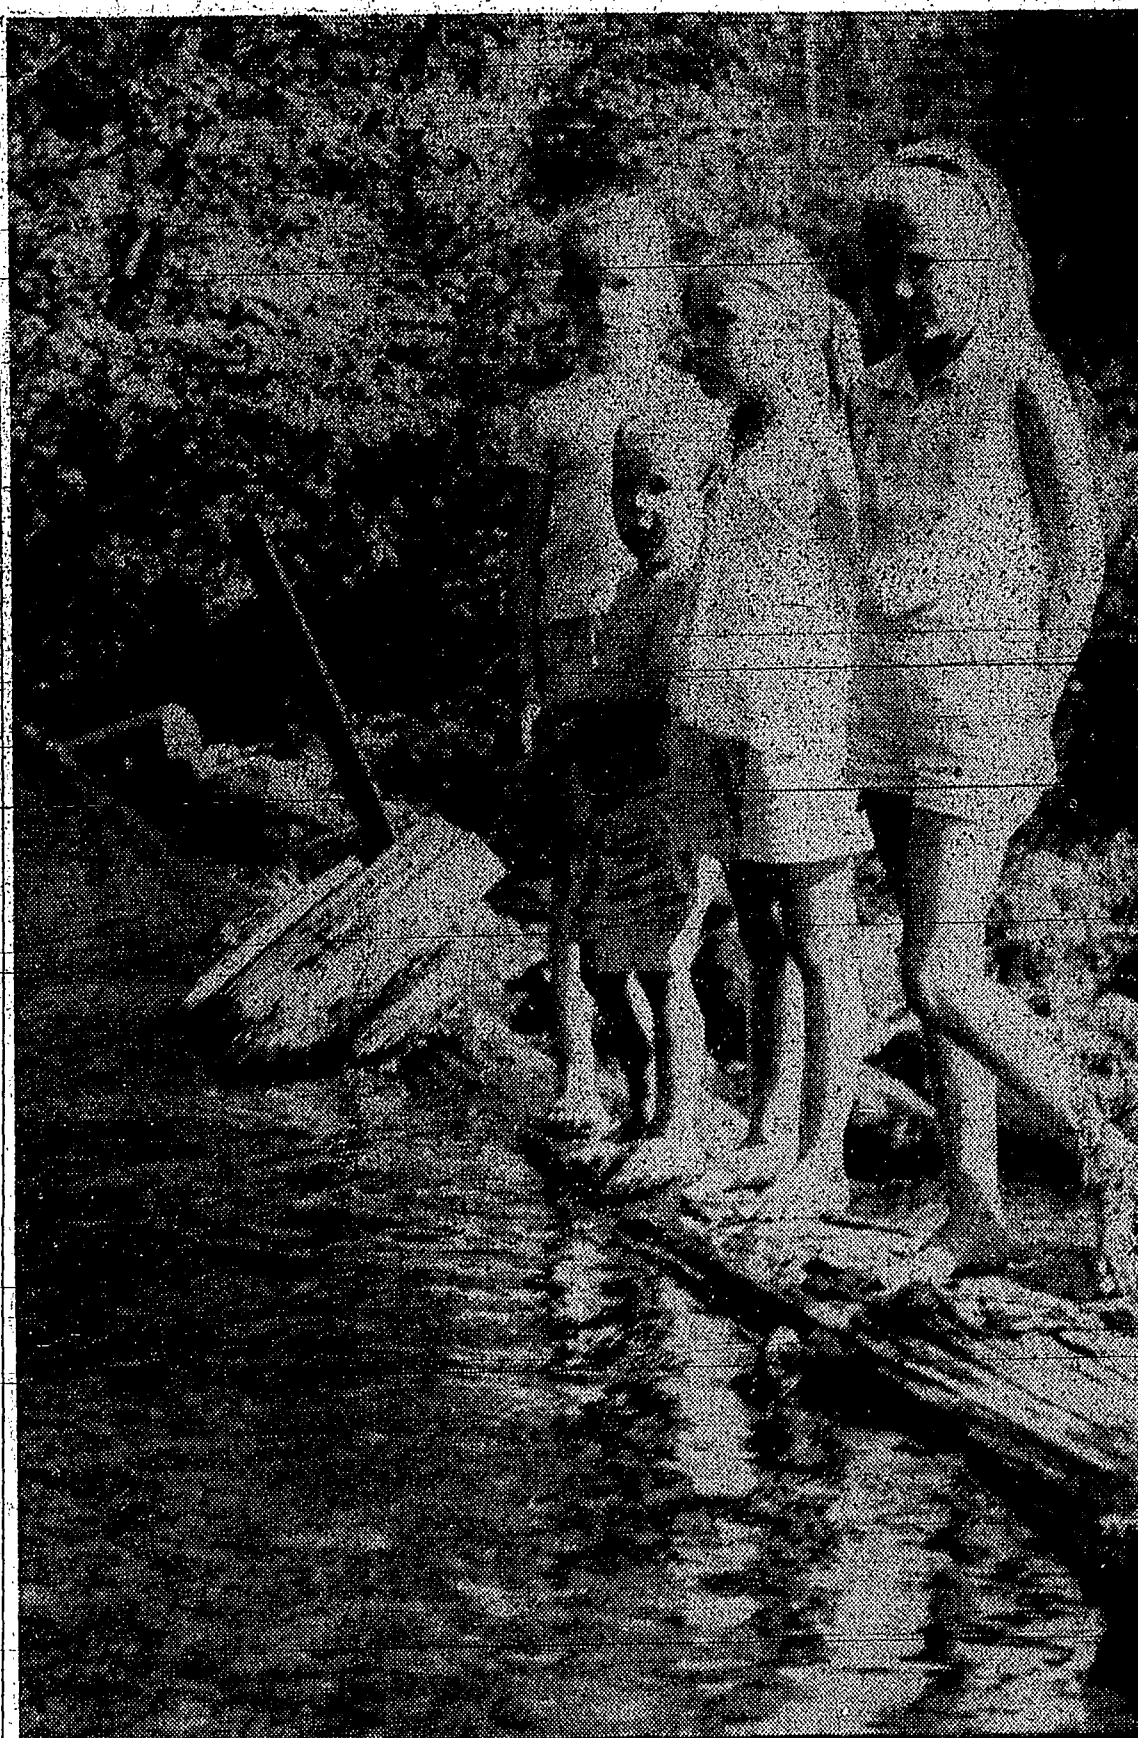

Another anecdote concerned his uncle, Jimmie Harry, who lived at Seymour Creek. Two white men were hunting on the reserve when his uncle caught them and took away their guns. They were told that if they wanted them back they would have to go to the police station. The guns were never claimed so his uncle sold them.

When they were children, he recalls that they had to go swimming each day even if it was cold and there was ice on the water. If they didn't they were whipped with spruce branches.

"That's why I was so strong," he claimed.

Today Austin Harry comes over to Squamish each day and waits until the noon bus comes in. Then he takes the newspapers to the drug store, Dee-Bee's and the barber shop.

But he says that he has asked Mr. Hooper, the Sun representative, to divide the Saturday bundles in half as they are getting too heavy for an old man. "Not so strong now," he said.

QUITE THE ENVY of their neighbors in Brackendale are these four children of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Arnett of Brackendale, as they have only a few steps to go from their home to the pool created by Mr. Jack Edwards on his property. Dallas, Dawn, Dale and Trygve are standing on the log which dams pool.

Strictly for the birds

Trying to raise wild baby birds is quite a problem, according to Mrs. C. V. Hartnell, who is kept busy "bird-sitting" these days.

She noticed the nest which contained three birds, who were barely out of the shell, was damaged and the parents had apparently deserted the fledglings.

Mr. Hartnell climbed on "to the roof to bring them down and she has been feeding them with chopped egg yolk for more than a week."

She keeps them in a quart fruit basket lined with paper napkins.

One of the little birds, which she believes are martins, died but the other two are eating well.

"It's demand feeding," she said, "every time they peep I give them a bit more food."

CERTIFIED GENERAL ACCOUNTANTS' COURSE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Canadian business requires skilled accountants, men conversant with income tax problems, budgeting and accounting systems.

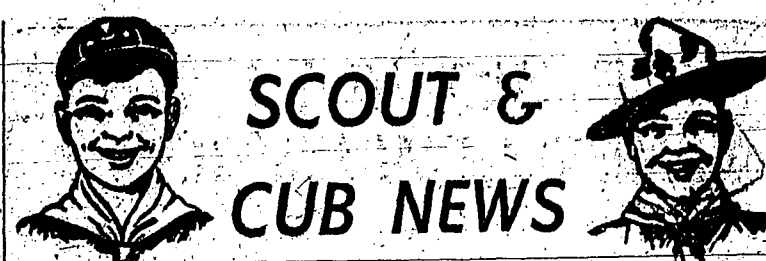

The Certified General Accountants' Association of British Columbia, through its affiliation with The University of British Columbia, offers to the young men and women of this province an opportunity to meet this demand.

A five-year course of study leading to certification as a Certified General Accountant (C.G.A.) is available. Night lectures are held for residents of Vancouver, New Westminster, and vicinity at U.B.C. Students in other areas are served by correspondence.

Applications for enrollment for the 1963-64 term will be accepted by the Registrar, Suite 120, 470 Granville Street, Vancouver 2, B.C., up to August 31, 1963. (Telephone inquiries to MU 1-10531.)

This is the first in a series of articles on the activities of the Cubs, Scouts, Rovers and those visiting the East Howe Sound District.

In following articles I shall endeavor to answer any questions about Scouting, asked by you, the reader. These questions may be addressed to me in care of the paper.

First, the aim of the Boy Scouts of Canada is to develop good citizenship among boys by forming their character, training them in habits of observation, obedience, and self-reliance, inculcating loyalty and thoughtfulness for others, teaching them services useful to the public and handicrafts useful to themselves, and promoting their physical, mental and spiritual development.

On Monday, July 29th, seven boys of the Second Squamish Cub Pack ventured onto the nose of the Chief.

Highlights of the approximately four hour hike were the balancing rock, sighting several small animals and plants, the views of the Squamish Valley, numerous huckleberry bushes and cooling off by wading in the creek at the journey's end.

Cubs making the hike were: Eddie Lepitre, Gary Lewis, Ricky Mercier, Paul and Greg Martin and Danny and John Cuik. They were under the watchful eye of Cubmaster Bert Griffith and his son, Mike.

As there must be one adult for every six boys, the twenty-one Woodfibre Cubs will be unable to attend camp this year.

For those Cubs planning to attend Cub camp at Camp Byng this year, be sure your camp consent forms are returned with your fee to your leaders by Saturday, August 10.

It is the intention of Capt. Jonathan Auclair of the 28th Vancouver (Thunderbirds) Sea Scout Troop to establish a Sea Scout Troop in Squamish later this year.

Capt. Auclair can not, of course, undertake such a task by himself. In fact, he considers himself a small link in a large and important chain composed of the group collectively and other benefactors.

Capt. Auclair's ultimate aim is to locate a suitable place, preferably under cover, where he will be able to build a 27-ft. sailing craft with the assistance of the boys in his troop. He intends to raise the necessary funds locally and build the boat within a year. A meeting place will also need to be located.

The sponsors are the Anglican Church and the Sea Scout Troop will be part of the 3rd Squamish Group which already has a Wolf Cub Pack.

According to the 1961 census, distribution of Canada's population in that year was 69.6 per cent urban and 30.4 per cent rural.

FIRST AID HUT NEARS COMPLETION

The Alta Lake Ratepayers' Association First Aid Hut, built by Don Noyes, is nearing completion, and should be finished by the Labor Day weekend.

It is located at Cypress Lodge near the railroad tracks.

It will contain a number four first aid kit and will be available for everyone's use in case of emergency treatment only.

New Fair feature

Trophies donated for horse show

A Horse Show will be a new feature at the annual Howe Sound Fall Fair to be held at the high school on Saturday, September 7th. Several trophies have been donated to the various classes.

The Fair Association will offer the trophy for the Western Pleasure Horse class; Squamish Valley Riding Club to the Junior Trail class; Westbank Logging to the Senior Trail class; Mrs. J. G. Street to the Equitation class for juniors 13 years and under; Howe Sound Timber Riders between 14 and 18 in the Equitation class; and Squamish Hotel to the Family Class entry.

The Hobby Show has been greatly enlarged and there will also be a Pet Show for exhibitors under 18 years of age.

Prize lists have been issued and the directors in charge of the various sections are: vegetables, J. Hurren; flowers, Mrs. F. Barnfield; home canning, Mrs. J. M. G. Hurren Sr.; needlework, Mrs. R. Cridge; hobbies, Mrs. G. Kennedy and pet show, Mr. E. Axen.

A featured attraction of this year's fair will be the 48-piece

Vancouver Optimist Pipe Band, who have just returned from a tour in Hawaii and who will be featured at the Pacific National Exhibition.

Doug Bellamy, the band leader, is a former resident of Woodfibre.

Anyone desiring information concerning the Fair is asked to contact Mrs. R. Cridge at 892-3889.

Heavy rains marked July

Rainfall in July was unusually heavy with 4.91 inches falling during the month. Two-thirds of this fell in the 48 hours between noon on July 20 and noon on the 22nd.

Highest temperature during the month was 82 degrees on July 1st and the lowest, 45 degrees, on July 6th and 29th.

Anglers advised of regulations

The Times reminds its readers that anglers in the Squamish area must not take pink (humpback) salmon upstream from the mouth of the Squamish or Stawamus Rivers, with the exception of those taken by an Indian under permit.

Fish taken under permit by an Indian are for consumption and not for sale or barter.

The following excerpts from the B.C. Fishing Regulations are printed as a reminder at this time.

Sec. 81 ss. (3)
No person shall fish for, catch, kill, or have in his possession fish of any kind from August 16th to September 30th, both days inclusive, in any year, in the Cheakamus River downstream of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Bridge at Mile 56.6 (also known as the 19 mile Bridge) and in the Mamquam River, both in the Squamish area.

"Non-tidal" Waters Defined

For the purpose of these regulations, non-tidal waters include all lakes and streams, with the following exceptions: Fraser River below Mission Bridge, Pitt Lake, and Pitt River (lower).

Further, the mouths of all streams, except in those waters designated above, or in those streams where the tidal boundary is posted, shall be considered as being the tidal boundary. (There is no boundary posted on the Squamish River, therefore the boundary is at the point where the river empties into Howe Sound.)

Sec. 58
No person, except an Indian under subsection (1) of section 32 of these regulations, shall fish for catch or kill a sockeye, pink, or chum salmon, by any means, in the non-tidal waters of the Province; and any person taking such fish shall return it to the water immediately.

New books at the library

The new shipment of Public Library Commission books have arrived at the Squamish Public Library and are now on the shelves. These include fiction, non-fiction and children's books.

The first of the new books ordered by the librarian have come in. Among them are:

The Lost Continent of Mu, by James Churchward.
A fascinating account of a theoretical Pacific continent which the author believes was the cradle of humanity.

50 North, by Alan Easton.
A story of the war at sea.

Flame Trees of Thika by E. Huxley.
Her childhood in Kenya during the years just before the First World War.

Uhuru by Robert Ruark.
This deals with the political aspects of the Mau Mau uprisings in Kenya. It is interwoven with the story of a white hunter.

Brackendale Social Bits

Mr. and Mrs. N. Halvorson and the children left last week for a trip to Alberta where they will visit her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. K. Newbert in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. James and children of Victoria are visiting Mr. and Mrs. V. Bochkov.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. Sweet are Mrs. Powish and daughter, Karen, of Calgary. The Sweets also have their nephew Barry Ostrand of Nainaho as their guest.

Mrs. S. Laycock of Lillooet was a week-end guest at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Carson.

JACK EDWARDS swimming hole gets good use on the few warm days we have had this year. Here Doug and Drew McDonald, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McDonald, and their cousins from Calgary, Grace and Jimmie Dixon, who are also twins.

Pemberton Board seek flood control from govt.

Flood control of the Lillooet River is being sought by Pemberton Board of Trade.

Focal point of concern is a curve in the river at the bridge between Pemberton and Mount Currie.

T. A. Chilcott, engineer who supervised dyking on the Fraser, has been retained by the board to advise on a course of action.

He has been in twice to make a study of river flow, channels and bank conditions, the last time about a month ago with Don Robinson, MLA.

Garage opens

New business for Pemberton

Corey Saran, who has been with the Shell garage at Squamish for the past year, will open a new garage and automotive repair shop at Pemberton about the middle of this month.

The new building, 60' by 30', across from the Pemberton Co-op, will be fully equipped to handle a complete line of auto repairs, from the simplest car to automatics.

Mr. Saran has had twelve years of experience in the repair business.

He will also have the agency for Paragon Cleaners of Squamish and will be able to offer

Works crew mark roads

A six-man Public Works Dept. crew were in Squamish last week painting the centre line on the highway between Cheekye and Squamish and as far down as Vancouver Street on Cleveland Avenue.

During their two-day stay in the Valley they also painted the centre line on the newly black-topped road to Alice Lake.

Last rites held for Adam Wood

Adam Wood, who moved to Squamish only a month ago after living at Woodfibre for thirty nine years, passed away suddenly on Saturday morning, August 3rd, at his home in Squamish. He was 63 years of age.

Mr. Wood, who was born in Bolton, England, and served in the Royal Air Force during the first World War, came to Woodfibre in 1924. He was the supervisor in the machine room at the mill.

He was always keenly interested in athletics and on Friday evening he had attended the first of the play-off games between the local ball team and Lynn Valley and enjoyed it very much.

Roger off to Ontario meet

Roger Mercier is one of the athletes who has been chosen by the B.C. Track and Field Association to compete in the Canadian Age Class championships in Waterloo, Ont. on August 23 and 24.

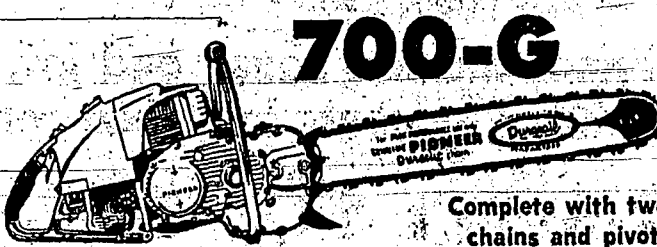

He will enter the broad jump, high jump and triple jump classes.

"No Escape from Gastown" was the recent headline which described the plight of the people of Vancouver.

This article told how everything smelled like a combination of chlorine, forest fires that had just been put out, creosote and disinfectant, skunk or a gas leak. In plainer English, the air stank. The explanation given: the air above Van. was upside down.

This is a very good explanation. And a very clever one. The weather man had an even better name for it, and had apparently called it a "temperature inversion." Industrial gases accumulate in the cooler air and the warm air above traps them like a lid.

My heart bleeds for the people, because I know what they must put up with. We in Squamish have suffered from a case of temperature inversion for a long time. In fact it is a chronic illness. As common as the cars that block the view at the stop sign on the Cleveland-Pemberton road.

Only we didn't know it. Everybody always thought it was called "Woodfibre" or "Squamish Mills."

But now we know better. It is also interesting to note the day Vancouverites said "ugh" was the day that I couldn't see Woodfibre from Bughouse Heights because the whole Sound had been delicately draped in yellow clouds and grey fumes and some more.

It is estimated that the combined deficit, spending in excess of revenues, for all levels of government in Canada last year was about $1.5 billion.

The first symptoms of temperature inversions. Only Howe Sound though. Everywhere else the sky was immaculately blue.

Yes, I have a suggestion which is the answer to our present battle of the stinks. It is simple, cheap and very much psychological. Fire our present weatherman and offer the job to someone who will also give us fringe benefits, like upside down air above Squamish.

THEIR DIAMOND WEDDING anniversary will be celebrated August 12 by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Reid. Above they are seen at the time of their marriage sixty years ago in Brandon, Manitoba, and below is a recent photo. Five of the couple's six children will be present for the occasion.

Wed 60 years

Reids celebrate Diamond Day

On Monday, August 12, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Reid will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary with a family dinner in Paradise Valley followed by open house at their home in Brackendale.

Five of their six children are expected to share in the festivities.

Joining Mrs. W. C. Pratt and Mrs. Clayton Thorne, who live in the valley, will be Mrs. E. M. Ellams of Brandon, Man., Mrs. D. Wilson of Victoria, and Mrs. C. Wilkinson of Sidney. Their only son, Lyle, who lives in New Brunswick, does not expect to be able to attend. Mr. and Mrs. Reid also have ten grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid, who were married in Brandon in 1908, were both born in Canada. Mr. Reid in Ontario, and Mrs. Reid's father was a pioneer settler in the Brandon area.

They came to B.C. in 1910, where Mr. Reid drove a delivery wagon for a warehouse in Vancouver before going to work in a sawmill. They lived in Mission for twelve years during which he helped to build sawmills and worked in them.

They returned to the prairies for a short time in the 1930's but soon came back to the coast.

Later Mr. Reid worked at the Malibu resort on Jarvis Inlet before coming to Squamish to work for Mr. G. S. Clarke in his sawmill in 1946. When the mill closed down he remained to assist Mr. Clarke in the construction business.

Since his retirement they have lived in Brackendale and this spring they sold their home and moved into a trailer.

Mrs. Reid, a tiny, bird-like woman, who is amazingly active, is delighted with it.

"It's so compact and easy to keep clean. And there are no stairs," she said. "We like it very much."

When asked about their recipe for a happy marriage she smiled and said, "I don't know what to say."

"Perhaps the old remark about the two bears is the best advice I can give. You know, 'just bear and forebear'."

At St. Helen's

Mulhern-Fraser rites Saturday

St. Helen's Anglican Church in Vancouver was the setting for an evening wedding on Saturday, July 27th, when Catherine Ann Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraser, of Vancouver, exchanged vows with Brian Joseph Mulhern, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mulhern of Squamish.

Rev. Canon J. W. Robinson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length white tulle gown with embroidered front panel, scoop necked bodice and long sleeves.

Her waist length veil fell from a coronet and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and white heather.

Miss Joan Henderson, the bride's sole attendant, wore a white lace frock with full overskirt over a pink taffeta sheath.

A pink tiara trimmed with seed pearls fashioned her headpiece and she carried pink roses and white feathered carnations.

Ron Ingraham of Squamish was best man and ushers were Barry Lovegrove and Mervin Grigg.

The skirl of pipes was heard as the bride, who is a Highland dancer, and her groom left the church and again as they entered Harmony Hall, where the reception was held. Mr. Arthur Felton, the bride's uncle, proposed the toast to his niece.

Before leaving for their honeymoon trip to Spokane, Mrs. Mulhern donned a midnight blue chapel suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

The young couple will reside in North Vancouver.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Jim Galloway and Mrs. Norman Clark of Nanaimo, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hague and Catherine of Mission City, Mr. and Mrs. George Kelt of Lulu Island, Mr. and Mrs. R. Kelt and Noreen of Williams Lake.

From Squamish were Mr. and Mrs. J. Hurren, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rudan, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Goad, Mr. and Mrs. D. Sandford, Mr. and Mrs. A. A.

Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Worthington and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Marchant.

Social Notes

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Borg were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Borg of Abbotsford and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Borg of Entwistle, Alta., where his brother is an RCMP officer.

A few school friends of Sheila Nygard held a bridal shower in her honor at the home of Mrs. Don Behner on Thursday evening, August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jardine and family are away on a three week holiday in which they will drive as far as Manitoba.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. Cridge is his mother, Mrs. E. Cridge of Victoria and her granddaughter, Jane Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Fenton and family with Mrs. B. Wray and her children went to White Rock on the week-end. Mr. Fenton returned to Squamish on Monday with Carol and Judy while the others are staying for the week. They were joined by their niece, Sharon Bradley, of Wenatchee, Wash.

Among the former Squamish residents noticed at the Loggers' Sports Day last Saturday were Mrs. R. Bowles, Mrs. J. Frost, Mrs. T. Hurst with her daughter, Doreen, and her family, Mr. and Mrs. M. Main and family, Mrs. R. G. Mason and children and Don Robinson, MLA.

KITCHEN KAPERS

—by PEG TINNEY

I'm afraid I have been guilty of gross neglect as far as my local and kitchen columns are concerned, and can offer no excuse except laziness, lethargy or whatever you want to call the disease so many of us get at this time of year.

However, I have been asked several times recently for a recipe that I published some time ago for a sour cream salad, so felt I should stir myself and comply with the wishes of friends and readers.

SOUR CREAM DELIGHT
1 small carton sour cream
1 can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 can Mandarin oranges, drained
½ pkg. tiny marshmallows few Maraschino cherries for taste and show

Mix all together and refrigerate.

Make early for dinner or overnight for an earlier meal. Can be eaten for main course or dessert.

The value of goods imported into Canada rose by 8.6 per cent in 1962, to a total of $6,268,300,000; the value of goods exported from Canada rose by 7.7 per cent to a total of $6,347,800,000.

A BUSY BIRDWATCHER these days is Mrs. C. V. Hartnell who is pictured with the two baby birds she is raising on chopped egg yolks. The fledglings were deserted by their parents.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. G. Matheos and family, formerly of Burnaby, are new residents in Garibaldi Estates.

Jack Carson and a friend came from Grand Forks to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Carson, and to attend the Loggers' Sports.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill have as their guest his mother, Mrs. H. A. Timmons of Claremont, California. She will visit them for at least a month and maybe longer.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Geddes of Vancouver and their daughter, Monica, visited her sisters, Mrs. F. Wilson and Mrs. J. McKinnon over the weekend. Monica is staying for a few days as the guest of Leslie McKinnon.

Library patronage increases

Adult membership at the Squamish Public Library has hit a high point with more registered members at the end of July than in all of 1962.

Circulation figures are on the upswing too, and 13 percent more books have been taken out than at the same time last year.

There has been a marked increase in the number of books taken out in all three categories, children's, adult fiction and non-fiction.

Indications are that circulation and memberships will be higher this year than at any time in the past.

World travellers attend Squamish Loggers' Sports

The Squamish Loggers' Sports and the Calgary Stampede were the two events we most wanted to see during our tour of Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Heaton-Watson said when they visited Squamish with their nine-year-old daughter Diana last weekend.

Canada is the 33rd country they have visited on their world tour which has taken them through Europe, Asia, Australia and New Zealand. They started on the trip four years ago and expect to be travelling for another 18 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Heaton-Watson landed in Quebec in May and leisurely travelled across Canada.

From B.C. they will go to the States, Mexico and South America before returning to Tanganyika, where they own a coffee plantation near Lushoto.

NINE-YEAR-OLD

They find the travelling is giving their daughter a completely international viewpoint. She already speaks four languages: French, Spanish, English and Swahili fluently.

When asked about the situation in his homeland which has become a republic, Mr. Heaton-Watson said, "The change over to a republic went extremely well. There was no trouble whatsoever. In fact, I think it is the one bright spot in Africa."

He spoke on the vast herds of game in Africa, saying that "there was more game in East Africa than anywhere in the world." He was most disappointed to have seen moose only in Ontario and a deer in B.C. He had anticipated seeing more wild animals in Canada.

In their travels they have already covered 112,000 miles. They are driving an Austin with a specially designed caravan body which they planned themselves. It is completely insulated, has an aluminum body and is equipped with additional water and gas tanks. The worst stretch of road they have encountered in all their travels was between Woomara, north of Adelaide, and Alice Springs in Australia. Another dusty, unmarked stretch was in Iran.

Among the many mementos of their journey are a Maori tiki, a boomerang, and a picture done by the Australian aborigines, in which bark and seaweed depict a typical desert scene.

In addition, Mr. Heaton-Watson, who was with the British Army during the last war, has collected regimental badges from the many army units they have visited during their trip.

But the highlight of their collection is an old automobile horn from a Delhi taxi which was given to them in India.

New committees of the Howe Sound Association for Retarded Children were formed by president Jim Hurren at the first executive meeting.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraboni had as their guests last week, his brother, Ralph, and family of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Petruk went to Williams Lake to attend her brother's wedding. On their return they will move into their new home in Garibaldi Estates.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Brightbill had as their guest last week her brother, Mr. Howard Greatrex of South Pasadena, California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Profili and family are away on a three-week holiday in Rosland and Ocean Park.

Touring Vancouver Island during their three week holiday are Mr. and Mrs. N. Feschuk.

Mrs. E. Stathers brought her grandsons, Robert and David Stathers, down from Lillooet for a few days holiday when she returned from a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stathers.

The three eldest Borg children, Gordy, Debbie and Billy returned to Abbotsford with their grandparents.

Mrs. M. Bochon and her two children were up from North Vancouver on the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eadie.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lamport were their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. Audette of Port Moody, with their sons Raymond and Eddie; another daughter, Mrs. Frances Pierce, a friend, Murray Smith, and Mr. Lamport's sister, Mrs. Emma McLeod, with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Walpole, all of Vancouver.

The secretary is Mrs. Stan Banyard. Teachers for the coming term are Mrs. Jack Ma-veety and Mrs. Jack Jardine.

Classes are held in the Mashiter school in a room made available by the Howe Sound school board.

Rainbow School as the classes are now known, began in 1959, with two pupils taught by the late Mrs. Earl Judd. There are now five pupils enrolled and two teachers.

Miss Joan Anderson, the public health nurse in 1959, was instrumental in its formation. She saw the need and asked the people to do something constructive about it.

The association was set up and appeals were made for funds. One of the big donors, initially, was the Loggers' Sports Committee.

The association would like to give special thanks to the Loggers' Sports for support when it was so badly needed.

Rainbow School is filling a need in the community. Two families have moved here so that their children might have the benefit of the education offered.

FORESTRY DEPT. CLOSES FIRE CAMP

The forestry department closed the camp on the Mamquam at the end of July.

The sixteen Junior Rangers in the camp were under the supervision of Squamish Ranger Jack Carradice. The camp was set up during the Leavette Lake fire.

The Junior Rangers were used in "mopping-up" the fire and worked on other projects in the district.

Ranger Carradice said that he hoped such a camp would be in operation throughout the summer months next year.

LET'S STOP ACCIDENTAL POISONING

The other day we received a phone call with an unusual request, would we please provide something from the pharmacy to prevent the lady's dog from getting sick. The dog knocked down the bottle with 100 Thyroid tablets and swallowed all of them.

Unfortunately our reference books with over 1000 antidotes do not have a thing on Thyroid, we recommended immediate removal of the dog to a veterinary, and the animal was saved.

We relate this incident, which is different from the dozens of phone calls every pharmacist receives annually, when a frantic mother is seeking help for her child, who swallowed some poison.

On most potentially dangerous substances manufacturers have labels warning to keep medicines and poisons away from children's reach. Yet, in the United States (unfortunately we do not have the Canadian statistic) during a single year more than half a million children accidentally swallow harmful drugs — lye, bleach, gasoline, kerosene, furniture polish, rat poison, insect sprays, etc.

The warning labels are for the adults, but two or three year old children who cannot read, don't get any warning from the word "POISON" on the container. It's the adults who must learn to apply proper methods of storing potentially dangerous products.

We know that very young children look around, when they see gay colored boxes or bottles they try to reach them. What they can pick up they put in their mouths. A crawling curiosity child sees the mother put some crystals into a glass. The child reaches for the same crystals. That is how tragedy strikes. The problems by burning through a stopped mouth, throat and stomach.

When a mother notices a child has taken something the first rule is to call a doctor. A better rule is to keep a child where a child is not able to get at them.

When a mother gives an older child a pill in front of a younger one she should never refer to medicine as "Candy" and should put the bottle away in a locked cabinet, because the youngster may climb to an upper shelf and try to eat the same medicine.

It should be a rule not to put gasoline, kerosene or other poisonous liquids into soft drink bottles. A child may have noticed someone drinking from a similar bottle, which now holds poison. If such container is left in a garage, in the cellar or other place where a young child may find it and drink from it — the parents will be blaming themselves for the rest of their lives. A mother should make it a rule never to leave potentially dangerous substance where the child could get to it, when she is answering the doorbell or telephone.

The medicine cabinet while holding useful remedies may have dangerous drugs, which should be discarded after periodic examination. It is best to write down the number of an old prescription rather than to keep an old bottle — if the doctor should order a refill you'll have the information, meanwhile you remove an additional hazard from your medicine cabinet.

We must remember that more children under five years of age die annually from accidental poisoning than from diphtheria, polio, typhoid, measles and scarlet fever combined.

From the 500,000 cases of poison ingestion among young children mentioned earlier we can speculate that there are 500,000 adults who are responsible.

We hope that in the future not a single person will be a part of such a statistic.

ABOVE SHOWS the road between the main highway and Alice Lake being blacktopped. By the weekend the portion between the cemetery and the B.C. Hydro power line was done, and one lane had its finishing coat. A single lane was completed from the power line to just outside the borders of the Park. The paving should be completed this week. This road which was in such poor condition last fall that one tourist wrote in the suggestion book at Alice Lake that "they should build a road instead of using a creek bed" has been widened, ditched and gravelled, in preparation for the blacktopping.

New subdivision at Brackendale

A new housing subdivision is being formed at Brackendale on the former Rae farm at the west end of Judd Road.

Owner Larry Laramee has torn down the barn and the old house will go next.

Ten of the 30 acres he owns are already subdivided into 22 lots between the house and the river. The river bank is to be rip-rapped and he may build a house for himself in the north-west corner near the river.

East of the barn and west of the creek, on the south side of the road he plans to build small two-bedroom houses for rental. One or more may be duplexes and he and his family will live in one of these until his house is built.

The old house was built in 1918 by Lawson Rae and added to ten years later. Laramee bought it from Mrs. Rae four years ago.

Mrs. Rae, who now lives in Squamish, recalls that the house was built by Huey Mills. She and her husband obtained the property under the Soldiers' Settlement Act after the First World War.

"It has served its purpose well," says Mrs. Rae.

"If Larry puts a match to it and burns it to the ground I will have no regrets."

And that is exactly what he intends to do.
