Just the bear facts, ma'am

A real hairy bear story is the one Jack and Renee Carradice are telling these days.

She woke up at about 1:30 a.m. one morning last week and heard a noise in the living room of their home on Judd Road in Brackendale. "It sounded like the rollers rattling on the drapery track," she said.

"The noise continued so she awakened Jack who went to see what the commotion was all about. The noise continued and the curtains were swaying. "My first thought was that it was a bird or small animal caught behind the drapes," Renee said, "but all of a sudden the curtains parted and there was the bear's head poking through."

"He had managed to open the sliding window and was trying to get into the room which is at least five feet above the ground," she added. "Jack tried to reach his guns which were near the wall across the room from the bear, but each time he tried the animal would attempt to get further into the room."

She said that finally by combined shouting and moving towards the window they managed to frighten the bear and he dropped from the sill into the flower beds below. "He made a mess of them, too," she added.

"While Jack got the gun and loaded it, I found a light and we went to look for it. However we couldn't find it but I heard later that, after leaving our place, he visited Mrs. A. Drenka's trailer across the highway and frightened her."

"I've never heard of a bear being that bold," she said. "You could expect it in an isolated cabin, but not in a built-up area like ours. Believe me I kept the children close to the house the next day in case he was still around. And I kept the gun handy, too," she concluded.

The Carradices don't want to see that bear again.

Anaconda elects Knaebel

John B. Knaebel, the former manager for Anaconda (Canada) Ltd., at Britannia Beach, and general manager for new mines since January 1963, has been elected a vice-president of the Anaconda Co. The announcement was made last week following a meeting of the directors.

Mr. Knaebel joined the Anaconda organization in 1946 to take charge of exploration projects in British Guiana and Brazil. Later, as manager of the company's New Mexico operations during the years 1951-56, he was a key figure in the development of Anaconda's uranium mining and milling operations located in the Grants area.

Mr. Knaebel will continue to be a vice-president of the Anaconda Co. (Canada) Ltd., president and managing director of Anaconda Iron Ore (Ontario) Ltd., and vice-president of Anaconda American Brass Ltd., Western Exploration Division; all subsidiaries of the Anaconda Co.

In 1958, the Board of Directors of AIME voted Mr. Knaebel one of its most distinguished awards, the William Lawrence Saunders gold medal, for leadership in the mining industry.

Request dredging of channel

Local businessmen and companies using the channel to the small boat harbour have written to Ottawa requesting that work be done on the channel this year.

The arrival of the dredge which is preparing the site for the chemical plant has prompted this request.

B. C. Bridge and Dredge plans to be here for several months and this would be an opportune time, according to spokesmen for the firms using the channel to have this work done as there would be no costs of moving equipment into the site.

Rover Moot in Black Tusk meadows

One hundred and eighty Rovers from all parts of B.C. held a Rover Moot at Black Tusk Meadows in Garibaldi Park recently.

An advance party went in to prepare the camp and after the main body had left another group remained to clean up.

The boys camped at Parnassus Creek and enjoyed hiking, mountain climbing and fishing. Incidentally, the fishing has been extremely good in Garibaldi Lake this year.

ROD AND GUN CLUB'S interesting display of guns and other items which would interest a sportsman at the Howe Sound Fall Fair. Shown with the display are the club's president, Dick Bouwman and Elgon Tetachuk.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. F. G. CASEY

Mrs. Hepzibah Caroline Casey, widow of the late Francis George Casey of Squamish, passed away on Monday, Aug. 31st. She was 97 years of age and had been in poor health for the past few years.

She is survived by four sons, George and Joseph of Olds, Alta.; Harry, Calgary; and Edward of Squamish; nine grandchildren and 8 great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey had lived in Squamish for many years, with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Casey.

Funeral services were held in Burrard Chapel in North Vancouver on Wednesday, September 2 at 3 p.m., with Rev. John Naylor officiating, followed by cremation.

Swimming in the rain Beach swimmers pass water tests

Foul weather doesn't seem to have any effect on either the spirit or performance of the Britannia Beach swimmers as they attempt to pass this season's swimming examinations.

Perhaps this is to be expected since the cold, wet weather in which they are being examined is little different from the weather they've been practicing in all summer.

On Thursday, Aug. 20th, in the chilly water of the Britannia pool, twenty-two Minnows, Flounders, Sharks and Beginners alternately blew bubbles, counted fingers and flutter kicked in a valiant effort to improve their standing.

Minnows tried to become Flounders, Flounders aiming to be Sharks and Sharks trying for Beginners and everyone trying to get warm again. Someone suggested that the instructor put ice cubes in the water at night.

On Thursday, August 27th, Red Cross examiner Roger Lancaster peered out from his parka hood through a torrent of rain and watched Valerie Dyck, Lynn West, Belinda Holm, and Joey Van der Ham pass their Red Cross test.

He then awarded the "Intermediate" to Isla Patterson, Charlene Friesen, Elizabeth Price, Anneke Van der Ham, Sharon Dyck, Kathy Friesen, Paula and Pat Baverstock.

The last swimmers to be examined were Angela West, Roy Eliason, Linda Knudsen, Karen Marcanato, Judy Brander, Jim Blakeston and Brian Harvey. These swimmers, through their competence in swimming managed to obtain the Senior Red Cross award.

Swimming awards at Britannia culminated with the testing of the Royal Lifesaving Class.

On Wednesday, Sept. 2nd, Allan Bjurman and Karen Lindley received their Bronze medal; Brian Harvey and Bill Mahoney their Bronze Cross award; and Linda Knudsen, Marilyn Adamson and Jim Blakeston received their Award of Merit.

In the competitive side of swimming at Britannia Beach, Janet Clark, one of Britannia's outstanding 11 and 12 year old girls, reached the finals in the Summer Club's Swim Meet at UBC and achieved recognition as the sixth fastest breast stroker in her age group in the province.

Strikes and Pickets

Don Robinson, MLA for this district, was a visitor at the Beach last Tuesday. He spent some time at the Mine Mill Union office and also spoke with Anaconda officials.

Ken Smith, president of the International Mine Union attended the weekly meeting on Tuesday.

The Ladies Strike Committee is doing an admirable job of helping out on several very important projects. A card party and a small dance were held recently and the girls are still keeping the coffee pot hot.

Lions news letter

Civic park is Lions' project

by Alf Angell

The idea of the Lions Club is to help and assist our community in any way possible.

The motto of the club is "We serve."

This week I would like to bring your attention to the municipal park which the Lions Club tries hard to keep in shape. This park is located on River Road, between the Loggers Sports and the Logging Road. This park consists of tenting, trailer, and picnic sites. Also a closed in picnic stove. We installed restrooms (women's and men's) three years ago, however the public does not appreciate this.

In the course of the last two years we have had to install three sets of toilets. This is due to breakage and just-willful damage. I am not saying that this is done by our community or anyone else but I think something should be done. I was over there the other day and the toilets cannot be used due to the fact that they are smashed and plugged again. So let's all take a little more pride in our community park and make it a place we'll be proud to use.

Another item I would like to bring up is the ambulance. The ambulance is solely owned and operated by the Lions Club. The money which is brought in is put back into the ambulance account for operating and maintaining expenses. This account is not part of the Lions general funds but an account for one purpose . . . to keep the ambulance on the road.

Well here we go with the same old story . . . WASHED OUT AGAIN . . . If this was a song title, it would be a hit tune in Squamish this year. We haven't got a final analysis yet, but the financial statement we expect to get doesn't look too promising.

Delegates elected

Four groups in the Squamish Valley held a meeting last week and elected representatives to attend the meeting with members of the village council at the Mamquam School on Thursday, Sept. 10th.

These representatives will come prepared to discuss their financial position and how their services and those of the present village could be combined if a district municipality is created.

Chosen to represent the Mamquam Water District on Monday evening were A. Fragoni and P. Derhouseoff. On Tuesday evening the VLA members elected C. Bellis and E. B. MacDonald to represent them.

On Wednesday evening a group of Brackendale residents met and chose I. Boscarol and F. D. Ross to represent them and the Mamquam Sewer District met on Friday evening to choose Mr. P. Goode and Mr. E. Ellingson as delegates.

Scholarships to be awarded

Graduates of Howe Sound Secondary School will be honored at the graduation ceremonies to be held on Friday, Sept. 11th at 8:00 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

At this ceremony scholarships and bursaries will be presented to successful candidates for the following awards:

McMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. Ltd. Scholarship for university program and one for general program.

Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd. Scholarship for university program and two for general program. Students in School District No. 48 (Howe Sound) are eligible for these three scholarships.

Howe Sound Teachers' Association Scholarship.

Howe Sound School District Scholarship.

Howe Sound Parent Teachers Association Scholarship.

Woodfibre Canadian Legion Scholarship.

Independent Loggers Association Scholarship.

The guest speaker at the ceremony will be Mr. T. G. Carter, former inspector of schools for the Howe Sound school district.

High school courses at night school

Night School in Squamish will be able to offer High School courses this year. A class will be formed of people wishing to take High School courses by correspondence.

For these people, a teacher will be provided to tutor them in places where they have difficulty in the correspondence courses. This class will meet regularly each week from the middle of September to the middle of June.

Students completing the correspondence courses will then write the governmental or correspondence course exams in June. By this means, Night School will provide an opportunity for adults to complete their High School graduation. For further information about this class, phone Mr. Henry Johns at 892-5493.

Temperature hit new low for August

A record low for August was registered on the 31st when temperatures fell to 41 degrees. H. H. Bailey, who has been keeping weather records since 1951, says it is the lowest August temperature he has ever recorded.

High temperature for the month was 80 degrees on August 10th and corresponding ones last year were a high of 80 and low of 47.

Rainfall in August amounted to 4.18 inches, more than four times as much as 1963's .84 inches. This brought the total rainfall for 1964 to 53.01 inches.

Reports from Diamond Head state that snow fell there a week ago and there was a four inch snowfall at Black Tusk meadows in the last week of August.

Pemberton fair on Labor Day

Pemberton held its annual Fall Fair Labor Day and as in Squamish, entries were down compared to last year. The poor season and lack of good weather was instrumental in reducing the number of exhibits in many classes.

Winners in the various sections were Vegetable Aggregate Mrs. C. Ronayne; Flower Aggregate Mrs. K. Lundgren; who won the B. C. Telephone Co.'s rose bowl; Potatoes and turnips, C. Ronayne; Fruit, K. Harris; Baking, Mrs. Ayres; Canning, Mrs. N. Gilmore; Handicrafts, Mrs. K. C. Harris; Junior exhibit, 8 to 11 years, Doug Mitchell; Junior exhibit, 12 to 16 years, Bobby Mitchell and Indian Exhibits, Mrs. Mack Lester.

A full list of prize winners will appear in next week's issue.

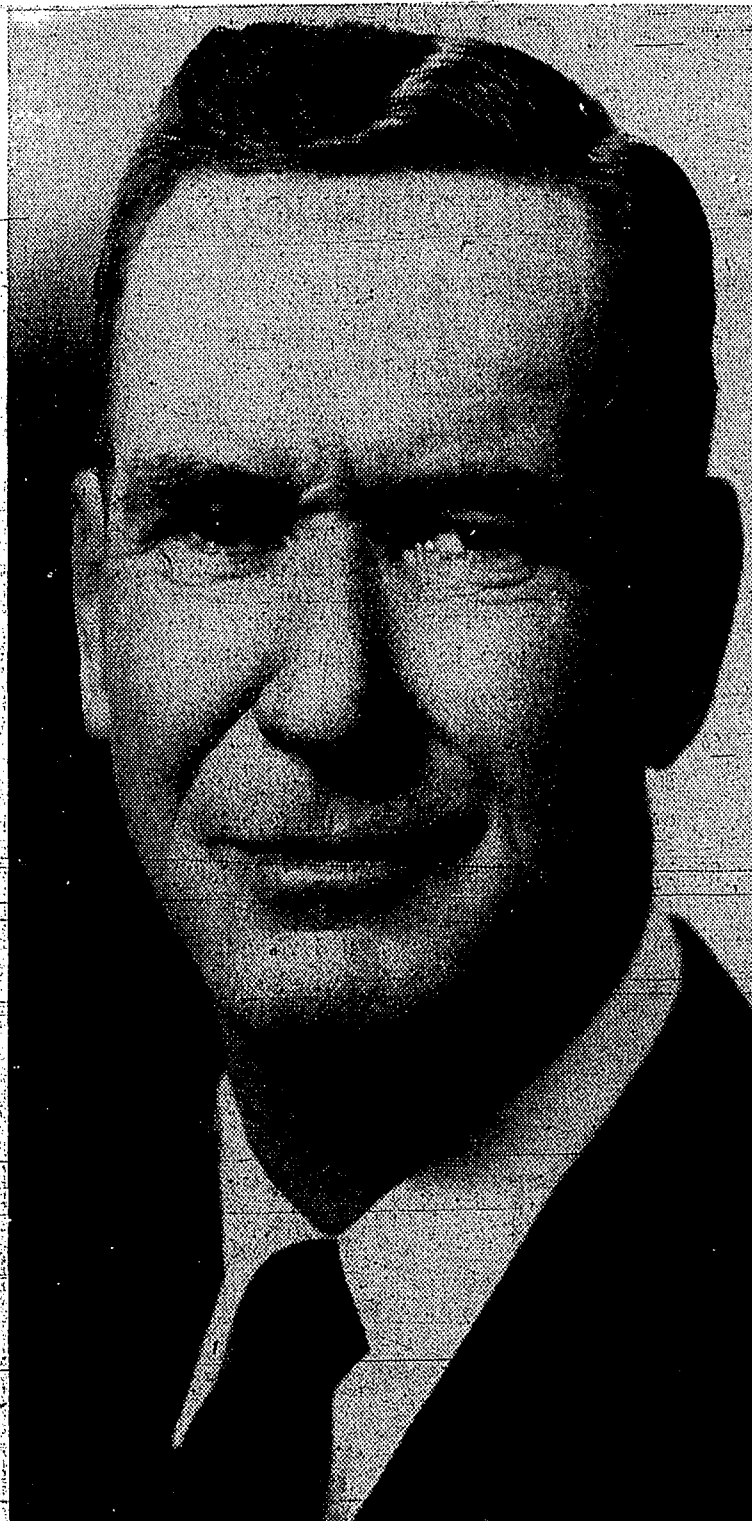

RAINBOW CLASS SEES THE CIRCUS

Members of the Rainbow Class for retarded children visited the PNE recently and attended the Shrine Circus.

They enjoyed all the acts, but the animals appealed to the youngsters. They were especially delighted with the number and variety of the animal acts.

Mrs. J. Maveety and Mrs. J. Jardine, teachers for the class, provided the transportation and accompanied them on their trip to the circus. It is hoped that next year they will be able to get a small bus to take them so they will not have to be separated.

Tickets for the circus were obtained for the children through the efforts of the local Shriners.

PGE Shows Steady Growth...

Last year the Pacific Great Eastern Railway made its most impressive progress since its inception more than fifty years ago.

New industries and the development of the north country have been instrumental in its continued growth. With even more industrial expansion predicted for the next few years it cannot help but continue to show even more progress.

While still active in developing the country and instrumental in assisting that development, the railway is now taking a more active part as a carrier of commodities in much greater volume. Both the forest industry and mineral areas along the line are adding to the amount of goods being shipped over the provincial owned line.

The railroad is also stimulating the development of the district it serves by providing serviced industrial and residential areas to meet increased growth and in making larger parcels available for the development of heavy industry. Prince George is one community where industrial areas are being provided and several firms have shown an active interest in acquiring industrial land at Squamish.

With rail and deep sea facilities available it is expected that one or more firms will locate here within the next year.

A residential subdivision is being opened up at Williams Lake where lots will also be made available under the VLA. Industry is also expanding in this area.

Installation of private sidings to serve industry, extension of other sidings and reconstruction of two major bridges were also part of the year's activities.

The founders of the government owned railway probably hoped that one day it would reach the stage it now has but there must have been many doubts during the lean years when rail service was curtailed and many wondered if there was any point in continuing to operate the line.

The extensions from Squamish south to North Vancouver and the northward expansion from Quesnel to Prince George and later to the Peace River district, were the turning point in the railway's fortunes. From that time it continued to go ahead.

With the increasing industrialization of the province and the development of our forest and mineral resources the railway should continue to progress.

Don't Leave Children...

In the past few weeks we've noticed that some mothers make a practice of leaving their small children alone in cars while they are shopping or paying bills.

Last week one little girl, who couldn't have been more than four, was having a ball climbing in and out of the car windows, both on the sidewalk and on the street side. She could very easily have fallen and hurt herself, or fallen in front of an approaching car.

She ended her gymnastic performance by happily climbing onto the top of the car where she beamed and waved at people going by. It might have seemed cute to some people but it scared us silly.

Another time a little tyke, no more than two years old, was left in the back seat of the car while his mother went shopping. He fell and bumped his head and cried bitterly for some time before she returned.

There are always the children who persist in honking the horn when they are left alone in the car, driving the store clerks and business men almost to distraction while mother blithely goes about her business apparently unaware of the disturbance they are creating.

Children shouldn't be left alone in cars. And certainly not small children. There have been cases of youngsters starting the motor and causing an accident. But, apart from that, it isn't wise. The little girl we mentioned could have been badly hurt and the tiny tot was obviously very frightened and wanted his mother's assurance.

We'll admit that it is sometimes a bother to take them into the stores with you, but unless there is another adult around, it's by far the wisest policy, even if it is inconvenient.

Don't leave small children alone in the car at any time!

WHAT OTHERS SAY...

Montreal A Pawn In The Fair Game

by BERNARD KAPLAN

Of the Montreal Star's Paris Bureau PARIS — Trying to get at the facts behind the International Bureau of Exhibitions' approval of the Long Beach, California, world's fair is like investigating the Bay of Pigs fiasco.

A thick fog—man-made—covers the whole terrain, blotting out the leads.

The official Canadian line—after the fait accompli—is that the "limited" California fair won't hurt, and may even benefit, the Montreal fair. At the IBE session here which approved the Long Beach bid on Monday, some observers were surprised, to put it mildly, to hear Canadian officials emphasize they had "helped" Long Beach in its presentation and, in effect, in finding a way around the IBE rules which seemed to preclude two international exhibitions on the North American continent within a year of each other.

DIFFERENT TUNE

Yet less than a month before, some of these same officials were insisting there was no way Long Beach could receive endorsement from the international organization for a fair in 1968. At the same time, embarrassed and worried IBE authorities were telling reporters that, contrary to stories emanating from Long Beach, the matter was only "under study" and no decision had been taken. While this was technically true, later information could only lead observers to believe it was also eyewash.

As a Long Beach fair representative told me, "We've had little doubt for nearly a year that the project would get the IBE's blessing. Once we hit on the idea of calling it a 'specialized' fair on transportation and communications, we were sure of it."

Calling it a "specialized" fair was the loophole around the bureau's regulations. But "transportation and communications" offer a lot of latitude. (What else is there?) A Californian asked candidly, "The Long Beach exposition will cover everything from outer space to tourism."

Can it be said truthfully that the Long Beach fair won't hurt Montreal? On the fact of it, the bland assurances are at least open to doubt. The plain fact is that foreign exhibitors are now being asked to take part at great expense in a pair of North American expositions within two years. Is it going too far to suppose that many will decide to participate in only one of them and that Montreal will lose exhibitors—and visitors—it might otherwise have counted on?

The Long Beach fair is no small undertaking. It will be well able to offer competitive allure. Despite its "limited" nature, it is expected to cost at least $400,000,000—nearly as much, all told, as the Montreal fair.

The Californians can't be blamed for acting as they have done. They say they have been planning their exposition since 1958 and point out that the IBE originally rejected Montreal in favor of Moscow as the site of a fair in 1967.

"We've always co-operated as best we could with Montreal," a Long Beach official, William Phillips, said. "When Mlle. Marchal, who was then the IBE's director, visited us last year, we paid the expenses of her trip to Montreal so she could see fair officials there."

POWER POLITICS

At first glance, the IBE, led by its octogenarian president Leon Barety, seems so unambitious even by the standards of most international organizations. But, looking closer, it becomes clear power politics plays its devious role here as elsewhere. The IBE saw the chance of getting the United States to join President Johnson and the U.S. ambassador to France, Charles Bohlen, both of whom had never signed the 1928 convention—wanted to be a full member in time for 1976 bi-centenary celebrations marked by a world's fair. In these circumstances, the international bureau understandably wished to show itself as "accommodating" as possible. Giving approval to the Long Beach fair was one way to do this. Montreal's fair was, as it happened, the pawn in the game.

All this looks fairly obvious. Less so has been the behavior of some Canadian officials who seemed strangely averse to straight speaking and looking at a situation as it is. Some of them do not emerge very impressively from the affair. One might say that they were "had."

Happy Anniversary You Lucky Customers!!

We don't know how you put up with us the past 11 years, but WE have enjoyed doing business with YOU, and living in this wonderful Squamish Valley.

September 1st was the 11th Anniversary of Fred's "Good Eatin' Bread"

Rural England

Stonehenge; a relic of an ancient religion

Then we crossed the Mendip Hills and headed south eastward. A quaint little shop carried the sign "Last Shop in Somerset."

Travelling along at a good clip I spotted something unusual on the hill to my left. "What's that?" I asked Stan. After a quick look he replied "Stonehenge." I would have been past the crossroad before realizing it was there had we not been alert. And once a crossroad is passed, finding a place to turn is something of a problem.

STONEHENGE

Stonehenge must be England's greatest enigma. Dating back to 1500 B.C. it was obviously the scene of religious rites with its inner circle of high rectangular stones and outer ring of smaller ones. How did they raise those monstrous rocks into position and where did they find them? Your guess is as good as anyone else's.

Salisbury boasts of the tallest cathedral spire in England. The lovely edifice is a wonderful example of early English architecture. The high roofs, pointed arches, flying buttresses and lancet windows combine with the towering spire to produce a picture of soaring beauty.

From Salisbury we followed a country road to the ancient city of Winchester, capital of the Saxon kingdom of Wessex. Here is England's longest cathedral where so many of England's great have been laid to rest. Here is the tomb of King Canute and his Queen Emma; the father of Alfred the Great lies here; and Isaac Walton, who fished in the nearby Itchen River, is buried here.

A tablet marks the resting place of Jane Austen; no mention is made of her literary talents but a beautiful stained glass window is a lovely memorial of the esteem in which she was held. Directly across the nave is the south window, presented to the people of Winchester by the Americans and unveiled in 1938 by Ambassador Joseph Kennedy.

The author.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke holidayed in Europe. These are some of the sights they saw during their trip through rural England visiting cathedrals, inns and other places of interest.

THE PASTRIES WERE DELICIOUS

In the centre of Winchester is a statue to Alfred the Great; a stone's throw away against a wall of warm red brick we found the largest and most beautiful clematis flowers I have ever seen. Here, too, we had tea at a shop displaying the most mouth-watering pastries I have ever beheld plus cakes of every description decorated for every possible occasion. There were birthday cakes like hats with blue flowers and ribbons for trimming and one adorned with a ship for a going-away party, just to mention two.

We spent a night at Henley where stables were practising for the races. They were everywhere, their oars flashing in the sunlight as drops of water glistened back into the Thames.

SHRINE TO SHAKESPEARE

On to Stratford. The whole town is a shrine to that erring son, Will Shakespeare. The local citizens probably predicted that he would come to no good and lived to eat their words.

A simple statue and a lovely royal theatre beside the Avon River are a tribute to his memory. Lovely gardens and greens line the river banks and in the distance is the spire of Holy Trinity Church where he is buried seventeen feet deep with the warning:

"Good friend for Jesus sake forbare

To dig the dust enclosed here!

Blest be the man that spares the stones

And curst be he that moves my bones."

No wonder his remains were never moved to Westminster Abbey. A marble figure testifies to his greatness there but his grave has never been touched.

It's all there to see and revere; his birthplace, the schoolroom where he studied and Anne Hathaway's cottage. Rowboats and launches disturb the peace of the river but the swans swim calmly along secure in the knowledge that they are an integral part of the scene.

SHAKESPEARE EXHIBITION

A superb exhibition commemorating Shakespeare's birthday is being held at Stratford. Here we visited Elizabethan England, the London of 1590 with its sights, sounds and, yes, smells. The life of Shakespeare was shown in pictures and scene. Best of all was a huge replica of the Globe Theatre where we sat for half an hour and listened to recordings of famous speeches given by such greats as Edith Evans, John Gielgud, Ralph Richardson and Laurence Olivier.

By this time I was so steeped in English history and literature that I had to see the remains of Kenilworth Castle, home of John of Gaunt and later, the Earl of Leicester, a favorite of Queen Elizabeth I. How easy to picture the scenes of grandeur as the ambitious earl entertained his sovereign! Will we ever know if his wife fell or was pushed to her death down the steep staircase?

The modern village of Kenilworth gave us a wonderful picture of an English Saturday night. The rooms at the Inn were comfortable, the lounge and bar below spacious and elegant.

We ordered ham sandwiches with our ale. They were served to us in a basket topped by a red bow and surrounded by lettuce, tomato wedges, onion rings and sliced cucumbers. The place was crowded, talk flowed freely, and everyone was charming and friendly.

But the next morning we found part of the lounge barred as Catholic Mass was being held there. Unusual perhaps, but the wife of the proprietor was of French origin. Believe me, this was not a typical English pub.

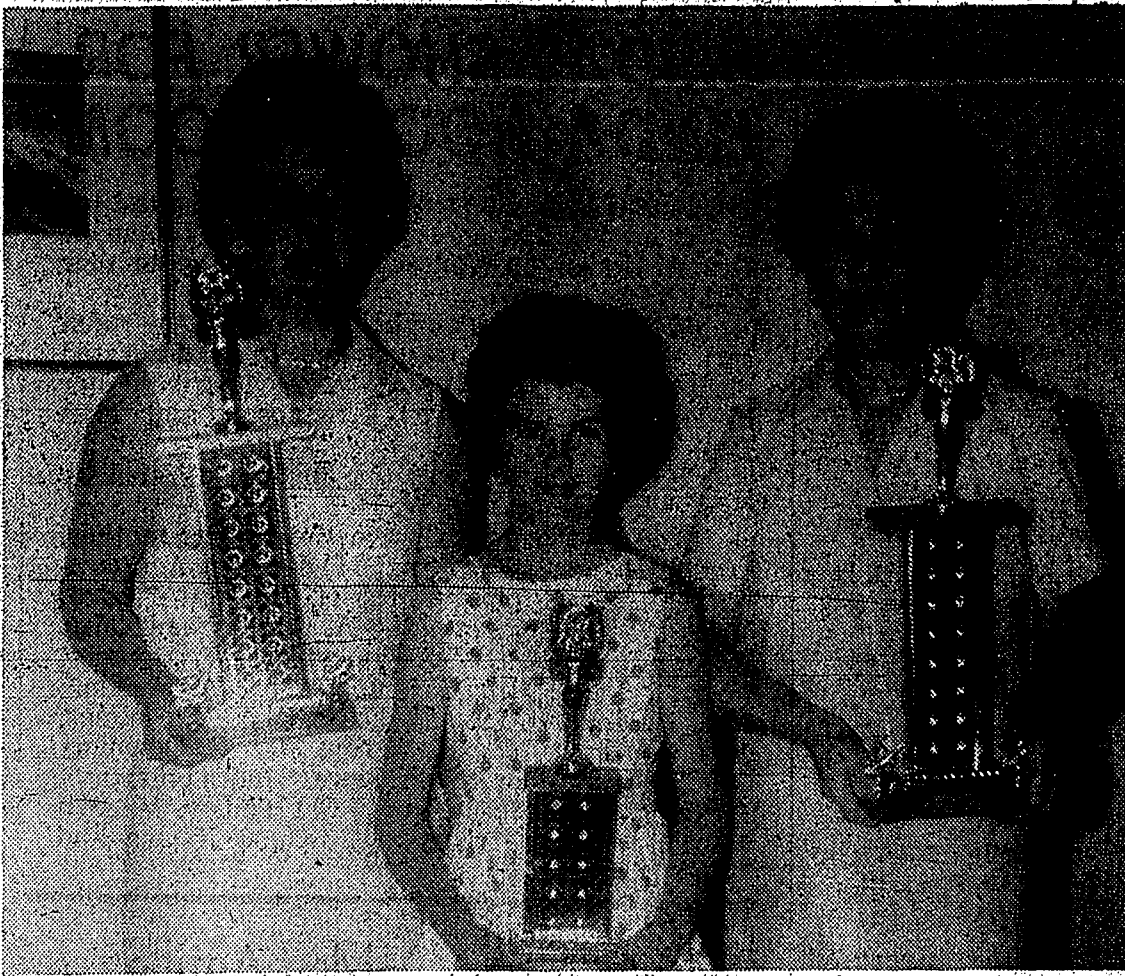

Then, homeward by way of King's Lynn where King John's jewels are reported to have been lost in the River Ouse. A charming hotel here had the wackiest stairs; they all sloped outwards and the rail was made of axe-hewn timbers. Fancy climbing those sloping stairs after an evening of liquid replenishment!

While stopping for tea at a roadside cafe we were astounded to see a panoramic picture of St. Mary's Lake on the wall.

Our last point of interest was an old priory at Castle Acre where there was a huge field of English poppies; an island of scarlet in a sea of green. An unusual amount of activity appeared to be taking place at the old priory; trees were being tied to the stone walls, ruins were being draped with ivy and gardens were being set out.

Would you believe it? A horror movie named "Lygia" was being shot there by Shepparton Studios. Tourists mingled with prop men, work crews, cameramen and actors. There's a picture we'll watch for even if it's grade C.

And so back to Norwich for a cleanup and washup, then, Amsterdam. I'm on my way!

THREE GENERATIONS of champions. who won the cooking trophy; and Mrs. J. M. G. Hurren who won the flower and needlework aggregate trophies; her daughter, Mrs. O. Reeve, granddaughter Gwen Reeve who won the aggregate in the junior section.

Alta Lake Ripples

by Kelly Fairhurst

Building has been going on at the Lake this summer with four new cottages arising along its shores. On the east side, there are three, Douglas's, Swain's and Doug Mansell's. Jackie Pope has built one on the west side.

Much of last winter's snow is still in evidence on the surrounding mountains and added to this is a fresh mantle of snow from this week's rain.

Jack and Cis Mansell have gone to Edmonton for a week's holiday.

The cut at the south end of Alta Lake is near completion. All that is left is graveling, then the highway will be completed to the north end of Green Lake.

Fred Hilderbrand has returned home to Vancouver after spending the summer months working on Cypress Lodge.

Young members of the YWCA established a base camp at Alta Lake this summer and climbed most of the high mountains in the area.

Glen Creelman took a trip to the top of Mt. Currie last week and said he had a magnificent view of the Pemberton, Lillooet Lake and Alta Lake valleys.

PGE shipments down in August

A decline in lumber shipments—largely due to bad weather and renovations to several large mills—caused a slight drop in Pacific Great Eastern carloadings during August, it is announced by J. S. Broadbent, vice-president and general manager.

Total carloadings for the month was 6439, compared with 6365 for the corresponding month last year. Total for the year to date is still well ahead of the previous year, the figures being 46,600, compared with 44,533.

PERSONAL

WE have a large selection of pocket novels, men's magazines, true and love stories. Squamish Furniture.

Never knew so many people didn't get dressed 'til late in the morning. Of course I don't on my days off, so why should anyone else on a Sunday morning. But if you had realized how many people turned out to get a look at the steam locomotive a week or so ago, and had to sit in their cars to watch it because of the housecoats and robes they were wearing you'd be surprised. No kidding. I know one family who turned out all attired in their "leisure" wear.

The train certainly created a lot of interest. I hear Al Bird has had numerous requests for pictures of the engine. Must be something about steam that is more interesting and romantic than a Diesel engine. Or is it just that it's a thing of the past?

Did you notice that even the third generation is getting into the act when it comes to Fall Fairs? Seems young Gwen Reeve, who won the aggregate in the junior exhibitor's section is following her mother, Mrs. O. Reeve, aggregate cooking winner, and her grandmother, Mrs. J. M. G. Hurren, who walked off with trophies in both flowers and home needlework. If Gwen inherits those talents she's going to be hard to beat, with flower-growing, cooking and needlework skills in her background.

Notice that the new highway to Pemberton has been posted with road and speed signs. The latter says in one spot "Slow to 40" so it must be going to be a 50 mph road. Guess our poor little bottleneck between Squamish and Britannia will never get above its 30 mph limitations. Seems silly, doesn't it? A good highway on either end and that in the middle.

Heard one girl complaining at Alice Lake the other day that her "Bathing suit didn't wear out this year. It just hung around so much that the moths finished it." I'm surprised that it was warm enough for the moths.

One of the youngsters at the youth crew camp at Garibaldi maintained that the story about them was wrong, in one case, anyway. "I didn't gain any weight," he complained. "In fact, I lost ten pounds." One of the other lads commented on the side, "and he could still lose some!"

Did you hear about the girl who applied at one of our local banks for a job? When she was asked what her qualifications were she said "Well, I've always liked to handle money."

Letters to the editor

Editor, The Squamish Times,
Dear Sir:
Congratulations on your wonderful showing. I see from the press that the Squamish Times was named Canada's best weekly paper with a circulation under 1,000. The same report also said that your weekly had won the George M. Murray trophy for the best editorial page in the 1,000-circulation category. This is indeed good news, your success is well deserved.

It is a pleasure to read your papers and to be associated with the area served by the Squamish Times and The Lions Gate Times.

Yours sincerely,
Jack Davis, M.P.
Parliamentary Secretary to the Prime Minister.

Bowling alley, cafe robbed

The Waltz-in Cafe and Squamish Lanes were both broken into on the night of Thursday, Sept. 3rd. In both cases entry was effected by prying open a window.

The coin box from the cigarette machine in both buildings was looted and money was taken from the till at Squamish Lanes.

RCMP are investigating the case.

New books at the library

Dr. Seuss has done it again!

by Freda Clarke, Librarian

Is there no end to the talent of Dr. Seuss? The Squamish Library has his new volume "The Sleep Book" for the young patrons who are his devotees. This book is meant for bedtime reading and is full of the unusual characters and situations for which this author has become justly famous.

For those just a little older there is Marion Upington's "The Beautiful Cypessers" about a family of paper dolls who are tired of their corner of the playroom. In searching for new friends the family have numerous delightful adventures; this is to be expected when father, mother, four sons and four daughters are all excitement bound.

Robert Goldston's story of "Le Cid" should appeal to all lovers of adventure who have been intrigued by the almost legendary exploits of the famous Spanish hero.

Nursing stories have a very wide appeal and Dorothy Blatter's "Cap and Candle" should be warmly welcomed. The setting here is modern Turkey and deals with the struggle of a Turkish girl to overcome the obstacles to her ambition to become a nurse.

Would you like a mystery? Then how about Mary Jane's "Mystery by Moonlight?" Here is an old deserted mansion, strange noises at night and sinister voices; all the ingredients of a story NOT to be read at bedtime.

Adults will be pleased to know that a new lot of books have arrived from Victoria and these are now waiting for you on the library shelves. Come in and help yourselves.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS SEPTEMBER 19

The Squamish Merchants' Men's Senior Soccer Club has enrolled in the Mainland Soccer League in the Fifth Division.

All those interested in playing soccer with this team are asked to report to a practice on Thursday evening, September 10th at the high school grounds.

The first exhibition game will be played in Squamish at the high school grounds on Sunday, Sept. 19th. A further notice regarding the team and time will be found in next week's issue.

Practices will be held three times a week; on Sundays at 2:00 p.m. and Tuesdays and Thursday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

Gray Mitchell is managing the soccer team and Mickey Stillwell is the coach. They urge the fans to turn out and support the local team.
