WOODFIBRE RESIDENT MARKS 80th BIRTHDAY

C. J. (Charlie) Erickson of Woodfibre, whose eightieth birthday was on October 16th, celebrated it at his home in Woodfibre that weekend.

Members of the family who live close to Woodfibre joined him at supper in honor of his birthday.

Mr. Erickson keeps active and busy about his home. Among his many projects, is the completion of a boat which he is building in his basement.

Not all minors are poor drivers

The question of youthful drivers again came up for discussion at last week's Chamber of Commerce meeting and W. J. Elliott said that he had checked figures for local accidents and in his opinion, the great majority of youthful drivers were not as bad as most people thought they were.

In 1963 there were 74 motor vehicle accidents, processed by his insurance business, and 29 of these accidents involved drivers under 25 years of age. Of these 29 accidents, only eight involved drivers under 18 years of age.

However, he said that this was a misleading figure as only three drivers were involved in these accidents, one had four and two others each had two. He felt that these three drivers were giving the entire 16 to 18 year group the reputation of poor drivers.

Already in 1964, his figures for the first six months show 41 accidents with 14 involving drivers under 25, but only three drivers are 16-year-olds. Two were girls and the third was a youth.

The members were told that driver training courses in the school produced the best drivers, and these young people were rarely involved in accidents. However raising the age at which a young person could drive from sixteen to eighteen would, in most cases prevent him from taking advantage of such driver training in school as most high school students are just eighteen or under when they graduate from high school.

The members felt that instead of raising the minimum age, the period of time during which a young person would be permitted to drive with a licensed adult could be extended.

Other business dealt with at the meeting concerned a suggestion from F. Bennett of the Commerce and Industry Committee that the chamber work more closely with the village council in order to keep abreast of potential industrial inquiries. He also suggested that members of the chamber attend council meetings.

G. M. Behrner reported that the footings for the bridge across the channel at Daisy Lake should be completed by Christmas. To date no contract for the remainder of the bridge has been let. The bridge across the Cheakamus below the dam will take much longer to complete.

R. A. Munro heads SVTOA

Richard A. Munro was elected president of the Squamish Valley Truck Owners Association at the annual meeting held October 13.

Vice-president elected was Pat Morgan and Secretary Mrs. E. Binning. Directors of S.V.T.O.A. are: H. Burrett, R. McCormack, J. Malic and L. Armstrong.

Council names Bird inspector

A. E. Bird was appointed smoke inspector of the village of Squamish at the last council meeting.

Council passed an air pollution bylaw earlier this year but had not named an inspector.

Mr. Bird is also the building and plumbing inspector.

HON. D. R. CAMPBELL, Minister of Municipal Affairs, with members of the representatives group who worked on the suggested articles for incorporation as a district municipality. With the minister are Mr. A. Carrico, P. N. Goode, I. Boscarol and P. J. Brennan. Mr. Campbell addressed a public meeting on incorporation last Thursday evening.

Civic Centre helps solve youth problems

Sgt. Bellamy, whose work among the young people in Vancouver has been widely recognized, spoke to members of the committee investigating youth problems and a group of invited guests.

He stressed that this is a social issue, not a legal one. Problems stem from a few and emanate through the group. The first six years of a child's life are the important ones. If the first six years aren't good and solid with proper parental control, a problem is created.

"Good guidance is important at this time," he said. "At this time most parents have control of their children. In the years between 7 and 12, parents lose their grip and have only half as much control. The crucial years are the ones between 13 and 18."

He said a civic centre equipped to handle people of all ages is the best answer to the problem which has been created because the community spirit is lost once a city grows. A civic centre is the place to get it back.

CENTRES CATER TO ALL AGE GROUPS

"These centres should be suitably staffed by trained personnel able to work with all ages from children to pensioners. He mentioned some of the facilities which should be found in a centre, listing common meeting places, a gymnasium, project rooms, arts and crafts, and room for dancing.

"Parents can be re-educated through a community centre," he said. He recommended that local abilities and talents be utilized as much as possible and suggested creating an interest in Indian arts and crafts.

He emphasized that the programs must be planned to interest those who are not suited to team sports and have no other outlet.

He suggested that a careful look at what Squamish would be like in five years would give an idea of what would be needed at that time, and this could be the basis of plans for such a centre.

He recommended a central location, a membership fee of one dollar and fifty cents per year up to 19 years of age, self-policing by the young people, and a capable director and assistant director.

PROBLEMS START IN THE HOME

The sergeant said the problems start in the home. There are only three kinds of parents, apathetic, normal, and over protective. The young people should not be blamed for their parents' apathetic attitude.

He also said that adults do not have the respect of the young people and this is their fault. They have failed to be objects of respect.

Suitable chaperones should be few in number, according to Sgt. Bellamy, and the young people should be encouraged to do their own policing as much as possible. Proper behaviour and good manners should be emphasized. Pass outs should not be permitted, once a young person comes to the centre in the evening, he should not be allowed to return if he leaves.

Those who cannot be controlled should be banned for one month, but he suggested the ban should not be any longer.

The civic centre and its personnel should not be expected to deal with psychological problems.

He recommended taking plans for a civic centre to Victoria and asking them to help.

H. M. Stilson thanked Sgt. Bellamy on behalf of the committee and the visitors and said it was interesting to listen to someone who was so dedicated.

The talk would be of help if we had a problem and would enable us to meet it if it existed.

Steel spar upsets

Fortunately no one was injured last week when the steel spar owned by Howe Sound Timber Co. Ltd., upset and fell more than a hundred feet down the hillside about 1 p.m. on Monday, October 19th.

The spar, which was used in the company's logging operations just south of the Elaho bridge, narrowly skinned the edge of the loader owned by the same company, and grazed a shovel belonging to A. McIntosh as it fell.

John Drenka, owner of Howe Sound Timber, said the operator, Frank Kehler, stayed in the new elevated steel cab and rode out the upset.

He feels that this prevented him from injuries as he might have been hit by the spar of flying cables if he had tried to jump.

"We put the elevated cab on the spar last winter while it was in the shop," Mr. Drenka said. "If it had been the old one, off to the side, he would probably have jumped and been either hurt or killed."

"The machine was raised and later sent to Vancouver where it will be repaired."

He expected that the company's main operation would be closed down for at least a week, but the loader could "cherry pick", that is, pick up logs along the roadside until another machine could be obtained.

Howe Sound Timber Co. brought the first steel spar into this area and John Drenka is sold on them. "They certainly make for faster logging," he says "and this is the first time we've had any trouble with them. I'm just glad that no one was hurt. At least the spar can be repaired."

Village bans fireworks

Again this year only organizations or groups of adults will be permitted to purchase fireworks within the village, or to set them off in the same area.

This can only be done by applying to the municipal office for a permit to purchase them or set them off.

Merchants in Squamish are again co-operating in this move, which was prompted by several accidents in previous years.

Interim gov't to be appointed if vote succeeds

by Rose Tatlow

November 21st will be the day of decision in the Squamish valley. Municipal Affairs Minister D. R. Campbell said in a meeting last Thursday evening that the vote for or against incorporation would be held on the third Saturday in November.

If the vote is for amalgamation, his department will immediately appoint three additional councillors, one each from Mamquam Water District, Mamquam Sewer District and Brackendale, together with the present village council to form an interim government.

Elections in the Squamish village area will be held on the regular date in December and the two councillors elected at that time will hold office, with the chairman, two councillors who still have a year in office and the appointed members from outside the village until the end of March at which time a district-wide elections will be held.

DISTRICT ELECTIONS AT END OF MARCH

A reeve and six councillors will be chosen at this election to govern the municipality. The reeve and three candidates who receive the highest number of votes will serve for the remainder of a two year term, expiring at the end of December, 1966. The next three successful candidates will serve for the remainder of the one year term expiring at the end of December, 1965.

Elections in future years will proceed on the usual pattern with three councillors elected each year and a reeve every second year.

FLEXIBLE FORM OF GOVERNMENT

"A district municipality is the most flexible piece of administration we have," the minister said. "It marries an industrial core with a rural countryside."

"Look at the basic things a district municipality can do," continued. "It can provide control of building siting and land use. Growth brings problems. Fringe developments spring up around a community which would like to have some local say about what goes on around them."

"The idea of creating a district municipality is not only first class but one that you will never regret as you look into the future. There is no question about the industrial future of Squamish. You will have a port and an industrial complex here."

Mr. Campbell went on to say that the industrial benefits of an area should not belong to just one small part of it but a fairly large area should gain the benefits of the industrial taxation. The soundest basis is to balance industrial, commercial and residential assessments.

"Services can't go far if only property is taxed to support them. Such an area is essentially underserved. Three areas are needed and the Squamish Valley is fortunate that this is one of the places in which this is true."

continued "A region which belongs together socially and economically should work together. Industrial taxation should be available to those who work in the industries, in the form of services." He cited the case of the two Albernys who voted last week for amalgamation.

"Port Alberni was sitting pretty with all the industry while Alberni was largely residential. They solved the moral question by deciding to form one entity."

"It is the recommendation of our department to have such a vote conducted. I would hope that you vote yes. I feel that nobody can go around the province of B.C. without realizing the merits of local government have to be strengthened. They require broader tax basis and more control of local land use by local authorities."

"Those who live in a valley, which is geographically, socially and economically one unit, should become one," he concluded.

QUESTION PERIOD

River control, PGE and crown land and bridges were discussed during the brief question period which followed the meeting.

The minister said the provincial government would not ask the municipality to pay police and welfare costs for at least a year after incorporation and probably not until the beginning of 1966.

River control would be done on a local, provincial and federal basis and this problem will have to be dealt with whether we are a municipality, a village or unorganized.

A question regarding acquisition of crown lands by a municipality was answered by saying that it can be obtained for park purposes or for subdivisions. Regarding PGE lands which do not pay taxes the minister said "If it wasn't for the PGE the industrial development of this valley wouldn't be possible." He added that when the PGE reaches the profit stage the Minister of Finance has stated that another look would be taken at this question.

The question of who would pay for construction of a bridge across the Squamish River if a highway was built connecting Squamish and Woodfibre, was asked and the minister replied that this would be an arterial highway and would be the responsibility of the provincial government and the highway authority.

Prior to the meeting the minister was the guest of honor at a dinner attended by representatives of the various districts, and the village council. He was also taken for a tour of the valley in the afternoon.

LEON KEYES DIES SUDDENLY

Leon Keyes, well known local businessman and owner of Squamish Coach Lines passed away suddenly early on Monday morning. He was 48 years of age.

Mr. Keyes had been in the taxi and stage line business since 1948 when, with Jim McCall, he bought the business owned by W. Clarke. Later with Glen Johnson and Jack Worthington, they formed Squamish Stages.

Squamish Coach Lines Ltd., was formed in 1958 and he was one of the shareholders along with Worthington and Johnson, who later sold to him and last year he became sole owner of the stage line.

Mr. Keyes is survived by his wife, Margery, two sons, Leonard and Raymond, a brother Cy in Vancouver and a sister in the States.

B. C. Logging Group chooses Hendrickson

A. W. HENDRICKSON, named as vice chairman of Harrison Group.

A. W. Hendrickson of Squamish was elected Vice Chairman of the Harrison Group which represents ninety percent of the log production of the Coast and Interior of the province, at the second annual meeting of the group at Harrison Hot Springs, October 17th.

Geoff Caine of Prince George was installed as Chairman.

Associates represented were the B.C. Loggers' Association, Cariboo-P.G.E. Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Independent Timber Converters Association, Northern Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Skeena Valley Timbermen's Association, Independent Squamish Logging Operators and the Truck Loggers' Association.

The Harrison Group was formed in 1963 following a recommendation by the Hon. R. G. Williston, Minister of Lands, Forests and Water Resources, to study and report to the Select Standing Committee on Forestry and Fisheries on industry problems.

Discussions at the meeting this year were drafted into a submission that will shortly be presented to the Minister of Lands, Forests and Water Resources for his perusal and joint industry discussion.

Also attending from Squamish were, N. Barr and B. Carson of C.R.B. Logging Ltd.

BROWNIES FLY UP TO GUIDES

Five girls from the Stawamus Brownie Pack were accepted into the Squamish Girl Guides on Monday night, October 19th. Patricia Mahood, Gerry Thom, Roberta Howard, Mary Ellen Shinnars, and Debbie Goad were the proud and happy girls. The maple leaf was the theme of the little ceremony.

The Brownie Pack thoroughly enjoyed their evening of games, refreshments and finally the campfire led by the Patrol Leaders.

Mothers attending were: Mrs. J. Mahood, Mrs. D. Thom, Mrs. R. Howard, Mrs. M. Shinnars, and Mrs. S. Goad.

Don't Be A Pumpkinhead...

Soon it will be time for the familiar cries of "Trick or Treat" and all the young people will be going from door to door asking for "Hallowe'en Hand-outs."

Hallowe'en night, October 31st, is on Saturday and this is the night when all the little witches howl and goblins and ghosts howl and clank their chains. It's a nightmare world and if certain safety precautions aren't taken it could really turn into a "nightmare."

Here are some tips that could make it a safe night for your child if they are carefully observed.

If the youngster is wearing a costume made of paper make sure it is fire-resistant. Use light colored materials for the costumes so motorists will be able to see them. Don't have them too loose or too long. They could cause him to trip or they might catch on fences and other protruding objects.

Masks prevent them from seeing clearly. Cosmetics are much safer and with a little imagination can create some amazing transformations. Cold cream is applied before make up and to remove it.

Tinted hairsprays can be used to make a fast, effective disguise but make sure the child's eyes are carefully protected during the spraying.

If the youngster's costume needs play weapons make sure that they are not harmful and will not hurt anyone. It is also an excellent idea to take a small flashlight or battery powered candle. The danger of fire is much too great.

Know where the youngster is going, make sure there is adequate supervision, especially if the child is small, and don't let them stay out too late. If it is in a lonely area or houses are fairly far apart, drive the child on his rounds.

Warn him to watch for cars. Keep your own porch light on to make sure the child can see clearly in order to eliminate as far as possible the dangers of tripping, falling and injury from cars.

If you are planning a home party for the children make sure the decorations are flame-proof. Wrap all treats to keep them clean and make sure that young children are not exposed to games which might frighten them too much.

Aboveall, use your head and play safe. There are two types of heads common at Hallowe'en. One is the type who uses his head, the other is a pumpkin head. Don't be the pumpkin head!

No More Power Lines...

Current reports that additional power lines to carry the future Peace River power will be coming through the valley have caused considerable consternation in the village and surrounding area.

Existing power lines, along with the road and railroad, have already created a chaotic multiplication of these government-owned rights-of-way and are using much of the best land in the valley. A choice building area, on the hill above Squamish, is marred by these unsightly power lines. We can't understand why the power lines, road and railroad can't use some of the same property instead of all cutting their own swaths through the valley.

The Chamber of Commerce introduced a resolution condemning the multiplication of power lines and the amount of useful land which they take out of circulation. The Associated Chambers of Commerce endorsed this recommendation.

Subdividers will naturally be concerned as additional lines may devalue property which is now choice residential land, and it will be remembered that the UBC planning class which did the study of the Squamish valley this spring recommended that power lines be located alongside roads or rail lines in order to occupy as little usable land as possible and to prevent any further fragmentation of the valley. It was even suggested that existing power lines be relocated and placed on the hillside away from residential and desirable property.

If the valley becomes a district municipality, careful routing of power lines to eliminate any more fragmentation of the valley will be one of the subjects which will require further study. Every effort should be made to have these lines as inconspicuous as possible and to locate them away from the centre of population.

Let's Make It A Park...

The village council is negotiating with the provincial government for another piece of land within the village boundaries. We think it would make an excellent addition to the municipal park system.

The land in question is the old "fill," the portion of the former channel of the Squamish River which lies north of McNamee Place and south of Cleveland Ave. above the Pentecostal church.

At present it is a waste of bulrushes and stagnant water but if this area was filled, as council hopes to have done while dredging is in progress in the harbour, it would make a valuable piece of property, suitable for a park.

We can remember, and doubtless so can many others, when this was one of the favorite spots in the valley. At that time (more than thirty years ago—gosh, we are getting on) it was the old swimming hole in summer and the skating rink in winter.

A bridge formed part of the highway above the site of Wilson Crescent Centre and tides flushed out the stretch of water each day. At that time there were no buildings in the vicinity and it was a comparatively clean stretch of water. A great many people now living in the valley must have had their first swimming lesson there and many others learned to skate on the frozen waters in winter.

Trees lined the banks and there were broad grassy stretches where the kids would sit and eat their lunch between swims. Others would explore it on old rafts and join in water games and diving contests.

We'd like to see a park created out of the long narrow piece of land which once formed this playground, if the council acquires it and if it is reclaimed. We'd like to think that other children would find as much pleasure in the vicinity of the spot which many of us can remember so vividly.

With the building up of the area in the northern part of town another park would serve a useful purpose as well as providing a safe place for the small children to play in. We're all for "tot lots" and this piece of land qualifies for one.

Let's make it another park!!

Salute To Our Weeklies...

Two things: Prime Minister Pearson issued a statement to mark National Newspaper Week (last week) and the 36 weekly newspaper editors and publishers are holding their annual convention in Vancouver (this week).

Purely a coincidence.

But our Prime Minister said weekly newspapers have a duty to their communities to expand public knowledge and understanding of public affairs.

He also said that in the performance of this duty "the freedom of newspapers is inseparable from their responsibilities."

We go further.

We believe in democracy. The weekly press believes that the liberty of the mind and freedom of the spirit which democracy has struggled to provide is the best hope of mankind for a happy life in the community.

For a fortnight weekly newspaper, there are opportunities beyond number to help preserve and develop a strong, conscientious readership.

It is a good day when the editor can add to the education of his readers, to their understanding of our institutions and how they help every man achieve the best that is in him.

It is a good day when the local newspaper can carry something that adds to the municipality's store of good will, for only where there is good will can men live lives of dignity.

We salute the weekly press of British Columbia and wish them a very successful convention this week.

Straws in the wind

by Mary MacDonald

Market vulnerable to new crises

I look for a very sensitive market in the coming months—sensitive to rumour, sensitive to change, sensitive even to itself, like a hypochondriac patient perpetually taking his own pulse.

For contemplation of recent events has left our senses stunned. We listen, hear half the truth, and diminish our receptivity to that half by filtering it with our own prejudices.

Where the truth lies, I doubt if many know.

But I believe that every investor today should remind himself of these different things—three long-standing facts which recent events have altered not one whit.

The first fact is in regard to Khrushchev's ouster. Let us put that in its proper perspective.

The one purpose of the Communist "system" is to dominate the world.

All other facts, purposes, and plans are incidental to that purpose.

In fact, to get that perspective more accurately in our sights, let us call Communism by its true name.

Communism is a religion that deals not with a problematical hereafter, but with today.

It is taught as a religion in Russian schools.

Adult deviates from its rules are "put to the question," just as they were in Inquisition days. And just as in the Inquisition, accusation itself is proof under the Russian political custom.

Once accused, the accused is dead—not dead in body necessarily, but dead to his family, his friends, to society.

Let us understand one thing about this Communism. Communism concerns itself lightly with territory, for Communism knows that the real battle is not for territory, but for men's minds.

Once the mind of the population is won, the territory becomes Communist. And there lies the clue to the riddle which sophisticated modern strategists are heaping on the U.S. propaganda in Viet Nam.

The U.S. is guiding a desperate battle in impossible jungles under hellish odds with a pre-World War I mentality. They fight for territory, towns, strong points.

The Communists remain fluid, give or take towns almost carelessly, and where they have been, leave nothing but loyal Communists. Any one else is dead.

In "Democratic" territory, dispute is encouraged between Buddhists and Catholics in order to split; any shred of national purpose remaining after almost 20 continuous years of war.

The populace is sick unto death of foreign white rulers, "democratic" political systems, any way of living that does not guarantee them a full belly. Today. Now.

I believe that Khrushchev's mistakes were these. He allowed the split with China, an interruption in the drive for world domination, to continue.

He allowed unrest in Poland and other satellite countries to publicize itself. His Siberian farm program failed.

Khrushchev is dead to the Communist society. Long live the King!

The instability of twin rulers for Russia will not last long.

Behind Khrushchev's fall, behind these two seemingly innocuous appointments, I believe that there will emerge a new ruler who is using these weeks or months to consolidate himself. Then we will see Communism emerge again as a united force, once again ruthless, and aimed without deceit at world domination.

My second fact for every investor is this one. Let us, as the years go by, bear a fact in mind while gradually the Chinese bombs become bigger and bigger.

We helped them build this first one.

We sold them wheat. That gave them political peace, ensured their power, time to get on with the bomb.

We've sown the wind. The whirlwind should be quite stimulating—in a secure bomb cellar.

My third fact is this. The Labour Party's win in the British election is indecisive, uncertain, too narrow to be interpreted as a mandate for anything but cautious action, negotiation, niggling changes.

I do not believe that the Labour Party will upset any applecart, and the British common sense will prevail now, as it has for quite a number of years—or centuries, whichever you like.

What I have been trying to say here is that in our democratic world, where relative prosperity prevails, that prosperity is liable to continue despite China's bomb and Russia's change of rulers and Britain's change of government and the U.S. election.

But the uncertainty of events to come among our sworn enemies will make the democratic stock markets everywhere over the next few months exceptionally fragile, and I would suggest that those who cannot afford to lose should take profits in stocks that have shown major advances over the last few years, and consolidate their position in less volatile issues.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY FOR JUNIOR AUXILIARY

The Junior Auxiliary to the Squamish General Hospital celebrated its first anniversary at the October meeting. The executive of the Senior Auxiliary was invited to attend the meeting and join the new group in refreshments served by the hostesses Mrs. Peggy Dar and Mrs. Barbara Bodnerak. The guests were Mrs. P. Russell, Mrs. G. Behner and Mrs. J. Tinney.

During the group's first year, the Junior Auxiliary raised over one hundred dollars through raffles held in the Ovenswaite store. Thanks to their many supporters, they will soon be able to make their first purchase of equipment for the hospital.

The membership consists of sixteen ladies, each of them a willing helper. They believe in the old saying "many hands make light work" and are very pleased to welcome newcomers at any of their meetings, held on the second Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be held on November 10th.

Any ladies who are interested in joining are invited to contact Mrs. Pat Woodcock at 892-5594 or any of the members.

PHA hearing early next year

Two applications for pulp harvesting areas, which overlap, will be heard by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston in Victoria early next year.

On January 4th, Rayonier of Canada will present its application for the establishment of a PHA over nine sustained yield forests: Broughton, Redonda, Sechelt, Chilliwack, Harrison, Yale, Soa, Yalakom and Big Bar. A major expansion of Rayonier's facilities at Woodfibre is planned if the application is successful.

On the following day, he will hear the application from the United Pulp Co. Ltd., who with Price Bros. of Montreal propose to build a pulp mill at Squamish if the minister approves of their request. Nine sustained yield units are included in the second application. They are Cottonwood, Quesnel, Williams Lake, Lac La Hache, Big Bar, Yalakom, Soa, Stum and Taseko.

Both firms have applied for the Soa, Yalakom and Big Bar SYUs.

At present Rayonier is spending $21 million to double the capacity of its Woodfibre plant. When expansion was announced in the summer of 1963, the company said the success of their application was important in making the decision as they would require pulpwood from the nine forests mentioned earlier to give them sufficient raw material for the mill.

United Pulp's intention to build a 60-million dollar pulp plant at Squamish was announced last month and it is dependent on the granting of the PHA in the forests along the PGE Railway as far north as Quesnel.

There were originally four of these duplexes and a single family dwelling. Denis McDougall has purchased the last one and it will be moved to a lot on Cottonwood Drive in Brackendale.

One of the duplexes was moved to Second Street, south of Vancouver Street, as was the single family dwelling. This was done prior to the ban on moving old houses to locations within the village.

Two of the duplexes were moved up the valley to new locations on the road leading to Diamond Head where they have been turned into attractive dwellings.

Howe Soundings

Did you hear about the budding genius in our midst?

We really have one to match the bright lad who built the boat in the basement and then had to take down the house to get it out.

It appears this local lad got a new teevee antenna and at his wife's urging assembled it one evening before going out, and tried to get it up the basement stairs.

You can imagine what the result was.

By dint of some twisting and turning and dismembering part of it, they got it outside and he climbed up to put it on the roof.

This process took some time and when it was properly fixed, in place with guy ropes and wires, he called down to ask his wife to turn on the set and see how it worked. It didn't!

After a lot more time and trouble the antenna was finally taken down again and placed on a stump in front of the house where it worked perfectly. It is still there too.

I'll bet no one dares to mention teevee antennas around their home.

A pleasant walk some Saturday or Sunday afternoon can be enjoyed if you go to Alice Lake park and instead of taking the road to the lake, go past the park sign to the upper road.

You'll notice a trail leading left, just opposite the upper road. A short walk along the trail leads to Stump Lake, and the excellent trail completely encircles the lake.

We took the children for a walk around it last week and they loved it.

There are several small islands in the lake, in fall colors, and the little bridges, the seat made from a tree stump as well as the ups and downs of the trail, itself really fascinated them.

Try it sometime. They're sure to love it.

JACK DAVIS Ottawa Diary

Three bills have recently been passed in respect to agriculture. One increases the amount of money that farmers can borrow to finance buildings and improve their herds. Another encourages farmers to band together to buy big items of equipment. And the third had to do with crop insurance.

Each of these pieces of legislation will help to make our western farmers more prosperous. But they do little for other areas of the country which should never have been opened up to agriculture in the first place.

In the East, we have the nagging problem of the uneconomic farm. Many are in Quebec. Large tracts in the Maritimes should also revert to forest land. More eastern farmers should be taking up other occupations. Some of them should move off the land altogether.

Agriculture Minister, Harry Hays, did not rely entirely on his departmental officials.

He also quoted non-government economists as saying that "about half of the farmers in these areas, if provided with the necessary training, could leave farming altogether."

In so doing, they would not only benefit themselves, but the farming community and the nation as a whole.

The new Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act is no stopgap measure.

It encourages the local residents to get together.

It provides the money for basic economic and engineering studies.

It uses realistic forecasts.

And from these forecasts it selects long term targets—targets as to the nature of the industries and the levels of production which can be sustained in these problem areas.

Because agriculture falls partly within provincial jurisdiction, the solution of the problem of the marginal farm calls for co-operative action.

ARDA encourages the two levels of government to get together. The province sets priorities and puts up some of the money. Ottawa looks over these redevelopment schemes and puts up the rest.

Some changes are being made as a result of experience. Co-operative planning, to be successful, must often deal with whole regions, rather than a select area. Farms may have to be consolidated. Other resource industries should also be studied. Forestry is one; fisheries another. And any shake-up of a large regional economy is bound to cause dislocations.

Older men and women will have to be re-trained. Half a dozen government departments, including those of Labour and Industry will therefore be drawn into the act.

In some cases the cost to the Canadian taxpayer will be high. But he has a big stake in the reorganization of these problem areas already.

In the Lower St. Lawrence region, for instance, the total income, from all sources, is less than $200 million a year. Of this, about $120 million comes from government subsidies—family allowances, social assistance, old age pensions, unemployment insurance and the like.

There is only $80 million worth of genuine production. So areas like this are really financial millstones around our necks.

Nor can poverty be tolerated on this scale.

Ottawa obviously has to do something about it. This is why Mr. Maurice Sauve has been given a full time cabinet job looking after rural development projects in Canada.

Letters to the editor

SEES SCABS AT BRITANNIA

Editor, Squamish Times:

I thought it important that residents of the Squamish area be informed that a new disease has stricken Britannia Beach. It is very infectious at the Upper Levels.

The symptoms are small principles, loss of respect by their fellow men and large scaly growths on the outer extremities, commonly called scabs.

If you would look into small dark places, there you would see engineers doing manual labour, warehouse men in the power house, office staff doing electrician's work—all because a mighty giant like Ananda couldn't bend his knee a little to agree to a settlement that would enable all his employees to hold up their heads.

We should all send sympathy cards to those humans who are so desperately in need of hanging on to Ananda's shirt tail. Don't they realize they will be discarded too after they have outlived their usefulness?

A MINER

Pemberton News

By Mrs. H. Menzel

A semi-trailer loaded with a prefabricated house and with a gross weight of 72,000 pounds arrived at Pemberton last week. The load came in from Vancouver over the new highway and drivers Doug Clark of Surrey and John Redmond of Port Kells said it was a little scary in places. The detours were a little too narrow and the dual wheels were riding over the edge. They were very glad to see Pemberton.

Pemberton Elementary-Senior high school children went to 100 Mile House last weekend to play volleyball and soccer. The happy youngsters went via PGE accompanied by two teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Schlosser-Moller.

Pemberton Elementary-Senior Perry McCulloch and his daughters Eleanor left last weekend by car for Vancouver.

Our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gilmour, on the sudden death of her brother.

Congratulations to Hugh and Dawn Ross on the birth of a son.

Keep Fit Classes for Women are being held at Pemberton Elementary-Senior school on Thursday evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock. More women are needed to make this class a success.

It's nice to see the two Shetland ponies which arrived in Pemberton recently. The Franks children are the proud owners of the animals.

Rummage sales may come and...

Rummage Sales may come and Rummage Sales may go but they always draw a good crowd.

The thrifty early birds were waiting for the doors to open last Saturday when the Alpha Unit of the UCWO held their semi-annual event in the old Church Hall.

Business was brisk throughout the morning as buyers packed away boxes of goods in excellent condition which had been purchased at a very reasonable cost.

Nothing is wasted or thrown away; goods not sold are sent to the Welfare Industries of Vancouver where they are sold to the needy of the city.

Needless to say the ladies of the group had a jolly old time the day before sorting out clothing, arranging novelties, trying on hats, modelling the odd garment. Above all it's a satisfactory method of keeping your closets and drawers clean; there is no need to hang on to those useless articles when the ladies of the Alpha Circle are so pleased to have them. Thanks are extended to all those who contributed so generously to this sale.

OAPA reconvene

Following a recess during August and September, the members of the Old Age Pensioners Association met on Tuesday evening for their first meeting of the fall season.

There was an exceptionally good attendance in spite of the absence of the president Sandy Fowler and secretary-treasurer Jack Castle because of illness. Comments were made on the success of the summer outings to Stanley Park and White Rock.

At the close of the evening Mrs. G. S. Clarke showed pictures of England taken on her recent trip there.

Island trip follows rites

White and bronze chrysanthemums formed the setting for a quiet wedding before close relatives and friends, when Gloria Paulette, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Korie of Brackendale, exchanged vows with Robert Randall Bruce, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bruce, Squamish, in a double ring ceremony in the Church of St. John the Divine, Squamish, Friday evening, October 9th, with the Reverend Denis Harris officiating.

Mrs. C. Oxley played the organ.

The young bride looked lovely in an ankle length gown of white nylon lace, her shoulder length veil held by a bandeau of orange blossoms. Mrs. Gloria Brown attended the bride, wearing a sleeveless organza dress in aqua, with white accessories, her flowers in shades of red blending with the bride's bouquet. Mr. Norman Brown supported the groom, while Mr. Robert Wilson ushered.

Following the ceremony, the wedding supper was held in the Chieftain Hotel. Mr. Eric Axen proposed the toast to the bride.

Out of town guests were the bride's uncle, Mr. Ben Vickers; the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. J. A. T. Perraton, his aunt Miss Gladys M. Bruce; also Mrs. A. B. Wilkinson, Miss Gwen Cotton and Mr. W. Wilkinson. The couple left by car for a honeymoon on Vancouver Island and are making their home in Squamish.

Bird hunt successful

Don Wilgess, with his wife and partner from Burnaby, has returned from a pheasant shoot in southern Alberta.

The birds were plentiful and their limit of twenty seven was soon obtained. Hungarian partridge and ducks were also taken.

Beautiful Indian summer weather with temperatures in the low eighties added to the pleasure of the trip.

Asks aid for retarded children

The local association for Retarded Children again urges anyone interested in volunteer service to the Woodlands School to contact Mr. Roy Scott, 6211 Clinton Street, N. Burnaby, or Mrs. G. Wood, Squamish, B.C.

Requests for used clothing, toys and games, radios, T.V. sets, etc., are continually received by the Volunteer Auxiliary to Woodlands, and the local association will deliver any of these items. Also there is a constant demand for birthday cakes — anyone can arrange to have these sent to Woodlands for these forgotten children who have no one who "cares."

Mr. Murphy attended a meeting of the local association on October 20th in an advisory capacity. In view of the anticipated increase in population in Squamish, the executive felt that the future plans should be considered for the corresponding increase in retarded children. The general estimation is three retarded for every 1000 people.

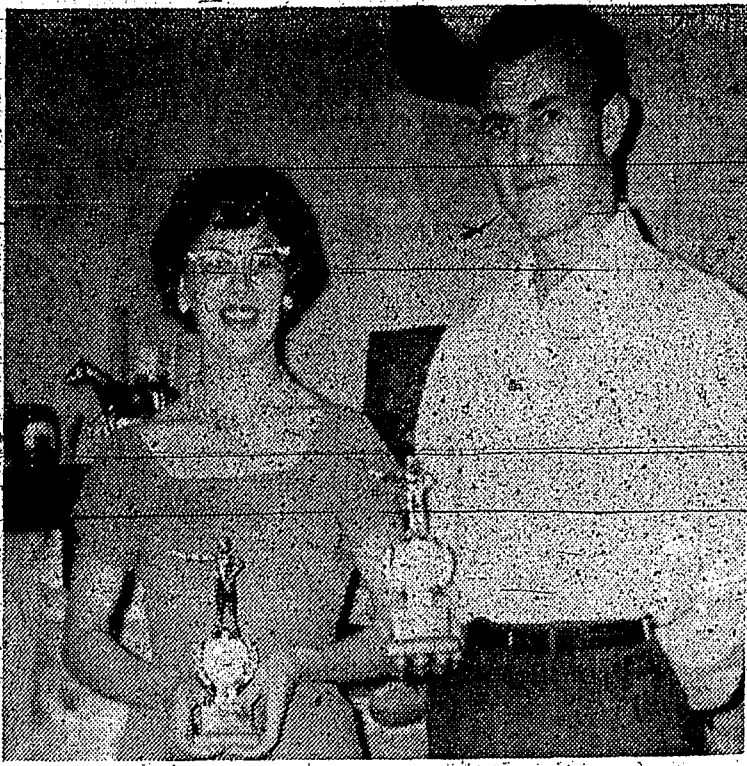

The Woodlands School conducted a survey of the list of patients awaiting admittance, according to Dalton Murphy, Executive Director of the Provincial Association for Retarded Children. As a result of this survey it was discovered that the eight hundred quoted by the papers were whittled down to three hundred patients not requiring immediate admittance, three hundred were not heard from, and about 190 required immediate attention.

Of course, of the three hundred who did not return the questionnaire, some may have moved from the province, however these names have been placed in the hands of the Public Health and Welfare Department for the purpose of further investigation.

Mr. Murphy informed the executive of the Howe Sound Association that besides Tranquille and Woodlands a further hospital is at present being erected on Vancouver Island. It is believed that when it is completed British Columbia will be amply serviced as far as institutions for retarded children are concerned.

Pistol Club holds banquet

Trophy winners received their awards at the first annual Pistol Club banquet, held at Cheekye Lodge on Friday, October 16th.

After a delicious buffet supper, E. Burchett, of Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd., presented the Challenge trophy, donated by his firm to Max Tetachuk, captain of the Gun Fanners, top team in the league. Other members of the winning team were his brother, Elgin, and Zetty Wray.

Mr. Burchett said that as his company was now located in the district, it wished to be a part of the community, and the best way to do this was to take part in community activities. Providing a trophy was one way of participating.

Dennis Friesen, as master of ceremonies, presented small trophies to the winners of the high averages, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carradice; to the winners of the high singles, Mr. and Mrs. D. Campbell, and the high three to Mr. and Mrs. E. Tetachuk.

When the trophies were ordered the club was told that this was the first time a pistol trophy had been ordered for a woman.

Three members of the club received their marksmanship pins. Dr. S. E. Slade received his gold pin, W. V. Manson, a bronze and also a silver pin, and W. Pratt was given his bronze pin.

The pistol section of the Squamish Valley Rod and Gun Club was formed this spring with six members. Today there are almost thirty, and practically all of them own their own guns. This is indicative of the keen interest the group is showing in this new form of an old sport.

Merchants down Firefighters 3-1

Squamish Merchants downed the Vancouver Firefighters by a score of 3 to 1 in last Sunday's soccer game, played at the high school grounds.

Tom Rivett, who plays half-back, opened the scoring, followed by Tony Ramsdale who made the second goal on a corner kick. Glenn Bailey got the clincher, also on a corner kick.

The defensive team played an excellent game with Tony Ramsdale and Dick Wagner turning in solid performances.

Manager Gray Mitchell says the extra training rules enforced seem to have paid-off and congratulated the team on a good solid game.

Next Sunday's game will be played in Vancouver.

MRS. H. T. NICHOLS, Worshipful Matron of the Squamish Branch of the Order of the Eastern Star and Mrs. E. V. Morris head of the Cancer Committee at the committee's table at the O.E.S. annual fall tea last week.

Mrs. G. Lyons double winner

October 21st was an exceptionally lucky day for Mrs. George Lyons; not only did she win the raffle at the O.E.S. Tea and Bazaar but she also won the door prize. Unfortunately she did not win the Cancer Draw, Donna Hinde was the lucky recipient of the pretty cup and saucer.

With co-operation from the weatherman a large number of ladies turned out to avail themselves of the bargains at the sewing booth and the home baking table. A cup of tea brought the afternoon to a pleasant close.
