REPRESENTATIVES ATTEND MEETING

Representatives from the various schools in the district attended the school board meeting last week and elected Mrs. A. Philip and C. P. Kidson to serve as trustees for the Mamquam-Brackendale-Alta Lake and Woodfibre-Britannia regions. Mr. Kidson was then elected chairman of the school board for another term.

Representatives attending were W. Samborski and Mrs. E. Trekofski, Brackendale; L. Cartwright, Britannia; Mrs. M. Philip, Alta Lake; Mrs. H. Robinson and J. Phillips, Mamquam; and C. P. Kidson and J. Stetch from Woodfibre.

Council asks CHMA to ease restrictions

Central Mortgage and Housing will be asked by village council to ease some of the restrictions on mortgage money in this area. Council decided that there is no reason why prospective home builders in this area should not receive terms as favorable as those in other areas of the lower mainland.

Council members said that in the past they had been told that permanency of employment was not too favorable in the Squamish area and this prohibited the granting of loans similar to those in other areas.

It was felt that the CHMA asked for too high a down payment on many homes in the district and this made it impossible for many people who wished to build new homes.

D. McNaughton of Westway Developments in Valleycliffe said it was creating a hardship among prospective home owners as the down payments are in many cases too high for people in this community. He said the required amount was far higher than in any other area in the lower mainland.

Council felt that bringing this in line with Vancouver and the suburban areas would make it easier to provide adequate lower cost housing for people who could not afford higher priced homes.

They said there was no difficulty in financing the more costly homes but the council's prime interest was in seeing suitable housing built for those in the lower middle income bracket.

Won't build bus shelter says board

The board of school trustees last week turned down a request from residents in the Judd Road area who wanted a bus shelter built at the junction of their road and the highway.

H. H. Bailey said, "Every time one has to be built, it has been torn down. They are continually being wrecked. Our experience has been such that we don't wish to build any more."

F. D. Ross said that with schedules as regular as they now are, no child should have to wait more than a few minutes for a bus and as they have to wear suitable clothing in wet weather to get there, he saw no reason for the construction of a shelter for those few minutes.

Times will build new office here

Scheduled to begin immediately after the Christmas holiday is the construction of the new Squamish Times building.

The one storey building, 25 by 100 feet, will occupy the same spot as the present building. It will be one storey, but built so that another can be added later if needed.

The building will be of wood construction and Stan Banyard is the contractor. "In this community I wouldn't dare build it of any other material," publisher C. S. Q. Hoodspeth said.

At the rear of the building provision will be made for a job printing plant, able to handle both offset and letterpress work. This will enable local orders for job printing to be filled more quickly.

During the construction period the Times will move across the street to Howe Sound Electric's office. This temporary arangement should last until the end of March when the new building will be ready.

Marconatos win prize

Mr. and Mrs. P. Marconato of Britannia Beach were the winners of a trip to Hawaii for two or the cash equivalent at the Riding Club's annual party at Paradise Valley Resort last Friday evening.

Mrs. Marconato says they will take the cash instead of the trip. With the mine closed she says they may soon be taking a trip somewhere else and they would find the money more useful at present.

CHRISTMAS street lights went up last week. Here are Al Shenko and Jack Highland of the B.C. Hydro putting the colored bulbs in the strings of lights before stretching them across the main street.

Driver injured in car accident

Manuel Ferreira of Squamish, suffered a concussion and bruises when his small foreign car went over a cliff on the Britannia Squamish highway just south of Stoney Creek and fell eighty feet down the hill. The accident occurred on Saturday morning about 9:20 a.m.

A passenger in the car was uninjured and helped bring the injured man up to the road.

The highway was treacherous, a heavy snow having fallen the night before, and a car following saw the vehicle go off the road. Three youths from West Vancouver, who were coming up for a day's skiing at Diamond Head, went down the hill to see if they could help. They reported that the driver was semi-conscious, lying in the car, which was upside down.

The passenger told the young men, Fred Hayward, Malcolm Davis and Don Lucas, "We went over." They supplied him with extra clothing to keep the injured man warm and went back to the road and instead asked a passing motorist to notify police and the doctor. They arrived about 10 a.m. and Dr. Kindree immediately went down to attend to the injured man.

Attempts were made to locate a basket stretcher to bring Ferreira up the hill, but none could be found, so a canvas stretcher from the forestry was used and the victim was tied on with rope and brought up to the road. Six inches of snow on the rocks and brush made the work difficult.

Mr. Ferreira was taken to the Squamish General Hospital for treatment.

Fred Hayward suggested that "a basket stretcher would be a necessary addition to the ambulance in view of the road along the Sound and the steepness of the cliffs along it."

Call tenders for hotel expansion

Squamish Hotel Ltd. this week called for tenders for the one hundred thousand dollar expansion program which will add ten new rooms to the present building along with several public rooms.

A two storey wing will be extended south along Second Street which will contain the new beverage rooms on main floor with the ten new rooms above on the second floor. The building will be constructed in such a manner that the third floor may be added if needed and as Andy Sullivan said "This may be done while the present extension is taking place if we find we need the additional space."

Mr. Sullivan who with his son, Alex, and son-in-law Spence Hinde, own and operate the building, say that the present men's beverage room will become a cafe, with a dining room occupying the women's section. The present cafe will be remodelled and converted into a larger banquet room.

The entire exterior of the building will be remodelled with the existing porch removed and other changes made.

Construction of the new extension is expected to start in the middle of January.

Preventative Dental Clinic

The Preventative Dental Clinic, now in its twelfth consecutive year, is now being organized.

Sponsored and subsidized by the School Board, the clinic is available for children from three years of age to Grade 12 inclusive. Registration fee is four dollars.

This fee covers all extractions, fillings, cleaning and painting of teeth with fluoride.

If anyone has not already received the registration form, please contact Mrs. W. J. Tiney at 892-3255 and she will be glad to see that you receive one.

January referendum

Million dollars needed for schools in district

A referendum, asking for consent to borrow up to $1,141,100 during the next three years for additions and improvements to schools in the district, will be presented to the taxpayers in January, according to the board of school trustees for Howe Sound School District No. 48.

F. D. Ross, secretary of the board, said that they hope to present the referendum to the people sometime in mid-January.

D. H. Campbell, inspector of schools for the district, said the large sum required is partly due to the new vocational program which will be instituted in the fall of 1965. This will make construction of a considerable number of new classrooms and laboratories necessary at the Howe Sound Secondary School and will also entail the purchase of considerable new equipment for these vocational classes.

HOWE SOUND SECONDARY

Additions and furnishings planned for Howe Sound Secondary amount to more than $550,000, almost half of the total amount of the referendum. This will provide two new Home Economics rooms, four for Industrial Arts, three for Commerce, two new science laboratories, two occupational classrooms, an art and music room, a new gym and conversion of a classroom to a staff room.

Three new classrooms are proposed for Squamish Elementary, four and a library for Mamquam elementary, three additional classrooms for Signal Hill school, one at Creekside, office, small library and a staff room will be added to the Britannia Beach School.

TEACHERAGE FOR CREEKSIDE

At Pemberton Elementary Secondary provision is made for changing the Industrial Arts set up and adding a covered area for the power mechanic course. In addition a duplex teacherage is planned for Creekside. This is the only teacherage planned as there is believed to be sufficient accommodation for teachers in the other areas in the school district.

Some of the proposed additions to the elementary schools may not be required, but if the industry which is planned for this area does arrive, there may be an even greater need for additional classrooms and school expansion. The board has planned the present referendum on the projection of the number of pupils expected in the district schools if only the normal increase occurs.

VOCATIONAL PROGRAM

If the sums asked for in the referendum are not required, there will be no need to borrow them. The trustees merely wish to be enabled to do so if the need arises.

The new vocational courses in the schools, mechanical, commercial and service, will be in addition to the regular academic program but in all cases will permit the graduate to take either advanced training and in some cases, enable him to immediately take a position in which his training can be utilized.

It will broaden the pre-technical or vocational programs for students who do not wish to take academic subjects.

Rayonier says

Amalgamation ok if no tax increase

The question of adding Britannia and Woodfibre to the District Municipality of Squamish was brought up at a meeting in Squamish when F. D. Ross made the suggestion.

The following statement by the Rayonier Co. outlines the discussions which have been held since that time and the decision reached regarding union with Squamish.

The possibility of Woodfibre joining the Squamish Municipality was first discussed at a meeting last October 1st when a committee representing various Squamish areas met with Rayonier officials at Vancouver and raised the question of Woodfibre joining.

At that time we expressed the principle that we would favour joining if we would not be worse off by doing so.

However, various aspects of such a move could raise problems for Rayonier and Rayonier officials therefore met with the Minister of Municipal Affairs in Victoria on October 6th and discussed the whole question. Some of these problems are unsolved community problems — without a road connection the various community services such as fire protection, water, sewers, road maintenance are cut off.

At that meeting it appeared that there was not time to consider and deal with all these problems before the vote on the new municipality took place on November 21st, nor was there time to arrange that Woodfibre would be included in the proposed vote.

It was therefore agreed with the Minister of Municipal Affairs that the vote would go ahead without Woodfibre and that the question of Woodfibre joining would be considered at a later date.

We intend to give serious and sympathetic consideration to joining the new municipality. Our only concern is to see that the company will not be penalized or have to assume additional obligations by making such a move. We think it will be possible to work out an agreement with the municipality prior to joining which will be in the best interests of both parties.

Further talks may follow next year once the new district council has an opportunity to evaluate the question.

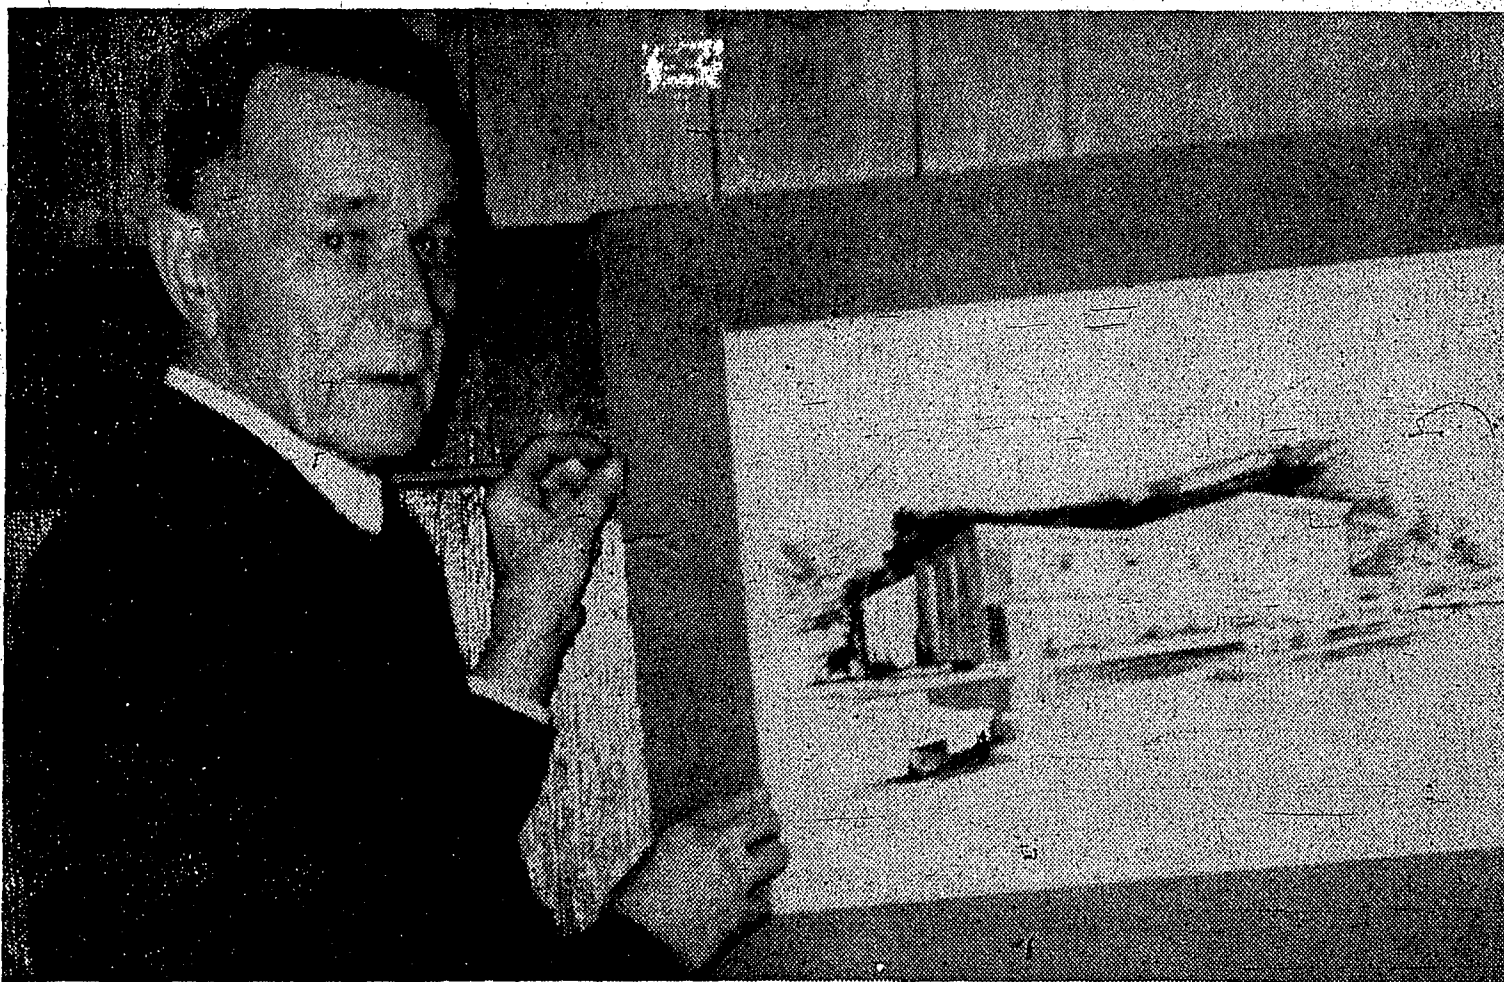

FLOWER SHOP FOR SQUAMISH

T. Halters of Richmond, attended a meeting of the municipal council last week to request council's approval for his plan to build a flower shop and carry on a nursery business on the property on Second Street which he has purchased from Mrs. G. S. Clarke.

Mr. Halters proposed to build the flower shop in front of the present dwelling and to use the additional lot for beds and plots in which to display his nursery stock.

He told council that he "felt Squamish was a good place in which to set up such a business as there was a great deal of building going on with many new homes requiring shrubs and plants." He has had considerable experience in the nursery business and is anxious to settle in a community which shows signs of development.

Mr. Halters was given a copy of the building bylaw and told that council would be pleased to see him open a new business here.

HOLDING A PICTURE showing the artist's conception of the appearance of the Squamish Hotel once the new wing is added and the building is remodelled is Andy Sullivan, one of the three owners of Squamish Hotel Ltd., which is making a $100,000 improvement to the building on the corner of Second St. and Victoria Ave.

Street lights to be demonstrated

Two mercury vapor and two fluorescent street lamps will be installed in a dark street in Squamish in order to permit council to decide which type it prefers to place on the streets in the village.

The present lighting is provided by bare globes of 200 watts and this has not proved satisfactory. Chairman P. J. Brennan wished to know if lights similar to the one at his home and at Shannon Falls resort could be installed but Mr. Horsey said that these were not suited for street lights but were used for lighting an area.

Councillors felt that lights in Valleycliffe were not too satisfactory either but Mr. Horsey said these were planned to light the street area, not the homes as this might cause complaints about lights shining in windows.

"We would like as much light as possible with as little money as possible," Mr. Brennan said, and asked if there would be any reduction for quantity.

He was told the price of each light remains the same, no matter how many lights are installed.

A new street lighting contract will have to be signed in April and council hopes to know by that time which type of installation they want for the village streets.

Needed — A New Courtroom...

Imagine trying to conduct a proper court in a small room, 12 by 16 feet at the most, which also has to double as the sergeant's office, and is located next to the cells.

Something out of the past, or the wild west? No, this is a description of the courtroom in Squamish where the police officers and magistrates have to attempt to uphold the dignity of the law.

By the time the magistrate, the accused, prosecutor and police officer take their places, there's not much room left for witnesses, or those who might wish to watch a court case. If more than one person is accused it can become difficult to find enough space.

The magistrate has no room for his books or records, the officer in charge must find it difficult to conduct his work efficiently when he must drop his other duties to permit the office to be used as a courtroom.

This might have been good enough many years ago when Squamish was a small community with only one or two officers and one magistrate. The area has grown a great deal and better courtroom facilities are needed.

Public Apathy...

We weren't too surprised to see two councillors and a school trustee elected by acclamation. With district elections coming up early next year, too much interest in running for office could not be expected.

However we notice that Pemberton also elected the councillors and trustee by acclamation. This trend is becoming more familiar each year and honestly, it worries us.

We're not belittling the candidates. Dr. Kindree has demonstrated his ability as a village commissioner during his past three terms and Mr. Kilmartin will undoubtedly be an asset to any council as his interest in the community has already been demonstrated.

With Mrs. Marchant's keen interest in education we are sure that she will demonstrate her worth as a school trustee. Mr. Fougberg has shown his awareness of the educational needs of the area in the past few years and brings his experience back to the board.

At Pemberton, Mrs. Rivett should find her second term of much greater interest as she now has a knowledge of the workings of councils. Mr. Graham's experience in the Board of Trade and other organizations should be of great assistance and he has the time to devote to municipal affairs.

Woe To The Country Bumpkin...

One of the most glaring illustrations of Victoria's utterly hypocritical attitude toward legislation covering lotteries, divorces, sweepstakes, contraceptives, liquor and Sunday entertainment again is in the headlines.

In a discussion at the fall convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, resolved and passed a resolution, once again, to permit Sunday entertainment throughout British Columbia on the same basis as it is permitted in Vancouver.

Operating under its own city charter, our Big Sister across the harbour permits Sunday entertainment on what seems to be a practical and workable scheme. And realizing that there are many schools of thought amongst city dwellers, even the promoters of the ordinances did not desire wide-open Sundays.

But woe to the under-privileged suburbanite and the village hick.

All municipalities, villages and unorganized areas cannot, as yet, enjoy paid Sunday entertainment, either by their own legislation or by cabinet legislation. Victoria has the final say over all municipal and unorganized territory actions.

On the other hand, Victoria claims that there are two kinds of citizens—at least—in British Columbia.

There is the kind that lives in the city of Vancouver. The other breed which is apparently a primate rated somewhat down the scale of mammals, Spring Federal Election Unlikely...

Prime Minister Pearson has said there will not be an election this year or in 1965 unless one is forced by tactics and manoeuvres of the opposition parties.

Unquestionably there are many members of the opposition parties including some members of the Conservative party who don't want an election. Members risk a good deal of their pay in seeking reelection.

The $18,000 in the hand is more attractive to many than risking being out of a job. In fact, the "indemnity" is now at such a high level that it is considered

In fact, we'd go so far as to say that the RCMP also needs a new building. The present one is small and there is inadequate room for the offices, records and other facilities needed in a modern public safety building.

We found attending a court session an interesting and informative experience. Doubtless many others would also wish to attend sometime, even if only to see how cases are conducted. In the present crowded quarters this would be impossible.

Adequate courtroom facilities should be provided. Not only for the convenience of the magistrates, the police, the accused and the witnesses, but also in order to ensure the proper procedure of justice is conducted in a dignified manner.

At the same time it would be fitting if the powers that be decided to build a modern public safety building which would allow for the anticipated growth of Squamish and the surrounding area and provide sufficient room for police business to be conducted as efficiently as possible.

All this is beside the point. We are concerned because too few people offer themselves for public office. Elections by acclamation, while they do save money, don't prove anything. A campaign with each candidate stating his views and prepared to defend them, offers the voters an opportunity to select the person they consider most suited for public office.

We'd like to see a number of candidates come forward for the first district elections next spring. Home owners in the newly incorporated area will have their first opportunity to select candidates from among the residents there. With six positions on council as well as a reeveship to fill, we'd like to see a rousing election with a number of candidates so people can choose those who they consider most capable of handling their affairs.

Think about it. In your discussions in the next month or two try to decide who you'd like to see run for office, and when you've done this, ask him or her (we think a woman on council would be a good idea) to run for office. And then get out and campaign for your candidate. It could bring a little interest and excitement back into our local elections, and who knows, we might find we've selected an extremely able council, and one to be proud of.

Think about it.

is obviously regarded as unschooled, ineffectual, and irresponsible dolts who live everywhere else throughout the province.

The fact that you may be a city dweller is not enough to qualify you for Victoria's paternal approval that you are old enough to vote on the matter of Sunday entertainment. Such cities as New Westminster, North Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Trail, Burnaby are all cities who do not qualify as the homes of mature and responsible citizens.

Needless to say West Vancouver, Penticton, Surrey and all the rest of district and village municipalities don't stand a chance.

This newspaper does not stand for or against paid Sunday entertainment; we wish merely to point out the inconsistencies of our Victorian lawmakers who are creating in us a horde of hypocrites.

We establish laws, and we permit them to remain as laws of the land, and then consistently and flagrantly break them.

People in the plus-forty group have some knowledge and recollection of how this ridiculous situation developed since the Second World War and undoubtedly regard the whole thing with tired amusement.

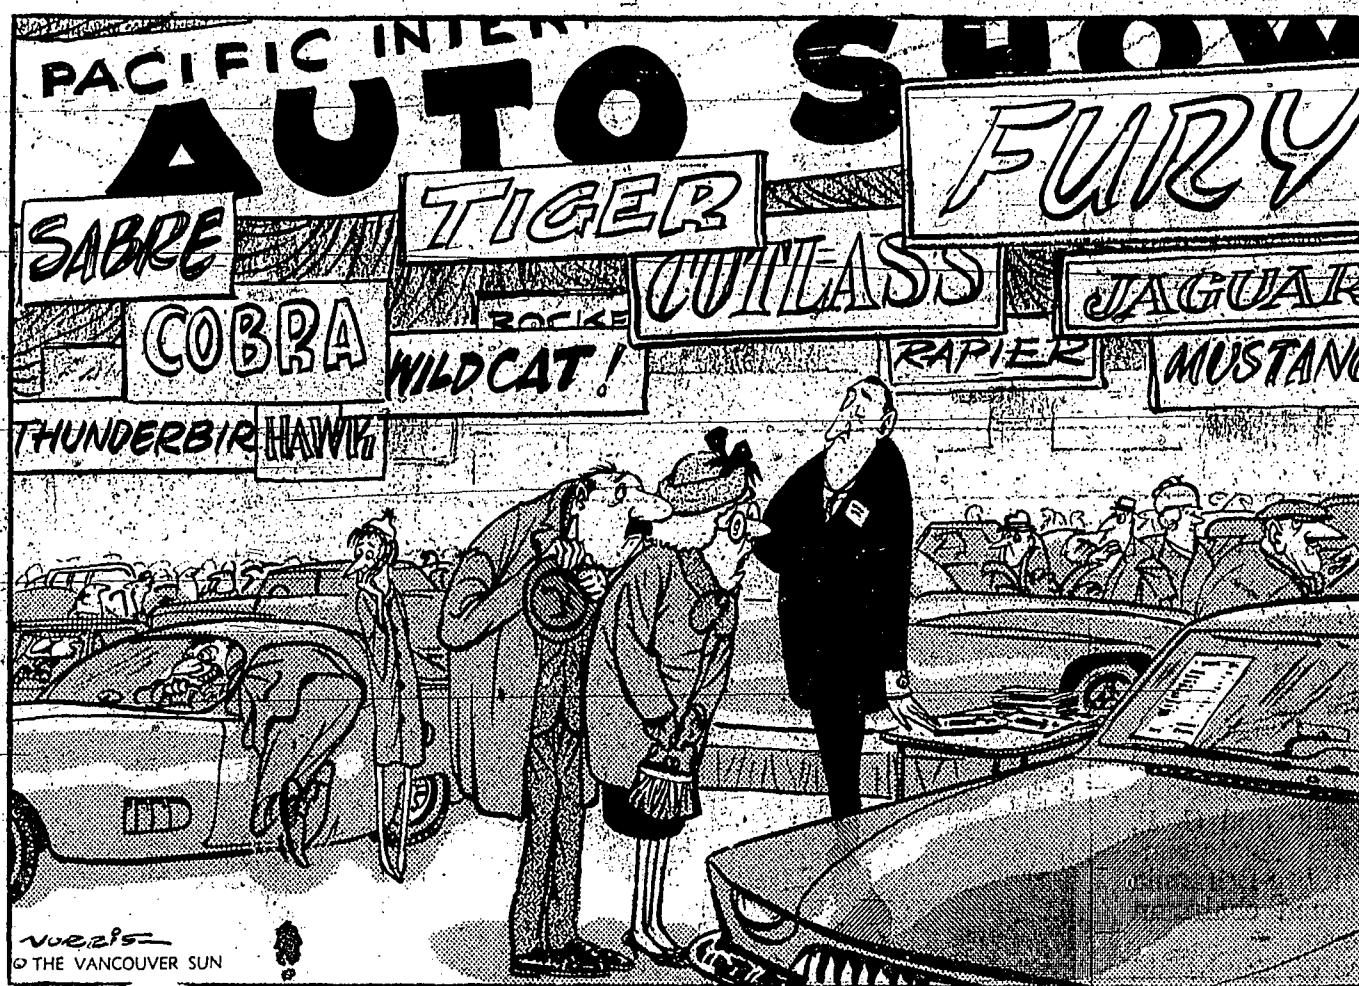

But how can we explain it, clearly and intelligently to young people without tacitly implying:

"Don't do as we do... do as we say?"

a salary.

Meanwhile there are reports that the Conservative party organization is having difficulty obtaining operating funds and there is not much progress being made in building up the political war chest.

The Tories always have been in that position with the exception perhaps in the days of the Hon. R. B. Bennett who is reputed to have financed a good deal of the party's needs out of his own pocket.

Straws in the wind

by Mary MacDonald

'Prorating' has made Imperial Oil good long-term investment

When I was a young girl, and whenever the warm winds of prosperity blew briefly on our little family, my mother's Scottish attitude always astonished me.

Each time that this occurred, she would surround herself with a mood of cheerful gloom. It couldn't last. It didn't seem right. There must be something wrong somewhere. And so on. That's my attitude, too.

Things just seem too good. Or are they? Certainly, when the market took a brief battering last week, and responded with such vigor, it proved everyone's contention that this market had enormous underlying strength. I hadn't a leg to stand on.

But try as I may, I can't help feeling that investors should examine their portfolios with double care, and assume that at least for the time being, the bull market is over.

Every stock they hold should be analyzed thoroughly, particularly in regard to its market record. For funds in issues that have had the best of performances in the past, and have led the market, should now be placed into other issues which have resisted upward movements, but which have a firm future over the next year or so.

One such issue that should be bought at present levels is Imperial Oil.

I say this not only because the entire oil market has been dragging its heels for some time now, but in addition, there are some special circumstances in connection with Imperial that I like.

One of the main causes for the lacklustre oil stock market has been "Prorating."

Prorating is the Alberta Conservation Board's method of ensuring a long life for Alberta's oil fields. If, for instance, you or I tomorrow were in Edmonton and busy transplanting a favourite plum tree, and in digging a good hole, struck oil, not only would our plum tree be ruined, but in addition, instead of being allowed to sell every drop from the well, the Alberta Conservation Board would step in, gravely measure the maximum oil flow, consult some tables, burn a few chicken feathers, and probably allow us to sell only a fraction of the potential production.

That kind of thing is hard both on the owner of plum trees, and as well, on the oil stock market. It certainly takes the zip out of it.

It takes the zip out of it because the future of oil producers becomes almost mathematically predictable, unless they find new fields. And as yet, in Alberta, they haven't.

But there are pressures building up to justify raising the proportion of total flow of oil we can sell from any well. At present, the U.S. is restraining Canadian hydrocarbon imports to a constant ratio of U.S. oil production.

larger imports will probably be allowed, probably as much as double the present 233,000 barrels per day from Canada.

Now, that is a long way off. But consider this!

The original prorating plan was evolved not only to lengthen field life, but as well, to protect the small or independent producer, who if the big companies were allowed to dump unregulated floods of oil on the market, would probably have to cap his well, and plant plum trees all over again.

As the giant of all producers, this legislation has hit Imperial Oil very hard over the years. For Imperial is a fully integrated company, that drills its wells, refines its oil, and manufactures petrochemicals and synthetic resins, and markets its own products. The Company's operating income is over 1 billion dollars, and earnings are about $2.50 per share.

Now, Imperial could satisfy all their requirements from their own production, but prorating forces them to buy 60% of their oil requirements on the open market from other producers.

Since the Company writes off drilling costs in each current year, once even in prorated production, the wells are free.

Any increase in allowable production would be pure, or practically pure, gravy.

The Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board has announced a new prorating formula effective May 1 of next year which will allow Imperial to satisfy not just 40% of its requirements from its own wells, but by 1969, almost 60%.

This should raise earnings from $2.50 per share at present to over $4.00 in four years, and bring the yield if bought at today's prices from 3% to 4.5%.

A further earnings factor in Imperial's favour is the trebled growth of markets in five years for their petrochemical division, and the end of this expansion is not only not in sight, but in my opinion, has not even been more than dreamed of. I suggest accumulation of Imperial Oil common at present levels.

But by 1970, U.S. production will be peaking out, and,

"OK, so it's only a week till Christmas. And I haven't got my cards ready to mail. Or half the presents bought and wrapped."

And as for Christmas baking. "My dear, I don't know where to begin." These are some of the comments one hears on every side. But if you were fully organized for the holiday season would it be as much fun?

I'm sure that part of the excitement is working against a deadline. It seems to bring that added something to the hustle and bustle of the season. Maybe we all recapture a bit of the childish wonder of Christmas in the rush of preparing for it.

So don't let it get you down. Just think, you could have no one interested in whether you enjoyed it or not. And that would be much worse than being tired from preparing for those you care for and who care for you.

Aren't the colors of Christmas beautiful? The deep blues, rich greens, golds and brilliant reds. We never see colors like those at any other time of the year but somehow at the holiday season they all seem to be perfect together.

Maybe that's one of the reasons I prefer the old fashioned green trees with their multi-colored baubles.

The fancy silver and turquoise ones, or those in silver and red leave me absolutely cold.

Maybe I'm old fashioned but I like a tree with a tattered angel that belonged to one of the youngsters, or maybe a Santa Claus whose paint is peeling and whose gilt bag has become a nondescript white. These are the things that mean Christmas to me.

The sight of youngsters coming up the stairs on Christmas morning, their eyes alight with wonder, the glory of the tree, the realization that Christmas is giving as well as receiving. That's Christmas.

Did you hear about the youngster who came home from Sunday School and told his mother they had sung a song about the garage man? Seems the carol was "Once in Royal David's city" and to him it sounded like "Once in oil was David sitting." Figures.

Then there was the local logger, noted for his colorful quotes, who told the people gathered to hear about the proposed PHA that "this province is being covered with ringworms." He was referring to TPL's and PHA's but it was an interesting description.

Holiday store hours

Most of the stores in Squamish will be open late during Christmas week and will be closed from Dec. 25 to Monday, Dec. 28, and again from Jan. 1 to Monday, Jan. 4.

Hours during Christmas week will be from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Dec. 21st, 22nd and 23rd and till 5:30 p.m. on December 24th. In the following week stores will open from Tuesday to Thursday at the regular hours.

The 5c to $1.00 store will be open till 9 p.m. from Friday, Dec. 18th to the 23rd, with the exception of Sunday, and will close at the regular time Christmas Eve. It will also open on January 2nd, instead of taking another four-day holiday.

Guides to carol

On the evening of December 22nd the local Girl Guides will be singing Christmas carols in the downtown area. They plan to cover Cleveland Avenue from Pemberton Road to Victoria and the streets to the west.

The project is in aid of the Vancouver Daily Province's Empty Stocking Fund. Residents who want to hear the girls singing are asked to put on their porch lights on that evening as an indication of their willingness to help someone less fortunate than themselves.

Remember the time: from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on December 22nd.

Representatives at meeting

Mrs. K. Pickard and L. Cartwright have been appointed as school board representatives for Britannia Beach to the school board.

Mr. Cartwright attended his first meeting last week and was very impressed by the work the board is doing.

All PTA members, and former ones, who have an interest in the best education for the children are asked to find out about the money by-law and talk about it to their neighbors, and then, most important, vote for it.

Wildlife Review now on sale

The year-end edition of Wildlife Review, produced by the Fish and Game Branch of the Department of Recreation and Conservation, is now on sale. The latest issue features articles by Roderick Haig-Brown, (The Last Example of Nature's Abundance) and W. A. McKay's second hilarious article on "The History of the Fur Trade." Cover of the new edition is a sketch of a grizzly bear's head by wildlife artist Patricia Wright.

Wildlife Review, which, in the past, has been distributed at no cost, is now on a regular production basis of four issues annually. A two-year subscription (eight issues) is available at one dollar, to cover the mounting production costs.

JACK DAVIS

Ottawa Diary

One of the present Government's most important achievements is in the field of Federal-Provincial relations. It has set up machinery for more frequent consultation. More than that; it has shown a willingness to get together with the provinces on many matters of common concern.

Ottawa alone must look after such vital matters as External Affairs, National Defence, International Trade, Immigration and Finance. The Provinces also have certain fields of influence. Three of the most important are Education, Social Security and Municipal Affairs.

There are some overlapping. Ottawa and the provinces are both concerned with agriculture. Both have a hand in transportation. And both tend to tax the same people. So the "grey areas" — the areas of conflict if you like — are also important in this Federal system of ours.

How can we keep those differences, this overlapping, from hurting us. One way is to talk to each other, to compare notes, and to act in unison.

This behaviour on the part of Ottawa and the provinces is what is known as "cooperative federalism."

It requires an attitude of mind and it demands a course of action — both of which are essential to the management of our national affairs.

Mr. Pearson dealt with this when he spoke recently to a conference of university heads in Ottawa. Learning is a life-long process, he said.

So, while education is primarily a provincial responsibility, the nation as a whole also has a stake in the effectiveness of our educational system.

The reverse is also true when it comes to economic affairs. Ottawa is in charge of money and banking. Ottawa therefore decides whether we shall have a "tight" or an "easy" money policy.

The Federal Budget is framed with this and other objectives in mind. But the provinces must not be kept in the dark.

They, too, have a stake in Ottawa — telling the rest of us simply and frankly what the outlook is likely to be.

I have chosen two examples: education and finance.

One is in the hands of the provinces. The other is up to Ottawa.

Yet, each has far reaching effects. They cannot be completely compartmentalized. This is where "cooperative federalism" comes in!

Some people are apprehensive about this new turn in events. Some Quebecers see it as leading to greater centralization in Ottawa. Others are fearful lest the power of the provinces be increased.

But neither one can deny that cooperation is the answer. There will be fewer misunderstandings. And there will be fewer disputes in the handling of governmental affairs.

Those of us who think that Government needs to be streamlined are encouraged. We feel that this approach will help to bind the country together. Cooperative federalism, in other words, is no empty catch phrase. It is a practical matter.

SOCIAL NOTES

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Don Sanford (Josie Rudan) on the birth of a son weighing 6 lbs. 7 oz. at St. Paul's Hospital on December 6. Mrs. Betty Horne spent a recent weekend in Seattle. Congratulations to Mrs. D. D. Morrison on the arrival of a new granddaughter, Brenda Christine, born to Mr. and Mrs.

David Morrison of Williams Lake on November 27. A recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clarke was her brother BT Fred Maslin of the USS Simon of the U. S. Seventh Fleet while en route to Pearl Harbour. Here's a neat quote from "Clues". Drivers who drive fastest past a school are the same ones who took so long getting through it.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bonda are off to the Caribbean for a well-earned holiday in the warmth. Mr. and Mrs. Al Hendrickson have moved into their new home in Garibaldi Highlands.

Mr. William J. MacKenzie has come from Lemsford, Saskatchewan, to spend the winter with his son-in-law and daughter Rev. and Mrs. Harold Wingfield.

Congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. Luke Plunkett on the birth of a daughter weighing 7 lbs. 1 oz. at the Squamish General Hospital on December 7.

Mrs. Elsie Johnson of North Vancouver spent a few days of last week visiting her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. M. Hurren Sr.

Mrs. M. A. Carrico went to Calgary last week to visit her mother who has been ill.

New members for hospital w.a.

Three new members, Mrs. B. Burritt, Mrs. R. Dent and Mrs. R. Richards were welcomed to the Ladies Auxiliary to the Squamish General Hospital at the last meeting.

Britannia Beach News

By Betty McNair

The Britannia Beach Community Club have plans under way for a Christmas treat for all the children living at the beach. There will be a film and treats some time during the holidays. More of this next week.

The Guys and Dolls Teen Club are having their Christmas dance on Saturday, December 19th in the Upper Club Room from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. "The Convoys" from Vancouver will provide the music for the evening. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

The Scouts and Cubs spent the Saturday of last week at the store parking lot selling Christmas trees. They will be there this coming Saturday and Sunday. All trees are one dollar. Anyone wishing to purchase a tree at any other time may contact the Scoutmaster or one of the Scouts.

The combined Sunday School and church service will be held on Sunday, December 20th at 9:45 a.m. There will be a program by the Sunday School children. Anyone desiring to bring a White Gift may do so at this time. There will be a special Christmas service on Christmas Day at 11 a.m. and there will be no church or Sunday School on December 27.

Congratulations to Mrs. Erdman on opening her new beauty shop in Squamish, not Britannia as noted in last week's paper. Editors make these mistakes sometimes, but I'm sure all Britannia residents wish her every success in her new venture.

Scout and Cub news

by Art Sewell

Scouts and Cubs turned out on Saturday, December 5th, with members of the Lions Club and other interested adults for the annual cutting of Christmas trees.

This year trees were cut along the B.C. Hydro right-of-way and groups from Wood-fibre and Britannia, as well as the local Scout and Cub troops and packs, turned out to assist in the year's biggest fund raising project.

The group cut sufficient trees to pretty well supply the needs of the three communities, Squamish, Britannia and Wood-fibre, and these trees are now on sale for a dollar apiece.

Judging by the number of patrons on the week-end, Squamish people were certainly buying them.

The boys, their leaders, and other members of the Scouting group, wish to thank everyone who contributed time, assistance or vehicles, and helped to get the Christmas tree project launched.

7 delightful and original ways to solve your Christmas gift problems

There's something exciting for everyone on your Christmas list among these attractive gifts from B.C. TEL.

Now, for the first time, you can make a present of long distance calls with an attractive new LONG DISTANCE GIFT CERTIFICATE.

Another gift, always popular in busy families, is a second line—with a pushbutton phone that can handle two or more calls simultaneously. Or what about the glamorous little Starlite?

The new speakerphone is the very latest in "hands free" phoning, and for gracious living the melodious bell chime may replace the ordinary phone bell. The voice amplifying handset with a variable volume control is a joy to the hard-of-hearing.

The ever-popular standard extension phone in a range of nine lovely decorator colours is a welcome gift for practically anyone.

For any of these items you can mail a Gift Certificate or present your gift in person. Costs are surprisingly low and in most cases you can pay with small monthly additions to your own phone bill.

Solve your shopping problems in minutes by calling your B.C. TEL Business Office — ask for "Gift Telephone Service".

Farewell gift for W.V. Manson

W. V. Manson, retiring member of the board of school trustees, was presented with a farewell gift of a slide projector at the board meeting last week. He said "It has been a pleasure working with the board, and a real education. I can assure you that I will follow its activities with keen interest." He added that he knew his children's education was in good hands.

The incoming trustee, Mrs. C. C. Marchant, attended the meeting. She will replace Mr. Manson on the board.

Bears still active

Bears around Alta Lake don't seem to know enough to go to bed. As most bears have gone under weeks ago, Phil Tapley got quite a jolt last week one night when he saw one right by his house.

The bear stood up on his hind legs and Phil says it was a tremendously big bruin that was raiding his garbage for one last midnight snack before retiring.

Last rites for former resident

Funeral services for Mrs. George Edward Blundell, a former resident of Squamish, who passed away in Vancouver on Tuesday, December 8th, were held in Mt. Pleasant Chapel on Friday, Dec. 11th at 12 noon. Rev. D. W. Berg officiated at the service, which was attended by many Squamish residents.

POLICE COURT

The following cases appeared before Magistrate C. I. Walker in police court last week. On December 8th, Robert Alan Granger, who was remanded from December 2nd on a charge of dangerous driving, was found guilty and given a suspended sentence for one year. One of the terms of the suspended sentence was a on-month driver's licence suspension and another was a six month curfew.

Peter Wallat pleaded guilty to a charge of driving with improper licence plates. He was fined $35 and costs. The charge arose from an incident in May of this year and the accused, whose whereabouts were unknown until the day of his arrest, was picked up in Vancouver.

Allen Horth, son of Edward Charles Horth, appeared in juvenile court on December 8th on a charge of assault. This juvenile, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, was found guilty and remanded for sentence until December 23rd.

The report last week, dealing with the youths charged with possession and stating that Wayne Drenka, who also appeared on a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor, was incorrect. The charge read purchasing instead of possession, and his case was dismissed because evidence given to the police by the witness in the previous case was rescinded at the time of the trial.

This left the magistrate with no alternative but to dismiss the case.

United Pulp says "No Arbitration"

Members of the ILA met with representatives of United Pulp and Price Bros. last week to discuss the possibilities of having an arbitration clause included in the Pulp Harvesting Area which the companies have applied for. After lengthy discussion the two firms decided they could not go along with the suggestion.

The local independent loggers feel that such a clause would be a protection to all independent operators in the area and point out that TFL No. 38, the one which Canadian Collieries has, includes such a clause.

C. R. Titterton, speaking for Price Bros., said that his firm would agree if such a clause was included in all past and future PHA's. However, he said that along with the ILA, he agreed that past ones, four in number, could not have the clause included, and he felt it might not be feasible to have future ones so restricted.

Sam Heller, president of United Pulp, told the Times that "we cannot be non-competitive. If the same clause was in all agreements, we would be willing to go along with it. We can't go into something where we are restricted and others are not."

He said that his firm was willing to negotiate a deal with the ILA to arbitrate prices with them "Because we know we can deal with them. But not with everyone, and not if we are so penalized."

ILA spokesman countered with the statement that "such an agreement would have to cover the entire area not just one special group."

Mr. Heller added that such a clause might place the pulp company in a position where it could be taken advantage of by an unscrupulous operator. He added that all loggers in the area could get together and fix the price of wood.

Spokesmen for the ILA pointed out that a similar condition could exist if all the large companies which buy pulpwood decided to band together. They could set the price so low that an operator could not make a legitimate profit logging it.

Both Mr. Heller and Mr. Titterton said that "if the minister at the hearing, feels that an arbitration clause is a good thing, we would be willing to further negotiate an agreement which would be workable."

They recommended that the ILA include a request for such a clause in their brief when it is presented on January 5th.

Films on city shown here

The last two National Film Board films in the series "Development of a City" were shown to a group of interested people who met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Antille last week.

Colin Neale of the NFB brought the films, which deal with the subject of properly developing "a community," along with several other recent film board releases.

M. A. Carrico, who saw the films, commented on their excellence and said the film board has a brochure containing the titles of a number of such films which could be used as a basis for planning future community development.

It was suggested that any future group who might be working on municipal planning avail themselves of the films which can be secured.

Alta Lake Ripples

By KELLY FAIRHURST

Joe Potetz, who hurt his leg quite badly in a power saw accident at Prince George, has had his cast removed after two months. He is still commuting regularly to Prince George for medical attention.

Mrs. Grace Naismith of Mahood-Falls was recently a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Philip. She accompanied the latter to Vancouver where they stayed for a week.

The Philips have since gone to Vancouver for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Greenwood recently spent a week at Chetwynd with their son Denny, who is a microwave technician with the P.G.E.

MERCHANTS DOWN HENRY'S 5-2

The Squamish Merchants, in last Sunday's men's soccer game at Squamish, downed Al Henry's team from Vancouver by a score of 5-2.

The half time score was 2-0 in favor of the visitors, but despite a rough game by the out-of-town players, the local team came from behind to pick up five goals in the last half and win the game.

Scorers for the day were Bill Gosling and Scotty McIntyre, who scored two goals apiece and Tom Rivett who scored one.

Manager Gray Mitchell complimented the team for their excellent game and thanked them for helping him when the referee, "Sonny" Rennie, coach Mickey Stillwell and team captain, Armand Constantine, were called away by the wreck on the railroad.

Arbitration — just what does it mean

In two recent meetings concerning the Pulp Harvesting Area which has been applied for and which will include the Soo S.Y.U., in which many of the local loggers are working, the question of arbitration concerning price has arisen.

This seems to be of great importance and for the benefit of those who are not aware of this, the Times asked ILA chairman P. J. Brennan to outline the proposals and how it could affect the local logging industry.

In the S.Y.U.'s independent loggers bid for the crown timber at a timber sale and the highest bidder gets the right to log it and sell his logs on the open market in Vancouver.

ONLY TFL WITH THIS CLAUSE

In a TFL contractors log for the licence holder and he decides the price which is paid for this operation. Incidentally, Mr. Brennan said TFL No. 38 is the only one in B.C. in which the contractors have the right to request arbitration if they do not agree with the price offered.

Fears have been expressed that, if a PHA is created, the holder of the licence could dictate the price to be paid for salvage wood. The regulations say that the holder has the right to a first refusal but the operator could sell to others.

In theory this is fine, but Mr. Brennan pointed out that there is nothing to prevent the holders of these licences from getting together and deciding how much to pay. If the province is carved up into many more areas controlled by large companies, this could be the end result.

UNBIASED BOARD

The request for an arbitration clause, which will be discussed with both United Pulp and Rayonier, prior to the submissions at the hearings in January, merely means that the independent operators who are selling their logs on the open market, wish to have an unbiased board of one or three people hear both sides of the question.

This clause would only be invoked if the firms involved could not reach a settlement and in all cases the minister would have the final say.

In no PHA already granted has such a clause been introduced but he pointed out that no other TFL has one either.

LOGGERS COULD BE UNREASONABLE

Mr. Brennan pointed out that the loggers could also be unreasonable in their price demands so the clause could work both ways. He also said he was "certain it would never be invoked because if I had to produce my books and the PHA holder his, the government would probably say we were both making too much money and then raise the stumpage."

He added that "as the government will have eliminated free enterprise in creating this area, it should put in an arbitration clause to help remedy the situation."

He felt this would be one way of ensuring that large firms did not reach an agreement to keep the price of salvage timber at a level which would make it unrealistic for the logger to harvest it.

Street lights go up again

The colored street lights, purchased last year by the Chamber of Commerce and used during the holiday season, went up again last week.

On Wednesday, B.C. Hydro crews were busy installing the lights on Cleveland Avenue. They add a brilliant note of color to the drab, winter evenings.

Last year local merchants all contributed to a fund to purchase the lights, pay for their installation and removal and for the power needed to run them. This year the merchants will again pay the bill, but fortunately they do not have to be bought again.

It's a little extra which everyone seems to appreciate. The number of admiring comments last year was out of all proportion to the cost involved and many people were glad to see them go up again.

Winter mild at Alta Lake

Weather conditions have been very mild at Alta Lake all week. Rain has washed away most of the 13 inches that fell on November 29th. Six to eight inches of wet snow remain.

There is still highway traffic to Pemberton but access to West side of Alta Lake is doubtful because of snow on the two steep hills by Alta Lake. Valteau Logging Co. and Van West Logging have finished work for this season—one of the longest seasons in many years to be uninterrupted by fire seasons.

Quick recipes to use at Christmas

A few recipes which take only a short time to make and are always a success are a welcome addition to one's collection of goodies at this time of year.

Some favorites have been gathered from several cooks in the area and are included in this week's column.

You'll notice three easy cookie recipes, two for chocolate, one, always a favorite with children and the third is a pretty addition to the cookie plate. The nuts and bolts are a savory bite which many people like to nibble on instead of the sweets.

The candy recipes are easy, with both the divinity fudge and the chocolate fudge the "never-fail" types. The chocolates are easy to make and the potato fondant isn't as sweet as the usual centres. The chocolate covered marshmallows are a prime favorite with the men and will go very quickly. Children love them too!

CHOCOLATE DROPS

12 squares semi-sweet chocolate.

2 cups coconut, nuts, or raisins according to taste
1 can Eagle Brand milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Melt the chocolate in a double-boiler, add the milk and blend. Add coconut and vanilla. Remove from heat and drop by teaspoonsful on waxed paper.

CHOCOLATE CHIPS

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup margarine

1/2 cup chopped nuts

2 tbsps. cocoa

1 egg

20 graham wafers

Melt margarine, add sugar, cocoa and beaten egg. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add crushed wafers and nuts. Press into pan and cool.

2 squares chocolate

2-3 tbsps. icing sugar

4 tbsps. margarine

1 tsp. scalded milk

Melt chocolate and margarine. Add icing sugar and milk. Spread over slice and set in frig to cool.

CHRISTMAS BALL COOKIES

1/2 cup whipping cream

12 marshmallows

1 cup chopped nuts

1/2 cups coconut

1/2 cup chopped dates

2 rolled graham wafers

Any other nuts or fruits may be used or added.

Whip cream, cut marshmallows in small pieces and drop in cream. Place in frig. Mix the other ingredients and add to the cream mixture. Use your hands to squeeze them all together. Put bowl back in frig for hour or two. Then form in small balls and roll in either red or green jelly powder, icing sugar or colored sugar.

CHOCOLATES

Fondant for centres

Bake one medium potato till well done. Scrape from skin and mash well or mix with electric beater. Add icing sugar until it starts to thicken. You will notice that it seems runny at first but don't worry, it thickens as you add more icing sugar. One medium potato will probably take a two-pound box of icing sugar.

When stiff enough, divide in portions and add different colors or flavors, nuts, raisins, cherries, coconut or whatever you desire. Chopped nuts are delicious. Form in small balls and chill overnight or for several hours. Melt semi-sweet chocolate over hot water, add small amount of paraffin (a lump as big as a walnut to a package of chocolate) and dip centres in this. Set in cool place to harden.

The wax helps to harden the chocolate and does not affect the flavor.

CHOCOLATE MALLOWS

Melt chocolate as in above recipe adding wax, then dip colored or white marshmallows into the melted chocolate. Roll in coconut and set in cool place to harden.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

3/4 cup carnation milk

1 1/2 cup sugar

1 tsp. salt

Mix and place over low heat. Boil 5 minutes stirring constantly. Remove from heat.

Add:

1 1/2 cups small marshmallows

1 1/2 cups chocolate chips

1 tsp. vanilla

1 1/2 cup nuts

Stir till marshmallows melt. Pour into buttered 9" pan. Cool and cut.

DIVINITY FUDGE

2 1/2 cups granulated sugar

1/2 cup corn syrup

1/2 cup hot water

2 egg whites

1 tsp. vanilla

Few drops almond extract

1/2 cup chopped almonds or

1/2 cup candied cherries

Boil sugar, syrup and water to "soft ball" stage (234 degrees F). Pour half of the hot mixture over beaten egg whites and beat well. Let remainder of the syrup boil to the "hard ball" stage (265 degrees F) and then add it to the first half and continue beating. When it thickens add flavorings, nuts and cherries. Pour into a buttered pan and cut in squares.

NUTS AND BOLTS

4 tbsps. butter

4 tbsps. salad oil

1/2 tsp. onion salt

1/2 tsp. garlic salt

1/2 tsp. celery salt

1 1/2 cups unsalted peanuts or mixed nuts

1 tsp. salt

1 1/2 cups doughnut type cereal

1 1/2 cups bite size shredded wheat or rice cereal

1 1/2 cups pretzel stick

Melt butter, add salad oil and seasonings. Place remaining ingredients in pan. Pour oil mixture over them and mix, gently but thoroughly. Bake in a slow oven, 275 for about two hours, stirring frequently. Cool thoroughly. Store in airtight container. Recipe can be doubled or tripled easily.
