VOTERS APPROVE SCHOOL REFERENDUM

Owner electors in Howe Sound District No. 48 last Saturday approved the referendum to borrow more than a million dollars if needed, for school expansion in the next three years.

The referendum passed with 70% of the voters approving the measure. Ballots cast were 270 for and 114 against.

The largest item in the referendum was for additions and equipment to the Howe Sound Secondary School to prepare for the new vocational classes to be taught this fall.

Bailey heads school board

H. H. Bailey, a veteran school trustee who has served on the board for ten years, was elected chairman of the Board of School Trustees for Howe Sound School District No. 48 at last week's regular meeting.

Mrs. A. Philip of Alta Lake was elected vice-chairman.

The board expressed pleasure at the attendance of three residents who came to the meeting to learn about school boards and how they operate. The chairman said this was a rare occurrence but one which they welcomed.

Discussion concerning a group insurance policy for school board employees ended in a decision to share such costs if the employees so wished.

Transportation of pupils to the curling rink, bowling alley and billiard parlor caused some comment but Mr. Campbell explained that the students were given this opportunity to familiarize themselves with forms of recreation they would take part in after leaving school.

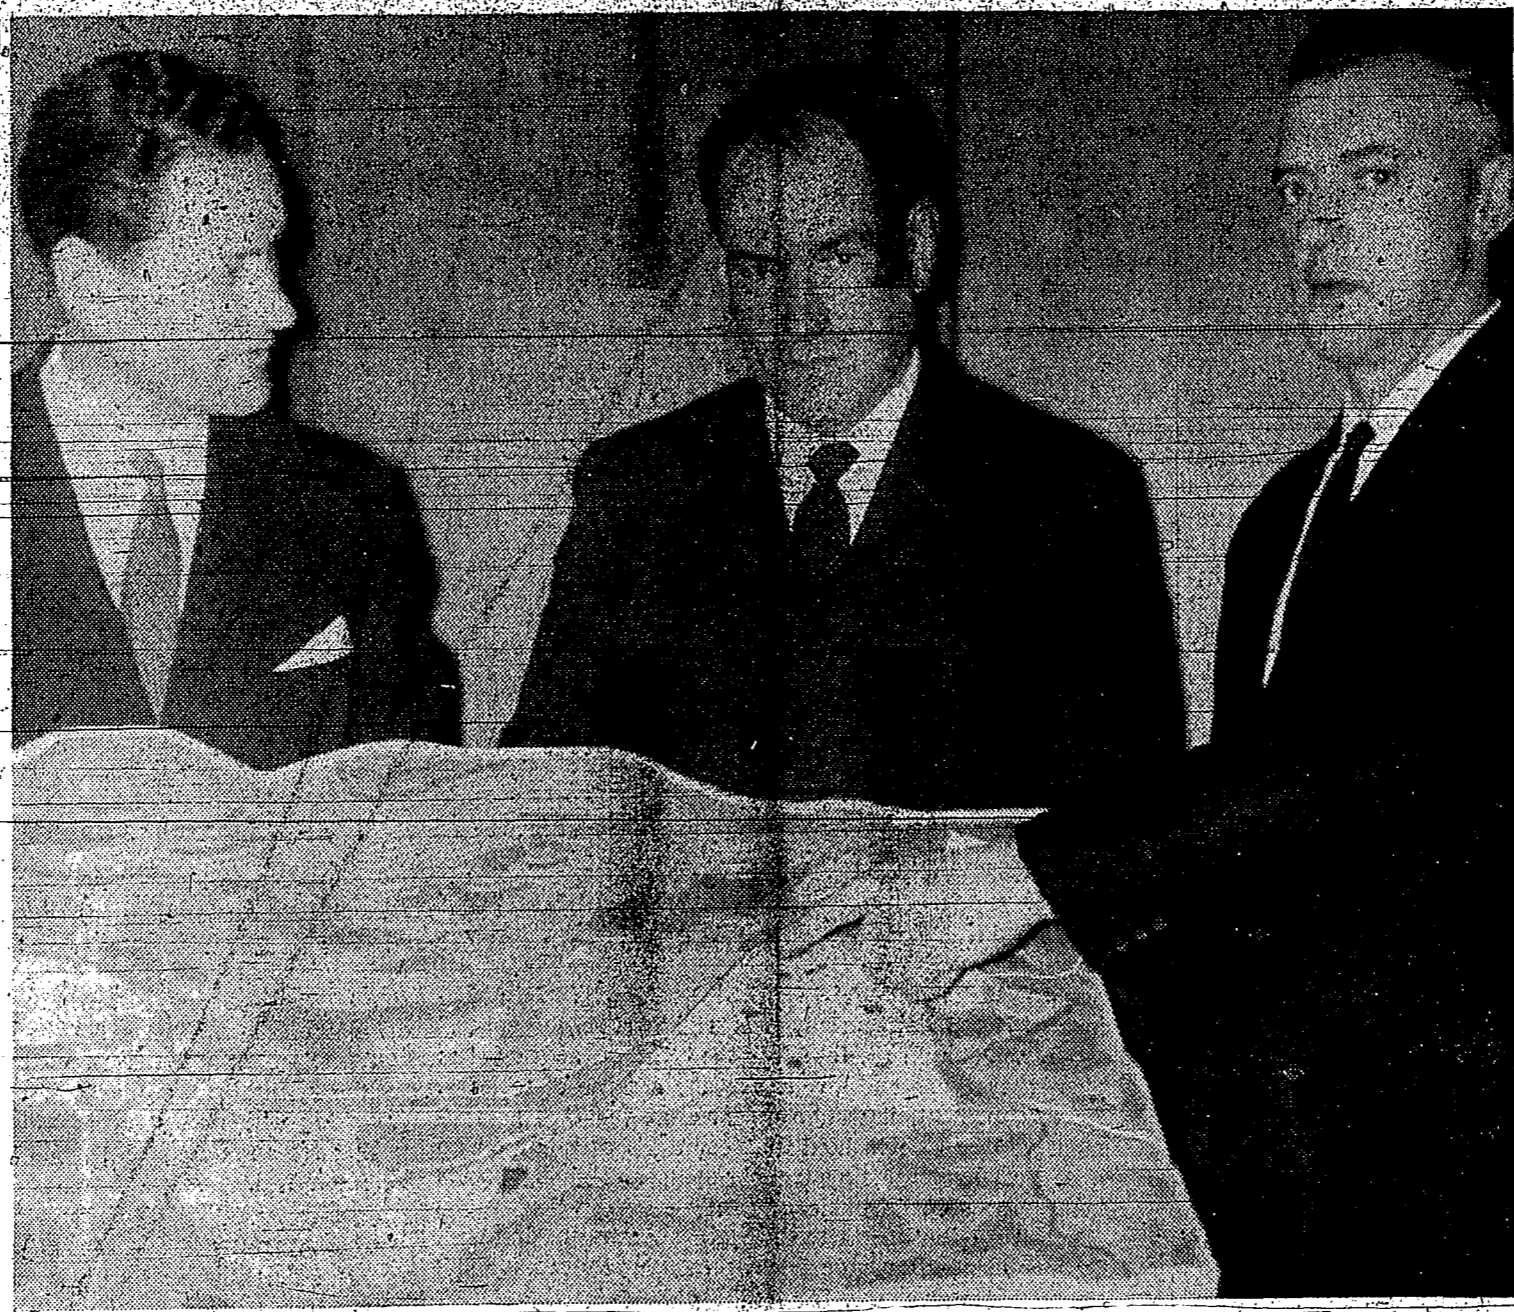

"It could be called training for leisure," T. J. MacDonald said.

It was pointed out that the principal hoped the children could learn a little about other forms of sport such as archery, table tennis, badminton, tennis, riding and golf.

Mr. Bailey reported visits to Mamquam, Stawamus and Brackendale schools where construction is proceeding despite the adverse weather.

A tentative budget, which will amount to almost a million dollars in 1965 was discussed. This will be finalized by the first of February.

The board decided to purchase place mats to be given to the cafes and restaurants advertising Education Week, which will be held from March 7th to the 14th.

ARDA and the new concept of the act were explained to members of the Squamish Valley Dyking and Drainage Committee at a meeting with federal Forestry Minister the Hon. Maurice Sauve and local MP Jack Davis last week. George Dickie, municipal councillor and a member of the dyking committee is shown explaining some of the features of the plan prepared by the UBC students for the development of the valley on the model which they built for the study. Plans for and development must include river control and the changed concept of ARDA may be the one best suited for its implementation.

River control through ARDA?

The new concept of ARDA, the Agricultural and Rural Development Act, and how it may be useful in helping to control the rivers in the Squamish Valley, was outlined to members of the Squamish Valley Dyking and Drainage Committee and municipal officials at a meeting with the Hon. Maurice Sauve, federal Minister of Forests, and local MP Jack Davis last Thursday.

The minister explained that ARDA had now been broadened to include assistance to rural areas, even those which were not agricultural. He said there were more non-farming families in rural areas than farming ones.

ARDA can be used to help where resources in an area are not primarily farming but logging or a similar type. The minister said these new phases of the Act were discussed at a joint federal-provincial meeting in Montreal last fall, and would become effective on April 1st of this year.

He pointed out that under the new agreement the federal government would pay 50% of the total cost if the provincial government paid the other 50%. The provincial authorities could, in turn, ask the municipality or municipalities concerned, to defray a portion of its share.

Jack Davis, MP for Coast-Capilano, said that B.C. is beginning to show a greater interest in both ARDA and the Canada Water Conservation Act, but that he felt a program of river control might be more effectively brought about under the former agency.

Earlier studies in river control resulted in the discovery that a program of containing the rivers in this valley would be more likely to come about if a district municipality was formed and this in turn led to the Dyking and Drainage Committee recommendation such a course, which last November resulted in the favorable vote for a municipality.

Delegations welcomed

Many people may wish to attend a meeting of the municipal council or to bring some matter to the attention of council, either for clarification or advice. All council meetings are open to the public, and anyone who is interested is invited to attend. Delegations wishing to bring some specific matter before council are asked to write to the clerk requesting an appointment. The clerk will answer setting a time and date for the delegation to attend, probably at the next council meeting.

I remember that a wise friend of mine did usually say "That which is everybody's business is nobody's business."
Isaak Walton

MINISTER TO ATTEND OPENING

The Hon. R. Williston has been invited to officially open the new addition to the Pemberton Elementary-Secondary school.

No date has been set for the opening as it will depend upon a time when the minister will be available.

The addition, which contains an industrial arts room, science, home economics and commercial rooms as well as a lunch room, will provide a wider range of studies and classes for the pupils in the Pemberton area.

Some loggers return to work

McMillan, Bloedel and Powell River started woods operations last week after the heavy snow had curtailed plans to continue between the holidays and start again on January 2nd.

The first load hit the water on Tuesday, January 12th and a limited crew was cherry picking along the road which had been plowed out previously. Five trucks are engaged in the operation, along with three loaders, two cats and six fallers.

Meanwhile, Canadian Collieries reported their cats had been bulldozing a road through the upper Squamish valley to their shop and had finally arrived there last Thursday. A small maintenance crew has been working repairing machinery and plans are now underway to plow the main haul road.

Empire Lumber manager H. M. Stilson said that production was back to normal at the mill and they are no longer using snow removal equipment. Compacted snow on the ground is causing some difficulties however as lanes are rutted and working around the piles is a problem at times.

Snow on top of the lumber loads is also creating problems in moving them to the loading dock and the planer mill.

"However, we are still producing and we hope to be out from under this by July," Mr. Stilson said.

Committee to meet fire dep't

The Health, Fire and utilities committee of the municipal council will meet with the fire chief, J. Clarke, fire chiefs from the Mamquam, Garibaldi Estates and Brackendale areas and the assistant fire chiefs to discuss an overall plan for integrating equipment and fire fighting apparatus.

Council last week appointed Jack Clarke as district fire chief. Clarke told council he had already discussed some of the problems his department would be facing with representatives of the other departments.

Chief Clarke said he favored moving the fire hall at Garibaldi closer to the highway and a one thousand gallon mobile tank with pump was needed for the Brackendale area where there is no water system.

He mentioned that McMillan, Bloedel & Power River Co. will permit the use of their fire truck until the beginning of the fire season in the woods but there is no heated garage at Brackendale in which to store it. To be of use the tank-truck should be filled with water and kept in a building where freezing could not occur.

"Brackendale is the most vulnerable area," the chief said. "We are very concerned with the danger of fire there." "Another necessity," chief Clarke said, "is the need for an effective alarm system in the other portions of the municipality. The ideal situation would be sirens at Mamquam, Garibaldi Estates and Brackendale. Then if a fire occurred in one of these areas, the corresponding siren could be sounded to alert the department."

Councillor Mitchell asked about the respective departments and chief Clarke said they were all familiar with fire drills and practice and were staffed for both day and night duty. He said many of the people in Mamquam and Garibaldi Estates were shift workers and would be available if the need arose. He couldn't speak for Brackendale as he was not sure what preparation had been made there in case a fire occurred while the men were at work.

Councillor Kindree suggested that a meeting of the committee and the fire department heads be held very early this week to discuss these matters and see what would be required in the form of equipment and buildings to create an effective fire-fighting unit for the municipality.

Youth club meets with council

Five members of the Future Citizens Club met with the municipal council last week to discuss their aims and their willingness to work towards a community centre for the district.

Joe Hobson acted as spokesman for the group which included Willy Lewis, Helga Helgason, Darlene Ryan and Karen Tompkins.

He said their club had 46 members and they hoped to attract more. A program of activities including weightlifting, volleyball, badminton and dances had been planned and they were endeavoring to raise money for this purpose by car washes, snow shovelling, bottle drives and other activities.

When queried regarding their reasons for wishing to see a community centre, Hobson said that they felt it would provide a wider range of activities, including a car club as well as other sports or hobbies.

The twelve asked them if they would be willing to join in a joint project consisting of a park, Rod and Gun Club grounds, Loggers Sports area, Riding Club track and perhaps a community centre.

The young people expressed their willingness to both work on such a project and assist in raising money for it.

At the conclusion of the meeting council suggested that perhaps members of the group would like to take over managing the municipality for a day. This would give them an insight into affairs in the district and would be handled along the lines of a boys' parliament.

After a startled reaction the young people thought this would be a most interesting and informative experience.

NEW BUILDING CENTRE TO OPEN

Garibaldi Building Supplies Ltd., a joint venture by three men who together have more than forty years experience in the lumber industry, will soon be opening in Garibaldi Estates.

Taking part in the new enterprise are Wally Clausen, Ernie Thiesen and Art Sewell.

The new firm will be able to supply everything a builder can require from a foundation to the roof.

Phone rates to be raised

B. F. Abrams, E. Boyce and G. Forsythe of the B.C. Telephone Co. attended a council meeting last week and explained that telephone rates in the Squamish area would be raised in the near future.

The company has advised the Board of Transport Commissioners that Squamish has now entered Group 3, for areas with 1000 to 2000 telephones. The number of telephones in November 1964 was 1221, 20% above the upper limits of the previous grouping.

The increases range from 15 cents per month for multi-party residential lines to 85 cents per month for business telephones. Rates will be: $7.60 per month for individual business instead of $6.75; $4.10 for private residences instead of $3.85; $3.20 for two-party residential compared to $3.00 and multi-party residential will be $2.75, not $2.60.

They mentioned that, in 1949 when the company took over the telephone service, there were 60 telephones in the area. By 1952 it had increased to 291 and twelve years later it had risen to 1221.

Dr. Kindree asked if it would be possible to have Woodfibre and Britannia included in the same unit as Squamish and eliminate tolls. Mr. Boyce said this would be difficult and costly. He said this would happen at some future date, but not for some time.

Mr. Boyce also said the base rate had been extended to include the Mamquam area and as the valley built up and more telephones were added this base area would be enlarged.

By 1967 the present building will be so small and the company will have to decide to enlarge it or to build another in the Brackendale area. Growth and the areas involved will likely affect the decision.

CENTENNIAL committee chairman R. Cridge with chairman Mrs. N. H. Marks and secretary Mrs. E. A. Shaw, discuss plans for a celebration and project to mark Canada's centennial in 1967.

CENTENNIAL GROUP ASKS FOR IDEAS

The Squamish Centennial committee met last week and decided to ask the public to submit ideas for a centennial project of lasting significance. A form will be found in the paper and it was suggested that this be filled in and sent to the committee.

Organizations will also be asked to submit ideas for such a project.

Bylaws for the committee were drafted and several committees were formed to deal with various aspects of the centennial.

Named to the various committees were: Finance: C. Bellis, E. Klymchuk and D. Lattimer. Publicity: J. V. Puttkamer, Mrs. R. Antille, Mrs. G. S. Clarke.

Project: I. Boscarol, M. Carrico, G. W. Lyons, R. McKilligan, C. C. Marchant and H. M. Stilson. Telephone: Mrs. N. H. Marks.

CHALLENGE TROPHY presented to Manson and Dan Otto. The award was given to the division for their meritorious record in accident prevention in 1964.

Why Shop At Home...

"Why should we shop at home?" "Some of the merchants don't try to get things we ask for." "If something goes wrong it's almost impossible to get the local installer back to repair it." "Some merchants are indifferent and some could be called downright rude." "Some of them habitually overcharge."

We're not kidding. We were surprised to hear some of the above remarks and there were some we couldn't even print. They were the result of a large advertisement we had in the Times a short time ago and an editorial suggesting that people shop at home.

Both of these recommended local shopping whenever possible and mentioned that the merchant in Squamish has a stake in the future of the district. We honestly believe that local merchants do try to satisfy their customers whenever they can do so and we've always had courteous service from any with whom we've dealt.

Some of them have gone out of their way to get special goods we've asked for. And this was before we worked for the paper. Others have ordered an item or items specially for us when we've asked about them and have invariably been courteous if a certain article we wanted wasn't in stock. We've even had some suggest that we get it in Vancouver as they didn't find it economical to stock the appliance or article wanted. But, if a dozen people bothered to call the paper and complain about service, goods, or too-high prices, there must be some justification for some of their remarks.

We're not saying local businessmen make a habit of doing this, but it could be possible that some are not as co-operative as they could be and there is certainly no excuse for rudeness or indifference.

We still feel that people should try to buy as much as possible in Squamish, but at the same time, if there is room for improvement, they should also attempt to give better service, or the type of service the public wants.

Perhaps re-forming the Retail Merchants Association might be a good thing. They could establish some broad rules or regulations to follow and decide on the way to treat various questions which come up from time to time.

Then, if anyone had a legitimate complaint, this could be the group which could deal with it, and perhaps see that it was remedied.

We'd like to see people in Squamish encouraged to shop at home as much as possible and if there is any way in which people could be persuaded to do this, we're all for it. Make them happy to shop at home.

Watch Those Puddles...

Now that the thaw has begun water is lying all over some of the roads and there's a considerable amount of sand and gravel mixed with it, as well as the odd dollop of slush. Pedestrians walking along the roads can really get clobbered with the mucky stuff if motorists don't watch for them and slow down as they pass.

It's not much to ask. Drivers shouldn't be trying to use excessive speeds with the icy conditions prevailing and it only adds a few minutes to one's driving time to slow down for pedestrians.

We can remember, in the past, before we drove, that one of our pet peeves was just this, drivers who sprayed great gouts of mud and slush over one, filling your boots with the clammy stuff as well as spotting and splashing clothing.

We'd be inclined to bill the motorist for cleaning garments. Might be an idea at that to have it cleaned and send him the bill. He might be more courteous in future.

Seriously, though, we'd like to see motorists pay a little more attention when they pass pedestrians to make sure this doesn't happen. It can be downright annoying.

Who Pays The Bills...

Often, when we read the annual report of the churches and other public bodies in this municipality, we wonder how they manage to continue the work they do on the revenue they receive.

Every organization has its unselfish and completely generous supporters some of whom must be giving until it really hurts. But the salient factor is that a large majority give only what they think they can spare after all their own needs and luxuries have been provided for.

If such people were non-Christians in every sense of the word, if they saw no need to have their children christened, if they intended only to be married before a magistrate or if they intended to bury their loved ones without benefit of church or clergy, the situation would be more understandable. But that is far from the case.

Citizens expect the church and its minister to be available for all the important events in their lives, but they let somebody else worry about how the neighborhood church will be kept in operation between the times they want to use it.

Who Pays Whom...

Recently a circular passed over our desk which claims that pensions under the Old Age Security Act "are paid wholly by the federal government." This was obviously prepared in Ottawa and is wholly wrong.

Pensions provided under the act of parliament are made possible only because parliament has enacted laws which provide for the collection of the amount required to pay the old age pension.

There may be occasions when some taxpayers have not provided through their working lives sufficient funds for the old age pension and other taxpayers have to make up the difference.

Ottawa should not be looked upon by any person as a rich uncle.

The most favorable view of Ottawa would be as a Robin Hood who collects from all poor people and pays out to other poor people here in West Vancouver or there in Dartmouth, N.S.

Only incidentally do the rich, so-called, contribute more than their arithmetical share of the cost.

Conventional...

There are only a few people in West Vancouver who in their small way are willing to strike a blow against uniformity.

A waitress at a well-known local restaurant asked us if we would prefer our soup before or after our toasted lettuce and tomato sandwich.

Silently we honored her for the novelty of her suggestion, but cravenly murmured a conventional "soup first."

OTHER OPINIONS

A Legitimate Business Expense...

It is a season for giving. Alas, some would wrongly batten on the generous spirit in the air. As if timed for the occasion, articles appear to remind us that many apparently worthy charities have too high a ratio of expenses to good deeds. Others are actually fraudulent. The accumulated disillusionment can cause a temptation to remember that charity begins at home, and to leave it there.

However, hardheaded businessmen—as they are always called when it serves one's purposes—are becoming not less charitable, but more so, according to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. And in Britain, according to a study of the subject, the impulse to private philanthropy has not succumbed to the welfare state but is finding new channels.

The Chamber of Commerce goes so far as to challenge what it calls the orthodox idea that corporations should concentrate on making money for shareholders and let the shareholders individually use their profits for charity if they wish.

"This attitude is extreme," says the Chamber. "It is realized that a firm's public image influences sales and profits; to the extent that charity leads to a good public image, it is a legitimate business expense. Also, some philanthropic contributions—such as for education or basic research—may well improve profits in the long term."

Such motives for generosity may seem unorthodox in more ways than one. But as long as humanity is the winner we think there is room for the businessman's tax-deductible dollar as well as the widow's mite.

THE VANCOUVER SUN

"George... do you have the foggiest idea which way we're heading?"

Straws in the wind by Mary MacDonald

Mary offers mixed bag of advice

JANUARY TO DATE HAS SEEN THE STOCK MARKETS OF NORTH AMERICA ADVANCE "RIGHT ACROSS THE BOARD."

Mr. Johnson's State-of-the-Nation address has pleased everyone and given everyone a sense of security. At this moment, it would appear that the U.S. government will be able to hold that country's economy on an even keel by foreseeing trouble spots and giving boosts before the actual trouble begins.

Not all the boosts to date are government inspired, by any means. Business is profiting largely from a big lift in buying volume, inspired I suspect by the feeling of confidence that currently grips that nation.

Actual government boosts have been in the form of increased security payments and decreased income taxes. The extra revenue from all this accelerated business turnover is to go first to education, which will delay the full impact of successive annual shock waves of teenagers thrown on the labour market.

Mr. Johnson has Congress solidly behind him, a circumstance almost unique lately in U.S. history. Practically the only circumstance that could upset his easy-money, expansionary course would be worsening of the strains imposed by the Sterling crisis, or some disastrous international event.

THE GOLD POT HAS BOILED THIS WEEK PARTLY ON A HOPEFUL ANTICIPATION OF THE REVALUATION OF GOLD.

What Mr. Johnson has actually done instead of this is to ask Congress to eliminate the gold backing behind a part of the total U.S. currency. This would free about $5 billion in gold, which should discourage speculation.

All the foregoing is simply a recitation of the picture as I see it, and does not in any way change my plans for my clients' money—and foremost among these plans is a determination to maintain a good cash reserve (Canada Savings) in each account.

This reserve is not only for liquidity, but as well, to be ready for turns and breaks in a few individual stocks with unique advantages and good management, and selling at a low price-earnings ratio.

First, of course, I favour stocks in the Canadian life insurance companies which are selling at low "times earnings" ratios, and many of which may be allowed later this year to split their stocks to lower market prices, and thus encourage more widespread ownership. Imperial Life, Crown, and Industrial are all good buys.

The chemical industry as well has bright prospects for this year. Plastics and aluminum are making definite inroads into the markets for steel, rubber and other manufacturing and construction components.

Synthetic fibres as well are taking over much of the natural fibre markets, and new fibres are in the offing which may revolutionize our conception of clothing use and purchase: Dupont, Canadian Industries, Aluminum Ltd.

ALUMINUM AND STEEL FOR YEARS HAVE WAGED A SEE-SAW BATTLE BETWEEN THEMSELVES TO REPLACE OTHER MATERIALS, PARTICULARLY IN CONSTRUCTION.

The battle has now come almost full circle, for now these companies find they are defending their strongholds against new intruders—the plastic companies have developed plastic-coated plywoods for building panels to sell at lower costs than the metal panels now on the market. I favour the plastic companies for the next round or two, anyway.

I particularly favour companies in the business of servicing the needs and desires of the teen-agers and young-marrieds.

Beer, for example, is the moderate drink of youth, and some brewery shares are selling at low price-earnings ratios, too.

Canadian Breweries are my favorite. Sporting goods companies are showing big volume gains, along with entertainment and other recreational service groups, not forgetting resorts and hotel chains.

As time passes and the market in individual issues appears favourable for purchases, I propose to examine various issues in each one of these groupings in detail.

For those incorporating a bit of speculation into their investment picture, I can do no better than suggest a conservative speculation in various of the companies which will come into production later this year, such as Pine Point, Endako and Northgate, also Mutagami (in production).

Ottawa Diary

Soon Canada will be able to amend its own Constitution. This freedom is long overdue. But some people regard it with foreboding. They claim that amending our own Constitution will lead to the balkanization of Canada as a nation.

Such a charge is ill-founded.

A procedure for altering our Canadian constitution is one thing. Shifting powers from Ottawa to the Provinces is another. Indeed the two are quite distinct. One is a procedure. The other is a doubtful objective.

This should become more obvious with the publication of a White Paper on this subject early in the New Year.

Mr. Diefenbaker has voiced his concern about our adoption of the new constitution amending procedure. Even he, it seems, has lost sight of the fact that it is similar to the one advanced by his own government a few short years ago.

The only important deviation from the "Fulton formula" of 1961 relates to those powers listed in the British North America Act as exclusively Federal in character.

In 1949, the Liberal Government under Mr. St. Laurent took the position that Ottawa need not consult anyone in this connection.

This pronouncement started a row with the provinces. They were afraid that their provincial representation would not be safeguarded in the Senate and the House of Commons.

Now Ottawa has decided to allay their fears. It will listen to their representations. But it is not bound to take their advice—only to consult with provinces before it acts.

Another of Mr. Diefenbaker's charges is that the new amending formula sets Quebec apart from the other provinces.

This is not true. The text of the amending procedure specifically denies the possibility of Quebec establishing itself as an "associate state." The relevant section reads as follows:

"There is absolutely nothing in the proposed Amendment that, directly or indirectly, explicitly or implicitly, provides for the granting of a special status, within the Canadian Federation to one or other of the provinces."

If there are other doubts, Mr. Fulton's memorandum—the one he sent to Mr. Diefenbaker and his other former colleagues on October 26, 1964—should set them to rest. In it Mr. Fulton said that:

"These provisions do not confer any new jurisdiction or power on the provinces; nor do they have the effect of diminishing the federal jurisdiction or power in the slightest."

In other words, Ottawa has not given up any of its authority. Indeed it is freer. It is free to do certain things which it could not do before. If can assume some of the powers of the provinces if a group of four or more wish to band together and turn some of their powers over to the Federal Government. In return Ottawa can delegate a federal power to four or more provinces. But these are "ad hoc" arrangements. They can be terminated.

Ottawa, for instance, can recover its delegated power at any time.

Obviously the new Constitution amending process will add an element of flexibility to our Canadian parliamentary institutions.

With this flexibility comes strength. It is a strength which itself adds to, rather than detracts from, the authority of Canada as a nation.

Always check your turn indicator lights after driving onto or off a freeway, the B.C. Automobile Association advises. Because the curves are gentle, your steering wheel may not have been turned sharply enough to switch off the turn signals. A blinking turn indicator is misleading to other motorists and could cause an accident.

"I THINK we'll be able to use this," Joe Oetter, print shop foreman for the Times is telling Don Johnson as they look over a press in the rear of the building soon to be demolished. A print shop will be included in the new construction due to start as soon as weather permits and this press will be used to do local job printing. Mrs. Tatlow is helping to clean up, and piles of old papers, some dating back to 1950, were sorted and filed.

EMPIRE LOGGING WINS TROPHY

Empire Logging Division of Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd., won the company's Safety Award for 1964. The trophy was presented to W. V. Manson at a conference in Vancouver on Wednesday, January 13th, by E. W. Ellison, executive vice-president of Canadian Collieries.

The award, which is presented annually to a division of the company for meritorious performance in accident prevention, is the proud possession of the twelve-man Safety Committee, which contains six members from management and six from the workmen.

Dan Otto is chairman of the Safety Committee as well as chairman of the union and he expressed his pleasure at receiving the trophy. The division achieved a record 502 accident free days, to set a target which will probably not be equalled for some time.

W. V. Manson said Empire Logging worked 143,870 man hours in 1964 with only three compensable accidents.

The accident frequency record for this division was 20.8 as compared to an average in the association of the low forties.

Library holds annual meeting

With one exception the entire Squamish Public Board was re-elected at last Wednesday's annual meeting. Mr. M. A. Carrico resigned, due to pressure of other commitments and R. Johnson will take his place on the board.

Re-elected were Mrs. H. Johns, Mrs. E. Kristianson, L. C. Minchin and Mrs. C. Tatlow. Mrs. G. S. Clarke was re-appointed as librarian.

The officers for the present year will be elected at the first meeting of the board.

In the chairman's address, L. C. Minchin touched on the highlights of the past year. The text of his address follows:

"I would first of all like to echo the sentiments of my predecessor in this office, namely that it has been a very great pleasure to act as chairman of the Squamish Village Library Board. It would appear that complete disregard for Robert's Rules of Order, and even at times permitting the meeting to diverge from the matters in hand is an advantage.

GROWTH IN 1964

The year 1964 has again been a picture of growth in all the Library activities. Numbers of books available, of members, of books borrowed, even of fines paid for overdue books, all showed a substantial increase. Thanks to the far-sighted generosity of the Squamish Village Commissioners our grant from the village, together with the matching grant from the Provincial Government, has increased our financial operating capacity and thus our ability to serve the community.

The Lions Ladies kindness in presenting the library with a filing cabinet has made possible a project dear to the heart of our Librarian, that of a complete cataloguing all our available books.

I would like to thank my fellow board members for their attendance at meetings, and for their most helpful suggestions. To Mrs. Clarke, the Librarian, and to Mrs. Tatlow, the secretary treasurer, many thanks for being towers of strength.

Finally, I am sure that I am echoing the sentiments of us all when I say a very big thank you indeed to those ladies who attend so faithfully and handle the actual borrowing of the books, and collect the overdue fines of course. During the rather inclement weather at the turn of the year, these ladies never failed to make the library facilities available. Like a certain London theatre during the 1940 blitz, we can say, that thanks to these ladies, we too, never closed."

INCOME RISES

The present income of the library is approximately fifteen hundred dollars. Books and furnishings accounted for 97% of the expenditures last year. The librarian and her assistants are all volunteers and receive no remuneration.

The balance of almost a thousand dollars may seem excessive but there is an outstanding account of two hundred dollars worth of new books and it must be remembered that this money must carry the library until July when the municipal grant is available.

The provincial grant is not received until late in the year. It matches the municipal one and is carried over to assist in the following year.

Mrs. Tatlow announced that bound files of the former Squamish Advance and the present Squamish Times will be presented to the library as soon as they have been completed. It is hoped that they will be added to from time to time with articles and photographs of interest to form the nucleus of municipal archives.

People were reminded that the library, whose membership fees are one dollar per year for adults, with no charge for children and students, is one of the best bargains available today.

Mr. Carrico, who declined to stand for re-election, offered his services to the board in any capacity and these were gratefully accepted.

$110 Million proposed for local pulp plant

United Pulp Co. said at the hearings in Victoria recently that the size of the pulp mill proposed for Squamish had been increased to 800 tons per day and 668 tons per day in newsprint production has been added to the plans bringing the total to $110 million.

This was revealed when United, in association with Price Bros. Ltd., of Quebec, made application before Lands and Forests Minister Williston for pulpwood harvesting rights in nine crown forests along the PGE from Squamish to Quesnel.

The company had earlier announced the building of a 500 ton per day kraft mill, estimated at $60 million.

The new proposal, made at the hearings by T. G. Moore, president of Price Bros., is for 650 tons of fully bleached pulp and 150 tons of semi-bleached for the newsprint operation.

PULP MILL FIRST

The initial stage would include the pulp mill and one newsprint machine at an estimated cost of $88 million. The second newsprint machine would be added as markets developed.

In the company's brief, transportation of chips by pipeline was mentioned as a possibility.

The United-Price brief said that if the company is granted the PHA rights, it would have a mill in operation within three years of forming a new jointly-owned company. Structure of the new company was not revealed. The two firms have already spent more than $300,000 in preliminary investigation.

MILL AT SQUAMISH

The plant would be built on a filled area in the tide flats containing 150 acres. The wood supply for the plant would come from 14 million cubic feet of chips from member mills, chips from non-member mills, logging residue, farm woodlots and pulpwood.

An estimated 663,000 cunits (a cunit is 100 cubic feet of timber) of wood would be needed each year to meet the plant's rated capacity.

The company said it would offer financial assistance to sawmills having residues which could be shipped and transported economically. Timber requirements for the Squamish mill would complement the sawmill economy, according to the company, by providing a market for logs not now used for lumber.

Rain and snow recorded by local man

H. H. Bailey, who has been keeping rain and snowfall records since 1951, brought in the totals for the past fourteen years.

They make fascinating reading. Only in two years, 1958 and 1963 was there no snowfall recorded. However 1958 did show an unusually high amount of rain, more than the total precipitation in any other year. This was 107.15, closely followed by 1953 with 106.8 inches.

Oddly enough, 1951, which had the highest snowfall for any one year, 101.5 inches, had the lowest precipitation. Rainfall that year amounted to 64.4 inches and with snow added, a total figure of 74.5 inches fell.

The following year saw a total precipitation of 75.9 inches, and the average over a ten year period was 87.11 inches, slightly more than 1964's 86.8.

No rain fell in the month of July in 1960 and in July 1952 there was only 1 inch of rain. The heaviest monthly rainfall was in November of 1954 when 23 inches was recorded, closely followed by the same month in the preceding year with 20.1 inches.

Last month's 69.5 inches of snow was the heaviest on record with the closest being 47 inches in January of 1954. The only recorded October snowfall was in 1956 when 1.5 inches fell.

The chart shows the highest monthly snowfall occurred in January of 1952 with 41.25 inches, February of 1956 with 26.25 inches, March of 1951 with 23 inches, November of 1955 with 32 inches and last December.

Highest rainfalls by the month were January 1958, 20.7 inches; February, 1961, 18.21 inches; March, 1953, 10.6 inches; April, 1959, 10.8 inches; May, 1960, 7 inches; June, 1956, 9.6 inches; July, 1957, 5.3 inches; August, 1962, 5.79 inches; September, 1959, 8.8 inches; October, 1963, 16.27 inches; November, 1954, 23 inches and December, 1957, 20.37 inches.

No man ever repented that that he arose from the table sober, healthful, and with his wits about him.

profile on fashion

by RHODI LAKE
Lions Gate Times

Once upon a time there was a woman who looked in her closet and cried: "I have nothing to wear!"

This wasn't exactly true, for she did, indeed, have several things to wear, but each of them looked tired and dull and she hated them all.

So she looked in her purse—and took out a few dollars—and went shopping. And came home happy.

What did she buy?

She bought herself a new hair color!

Now, for the purpose of the moral to my story, it doesn't matter what color she had her hair done, but it was different, and with the help of a thoroughly experienced operator, it was a color that complemented her skin tone.

Suddenly, everything in her closet that looked dull and old became more interesting and alive. She reversed the process of change. She didn't change her wardrobe—she changed herself!

I was more interested, in talking to my own hair-dresser who has made a study of the art of coloring hair, to learn the theory behind the fact of the hair and skin tone you were born with.

It is simply not valid, as I have heard piously expressed, that "nature knows best" when she hands you the color of your hair.

Left to herself, nature does know best. But she's had such a heck of a time over countless generations with the intermarrying of different races that the poor, old thing simply doesn't know where she's at!

The Oriental race, for instance, could be said to be one of the most pure, for there has been comparatively little intermingling there. The natural skin tone of the Oriental has a slightly yellow to ivory cast which goes beautifully with that blue-black hair.

Nature was right. But let an Oriental unite with a person of a different complexioned race and the result could be a child with brown hair. Dye this hair black again and you have the natural beauty of the race color.

Now for those people whose ancestral background is a melting pot of many nationalities—and whose isn't?—the mixture can become complex. You may have dark skin, green eyes and light brown hair—or blonde hair, brown eyes and a fair skin—or blue eyes, black hair and a white skin. If you should have the temerity to color your hair in a grab-bag fashion the results can be utterly unflattering.

A person with a dark-toned skin, for example, shouldn't dye her hair red, because her skin would turn muddy by contrast and it's the contrast one has to consider. This is where the experience and knowledge of a good colorist is important.

The prejudice about changing the color of one's hair has all but vanished, thank heaven! And certainly the point of view that your mixed-up ancestors have done you out of your blue-black or platinum or flaming red hair, which is yours by natural rights, will clear away those last nagging doubts about changing your hair color!

Old bridge at Cheekye collapses

The old bridge at Cheekye, built in 1927 and repaired several times after floods, had damaged it and the approach es, collapsed and fell into the Cheakamus river last Friday afternoon.

Jim Davidson of Fergie's at Cheekye said he was coming down from the house at about 1:15 in the afternoon when he heard a loud crash. Immediately thinking it was a slide, he looked up to see the bridge settling into the river.

He said that only a short time before two fishermen had been standing underneath the bridge casting and fortunately they had moved. The Times outdoor editor, John Wright, said that this was one of his favorite spots too and he often fished under the bridge.

The span was lying in the river with part of the decking and the structure forming an obstruction.

The bridge was condemned in 1958 after the provincial government and the loggers combined to build the present bridge to replace it.

Highways Department crews moved in on Saturday to take down the remainder of the bridge and remove the debris from the river. By late Sunday the work was almost completed.

C. J. Graham heads Pemberton trade board

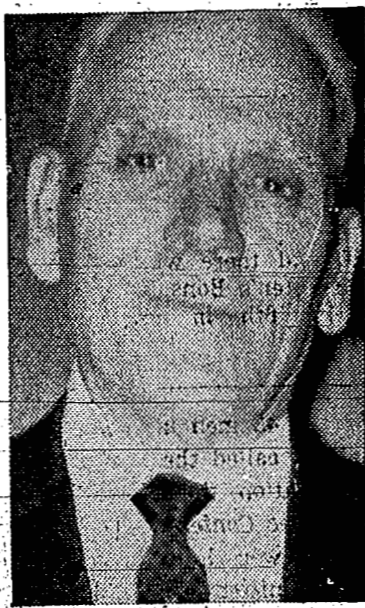

C. J. Graham was elected by acclamation to serve his third term as president of the Pemberton and District Board of Trade at the meeting on Jan. 12th. He succeeds Don Hardacre.

Fred Ostman is vice-president, Bob Priest, secretary and George Furness, treasurer.

Named to the council were Don Hardacre, Ben Cherry, A. W. Spetch, Bob Herron, John Cosulich, F. Meen and R. A. Taylor.

A vote of thanks was extended to the retiring executive who were presented with gifts of appreciation.

A proposed mill project, presented by Mrs. M. Franks representing the Tyee Forest Products Ltd., sparked a lively discussion.

C. J. GRAHAM ... by acclamation

The drainage problem in the village, which has been spearheaded by the Board of Trade under the guidance of Bob Taylor is now in brief form and ready to be presented to Victoria for approval.

Tourists and the tourist industry will be one of the projects interesting the board in the coming tourist season and members are working hard to attempt to be somewhat prepared for the great influx of visitors, as soon as the road is open.

All business in Pemberton reported a successful year in 1964 and are working towards an even better one this year.

Old friends are best. King James used to call for his "old shoes; they were easiest for his feet."

You guessed it. They just had to lock up the store (10:00 a.m. Sunday) for a couple of hours until the game was played.

Why did Mr. & Mrs. Graham open a Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit Account?

It all started when Mary Graham saw all the bargains advertised in the newspaper. Several stores were having big sales and she showed Jack the low prices on portable T.V.'s, and, of course, the specials on fur jackets. These sales were a "once-a-year" chance for the Grahams to take advantage of good buying opportunities but they didn't have the ready cash. The next day Jack Graham was discussing his problem with his Scotia branch manager. He learned the details about Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit and Jack quickly saw its many advantages. After a few questions about his job and how much uncommitted monthly income was available for Cheque-Credit, Jack and Mary Graham were well on their way to getting the things they needed—and at sale prices, too.

Cheque-Credit gives you the extra money you need—when you need it!

1 You select the monthly payment that you can afford—and then apply for twelve times that amount.

2 When your application has been approved you receive a book of special personalized cheques.

3 You are not confined to spending in specified stores. Your cheques are good for anything you need, anytime, anywhere in Canada.

4 The charge on Cheque-Credit accounts is $6.00 per year for each $100 borrowed. You pay only on the amount of credit actually used. You do not pay anything for the money held in reserve for your account.

5 Your monthly payment is approximately one-twelfth of the amount of credit you have used so far.

6 Each month you will receive a statement of cheques written, payments to be made, and the amount of credit still open.

7 Each payment you make rebuilds your Cheque-Credit reserve, giving you a continual supply of credit.

Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit is life-insured, too, at no extra cost to you. Find out today all about Cheque-Credit at your nearest Scotiabank.

First steelhead caught recently

by JOHN G. WRIGHT

The honor of catching the first steelhead in the local rivers goes to John Wilgress of Brackendale who caught a 7 pound beauty in the Cheekamus river on a frosty Sunday afternoon two weeks ago.

The nylon telephone (the fisherman's grapevine) took over then as was shown by the number of fishermen from the Lower Mainland who arrived at the river last Sunday.

Dave Watt and I were up there too, hoping for a repeat of the previous weekend's success when we caught 15 dollys, but came away empty-handed. While working my way down the river I was in time to see Neil Blue connect with a steelhead. Neil was using a rubber dew worm, Harry Lassman, one of the canniest steelheaders in the valley, also connected for one last Tuesday.

On Saturday two youngsters got a beautiful 7 1/2 pound Dolly Varden in the river. They took turns playing the fish and were certainly a delighted pair of youngsters when they landed it.

FISHING WITH ROE?
There was also a report of two more being taken on roe. Whether this is true or not it brings up the subject for this week.
Last week we asked a fellow "didn't he know you can't use it in the Squamish system?" and he said, "Sure but everybody else was using it."

Where are our game wardens? It's common knowledge they should know about it. The fellow was sitting right alongside the Cheekye bridge where everyone could see what he was doing and didn't give a hoot who saw him. This has got to be stopped and fast, otherwise it will get out of hand and the dolly population will be decimated.

People and film blend on show

"Portrait", a new TV show combining personalities with National Film Board movies, will be available in this area on CHAN-TV at 2 p.m. Sundays and CHEK-TV at 10:30 a.m. Saturdays.

The first in the series, Jan. 17, features Eve Coupland, dancer and ballet teacher from Montreal, who will discuss ballet as a career. The accompanying film is, "Ballerina".

On Jan. 24 and 31 Ross Quigley, a New Zealander who has traveled extensively and lived in Fiji for four years, will talk about Fiji and excerpts from the award-winning film "Two Men of Fiji" will be shown.

The film "People by the Billion" will be featured Feb. 7 when Dr. V. Setty Pendakur speaks on the problems of India's population explosion.

Dr. Pendakur came to Canada on an UNESCO fellowship and has lectured extensively at the Universities of Washington and Oregon. He is now director of Associated Engineering Services in Canada.

CURLING NEWS

By June Phillips

The membership mixed bonspiel on January 5th to 10th was the start of the second half of the curling season with the return to regular curling and plans for further bonspiels and visiting rinks.

On Friday evening, Jan. 15, one men's rink from the North Shore Club and one men's and one mixed rink from the Pacific club visited the Howe Sound club and the local rinks were victors in all three games.

Two more men's rinks from the North Shore Winter Club visited Squamish on Sunday afternoon, January 17th. Kilburn's rink won and Hughes' lost in a close finish.

January 22-26 marks the start of the Briar Bonspiel with Jim Kilburn and John Hughes skipping two rinks. Gene Klymchuk, Gerry Williams and Harold Mensinger make up Jim's rink and Bill Baldry, Hugh McMillan, and Dunc Macdonald are on John Hughes' rink. These two rinks will be playing on Friday evening, Jan. 22nd at the Burnaby Winter Club in the Zone 3 playdowns of the PCCA. Let's wish them luck.

Watch this spot for further curling news. We hope to have something of interest in every week and there will be news of the Men's Bonspiel starting on Feb. 6th, in next week's paper.

Of the 43 men in the group that was called the Fathers of Confederation, the delegates to the Quebec Conference of 1864, only two were later to become Prime Minister—Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper.

remodel your kitchen with LIGHT!

No other kitchen improvement can add so much for so little cost. You can give your kitchen a bright New look . . . make it easier and more pleasant to work in.

GENERAL LIGHTING: You'll need adequate light for seeing into cupboards, reading labels. Good overhead lighting makes for a cheerful atmosphere on dull days; extends a bright invitation to friends and guests in the evening. One way of getting the best general lighting is with a simple fluorescent fixture.

AT THE SINK AND COUNTER: Ample light is required to clean vegetables; to see if your dishes are really clean. Solution: install a recessed light above the sink. Or hide fluorescent lamps under upper cupboards to light counter surfaces.

AT THE RANGE: It figures: you will cook better if you can see what you are cooking. Is that steak rare or medium/rare? Is that pastry done to just the right shade of golden-brown? Install an attractive local light and you'll never wonder again.

Start planning your bright new kitchen now. Ease Into It if you like, and add one lighting improvement at a time. You can add the cost of lighting fixtures to your monthly HYDRO bill - through the HOUSEPOWER FINANCE PLAN.

SCHOOL PLANS ANNUAL FUN FAIR

There will be an international flavor to this year's Annual Fun Fair jointly sponsored by the PTA and the Students' Council and planned for Friday, January 29th in the high school gymnasium.

Doors will open at 4:30 p.m. and the activities will continue until 11:00 p.m.

Patrons will be invited to tour the international area and savor the luscious pastries at the French Pastry Shop, sample Dutch Chocolate, or nibble on pizzas from the Italian booth.

An Arab slave market will be a highlight of the fair and you'll be sure to find something you want at the Lebanese New and Used.

You'll also have an opportunity to take a chance in Las Vegas.

For an exciting even you won't want to miss be sure and attend the third annual Fun Fair.

Obtain permits at municipal hall

Residents in the newly incorporated area may not be aware of some of the permits and other licences which may be obtained at the municipal hall.

All building permits, whether for new construction, remodeling or additions, anywhere in the incorporated area, must be obtained at the municipal office.

This also includes oil burner permits and plumbing permits.

Trades licences for any businesses operating in the incorporated area are now due and these can also be obtained from the municipal authorities. Licences run from January 15th to April 30th and from April 30th to Oct. 1st.

Dogs within the incorporated area should be licenced and these can also be obtained at the hall.

All users of water from the municipal water system will be billed from the municipal hall and these can be paid at the hall. This will include those formerly billed by the Mamquam Waterworks Board.

Electrical permits can be obtained at the local B.C. Hydro office.

A sheet outlining requirements of all building contractors in the municipality can be obtained from the office and this contains all the information which may be required. The staff will gladly assist in any way possible.

Healthy increase says librarian

Mrs. G. S. Clarke told the Squamish Library Association at its annual meeting last week that the library was showing a healthy increase with circulation up 12.3% over last year.

The largest increase was in the juvenile section where the increase was 16%, followed by non-fiction, 12.7% and fiction, 8.5%. Total circulation figures were 10,924.

Memberships increased during the same period, with the children increasing from 408 to 435 and the adults from 144 to 166. This was 6% and 15%.

Bookstock also showed an increase, with 1339 juvenile books, 79 more than last year or 6.4%; 1630 adult fiction, 141 more than 1962, 9.5% and non-fiction, 43 more than last year a total of 696 or 6.5% increase. The total bookstock is now 3665 books, 7.6% more than last year.

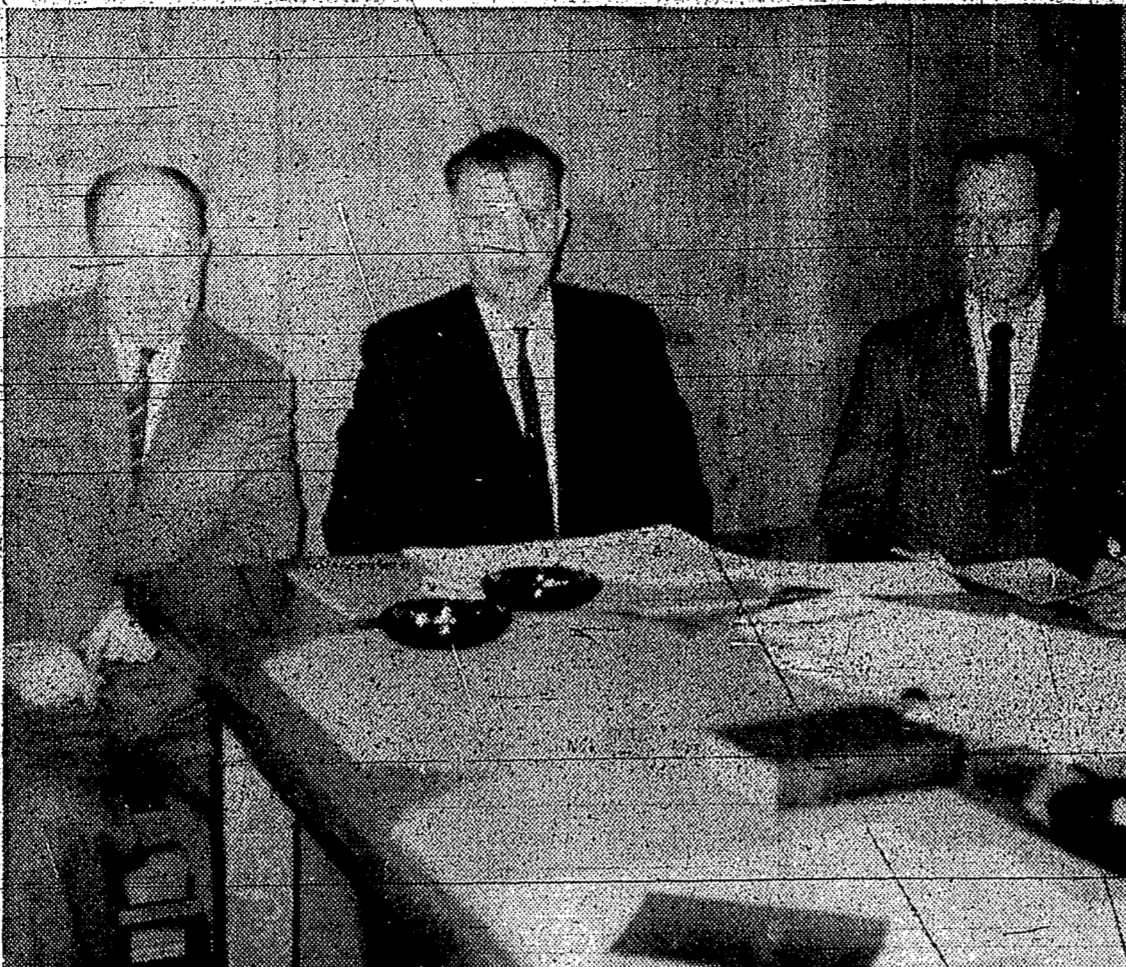

The bookstock does not reflect the true increase as many books had been discarded as no longer suitable or in poor condition.

Mrs. Clarke thanked the regular librarians Mrs. E. Anderson, Mrs. S. Blasko, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. A. Finter, Mrs. J. Hill, Mrs. S. Kilby, Mrs. W. Regier and Mrs. C. Tatlow. Others who assist when needed are Mrs. J. Jardine, Mrs. W. Ridgely and Mrs. R. Smith.

The library has also taken part in extra-curricular activities. These included a visit to the Squamish Elementary School last February to outline basic library procedure to Grades 6 and 7, a display of work done by the painting and craft class at night school and the visit to the library by two groups of kindergarten children during Young Canada Book Week.

Mrs. Clarke also thanked the Village Commissioners for the laying of the tile in the workroom and the Lions Ladies for the generous donation of a card catalogue cabinet.

Mexico's national highway network has increased 38.5 percent in the past five years, says the B.C. Automobile Association. Nearly 11.5 million cars, trucks and buses used Mexico's toll roads and toll bridges in 1963 — a 30 percent increase over 1962.

HOWE SOUNDINGS

A great deal of laughter ensued at the PHA hearings in Victoria recently when a spokesman for one of the large logging companies objected to one of the applicants at the hearing receiving the licence because, if granted it would give the applicant a monopoly.

The laughter arose from the fact that the company which the gentleman was speaking for, is one which has often been accused of having a stranglehold on much of B.C.'s timber. Sort of a case of the pot calling the kettle?

With heart campaign, cancer funds, TB seals and all the other fund raising plans to combat various diseases, the remark recently overheard regarding "a disease of the month club" seems quite appropriate.

Did you hear about the local chap who was having himself quite a time trying to get the vehicle away from the garage the other morning? No, well, it had been put in for repairs and he was told that it was OK now and was on the lot. So out he went, stepped into it, turned on the motor and... didn't go anywhere. Tried the four wheel drive... and still got nowhere. Stepped out, used a few short words to describe garages, looked the vehicle over and tried again. Still no dice. By now he was fit to be tied and climbed out again, went to the rear of the vehicle... and you guessed it. His rear bumper was caught on one belonging to a car that was completely buried in the snow and frozen into position. So naturally he couldn't get anywhere. Moral, always look before you jeep... Ugh!

Noticed that Williams Lake's "Wrestling Day" was featured in Maclean's Parade column last week. They suggested it had the makings of a distinctive national holiday that might get a lot more votes than any flag.

Social Notes

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. V. Didier (Betty Wray), who were married in a quiet ceremony in Couer d'Alene on December 29th.

HOSPITAL TEA CANCELLED

The Hospital Auxiliary's tea, planned for January 22nd, has been postponed to February 19th.

The ladies feel that the weather may be more propitious at that time and the snow may have vanished.

Last rites for Robert Sherwood

Robert James Sherwood, of Britannia Beach, collapsed and passed away while fighting a fire in the chip bins at Wood-fibre on Tuesday night of last week.

Mr. Sherwood, who was 43 years of age, was a resident of Britannia Beach for 15 years. A former employee of Howe Sound Co. and Anaconda, he had been working at Construction Aggregates since the strike and went to Wood-fibre on Tuesday to help fight the fire in the chip silos.

Mr. Sherwood was a veteran serving in the navy, and also a member of the Squamish branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

He is survived by his wife, two children, Gary and Linda, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sherwood of Lantzville, and a sister, Mrs. P. Piemontos of Whitehorse, N.T.

Funeral services were held at Hollyburn Funeral Home in West Vancouver on Saturday, January 16th at 3 p.m. with Rev. Evan Fullerton officiating. Interment in Field of Honor, Capilano Cemetery.

Shower for Mrs. Didier

Mrs. Vic Didier, the former Betty Wray, was the very surprised guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Binning on January 13 with Mrs. Les Armstrong as co-hostess.

The gifts, piled on an attractively decorated table, were presented to Mrs. Didier following an evening of entertaining games.

The guests present included Mrs. H. Nichols, Mrs. Thor Halvorson, Mrs. Danny Carson, Mrs. Doug Feiton, Mrs. Colin Wetterstrom, Mrs. Les Moulle, Mrs. Barry Green, Mrs. Norman Halvorson, Mrs. Richard Munro, Mrs. Dave Latimer, Mrs. Harold Halvorson, Mrs. Bruce Carson, Mrs. W. J. Timney and Mrs. Norman Barr.

Brian and Grant Dawson have returned to U.B.C. They spent the Christmas holidays with the family, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Dawson.

They who are in the highest places; and have the most power, have the least liberty, because they are the most observed. —John Tillotson.

Are you one of the thousands of Canadians to get increased dividends again this year from Mutual Life?

Mr. James:
I'm happy to say I am.

Interviewer:
Did you know that this is the tenth time in the past twelve years that The Mutual Life has increased dividends?

Mr. James:
I haven't been keeping score—but I know Mutual Life's dividend record is tops.

Interviewer:
This year's dividends totalling $17,900,000 represent an increase of $1,400,000 over the amount paid in 1964. And the interest rate on accumulated dividends has been increased to 5%.

Mr. James:
You know, with earnings like that I might even consider increasing my coverage!

Interviewer:
It's a good idea to review your life insurance regularly to make sure it meets current needs. Just get in touch with your Mutual Life representative.

Thanks for snow removal

The municipal council was delighted to receive letters from two local firms complimenting them on the excellent job of snow removal in the past few weeks.

FMC and Empire Lumber both wrote letters of thanks to the municipal authorities expressing their pleasure at the efficiency of the work done.

The school board at its meeting last week also tendered recognition to the municipal and highway authorities, expressing satisfaction with the way roads were kept open during the heavy snow. "As a result of their efforts we were able to keep our schools open throughout the entire period," chairman H. H. Bailey said. "Many of those on the lower mainland were forced to close."

Better service needed

Police and fire calls may be co-ordinated

Some form of co-ordinated service whereby fire police and ambulance calls could be answered at one number during the hours between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m. was discussed at council meeting last week when Superintendent Atherton, Staff Sgt. Brien and Sgt. Tooley met with council.

The meeting arose from a visit to council last year when citizens protested the delay in getting police officers when they were needed.

Superintendent Atherton pointed out that this was a large detachment area with a population of 6300 people and that it covered a large area. The northern boundary is at Alta Lake and it extends to Sunset Beach on Howe Sound.

PROMPT ANSWER NECESSARY

A method of answering phone calls was most important. Reeve, Brennan felt. "When you want the police, you'd like to have them right away," he said. "Even if you could get an answer and someone could contact the of-icer to relay the message it would be a great improvement."

It was suggested that someone, preferably an older person, could be employed to answer fire, police and ambulance calls after hours and that this cost be shared by the police and the municipal authorities.

Council was told that calls could be switched from the police station to a centralized location when the officers left to patrol. They could be called via radio if their presence was needed. This would effectively solve a portion of the problem.

The police officers said they could explore the matter fully and see if a solution could be found.

This is my world Classified Ads

by SHIRLEY HUNTER
Lions-Gate Times

Run, don't walk, to your nearest magazine stand, or beg or borrow a January McCall's.

There's an article in this issue, "The Sins of the Parents," every mother and father should read; written by the judge in the Daflon, Connecticut trial who arrested all the parents involved for "serving liquor" to minors, after a teen-ager was killed in a car crash. Remember the case in the papers last September?

Funny thing was, in my column plans for this month was one about our responsibility as parents, and I might have felt flattered that so much of what the judge writes was right in my own little black-note-book, except that it is all really so much common sense which any conscientious parent should already be endowed with.

Yet at the same time, in the busy lives we live and the deadly routine of the suburban rat race, we may be apt to take our parental responsibility and even plain "concern" for granted, and not try hard enough to search out their meanings.

Judge Elison reports one particular case of an 18-year old boy accused of theft. Trying to explore his background and find out a bit about the boy, the judge got on the subject of sports.

The boy admitted he was crazy about baseball, but when the judge asked the father what team his son rooted for, the father didn't know.

He didn't know! Here surely was lack of communication, indifference, apathy even, a crime worse in its way than the boy's act of stealing, because this was the root of his whole troubled boyhood.

It comes to this, really, I think: a child has three basic needs. First, the need to love and be loved. Secondly, the need to belong to the security of a close family unit so that he can, in turn, feel secure enough to belong to the outer world. Third, his strong need to communicate his troubles, his ideas, his sense of fun and enjoyment, and when he wants to, his dreams.

That means parents must show their interest, prove they care, in the concrete ways a child can understand.

Too often we're apt to leave it to the schools, to the football coach or the Sunday-school teacher. There's no sound follow-through at home.

A friend of mine complained recently that she or her husband, turnabout, were the only parents who ever went to root for their boy's soccer team at the weekly games.

On the other hand, I have heard the boys often play better if the parents aren't there on the spot, urging them on to win.

Some parents, especially the mothers, get upset when their particular offspring lets his team down, or plays what they consider a poor game.

How positively fraught with unseen pitfalls this thing called raising children is. Our very interest can be overdone! We have to show our enthusiasm, without spoiling it for them and without forcing them into one of today's most insidious traps: over-competitiveness.

Now that remark really delighted me, because when I was planning this column I had talked with a father I particularly respect, a man who has raised two of the finest boys a parent could claim, responsible, out-going young men. I asked him what his secret was as a good parent.

"I gave them time," he said simply.

He added this was something money doesn't buy. Furthermore, now they are grown, he is taking up golf again with great enjoyment. He'd given it up a few years ago, regretfully perhaps, but happily, because it cut into the time he gave his boys each week-end.

This father also learned the importance, he says, of teaching them something continually, which comes back to that all important axiom, "caring."

"To teach them something, then walk away," he said. "Like teaching them to drive, then giving them the keys of the car."

It wasn't always easy to walk away, but it was proof he trusted them, and they in turn had to measure up to this trust.

They had to be in by 11. If they wished to make it later, there had to be a good reason.

He was fair. He tried, as he says, to be reasonable, whenever they checked in by phone as they had to do. It was give and take on both sides.

The parents also managed to have their own busy social life, but as the mother explains it, "We never went out without telling them where we were." And they always felt free to call their parents if there was a need.

Now these same grown boys reciprocate concern by telling their parents where they are going each time they go out the door.

There it is: giving and taking, communicating and sharing, parents with child, children with parents. Knowing it's a two-way street. Not easy perhaps, but challenging, yes, and so very much worthwhile.
