SWIMMERS HELPED BY LOCAL YOUTHS

Two swimmers, in difficulties at Alice Lake on Thursday afternoon were assisted by three local youths who helped them to safety.

The couple, who were from the interior, were swimming at the lake when the girl, who was swimming between the two floats at the east-end of the lake, started to go down. Her companion attempted to help her but also got into difficulties.

Eric Anderson, Robert Carrico and David Smith, who were also swimming at the lake, went to help them and Robert and Eric brought the girl to shore while David assisted her male companion. The grateful young couple gave the three youths a reward.

Prompt action saves boy's life

Allan Wayne Martens, 2, of Abbotsford, was pulled unconscious from the swift-flowing Cheakamus River Saturday, half a mile from where he fell in.

The boy's father George D. Martens, and Fred Rambo of Vancouver, jumped into the swirling water and managed to get him ashore.

Dr. Iser Steiman of Vancouver, who was fishing nearby, worked over the boy for half an hour before he regained consciousness. He said the boy was blue, his lungs full of water and he had no pulse.

Assisted by Dr. Norman B. Hirt, Vancouver, who was vacationing nearby, artificial respiration and a heart stimulant injection were used to revive him.

The accident happened at Paradise Valley Resort, north of Squamish, where the boy was on a weekend camping trip with his parents.

He had apparently wandered away from the camp, tumbled into the river and was swept downstream for more than 800 yards before some picnickers saw his body floating face down in mid-stream.

He was taken by ambulance to Squamish General Hospital before being transferred to Vancouver where his condition was reported as "fairly satisfactory."

Sidewalk for Mamquam area

Council last week accepted a report from the committee which investigated the request for a sidewalk in the vicinity of the Mamquam School and decided to build one.

The recommendation was for the sidewalk to be on the west side of the road from Leski's Crossing to the entrance to Garibaldi Estates. A crosswalk at the latter location would bring the children across the road and the sidewalk could then be built from the side road down past the front of the school to the Mamquam Road south of the apartment block.

The committee felt the traffic on the road did present a hazard to the small children attending the Mamquam school and the sidewalk might keep many of them off the road.

A curve just north of the school, combined with another curve a short distance farther north duplicated the danger to youngsters who might not be too careful if they were walking on the highway.

A delegation had met with council the previous week to discuss the problem and to ask for the sidewalk.

Two men hurt in highway crash

Two men, Robert Setton and Norman Sieber, both employed by VanWest Logging Co. Ltd. at Mile 71.3 on the railway north of Squamish were severely injured when the vehicle in which they were riding went off the new highway north of Squamish on July 15th.

Setton suffered a cut artery and broken bones while Sieber had a fractured jaw and ankle. Police were making a routine patrol of the highway when they discovered the accident just three miles north of Culliton Creek. The injured men were transported to hospital by Ray Gallagher of Brandywine Falls and a police car.

The injuries resulted from an accident when the vehicle in which they were riding, driven by Leon Notte, left the highway and struck a rock face. The men were returning to camp.

CM & HC funds available if sewage system built

Council last week heard Mr. Everaugh of Central Mortgage and Housing state that money would be available for building in the Laramee subdivision in Brackendale if some form of sewage or disposal system was installed.

This would have to be done before any funds would be available for prospective builders.

Mr. Laramee had been in discussion with CM & HC and had hoped that lots could be sold and building started provided such a plan was coming into effect soon. CM & HC will provide home building loans in areas which will be serviced with sewers by a municipality within a limit of two to three years provided such a program has been already undertaken.

The disposal plan could be in the form of a large septic tank to serve all the homes in the area, similar to that which has been installed at the apartment buildings in the Wilson Crescent area. The pollution control board will permit this type of installation and Mr. Everaugh said his company will loan money if this is done, providing the trunk lines and tank are installed first.

Mr. Brennan said the municipality had never discussed the possibility of building a sewer system in Brackendale and certainly it was not in the foreseeable future. Therefore the only solution would be for Mr. Laramee to put in the type of system which utilizes the one large septic tank to serve the whole area.

If this was installed the municipality would supervise the installation but cost of maintenance would be the responsibility of the subdividers until a municipal sewer system was installed. At that time it would be mandatory for the subdividers to hook up with the municipal system if one is installed.

The reeve said that eventually he could see a sewer system area in Brackendale but this was a long way in the future.

"We are now in the process of preparing a money bylaw for the construction of a sewer in Squamish which will be submitted to the voters at the December election," he said, "and I can see no prospect of any such program for Brackendale until the district grows large enough to demand it."

"When that time comes," he added, "a plan would have to be prepared for the entire area, not only the small subdividers but everyone on the east and west side of the highway and eventually the entire potential residential development on Cheeky Hill."

Mr. Laramee was also told that he could subdivide his land as requested under the present subdivision bylaw.

New coffee bar opened

Darlene Ryan began her first business venture on Monday, July 18th, when Darlene's Coffee Bar opened in Squamish Lanes on Second Ave.

Darlene, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, went to school in Squamish and has worked as a waitress in many of the restaurants in Squamish and feels sure she will be able to satisfy her customers.

A feature of her new venture will be home baked pies, made by her mother, which will be fresh each day.

"No health problem here" Dr. Cunningham

Last week Dr. A. J. Cunningham, Director of the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit, visited Squamish in response to concern expressed regarding the possible health damage from fumes emanating from the chemical plant.

Dr. Cunningham sent the following letter to council in which he stated there is no health problem in Squamish at the present time, that precautions taken to limit the escapement of chlorine gas are comparable to those taken in similar plants and that samples of air will be taken regularly.

He said if any indication of a health problem occurs the matter would be pursued further.

The text of Dr. Cunningham's letter to council follows:

"At the request of Mr. Cramp-ton the Public Health Inspector, I paid a visit to Squamish to enquire into the complaints of chlorine gas being released from FMC in such heavy concentration as to cause distressing symptoms in the population.

Over the past several months Mr. Cramp-ton has made enquiries concerning the odour of chlorine and has supplied a n air sampler to Mr. Kennedy in your office to take samples of the air whenever the chlorine is very noticeable. Two readings have been recorded viz. .25 and

.5 ppm of chlorine in air by volume. Both these readings are below the permissible level of 1 ppm. The level 1 ppm. is the one allowed in the atmosphere for workers in a plant for a 40 hour week.

On enquiring at F.M.C. plant, I was assured that precautions taken to limit the escape of chlorine gas are comparable with those taken by similar modern installations.

In short, our enquiries to date indicate that there is no health problem in the community at the present time.

We have asked the F.M.C. company if they will take regular air samples in the vicinity of the plant and we shall continue to take samples in the town. Should there be any indication that a problem is arising we shall pursue the matter further."

Library shows steady growth

Circulation and memberships in the Squamish Public Library are showing a healthy growth with the circulation figures up by 1285 over the corresponding first six months of 1965.

Circulation figures for the first half of 1966 are 6843, a rise of over 23 percent or almost a quarter more than the preceding year.

The rise is mainly attributed to the children's section where the figures for this year are 3225, up 1024 over 1965, or a rise of 46 percent, almost half as many again as in the first half of last year.

Adult circulation figures are up by 197 over last year's 2305, a rise of 8 percent, while non-fiction figures are up by 64 over 1052, a rise of 6 percent.

Membership in the adult section is up by 7 over last year's membership of 126 at the end of June. This is a rise of 6 percent. However a large number of memberships have also come in. July and this will bring the overall figure up by a considerable amount.

Circulation figures for the first half of a year are well under half the final figure at the end and 1966 could well be the first time the library will go over the 15,000.

Fines are a little less than last year but this can be attributed to the fact that there was a moratorium on them for most of February while an attempt was made to have many of the long overdue books returned.

The library board is planning to hold an exhibit at the Fall Fair where some of the new books will be on display. At present a display of the paintings, done by Mrs. Sheila Gibbons of scenes in MacMillan, Bioedel's Squamish Division, is being shown in the library and many people have dropped in to see them.

Wants permit for body shop

John Visona appeared before council last week requesting a permit to tear down the old warehouse behind his building on Britannia Avenue and to build a new body shop on the same location.

Mr. Visona said he wished to build a fence around the property at the same time and this would screen the yard from the highway.

The area is zoned commercial and an auto body shop would not be conforming in a commercial area. However the area could be spotted zone if this was deemed advisable.

A committee will look into the application and bring back a report for the next meeting.

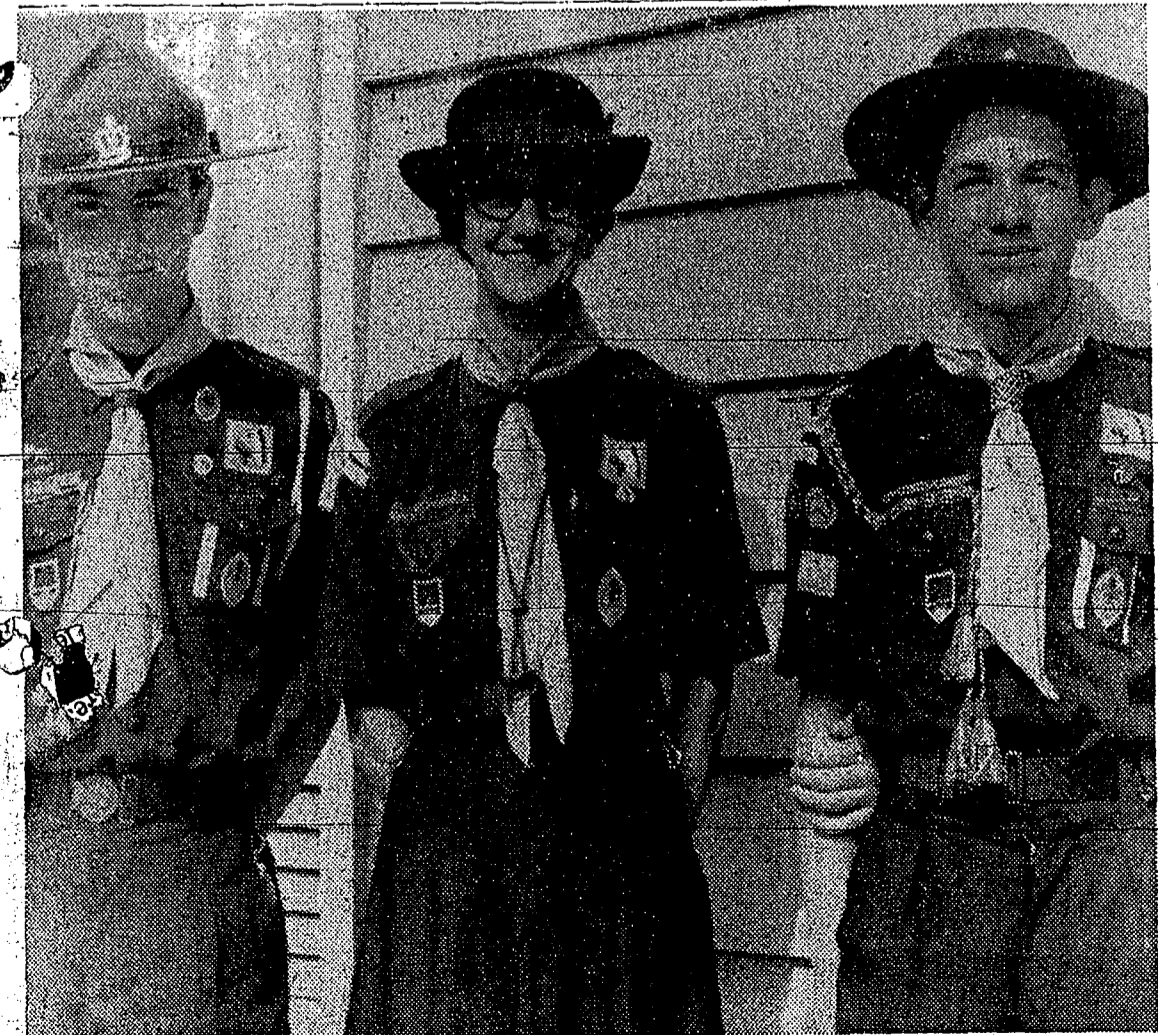

The request to build the addition to his business was granted at last week's council meeting with the proviso that before it can open for business a fence must be built around the adjoining yard to screen any old vehicles which may be in the yard from the public view.

LEGION AUXILIARY BIRTHDAY PARTY

The Royal Canadian Legion Auxiliary Branch 181 of Woodfibre, held their 13th birthday banquet in the Legion Hall, Woodfibre.

Invited guests were: Mrs. Dolly Cartwright—Zone Representative, Mrs. Etta Mulholland—Zone Liaison Officer, Mrs. D. R. Stephens—Deputy Zone Commander.

The Legion members joined the ladies after the banquet for a social evening.

OFF FOR the Boy Scout jamboree at Penticton were Cubmaster Mrs. T. Hill, centre with Scouts John Hurford and David Dawson.

Several accidents on highways here

Several accidents have occurred on the highway between Squamish and Britannia and north towards Pemberton in the past few weeks.

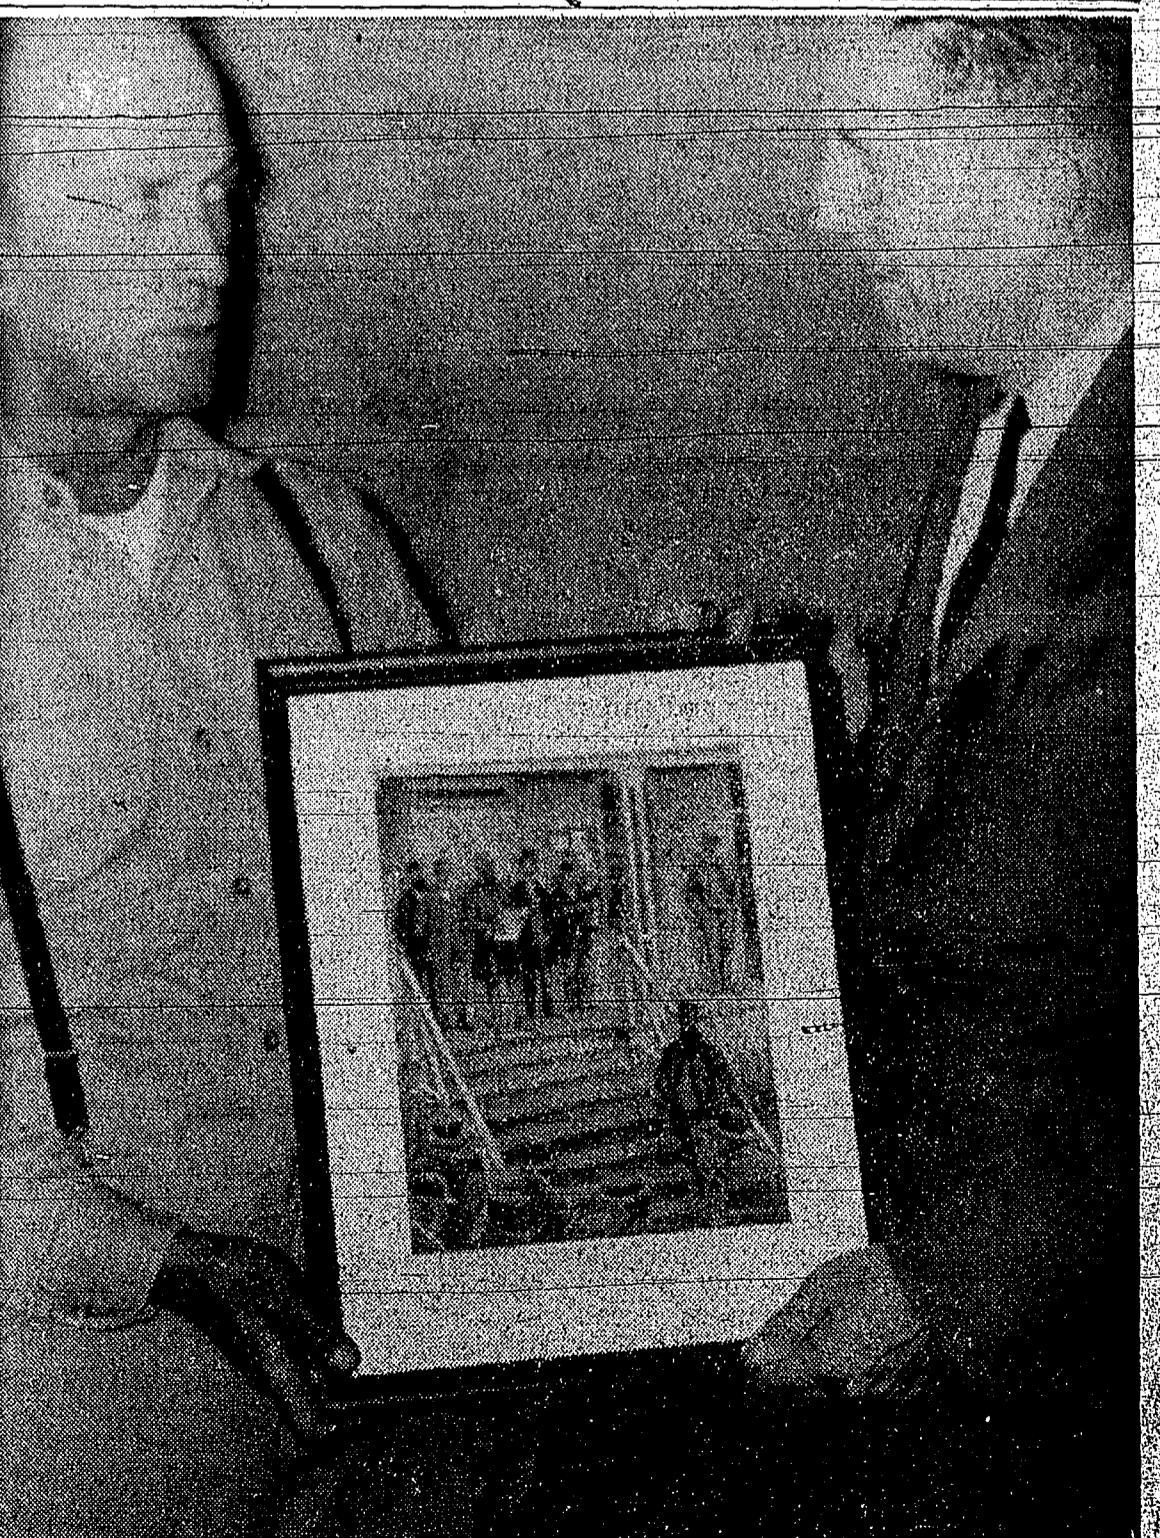

Damage amounting to twelve hundred dollars occurred on July 9th at 11:20 p.m. near Britannia Beach when a vehicle driven by Stan Green of the mining town, was travelling south when it was struck by a vehicle driven by Valentino Mucig of Woodfibre. Charges have been laid against Mucig.

On July 15th a convertible, involved in an accident with an Elliott Bros. truck on the highway to Pemberton was a total loss. The car, driven by Dirk Heiss of Vancouver was north-bound on the new highway in a construction zone when it was struck by the truck driven by Alan Bloudoff. Damage to the truck amounted to five hundred dollars.

Heiss and a passenger, Joan Stacey of Vancouver, received bruises and lacerations.

On July 18th Donald Shaw of Valleycliffe was travelling south on highway 99 from Squamish when he lost control of his vehicle on the wet pavement just south of the new highway bridge, and struck a telephone pole.

A PAINTING of the picture on the front of the new telephone directory depicting the reading of the proclamation uniting the lower mainland and Vancouver Island, was presented to Reeve P. J. Brennan last week by E. R. Boyce, district manager for the B.C. Telephone Co.

Let's all get in the act...

The biggest celebration of the year, the annual Loggers' Sports Day is coming up with the celebration slated for Saturday, August 6th. This is little more than one week away and we feel it isn't too early to start getting people to talk about it.

Why don't the local merchants, and businessmen decide the week of August 1st to 6th, should be Loggers' Sports Week and all get in the act by dressing accordingly?

We think the clerks in the stores, staff at the offices and others could all wear slacks and plaid shirts, we are sure more of the girls, and the boys as well, have them and perhaps even blossom out in hard hats. It would certainly cause a lot of interest and as a promotion idea we don't think it could be topped.

After all, Calgary has its Stampede and everyone gets into the spirit of the celebration by dressing in cowboy regalia. Why shouldn't Squamish which has the best show of its kind in the Pacific northwest, do the same?

We also think it would be a wonderful idea to have the store windows carry a "logging" theme during the weeks immediately preceding the Sports Day. Can't you see some of the bigger windows in town with a display of a logging show, a forest, equipment, or even a large Paul Bunyan type of figure? We are sure that there are enough small replicas of logging trucks and other machinery among the children's toys in the valley to permit such a display to be made.

We should all make every effort to make the day a success. Much of this success depends on advance publicity as well as backing the efforts of the loggers. They certainly get this backing but it would be nice to give them some support in the advance publicity.

Let's all get in the act and advertise the annual Loggers' Sports Day, especially in the week preceding it.

Seaside park for Howe Sound...

Every year we keep suggesting that the Recreation and Conservation department should create a seaside park on Howe Sound for the increasing numbers of fishermen and boating enthusiasts who spend so much time on these waters.

There is a private marina at Lions Bay and another at Sunset Beach but north of these there are no facilities for boat launching until you come to the boat harbor at Squamish. This is almost too far north for the ardent fisherman as most of the action, especially in salmon fishing, takes place near Britannia.

At this time of year, cars are parked alongside the road in many places where boats can be placed in the water. They line the highway near Porteau and at Britannia Beach. On a sunny weekend all available parking areas where boats can be launched are jammed.

Surely the popularity of Howe Sound as a boating and fishing centre has reached such proportions that the government should heed the demand to provide a boat launching area and a campsite or at least a picnic area along these shores.

Porteau would be an ideal location and we cannot see why it has not become a marina and park long ago. Several years ago, before the no trespassing ban was placed on the seaside area, hundreds of people would camp and picnic there during the summer. There are no other areas except those near Britannia and Furry Creek which could be used and these are all owned by Britannia with Furry Creek leased to a logging company while the gravel firm has the beach just south of it.

In the interests of the boating enthusiasts who would like to see launching facilities provided and camping or picnic areas for the rest of the family while father and the boys are out trying to catch the wary salmon, the government should provide some form of marine park on these shores so close to Vancouver.

Old cars are litter too...

Signs continually remind us that it is unlawful to litter highways. We all know this means packages and bottle should not be tossed from vehicles but surely old cars, run off the road and left to rust and decay alongside the highway are also a form of litter.

At least we would say so. Yet as far as we know, no one has been asked to remove the old car alongside the new highway just north of Culliton Creek. The vehicle has been there for several months and each time we see it, it looks a little more dilapidated and some more material has disappeared.

Surely there must be some way to find out who this vehicle belonged to and to force him to remove it.

It should be mandatory for all car owners who may abandon their vehicles, or anyone who is involved in an accident, to have the vehicle towed away either to a garage or a wreckers and not just left beside the road, an eyesore for all who pass that way.

We have some beautiful highways. Let's keep them looking beautiful.

Wise guidance & intelligent authority...

Many years ago, long before disrespect, juvenile delinquency, the Beatles, Rolling Stones had caught the public eye and ear we wrote, "Children should obey their parents; insubordination is an evil, blighting the budding of self-government."

While laying this charge upon children, we by no means excused parents from exercising that wise guidance and intelligent authority over young people which make the latter wish to obey their elders.

The wisdom of these truths is becoming increasingly apparent as experts, sociologists, educators, psychologists, psychiatrists, police and all the rest of us seek to fathom the causes and cures of youthful violence and civil disobedience. Every day the newspapers carry stories of teenage involvement with the laws of the land, the latest of which took place at the Rolling Stones performance.

A recent report from Dr. David Abrahamson, an eminent New York psychiatrist said: "Often boys who perpetrate such acts (particularly boys from well-to-do families) unwittingly want to be disciplined. And simultaneously they would like to take revenge on their parents and those other adults who have not provided that discipline."

This is not a problem which lends itself to an easy or quick solution.

Neither wealth, comfort, economic opportunity, nor even a first notch education is either a guarantee or a reliable safeguard against the appearance of insubordination, and delinquency in children.

Fundamental to much of the trouble is the fact that neither life as he knows it nor civilization as he lives it is either satisfying enough or challenging enough to the boy or girl who gives in to the urge to destroy. And few things contribute more strongly to this feeling of rootlessness and pointlessness than the breakdown of domestic authority and guidance.

Indeed, it is sad, but perhaps understandable, that children in broken, poverty-stricken homes sometimes lack parental discipline and direction.

But it is disgraceful that such should be the case in homes blessed with all material advantages such as we enjoy in our western society.

When this occurs, it testifies to a disturbing breakdown in popular ideals. The time is long past when this should have been recognized and corrected.

After 99 years...

Our Canadian Parliament has, after 99 event-filled and generally respectable years, suffered an all-time low in prestige as it limps out for summer recess.

In the history making session Parliament was staggered by continuing partisan bickering, neglect of vital business and scandals. It has made little progress so far paring down a huge legislative agenda.

Part of the problem has been that the decisive struggle of our Canadian society, usually sited in Parliament, was temporarily moved to another jousting ground. The battle has been conducted between the Liberals and Conservatives. Both parties are quietly undergoing deep re-assessments, involving not only their future leadership but their basic policies.

The central question both face is which way to veer: Farther left in a society committed to far-reaching social reform? Or should Canada pause instead to absorb the massive and costly commitments already made?

The answers to these will perhaps emerge from the transfer of political leadership of both parties in the next two years.

"He refused arbitration... but I think he's open to conciliation."

Phantom profits, pull business picture out of focus

EVERY MONTH, WHEN I RECEIVE MY ASTRONOMICAL light bill, I become a Communist and decide I'll lead a march up to the B.C. Hydro Building to heave some bricks through the window — and a dead cat or two, too.

Every month when I get my telephone bill, I become a sound, conservative and thoroughly sane capitalist, and say to myself "Now, that's the way a business should be run!"

This kind of a recurrent tizzy is very wearing. And may not last too long.

The fact is, of course, that in buying telephone service one buys the use of a myriad electronic gadgets that allow one with living room ease to complain about one's indigestion to Cousin Hattie, in Peoria, Ill., just as though she were sitting in the room. The investment in those electronic gadgets to make possible this miracle is enormous. Both wear and speedy obsolescence create massive replacement bills.

All this is just fine, until telephone companies have to go out and buy new equipment in times of inflation. Then, they, too, join the ranks of people living on fixed incomes. For they have to pay more for the money they borrow each year and, each year, the equipment costs more. Yet their rates are fixed by non-captive federal boards that can deal only with the facts of today's business, not the probabilities of tomorrow's. It's a squeeze.

Thus we begin to learn for the first time that profits on balance sheets can be "phantom" profits — that is, profits made on the past year's business may not really be profits at all, because they will be absorbed by the losses of higher costs on the current year's.

THIS IS THE BASIC REASON WHY WE SEE WHAT IS probably the world's largest business entity, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, with an invested capital of about $30 billion and just about 3 million shareholders, practically hanging on the ropes. The outlook is not as good as it seems. The U.S. Federal Communications Commission restricts their return on invested capital to about 7.6%. Ostensibly, this sounds generous, until one realizes that the Company will have to attract almost double its present capital in the next 10 years. With soaring equipment and interest costs, the future of the Company is not too attractive.

It is entirely probable that the expansion of the Canadian telephone companies will be even greater than American T. & T.'s. They can raise the money either by issuing bonds or equity shares.

The Canadian regulating body is the Federal Board of Transport Commissioners, who have laid down the rule that earnings must be limited to 6.2% to 6.6% of invested capital. This becomes sheer day-dreaming, when compared to the equivalent body's ruling in the U.S.

The same principles apply not only to companies whose charges are fixed by government bodies (although these may be hit the worst, if those bodies are unrealistic), but to any company in any industry.

WE WILL NEED TO ADJUST OUR THINKING TO THE Common Market conception of operation, in which the government taxing authorities generally view with sympathy the necessity of any corporation adjusting itself during any current year to next year's inflationary cost increases.

It is not only unethical, but downright misleading, under current North American tax and reporting traditions, to report these "phantom" profits as legitimate profits, since their lack of provision for the following year's difficulties inevitably enhance a business picture which may, in actual fact, be fundamentally weak.

The extent of that weakness depends largely on the unpredictable degree of inflation which may come about, but it should be possible to have a tax mechanism to encourage preparation for just such exigencies, and that preparation could be one of the indices of a company management's soundness.

I certainly believe that income taxes should be adjusted to allow any Canadian corporation a more realistic write-off term, and one that would be adjusted to the degree of inflation, to discourage the reporting of such "phantom" profits.

HOWE SOUNDINGS

So you were curious about the remark in last week's column that I headed for the Peace River and ended up in Moose Jaw? Everyone seemed to be. I'll grant it does take talent to come up with a stunt like that and someone suggested I should get a compass like the prairie driver's do and then I wouldn't have it happen again.

But it makes a good story! The truth of the matter was that we were merrily on our way, heading for Edmonton via the Rogers Pass and Banff Jasper highway when, just west of Golden, a piece of machinery fell off the pick-up truck a hundred yards ahead.

It was round and seemed to have a hole in it. Just like some of the stuff you see on the back of the logger's pickups here. Anyway it bounced across the highway, ricocheted off the wheel of a big bus travelling towards us and bounced back on our side of the road, hitting the hood and fender. It put a hole in the hood and fender and also took out one of the headlights.

You can imagine the consternation! Fortunately, as it was a Volkswagen, the steering or motor were not damaged so we went into Golden looking for the pickup, the police and a Volkswagen repair shop.

We spotted the pickup but by the time we managed to turn down the side road it had disappeared and we couldn't find it. So the police station was the next stop and there we told a sympathetic policeman our troubles and he directed us to the garage.

However he did say we could get a bulb put in the headlight and continue on our journey, and have the car repaired once we got home. She didn't think this was a good idea though, but the garage man, although sympathetic, told us he couldn't promise anything until Wednesday as the parts would have to come from Vancouver.

(Can't imagine why they should have to come so far when Golden is so close to Calgary, but that was what the man said!)

This was on Friday and we only had the week holiday we didn't want to spend it sitting in Golden waiting for a car to be repaired.

I suggested we go on to Edmonton, visit my sister, and then continue to the Peace River once the car was in shape again. Surely it wouldn't take that long to get it fixed in Edmonton and then we would be home free.

However her parents lived in Moose Jaw and as her dad had lived there for many years and knew everyone, we headed for the prairie city the next morning.

And that, kiddies, is the story of how I started out for the Peace and ended in Moose Jaw. And a compass wouldn't have helped one little bit!

Have you ever ridden on a paddle boat? It really is fun. In the first week in July we stayed overnight in Edmonton and my sister asked us if we would like to go for a ride on the North Saskatchewan River in a stern wheeler.

It sounded like fun: The evening was warm and we had been driving all day and thought the trip on the river would be cool and pleasant. So off we went.

Huge dark clouds were piling up in the south, and every few minutes they would be lit from behind with an eerie glow as sheet lightning emphasized their livid color. The river was high and the little steamer "the Klondike Queen" struggled manfully for 45 minutes to cover the distance we came back down in less than one third the time.

On the north bank of the river the white cylinder of the new CNR hotel was rising against the backdrop of other skyscrapers in this northern city which is bursting at the seams. Apartment blocks were under construction near the top of the hill and numerous other buildings were also rising.

On the south bank, above the beautiful green riverside park, the buildings of the University of Alberta were outlined against the storm sky. It was wonderful. The lightning grew in intensity as the storm drew nearer and great streaks of forked lightning blazed through the rolling clouds while sheets of it flashed intermittently.

The northern half of the sky was a brilliant blue with glistening white clouds and even the edges of the murky thunderclouds were gleaming white, shof through with sunlight. Thunder rumbled and growled, muttering and then every few minutes, roaring, only to subside again into threatening growls. Then came the rain, and as we docked and made a dash for the car, it pelted down, drumming on the streets and cars.

Long after we reached home the storm kept up its display of sound and fireworks and the rain beat a steady accompaniment to the deeper notes.

I love thunderstorms and this one really came up to my expectations. It was just what I had ordered.

Square dancers on television

The Country-Cuzzins Square Dance Group will appear on television on Channel 8 at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, August 4th, and at 11:30 p.m. on Channels 6 and 8 on Wednesday, August 10th.

Alex McBride, the caller for the group, said Channel 8 contacted him recently, asking if he would like to have the group appear on the square dance program called "Allemand, Left" and on Friday evening of last week three squares went down to the studio and the program was taped for later release.

Three callers and groups took part in the half hour show and each caller worked with his or her group.

Calling for the program were Alex McBride, Vic Harris of Vancouver and Rusty Hall of Seattle.

Ottawa Diary

TV and education

The Government's recent White Paper on Broadcasting deals concisely, and imaginatively with a number of important issues. One of these is the future use of television in respect to education. The provinces, with their responsibility in respect to education, are intrigued to say the least. Ottawa, meanwhile, is making sure that it will keep the upper hand insofar as the regulation of this important area of communications is concerned.

Apparently, a new Federal organization will be set up to supervise the building and operation of these public service facilities. It, of course, will be subject to the authority of Ottawa's revitalized Board of Broadcast Governors. But its main purpose will be to enter into agreements with those provinces who wish to use television as a medium for expanding educational opportunities in the province itself.

Historically, Educational TV has been up against a constitutional road block. Broadcasting, by radio or TV, is a national responsibility. Education, on the other hand, is said to be a preserve of the provinces. Largely because of this divided jurisdiction an application by the Ontario Department of Education for permission to operate a television station has been held up in Ottawa for months.

Now that the Federal Government's policy has been clarified in the White Paper this project will, presumably, go ahead.

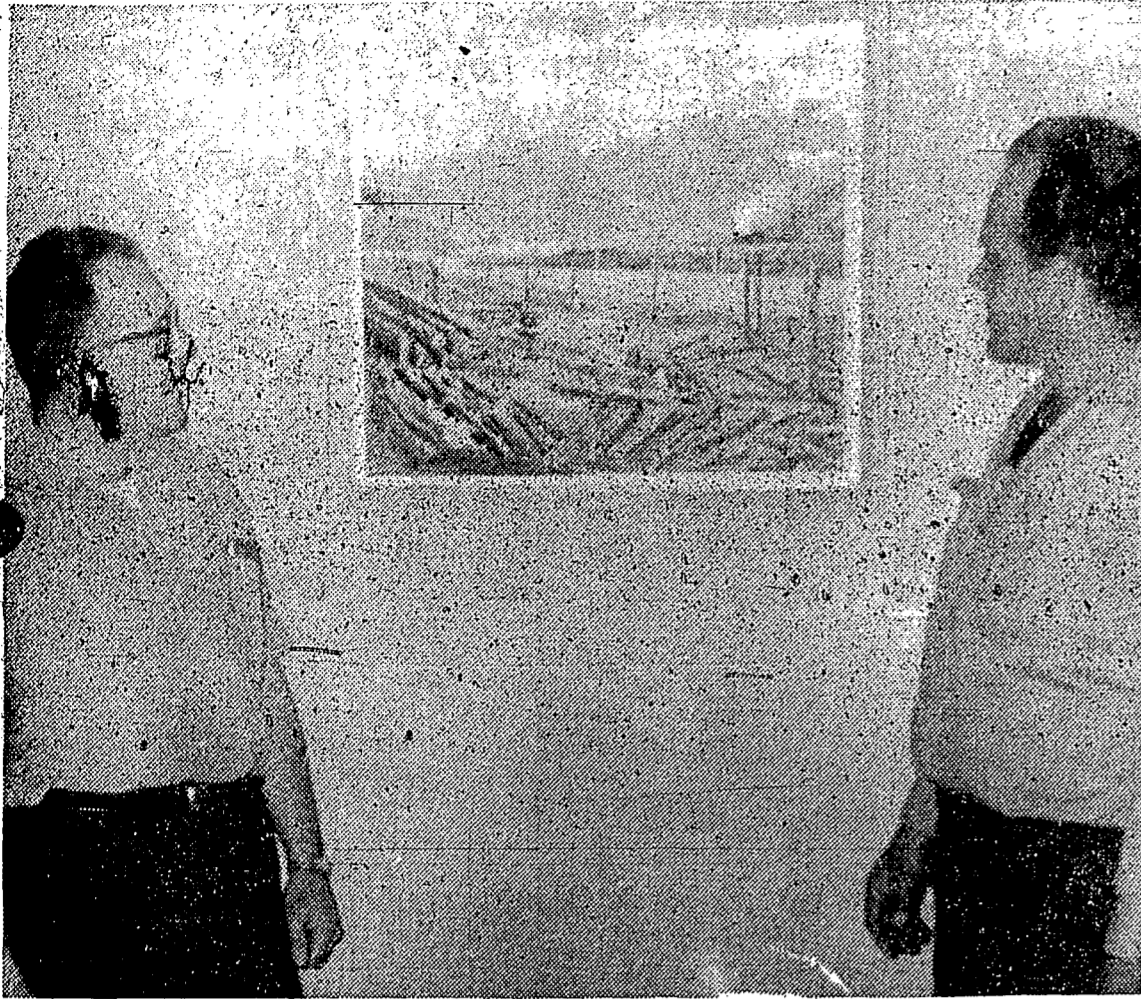

Ontario, as it happens, has already done a fair amount of research in this connection. This spring it has also been broadcasting programmes in Grade 7 mathematics and Grade 13 physics over certain commercial stations. Other and more extensive programmes are said to be in preparation on subjects for other grades in Ontario's elementary and secondary schools.

Numerous details still remain to be cleared up. These are mostly on the cost side. Ottawa has the responsibility to arrange for the construction of the necessary facilities. Presumably the provincial Departments of Education will help pay for their operation. A fee for service arrangement, in other words, will have to be worked out. This may involve some haggling as it will set the stage for similar agreements with other provinces.

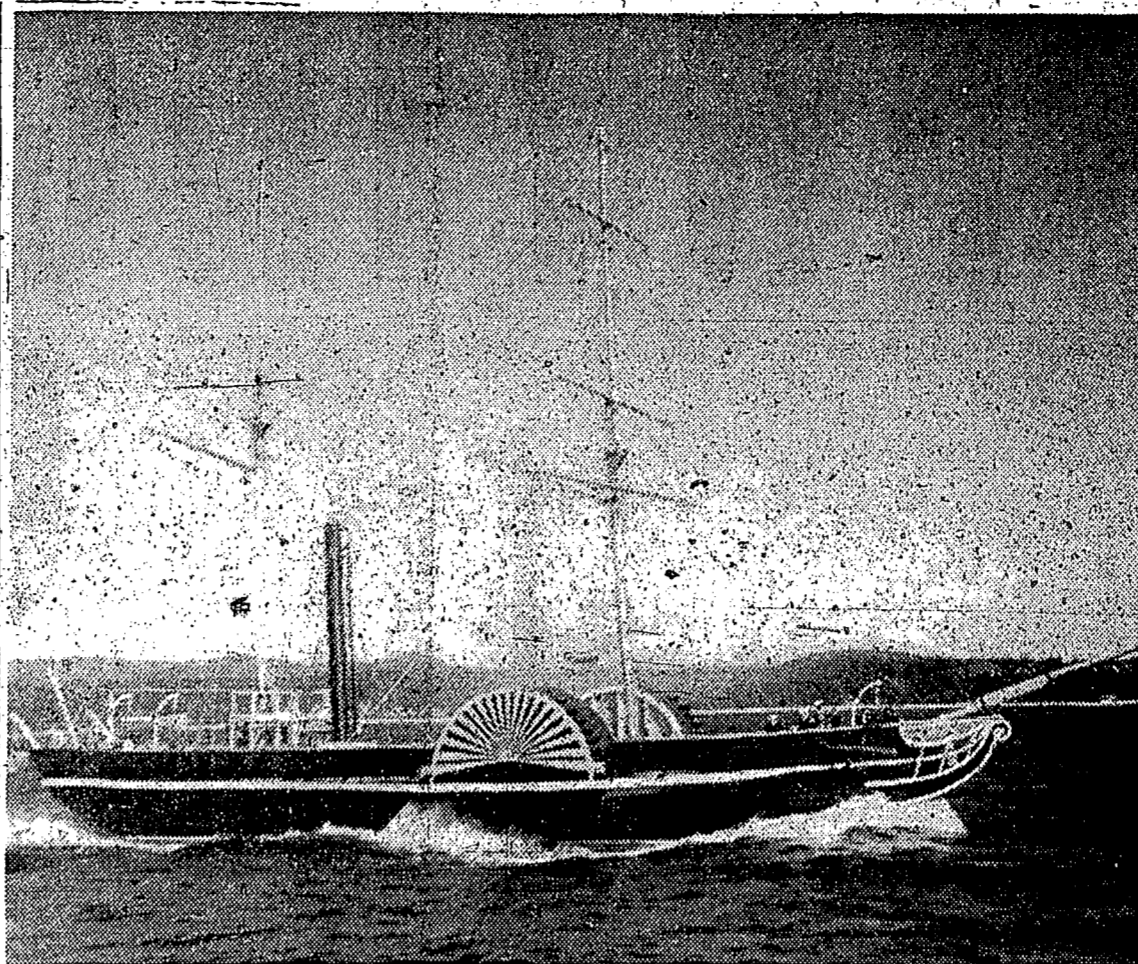

I hope that the Ontario experiment will be a success. Indeed there is a good deal of experience in other countries which suggests that it will be. In the field of Educational TV Canada already lags far behind a number of other nations. Japan, for example has a complete, nationwide ETV Network operating in colour. Israel even got its ETV programme going before ordinary commercial television as we know it was being shown on a regular basis.

The cost of ultra-high frequency TV is enormous. Because of this the physical arrangements will probably be broadly regional rather than narrowly provincial in character. Several of the Maritime Provinces, for instance, might come within the orbit of a single station or network of stations. But the tendency to go national is there in any case. Ideas and knowledge are no respecters of man-made boundaries. They are snapped up by the minds of those who are willing and anxious to learn.

Educational TV, therefore, can help to bring the people of Canada together. It can bring Newfoundland into our classrooms in British Columbia. It can help us to understand Quebec. Certainly the children of Quebec should hear more from the rest of the nation. This improvement in understanding is bound to help Canada become a better integrated and culturally more attractive country in which to live.

YOUNGSTERS turn out regularly for the swimming classes, held at the municipal pool in the mornings. There were three with Rae Eden, assistant lifeguard, and Ted Emerson but two of them must have been under water when the picture was taken. With Rae were Leah Armstrong, Celia Fantacci and Cheryl Turnquist, while Jane Ann Manson, Francesca Fantacci and Loleeta Armstrong were with the lifeguard. Heather Petefoxson stood on the sidelines watching.

Good response to swim classes

The response to the swimming classes, offered at the Squamish Municipal Pool this year has been very good with approximately eighty pupils taking the classes this year.

Ted Emerson, the lifeguard, says the first class is progressing well and there are still vacancies in the next set of lessons which start on July 25th. The life saving class will also begin on July 25th.

An added attraction is noon hour swimming for adults from 12 to 1 p.m. There is also an adult class on Monday nights with a ladies night on Tuesday from 8 to 9. Adult swimming also on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday from 8 to 9 p.m.

A summer swim club will be in operation in July and August. This is an excellent opportunity for better swimmers to perfect their style, learn competitive swimming skills and to keep in shape.

Passes can be purchased at the pool and are good for the entire summer during any of periods.

Students tour MB Logging show

Forty eight students with their teachers toured the MacMillan Bloedel logging operation on Tuesday, July 19th, as part of the Dominion Government's Centennial Youth Travel Program.

The group included 24 students from Newfoundland and two teachers and 24 students from Killarney and Windermere Secondary Schools in Vancouver with two teachers from these schools.

The Newfoundlanders were visitors with the Vancouver students as the hosts. The students were between the ages of 16 and 18 years.

The tour was made in a chartered bus and the young people saw a modern logging operation in British Columbia's big timbers. Ron Sawatsky, forestry engineer at MB's Squamish Division was their guide and despite the rain, they managed to see a tree being felled and watched a steel spar and loader operating.

They were very impressed with the size of the logging trucks and the loads they carried. One girl was amazed at the height of the tree being felled and they all commented on the logging roads being much better than they had expected. The amount of rock which had to be removed to build these roads was something else they noticed.

Mr. Sawatsky said he was amused at the comments on the roads as one bus couldn't make it up the hill and they all got out and walked. The other one barely managed the grade.

After the tour the students went back to Vancouver to visit the Vancouver Plywood Division of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. on the north arm of the Fraser River, stopping at Murrin Park on Browning's Lake to enjoy a picnic lunch before returning to the city.

Another group of 23 students from Manitoba will be the company's guests sometime in August.

OAP TAKES TRIP VIA SLIDES

By means of coloured slides members of the OAP were able to rest in their chairs and take two wondrous trips, one to Garibaldi Park and another to Long Beach.

Following the meeting of the organization last Tuesday evening Wayne Boyd showed the pictures of the two areas taken by him when on holidays. The Garibaldi scenes took in the Diamond Head and Black Tusk sections as well as the Mamquam area. The scenes on the way to and at Long Beach showed the road to be much better than we have been led to believe. The shots of the waves pounding the beach and the huge white-crested breakers marching toward the shore were excellent. There were beautiful sunset scenes as well and some fine views through odd shapes of driftwood.

During the meeting the members planned to take advantage of the Golden Age Day at the PNE; a bus will take those wishing to go there and back. Watch for further announcements in this regard.

Prompt action saves child

Prompt action on the part of Ken Ardiel of Brackendale probably saved the life of an approximately five year old girl on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. R. Dent was at Alice Lake with her children for an afternoon of swimming accompanied by Ken Ardiel. They were at the east end of the lake where the logs enclose the pool for the small children.

A little girl, about five years old, was playing with one of the inflatable animals so popular today when she slipped from it into the water over her head. Mrs. Dent said she did not notice it but Ken was after her like a flash and brought her into shallow water.

The child, who seemed to be unaccompanied, was shaken and had swallowed an amount of water but was otherwise unaffected. A few minutes later an older boy came and took her up to the grass.

Mrs. Dent said she did not know if the child was from Squamish or a visitor but apparently no one was looking after her. "If Ken had not seen her slip from the toy she could have drowned," she said, "and no one would have known about it if the toy was quite slippery and she seemed to be having trouble with it."

Convention site is Empire Stadium in Vancouver, British Columbia. The five-day schedule of activity begins August 3-7 and will include lectures, symposiums and demonstrations with scriptural themes.

Squamish had a dramatic group

Jack Castle brought a clipping in to the Times last week which described a concert staged by the local amateur group which featured a playlet and other acts. The events outlined below took place over forty years ago and many people may still remember the people who took part.

The clipping was titled, "Squamish Amateurs Are well Received" and the item follows:

Squamish, Jan. 31, 1926 — The "Bing Boys" made their third appearance at the Rex Theatre on Friday in the playlet "Mr. Bob". The theatre was packed to the doors, and the generous applause that greeted the players showed that their efforts were not in vain.

Mr. Jack Heileger, as "Mr. Brown", was an unqualified success; Miss L. Paul as "Patty" kept the house in roars of laughter. Mr. Jack Castle as the butler, Mr. J. Morrison, Miss D. Morrison, Mrs. G. Climie and Mrs. A. M. Young all performed their respective parts with great credit. The production was under the management of Mrs. W. C. Dixon.

Mrs. Chas. Knox and Mrs. McFarlan, in colored sketch, in which was mixed an egg of rather doubtful ancestry, did credit to themselves, as did also Mrs. F. Muskett and Doug Dixon in their songs. Mrs. C. Baker rendered some Irish selections, which were greatly appreciated. The stage was newly decorated for the occasion. The proceeds of the entertainment were handed over to the Squamish Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. John Cory feted

Mrs. John Cory, the former Eleanor Binning, was the guest of honour at a miscellaneous surprise shower held for her on June 30.

The guests surprised Mrs. Binning at her home where a pleasant evening of games followed. Her daughters Joan and Linda presented her gifts and, assisted by their brother Ronald, helped her to open them. Joan Binning made a pie plate hat adorned with the gift ribbons for her mother.

The highlight of the refreshment period was a lovely decorated cake bearing the words "Showers of Happiness".

Among those present were Mrs. W. Chamberlain, Mrs. H. Dyke, Mrs. W. J. Boscarol, Mrs. A. G. McNeill, Mrs. W. D. Woodcock, Mrs. W. J. Tinney, Mrs. Jack Rempel and Mrs. Frank Field accompanied by her sister-in-law from Germany. Hostesses for the happy occasion were Mrs. Les Armstrong and Mrs. Vic Didier.

The marriage of Mrs. Eleanor Binning and John Cory took place quietly in Calgary on July 23rd.

Three added to RCMP staff

Three new members have joined the staff at the RCMP Squamish detachment bringing the strength of the detachment to nine men.

Seven of these are for general duties and two on the highway patrol.

New members are Const. Rich Lawton from Vancouver, Const. Peter Jacques from the airport and Const. Gordon Schneider from Vancouver.

The local detachment has a large area to serve, from Lions Bay on the south, to Alta Lake, almost forty miles north of Squamish. The area also includes the Upper Squamish and Wood-fibre, making it a long narrow area, quite difficult to patrol.

With Garibaldi Park also under their jurisdiction and the increasing numbers of people who go into the more remote areas, as well as the numbers of skiers visiting in the winter, a large detachment is necessary to provide the policing necessary.

Bids were very close

Only $116 separated the two bids which were opened at the school board office last week.

The bids were for additions to the school board offices, a maintenance shop, bus garage and new foundation for the garage which will be moved.

The two bids were from McCurrie Const. $29,810 and Squamish Construction $29,694.

MARNIE ELIZABETH HENDRICKSON

Hendrickson baby christened here

The two month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hendrickson of Squamish received the names, Marnie Elizabeth, at a christening service in St. Joseph's Church in Squamish on Friday evening, July 22nd at 6:30 p.m.

Rev. M. Power, OMI, officiated at the service.

The tiny participant wore a christening robe of white nylon with cape of the same material delicately embroidered in white.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McCormack are the baby's godparents.

A family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson followed the service. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hendrickson, the baby's grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hendrickson with David and Dianne, Lynn Hendrickson, Mr. and Mrs. R. McCormack with Liz and Ronnie and Mrs. A. Fraser.

Otter at Brandywine

We said it must be a wildlife year and we continue to say so. Last week an otter was seen near the mouth of Brandywine Creek on Daisy Lake and Vancouver zoo curator Allan Best was coming up to trap it.

Ken Stockdale of Pinecrest Lake said it had been a long time since otters had been seen in the area. Mrs. Gallagher of Brandywine Falls said there had been numerous reports of sighting it.

Fishing has been good in the area with Ron Head catching a five pound rainbow last week.

Fred Collister is in charge of the work being done on the new Legion, and he is to be commended for the untiring effort he puts into the Legion work.

Britannia Beach Notes

By OLIVE BAXTER
Mr. Peach, father of Mrs. Nita Akers is visiting Ernie and Nita at Porteau and is enjoying the fishing while he is there.

Despite the nice hot sunny days that we have been enjoying, it seems that the sun hasn't cleared away all the cold and sickness germs around the community as we are sorry to report that Theo Wagner is a patient in the Lions Gate Hospital and Walt Kerfoot is in the Squamish Hospital. We wish them a speedy recovery.

We also hear that little Tanis MacDonald has been quite a sick little girl and hope that she will soon be out of Hospital and well again.

Miss Joan Ehler had quite an apartment full over the weekend with the arrival of her brother, Sgt. Ivan Ehler and his wife and three children, David, Walter and Sheila, along with Sheila's friend Allison Forness, all of Three Rivers Manitoba.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hopwood with son and daughter, Joe and Lynn of Vancouver and Joe's friend were visitors at the home of Mrs. Ollie Sherwood on the weekend and while the adults were enjoying the get together, young Garry Sherwood took the youngsters out in the boat with their fishing lines and they were back in under half an hour, a very excited foursome, with a beautiful 24 lb. salmon which Joe had hooked just by the copper creek.

Fishermen from far and near are having a heyday out on the waters of the Howe Sound, while the salmon run is on, with catches up to 40 lbs. being brought in.

It is too bad that there aren't more launching facilities for them as some of the residents at Minaty Bay are being bothered by a few discourteous fishing groups and complaints were put in to the Anaconda Co.

Several mobile homes are coming into the Minaty bay area and clearing is going on in preparation for their arrival.

Trees are being hacked down right and left and I do mean "hacked". I certainly hope that those unsightly stumps are not going to be left as is, for, aside from being an eye sore, they could prove quite dangerous for the children playing around them. If a child ever fell on one of them they could lose an eye and get some nasty cuts and scratches.

82nd birthday celebrated

Pemberton — Mrs. Eleanor Collister held an afternoon tea on July 6th, to celebrate the 82nd birthday of her mother, Mrs. Lincoln McCulloch.

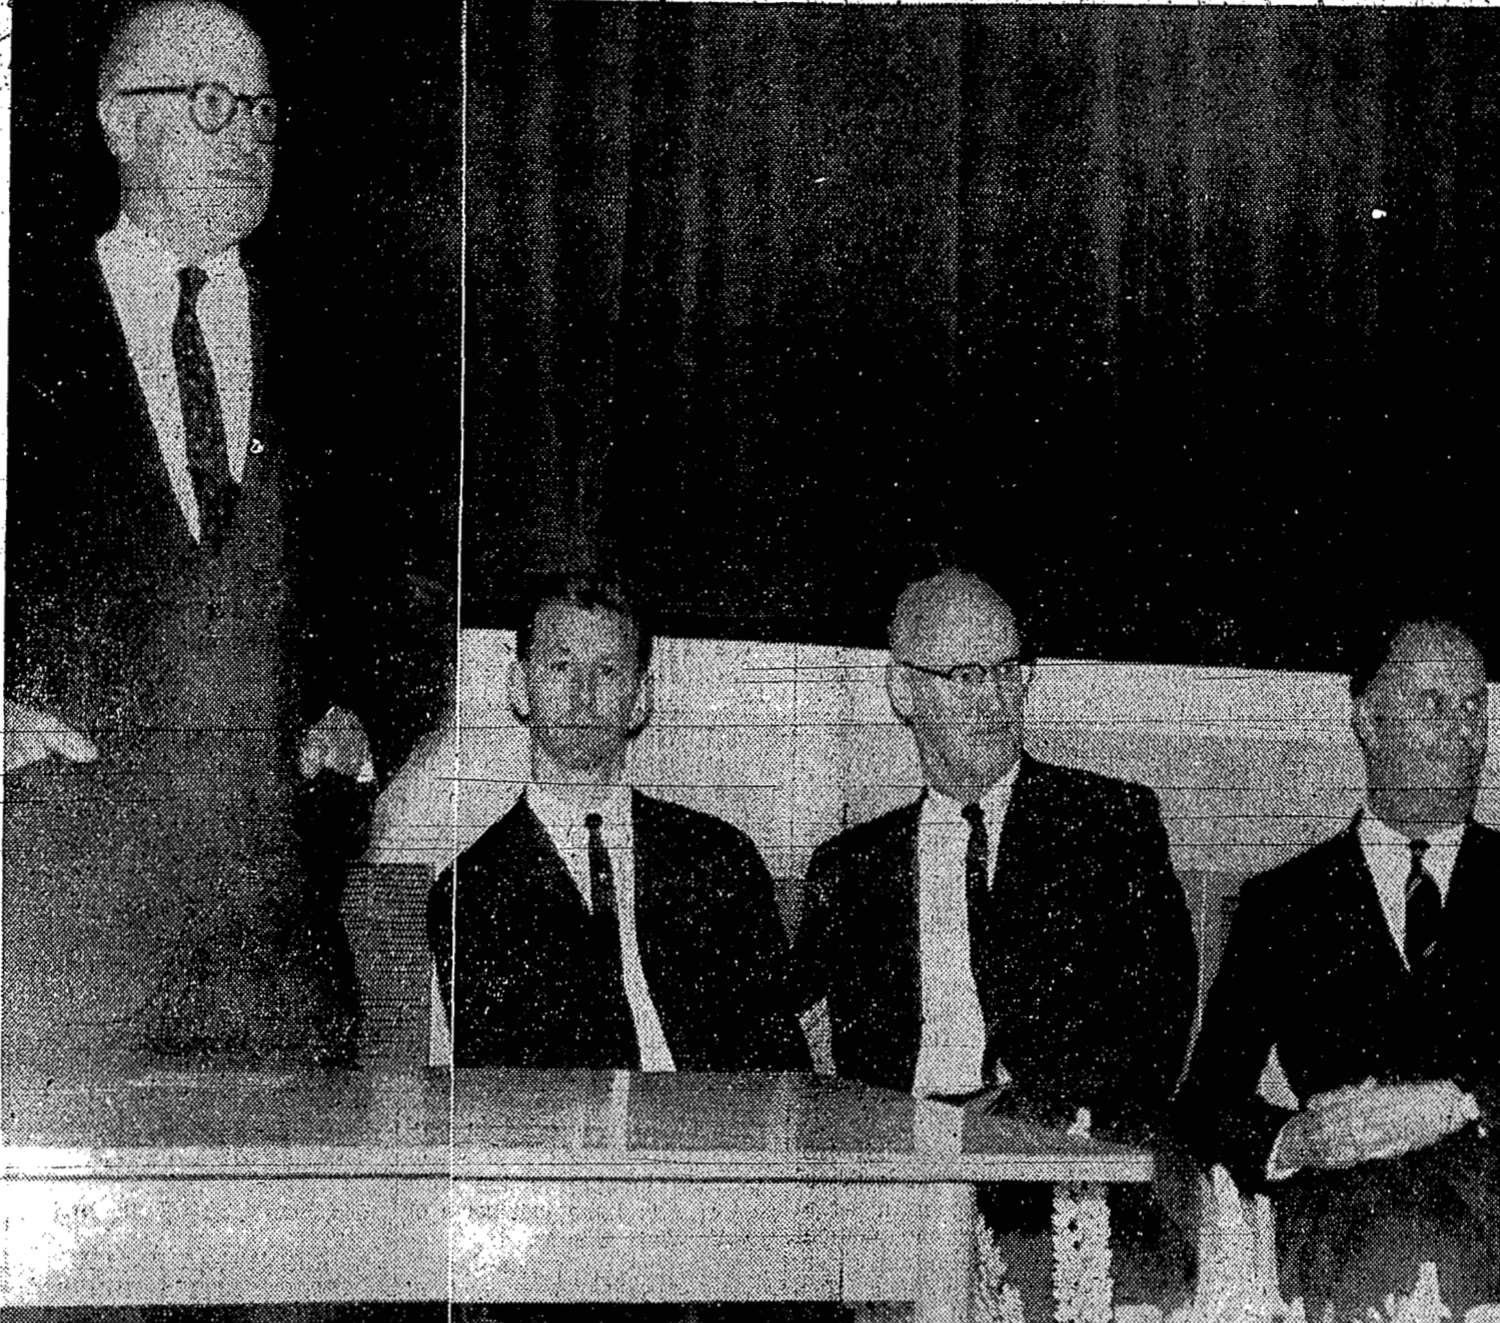

Five of Mrs. McCulloch's children were with her on this day. They are Mrs. S. S. Kerr, a daughter who stopped in on her way from Washington D.C. to her home in California, another daughter, Mrs. H. Miller, a son John McCulloch, both from Vancouver, her son Perry, who lives in Mount Currie.

In the evening a few friends from the Mount Currie area also dropped in to wish her many happy returns of the day.

Woodfibre auxiliary meets

Mrs. Etta Mulholland—Zone Liaison Officer and Mrs. Clara Munroe, from West Vancouver, attended the regular meeting of the Woodfibre Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 181 on June 25th. This was the last meeting until September. The next zone meeting will be held in September at Pemberton and Woodfibre delegates are looking forward to it.

After the meeting a Sarah Coventry Jewelry Fashion show was held which was very much enjoyed by the members attending.

DR. PLENDERLIEF, left, speaking at the opening of the Signal Hill school in Pemberton. Also in the picture are 1. to r. Brian Edwards, principal of Signal Hill school, D. H. Campbell, district superintendent and John Davies, architect.

New stamp issued

The Canada Post Office will issue a 5 cent commemorative stamp on the 27th July, 1966 recognizing work of Canadian scientists in developing peaceful uses of atomic energy. Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote announced today.

Marking the year in which the country's first commercial large scale production of nuclear-electric power becomes a reality, the stamp is intended to emphasize concentration on peaceful uses of atomic power, Mr. Cote stated.

Produced from a design by Toronto artist A. L. Pollock, the issue is blue in colour, horizontal in format and prominently features a stylized illustration of structures comprising the new Douglas Point Nuclear Power Station located in Ontario on the shores of Lake Huron.

A microscope at the lower left above which is a dove of peace respectively symbolize research and peaceful uses of great power: superimposed on the whole is the symbol for a heavy water atom.

Barbecue supper planned

Pemberton—The congregation of St. George's Anglican Church at Pemberton is planning a barbecue supper to be held on Friday, September 2nd.

The supper will be followed by an Old-Time Dance. Watch for further announcements.

Britannia

Here is an excerpt from a letter I received from an ex-Britannia resident and I quote, Dear Olive, just a note to say how pleased I am that you are writing (news) about Britannia in the Squamish Times. For such a long time there was just nothing—and to us away from the place, it seemed as if it just didn't exist any more. Last week's paper was most interesting. So keep up the good work and I for one will thank you for it. End of quote. This was from Mrs. Manda Oakes who used to be my neighbour and is now living out on Huntingdon Road at Abbotsford, B.C. Thanks Manda, I hope you enjoyed our miners day write up.

Travels in the early days

To Pemberton by pumpcar handsleigh and on foot

Ed. Note: The following account is written by Mrs. Joseph Ronayne of Pemberton, one of the valley's earliest residents. In the first story she told about a trip by car, boat and on foot.

Her story continues: On my second trip to Pemberton in February, 1916 we travelled over the tracks of the Pacific-Great Eastern railroad by pumpcar, handsleigh and on foot.

Kathleen was four weeks old when my husband, Mr. Sampson, and I, with the baby in my arms left Squamish for Pemberton. Daddy (my husband) carried the handsleigh on his shoulders as there was no snow on the ground there.

Travelling on a pump car, we started north from Squamish with $7.60 worth of provisions. I sat on top of the suitcases with baby whilst four men pumped. One was a Scotsman who served in the Boer War, and he told me they herded the African Dutch into concentration camps and burned their farms. "We did not give a rap", was his comment.

STAYED IN COLD BUILDINGS

Sixteen miles from Squamish there was a tree across the track and we had to leave the pumpcar. We stopped the night in an abandoned railroad shack as we did farther along the way. Daddy put some runners on the sleigh, purchased in Vancouver, and a man gave me a pair of mackinaw pants to wear which was a great help.

On the second day we set out on foot. I had snow shoes but could not manage them as they were too tiring. I was carried pickaback by my husband across the trestles, using the sleigh when we could. We arrived at Brandywine Falls late in the afternoon and slept there in a large cabin with a few rats scurrying around.

ACROSS THE FROZEN LAKE

On the third morning we saw Rogers log house on the far side of Green Lake and started toward it across the ice. Mr. Sampson went first, Daddy behind the sleigh and I astride the sleigh with baby under me wrapped in a goatskin robe. The ice started cracking. Daddy shouted to Sampson to swing off, but it was too late and the sleigh went down in a few inches of slush. I got a real fright for I thought the baby was drowning. But all went well. We got across.

A policeman with a toboggan and dogs was taking food to the Rogers home as they were very short of food.

Next morning the fourth day, we set out and finally reached the train which was snowed in. We ate in the caboose and Sampson slept there. Daddy and I and baby went on to a deserted cabin nearby. The floor was covered with ice but my husband cut fir branches and we slept in the big robe.

WE FINALLY REACH PEMBERTON

On the morning of the fifth day, we reached Pemberton, where we had dinner at the hotel. I had little appetite because of lack of sleep. The trail up the valley was very narrow so I was pickabacked again part way until we got to Teresa's (Mrs. W. Miller, my husband's sister) and I had the first good sleep since leaving Vancouver.

Scout work discussed

A Scout Commission meeting was held at the home of the chairman, Len Pickell on Tuesday July 19th, when general business pertaining to the Scout and Cub work being done in the valley was discussed.

Starting in September, Rowe Mercer will be the secretary, taking over from Ken Buck, who has held this position temporarily, as well as being assistant Scout Master. Dennis Asher is also assisting the Scout Leader.

81st BIRTHDAY FOR MRS. RONAYNE

PEMBERTON — On the 10th of July, an afternoon tea was held at the home of Mrs. Kathleen Lundgren, in honor of her mother Mrs. Annie Ronayne, who was celebrating her eighty-first birthday.

Those present to wish the honoree many happy returns of the day were her children Mrs. Lundgren, and Mr. Cliff Ronayne, his wife Molly, grandchildren Alma Lundgren, Clara Ronayne, and Joe and Tom Ronayne, and Mr. Bert Lundgren. Friends there also were Mrs. Milton Shantz, Mrs. Magnus Urdal, Mrs. Marion Ayers, Mrs. Vivian Lokken and Mrs. Dawn Ross.

The lovely birthday cake served to the guests was made and decorated by Mrs. Marion Ayers.

Delores Dan wed in Pemberton

White and pink peonies, red roses, and orange blossoms graced St. David's United Church in Pemberton on Saturday morning, June 25th for the 10 o'clock wedding of Delores Regina Dan eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dan of Mount Currie, to Robert Leonard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Smith of Port Coquitlam.

Rev. Douglas Archibald officiated at the ceremony with Mrs. B. Lundgren at the organ. Mrs. W. Taillefer sang a solo "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of pale blue net over taffeta with long sleeves, a net ruffle at the waistline and around the neckline. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a crown of lilies and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and roses.

Best man was Stanley Oram from North Vancouver. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dan wore a turquoise dress with net coat and white accessories while Mrs. L. G. Smith wore a green paisley print with white and orange accessories.

A reception at the Pemberton Community Hall followed the ceremony. Mr. George Hayes proposed the toast to the bride. The three tier cake which centered the head table was made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. H. G. Ayers.

Before leaving for their honeymoon the bride donned a two piece white cotton eyelet dress over yellow taffeta. She wore white accessories with the outfit.

The young couple will live in Mount Currie.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Smith, Port Coquitlam, Mrs. Eleanor Karobanik, Kamloops, and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Oram, North Vancouver.

Busy swim season at Pemberton

Pemberton — The swimming program is again in full swing in the Pemberton Valley this year, under the very capable direction of Mrs. Lillian Shore.

She is assisted by Peter Proudlock and Irene Decker.

The John Leach's have again donated their swimming pool to the children of the valley, and also, the swimmers are making use of One Mile Lake. The water in the lake is much warmer this year, since the water from One Mile Creek has been diverted.

On the first day of registration, 40 non-swimmers put their names down and more are turning up all the time. It seems like a very busy summer ahead for these people who are working so hard for our children.

Pemberton Notes

On Wednesday July 20th, Mrs. Collister entertained a few friends in honor of Mrs. McInnes. Among those attending were Mrs. Grace Simms, Mrs. Ada Graham, Mrs. Raymond Walker, Mrs. Barbara Walker, Mrs. Vera McCulloch, and Mrs. Linzey Walker.

PEMBERTON LADIES DOWN BRACKENDALE

The Ladies Softball team travelled out to Squamish on Friday July 15th to play a game with the Brackendale Women's Softball team. The local ladies returned home victorious, with the score at the end of the game being thirteen to nine in favor of the Pemberton girls.

Coach Don Gill and assistant coach Dennis Asher went along with their team to give added support to the women.

Ladies going out were Misses Margaret Mitchell, Alma Lundgren, Linda and Gail Sankey, Verna Sher, Linda and Janet Miller, and Mesdames Peggy Currie, Agnes Taillefer, Betty Talbot, Raya Sankey, Norma Rivett, Nancy Gilmore, Rose Hamula and May Menzel.

There will be a return engagement in Pemberton this coming Sunday at the ball park.

ALMA LUNDGREN with the Collister Trophy for girls' track and field and the PTA Trophy for the graduate student showing outstanding qualities in scholarship and sportsmanship.

BOB MENZEL with the Cascade P.T.A. trophy which he won for being tops in the senior boys' track and field at Pemberton.

Off the beaten track

By FRED CLARKE

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke made a trip to Williams Lake recently and forsook the trodden ways. This is an account of the trip. The journey home will appear next week.

As I detest freeways the prospect of the drive to Williams Lake did not have too much appeal for me. The B. C. Tourist brochures tell the traveller to come to B. C. and see its beauties. So what happens? I drive along the freeway at the prescribed speed and all I see of the beautiful Fraser Valley is a white line down the middle of a road. It is with a sigh of relief that we leave Hope behind and at least half of the traffic.

Even the Fraser Canyon is now something of a disappointment although the road is an engineer's dream come true and holds little hazard for the motorist. How many of you can remember the challenge presented by the canyon road even as little as fifteen years ago? Wasn't it very much like the road between Squamish and Britannia? Remember how you used to approach a curve and hope that nothing large was coming towards you? Did you hold your breath as your car clung to the edge of the road with a rock or two bumping merrily down the cliff to the waiting river? Now you can hardly see the Fraser, although you know it is there, muddy and strong, seemingly calm and unruffled but pursuing its way to the sea with a firm tenacity of purpose that allows nothing to stand in its way. For how many thousands of years has the river carried out that relentless march to the ocean?

ONCE A WAGON ROAD

Without closing my eyes I can hear the steady clip-clop of horseshoes as the early pack-horses plodded uphill on the long trek to Barkerville. Can you hear them snort as they blow the sand and dust out of their nostrils? And can you hear the squeak of the wagon wheels as the hills are climbed? I wonder how many horses, wagons, jackasses and, yes, camels too, all found a permanent resting place beside the uncaring river?

Now the tourist drives over a super-highway in his high-powered car, delights in the tunnels and never gives a thought to Simon Fraser and his men who climbed along these forbidding canyon walls in the hope of finding the western sea.

Leaving the Fraser and its awesome grandeur behind we headed along the Thompson River and what a different stream this is! Beneath the sunlit walls of gold and grey it hurries cheerfully to meet the larger stream like a laughing maiden who fleet-footedly hastens to keep a tryst with a stalwart brave. In her hurry she forgets the lurking rocks and throws spray high into the air before remembering to flow around the obstruction. Above Spence's Bridge the river becomes more sedate, much of the merriment is gone but its loveliness still lingers around the tree-clad islands and barren slopes.

As I had never seen Ashcroft before we turned off at Ashcroft Manor and found the little town enjoying an after dinner siesta in the early evening warmth.

THE HOLY BRIDGE

At Cache Creek I was intrigued by a building on the other side of the Bonaparte River. As I was hurrying across the bridge the Boss told me to be careful and, sure enough, there was more than one good sized hole in the planking. (Just what portion of that new Lear aircraft would it take to redeck the bridge?) On the other side was a fantastic three-story double A-frame building, the core of Teepee Town, a tenting and camping site. The unusual structure in decorated with imitation Indian motifs as are the tents for rent. It is a colorful sight and must be a delight to the young.

Beyond Cache Creek we found dry hills aflame with cactus in rich shades of yellow and apricot. I found, to my sorrow, that it is not wise to try to pick them.

On past Clinton and up the long hill we went into the forests of pine and prairie wool. I was reminded of a story Grandad used to tell of his attempt to homestead around the 70-Mile. He and his partner set up camp one night in June as they hunted for a likely spot for a home. All their dreams were shattered when, on awaking the next morning, they found a quarter inch of ice on the water bucket.

Past Hundred-Mile House to Lac La Hache where fingers of rain were obscuring the sky ahead of us. The wind came up and the waves on the lake wore their bonnets of white and scurried ahead of the freshening wind.

MANY CHANGES AT WILLIAMS LAKE

Like many B. C. towns Williams Lake has undergone a face-lifting in the last few years. The dirty cowtown I remembered so well is gone; in its place is a small and thriving metropolis, displaying with pride many new shops and motels, although one of the latter is extremely garish on the outside. There are lovely new homes filling in the open spaces towards the old airport, and above the highway, the new hospital rises gracefully on the slope above the town and new schools are springing up everywhere. Most intriguing of all the new buildings is the Catholic Church; I hope no one will accuse me of being irreverent if I say that it reminded me of a coolie hat. Architecturally it is the most interesting building in Williams Lake.

The big occasion of our visit was to be the company picnic at Felker Lake but the inevitable black clouds rolled up. Strong gusts of wind heralded the downpour and in a mean mood lifted the sheets of plywood from the refreshment stand leaving the busy ladies exposed to the downpour. With a hot dog in one hand and a plate of potato salad in the other young Jimmy and I beat a hasty retreat to the car; within moments the deluge was upon us; it seemed as though a vat of water simply fell upon the car. No one objected when it was suggested that we return to the house and enjoy a fire in the living room. Soggy food and soaking grass has no charms for me.

On the way home we were still pursued by rain from Exeter to Clinton; as a break in the clouds appeared we decided to go to Pavilion Lake through Marble Canyon. Don't expect a paved road if you go that way although work is being done to make it a good highway. The weather cleared and we saw Pavilion Lake in all its glory, an aquamarine jewel lovingly held in the arms of the steep mountains on either side. The crags and walls themselves are beautifully sculptured and painted in brilliant hues of beige and gold, rose and pink. The lake, by contrast is a turquoise gem; how many shades of turquoise are there? It depends upon the depth of the water, the colour of the sky above, the shadow of a floating cloud, the still warmth of the summer air or the ripple of a playful breeze. Each changes the shade but the lake remains a thing of beauty.

A small island is linked to the shore by a footbridge; a board bears the sign Ellen's Isle. Is the owner a homesick Scot or a lover of Scott or perhaps both?

Regrettably we left the lake behind and drove down the valley to Pavilion. Pointing to a deserted farmhouse I asked the Boss if he would care to buy some real estate. As we turned for another look, a golden brown animal with darker markings around the head slipped along the roof and into a dormer window. A weasel? Too big for a pack rat but what could it have been?

LUNCH AT PAVILION

By the time we reached Pavilion we were in dire need of sustenance; the Indian lady in the coffee shop seated us by a window in a room filled with luxuriant plants. That woman had a green thumb!

She brought us mugs of coffee in quaint "Ma" and "Pa" cups; as for our sandwiches my, oh my! There were three or four slices of tender pink beef in each one with just enough relish to add piquancy to the meat. Add a few pickles and some crisp potatoes and you will realize what substantial repast we had and we had just ordered a beef sandwich.

Portified by the food we went on to Lillooet. Over thirty years ago I rode over the same road in a wagon and I don't think it is much better today than it was then. (Should I mention the Lear jet again?) It is still narrow, still goes along one side of a gully as far as possible then along the other side. The gravel is rough and the river often almost straight down. The canyon of the Fraser is narrower here but there is the same feeling of relentless progress toward a definite goal that I felt farther down. It is hard to believe that until the mid-twenties this was the road to the Cariboo!

Most of the road from Lillooet to Lytton is paved although there is a portion under construction which is very rough. Just ten miles from Lytton we had a flat-tire. Lovely! Those nuts just did not want to part from the wheel. Finally we had the spare on and were preparing to tighten the nuts again when a green car passed, stopped, backed towards us and a gentleman got out and asked if we needed help. It was Eric Stathers; he and Mary with Rick Stathers were on their way to Lillooet to their new home and they were trying to keep well ahead of the furniture van. Eric helped the Boss to complete the job and we chatted for a few moments before going our separate ways.

SOUVENIRS AND DRIFTWOOD

We snuggled down for the night at Lytton and had breakfast at the Copper Kettle in the morning. It's a fascinating little cafe, full of souvenirs, odd pieces of driftwood and jewelry made of Lillooet jade.

I asked the Boss if he felt like going through the Nicola Valley as we had originally planned or would he rather head home. Warmed, no doubt, by the sunshine streaming through the window on our table, he suggested that we head back to Spence's Bridge and take the long way around.

This is a drive that I would recommend to the most blasé tourists; the road winds along Nicola Valley through hills carved into weird forms. I told the Boss that one would almost think that a carver had been at work.

"There was," he succinctly replied. The river reminds me of a small child skipping along at its mother's side, one moment hurrying ahead to look at something attractive and then pausing to gaze around in wonder at the sunlit world. The stream bubbles and gurgles merrily on its way to join the Thompson, slowing down around the bends and only occasionally showing frustration as it tries to push its way angrily through a narrow defile.

The road climbs steadily upwards, the mountains are left behind and the contour of the land changes to rolling open hill country with green farms dotting the land along the river.

At Merritt we found absolutely the poshest service station I have ever seen; the Boss assured me that even the washrooms were luxurious. Needless to say I used my Shell credit card there for the next lap to Princeton.

ON TOP OF THE WORLD

At the top of the long hill out of Merritt I felt that we were on top of the world. This is the famous interior plateau so suitable for grazing; as I stood beside the road to take a picture I had an inkling of the sensations felt by Hillary and Tenzing as they stood on the top of Everest. In every direction the land fell away to distant slopes and snow covered mountains while the wind whipped my clothes tightly to my body.

On to Princeton, through open range country and lovely lakes. And everywhere there were flowers; have you ever noticed how many yellow blooms there are? Is this nature's way of brightening the green by contrast? There are black-eyed Susans swaying in the breeze, rosy plumes of fireweed tossing their heads merrily and on sandy slopes pink phlox and purple pentstemon cling tenaciously. The pentstemons in particular amazed me; wherever a rootlet can cling to a gravel slope there they take hold and raise their purple heads.

The lakes in this area are beautiful, and one follows on the other, Dry Lake, Round Lake, Allison Lake, McKenzie Lake, McCaffery Lake but of them all

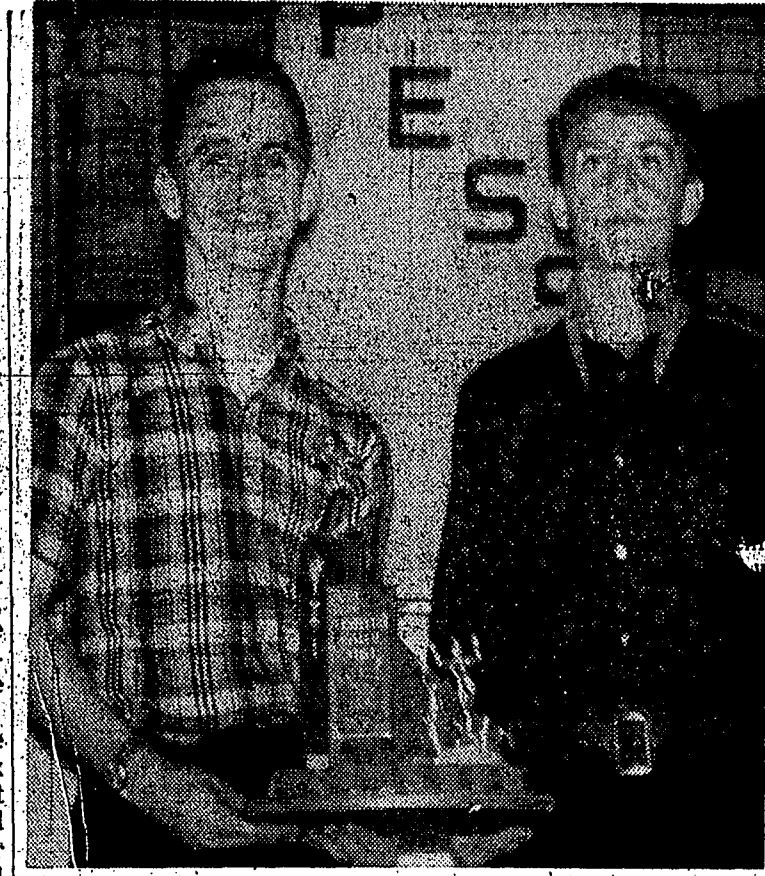

Tourists admire Indian artifacts

The beautiful totem pole in the window at the Squamish Times has caused a great deal of comment with many people coming in to get a closer look at it and even more stopping outside to admire it.

A visitor from California told the Times last week that it was one of the finest she had ever seen and wanted to know where he could obtain a similar one.

The totem pole was commissioned by the Times and Ernie Harry of the Stawamus Reserve was going to carve one. However, he is very busy and did not have the time so the totem pole in the window was made by Isaac Dawson of Kingcome Inlet.

There are four characters on the pole. At the bottom is the wolf while just above him is the killer whale, resting on his head and with his tail curved in a circle. Above that is the bear clutching a salmon while the Bridge opening in two weeks

The bridge across the Cheakamus River just below the dam on the highway leading to Pemberton should be open within two weeks. The decking is now almost completed.

With the exception of the portion of highway just north of the viewpoint in the canyon to the other side of the bridge across the channel just north of the dam, the highway is blacktopped to the rock crushing pit on the railway south of VanWest Logging Camp.

The highway is oiled in preparation for paving to north of the road leading to the west side of Alta Lake just north of the VanWest Camps.

No further work has been done on the highway north of Alta Lake but it was graded and in good condition on the weekend. The road leading north to Pemberton and on to D'Arcy and Blackwater Lake is a very popular one with weekend visitors. Campsites can be found in numerous spots with a public one at D'Arcy, Blackwater Lake, and Birken.

Work is being done on the road just south of Birken where it is being widened along the

WOVERINES AT CHALET

This must be wildlife year! Two weeks ago there was a report of mountain goats in the bowl at Brandywine Falls. Then a marmot visited the PGE railway shops and now Otta Brandvold reports that there are three wolverines at the chalet in Garibaldi Park.

The animals have broken into the cooler at the chalet three times in the past few weeks. And on the 4th of July weekend when there were twenty mountaineers from Seattle staying there, Millie Crowell, the cook was just locking up and found one of the wolverines sitting on the doorstep.

The three animals have also been seen on the snow outside the chalet. By mid-July there was still four feet of snow at the chalet but the lower meadows were beginning to clear. Mr. Brandvold said if the weather will just remain reasonably warm the heather should be in bloom by early August.

Guides to attend camp

Ten girl guides received their second year badges and will go to the girl guide camp at Wilson Creek on the Sechart Peninsula from the 1st to the 10th of August, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Phil Rowan.

Seven girls were present at the home of Mrs. W. Hansen and received their badges from District Commissioner, Mrs. Betty Didier of Squamish.

They were Belinda Holoien, Debbie Hoodkoff, Sharon Dyck, Dianne Cartwright, Debbie Niermyer, Carol Hansen and Pat Baverstock. The three unable to attend were Jean Knippelberg, Liz Price and Lisa Polish.

Mrs. Hoodkoff, Mrs. Baverstock, your reporter and Mrs. Wallenborn who is assistant leader of the guides were invited guests and at the conclusion of the presentation were served tea and cakes by the guides, after which the girls were given cake and soft drinks.

Their cake was a present from Carol Hansen's aunt and was in the form of a little white lamb.

Power line damaged

Damage amounting to five hundred dollars occurred during the early morning hours of July 9th, when two men threw rocks at an insulator on the power line supplying Woodfibre, Port Mellon and Powell River. The incident occurred at Woodfibre at approximately 3 a.m. Experts said that rainy weather could cause a series of shutdowns at the three towns and while damages could not be estimated they would undoubtedly have been high if shutdowns had occurred at the three pulp towns.

Investigation revealed two suspects, Joe McDonald and Alton Farnsworth, who have both been charged with mischief under the criminal code. Farnsworth pleaded guilty to the charge but McDonald has not as yet, appeared before the court.

New owners for Paragon cleaners

Paragon Cleaners has changed hands with the new owners Jim Clark of North Vancouver and his brother-in-law, Ron Wigglesworth, taking over the business on Saturday, July 16th.

Mr. Clark, who comes from Vancouver, has had twelve years experience in the dry cleaning business, having served an apprenticeship and learned how to clean garments with and without chemicals.

Mr. Clark stressed the fact that he wished to offer residents of the valley, as well as the surrounding area, the type of dry cleaning service which they want. He is prepared to provide daily service for people coming from Pemberton or the outlying areas. Bring in your clothes in the morning and when you are ready to leave later in the day they will be ready for you.

He is married, with two children and plans to bring his wife and family to Squamish and to make his home here.

Hunting and fishing are Mr. Clark's hobbies and he is looking forward to being able to enjoy them in the Squamish valley and to the north.

Squamish to host ball tournament

By JIM SANDERSON

The North Shore Sr. Softball league returns to Squamish next Sunday, as the local league plays host to the second annual Smith Trophy Tournament.

The trophy was donated last season by the league president, Fred Smith, for the tournament play in Squamish.

Last year the trophy was won by the Avalon Hotel team, who will return this year. The other North Shore teams will be Molsons, who lead the league this year, and will have former Squamish players Tom Rivett and H. Trudeau. Also returning for the tourney will be the North Shore

Merchants. The local Squamish All-Stars, the hosts for the tournament, will feature the top players from the Squamish League, teams. Most of these players have played for the Loggers over the last few years in the North Shore League and all should make a good showing.

The tournament will start at 11:00 a.m. and will carry on as a single knock out series, with the other games slated for 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. for the finals.

This should be a good series of ball for fans to watch, as most fans will remember the players from past years.

Diamante Song does it again

Just about the happiest horseman in B.C. must be the local harness enthusiast and reeve of Squamish, Pat Brennan, whose three year old bay gelding won the Paterson Park Pacing Derby on Saturday, July 16th and broke a track record doing it.

The horse, which Brennan bought last year and which many experts predicted would be dud, has won seven times out of eleven starts. He has also placed twice. But two of his wins have been big ones.

Fresh from taking the B.C. Colt Stakes earlier in the month, Diamante Song won the second division of the featured event in a time of 2:41.1, breaking the former one and one quarter mile record by two and two-fifths seconds.

Rusty Counsel, owned by Buster Marks, who pushed Diamante Song in the race for the Colt Stakes, also pushed his rival in this one, but Brennan's gelding had too much speed and won driving.

Thirteen top pacers entered the Derby which was run in two heats.

Paradise Valley's Shafter

Spud, driven by Ford Wiggins, won the second heat and broke the track record, set earlier by Rusty Counsel, by one second. However Diamante Song won the silver Derby Bowl because of his faster time.

The win also netted the winner's portion of the $3,750-added purse for Pat Brennan.

It is easy to see why the horse everyone said would never make it is now one of the hottest properties in local harness racing.

Stolen truck found here

Police investigating a motor vehicle accident on June 27th discovered there was no driver or any other person at the scene of the accident.

The vehicle, a 1962 panel truck had been rolled over near Stoney Creek and subsequent investigation revealed the vehicle had been stolen. It also contained a stolen television set which had been taken earlier in the day by housebreaking and entering at the residence of W. Derhous-off at Cheekye.

The truck was stolen from Chilliwack on the preceding day. The case is still under investigation and there are two suspects.

"School in the sun"

From ballet and music to hiking and karate

By LOUISE KILBY

"School in the sun" we call it and it is sunny now. Though it rained the first day here, the weather has picked up and now most of the students are spending the day at the beach.

Registration and settling was finished by Wednesday afternoon. Now we have an organized day of getting up at 7:30, breakfasting from 8-9, doing what we want in the day, classes, organized activities, curfew with 10:00 p.m., lights out at 11:00 p.m., sleep and another day.

The girls from the dorm have adopted three kittens and a dog. The first two kittens are grayish and named Shan—because he lives in "The Shambles"—and Marnie. Cat number three is a fluffy yellow and white and named Arnie.

The dog, a white Samoyede called Nicky. All of these pets will be going home with their new owners at the end of the summer school session. Until then we almost have a zoo going.

MUSIC AND BALLET
Activities for Wednesday, July 13 were a show "Spy with my Face" and a "Battle of the Bands" dance. The dance was held in the Beach Bowl and lasted from 9:00 till 1:00. Bands from different parts of B. C. participated.

A new course offered this year is guitar and folksinging. This means we have about thirty guitars in the hostel so to celebrate we held a hootenanny on Thursday night. After singing all the folk songs we know everyone headed to the common room where Freshie and cookies were served.

A Ballet and Vocal concert was held on Saturday, July 16 at 8:00 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Guest artists were Madame Johanna Janisch and Franklin White who is the Director of Ballet, Mime and Music.

OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES TOO
During the first week of our stay the Scout Jamboree had all the buses held up. However the Scouts left Saturday night so that Sunday afternoon we were able to get a bus to take us to Naramata for a beach party.

After the party everyone went to bed early as some of the students were getting up at 4:00 a.m. to go on a hike up Jerry Mountain. They started in cars and drove to the base of the mountain where they split into groups, one which went up the road and the other which went across country.

Upon arriving at the Ranger Station they woke the ranger up, had breakfast and headed back down the mountain. The rest of the hostiles were just waking up when they arrived, awake for four hours and shouting "Rise and Shine, get up you sleepy heads". However,

36 acres cleared at golf course

Thirty six acres of land, 90 percent of the amount required to construct the first nine holes of the golf course, have been cleared.

Work was done by Walter Goss and Vic Hurford as the late start this spring, caused by the winter's heavy snows, would have made it impossible to have it cleared in time unless contractors did the work.

In order to get the land smoothed and free of debris before seeding can begin, it was necessary to purchase a tractor, harrows, a rock picker and a shredder. A large truck will also be needed in order to move sand for the construction of the greens.

Several important projects still remain to be done. These are irrigation, land contouring and seeding. This must all be done this year in order to have the links ready for play by the beginning of July, 1967.

The club now has 167 members and the target figure is 200 by the end of the summer. Members are invited to visit the property and see how it is progressing and the executive urges each member to try to find an additional one. This would bring the club's total membership to well over the two hundred target.

FENCE PAINTING
Remember the big thing on fence painting in Vancouver around Easter time. The Penitence Peach Festival is running a similar contest for the Peach Festival which runs from August 3-7. First prize is $100.00 and already the fence around the Bank of Nova Scotia site is filling up with pictures ranging from scenery to op art.

There will be a display of Karate in the auditorium at 10:00 p.m. Tuesday, July 18. The daily news bulletin announced that "...if you volunteer to be thrown, you're on your own. Please don't come complaining to us re broken bones." Lets hope that there are no broken bones.

NEW SYSTEM FOR POOL PURIFICATION

The old system of keeping the water in the swimming pool clean and pure is now being changed to a newer one which will let you swim in perfect comfort with no ill effects.

The new system will eliminate the complaints about eyes being red and the only noticeable change will be that the water is now light green in color.

The new system has been in operation since Monday of last week and now it's just like swimming in the lake, only warmer.

Visit the swimming pool one of these warm afternoons or evenings and enjoy a refreshing dip.

GIRLS FROM the Vancouver Girls Pipe Band in their colorful tartans provided a musical background for the opening ceremonies at the new shopping plaza in downtown Squamish. They paraded up and down the covered walk in front of the stores during the afternoon and many people enjoyed the skirl of the pipes.

CHRISTENING AT BRITANNIA BEACH

The christening of little Kathleen Ann Critchley, daughter of LAC and Mrs. Critchley of Gimli, Manitoba, took place at the Britannia Beach Community church on Sunday, July 17th at the regular morning service with Rev. Fullerton officiating.

Godparents were Kathy's great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacLeod of Vancouver, B.C. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Davies of London, England and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Critchley of Britannia Beach.

A tea was held later in the afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Critchley with other out of town guests being Mr. Joe Davies of North Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. James McLaren of Vancouver, B.C.

New vistas for the retarded

Services for the retarded, and the Farm Training Centre at Ladner were the subject of a talk given by Tony Schmand at the annual meeting of the Retarded Children's Association in Squamish on June 6th.

What happened to a retarded one over? In Canada a fortunate few can find work in a supervised or "sheltered" workshop. This work is usually on a "peace" basis, and can be frustrating and tense, so that in the long run problems may be increased rather than decreased.

Mr. Schmand thought about capitalizing on the interests of retarded children in animals and the outdoors. Instead of working for more and more workshops, why not buy farm acreage and teach these young people to plant, weed and harvest crops and care for animals?

He began working towards this goal, a Farm Training Centre, and this spring it was officially opened in Ladner; the first of its kind in the western hemisphere. Here children work hard by day and go home at nights relaxed and ready for a good night's sleep.

Mr. Schmand feels that both the sheltered workshop and the farm centre has its place; the ideals would be a close cooperation between the two, so that pupils could be transferred from one to the other to find where his needs are best met.

CWL reports success

St. Joseph's CWL held a very successful tea and bake sale at the home of Mrs. J. A. McKinnon on June 23rd.

Although the weather was not bright and sunny as last year many people turned out to enjoy the strawberry shortcake and tea or coffee.

A bake table well-supplied with a variety of cakes, pies, buns and fancy "goodies" was also a popular feature.

The ladies of the CWL wish to thank all those who helped to make this event a success. Mrs. P. Goodgrove was the fortunate winner of the chaise lounge while Mrs. Mable Scott won the door prize, a very attractive floral arrangement.

Ashlu closed to fishermen

Fisheries inspector A. Reynolds, of the Squamish-Pemberton sub-district says a closure has been placed on the Ashlu River in the Upper Squamish valley.

The river, a tributary of the Squamish River, and a popular fishing stream is closed to salmon fishing from midnight July 10th, 1966 to midnight of Sept. 30th, 1966.

The closure is for the conservation and protection of springs or chinook salmon.

Thief loots parked car

Police investigation has revealed a suspect in the case of personal items stolen from a parked car on Cleveland Ave. on July 16th, and charges have been laid.

The vehicle, belonging to Ann Hunter of Burlington, Wash., was broken into and personal items valued at one hundred and twenty dollars were stolen.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN WHO WORK FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR

Hon. Leslie B. Peterson, Q.C., Minister of Labour.

In 10 years the number of working women in British Columbia has risen by 60 per cent. They now number 190,000—more than one quarter of the total work force—and are making a major contribution to the economic life of this Province.

To assist women with problems relating to their employment the British Columbia Department of Labour has established a Women's Bureau.

It is concerned with the well-being of women in all types of work—industrial, mercantile, business and professional. It is a channel of communication between employees and employers, trade unions and the Department of Labour.

If you have a problem with regard to your employment—any problem—do not hesitate to contact:
