Body found in blazing car

The body of a man was found in a blazing car near Furry Creek on Saturday, August 27th. Police were alerted when a motorist reported what he believed to be a forest fire in the vicinity of Furry Creek and upon investigation the constable found a vehicle on fire.

The body, inside the vehicle, was burned beyond recognition but later identified as Adrian Colbert Denton of the Russell Hotel in New Westminster.

The cause of the fire has not been determined but the investigation is continuing.

The coroner, Dr. L. C. Kindree, ordered an inquest.

Accommodation for nurses poses problems

Accommodations for the staff at the Squamish General Hospital poses some problems for the administrator.

At present there is a shortage of staff and all accommodations at the hospital are filled. Suitable lodgings close to the hospital must be obtained if more staff is added.

The building committee is looking into the possibilities of finding rental accommodation for members of the nursing staff.

The administrator said the situation is so acute that he may be forced to close some of the beds if more staff cannot be obtained. "The tragic part," Mr. Flouch said, "is that I could bring nurses here if I had some place for them to stay."

Another problem rises from the inability of the new lab technician to find someone to look after her three pre-school children while she is working. Mr. Flouch says lab technicians are in demand and he was fortunate to secure one who is living in the community.

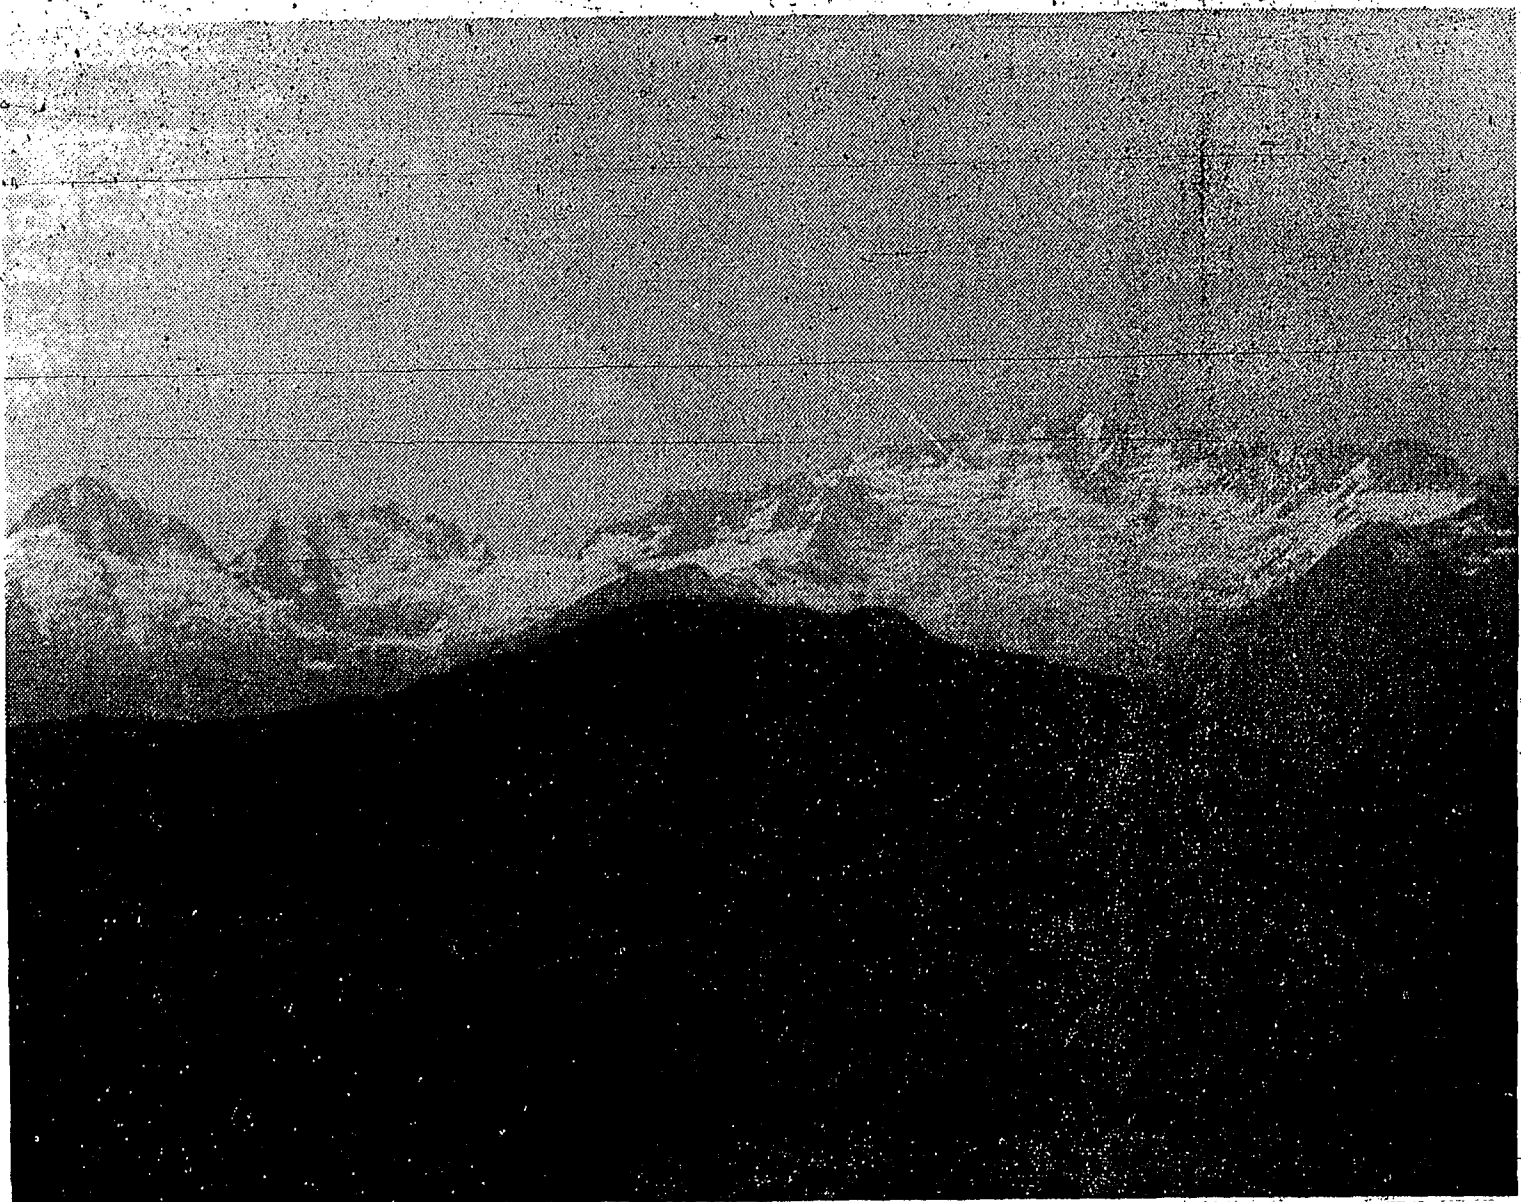

However if she cannot obtain someone to look after her children she will be forced to resign at the end of September.

OAP members visit PNE

August 25th was Golden Years Day at the PNE, a day especially set aside for the Senior Citizens. A bus from this area took twenty-four local residents down to the fair to take in the sights and sounds of B.C.'s showcase.

Programmes for the day were geared to the older members of our communities. Of the group going down, three were from Britannia Beach. They were allowed about seven hours to view their favorite exhibits, and take the entertainment which appealed to them.

On the way home all agreed they had enjoyed themselves and are now looking forward to next year's visit to the PNE.

EARLY MORNING sun tipped the peaks of the Tantalus Range across the Cheakamus Valley to provide this spectacular view from the new highway. A viewpoint gives the photographer a chance to try his skill. Warm summer weather has taken practically all the snow from the glaciers leaving the rough blue ice exposed.

Luncheon for instructors

The girls who assisted in the summer playground programme were guests at a luncheon when the Recreational and Parks Committee entertained them at the Chieftain Hotel on Friday, September 26th.

Jerry Clark, supervisor of the recreation program and Mrs. B. Harris, who was in charge of the swimming program, spoke about the excellent work which the girls had done and complemented them on the success of the program.

The girls were asked for suggestions for next year's program and among those advanced were a full day's program next year, a summer day camp, possibly at Alice Lake; and preparation during the winter of activities which might be useful next summer.

In the latter category games and crafts were among the suggestions and one of the girls suggested a scrapbook of ideas be kept.

Among the instructors who attended the luncheon were Judy Brander, Leslie Chapman, Francesca Farella, Donna Billy, Debbie Hurren, Nancy McCartney, Marion Wallace and Emma Whonock.

Order ignored

Low lake levels cause for alarm at Alta Lake

Dropping lake levels at Alta Lake, caused when a channel was dug at the north end of the lake last year thus lowering levels up to 18 inches or more, is still alarming residents of the east shore of the lake.

The channel, dug by Alex Greenwood and Eric Beardmore to drain the low-lying portions of their property, has caused lake levels to drop alarmingly.

Last year an order was issued, instructing them to build a weir across the channel but this order was ignored. A second order was issued on August 5th, to be completed by September 15th, but by the end of August no action had been taken on this order.

Last summer many residents whose property fronts on the east shore of the lake and who had been unable to use their wharves and floats, complained that these were high and dry, leaving a wide expanse of stinking mud in front of their summer homes.

MENACE TO CHILDREN

Children attempting to bathe in this area were covered with mud and fears were expressed that this could possibly result in contamination or infections. Property owners also felt they were deprived of the right to use their boats during the summer as many could not be anchored at the end of the piers which were resting on the muddy bottom of the lake.

Mrs. A. Phillip, a longtime resident of the west side of the lake, said her float is at a sharp angle to the shore and extremely difficult to use due to the lowered lake levels.

In October of last year test levels were run and the lowest normal level established by the government engineers, was 2,094 feet.

The latest verbal suggestion, reportedly advanced a few weeks ago, was that 2,091 feet, some three feet below the figure mentioned last year, should be the lake level.

East shore residents protest this would leave their side of the lake, where property was purchased because of the attraction of a beach, fifty feet from the normal shore line with oozing stinking mud exposed by the lowered lake levels.

WEIR TO BE BUILT

The latest suggestion from the Department of Lands, Forests and Water Resources, is that the weir be constructed and maintained by a representative of a responsible local group.

A meeting has been scheduled to discuss the matter and a strong protest against the level of 2,091 feet will be presented at that meeting.

Mrs. E. Johns, a resident and side of the lake, has circulated a petition asking that the interests of everyone concerned be considered before any such action is taken.

This group feels the weir should be built and maintained by government representatives and control should not be in the hands of any local resident.

37 passed exams

High school graduation ceremonies on Sept. 9th

Thirty seven students of Howe Sound Secondary School passed their Grade 12 examinations and will receive their certificates at the graduation exercises in the Howe Sound Secondary School auditorium on Friday, September 9th at 7:45 p.m.

Scholarships and bursaries will be presented at the graduation exercises.

Among those open to students of the school district and Squamish are two Howe Sound School District scholarships valued at four hundred dollars each and open to the students in the district with marks over 80 percent; three Canadian Collieries scholarships, two of two hundred dollars each for pupils on non-academic programs and one of one hundred dollars for a student on university program.

MacMillan, Bloedel offers a five hundred dollar scholarship for a student on the university program and the Howe Sound Teachers' Association scholarship of three hundred dollars is for the student who will be taking teacher training and making 70 percent or better in their examinations.

In addition two Independent Loggers' Association scholarships will be offered this year. One, for three hundred dollars, is to be awarded to the runner-up to the top academic student.

The other, the George Dickie Memorial Bursary, is offered for academic achievement and citizenship and service, qualities displayed by Mr. Dickie, and is open to a student on university or general program.

Other bursaries are the one offered by the Canadian Legion, of seventy-five dollars for a student on university or general program; the B.P.O.E. and O.O.R.P. one hundred dollar scholarship for a student, on general program.

The alphabetical list of graduates who will be taking part in the ceremonies on Friday night follows:

Province votes on Sept. 12th

British Columbia will go to the polls next Monday, September 12th, and for the first time will elect 55 members to the provincial legislature.

Many of the old ridings have been changed after the redistribution of seats and the Squamish area, formerly a portion of Lillooet riding, now takes its natural place with the lower mainland to form part of the West Vancouver-Howe Sound riding.

The new constituency takes in West Vancouver, Horseshoe Bay and Woodfibre (formerly a part of Mackenzie riding) along Howe Sound to Britannia and Squamish and north along highway 99 to D'Arcy, taking in the Pemberton Valley and Mount Currie.

In the 1963 election, West Vancouver, then a portion of the two member riding of Vancouver North, sent two Liberal members, Gordon Gibson and Ray Perrault to Victoria, while Lillooet was represented by Donald F. Robinson, a Social Credit candidate.

Woodfibre was part of Mackenzie, whose member was Tony Gargrave, NDP, so all three of the major parties were formerly represented by portions of this new riding.

In West Vancouver, the Liberals polled almost one half of the votes with Social Credit accounting for less than one-third. The NDP, traditionally the worker's party, ran a poor fourth well behind the Conservatives in this area composed of voters who are among the more affluent members of the electorate.

In the former Lillooet portion of the new riding, voting was fairly evenly divided among the three major parties with Social Credit taking slightly over one-third of the vote, and the other two not far behind.

The Squamish area is usually indicative of the way this area votes. However the great preponderance of voters in West Vancouver will undoubtedly influence the voting patterns for this new riding.

Revised voters' lists in these areas should show a marked increase in the numbers of people eligible to vote as the population increase in both West Vancouver and the Howe Sound to D'Arcy area has been noticeable.

The 1963 results from the former portions of the ridings are as follows:

	SC	Lib.	NDP	Cons.	Others	Total
West Vancouver (2 seats)	3941	5878	1011	1270	29	12100
	3374	5267	973	1722	29	11365
Totals	7315	11145	1984	2992	29	23465
Lillooet (1 seat)
Squamish	366	252	228	110		956
Brackendale	32	21	40	11		104
Britannia Beach	99	41	122	13		275
Alta Lake	36	9	40			85
Birken	3		6			9
D'Arcy	6	20	2	2		30
Devine	4	4	5	3		16
Garibaldi	19	3	1			26
Mount Currie	37	120	22	18		197
Pemberton	66	27	27	36		156
Pemb. Meadows	11	9	18	4		42
	679	506	511	200		1896

If patterns do not change the possibility of a Liberal being returned is very likely.

However the Progressive Conservative vote, which when divided in half, accounted for 1500 votes in the West Vancouver area and 200 in the Lillooet riding areas, could have a considerable bearing upon next Monday's figures.

An attempt was made to set up an all-candidate meeting in Squamish for Friday evening but both McKenzie and Williams were unable to do so owing to previous commitments.

Make your choice Sept. 12th

ALLAN WILLIAMS
Liberal Party

Williams is a barrister-solicitor and a graduate of the University of B. C. He was a member of the West Vancouver Parks and Recreation Commission for seven years before being elected to council last year.

Mr. Williams, whose campaign slogan is "Bridge the gap to Victoria", is concerned with another crossing of Burrard Inlet, the pollution problems in this area, and highway problems.

Reforestation and problems confronting the lumber industry are also important and he is concerned about the rapid depletion of our natural resources, parks and recreation areas.

LARRY ECKARDT
Social Credit Party

Larry Eckardt is a lawyer and logging operator, often called the "champion of the small logger." He is an expert on forestry matters and a former president of the Truck Loggers' Association.

His immediate objectives are to further deep sea shipping facilities at Squamish, and to hasten the improvement of the Squamish-Britannia highway. Increased co-operation between the federal and provincial government for the dyking and control of rivers in the Squamish Valley is another project which he will attempt to bring about.

Secondary road construction in the Pemberton-D'Arcy area is the fourth objective which he will work for.

JIM MCKENZIE
New Democratic Party

Jim McKenzie is a French polisher, living in West Vancouver, and will be the NDP candidate in West Vancouver-Howe Sound.

McKenzie will be able to present labour's viewpoint and says that only his party can bring about some sort of order to the whole lower mainland.

He says the poorest kind of urban development, growing neglect of parks and careless pollution of air and water have resulted from the type of representation in this area in the past.

If sent to Victoria, Mr. McKenzie will work for the implementation of a program of urban park development and pollution control.

Council requests use of schools

The Board of School Trustees will be asked to permit the schools to be used for sports and other activities after school hours and when not needed for school activities.

The council made the request stating that they would accept responsibility for any damage to floors or buildings.

A stormy session occurred when the board was asked if dances could be held in the gymnasiums and were told only sock dances would be permitted.

"We put ourselves out to give you everything you want, except a dance hall," H. H. Bailey, the board chairman said.

"You're not giving us anything," the reeve retorted. "The people have paid for this!"

Jerry Clark, the recreation commissioner and adult education director said a compound could be used which would permit dances to be held and would also permit the same floor to be used for sports.

Dancing can be done on the gym floor if the shoes are clean. "Wax is not needed," he said. "Except for some special kinds of dancing."

Dr. L. C. Kindree said he felt it was a shame the two sides could not get together and permit the facility to be used.

The reeve said council should be willing to accept the responsibility for any damage to the floors if the gymnasiums are used for any extra-curricular activities.

"We can all sit here and look at the polish on the floors," he said, "Or we can stick out our necks and do something."

The board agreed to discuss the question at their next meeting and inform council of their decision.

Attendance up at fair

The Fall Fair committee report that exhibits and attendance were both up at this year's annual Fall Fair.

Secretary Mrs. A. Makowichuk says the exhibits were more numerous but the lack of displays made it appear to be smaller.

There were 22 more exhibitors than in 1965 and the flower section was more heavily covered than in the previous year. Mrs. Makowichuk says there was also an additional attendance of more than 20 percent.

CHRIS ARNET WINS TOP LOGGER AWARD

Chris Arnet won the "Panicky Bell" Trophy as the greatest logger of them all at the PNE's Festival of Logging. He received the trophy on Monday evening.

Chris was a double threat competitor, appearing in the tree climbing and power saw events. Squamish climbers completely dominated these events with Dick Munro winning the climbing trophy in 29.3 seconds. Last week Vic Didier set a new record of 30 seconds on Thursday morning which was matched in the afternoon by Chris Arnet.

Dick made his prize winning time with a beautiful climb on Monday to top Chris Arnet's 29.8 second one.

Other Squamish competitors in the finals were Thor Halvorsen and Bruce Carson.

BRUCE CARSON, Squamish, receiving trophy for pole falling at the Pemberton Loggers Sports Day. The trophy was presented by Allan Williams on behalf of the West Vancouver-Howe Sound Liberal Association.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1960

Three good men...

For the first time in many years the voters in the former Lillooet riding, now part of West Vancouver-Howe Sound, have the opportunity to select an MLA from three candidates, any of whom would be a worthy choice.

Larry Eckardt, the Social Credit candidate, is well known to the local lumbermen as he is a former president of the Truck Loggers' Association.

Mr. Eckardt could fulfill the role he has been named to "the champion of the small logger."

This portion of the constituency, which depends upon logging for much of its livelihood would find Mr. Eckardt an able and intelligent representative.

Allan Williams, the Liberal candidate, another lawyer and a member of the municipal council of West Vancouver as well as a former member of the park and recreation commission, would bring his wide knowledge of this field to bear upon provincial matters.

With Squamish and Pemberton lying so close to the tremendous recreational area of Garibaldi Park and the Pemberton-D'Arcy area, a man with the knowledge and experience Mr. Williams possesses would be invaluable.

Increasing use of these potential recreational areas so close to Vancouver will bring the need for men who know what can and should be done.

Squamish is also an expanding municipality, with problems facing many municipalities in B.C. today and here again Mr. Williams' experience will be of benefit.

Jim McKenzie, the NDP candidate, is a workingman with an awareness of the many problems facing labor in this changing world. He would be able to speak about them and perhaps aid in planning how to meet these problems.

Co-operation between labor and management is essential to make this province go ahead and men with a knowledge of labor's problems can be important.

Yes, people in the former portions of Lillooet riding now part of West Vancouver-Howe Sound, do have a choice of three good men. Any one of them would be an able member of the legislature.

Watch for children...

Schools have just opened for the fall terms and many small children will be walking along the roads and crossing the streets to go to school in the Squamish and Pemberton valleys.

Many of these children are extremely careful and keep a close watch for traffic but some may be careless or in their play along the road neglect to be as careful as they should be.

Motorists should keep a wary eye for children, either going to or coming from school, or playing close to them. In some cases there are blind spots along the roads and some youngsters fail to use the crosswalk provided for their safety.

We have been fortunate in the Squamish and Pemberton valleys in not having any accidents involving children, on their way to school but only constant vigilance will prevent this occurring.

Motorists are urged to watch closely when driving near the schools, not only in school zones but also close to them.

IN OTHER WORDS...

Advice for the Park Service...

Roads are like rabbits. Where there are two, they soon beget a third.

Conservationists who fight to protect trees, green space, and wilderness against the highway builders' endless ribbons of concrete have long recognized this truism about roads. But the National Park Service, which should be defending unspoiled areas, pushes heedlessly for a second transmountain road through the Great Smoky National Park and has many roadbuilding plans elsewhere.

[Recently] during a Park Service hearing in Tennessee the old truism popped up again. The regional engineer for the Bureau of Public Roads endorsed the Park Service's plan for a second transmountain road but he quietly pointed out that to get a really efficient traffic flow, a third road should connect the two.

And so it goes in the dream world of the traffic engineers — two roads become three, two lanes become four, new highways need new access roads, new highways become overburdened and need parallel roads to move the traffic, and on and on into infinity.

We suggest that when the Park Service reviews the testimony in last week's Great Smoky hearings, which incidentally was preponderantly against this transmountain road and other intrusions on the remaining wilderness, it bear in mind the analogy of roads and rabbits. The openness and wildness and naturalness of any region are what make it worth preserving as a park. If too many highways are built through a park in the name of giving people easy access, the true purpose and value of the park are destroyed.

When people want to see automobiles and other people, they stay in the city where there are plenty of both. It is really very simple. Ask any rabbit.

Frank voice from the West...

Jack Davis, parliamentary secretary to Mines Minister Jean-Luc Pepin, yesterday gave the Government some frank and positive advice on developing resources. Speaking to Western Liberals in Saskatoon, he accused the Pearson Administration of leaving resource development "out in the cold," and demanded that Ottawa meet this challenge more aggressively.

From a politician in the antechamber of the ministry, these are courageous words. For not only do they avow clearly that the government has given a low priority to strengthening the basis of Canada's long-term prosperity; they document authoritatively Opposition charges that Mr. Davis' own party has willfully neglected, as he himself put it, "the Northern and Western parts of Canada." Perhaps, as a Westerner confiding to Westerners, he thought this classic complaint would delight the homefolks; but he should not expect either the Prime Minister or the Leader of the Opposition to overlook it.

But Mr. Davis' most challenging words are constructive and forward-looking. He believes, unlike his colleague Walter Gordon, that Canada can prosper in freedom without sealing the border against American investment. For Mr. Davis, Canada should eschew punitive xenophobia in favor of vigorous positive efforts to induce Canadians to invest at home and to sell at higher prices abroad. He agrees that Canadian resources should be developed to meet Canadian needs and not those (under the slogan of "continentalism") of the United States. But he holds that this overriding national goal can be achieved through incentives to Canadian initiative.

Incentives both economic and fiscal. A national power grid and an Alberta-Montreal crude oil pipeline would help lay down the economic infrastructure on which investment by Canadians could flourish, while probably reducing significantly the deficit in our balance of payments. And more daring tax concessions would, Mr. Davis hopes, draw dormant savings from under Canadian mattresses into the risky nation-building enterprises that endow a country with the sinews and the mood of greatness.

None of this is radically new. Yet Mr. Davis carries these plans for national self-assertion a logical step further, rounding them out with a tough policy on resource prices, and therefore profits geared to "all that the market will bear." He tells Canadians to demand for their resources when selling them to foreigners "not merely a minimum 'reasonable' rate of return, but 'a handsome profit,' reflecting 'the uniqueness of the resources' instead of the convenience of foreign consumers."

This is bold talk. It breathes the confidence and optimism that are the essence of both free enterprise and free nationhood. Let us hope that Mr. Davis will make a stand when Liberals from all Canada face their great ideological showdown next October. And let us hope that Mr. Gordon, for a change, will be listening.

Finance courses recommended to cure fiscal horrors

NOT ONLY AS A BROKER BUT, AS A CITIZEN, I AM concerned about our nation's future.

I am not filled with alarm. No, not exactly. But I certainly feel no cheerful exaltation at our immediate future, either.

There is this to be said. Governments are elected by people, and represent the accumulated opinions of the electorate. The electorate's opinions are based on education, experience and a measure of feeling for national responsibility. And what is the result?

In Ottawa, for Prime Minister, we have a statesman who has now tried his hand at politics. Irresolute, and faced with political and financial pressures that are new to him, badly advised, surrounded by machine incompetents, since taking office he has not dared to take the initiative in a single issue because of obvious fear of his opponents in the House — a crafty egomaniac who unfortunately is Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition.

It is a picture of tragic failure, and people who knew him when he was Canada's representative in international circles, grieve at his torture under the whiplash of ward politics, scaled upward to a national level. But we chose him. You and I.

Here in B.C. we stagger under one of the greatest per capita load of debt of any Province. Yet we elected, and may re-elect, a Premier to head a government that lives on massive construction projects, and sucks the lifeblood from the slashed jugular veins of our cities and municipalities, pouring millions upon millions into easily manageable rural constituencies in the odious tradition of the late Huey Long's Louisiana politics.

These are our governments. These are our leaders. We put them there. Something is desperately wrong.

THERE IS NOTHING WRONG WITH CANADA. AND nothing wrong with Canadians.

Throughout the world today any traveller will tell you that the magic words "I am a Canadian" will open closed doors in practically every nation on earth, and will command for the speaker instant respect and the gravest attention. Internationally, our word is our bond.

It is time for a change, a long overdue change. But, if we must face facts, any change now may be too late.

Consider our nation. The Liberals are dependent upon support from Quebec for maintenance in office. Quebec demands, and the needs of the remainder of the nation may be yielded.

Quebec longshoreman asked for 30% raise — sheer, elementary madness that may now have precipitated a series of events which, in the end, can cut the value of our dollar by that amount. They got their 30%.

Labour, circling our financial skies like a vulture, scented the sweet stench of offal, ripe for its beak. Now, we have a Railwaymen's union demanding a modest but insanely inflationary 30% raise. And the flood, the avalanche, is only beginning.

Which union will be next? Not one union alone, but every union in the nation, tearing at the still-quivering guts of our national stability.

Who put the unions leaders in their position? You and I.

YOU AND I ARE TO BLAME FOR THE WHOLE mess—the growing surge of sales of the Canadian dollar in world markets, the falling stock market, the soaring interest rates, the tight money policy, the possibility of national bankruptcy.

Your and I put the politicians there. You and I put the union leaders there. We have opened a Pandora's box of fiscal horrors.

I have no power to effect change. I have only the determination of a Canadian to try to be as good a citizen as our nation deserves. It is a high aspiration, a mighty one.

So, I would make a proposal.

I would propose that finance be taught in our public schools — not "business" courses, but finance — corporate, provincial, federal and international, so that, by Grade 10, our citizens of tomorrow would be able to assess the honesty of political windbags, who promise everything for nothing, and tear apart the fabric of our wonderful democratic way of life.

I would make a second proposal. I would propose that every candidate for public office be forced to write exactly the same examination in finance as our Grade 10 students and, then, the results be published.

I suggest this because men of real worth and genuine knowledge are less and less prone to offer themselves for public office where their mature judgment will be swamped by the votes of well-meaning but ignorant electees, who can safely ridicule them because so few of the electorate will understand.

Our governments need upgrading.

You and I need upgrading. Let's start now, for the financial security of ourselves, for our children, and for our children's children.

Ottawa Diary

Rail strike

Parliament has been called back. It has been called back to deal with the strike on the railways. But the real issue is not just wages. It is the twin problems of inflation and automation rolled into one.

Inflation comes about in two ways. There is the demand-pull type—the type that results from full employment, rising incomes and the resulting opportunity for producers and sellers to make higher profits in the market place.

More important, however, is the cost-push type of price increase. Costs, and particularly wage costs, are rising. Unfortunately they are rising more rapidly than productivity in this country.

Productivity, unfortunately, is difficult to measure. But we have some yardsticks.

We know, for instance, the average, long term increase in Canadian industry is now around 3 per cent a year.

In some new and rapidly expanding industries it may be as high as 5 per cent. But in other older and less progressive industries like the railways it may be 2 per cent or less.

Viewed in this light a 30 per cent increase in wages is intolerable. It is obviously inflationary. It is way out of line with productivity.

Also, in a profit-regulated industry like the railways, it is bound to result in passenger fare increases and freight rate hikes.

Last Spring Ottawa got the Freedman Report. Mr. Justice Freedman, looking at the railway modernization programme, said that there was a moral as well as an economic aspect to automation.

He said that management on our railways should "negotiate" labour, not simply impose them from above.

As one who believes in looking ahead I agree with him. I agree that we must plan for improvements in productivity. Output must be increased and man hours cut back in a predictable manner.

But wage demands must also be tied, much more directly, to productivity. A 5 per cent increase in one merits a 5 per cent increase in the other. Only in this way can we avoid inflation and its damaging effects on society as a whole.

Excessive wage demands hurt everyone. By adding to its costs it hurts the industry itself. But, even more important, it hurts the small man. Certainly it hurts those on fixed incomes.

It also hurts all those workers in our relatively unorganized industries who are unable to make their wage demands felt in the same way as the high unionized industries can.

As these people form the great majority of our population Ottawa must step in.

Ottawa, in other words, must protect the consumer.

And the interest of the consumer are inevitably opposed to those of the strongest unions—those like the railway unions which often try to take a larger slice of the national income without really working for it.

Wins prizes at P.N.E.

Mrs. J. H. Johnson and Mrs. J. M. G. Hurren have both won prizes at this year's P.N.E. Mr. Johnson won third prize for her dressed doll which was based on the best workmanship in knitting, Class 4.

In the class for men's cardigan or pullover with sleeves, plain knit Mrs. Johnson placed first and second in his class was Mrs. Hurren.

Mrs. Johnson also won third prize in the group for a child's knitted sweater (8 to 10 years) pullover.

First prize was awarded Mrs. Johnson for her baby's crocheted dress.

HOWE SOUNDINGS

Snow in August? You're kidding. No, I'm not. Last weekend we went up Whistler mountain, on the chair lift of course, and believe it or not, it snowed off and on during the afternoon.

Not hard, and certainly not enough to leave any residue on the ground but it definitely did snow, and we found it very chilly for an August afternoon. But the climb to the ridge of Whistler and the walk through the meadows was interesting even if we did nearly freeze on the chair lift as we went down.

The gondola is another story. These enclosed cars are quite comfortable and the view you get as you go up or come down is tremendous.

The three lakes, Alpha, Nita and Alta, are spread out before you, with Alpha and its island most attractive from the air. As you climb higher and reach the top of the lift, walking a short distance around the mountain, Lost Lake and Green Lake lie to the west.

From the opposite side of the ridge Cheakamus Lake and Corrie Lake can be seen while the Tusk is supposed to dominate the southern sky. However, with the cloud around it we failed to see the Tusk but late in the afternoon the lifted enough so we could see the green slopes of Singing Pass and the snow covered Fitzsimmons Glacier.

The world above the timberline is beautiful but not harsh. Quartz crystals abound in the moraines and shattered fragments of shale can be found. Many other varieties of rock, some intensely scorched, are plentiful, and in the meadow below the bowl we found a massive stone standing on edge with another lying like a table beside it. Almost like a platform with a rock altar behind it.

Small plants cling tenaciously to life at these high altitudes. Douglas phlox and moss campion, both forming earth hugging mats of leaves dotted with flowers, can be found on the exposed rocky heights while gray-leaved phacelia with its mauve-purple blooms and long golden blossoms while the fluffy heads of the anemones, looking like their nicknames, tow headed babies, or youth-and-old age stand above the smaller plants.

And everywhere is the heat-her, creamy yellow, pure white and varying shades of red. A living carpet.

Atop the ridge of Whistler, one of our group, a short distance ahead of us, was waiting in the sun. She screamed and called to us and when we met said she had almost been run down by an animal.

Her description, gray, about the size of a small dog with a bushy tail, could only have fitted a marmot and he was probably more frightened than she was.

But she asked if any of us had been almost run over by a strange animal, saying it was a startling experience.

One of our better known residents who has a summer cottage at Alta Lake was surprised on a recent weekend, to come back after taking his family to Pemberton to find his truck parked beside a lot where cement for a basement was being poured.

The workers had run out of gravel trucks in the area were either in use or unfit for use, so they had asked permission to use the summer visitor's vehicle. He was away, but an inmate of the cottage said he was sure no one would mind so they borrowed the vehicle, returning it later unharmed.

However as they were explaining this a youngster came by on a bike and the truck owner, after a second look, said "My God, that's my son's bike, I'd better go back to the cabin and see if it is still there!"

Sight of the week: the property owner at Alta Lake shaving with an electric razor at the power pole in front of his future home.

Firemen honored

Members of the volunteer fire departments in the Squamish Valley were guests of honor at a smorgasbord banquet held in the Squamish Hotel on Friday, September 26th.

Thirty three men from the three fire brigades were invited to attend and those present received sweaters with the insignia of the brigade on them.

Members, who were unable to attend will receive their sweaters privately.

Fire Chief Jack Clarke was pleased at the recognition accorded to his volunteers and councillor N. R. Barr, chairman of the protection committee, which includes the firemen said their work could not be measured.

Jump into pool was for safety

Six staff members of the Fish and Wildlife Branch, led by their director, Dr. James Hatter, jumped fully clothed into the YMCA pool in Victoria the other day.

No, they weren't settling fishing belts — but were taking part in an exercise in the name of safety.

Concerned about the numbers of drownings of fishermen who fall into streams and rivers, and wondering how much the victims' clothing, such as hip waders and heavy shirts and jackets, might have contributed to their deaths, it was decided to make a test under controlled conditions in the safety of a supervised swimming pool.

Observing the test was Dr. D. B. Turner, Deputy Minister of the Department of Recreation and Conservation which includes the Fish and Wildlife Branch.

The YMCA offered the use of their pool and the volunteers from the branch waded and jumped into both the shallow and deep end. All of them wore heavy clothing and waders of various sizes and weights. Some had various pieces of fishing and hiking equipment attached to their bodies as they would have had on a fishing trip.

They attempted to swim vigorously, to remove their waders and clothing, to float, and to regain their footing and climb unaided from the pool.

Don Robinson, assistant director of the branch, felt that his ability to swim was reduced by as much as 90 percent. "And consider how much more trouble I'd have if I had fallen into a cold stream with a fast current and uneven bottom," he added.

"I also learned something else," Robinson said. "That is, don't panic. There was time to do something, anyway — I was able to keep air in my waders so they acted as a float, and they were just dandy. My jacket bunched up on me, though, and restricted my arm movements and that made me uneasy for a moment."

Others said they had similar experiences.

George Ferguson, branch public information officer, said that as soon as the group of volunteers had dried themselves out they would get together and compare experiences. "I hope we can come up with some suggestions that might save a life," he concluded.

IT WAS A fully clothed dive into the YMCA pool at Victoria for six members of the Fish and Wildlife Branch of the Department of Recreation and Conservation recently when led by their director, Dr. James Hatter, they took part in a safety exercise. YMCA members assisted in the test and Dr. D. B. Turner watched the results. Those taking part said the fishing gear and clothes reduced their ability to swim by as much as 90%.

Cohoes promise exciting stream fishing here

by JOHN G. WRIGHT

The coho salmon have once more arrived in the local streams, although not too plentiful at this time. I have been assured by the federal fisheries that this is going to be a banner year. Prior to the coho arrival there was a fairly large run of spring salmon, but water conditions and what appeared to be late arrival into such streams as the Mamequam and the Cheakamus kept fishing pressure down to a minimum, these streams being closed as of August 16th.

Nevertheless there were still some taken, mostly at the power house, and hereby lies a story. Neighbour Walter Sweeny and I made a trip to the power house late in July. To Walter this fishing for springs in the river was new as all he had ever done was to catch them in the sea.

I had gone to some length in telling him how long it usually takes to land one in the river. Its well known that they are not spectacular fighters but they lay in the current and by sheer brute strength the landing of the fish becomes a tug of war.

When we arrived there Walter used a made in Japan spoon. The only thing he changed at my insistence was the hook. He made 4 casts hooked a 27 pound plus spring and landed it in something short of 5 minutes.

But that is not all. His line was 14 pound test and joined with an ordinary knot about 25 feet up the line. Every run that fish made that knot would go pic-pic-pic through the guides. To top it off it turned out to be a red spring which is the first one I have seen in these rivers, and my wife, only used to white spring, refused to cook it until I had seen it because she thought there was something wrong with it.

The coho are here right on time and today Jim Dollin and I caught one a piece while Bert Griffin caught himself a real clean 25 pound spring which took over an hour to land.

Jean Shinnors also got a small coho while Dave Watt got a dolly of five pounds. With the cooperation of the weather man the fishing prospects for the next few months should be terrific.

HUNTING

The opening day of grouse season was very poor and every hunter I saw was without any birds, whether this will improve only time will tell. It is possible that after last year's severe winter many of them were killed off.

I have noticed while going fishing only two grouse in the last two months whereas last year I was counting them by the convoys.

There seems to be quite a few pigeons around. The season opened September 1st but don't forget to get your special migration licence at the post office which costs $2.00. You will need it to shoot ducks any way.

Goats opened last weekend in G.M.A. 3 and will be open this week all over the lower mainland. Deer opens September 7th (bucks only).

Trap shoot on September 11th

The Squamish Valley rod and gun club will hold a trap shoot Sunday September 11th starting at 11 a.m.

The Pemberton club will be here to compete for the Carling Trophy which they won last year. Five of the Squamish club's finest will be on the line seeking revenge. The second round will be in Pemberton some time before Christmas.

The third round of the Chieftain trophy shoot will also be shot for. Thor Halvorsen is the leader by a slim margin. There will also be prize shoots.

Let me emphasize that these prize shoots are not only open to club members but are open to one and all and we would be most delighted to see you out there. There will also be refreshments in the form of hamburgers and coffee on hand.

ATTENTION CLUB MEMBERS

There will be a club social in the legion hall on September 23. Anyone desiring tickets should get in touch with any member of the executive or with Alf Angell at 892-3938. Ticket price is six dollars.

Some hints for safe driving

Nearly 5,000 Canadians will die in automobile accidents during 1966 and the recent Labor Day weekend will be a leading contributor to this tragic toll, according to All Canada Insurance Federation.

The Federation, which represents most of Canada's automobile insurance companies, recommends these driving hints which may help you to come home alive:

Slow down, excessive speed is a contributing factor in many accidents and particularly fatal accidents.

— Be sure your car is in good mechanical condition.

— Avoid driving when overtired and make frequent "coffee stops" during long trips.

— Drive "defensively" so that you are prepared to avoid the other driver who makes a mistake.

— Obey all traffic regulations and rules of the road; while these regulations may sometimes seem overly conservative, they are generally accurate and helpful.

7th birthday for Danny Walker

Nineteen friends and relatives gathered at the home of Danny Walker recently to help him celebrate his seventh birthday. They spent the afternoon playing games and after singing the "Happy Birthday Song", enjoyed the birthday cake and delicious refreshments.

Sharing the day with him were his cousins Bobby, David, Ricky, Dennis, Michael, Kathy, Diane and Joan; Bruce Decker, Chris Bokstrom, Terry and Gordie McCulloch, Peter and Keith Jensen, Mark Anderson, David and Michelle Neumann and his sister, Patti Ann.

Rheumatoid arthritis may appear at any age, but frequently during the middle years of life, and is more common among women than men.

SEPTEMBER RITES FOR ELAINE RENNIE

Mr. and Mrs. Ray V. Rennie announce the engagement of their daughter, Elaine Alice to Richard Joseph Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter of Squamish.

The wedding will take place September 24th at 7:30 p.m. in the Squamish United Church.

A reception will be held at Paradise Valley following the ceremony.

Jo-Anne Moore summer bride

Lynnour United Church was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Friday August 26th when Jo-Anne Barbara Moore and Matt Laansoo made their vows before Rev. M. E. Graham.

Pink gladiolus and white carnations formed the background for the ceremony. The bride, who lived in Squamish for several years and is a graduate of Howe Sound Secondary School and the Vancouver General School of Nursing, is the elder daughter of Mrs. Joseph Moore of North Vancouver. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Laansoo of Victoria.

White crepe in a classic style with a train falling from the shoulders fashioned the bridal gown. Layers of net caught in a wedding ring headpiece misted about her and she carried a bouquet of creamy gladiolus and white carnations.

Bride-Elect feted

Miss July Fenton, whose marriage to Roy Crowston took place on September 3rd, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at St. John's Anglican Hall last Wednesday evening. Hostesses for the event were Laurie Sullivan and Liz Sorban.

The tables were arranged in an unusual hexagon formation with streamers of pink and white forming a fan behind the head table which was adorned with a bouquet of summer flowers set off by ivy. Small bouquets of the same combination of blooms graced the remainder of the tables. Mrs. Alex Sullivan took charge of the floral arrangements, as well as the lovely corsage of yellow glads presented to the guest of honor. The bride-elect's many lovely gifts were placed in a miniature PGE engine and a dump truck, as Miss Fenton is employed by the PGE and her groom drives a truck.

Seated at the head table with Miss Fenton and assisting her in opening her gifts were her mother, Mrs. Doug Fenton, the groom's mother Mrs. J. M. Crowston and bridal attendants Mrs. Anthony Raffaele, the bride's twin sister, and Louise Crowston, a sister of the groom. The assembled guests enjoyed a number of games prior to the opening of the gifts.

Refreshments were ably supervised by Mrs. Alex Sullivan and Mrs. J. Fairhurst.

Miss Linda Moore was her sister's bridesmaid in a pale yellow full length gown with empire waistline. She carried white and yellow gladiolus.

Nick Cuff was the best man and ushers were Ted Johnston and Radcliffe Corbey.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Mason in North Vancouver followed the ceremony. Mr. W. Armour of Victoria proposed the toast to the bride.

The young couple left for a honeymoon on Vancouver Island and will make their home in Vancouver.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. Armour, Mr. and Mrs. H. Past, Mr. and Mrs. Silverton and Mrs. Stella Veilar, all of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. R. Pakasaar of Nanaimo; Mrs. G. S. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. N. Halvorson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lasser and Carol and Mrs. C. Tatlow, all of Squamish.

Wins honey prize

Mrs. Axen a perennial competitor in the honey class at the P.N.E. and who won the aggregate in-home earning at the Squamish Fall Fair also took a prize in Vancouver.

She took third prize in the honey, granulated in clear glass. She also put on an exhibition of weaving at the P.N.E.

Cubs meet Sept. 12th

Mrs. T. Hill, Cubmaster, said last week that the first Squamish Cub Pack will open September 12th.

The A. & B. Packs are to meet at 6:30 at the Squamish United Church, Monday night.

Census figure released

The population of the District of Squamish is 4,244 as of June 1st, 1966 according to the census figures.

This figure does not include Woodfibre which became part of the municipality at the end of June.

Addition of the pulp town should bring the figure to approximately 5,000.

LINDA STREET the 1966 Timber Queen, receiving congratulations from her father after her coronation.

STUDENTS PASS SWIM TESTS

Pupils who were taking swimming classes at Woodfibre throughout the summer were tested on Friday, August 26th. Twenty-one of the pupils succeeded in passing and received their swimming certificates.

Receiving their beginners were: Susan Acarn, Lisa Thorton, Karen Acarn, Beth Wickstrom, Beverly McLeod, Stephen Moyes, Gary Wood, and Danny Stangland.

Those receiving their juniors were: Barbara Teichman, Vicki Lobdell, Debbie Stangland, Joanne Caple, Rose-Marie Goyer, Ross Teichman, Greg Wirachowsky, Paul Acarn, Victor Smith, Clair Stangland, and Kelly Anderson.

Intermediate certificates were given to Anna-marie Manilla and David Acarn.

Two accidents on Britannia road

An accident occurred on the highway at Britannia Beach on Saturday, August 27th when John L. Hedberg of Victoria, driving south on Highway 99, drove into the northbound lane and hit the bridge at Britannia Beach.

The investigation is continuing and charges will probably be laid.

In another accident on the highway on Tuesday, August 30th, Mr. and Mrs. Alistair Mackenzie of Squamish were both injured when they were struck by a car near the Woodfibre ferry slip.

The accident occurred at about 6 p.m. when Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie were proceeding south and were struck by a northbound vehicle driven by Andreas Mavroudes of Vancouver and formerly of Cyprus.

Mavroudes said he crossed the centre line to the wrong side of the road, as he was used to driving in Cyprus where they drive on the left side of the road.

Charges have been laid against Mavroudes.

CHRIS DALE WINS AT EMPIRE POOL

Chris Dale of Woodfibre broke two summer club records on August 20th in the 17 and over boys group. The events Chris placed first in and broke the records were the 110 yard backstroke and 110 yard freestyle. Chris also placed second in the 110 yard butterfly and fifth in the individual medley.

Others competing in the meet at Empire Pool were:

Dale Van Sickle who made the finals in the eight and under girls freestyle.

Langis Bois placed 8th in the 13 and 14 year old boys breaststroke.

Jeff Kingston placed 7th in the 10 and under boys backstroke.

Billy Carrigan competed in the 11 and 12 boys diving.

New films at the library

Many patrons of the Squamish Public Library may not realize that a number of sixteen millimeter films produced by the National Film Board are available for a very small fee.

During the summer Jan Clemson of the NFB made a trip to Squamish for the purpose of bringing some new films to those already on hand. The more popular ones in stock were kept while those which moved more slowly were taken to other B. C. centres providing this service for its residents.

Among the many new films the following should be of interest to our regular users or may appeal to citizens who would like to try these out.

YOU CAN GO A LONG WAY
In a light-hearted manner this film shows the vital need for education and training in our increasingly technological era. It points up the importance of trade school diploma or an apprenticeship card in finding a good job in our keenly competitive society.

SKY
This award-winning film depicts the sky for one complete day from a high point in the Rockies near the Alberta foothills. The angry gathering of thunderheads, the fitful shadow-play of clouds on sunlit peaks and the splendor of the dying sunset are caught by the camera with rare beauty.

THE BOY NEXT DOOR
French-speaking Jacques and English-speaking Jimmy live next door to one another; in spite of the language difference, they do not find it a handicap in daily activities. In their own way they overcome what to them is just an incidental barrier and soon try out each other's language.

KENOJAUKE - ESKIMO ARTIST
This is another award-winning film which presents the work of an Eskimo artist from West Baffin Island who is also a wife and a mother. Her designs of strange beauty are later transferred to stone cuts and so printed for sale to private collectors.

A Sale with a Reason . . . and Not Just an Excuse . . .

IT'S A BITTER PILL TO SWALLOW! But Here's the Low-Down. It nearly breaks our hearts to see our stocks of Quality Merchandise GO ON SALE at the ridiculously low prices you see advertised here! . . . But there's not much we can do about it for we have a serious inventory problem. WE'RE OVERSTOCKED with far too much merchandise for a store our size. We're NOT having financial difficulties—NOT TRYING TO RAISE cash—NOR are we in distress. We simply must dump Surplus Stocks at any cost to adjust our inventory. We have altogether too much of everything with a serious overstocked condition that is not healthy for any business. We're an aggressive firm, maintaining an enviable reputation and selling only the top brand name lines. But like all well-rated firms there comes a time when mistakes occur and adjustments are in order. That's why profit is not the object of this sale. DUMPING STOCKS—REDUCING INVENTORY and stimulating business is OUR ONLY REASON for this sudden and drastic move. We consider it good business to take our losses now—swallow our pride and admit our mistakes. Nothing wrong in that—is there? That's why we have ripped, cut and slashed prices in every department—why you can save 20%, 30%—yes, even 50%. So—come shed a tear with us while we bury our mistakes and take our losses.

AUGUST SETS RECORD HIGH

This year's record high temperature of 96 degrees was recorded on Tuesday, August 23rd. Cloudless skies and no wind combined to make the temperature hit this mark which was only exceeded in July of 1961 when 99 degrees was recorded.

On August 30th, the month's low temperature of 41 degrees was noted. Temperatures for the same month last year were 88 and 42 degrees.

Total rainfall for the month amounted to 1.76 inches, more than an inch less than August of last year and less than half the average for August.

Total recorded rainfall this year amounted to 30.49 inches, some seven inches less than the same time last year despite the fact that 1966 has been a much cooler year and seemed to be wetter than usual.

September temperatures will be cooler but this is consistently the loveliest month of the year with clear sunny weather and average temperatures.

Medallions for Canada's 100th Birthday in 1967

RCAF planes flying over Canada's isolated communities in the far north are going to be dropping some unusual cargo in the months ahead.

During the coming school year the planes will be making air-drops of bright new medallions, souvenirs of Canada's Centennial, to the school children of the north. Why air-drops? Well, some of those communities are so isolated there simply is no other way for deliveries to coincide with distribution of the medallions to the rest of Canada's school population in time for presentation in class rooms by June 1, 1967.

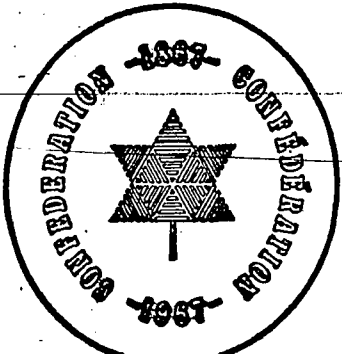

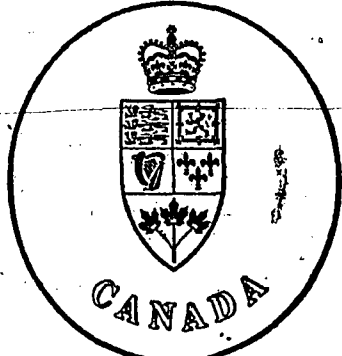

Six million of the Centennial medallions for school children are now being produced for the Centennial Commission by the Royal Canadian Mint at Ottawa. Each medallion, one inch and a quarter in diameter, will be packaged in a special envelope bearing the Centennial symbol on the outside.

The first delivery of medallions from the mint will be a special one—2,000 to the Centennial Commission at the end of September for the air-drop allotments. Then the mint will make direct shipments to all the provinces and territories by April 1, 1967. Departments of education will redistribute to all their schools for presentation toward the end of the school year.

For Indian children, attending federal schools, the mint will make direct shipments to those schools operated by the federal government. The Department of National Defence will distribute medallions to all Canadian school children at military bases overseas.

The medallion design, shown here, was recommended this past spring by a special advisory committee to the Centennial Commission. The choice of the design was made following a contest conducted last year among five experienced Canadian designers. Winner of the Commission's award for the obverse side of the medallion was Thomas Shingles of Victoria, B. C., and for the reverse side, Mrs. Dora de Pedery Hunt of Toronto, Ontario.

The medallions will be of lasting significance to all in the new generation. Perhaps they will be passed along from generation to generation of families and a number will appear again on the 200th anniversary of Confederation.

Power lines to cost $65,645

The Birken-Ratepayers Association are still very active in their fight to get the electric power extended into the Birken area.

A letter has been received from Mr. Horsey, Branch Manager of B. C. Hydro, containing an estimate of the cost of putting in the line. This estimate totalled $65,645.00 for a distance of six and one half miles.

Upon receipt of this estimate a very indignant meeting was held by the ratepayers planning further action in their campaign.

It was moved at the meeting that the members of the Ratepayers Association would prevent the B. C. Hydro from crossing their property in the survey and construction of the fourth power transmission line through the valley.

Two letters to date have been sent to Mr. Bennett requesting his review of the situation with carbon copies sent to Dr. Shrum of the B. C. Hydro.

These actions are being taken by the ratepayers, as they feel that the stalling of the B. C. Hydro in the construction of this line is extremely unfair and that their efforts are justified.

School District hosts new teaching staff

New members of the teaching staff of Howe Sound School District No. 48 (Howe Sound) were guests of honor at a buffet luncheon in the high school cafeteria on Thursday of last week.

The elementary teachers attended a briefing session in the morning, followed by the luncheon, and a similar session for the secondary school teachers was planned for the following day.

H. H. Bailey, chairman of the school board, welcomed the teachers and said he hoped they would be happy in their work.

Councillor A. W. Hendrickson, speaking on behalf of the municipality, said he felt they would add new lustre to the high standard of teachers in this school district.

District superintendent D. H. Campbell, spoke on the changes and revision in the curriculum, stating that he was pleased to see the greater emphasis being placed on vocational training.

He said he was sure a far greater proportion of students will be served by the pre-vocational courses than by the university program.

Post secondary training is another important facet of education and this district was working with those on the north shore and the peninsula for a regional college to serve the entire area," he said.

Mr. Campbell touched on the schools, in the system of classifying levels not grades, and the treatment of the superior immatures, who had always been a problem to teachers.

The increasing importance of science in the elementary grades was another encouraging sign.

But he said he was particularly pleased with the fact that we would be seeing a change in thinking when the academic program was no longer placed upon a pedestal. "This has been a condition which we have deplored," he said.

J. T. Croft, chairman of the Howe Sound Teachers' Association welcomed the new teachers and offered the services of his group. He commented on the excellent relationship between the board and the teachers.

Principals were invited to introduce their new staff members and two teachers, Miss Janet Brait and Miss Anne Morgan who were former pupils in this school district, were especially welcomed.

The bluebird symbol adopted by The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society has come to be known as the symbol of the fight against arthritis and of hope for its victims.

LARRY ECKARDT VISITS PEMBERTON

A capacity crowd turned out at two meetings in Pemberton and Mount Currie where Social Credit candidate Larry Eckardt spoke on his party's program and the improvements he would like to see in this district.

Jack Graham was chairman for the two meetings, one at Pemberton on August 26th and other at the Indian Community Hall in Mount Currie the preceding evening.

A lunch and social evening followed both meetings.

Predicts growth for Squamish

"In the next few years, the Squamish - Pemberton areas will experience a growth explosion greater than that experienced in any other part of British Columbia." This was the message carried by Larry Eckardt, Social Credit candidate in West Vancouver - Howe Sound, to the people of Squamish and Pemberton.

Moving through these areas in his mobile campaign headquarters, Eckardt pointed to the unexcelled industrial, recreational and residential potential of the Squamish and Pemberton Valleys.

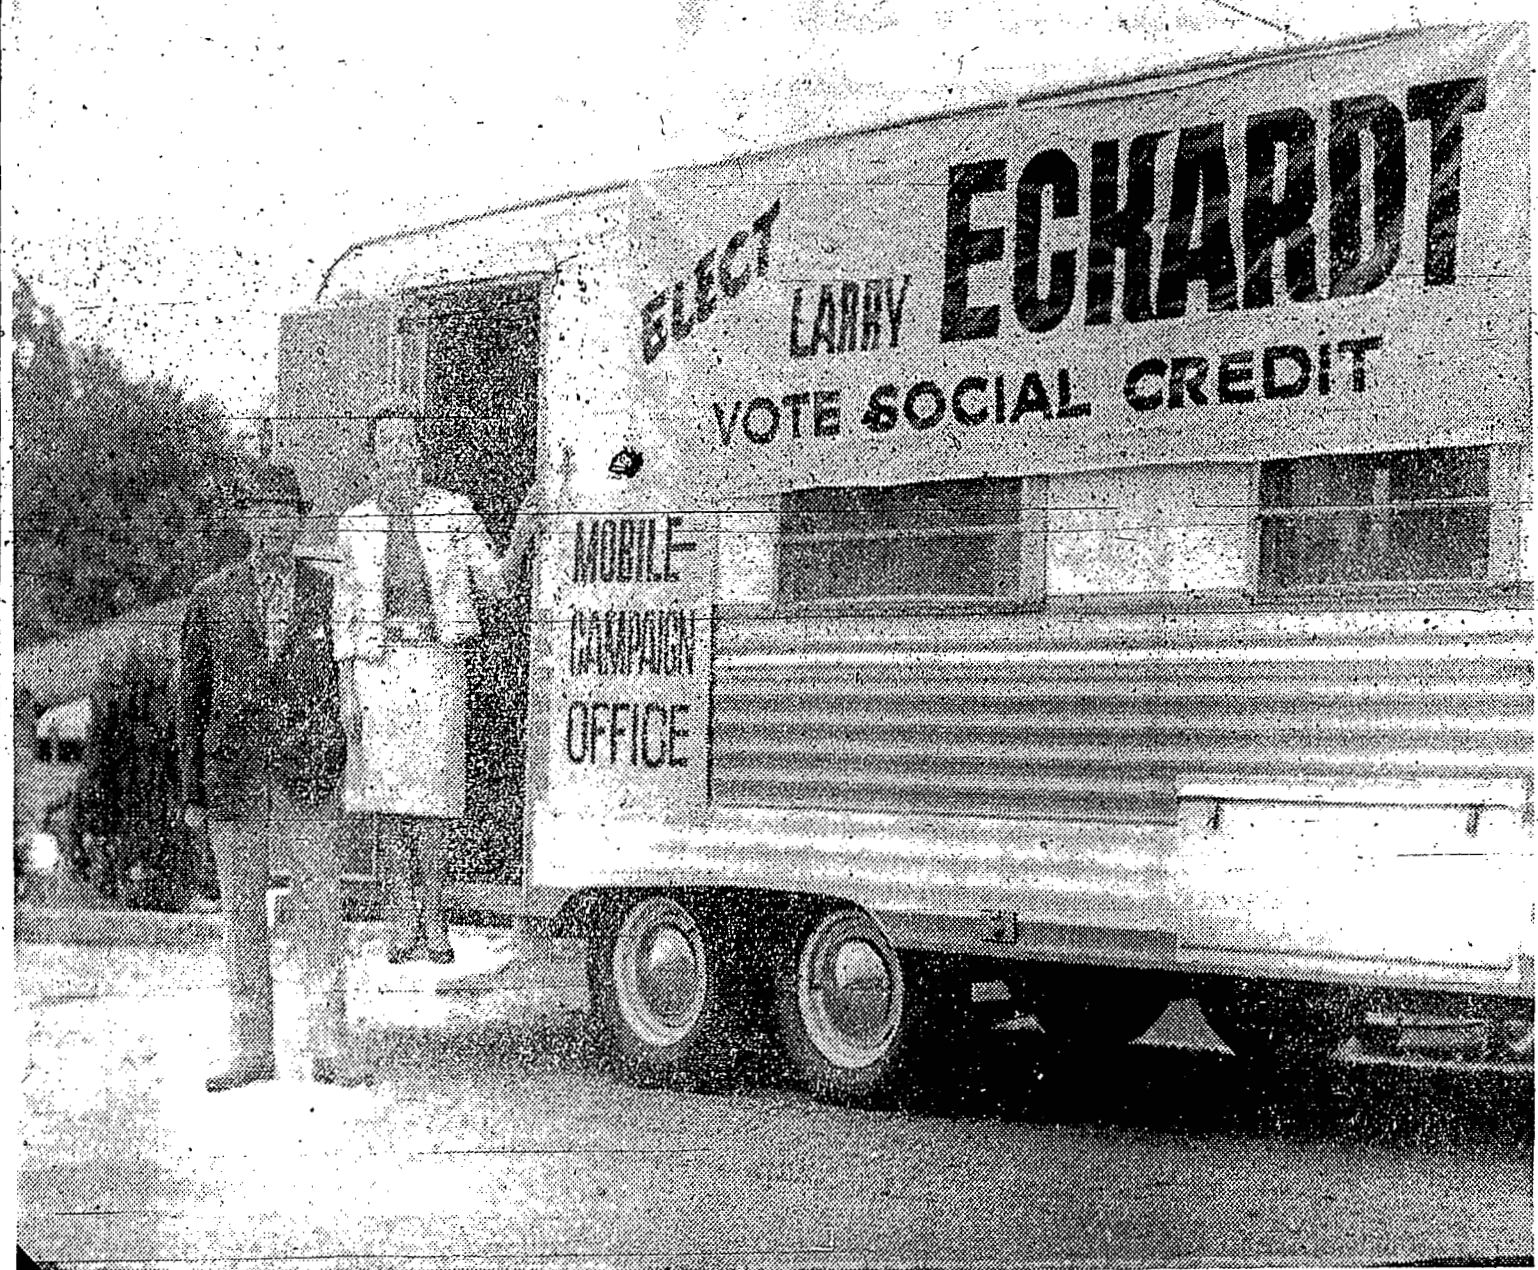

"With increased deep-sea facilities at Squamish," he said, "industries, not only forest industries but many other secondary industries, will build plants and bring increased employment to these areas."

He also pointed to the development of Garibaldi and other recreational facilities in the area and to the modern highways which are being built to give greater access to these facilities.

"One would be hard put," Eckardt stated, "to name any area in Canada which has so many attractions to both residential and industrial growth as Valleys."

"Your Social Credit government, which has done such a remarkable job of opening up the northern sections of this province," Eckardt forecast, "will do an even more remarkable job of attracting industries and people to the Squamish-Pemberton area."

Accompanying Eckardt on his campaign trail was his wife, Mary, who served coffee in the mobile campaign office.

WEST VANCOUVER-HOWE SOUND Social Credit candidate Larry Eckardt and his wife, Mary, are taking their campaign to the people of Squamish and Howe Sound by means of a mobile campaign office. This is the first time a mobile campaign headquarters has been used. "We've received a wonderful reception," Eckardt said. The main platform of Eckardt's campaign is strong representation in Victoria to get government action for the residents and industries of West Vancouver - Squamish - Howe Sound area, Eckardt has been giving special attention to the need for co-operation of government and industry in the area to eliminate air pollution.

South Park project proceeds as planned

Plans for the development of the South Park project in Valleycliffe will proceed as planned by the late Dan McNaughton despite his death.

A director of the company said work would continue as envisaged by Mr. McNaughton and the same policy would be observed.

The development has now completed 67 units which are occupied and should be fully completed by September 30th.

The swimming pool is now ready and in use and the black-topping has been done. Parking areas on the perimeter of the property have also been completed.

The park across the stream, on the west side of the property, which had been planned as an integral part of the Valleycliffe and South Park development, will be completed this fall following plans and preliminary work by the late Mr. McNaughton.

The new housing complex, almost fully occupied by newcomers, has helped alleviate the housing shortage in the valley and the fact that families are welcomed has made it more attractive.

Mr. McNaughton's keen interest in curling will be commemorated by the continuance of the McNaughton Trophy as one of the top prizes in the curling season.

Temperature hits 97 degrees

A near record high of 97 degrees was recorded on Tuesday, August 2nd to give Squamish its hottest August day in recent years.

It was two degrees lower than the hottest day in recent records, that of July 12th in 1961, a year which was noted for an unusually beautiful spell of warm summer weather.

Previous high for August was 91 on the 9th in 1962.

Tuesday's 97 degrees occurred when scorching heat was not accompanied by the wind usually experienced during the day when cooling breezes blow from the water.

By late afternoon the wind arose and the temperature cooled off.

An unusual sight was the high altitude wind which blew dust from the long ridge east of Garibaldi until the mountain was obscured by the dust clouds which veiled it.

At the same time there was no breath of air at sea level or in the town.

The European Common Market will be among the international bodies taking part at Expo 67.

Helicopter pad near hospital

The Squamish General Hospital Board of Trustees last week gave approval for the clearing of an area to the north of the hospital for use as a helicopter landing pad.

The approval was granted in response to a request from B. C. Hydro which will be building a power line along the west side of Howe Sound to serve the Powell River area.

This second power line will be built in extremely rugged territory and a crew of up to one hundred and twenty five men will be employed in building it.

All possible precautions for the safety of terrain will be taken but as it is feared some serious accidents could occur and as helicopters will be working on the project, this was felt to be the most efficient way of bringing injured workmen to the hospital.

It would be much more practical than landing in Squamish and transferring the injured person to an ambulance, then taking him to hospital.

Approval was granted provided it was at the company's own risk and was not a nuisance to the hospital.

Special mention should be made of Mrs. L. McCulloch who looked lovely in her authentic centennial dress.

Special equipment

Crank telephone calls now traced

The B.C. Telephone Company, which recently announced a stepped-up program against persons using the telephone to make annoyance and abusive calls, has tracked down the source of nuisance calls in three separate incidents during the last week.

The company reported today that two of the individuals confronted following investigations by the company have admitted responsibility for the calls involved.

In the third case, the suspected individual did not admit responsibility but the calls have stopped.

The company's success in tracing these annoyance calls was reported by R. J. McLuckie, B.C. Telephone's security officer, and J. D. Pearman, who heads a specially-trained group in the Lower Mainland assigned to deal with problems of annoyance telephone calls.

The two men said the telephone numbers from which the calls originated in the three cases mentioned above were traced with special equipment following complaints from customers who were the recipients of the calls.

Their statements came just 10 days after J. Ernest Richardson, company president and chief executive officer, announced the stepped-up program against annoyance calls.

Mr. Richardson said in his announcement that the company had increased its training programs for employees dealing with this problem and had added additional people with special skills to investigate all circumstances which appear to be serious.

Mr. McLuckie and Mr. Pearman said they could not disclose in detail the workings of the equipment employed in tracing nuisance calls.

They said, however, that the equipment is employed in exchange offices in conjunction with mechanical switching gear through which telephone calls are routed.

They emphasized that the equipment does not involve monitoring of any telephone calls.

OBSCENE CALLS FACE CHARGE

They said that in cases involving obscene telephone calls, the Criminal Code provides for penalties of up to six months imprisonment, $500 fine or both. In cases involving threatening telephone calls, the Code makes provision for even more serious penalties.

Mr. McLuckie and Mr. Pearman said the company's objective is to halt the calls and that this generally is accomplished when the caller has been stripped of anonymity.

They said one of the incidents described involved a teen-aged boy who said nothing when his calls were answered, but kept the line open and breathed into the telephone as long as the person at the other end was listening. The company "trapped" calls from the youth's home telephone after receiving a complaint from customers who said they had been bothered for three months. The boy's father was unaware of the calls but realized the seriousness of the offence when advised.

In the second case, a woman was calling a married man, then keeping his line tied up when he hung up. In the third, a woman was placing calls to another woman, then hanging up as soon as the call was answered.

The Soviet Union's pavilion at Expo 67 will have a 1,100-seat restaurant serving the popular dishes of its republics.
