PUBLIC RESPONDING TO TREE CHECK

M.N. "Tag" Neighbor, District Forest Ranger, says the public has been favorably responding to the checking of Christmas trees with very few trying to pass through without checking.

Those who have had trees have carried permits for them and the trees have been legal. He added that, to date, there has been no trouble.

On Wednesday morning of last week he was on "Open Line" a Vancouver radio station's open line program and was asked to explain the reasons behind the checking of trees and the ban on indiscriminate cutting in the Squamish area.

He said the interviewers were very understanding and their questions indicated they realized the gravity of the situation where more trees were cut last year than were planted by the Forest Service.

Mr. Neighbor suggested all those who purchase trees from the Boy Scouts, who will be selling them later this month, to be sure to obtain a receipt as this will have to be produced when they pass the checking station.

Vandals cause power outage

Irresponsible hunters are believed to have been the cause of the damage which resulted in a power outage on Tuesday when the Bridge River line from the Cheekye substation to Bridge River was closed for two hours.

R. E. Street, area representative for the company, said the line was closed while repairs were made in the Cheakamus Valley north of the Paradise Valley Resort where insulators were shot off a tower.

A complete string of insulators with the exception of two which is not enough to carry the load, were shot from one of the towers in the valley presumably over the weekend. The damage was discovered on Monday and the two hour outage was called on Tuesday while the line was repaired.

Mr. Street said the company's security men had found empty rifle and revolver shells in the vicinity of the tower and they were sure this was what had caused the damage.

A reward of two hundred and fifty dollars has been offered for information leading to the apprehension of the person or persons who caused the damage.

Hospital needs slightly lower

Revised figures for the proposed improvements and equipment for the Squamish General Hospital were presented to the board at its regular meeting last Thursday evening.

The overall figure to be raised in the district is now approximately $38,000 with BCFIS paying approximately $17,000. These figures include the x-ray machine, other equipment for the hospital, laundry and kitchen equipment, instruments for the doctors and the alterations to the laboratory, additional bathroom, electric dumbwaiter and other building improvements.

The board also authorized the purchase of a special battery to operate the standby lights in case of a power failure. This would guarantee lights if the operating room was in use when the power went off.

A. B. Mackenzie reported he was awaiting news from Victoria regarding the permission to hold the meetings to authorize increasing the mill rate. This would be done through a change in the letters patent for the hospital improvement district.

Meetings will be held in Squamish and Pemberton immediately after word has been obtained on these changes.

Discussion about an apartment for the nurses instead of a residence resulted in a decision to ask for a statement in writing regarding the proposal discussed by G. M. Behrner and South Park Developments.

Bear killed in district

A black bear was killed in the valley in the vicinity of Judd Road on Friday, November 4th.

The animal, which had been bothering residents in the area, upsetting garbage cans and wandering through yards, presumably after fruit from the orchards in the vicinity, was seen on the road about 8 p.m. by Mr. and Mrs. S. Dediuk.

They immediately reported it to the police and auxiliary policeman Elgin Tetachuk with his hound and Const. G. Polegi went after the animal.

The bear was found and shot a short time later.

Incidents with these animals annoying farmers and residents in the valley are quite common in the fall of the year.

KINDERGARTENS are in the news today and Lonny Wray is one of the children in the valley who enjoy attending their pre-school classes. A full page on kindergartens will be found on the second front page.

Many candidates bring fresh interest to election

Brennan elected by acclamation

The race for seats on council and the school board is on with three newcomers filing for three seats on council along with the three incumbents and three newcomers and one trustee seeking the two positions on the school board.

Reve P. J. Brennan was re-elected to a two year term by acclamation.

Brennan was first elected to council in 1960, serving as councillor for a two year term before being elected chairman in 1962. In 1965 he became the first reeve of the newly incorporated district, being elected by acclamation.

New candidates for council are F. W. Allott and Tony Halters, while Mrs. A. Makowichuk is making her second bid for a seat on the council.

Newcomers for the school board are W. T. Curran, E. J. Morgan and F. J. Mulhern.

Councillor A. W. Hendrickson, Dr. L. C. Kindree and Gray F. Mitchell are all seeking re-election for council.

Mrs. C. C. Marchant is seeking re-election to a two year term as school trustee.

F. W. Allott, in his first bid for council, brings many years of experience on the Credit Union and the Chamber of Commerce. He has been president of the Chamber for the past two years and is familiar with many of the problems confronting the community, and keenly interested in finding solutions for them.

Tony Halters, local florist and nurseryman, is a vice-president of the Fall Fair Association, and a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Farmer's Institute and Ratepayers' Association; secretary of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society and a vice-president of the Vancouver Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies.

He received his training in agriculture and horticulture in Holland and lived in Richmond prior to coming to Squamish two years ago.

Mrs. A. Makowichuk, making her second bid for council, is secretary of the Howe Sound Fall Fair, and the Ratepayers' Association and chairman of the tourist committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

W. Curran brings his experience as an officer of the Legion, Credit Union and union to his bid for school trustee. He is also a member of the St. John's Ambulance association and has taught first aid.

E. J. Morgan is a comparative newcomer to the valley, having recently come from the Pemberton area.

J. Mulhern is a long time resident of Squamish; three of his children have graduated from Howe Sound Secondary School and the others are still attending school here. His opinions on education should be valuable.

Seeking re-election for a two year term is Mrs. M. Marchant. In the past two years she has shown keen interest in the education picture in the district, with special stress on kindergartens and pre-school training.

Incumbent councillors seeking re-election all have served for more than one term. Dr. Kindree has completed ten years on the council of which he is the senior member and the expert on parks and playgrounds as well as finance.

A. W. Hendrickson, with four years experience, is active on

Brackendale concert

The Brackendale Elementary School will present their annual Christmas program the week before the holiday.

The concert will be held in the school auditorium on the evening of Wednesday, December 21st.

STUDENTS from Sir Winston Churchill school who visited Squamish recently on a Social Studies assignment were l. to r. Gwen Robbins, Brenda Williams, Ruth Heckling, Ben Goldberg, John McConachy, Cathy Dunn, Patrick Weitemeyer and Ske Hammond.

DOUG HORTH HURT IN WOODS ACCIDENT

Doug Horth a 23-year-old employee of H & W Logging Co. Ltd. of Squamish suffered facial injuries in a woods accident on Friday of last week.

Horth, who was employed on the rigging, was struck by a chunk of wood which flew up when they were tightening a guy line. The piece of wood hit his face causing the injuries.

He was taken to hospital in Squamish for preliminary treatment and then to hospital in Vancouver early this week.

Horth, who had been working for H & W for the past two months, grew up in the Squamish area and is very well known here, having worked for a number of companies in the valley.

Village Square to open soon

The new Rural Stores shopping complex in the Squamish Village Square is scheduled to open early this month. Some of the specialty shops will be opening before the bank which is reported to be the last to be finished.

Attractive gray brick is being used to face the buildings and the wide expanse of glass on both the parking area and the Second Ave portion of the building will add to its smart appearance.

Included in the new complex will be Olga's Style Shop, Andy's Barber Shop, Fenton Jewellers, Town and Country Shoes, Tots to Teens, R. S.

Bishop Realty, Classic Coiffures and the Royal Bank.

The stores hope to be in the new building well before the Christmas shopping goes into high gear and many of them have special merchandise on order for the holiday season.

The move will make some changes in the existing buildings now occupied by the firms which will be moving. Squamish Furniture will take over the former shoe shop, utilizing the entire building for their wares.

The Bishop Realty office has been sold to Squamish Construction and several other vacancies will be created by the move.

Birken residents seeking power

Residents of the Birken area, some eighty miles north of Squamish are still awaiting word from the B.C. Hydro regarding a power line to provide electricity for their area.

In 1963 they were promised power by the former member D. F. Robinson who said the matter was of "top priority."

Earlier this year a group of residents banded together to form a ratepayers association to ask the authority to provide power for their area. At present there is a line supplying residences some four and a half miles north of Birken.

In late August a letter was sent to the premier asking if anything was being done about the matter but to date no answer has been received.

Dr. Shrum replied to the query by stating that the request is being studied by the operations division which will make a report on the request.

Dr. Shrum's letter said that he believed the residents may have a good case for special consideration although the project will not be economical.

E. Samuelson of Birkenhead Lodge at Birken says he would like to enlarge his resort and build some modern cabins but cannot do this unless there is a source of power other than his present light plant.

"But you can't run fridges and electric stoves from a small plant," he said. "And to stay in business today you really have to offer these conveniences."

Mr. Samuelson said he was sure the lack of power had affected the sale of property in the district as many people are loath to build even a summer home in an area where there is no electric power.

"It is particularly galling," he said "to have three power lines coming through this narrow valley, with the prospect of a fourth one to come, and to be unable to use the power which passes overhead."

At present there are two high tension lines on the west side of the mile wide valley at Birken with a third one on the east side of the valley. The fourth, a line to carry power from the Peace River, is also expected to be coming through the valley.

Want junk cleaned up.

Residents in the Cheakamus Valley area of the district, north of the resort at Paradise Valley, recently protested to council concerning the junk along the road near property owned by W. Derhousoff.

Residents complained this has created an unsightly mess and is also a hazard to motorists in the area with much of the material spilling out of his property onto the road allowance.

Mr. Derhousoff was ordered to build a fence around his property and to keep all material behind this fence but to date this has not been done.

He had been ordered to move from the property in the vicinity of the Mamquam Store earlier because of the unsightly condition of his site and the material which lay in piles upon it.

Failure to comply with the order would result in municipal crews cleaning up the mess and billing the property owner for the work involved.

Driver hurt in highway crash

Thomas George Carney of Pemberton was taken to Lions Gate Hospital after being treated at Squamish General Hospital on Friday morning for injuries sustained when his car hit a rock wall on the Pemberton Highway.

Mr. Carney was northbound on Highway 99 near Garibaldi station when he failed to negotiate a right hand curve. He left the edge of the highway hitting a rock.

Mr. Carney suffered a broken nose, lacerations and possible internal injuries.

The vehicle was totally demolished.

New Health Unit director named

Dr. P. J. Reynolds has been appointed director of the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit, replacing Dr. A. J. Cunningham who has gone into private practice in Powell River.

Dr. Reynolds visited the Squamish area last week and toured all the district schools with the Public Health Nurse Mrs. Horne.

Dr. Reynolds is just out from England, from Whitfield in Yorkshire and is making his home in Powell River.

He is 43 years of age, married, with twin sons aged three years and an eighteen month old daughter.

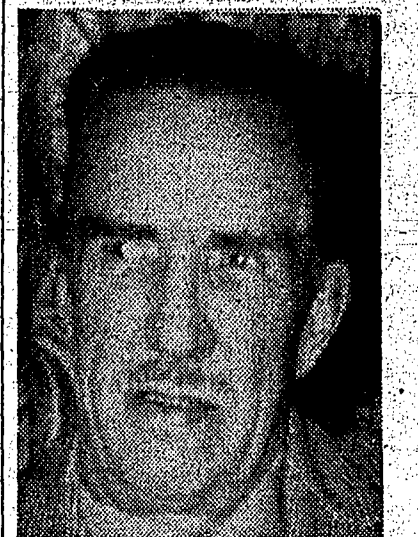

Dr. Reynolds says he has found western Canada very interesting and is sure he will like the country.

the public utilities committee and also on public works.

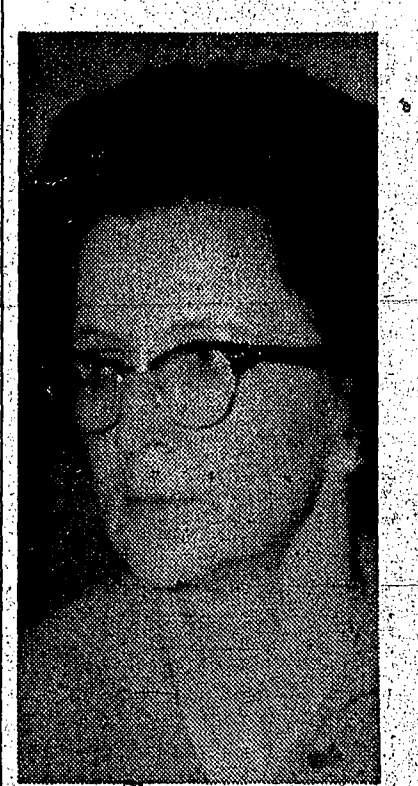

Gray F. Mitchell, a councillor for the past three years, is on the fire committee and the council representative to the re-creation commission.

Headlightless valley

Some years ago a valley in northern British Columbia achieved some notoriety as a "headless valley" where strange corpses were found without heads.

The Squamish valley enjoys an even more unique distinction. It should be known as "headlightless valley" because of the number of vehicles seen upon the roads with only one headlight.

Without exaggeration, one cannot drive the valley roads at night without being amazed at the number of vehicles seen in this condition. In the space of less than half an hour, on a drive to Brackendale and back one weekday evening at approximately 5 p.m., seven vehicles were met with only one headlight.

Some of them also had one or more missing tail-lights.

In most cases the missing light was on the off side of the car but in the instances in which it was on the driver's side, it was a hazardous condition as oncoming vehicles are not just sure where it is situated.

These dark winter evenings, often with driving rainstorms, are dangerous enough without the added hazard of missing lights.

Perhaps a little stricter regulations and more care on the part of motorists would rectify this situation.

It would be a tragedy if a headlightless vehicle created a headless driver!

A right to be annoyed

Residents in the district between Squamish and D'Arcy who do not have electric power have a right to be annoyed at the lack of B.C. Hydro power lines to serve their small communities.

Granted places like Garibaldi, Brandywine Falls and Birken are small, with only a very scattered number of residents, but it still must be a continual source of annoyance to see the power lines overhead and be unable to use the electricity they carry.

Residents in the upper Squamish valley were in the same position until a few weeks ago when power first came to their district.

Latest to complain is Birken and their case is just one of many. Power is only four and one-half miles away and while installing a line to serve the residents would be costly, it would be beneficial in developing the area.

It has been our observation that electricity is one of the greatest inducements for persuading people to settle in a community. Especially if it hopes to be a resort area.

Today the trend is towards power in the summer or winter home. It solves the heating problem, as well as lights and is often a help in providing the water for a cottage.

People, today, don't want to spend their holidays chopping wood and packing water. They prefer to have electricity run the furnace and pump the water and of course do the cooking and washing. They're a holiday for mother as well as the rest of the family.

Certainly people at Garibaldi, Brandywine and Birken, and in the areas between must be annoyed when they see all the power sizzling along the lines above them and have to bring out the coal oil or gas lamp and use archaic appliances.

The possibility of another power line to be added to those already in the district must make them wish there was some way of refusing to permit them to come through our valleys unless they provided the power they carry over it.

It might make the property owners feel a little more reconciled to the power lines if they realized they were getting some benefit from them.

Congratulations Squamish

Squamish deserves a bouquet of orchids for supporting the film "Four Faces of Garibaldi" which was shown here on Saturday, Nov. 19th.

Many residents of Alta Lake and Garibaldi, including spots between also came down to see the film which was made in their own back yard.

Orchids too, to the Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the show which drew a crowd of over four hundred, filling the high school gymnasium.

A turnout like this shows the interest of the community when something worthwhile is offered and will perhaps encourage the Chamber, or other groups, to bring additional entertainment features to Squamish.

Perhaps it will also create a greater interest in cultural and other activities and more can be sponsored if the general public will show that it is willing to come out and support them.

Comments from the audience ranged from excellent to superb and it was particularly gratifying to see the number of children who attended with their parents. Indeed in many cases it was a family evening with father and mother and the children all enjoying it.

It would be interesting to see how many of the people who saw the show and who have never visited the park will do so next year.

Congratulations Squamish, and also to the Chamber of Commerce.

Once again

Out come the statistics again. Nearly 5,000 Canadians will die in automobile accidents this year and this upcoming long weekend will be a leading contributor.

Do you want to live? Here briefly are a few driving hints which will help you to come home alive.

Excessive speed is dangerous especially ally if the family buggy is not in good mechanical condition.

Avoid driving when over-tired so have a "coffee break" during a long trip.

Drive "defensively" so that you are prepared to avoid the other driver who makes a mistake.

Have a happy weekend and bring 'em back alive.

Sartorial comment for the male

The cost of suiting out the men and boys of the Howe Sound area may most more in 1967 — if not before the end of this year.

Major garment companies talk of increases, as much as five per cent, as a result of increased labor and material costs. Increases may show up in other male apparel prices, too.

So, as the Madison Avenue copy writers would say, "To Look Sharp, Be Sharp." Buy now or pay extra for your investments next year.

Is neatness a virtue?

The once-a-week North Shore gardener said he didn't want the job of raking and clipping because there was too much work, too many curves, too many free-standing shrubs that couldn't be levelled off with an electric hedge clipper, too many natural plantings that would not respond to techniques of the assembly-line.

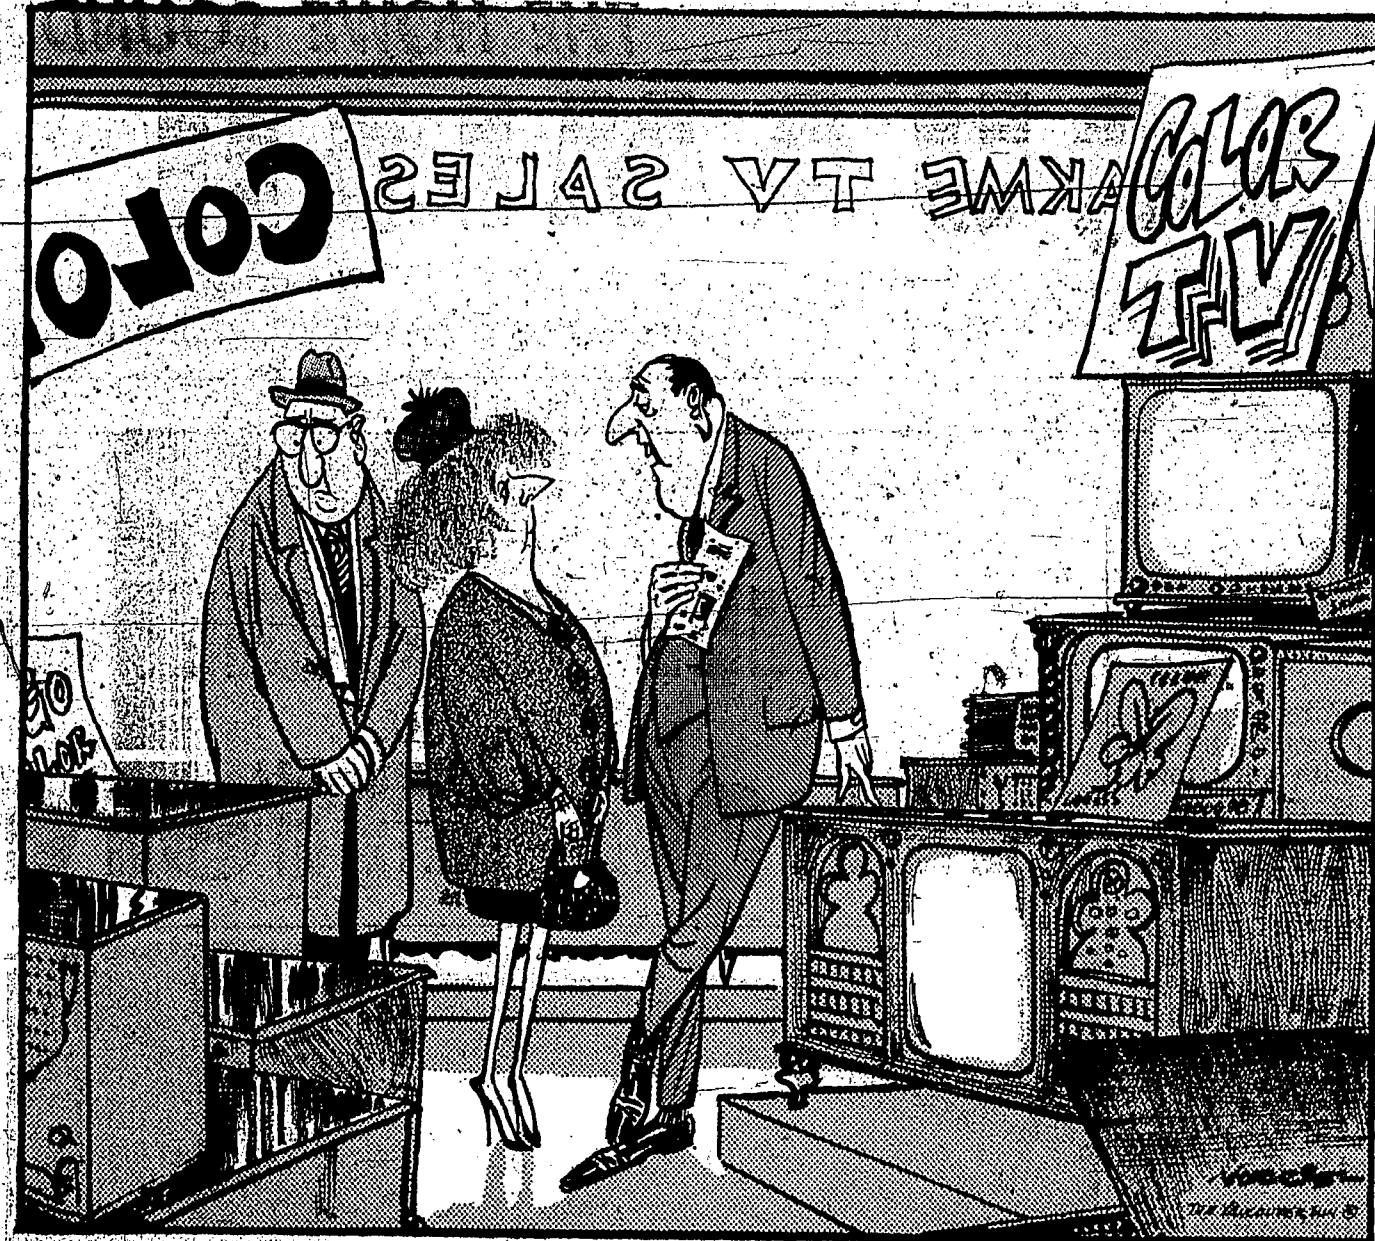

His is an old-fashioned garden and has no place in the whirlwind profession of lawn and garden care.

Garden services have introduced a kind of perfection to the gardens of West Vancouver and Capilano. No blurred edges are allowed to the garden barbered on-a-contract basis.

Those of us who garden for pleasure in the clutches of the experts (who rarely are) need to be strong-minded individualists. Otherwise we would spend so much time on geometry that we'd never settle down next to an unburned pile of autumn-foliage for some small talk with the neighbors.

Neatness is not always a virtue but sometimes beauty (of nature left free) is a luxury not to be afforded by the North Shore suburbanite.

"A word of caution... The hockey season is just starting... can you stand the sight of blood?"

HOWE SOUNDINGS

I noticed they are teaching safety in kindergarten. Red, yellow and green lights are shown with a little verse saying "Red means stop, yellow says no, wait for the green and then you go."

That's teaching them early. A kindergarten is a fascinating place. The children are so engrossed in their work they scarcely notice you but work away busily at their painting or modelling.

Shapes and forms offer a challenge and they enjoy placing the correct shape in the place allotted for it. Others are busy pasting and still others do work sheets.

Visual aids are used in teaching here. Numbers are illustrated by the same number of items; one horse, three goats, six squirrels, and so on. Plants are growing to show how they change; letters are illustrated by an item beginning with the letter; such as 'a' for apple.

It's not just a play school. The children learn to get along with others and when the year is completed they are in a sense prepared to enter Grade One with no fear of what the school year will bring. School is a familiar place and they do not have a long adjustment period to face.

Children today floor me. Just like the youngster who came home and told her mother she was having a test which was going to deal with hibernation, estivation and a number of other subjects.

Mother had to get out the dictionary to find out what estivation meant and when she did find out, wanted to know how many youngsters of that age fooled their parents on that one. Do you know what it means?

Did you hear about the little five year who was going into hospital to have his tonsils out and was quite cheerful about the whole performance. His parents had explained the procedure to him and his sister, who had the operation several years ago, was also telling him what would happen.

"They give you a shot in your room," she said and he interjected that he didn't mind shots. "And then they wheel you down the hall. A doctor puts a cone on your face and tells you to count to ten"

"Do you have to count to ten," he asked.

"Not always," she explained. "I only got as far as five and then I fell asleep."

"Thank goodness," he said. "Cause when I get past ten I get all mixed up!"

One dividend from the winter months is the spectacular sunsets we sometimes see. Recently I was returning home in the late afternoon and took the old Marine Drive road through West Vancouver.

The sun was just setting and there was a bright path of light across the water. The island mountains were silhouetted against the brilliant sky and tiny gleaming clouds like curled golden feathers floated above them.

Higher in the sky, a wide band of cloud, smoky grey above and undershot with rose seemed to put a damper on the dying day.

As I proceeded northward, along the Sound the sunset fires continued to burn, finally dying away in pale lemon yellow ambers.

The water, a deep slaty grey, reflected the glowing colors until only a band of brilliant color lay between the clouds and the mountains.

Orchids to Franz Wilhelmson of Garibaldi Lifts Ltd., for the attractive crest in the shape of a G with a mountain peak enclosed which is used as the insignia for his firm, and is worn by all his employees.

It's a most attractive crest!

An interesting item arrived in the mail recently. It was a copy of the Brackendale Bugle and attached to it was a note saying, "We thought you might like to see your competition."

I loved it. The little mimeographed sheet contains a list of interesting items, ranging from new teachers and pupils to their lunchroom and a portion of it is devoted to stories and poetry written by the children. From time to time we shall use certain items and doubtless you will find them as interesting as we did.

Some comments on kindergartens

"Putting kindergartens into the schools is a wonderful step forward and our School Board deserves a pat on the back for their progressive ideas and concern for every child in the community.

As taxpayers it is our privilege to vote, as citizens it is our duty to be concerned about our youth of today and tomorrow. Let's all get out and help our youth start off on the right foot and keep kindergartens in our schools.

It's too bad it's not compulsory. Sharon Angell.

It is fine. They have to learn to get along with other children and this is the place to do it. They also learn to cope with other children. Mrs. K. Larsen.

I'm certainly all for it. A child at this age is ready for something more than parent supervision and this certainly prepares them. Mrs. A. Lloyd.

I think it's great. It's going to make it much easier on the teachers next year. It's nice that it is in the schools so everyone has a chance to go. Mrs. H. Halvorson.

I'm definitely for it. It helps the children to adjust to large groups.

Mrs. R. Woolley. I think it's a very good idea, especially being in the schools.

Mrs. Don Behrner. I think it's a wonderful idea and I'm pleased to be able to send my child. Mrs. J. Sanderson.

I think we're very lucky to have such a qualified teacher. I think it's great. Mrs. D. Stewart.

It's better than it was before, being in the schools is very good. Mr. D. Turnquist.

A necessary social adjustment for five year old children. Mrs. R. McKilligan. I'm very happy with it and the children are certainly enjoying it. Mrs. A. E. Bird.

Kindergartens are a good idea. It's going to make next year much easier as the children have been given some enthusiasm. Mrs. D. Brock.

I certainly think that any social activity with pre-school children is important; to be supervised by another adult other than their parents is good. When the child starts Grade One he has adjusted to school discipline and other social problems. Mrs. N. Barr.

I'm certainly all for it. It's definitely not a play school like so many people think it is.

It certainly is essential and helpful to the pupils. Mrs. V. Bochko.

Ed. Note: The above comments came from parents who have had experience with kindergartens and who wished to express their opinions concerning the matter which will be the basis of a referendum on December 10th.

Short history of the kindergarten

by CARL P. GIMSE

Friedrich Froebel (Froebel), the German founder of the kindergarten (garden of children) was born 1782 in the Thuringian village of Oberweissbach, where his father was a pastor.

He tried various kinds of employment, until he met with Anton Gruner, head of a Frankfurt am Main model school, who convinced him of his vocation as a teacher. He stayed 2 years with Gruner, then he went to Switzerland, where he learned much from the famous educationist and humanitarian Pestalozzi.

Froebel was invited by the Swiss government to train elementary teachers and was also head of an orphan asylum at Bergdorf in Switzerland. His work here impressed him with the importance of the early stage of education. On returning to Germany in 1837 he opened his kindergarten (garden of children) in the village of Blankenburg in Thuringia. The experiment attracted widespread interest and other kindergartens were started. Froebel believed in self-activity as an essential factor of play in child-education.

The first kindergarten in London was opened in 1853, where it was called "Infant School". Charles Dickens visited the school and wrote a sympathetic account of its work. The kindergarten system had early success also in the U.S. where John Dewey adopted Froebel's principles in his "Experimental School" at the University of Chicago.

Much has been written about the qualifications for the teachers of these Infant Schools, as their success will greatly depend on them. All seem to agree that a gentle affectionate disposition is a must.

As we know, the original German name for the institution, "Kindergarten", has been preserved on this continent, except in the province of Quebec. In Montreal we will see the sign: Jardin des Enfants printed in big white letters on houses in several parts of the city. All the European countries also adopted Froebel's system but translated the name to their own language.

But as the tendency in this country has been for the population to cluster together in big cities, the original "Gardens of Children" will not be seen with the "out-of-door" setting in the summertime. For this reason the name "Infant School" would seem to be the logical name for the popular institution. That was also the name Grace and Robert Owen in Scotland and Margaret McMillan in London used, when they in 1916 opened this kind of school.

The infant school institution is now an integral part of the systems of education in the western world.

Ottawa Diary

DEFENCE MINISTER PAUL

Hellyer has described the Government's new legislation to integrate Canada's Armed Forces as a measure which will "establish Canada as the unquestionable leader in the field of military organization". This statement was met with howls of derision from the Opposition Benches. It is also being hotly debated in defence circles across the country.

Having served with the RCAF during World II I will be sorry to see its blue uniform disappear. Switching over to the Army rank structure, from private up to general, however doesn't bother me very much. Nor am I unduly concerned about the fate of many of our naval officers when I find that they will keep their present rank designations as long as they continue to serve with the Forces.

I am sorry to see the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Navy lose their identification. They will become the air and the sea arms of a single, integrated service. The title Royal, however, is to be retained "for one or more of the new branches of the service". Also the designation, Her Majesty's Canadian Ship (H.M.C.S.) will continue to appear on all our naval vessels.

THESE, OF COURSE, ARE only details. They are details of organization. But details or not they tend to obscure the future role, or roles, which Canada's future Armed Forces will be called upon to perform.

Canada's role in respect to defence is, of course, only one facet of a broader policy having to do with external affairs. The role which we play in the international community of nations, in other words, is much broader than that of defence. And there is the matter of finances. The Canadian public does not want us to spend a growing proportion of our national income on defence. We cannot afford it. Even the United Kingdom is having difficulty on this score. Not only is it reducing its commitments in the Far East but the UK is also cutting back on its contribution to NATO as well.

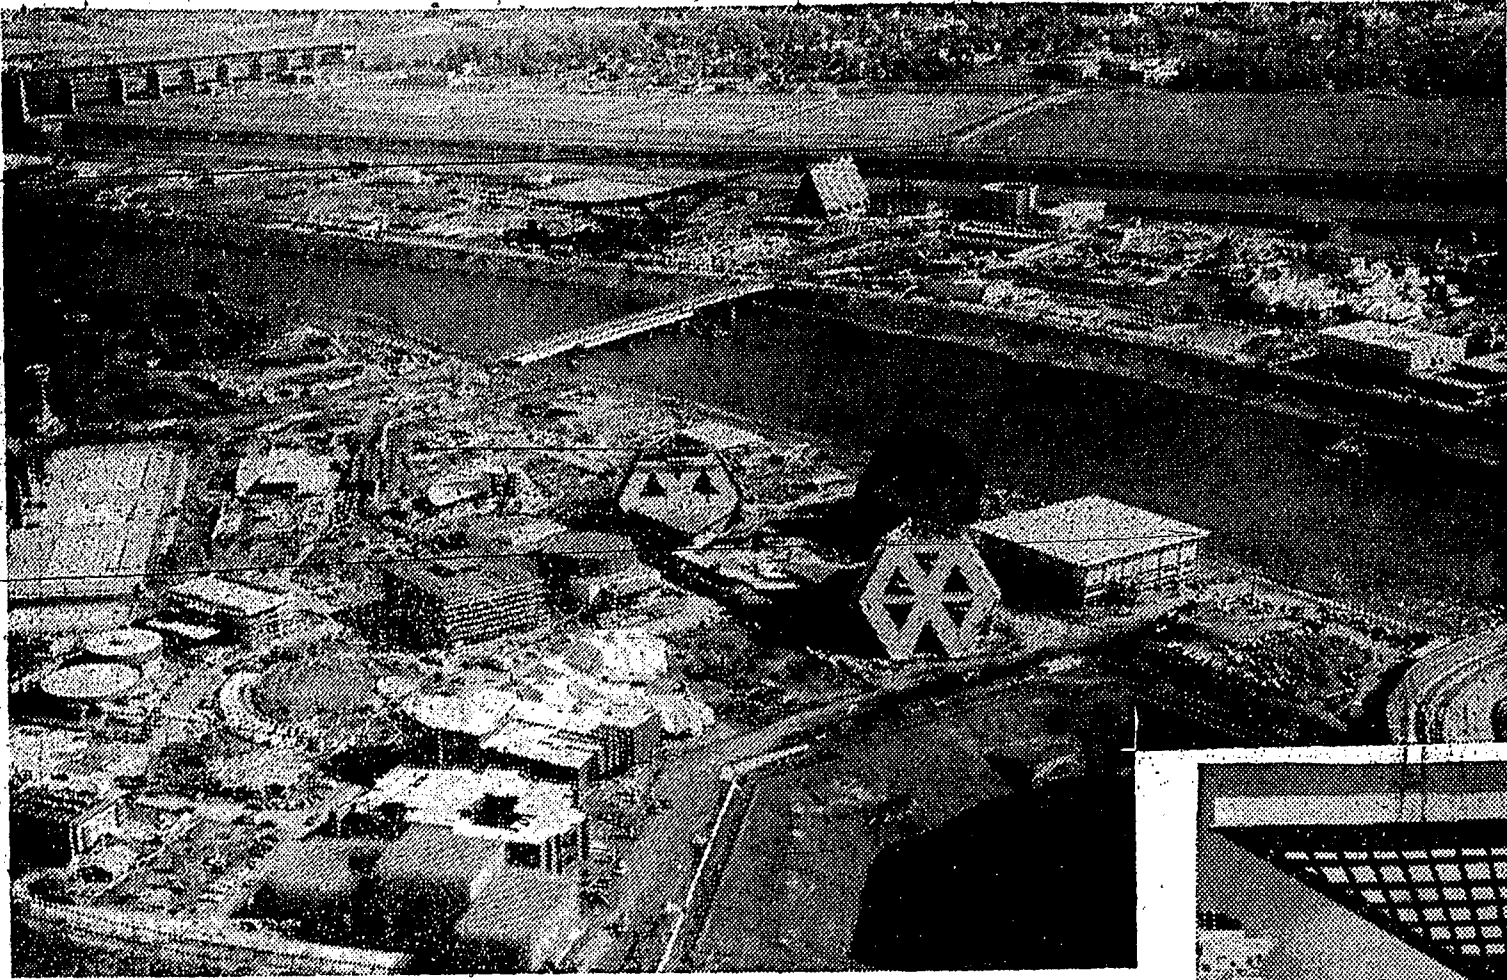

CANADA, WITH AN EYE TO economy on the one hand, and a desire to tidy up its international commitments on the other, has decided to specialize. It has decided to man and equip a modern mobile force — one which can operate promptly and effectively on the land, on the sea and in the air.

With such a force we can perform a peace-keeping role in support of the United Nations. We can also make an effective contribution to NATO. Incidentally our participation in a small scale (or "brush-fire") war would probably require our air and naval units to come in in support of our Army. Most RCAF officers appear to have come to terms with this idea. Some of the senior personnel in Canada's navy, obviously, have not.

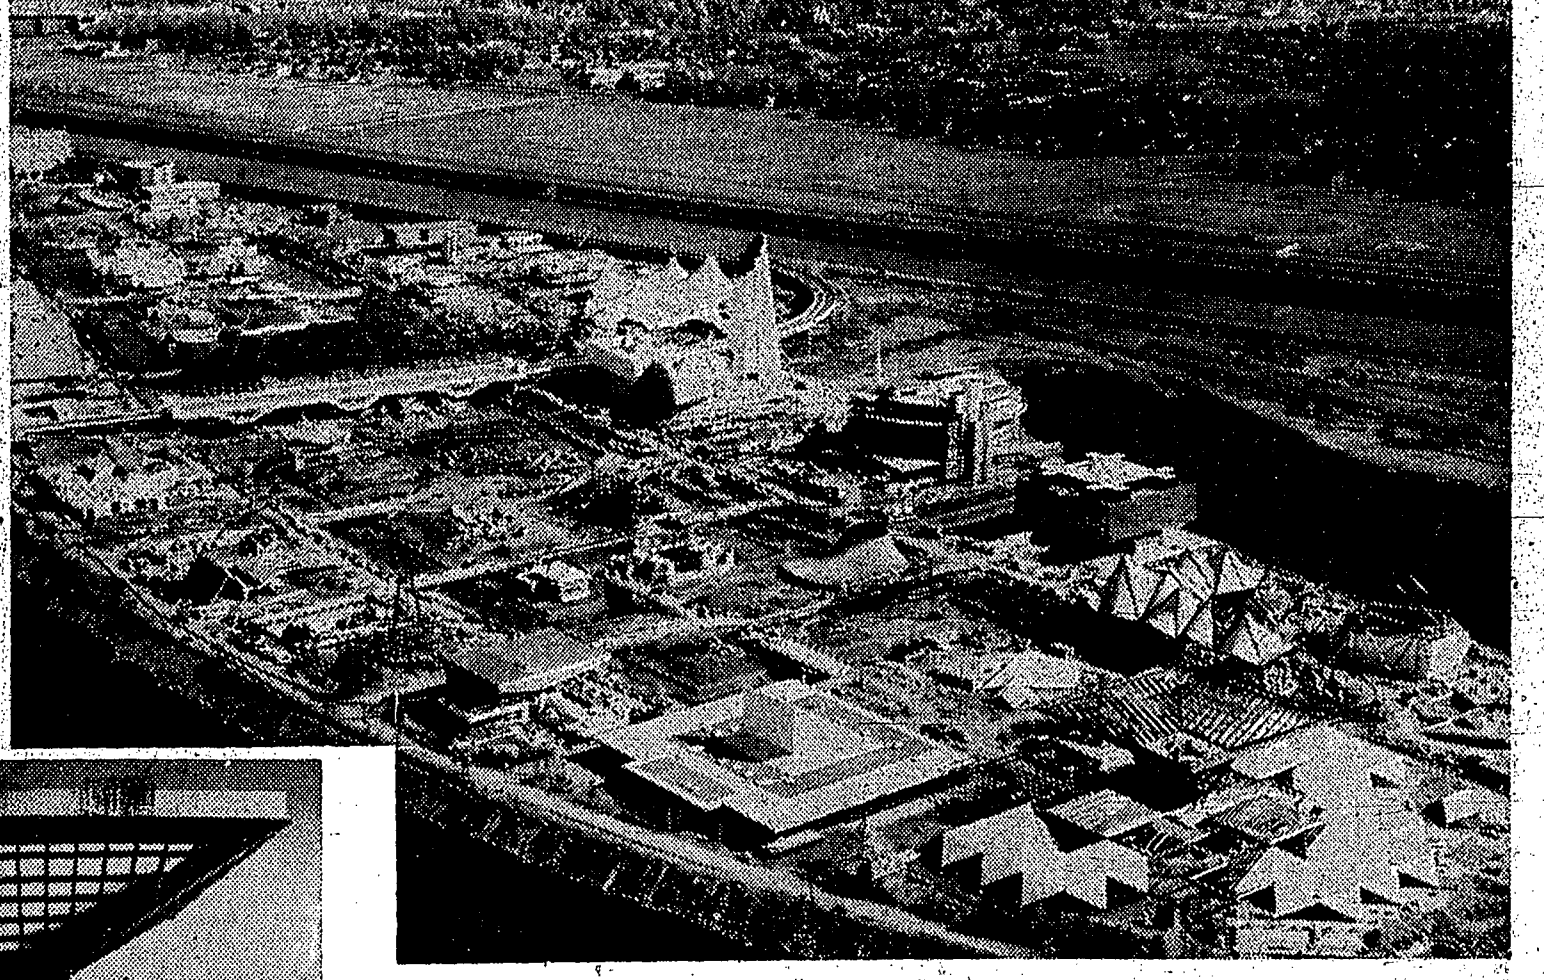

That is the nub of the matter. Not uniforms, not rank designations, not even the use of the word Royal, however, is fundamental to our future role in respect to defence. Instead it is the strategic concept of how the various arms of our armed forces can best cooperate in carrying out the tasks which Ottawa asks them to perform. What these tasks are and how they can best be carried out are the real subjects which we should be debating in Parliament.

I personally believe that a fully integrated and highly trained mobile force is the most effective contribution which Canada can make to the United Nations and to NATO. Others may disagree. But these are the issues which I would like to see us concentrate on. They are much more important than whether or not our navy's future walking-out uniform will look like that of the U.S. Marines or that of a Royal Air Force officer at the end of World War II.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA: Tiny country, big ideas

by LOUISE SPRATLEY
Editor, Lions Gate Times

CZECH GLASSWARE BEING SHAPED

ONE OF MOVABLE CARVED WOODEN FIGURES OF NATIVITY SCENE

Pavilions on the island site of EXPO may look like a weird and wonderful collection of concrete, wood and steel, but in reality they are the hopes and dreams of their architects.

These are the men who had to draw on the deepest source of their talents to create a work of art that would stand the competition of 71 neighbors.

A visitor is aware of this competition as he drives over the site. You feel the jockeying for prestige in this staging of a world's advances in architectural science and the material pleasures of life.

The first glimpse of the islands is dramatic and exhilarating.

The route passes the huge temporary automotive stadium sponsored by six leading car manufacturers in North America. These giant companies had to be content with a modest name plaque on the sports auditorium wall because there are no commercial exhibits allowed at this Fair.

The entrance gates, white witches' hats on steel broomsticks, is only a prelude of what is to come.

Our pavilion tall and proud

My heart soared as Canada's pavilions stood tall and proud among the world entries. But later I almost fainted as I discovered the happenstance that accompanied our final design.

Apparently it took the designers five months to find an impressive focal point for the pavilion, and it came from the hands of a charwoman.

After cleaning a large green office ashtray, she left it atop the maquette of the pavilion. Someone saw it, gave a cry of joy and Katimavik was born.

The top of Katimavik — an Eskimo word meaning meeting place — is a full acre and will be used as a terrace. Directly below will be the drum-shaped cinema where viewers will be rotated through six screening rooms without leaving their seats.

Half of the exhibits in the Canadian pavilion are under the 14 pyramidal roofs clustered around Katimavik.

These will include a children's creative center, art gallery, theatre, library, photographic essay and a two-headed monster which will rise, breathing fire and smoke, while water drips from his rusty scales.

Standing like a vertical exhibition hall is the famous maple tree, or "peoples" tree, as it is called.

It is six storeys high and 500 nylon leaves, five feet long and three feet wide, will carry pictures of Canadian life and the public will walk up the leaves as on a ramp.

Two giant pavilions that are creating enormous interest, even in their unfinished state, are the Russian and American buildings.

They make a dramatic pair, huge unusual forms nodding to each other across the Leymoyne channel.

U.S. entry visual joy

The connecting bridge has already been renamed "cosmos" and an astronaut from the United States and Russian space flights will meet on the center of the bridge in a special ceremony next year.

The American structure is a visual delight by day and unbelievable at night. The sun glimmers off the steel mesh and at night the geodesic skybreak blazes like a beacon through the translucent plastic skin which lines the frame.

This building will cost $10 million and the projected 1970 Apollo flight is the highlight.

Visual displays of simulated lunar conditions have been installed and actual equipment manufactured for the flight will be shown.

Other features include a fine arts exhibition; new technology displays such as new computer techniques and breakthroughs in the fields of communication and transportation; documents depicting the American heritage; creative film showing all kinds of creative Americans in action and a special events theatre where there will be a variety of "live" Americans in action.

The Soviet Union's pavilion is higher and broods over the largest lot on the site.

It also cost more, $15 million, making it second after Canada.

It is distinctive and almost awesome in structure. Like Russia, everything is overscaled or underscaled. The steeply rising gargantuan roof rests on two V-shaped supports. Then to give an almost shocking change of pace, there are no supports on the line of facade. This combined with the large panels of glass, steep curves of the upper level, and light effects creates an astonishing sense of lightness.

The pavilion is a two-story affair, the first floor holding terraces, an exhibit hall, a motion picture theatre with wide screen facilities for films and fashion shows and a restaurant.

The second floor is raised at a height of 28 feet above ground level and is walled with glass panels suspended from the ceiling.

Comos exhibit for Russians

This floor contains the main exhibit area and two mezzanines, the second of which will display the special "Cosmos Exhibit."

My eyes wide with the visual impact of these giants and my head reeling with total costs, I was not prepared to find a tiny nation had muscled in on the two leaders with a budget larger than the Americans and just under that of Russia — Czechoslovakia, $14 million.

Fairy story of Expo '67

Here is the fairy story of EXPO.

Czechoslovakia, democratic by tradition, communist by absorption and recently treading a modified socialist path in the shadow of the hammer and sickle, is using EXPO to tell her story.

She is making a frank bid to repeat her triumph at the Brussels World Fair where she won the Gold Medal for the best pavilion. But more important, she will be telling the world she is geared to go into the market with her world-famous industrial products and luxury goods — leather, glass, crystal and jewelry.

Specifically she is out to improve her trade with Canada because she is a heavy-industrialized country lacking raw materials and fuel. Right now the trade balance runs about two to one in Canada's favor.

I sought out John van der Feyst of the Montreal firm representing this tiny country, about the size of New York state. His enthusiasm was contagious.

I was caught up in the story of a country whose press and TV lineage on EXPO already exceeds that of Canada's; whose 100,000 school children are making gifts to be presented to school children in Montreal, and whose officials have set up a national EXPO lottery with the grand prize a trip to Montreal next year plus $14,000.

I would venture the Czechoslovaks are better informed on EXPO than the residents of British Columbia.

The pavilion won a national design competition. It is made of bolted, hollow brick panels enclosed on the ground floor with suspended glass. The upper floor has a curtain wall made of glazed ceramic panels which hook to steel channels.

The restaurant building has three stories and connects to the pavilion via a roof terrace where a deluxe restaurant will be located.

There are four restaurants, including an old-style Prague hall serving Pilsen beer and one featuring Slovak wines and a snack bar.

Slovak style restaurant

There is another display over on the Ile Ronde amusement area — Slovak-style Shepherd's Inn where Slovak chefs will prepare food over a gigantic barbecue in the center of the room and customers will eat trout, lamb and sausages with their fingers and drink Slovak wine.

Next door will be a $300,000 theatre called the Magic Lantern to stage shows and ballets.

It is in the pavilion that the glory of Czechoslovakia's past will be shown with a display of 2,000 priceless treasures in the Hall of Centuries.

There will be the Romanesque murals of the Premysl State in the 11th century through the years of the Bohemian kings and a replica of the famous crown of St. Wenceslas.

Historical glassware will be shown and creations by contemporary masters such as Matura, and art treasures from the National Jewish museum of the country.

Jewish relics saved in war

This includes Torah curtains, mantles and shields dating from the earliest days of the Jewish ghetto in Prague.

While 77,000 Jews lost their lives in the Nazi occupation, their treasures were saved and form the largest collection of Jewish cultural objects in the world.

One of the most unusual exhibits in the pavilion is the large Nativity scene which took 40 years to complete.

Josef Provost, a simple farmer, carved it with the help of a friend and it contains 2,000 figures, many of them moving. The scene measures 24 feet by ten feet and is one of the highlights of the Children's World exhibit.

The other is the fairy tales created in three dimensions by Czechoslovakia's national artist Jiri Trnka.

The scientific wonders of the country and how its people live will be shown on a novel slide presentation.

Moveable transparent cubes each containing two projectors with sound and light will be used.

For each minute of the show, 6,000 slides are needed and special music had to be composed to synchronize to commands.

Czechoslovakia could not send one of its 2,000 picturesque castles to EXPO. It would have liked to. Instead it settled for a Castle Restaurant.

Here will be a replica of all the traditional legacy of their kings. And hanging on the walls along with ancient works of art, the famous wool paintings, the mark of the imaginative artists of today.

Visitors will be served by an army of top restaurant professionals, flown in with the country's distinctive food to create the gourmet menu.

Genuine, pure, Pilsen beer, anyone?

Squamish to Boundary Bay

M. P. suggests overall port authority area

Creation of a regional port authority for the lower mainland has been suggested by federal M.P. Jack Davis.

The new port authority would cover the waterfront area from Squamish to Boundary Bay including the Fraser River.

A step has already been taken in this direction when the Vancouver port limits were extended from 49 square miles to 193 square miles, stretching from Point Atkinson southwards to Boundary Bay and including the seaward limits of the Fraser River.

Areas administered by the Fraser River Harbors Commission which includes New Westminster and the North Fraser Harbors Commission are not included in this agreement.

The Port of Vancouver Development Committee, which was set up under the auspices of the National Harbors Board, has also made a strong recommendation that the navigable waters of the Fraser River come under a central port authority, such as those existing in such major ports as Rotterdam, London and New York.

Davis has argued that there should be over-all planning for harbour development in the entire mainland area and this makes sense. It would be most unreasonable for the provincial government to spend millions to develop Sturgeon Bank in conflict with plans for normal development contemplated by the National Harbors Board.

Development of the Fraser River port facilities should be part of an overall Lower Mainland port plan and the development of ports of Howe Sound or more specifically of a port on Howe Sound at Squamish should be included in this overall program.

At present the Port of Vancouver Development Committee represents only the shipping within the confines of Burrard Inlet.

The municipality of Squamish is in the process of appointing members to a Harbour Commission with representatives named from both the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the Chamber of Commerce.

This commission would work for development of a harbor at Squamish.

If there is a move afoot to create orderly planning for port development in the lower mainland area, representatives from the Squamish group as well as those from others in the Fraser Valley area should be included on the port committee.

ADMIRING some of the flowers decorating the hall at the W.A. to St. John's Church tea are Mrs. J. M. G. Hurry, left and Mrs. F. Wilson.

Grades B or better

Nineteen students named to scholarship club

Nineteen students from Howe Sound Secondary School have been named to the Scholarship Club. These are the top students in their grades in the high school.

Thirty three others have been named as runners-up. They have each achieved a B average on their reports and have made outstanding progress.

Grade 10 students making the club were Doreen Albrecht, Janet Clarke, Joan Ellingson, Diane Kindree and Patti McAllister.

Grade 9 students were Singh Bin, Mike Manson, Laurie Mathews, Ken Nore and Randy Pelletier.

Grade 10 students were Valerie Bird, Leslie Chapman, Jane Carrico, Catherine Jardine, Edward John, Linda Laramie and Patrick Mulhern.

Eric Polish was the only Grade 11 student to reach the club, and Karen Lindley in Grade 12.

Runners up for Grade 8 were John Beatty, Diane Cartwright, Cathy Derhousoff, Reg Fogarty, Donna Hinde, Norma McLeod, Philip Owen, Carla Rae, Debra Shaw and Geraldine Thom.

For Grade 9 Loretta Cloutier, Joanne Dickie, Stephen Hales, Janet Hurry, Kathryn Kennedy, Candis Mawer and Noralee Watson.

For Grade 10, Elsie Albrecht, Barton Barnabe, Judith Brandner, Allan McNeil and Bruce Niermeyer.

In Grade 11, Roberta Armstrong, Marilyn Goodall, Larry

Iverson, Louise Kilby and Bonnie Maraccini.

In Grade 12, Susan Barnabe, Colin Chapman, Sharon Kindree, John Kristianson, Karen Tompkins and Daryl Stetch.

WHILE SHOPPING FOR CHRISTMAS GIFTS? PROBABLY TOO MANY, ACCORDING TO A WALKING SURVEY.

Last year, Dr. Scholl's Walkmeters were attached to a large number of ladies doing Christmas shopping. To everyone's surprise they showed that many shoppers walked as many as eighteen mile in a single day.

Of course walking is good exercise, but too much is not beneficial. No wonder the days before and after Christmas find so many people overtired, nervous and often sick.

May we make a good better health suggestion? Listed on this page are some of the many Christmas gifts we carry. Everyone of them is produced by the reliable firms whose names you know so well. Each one is competitively priced.

Check off which gifts you contemplate giving and come here to your own pharmacy, where away from the noise and confusion of the crowded stores you can leisurely select the same gifts you might spend hours to find. We will gift wrap them without extra charge and hold them for you till Christmas if you wish.

Our Christmas gift stocks are now on display and if you wish to send some to other cities we will be glad to pack them for safe mailing.

Come visit us soon. Send the children also. We will see that they get good value.

It costs so little to make a photo talk

When a family grows up and goes its several ways, when a job that has to be done separates you by thousands of miles from near and dear ones, there's a gap left that photographs only partly fill. And yet, it takes only a minute—and costs so little—to pick up your phone and make that beloved photo talk.

As the years pass by, the telephone becomes one of the strongest links holding scattered families together. On birthdays and other special anniversaries—on occasions like Easter, Mother's Day, Father's Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas—a long distance call is "the next best thing to being there."

If you travel frequently on business or have to spend extended periods away from home, be sure to arm yourself with a B.C. TEL Long Distance Credit Card. It enables you to call long distance from any phone in the country to any other phone and charge the call to your personal or business account.

WANTED

WANTED SOMEONE to lease coffee bar. Box 14, Squamish Times.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Squamish Times:

Just a short note to thank you, for your kind hospitality shown to our students on their field trip to Squamish and second, for your valuable contribution to their knowledge and to the preparation of their field reports through your generosity in giving them copies of the Squamish Times.

They have asked me to express my thanks on behalf of them.

It is our aim, in this experimental Social Studies program to provide an opportunity for students, particularly the ones who will become our leaders in B.C., to see first hand the growth, the changes that are taking place in our province.

Field work is an integral part of our program and carries us to many parts of the province. In addition to the regular program we have an active Geography Club that is constantly doing studies of communities and their surrounding areas.

We are off to the Olympic Peninsula, in March. Kamloops in May, and sixteen of our students are off to Europe for seven weeks in the summer. It is people like yourselves that help to make our program the success that it is, and I might add, keep me busy touring B.C. talking to teachers about the "new" Social Studies.

Ten years ago I received my professional geographers' papers and predicted at that time that Squamish would become a large deep sea port; that Pemberton would become an agricultural and recreational centre and each year I make sure that I get at least half a dozen visits to your delightful area just to see how things are progressing.

Again, hats off to you people, and all going well, we'll be back again with a group next year. I would like them to spend two days in the area if possible and to go as far as Pemberton.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES STUART McDOUGALL

Valley wedding of interest here

St. Dunstan's Anglican Church in Aldergrove was the scene of the September 18th wedding when Margaret Ann Langton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Langton of Aldergrove became the bride of James Stuart McDougall son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McDougall of Squamish.

Rev. Norman Calland officiated at the 8 o'clock double ring ceremony. The bride for her wedding chose a floor length empire waist gown of bridal satin with a bodice of brocade velvet. To give a coat like effect her train of bridal satin fitted over the sleeves. She carried a bouquet of baby red roses with Stephanotis.

Mrs. Doug Johnson as her sister's matron of honor wore a floor length aqua empire waist gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Miss JoAnne Stammien and Miss Judi Belinski former room mates of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore similar bouquets of yellow and carried bouquets of tangerine carnations.

Debbie Johnston, niece of the bride was flower girl, wore a soft yellow full skirted dress.

Mr. Gerald McDougall was his brother's best man and ushers were Gary Spicer and Russ Martin.

Mr. Norman Mair proposed the toast to the bride during the reception at Bradner Community Hall.

The groom received all his schooling in Squamish and then attended U.B.C. for his Bachelor of Science. The bride is a graduate of Abbotsford Senior High.

Mrs. McDougall wore a deep red cotton knit dress with a white carnation corsage for her son's wedding. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Langton wore a pale blue two piece suit with a pink carnation corsage.

Kindergarten plebiscite

The Board of School Trustees at a recent meeting discussed the forthcoming referendum on kindergartens which will be held in conjunction with the election of school trustees.

The ballot for the kindergarten will be worded as follows:

"Are you in favor of the Board of School Trustees of School District No. 48 (Howe Sound) operating kindergarten classes in accordance with the Public Schools Act and with the understanding that transportation is a parental responsibility?"

The Board decided that a favourable vote of 60 percent of the ballots cast be considered as passing the question.

Size of kindergarten classes was discussed and after debating the matter it was decided that the maximum class size should be 25 wherever possible and in no case should exceed 30 pupils.

Regarding the question of transportation, it was felt that the board could provide transportation for kindergarten students if space is available on regular bus runs but that no special runs could be instituted for kindergarten pupils.

Letters to the editor

Editor, Squamish Times:

I would like to compliment the Brackendale Volunteer Fire Department for the excellent fireworks display they put on during the evening of Halloween.

The children in the district were delighted with the display and there were many other people at the school to see the fireworks.

I would like to express my personal thanks for their efforts and I am sure they are echoed by all the people, young and old, who saw the fireworks.

This is even more noteworthy when it is realized the fireworks were purchased with the monies earned by the fire department for attending practices and fires.

QUESTION ON KINDERGARTENS

Take notice that the Board of School Trustees will hold a poll on Saturday, December 10th, 1966, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m.

The question will be: "Are you in favour of the kindergarten classes in accordance with the provisions of the 'Public Schools Act', and with the understanding that transportation is a parental responsibility?"

The vote of the owner electors will be taken at the same places as the municipal elections, namely:

- Squamish Municipal Offices
- Mamquam School
- Brackendale School
- Woodfibre School
- Pemberton Municipal Office

Owner Electors in the rural areas are entitled to vote on this question at the municipal polling stations.

"I THINK THIS IS RIGHT" Wanda Fulmek seems to be saying to Charles Natral and Vickie Ostlund as she fits a cutout piece on the board.

COOKIE CUTTERS are used by Kathy Ann Golden and Carrie Boyd as Mrs. Madriga watches them work with play dough.

KINDERGARTENS

By ROSE TATLOW

Kindergartens are a necessary adjunct to modern schooling. Not only do they prepare the child who is alone or without close companions to orient himself to other children, but they prepare him for the work he will be doing when he enters "real school."

They are not a play time, or a play school, although there is some play. Children learn to know numbers, to recognize shapes, to tell time, to connect letters with words, to recognize them as capitals and small letters, to handle crayons and paints, and many other things.

But most important of all is to learn how to play and work with other children, and with a teacher.

Children love stories and they get a story hour. The teacher holds up the book and lets them see the pictures. Familiar stories become just that, familiar, and they can tell you what the next chapter or page is about. But they have favorites and want them repeated over and over again.

Kindergarten is a period of adjustment. For half a day the child is among other children and this mitigates the shock of leaving home when he enters school.

A child increases his vocabulary and learns to speak in sentences through the means of stories, games and records.

Good work habits are established and the children learn to finish the projects which they start. They take great pride in bringing their finished work home to their parents.

Through painting, coloring, pasting and cutting, they learn the correct use and care of books, scissors, coloring materials and other articles.

They learn that school is not something dreadful to be feared but something which can be interesting and challenging and they are prepared to face this challenge when they enter school.

I visited the Mamquam Elementary School recently and saw children working in their kindergarten. Small groups were busy with various activities.

Decked in smocks, two girls were busy painting at an easel and so engrossed in their work they scarcely noticed me.

Two others were busy with crayons and paste. One was coloring a picture and the other was using paper and paste to create another scene.

Some youngsters were fitting cut out pieces of wood into spaces shaped for them, others were nailing shapes to a board. Some were just playing with cars and unit blocks. But all were busy and having fun.

Miss C. Kirin, who teaches two classes at the Mamquam School, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon, says they take a break and have a rest during the school period. Other highlights are the story hour when they all sit quietly as she reads them a favorite story, and the juice break.

Colorful quarters, with pale yellow walls, small brightly painted tables and children-sized chairs, all add to the appeal of the kindergarten. Children respond to colors and furniture scaled to their size.

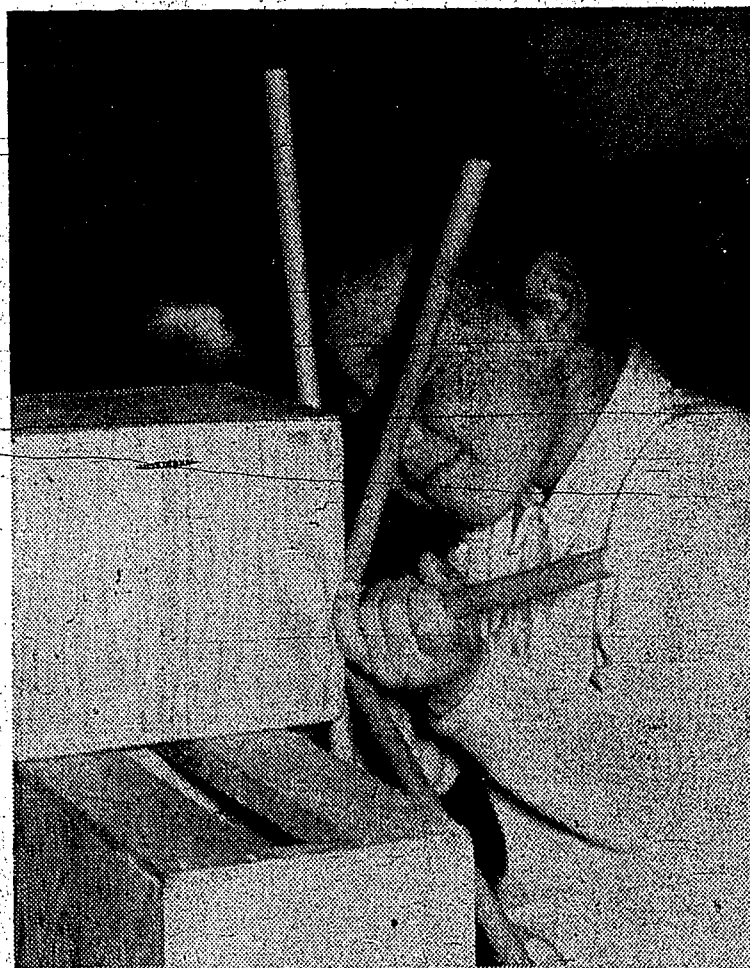

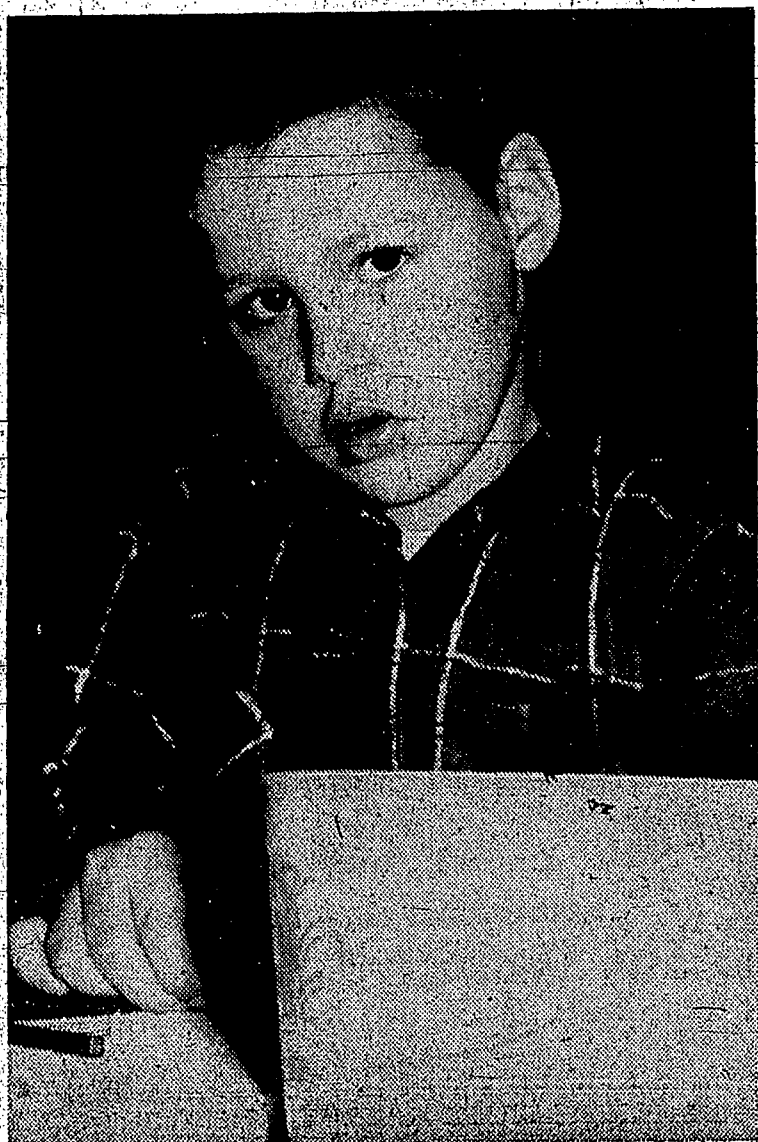

Plants stand in a row across the top of a cupboard and the children watch their growth. The days of the month, starting with one and one figure, that of a horse, and ending with ten, for November 10th, with the letters and ten small animals; teach the children association with numbers.

In some ways, kindergarten may seem a game, but if it is a game it is one which produces results. Children are more adjusted to school when they enter Grade One, and not faced with a several month adjustment period which could cause great difficulties at the beginning of their schooling.

Measures which make it easier for children to prepare for school, and which could create the difference between enjoying their school years or detesting them, are very important.

The trend in schools today is towards a pre-school or kindergarten year. In Squamish Elementary and Mamquam Elementary, more than one hundred children are being given the opportunity to take this pre-school course.

The next step will be to see kindergarten classes in other elementary schools in the district.

Left, Bobby Proulx finds games interesting. Above, Keri John is a ship's captain. Right, rolling pins can be used on play dough as Linda Klymchuk and Linda Lohr demonstrate.

New standings in Howe Sound League

With wintry blasts descending, activities of the Howe Sound Boys Soccer League have slowed somewhat.

Fields in Pemberton are no longer playable because of snow and some of those in the Squamish area are veritable mud baths. With the first half of the season almost complete the following are the team standings at Nov. 19th:

Peewee Division
Team	G	W	L	D	GF	GA	Pts
Stawamus	4	4	0	0	10	3	8
Brackendale	4	2	1	1	5	4	5
Mamquam Celtics	4	1	1	2	8	8	4
Squamish	4	1	3	0	2	9	2
Mamquam Rangers	4	0	3	1	1	5	1

Junior Division
Team	G	W	L	D	GF	GA	Pts
Stawamus	7	6	1	0	13	4	12
Mount Currie	7	5	2	0	19	8	10
Pemberton	6	2	2	2	9	9	6
Britannia	7	2	3	2	13	7	6
Squamish	7	2	4	1	10	16	5
Woodfibre	5	2	2	1	6	9	5
Brackendale	6	2	3	1	7	13	5
Mamquam	7	1	5	1	6	19	4

Two postponed games to be played.

Senior Division
Team	G	W	L	D	GF	GA	Pts
Brackendale	4	4	0	0	21	6	8
Squamish	4	2	2	0	8	9	4
Pemberton	4	0	4	0	7	18	0

This is the first year the league has operated a schedule for peewees and it has been very successful. An All-Star team of eight-year-olds has been selected to play a Vancouver squad in Squamish on November 26th with a return match in Vancouver on Dec. 2nd.

The Junior Division has been strengthened considerably with the addition of Mount Currie and Pemberton teams. Mamquam, a late starting team, has shown a lot more strength in the latter part of the season and is expected to be a real contender in the second half starting next spring.

Particularly gratifying to the commission is the fact that four of the boys have turned out for the Squamish United men's team at different times. Dave Lynch, John Henderson, and Jan Taylor have played in some games and Ed Hastings appears to have won a spot as left winger with the United team.

No doubt next season will see more of the boys challenging the old timers for positions on the men's team which is entered in the 4th division of the mainland soccer league.

SHIRLEY PHILLIPS and Kevin Doherty enjoy playing with some of the toys at kindergarten.

All day event

Squamish and Pemberton win badminton tourney

Pemberton, Squamish and Woodfibre met on Sunday, Nov. 20th in a badminton tournament in the high school gymnasium from which Pemberton and Squamish emerged victorious.

Mrs. May Menzel of Pemberton won a hard fought set of three games against Miss Sineka Silvasi in the ladies singles competition, to win the final event of the competition.

In the ladies doubles competition, the team of Mrs. May Menzel and Mrs. Rose Hamula of Pemberton beat out the team of Matthews and Arnet of Squamish in the final event.

In the mixed doubles competition the team of Ted Stoltz and Shirley Lewis proved too much for Woodfibre's Smith and Mah. They put up a good fight, but were not able to stand the pressure. Nice try, Woodfibre.

Ted and Shirley then went on to show the team of Don Gill and Rose Hamula of Pemberton the finer part of the game of badminton, beating out the winners of the mixed doubles competition.

Again and again the team of Ted Stoltz and Lawrence Rooney proved too much for the competition and ended the event as winners of the men's doubles competition.

In the first round of the men's singles competition it was Woods vs. Clayton, in the semi-final which has still to be played, Burnett Woods and Rick Hunter are still set to have a hard battle for the winning slot.

The badminton players wish to thank the participants who came to Squamish for this first tournament of the year. Competitors came from the three towns and next year it is hoped they will be joined by players from Britannia.

The local ladies prepared a delicious meal for the players after the tournament and everyone seemed to have an enjoyable time.

Pemberton has agreed to host the next tournament in Pemberton sometime in late January.

Down in the alley

In the HOSPITAL HILL LEAGUE in the men's division Bob Wooley with 683 took the high three and high single was Dan Tham with 246.

In the ladies Eve Beckman had 619 for high three and high single was Julie DesJardines with 261.

Other good scores were Eve Worthington 204, Marsh Hurren 203, and Ruth Tomlinson 216 and 207, Pat Richardson 217 and 230, Harry Beckman 220, Ann Chamberlain 244, Don Sanford 201, Peg Tinney 208, Hazel Armstrong 203, and Dick Woodcock 215.

Salary talks end 8% raise for teachers

The Howe Sound Teachers' Association and the Board of School Trustees reached agreement on a new salary contract on November 9th and the contract was signed on Thursday, November 24th.

The new agreement calls for an increase in salaries, averaging 7.8 percent on scale (8 percent on actual payroll).

Acting for the board on the talks were T. J. MacDonald, chairman; and trustees John Stetch and Harold Bailey.

On the teachers' committee were R. F. Wagner, chairman; and committee members Burt Wiley and D. D. Dosen.

A conciliator, appointed jointly by the teachers and the board, Mr. John Burnett, was presented during the final session and assisted in the settlement.

The new salary schedule with 1966 figures shown in brackets is as follows: (the first figure is the starting salary, the second after ten years)

S.B.-P.B. $6250-10,000 ($5800-9200)	P.A. Masters $6850-11,100 ($6400-10300)
S.A.-P.A. $6650-10,800 ($6200-10,000)

Several other matters were agreed upon during negotiations and these included items regarding leave of absence and increases.

The board has agreed to allow teachers leave of absence with pay for jury duty.

Some increases have been made in the administrative allowances.

The formula for rural bonuses has been changed.

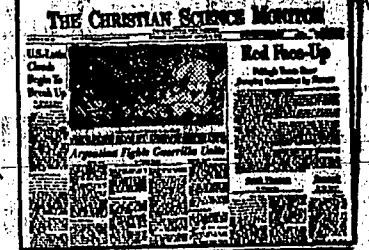

The board has agreed to extend the period for which a teacher will be given leave of absence with pay for illness.

This latter matter is not one which was included in the agreement but was one which is covered by board policy.

There are expected to be about seventy of these youngsters out to the party which is a credit to the able callers and instructors Howard Brown and Mrs. Peggy Barnfield.

Square dance party

Thursday December 1st will see the windup of this year's square dancing for the younger set of the Gals and Pals Square Dance Club. With a bang-up Christmas party of games dancing and goodies the youngsters who have devoted their time to becoming accomplished dancers can relax till after Christmas.

PTA members at border conference

Four ladies of the Britannia Beach P.T.A. travelled to Vancouver to attend the 35th annual Border Conference, held at the Bayshore Inn on Friday Nov. 17.

This year's theme was "Today's Morals - Tomorrow's Challenge". The call to order came from Mrs. Gordon Redgrave, president of the B.C. Parent Teacher Federation. In the 65 members present, 250 from Washington State and 405 from various points in Vancouver and B.C.

Following the singing of "Oh Canada" and "The Star Spangled Banner" the Reverend Mr. Elmer Wenzel of the Zion Emmanuel Lutheran Church Odessa, Wash. gave the invocation.

The keynote speaker was Staff Inspector Daniel Brown of the Vancouver police force. To quote two of the inspector's points, he asked that we talk of them as policemen in front of our children and don't run them down or smugly brag of the misdemeanors which we have got away with.

They are parents, citizens and taxpayers, (in his case also a P.T.A. member) paid to enforce the laws that we the people help to make through our elected representatives in government.

A question period was held after a twenty minute small group discussion and the inspector answered numerous questions concerning young people.

Luncheon was served and was followed by a spirited sing song. The afternoon session was taken up with a panel. "We meet the Challenge". The moderator being Mrs. G. Sparling, 2nd vice president Washington Congress, with Mr. Wenzel, Denis Walters, student of Sammamish High School, Bellevue, Wash.; Mrs. E. D. M. Williams Health Chairman B.C.P.T.A. and Kathryn Steat student, Point Grey Secondary School, Vancouver were the participants.

Another small group discussion followed and remarks were written down but owing to lack of time these were to be gone over at a later date and the results sent out to the various P.T.A.s.

The ladies felt that it had been quite a worthwhile day, it was quite refreshing to go to a P.T.A. meeting and see over 650 people attending it and enjoying it. The ladies attending were Mrs. B. B. Greenlee, Mrs. E. Adams, Mrs. F. G. Baxter, Mrs. P. Hoodkoff and Mrs. P. Kirby.

Al McNair and Glen win prizes

Mr. and Mrs. Al McNair and family, attended the Fraternal Order of Eagles Annual dinner at the Eagles Hall at 148 Kingsway on Sunday Nov. 20th; the occasion being the distribution of trophies for the various fish derbies of the year.

The July Derby at Britannia which is strictly for men is the one for which Al received the trophy for the biggest fish. This is the second consecutive year that he has won it.

Each month of the year they give a $5 prize for the biggest fish caught, this is open to relatives of members also.

Al got the five dollars for June and Sept. and son Glen won for August.

The dinner is a highlight of the evening with moose, venison, wild birds, oysters and fish being served along with beef and turkey and all the trimmings.

Films taken during the July Derby were shown following the dinner for the enjoyment of the guests, to round out a very pleasant evening.

High school highlights

Gibsons wins inter-high volleyball tournament

by LOUISE KILBY
Saturday, November 18 was the day of our first Volleyball Tournament. Taking part in this match were junior and senior girls and boys from Squamish, Pemberton, Gibsons and Pender Harbor.

Games were played from eleven o'clock until four o'clock with a lunch served by the Service Council between twelve and two o'clock.

Matches were best out of three games with games going to fifteen points. After each of the teams had played one game the winners played each other to determine first place. The losers played each other and the losers of this took fourth place while the winners played the team which had lost in the game for first place.

After many many games it was determined that Gibsons had won first place. As they had to leave early to get their ferry the cup was presented to them by Student Council President, Gunther Schlieper, before the tournament was over. The final games showed Squamish in second place with Pender Harbor third and Pemberton fourth.

TOURNAMENT WAS NOISY

Have you ever been to a volleyball tournament? If you haven't I suggest you grab a pair of earplugs, a rule book, a book on how to play, get a list of who plays where and at what time, and find out what colour uniforms each team is wearing.

The earplugs will help to stop the noise of the spectators, cheerleaders, and referee's whistles but then you can't find out who wins. The rule book is so you can find out why No. X lost his serve — otherwise you'll be wondering all night — but if you have it you'll spend all your time looking up rules to prove the referee is wrong.

The book on how to play will attempt to show you why six people are running after a white ball and trying to throw it at six other people. Maybe it'll also show you why they don't literally "throw" it but hit it with their finger tips.

However none of this will do you any good if you have forgotten your earplugs and are attempting to read the book during the game.

HOW TO ENJOY THE GAME

Finding out what colour uniform belongs to who may help you, but it may confuse you if one school has yellow and navy and another yellow and black. With your list of who plays where and at what time you may run around and find out who wins each game.

This is fun but you never get to see the games. Better suggestion — forget the noise, rules, what's going on and the who's who bit and enjoy the game. Thanks goes to Mr. Bird, Mr. Baldry, Mr. Croft, Mr. John, Mr. Allen, Mr. Goodall and Bill Stockman who refereed the game. Also thanks to the girls who did the scorekeeping and those who helped to organize this event.

On Thursday, November 24th, the ski club sponsored a film on skiing. The film, produced by Allan White from Whistler Mountain Center, showed parts of the Whistler Summer School of Skiing. Techniques of skiing and ski exercises were explained.

After the film pamphlets on Whistler ski center showing cost from Vancouver to Whistler and Squamish to Whistler, and price of accommodation and ski lessons were handed out.

Pemberton High news

by SUSAN COSULICH

A homecoming game was held in the high school gymnasium on Friday Nov. 4th with the former Red Devils playing against the high school team.

The game was a very close one and while there was a poor turnout, the players put on an excellent game. The grads won by a score of 44 - 41.

House games have been very close with House 2 in the lead. Come on House 1 and 3. Show them what you can do.

Volley ball teams have been picked. Those who have been selected and the runners - up have been working and practicing hard hoping to win the tournament to be held in Squamish in the near future.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR CARTWRIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. Les Cartwright were spending a quiet evening at the Powell's residence on Saturday evening when John Powell suggested that they take a short walk.

Much to the surprise of the Cartwrights, the "walk" ended at the upper club room where a number of guests were assembled for a surprise party for them as they will be leaving the Beach in a few days.

The local orchestra supplied the music and everyone enjoyed an evening of dancing and refreshments.

Jim MacDonald presented Mrs. Cartwright with a thanks badge, on behalf of the Scouts. The badge was embedded in a plastic egg timer. He also presented a leather-covered flask to Les with the explanation, that no scout master should ever be without his "water bottle".

Mr. Barney Greenlee presented them with a coffee table as a parting gift from the assembled guests.

Britannia Beach News

Congratulations to Mr. Berkeley Thomas of Britannia and Miss Linda Knudsen formerly of Britannia on the occasion of their marriage which took place on Monday, November 14th.

Welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Rynn and family who have moved to Minaty Bay into the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Steenson who now reside in the upper Crescent.

Mrs. Baxter will be starting the school savings in the new year on a Monday instead of Thursday.

The meeting also saw Ray Bryant elevated from assistant District Commissioner to the position of District Commissioner replacing John Powell of Britannia who resigned to go back into active Scouting.
D. C. Ray Bryant named Don Pudney as assistant District

Commissioner for Cubs and said one would later be named assistant District Commissioner for Scouts.
Bob Simmonds of Vancouver, was the guest speaker at the meeting and outlined some of the duties of a group committee, district council and a regional committee, showing how they are interlocking, and how each is just a group committee but on a larger scale.
PRAISES SCOUT MOVEMENT
Mr. Simmonds, who is the president's representative for the East Howe Sound area, had been in Scouting for more than forty years and was familiar with all aspects of the movement.
He said Scouting is unusual because "all of us who run this show, are unpaid; we do it because we like it." He added that the strength of Scouting lies in the strong core of volunteer workers.

Barry Shaw, Regional Council representative said the purpose of Scouting is to protect the young people from a diseased civilization.
"There are three decays in the world today," he said, "Decay of cares and skill, decay of enterprise and adventure, and decay of compassion."
Scouting fights these decays and he added the terse definition of scouting which said "If Scouting does anything it helps a boy to discover how far he can go is a lot farther than he thought he could."
Mr. Shaw also presented awards to two of the Scout leaders, George Miles and Dave Pinchbeck.
GIFTS PRESENTED
Retiring chairman, L. Cartwright of Britannia, who resigned pending his departure for Gold River, was presented with a desk set for his outstanding service to the Boy Scout movement while retiring District Commissioner John Powell received a watch as a token of appreciation for his work.
Mr. Powell, in his report on the year's activities, spoke of the formation of the Second Squamish Troop and the Fourth Squamish Pack. He also commented on the showing made by the Britannia Troop which placed first in a first aid competition at Nanaimo.
A. W. Lloyd said the Boy Scouts would once again be handling the sale of Christmas trees in the district and cutting would begin on December 3rd, with a better quality tree at a slightly higher price planned for this year. He added that the Scouts had benefited the assistance of the Lions Club in this project.
THANKS SCOUTERS
He also thanked the Scouters who had given so much of their time to make the work a success. "Scouting isn't just one night a week," he said. "It is innumerable weekends and many evenings of work. Thanks to Sandy Powell as D.C., to Ray Bryant as assistant D.C. and the other Scouters."
Among those mentioned were Larry Marion, Ray Knudsen, Brian Alder and Dave Evans of Britannia; Dave Pinchbeck, Ted Hill, Alma Hill and Ruth Wilson of the 1st Squamish; Howie Brown, Danny Carson, E. Anderson, Peter Goodgrove; and George Miles of the 2nd Squamish; Sid Pudney, Ernie Thiesen and Ray Bryant of the 4th Squamish; Grace LeBanc, Sonny Taylor, Fred Meen, Cliff Bokstrom, Don Hardeacres, Ken Buck, Dennis Asher and Jim Decker of Pemberton.
He especially complimented Pemberton which had a representation at the meeting. Les Cartwright chaired the meeting until the election of officers and entertainment was provided by the three Scout Troops which each put on a skit for the guests.

Pemberton roads in sorry shape

A recent drive to D'Arcy while very pleasant revealed the worst roads in the area lie on the stretch between Pemberton and Mount Currie.
"Undoubtedly this is the most heavily travelled portion of the road but we found it full of potholes and washboard with very little surface left."
"Try as one would to avoid the potholes, he only hit a deeper one. The stretch of highway between Whistler and Pemberton was in fairly good shape with washboard encountered in some areas."
However, even the small detours were not in poor shape and the drive as a whole was a pleasant one. From Pemberton north to D'Arcy, the road was in fairly good condition, for a gravel road, although some potholes and washboard was encountered.
Snow was also found just north of Birken, but in other areas it was not on the road but lay on the surrounding countryside.
D. W. Dadds of Sunshine Lodge at D'Arcy said it had been a busy summer with a great number of tourists and visitors and there had also been large numbers of hunters during the fall.
"He felt the road was in fairly good condition although much of the surface had disappeared due to the heavy traffic."
It was apparent that equipment had been working at several spots along the road and in the vicinity of Birken the road alongside the lake was being widened.
Paving of the road from Squamish to Whistler has caused an increase in travel to this winter sports area and the possibility of further blacktopping to Pemberton in the coming year should make the drive even more popular.
