Falling sawdust draws protests

REFORESTATION PROGRAM PLANNED

A considerable reforestation program is planned for the Squamish Ranger District with an estimated 850 acres to be replanted.

This acreage will require almost half a million trees and does not include planting in the Tree Farm Licence which is done independently by Weldwood's Empire Logging Division.

In crown lands close to 40 percent of the current year's logged over area will be replanted. Work on this is expected to start this month but the local forest ranger says there is a shortage of trained personnel to do the work.

He said consideration is being given to the hiring of tree planting contractors to do this work each fall under the supervision of the Forest Service.

Port study now being made here

Councillor L. C. Kindree and municipal clerk W. D. Kennedy are making a study of all the information obtained by council concerning the possibility of construction of a port at Squamish.

When this study is completed a joint meeting of council and the Chamber of Commerce will be held to go into the matter.

The Chamber of Commerce discussed the question at last week's regular meeting with E. A. Shaw, a member of the Industrial Development Committee, saying the outcome of their investigations was that there was not sufficient volume of freight coming through Squamish at this time to justify construction of a dock here.

He said the possibility of grain elevators was still remote.

T. Hatters said council should put in an application to Victoria for the formation of a harbor commission before anything else could be done. This request would then be sent to Ottawa.

He said he had spoken to MP Jack Davis about this matter and this was the information he had been given.

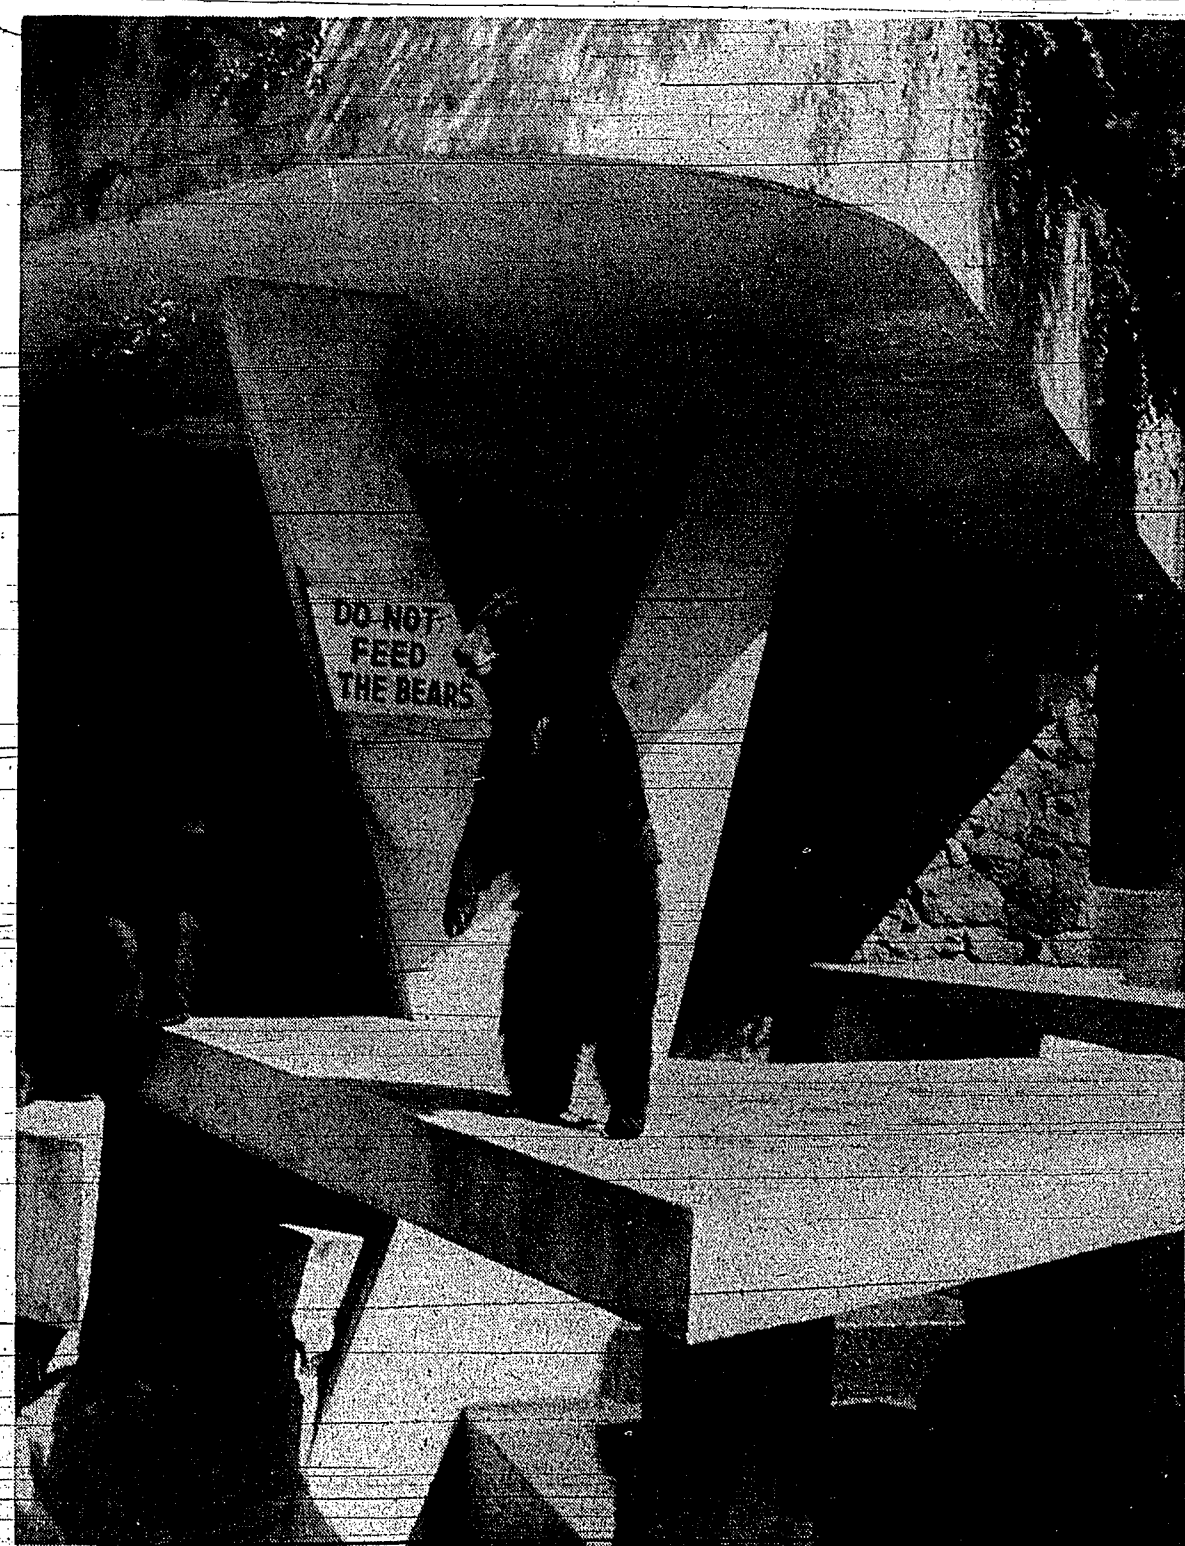

It was felt with the volume of freight which could come from the interior this matter should be fully investigated.

NEW BATH HOUSE FOR WOODFIBRE

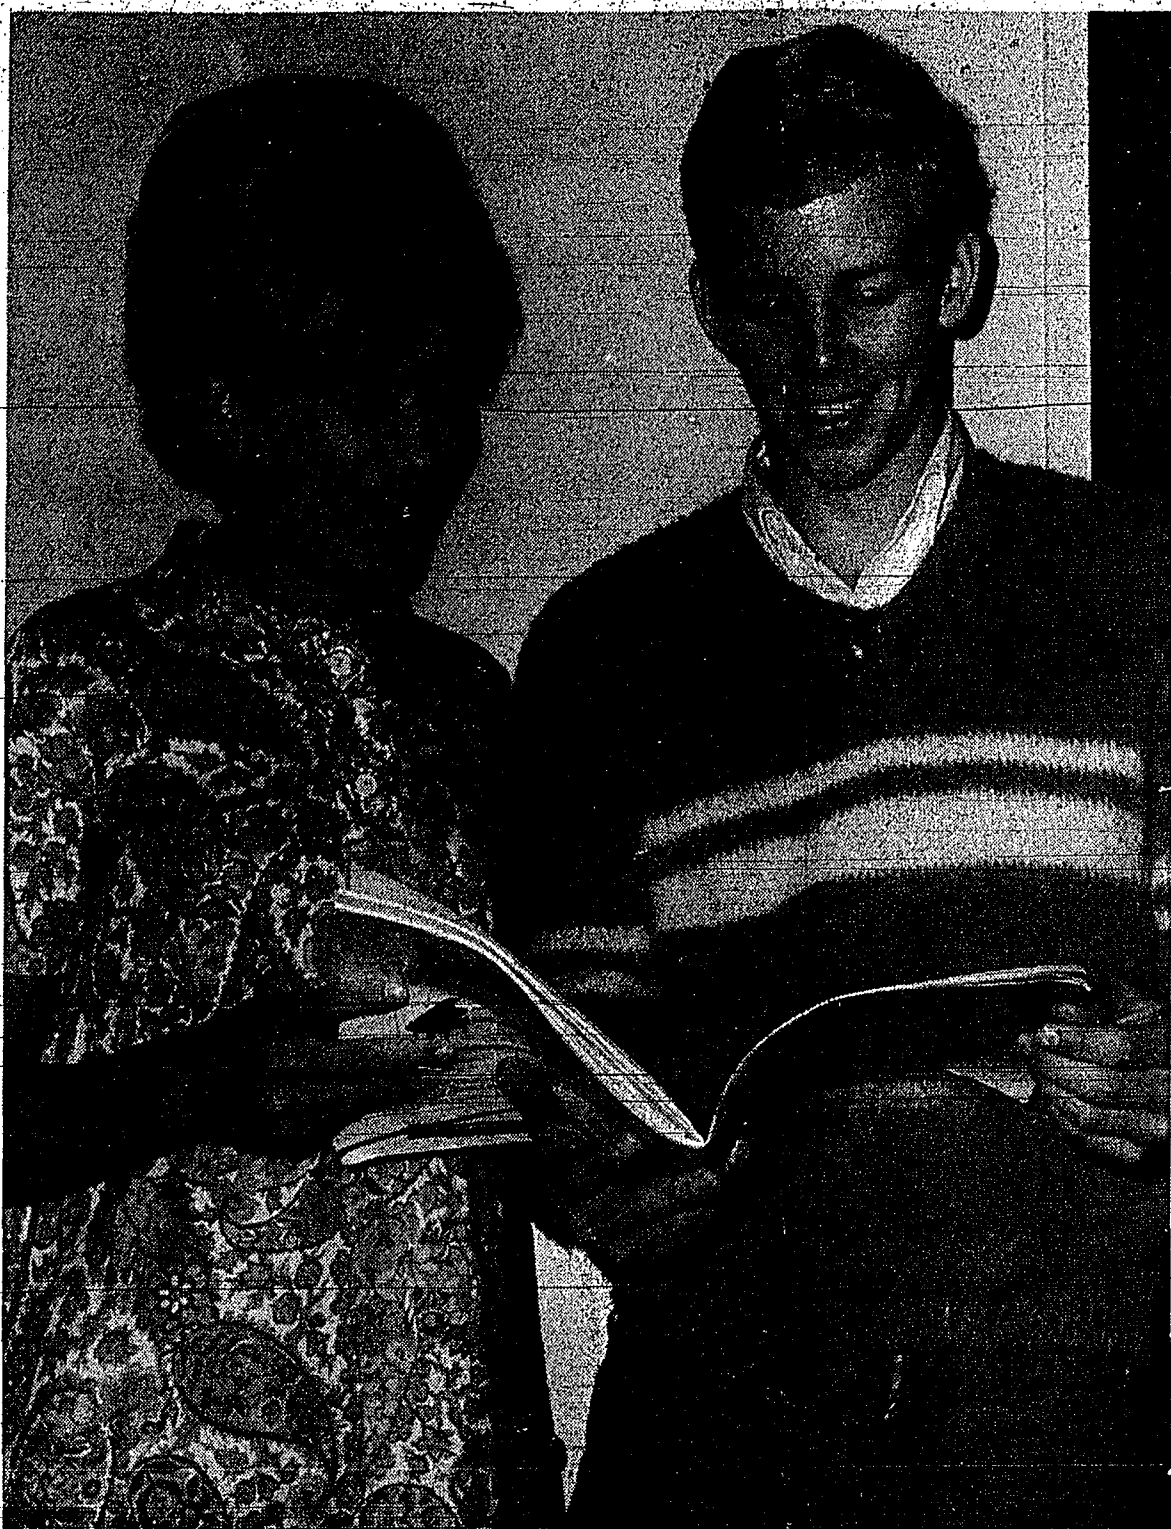

Plans are going ahead to build a new bath house for the Woodfibre swimming pool before January of 1968. This will be the community's centennial project and was discussed at the quarterly meeting of the Community Club on Wednesday of last week.

Tom Turner is chairman of the committee, assisted by Alan Sinclair, John Sobotka, Don McAllister, Bill Carrigan and Wick Wickstrom. All assistance will be heartily welcomed.

New business concerning entertainment for the ensuing months was brought up and plans were made for a Halloween dance and the usual Christmas undertakings of a children's party and a New Year's dance.

POSING prettily for his picture, this black bear in the zoo at Stanley Park stood up and begged for peanuts.

STUDYING about the Youth Travel Program which sends students from one school to another in the province are Pat Mulhern, who is in Victoria and Debbie Hurren who is at a school in Summerland this week.

Whistler Chamber backs GODA bid for '67 Olympics

The Whistler Mountain District Chamber of Commerce last Friday unanimously supported the Garibaldi Olympic Development Association which is planning to bid for the 1976 Winter Olympics for the Whistler area.

John Fraser spoke to the group on behalf of GODA, saying they had support from Vancouver's mayor Tom Campbell and the Premier has stated he would match any grant made by the city.

"We have to prove that we have the site, the people who will develop it and the backing of the area which will be the site of the Olympics," he said.

"Now we must get the Canadian Olympic Association's endorsement," he continued. "One of the main things the international Olympic Association wants is compactness of site and we must be prepared to try to put all the winter sports in one area."

Lorne O'Connor said the legacies of the Olympics would be of benefit to everyone engaged in business here. This is a tourist area and with the improvement in the road will only draw greater and greater numbers of people to this district.

Gary Van Norman was chosen to represent the Whistler Chamber on GODA and representation would be asked from the Alta Lake Ratepayers.

Fraser said they would be meeting with Vancouver city council this week and later with officials in Victoria.

GODA has twice put in a bid for the winter Olympics, for 1968 and for 1972 and in both cases Banff has been selected as the Canadian entry, losing out to Grenoble and Sapporo.

The Whistler district could provide skiing equal to Innsbruck or better and would be suitable for the ski events. Other facilities could be built in the area close to the ski runs, or if it was decided to hold some of the spectator events in Vancouver, this could also possibly be arranged.

However the group is considering concentration of the events in the one area.

Ratepayers meet at Woodfibre

The District of Squamish Ratepayers Association met in Woodfibre on Monday, Sept. 11th. Discussions on town planning and the control of ribbon development along the highway took place.

Ratepayers were somewhat perturbed because the bylaw concerning horses on less than two acres of property was not strictly enforced for some people while others were told they could not have horses.

A complaint regarding lack of personnel to issue fire permits when W. Gedge was away on holidays drew the observation that when a staff member is away there should be someone appointed to take his place.

Discharge of firearms, which has been amended to read that only shot guns and bows and arrows can be discharged in certain areas, two hundred yards away from any residence.

Control of pollution was discussed and while this is being organized in the province it will take some time before it is implemented.

Brackendale has been long concerned about the lack of proper television reception and is anxious to see the situation improved. Since the two new channels have come into being, channel 6 which used to be obtained in Brackendale, is no longer available and there is nothing to take its place.

Promotion of dock development would be expedited by the establishment of a harbor commission and the ratepayers urged that this be done immediately.

Last cement poured for new weir

The final pouring of cement for the new weir across the Stawamus River was poured at the end of last week and council and local contractor Stan Banyard won their race against high water which will come when the fall rains start.

The weir will impound the waters of the Stawamus River to a depth of about six feet. Still remaining to be built is the settling chamber and other portions of the work which must be done but could wait till after the weir was built.

High water will not interfere with the balance of the project.

Need for the new weir arose when the one which crossed the river several hundred feet below the new one was knocked away during a freshet last fall.

The new weir, anchored to bedrock on either side of the stream bed, should be adequate for many years to come.

Future plans call for construction of a storage dam several miles up the river where a lake could be impounded to release the water as the need arose. This is expected to be able to provide for a much greater population than we can presently foresee.

Loggers off to Edmonton

Mike Knox and Harvey Trudeau went to Edmonton last week to put on a display of log birling and axe throwing for the World Council of Service Clubs who were holding a convention there.

Dale Busch, president of the Squamish-Kinsmen Club, said the lower mainland Kinsmen wished to put on a display of logger's skills as their contribution to the program but there were no members who were able to perform and also able to attend.

He said they were delighted to find Harvey and Mike willing and able to go and put on a demonstration in front of members of the world council, many of whom came from Europe and Australia, as well as the States and Canada.

Family life program planned

A new 'Family Life' program is planned for the secondary schools in this district.

Dr. P. J. Reynolds is attempting to set up another program similar to the one conducted this year by Dr. E. M. Patriarch of Victoria.

Two doctors recommended by Dr. Patriarch are being contacted to see if they will be able to give the course.

Night classes

Pemberton — Tuesday evening September 19th at the Secondary School a public meeting was held to discuss offering academic courses to any persons interested. Co-ordinator B. Priest for the Pemberton area has said two academic night school courses will be offered to adults working towards a Secondary School education leading to university entrance or a commercial or vocational diploma.

The courses, Social and Mathematics will begin the evening of Monday, October 2nd and will continue Monday and Thursday evening of each week. There will be a total of 70 hours instruction in each subject.

Math instructor is Mr. D. Perkins and Social instructor Mr. D. Codville. Anyone wishing further information is asked to call Mr. Priest.

At this time, non-academic night school courses have not been decided upon and a meeting in the near future will be called for this purpose.

Company blames poor pulp market

Heavy precipitation of sawdust and partly burned chips in the past week has drawn a number of complaints from residents and businessmen in the downtown area of Squamish.

Chief objections seem to be the fallout on vehicles which damages the paint and waxed surface of cars and makes it impossible to keep them clean, and the heavy buildup of sawdust on roofs, which as soon as the rains come, clogs downspouts and causes roofs to leak.

Company officials said the poor pulp market which had caused several plants to close for periods of a week or two and had curtailed production, resulted in a glut of hog fuel on the market.

This made it impossible to sell the material as most mills couldn't use wastes from their own lumber mills.

Weldwood officials also said it was too costly to truck away and there was no place to dump it. With three shifts going at the mill they are also producing a great deal more sawdust and hog fuel.

CARS DAMAGED

One merchant, who said his comments on the fallout were "unprintable" added that he didn't mind sweeping the sidewalk in front of his property as he would probably have to clear away the paper and other debris anyway, objected to the smoke and sawdust which covered his car when he parked it at the rear of the premises.

"I just can't seem to keep it clean," he told the Times, "and this really annoys me."

Another merchant said he was tempted to install a sawdust burner so he could get some good out of the stuff.

"It was coming down like snow at 5 p.m. on Tuesday. Looked like snow in September for sure. The shoulders of my coat seemed to be covered with dandruff," another merchant said.

"I was told they couldn't shut down the burner because they wouldn't be able to handle the sawdust," another commented. "They said it badly needs repairs but as they hoped to have it down quite often by now they had neglected to repair it."

One gentleman who said he asked if he was insured against this was jokingly told "Of course you are, aren't they falling objects?"

CLOGS DRAINPIPER

One big complaint, voiced by several merchants with flat roofed buildings, was that the sawdust lies on the roof and when a heavy rain comes, floats on top of the water to the drainpipes where it clogs them, causing the water to back up under the flashing and run down the walls into the building.

"It's not too bad if the rain comes during the day," he said. "We get up on the roof and clear the drains, but if it happens at night you're liable to get to work and find your premises flooded."

"It's a damn disgrace," another man said. "They ask for an extension and get it. Meanwhile they add another shift and create more mess. But none of us would want to see the mill close down," he added. "However it doesn't make for happy relations with the company."

Another man stated that Woodfibre, which belches forth smoke since the new process was installed and whose smoke output increased when the plant was enlarged, is an equal offender. "I dislike the smell of their plant as much as the fallout and smoke from the mill," he stated.

The matter was discussed at the Chamber of Commerce meeting on Wednesday night with E. A. Shaw of Weldwood's Empire Lumber division stating that the problem bothers the company more than the rest of the community.

DUMPING SAWDUST

He said they are dumping a lot of sawdust but can't possibly dispose of it all that way. "We can't sell our hog fuel," he said, "we know the burner is in poor shape but can't fix it because we need it to burn the stuff."

HOPE FOR WIND

"The mill can't operate unless the burner is going," he said "and about the only thing we can say right now is that we'll have to hope for a north wind to carry it out over the sound."

He added that if anyone thought it was bad in town they should be over at the mill yard where it is lying in inches deep on the ground.

"We could fill a barge with stuff every other day," he said, "and we just can't get rid of them. So there is no recourse but to burn."

He added that the burner was designed to handle only one shift and now there are three. "We're really worried about the problem," he said, "it's a real fire hazard."

W. A. Dale, manager at Woodfibre, agreed that the soft pulp market had increased the problems of hog fuel disposal as there was no market for it. "We can't even get rid of the residue from our own mills," he added.

Earlier in the week, E. Rolston, manager of Empire Lumber's mill, had stated that installation of the costly conveyor system, designed to discharge the material into scoops, had cost the company a great deal of money and was not able to be used at present.

He did say it would help remove the problem when the hog fuel could be sold.

Wins at Orofino

Bruce Carson went to Orofino, Idaho on the weekend of Sept. 16th to attend the loggers sports day there and came back with two first place trophies.

He placed first in the choker-man's race and in the axe-chopping, setting a new record and taking one second off the old one.

He also tied for third in the axe throwing competition.

Mrs. Carson and the children accompanied him on the trip.

On the same weekend Dick Munro attended a loggers sports day and rodeo near Shuksan, Wash., and won the axe throw and the speed climbing.

HIGHWAY CLOSED FOR FOUR DAYS

Emil Anderson Const. Co. announced last week that the Squamish-Britannia highway would be closed for four days during the week of Sept. 24th to 30th.

Closures would be in effect on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Company spokesmen said the closure was to permit crews to accomplish more work than was possible when the road was open and traffic kept interrupting. It was stated that in the 6 hour closure more than half as much work again could be done than in a normal day when closures were not in effect.

Pollution and sewers

Councillors last week laughed when the municipal clerk read out a letter referring to sewers and pollution and the need for measures to negate the pouring of raw sewage into streams and creating a pollution problem.

It really wasn't a laughing matter, but council, fresh from finding it was unable to market the water bonds and possibly having to shelve the police building, felt suggestions that sewage problems be solved was just a bit too much.

Earlier plans for a sewage system for Squamish involved the dumping of the material into the Squamish River and this would not be permitted under the proposed new anti-pollution legislation. At that time costs ranged close to half a million dollars.

If a sewage treatment plant had to be installed costs would be much higher and council, already partly committed to further water improvements and main extensions, and with no known way of paying for them, would find implementation of a sewer program impossible.

No one is more concerned about the implications of the dangers in the present situation with septic tanks and a high water table than the council. No one is more eager to see some system eliminating them installed. But these must be paid for.

Unless some form of provincial or federal assistance can be found it may be a long time before a proper sewage system is built in the downtown area. Certainly all the urging or insisting will not produce any results unless some financing can be obtained.

September song

Wasn't it Browning who said "Oh, to be in England now that April's here?"

Well, we'll paraphrase that by saying "How nice to be in Squamish now that fall is here."

Sure they are burning slash on the hills and smoky haze obscures the mountains but there's a tang in the air which can't be found at any other time of the year.

An early morning game on the golf course finds each blade of grass jewelled with dew. Spider webs, their lacy strands glittering with diamonds gem the weeds and the maples flaunt their scarlet and golden leaves against the brilliant blue of the sky.

Morning is still filled with birdsongs but many are gathering for the flight to the south. In an idle walk along a leafy road a grouse rockets into the trees with a whirr of wings.

Garibaldi, a harbinger of winter, wears a fleecy white mantle around his head, and although the snow soon goes it does presage the colder weather soon to come.

Trees are heavy with fruit; apples lie on the ground and crabapples, crimson skins glowing against the dark green leaves, promise bright jellies and pickles.

The last of the garden, plump ears of corn, tomatoes and the winter vegetables will soon be gathered and stored. Late chrysanthemums add their spicy scent to the air and it will soon be time to plant those hundreds of bulbs which provide such a showing each spring.

Maybe Browning wanted his April, but give me September, consistently the nicest month in our corner of B.C. and I'll be content to let winter come, knowing that it will soon be spring again.

This is hunting

We've all heard of incidents involving the killing of pet wildfowl or a tame deer and a recent shooting in this area came under the same classification.

A so-called hunter, on his way home from the Pemberton area, stopped at a garbage dump near Alta Lake and murdered a small bear down in the trench a few feet from him which was feeding on the refuse.

In the past few months bears have been in the news because there have been several cases where people have been mauled and killed by these animals. However the bears at the Alta Lake dump were a tourist attraction.

People would drive up in the evening, see the bears come in, and staying in their cars, watch them feeding. As many as seven bears had been counted there at one time and no one had disturbed them. In fact, people came from the surrounding area to see them.

But this so-called sportsman, who said he wanted to taste some bear meat, drove in, shot the animal and proceeded to skin it out.

It was just like shooting fish in a barrel, or killing a pig in a pen.

There is some justification for hunting if one plans to use the meat for food and goes into the wilderness to stalk the game, pitting the hunter's wits against the animal, even if the cards are stacked against it.

But there is no justification for killing an animal which has become so accustomed to people that it no longer has a native fear of man.

We once read a story in which the animals hunted men and sometimes when we see or hear of such an incident, we feel this might be an adequate revenge for animals to take upon the hunters.

Hippy or hood

In the past few weeks we have seen and heard reports of depredations by "hippies" and "hoods". Specifically a handful of "hippies" staged a "sit-in" at one outlet of Nat Bailey's White Spot chain of drive-in restaurants. A few days later a group of motorcycle riding "hoods" ran amok in one of the Lower Mainland's municipalities, tangled with police and before they were arrested, had injured two off-duty officers. And the recent episode in Clinton is another example of complete lack of responsibility or respect.

We hold no particular brief for "hippies." Nor for that matter have we thus far, nor are we likely in the future to condemn all "hippies" out of hand. Yet it does seem to us that by far the greater menace to our local society stems not from the "hippies" (dirty, unwashed and unkempt though many of them may be), but from the motorcycle "hoods."

"Hippies" may offend the sense of smell and decorum of certain of our citizens, and to those citizens, the sight of "hippies" wandering hand in hand down streets and sidewalks, may cause adversely traumatic experiences for their children, but we suggest such antics are by no means as dangerous to the overall welfare of our community as the party crashing, raids and general terror tactics of the motorcycle mobs.

We suggest that those who enforce and those who dispense the law concentrate on the "hoods" who travel in mobs bent on destruction of property and person.

The "hippy" we feel, (if it's really necessary), can be re-educated maybe even re-habilitated. The "hood" needs to be stamped out before he, collectively, stamps with steel toed and heeled motor cycle boot; on more innocent law-abiding and productive citizens.

Editor, Squamish Times,

Having just returned from Toronto, I attended the recent Conservative nominating convention as a voting delegate, it occurred to me that some of my impressions might possibly be of some interest to readers of your paper.

During the last couple of weeks many thousands of words have been written regarding the relative merits of the various candidates, by observers far more qualified than I am. For this reason I will not dwell on that but deal with the role played by the delegates.

This being the first convention of this magnitude that I have attended I did not know just what to expect. I was not sure to what extent responsibility lay in the hands of delegates. I found that it was considerable. The aspect of the convention that no doubt leaves the greatest impression on the public at large, due to T.V. coverage, is all the bands and noise and general hoopla. This, I suppose, is something we are copying from the U.S., but in my opinion it had little, if any bearing on the outcome of the choice of leader.

Most delegates, I believe, were committed to the candidate of their choice for the first ballot when they left for the convention. After that they were pretty well on their own. True, there was lobbying by supporters for their man, but if there were any so called back room deals, most delegates were not aware of this. I was most impressed by the responsibility each delegate had. Also, I think the voting was carried out in a very democratic manner, and completely fair.

Those readers who followed the results will see that when the fourth ballot was reached, a small number of delegates held the balance of power. The standing then was —Stanfield 865, Roblin 771, Fulton 357 and Hamilton 167. The Fulton supporters determined which of the two leading candidates was going to be the leader.

At this time Fulton withdrew, and indicated his personal support of Stanfield, but each delegate had to make up his or her own mind. The fact that Stanfield did not get all of the 357 Fulton votes indicates that the decision was up to the individual delegate.

To me this illustrates the important role played by the delegates, and it was my impression at the time that everyone of them took it most seriously.

I believe that out of the seven candidates, with two or three exceptions any one of them would have made a good leader of the party. While the candidate to whom I gave my support on the first ballot did not win, I came away quite convinced that the man chosen by the convention is the best man for the position. I believe that Robert Stanfield could make a fine contribution to public office in the next few years. It is my hope that the people of Canada will give him the opportunity to prove this. Editor, Squamish Times:

Several months ago I made inquiries regarding the leasing of an adjoining property to my own. After obtaining permission to lease the property, I then contacted the Squamish Municipal Hall and made inquiries as to the status of the property in connection with the bylaws concerning the grazing of horses. After giving a brief description of the property I was told that grazing horses on the property in question would be in contravention of the zoning by-laws.

Sometime, later, horses were placed on the property by another resident, and surrounded with barbed wire.

I was somewhat perturbed, that someone else could apparently do what I could not, so again I contacted Municipal Hall and again I was told that the practice was illegal, but that under the zoning bylaws any action taken must first be preceded by a letter of complaint.

The letter of complaint was then sent in, shortly after this I received a reply explaining that after due consideration by council the practice of grazing horses on this property was quite alright and therefore allowed.

It would appear to me that council and Municipal staff interpret the bylaws quite differently for some strange reason.

Yours truly
J. H. Comer.

Editor, The Squamish Times,

May I through the medium of your paper, thank the recreational commission for the playground programme this past summer. In particular I would like to thank the two girls, Judy Brander and Laurie Mathews who so efficiently organized and carried out the programme at the Mamquam School. The many children, in a wide age range were kept well occupied and happy and were always eager to return the next morning. Their teaching too of good sportsmanship and unselfishness was excellent. I have nothing but praise and the Ramus family can honestly say that the playground programme really helped to make their summer.

Thank you,
Doreen M. Ramus.

Dr. Harold Robinson, C.A.R.S. Medical Director, has been asked to serve on the Rehabilitation Committee of the American Rheumatism Foundation. He has recently developed an electronic device to assess the stress and strain exerted by an arthritis patient in walking and to measure the need for crutches and canes to help the patient.

The flowers at the Howe Sound Fall Fair were beautiful and according to the judge, among the best he had seen this year. He particularly commented on the gladioli and the hanging baskets.

I was pleased to hear him commend the basket as I've been very impressed with them and certainly thought they deserved a great deal of praise.

Mrs. McCann, who took first prize with her dahlia 'Enchantment' says it has consistently taken top honors at the Fair in the past six years she has entered it.

But didn't the display of cakes, bread and cookies make you drool? I know I was hungry when I went in during the morning to check on the Fair and the fact that it was almost lunch time certainly didn't help any.

The disappointing feature of the fair was the lack of young people's exhibits. Those who did enter put in some top notch baking and needlework but it was too bad there were so few. Maybe there should be some emphasis on this placed in the summer programme. This could help to interest kids. Or there must be some solution. Otherwise Fairs will soon become a thing of the past.

Like many others I stopped and watched the Artex painting. Peggy Barnfield has conducted a class in this for several years and I've been very impressed with some of the work I've seen but never realized how versatile an art it was.

I'm almost tempted to take it up. Who wouldn't like to paint a beautiful velvet picture or do a colorful wall hanging? Most of us have tried paint by numbers and this is just as easy beside being creative if you have the knack to go on to better work. Call Peggy and I'm sure she'd be glad to let you know a great deal more about it.

Of course Mrs. Axen was on hand to give her display of spinning. A Fall Fair just wouldn't seem to be a Fair without her display. And did you see the beautifully decorated cakes Mrs. Gatzke was working on? When you see one of these it makes you wish you had the time to spend on creating something like this.

Truly a Fall Fair has something for everyone and this year's fair was no exception. The hard working committee deserves a great deal of credit for the work they did to make it a success.

They tell me there were more entries than in previous years with the total up well over two hundred. Mrs. J. Makowichuk, Fair secretary, says there were also a great many new exhibitors and she was delighted with the interest shown by newcomers to the valley.

Loved the definition of election fever as ballotomania. Guess this is what we will be subjected to now that the Conservatives have a new leader and the Liberals are suggesting they may hold a leadership convention within a year. Once that is done they're bound to start flexing their muscles and thinking about holding an election to see who will be the victor.

And while on the subject of politics if Mr. Benner permitted them to call the dam after him despite his dislike of naming things after people, don't you think this is the right time to suggest that he name the highway north of Squamish leading to Lillooet the Carson Highway after the late E. C. Carson?

We've always felt this was a good idea.

Did you hear about the little boy whose mother was heading for the hospital to have another baby and who informed her if it was a boy they could put it in the garbage? I thought it was funny.

You've all heard of daffynitions, well here are two more to add to your collection:

An Italian definition of a bigunist — a large fog.
A specimen — an astronaut.

Ten little clergymen

The following item came from "His Dominion" and was written by Rev. Donald Wilson.

Here is a topical view of "The Comfortable Pew."

The muzzled clergymen preached the proper line; one mentioned politics and then there were nine.

Nine sheltered clergymen preached versus hate; one joined a peace march and then there were eight.

Eight weary clergymen worked from 9 to 11; one had a breakdown and then there were seven.

Seven sober clergymen said frivolity was nix; one raced a sports car and then there were six.

Six canting clergymen said "The Church must come alive;" one said "Modernize the Prayer Book" and then there were five.

Five passive clergymen seemed middle to the core; one forgot and crossed himself and then there were four.

Four captive clergymen just sipping cups of tea; one decided to revolt and then there were three.

Three conforming clergymen with wives at every "do"; one lets his wife go out to work and then there were two.

Two upright clergymen spoke of the demon rum; one enjoyed a glass of beer and then there was one.

One gifted clergymen offended not a one; he soon was made a bishop and then there were none!

Why is a ship a she?

People often ask why a ship is referred to as "She". Here are some of the reasons:

She's all decked out; often well stacked. She has a waist and stays, and requires a lot of rigging. There is usually a lot of bustle around her and she always manages to show her superstructure to advantage. She has pleasing lines from stem to stern and there's usually a gang of men around her. It's not the initial expense that breaks you — it's the upkeep.

OTTAWA DIARY

by JACK DAVIS, MP
Coast - Capilano

One of the first items mentioned in Prime Minister Pearson's bill of fare for the fall session of Parliament is a new Broadcasting Act.

And tied up with this is the question of educational television. Both Alberta and Ontario want to get started. And other provinces will undoubtedly want to use this vital new medium of communication in order to cut costs and at the same time, raise their educational standards.

Educational TV is bound to be controversial. Broadcasting comes under the Federal Government. However education — and especially education of the very young, comes under the provinces. So there will undoubtedly be a heated exchange, especially with Quebec, as to how educational TV is to be handled in this country.

ETV has great possibilities. They were outlined recently in a speech by the Secretary of State, the Honourable Judy LaMarsh. In it she said that a number of countries were already making extensive use of TV for educational purposes.

Italy is a case in point. Their Telescuola, as it is called, broadcasts secondary school programmes from 8:30 in the morning until 2:30 in the afternoon. Originating in Rome, they make use, not only of the most modern TV techniques but also the best qualified instructors in Italy.

Miss LaMarsh, after seeing this system at work in Italy, said that the teachers record their programmes in a real classroom setting. In other words, they are actually teaching classes and answering questions as they would normally do.

Viewers are located anywhere and everywhere. They are to be found, not only in classrooms, but also in community halls, church basements and the kitchens of ordinary homes.

One can imagine what the availability of these programmes, on ordinary TV sets has done in remote areas. It has helped, quite dramatically, to raise the standard of education, not only among students at the secondary school level but also that of the adult population especially in Southern Italy.

Not only can ETV help immeasurably in the teaching of science or the presentation of plays by great authors like Shakespeare, but it can also help to cut costs. The problem of crowding for instance, is less acute. By using large screens, modern audio techniques and closed-circuit transmission systems the audience numbers can be increased substantially. Classrooms for many subjects, in other words, need no longer be confined to 30 or 40 students. Hundreds can receive this instruction at the same time.

In order to get around the jurisdictional question — Ottawa has offered to build the necessary transmission facility. Last year's White Paper on Broadcasting proposed that a new Federal organization be created to build and operate the studios and transmitting stations. The matter of programme content, however, will be up to the provinces. Their Departments of Education would draft the message so to speak. Ottawa will only be making sure that it is put across in the most efficient manner possible.

One decision, at least, has been made. It is to open up the Ultra-High Frequency, or UHF, band for educational purposes. While this makes many more channels available to ETV it also means that many of our present day sets will be unable to pick up programmes of this kind. Sets with all-channel capabilities are now generally available in the United States. Soon they will also be necessary in Canada. Our Canadian electronics industry in other words, will have to be producing and selling sets which will also tap Ultra-High-Frequency waves if our adult population is to also benefit from the marvels of Educational TV in this country.

STILL LOTS OF TOURIST INQUIRIES

The tourist bureau is still receiving a lot of inquiries Mrs. J. Makowichuk told the Chamber of Commerce at its first fall meeting last week.

"We are particularly getting them from school students, who must have classroom assignments," she said. "Many of them come from the same schools, sometimes as high as fifteen."

She wondered if there was some way in which a class could be advised to send only one letter instead of a number, thus cutting down on her work in answering them.

W. Boyd suggested one reply could be sent to each school and the data be given to each pupil there, either by copying or mimeographing.

"I don't mind their questions," she said, "but when one girl wrote back and said my answers weren't detailed enough for her history assignment I was floored."

Mosquito control concerns Institute

The Pemberton and District Farmer's Institute heard the following mosquito control program introduced by their president, H. Ayers at the regular meeting on Aug. 31st.

Other items on the agenda were committee progress reports and discussions on road and district problems; school taxation on farm land and technical problems related to farm production.

The mosquito control report said: "as the current plague of insects fades with the summer season nature will soon begin to prepare the basic conditions so necessary for a blood thirsty crop next year."

"The fall accumulation of water, filling holes and ditches, supplies the ideal place for the female mosquito to lay an abundance of eggs."

"In the spring and throughout the early part of the summer this accumulation of water becomes incubator and nursery complete with plant food, thus ideally supplying the water part of the amphibious life of the mosquito."

"People shun mosquito infested areas and it is a known fact that such areas are slow in developing."

"To encourage new settlers and even keep the people currently living in this valley, we must attempt to reduce the severity of the mosquito problem by elimination of surface water accumulation."

"The importance of the mosquito control to the land owner is on a par with dyke maintenance, roads with ditches, weed control and land drainage and should become part of this improvement district's responsibility under the Water Act."

"Provisions in the Water Act to control the water level by constructing necessary ditches with proper gradients seem to be non-existent. Likewise our highways department seems not obliged to provide for escape of trapped water or in any way co-operate with this improvement in this essential aspect of local farm and community development."

"I strongly recommend that the organizations in this valley combine with the local dyking authorities to instigate a program to impress upon the provincial government the necessity of including legislation in the water and highways acts to provide a workable and effective program of ground water level control within the dyked area of our valley."

Mrs. L. Reid heads local CNIB drive

Mrs. Leslie Reid is this year's chairman of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind campaign for funds in Squamish.

The campaign is being conducted by the Catholic Women's League of Canada.

Mrs. Reid is currently recruiting canvassers to help the C.W.L. members with their campaign. Anyone who would like to help should contact:

Mrs. Leslie Reid,
Box 862, Squamish, B.C.
892-3748.

LEN MARCHANT STILL LOVES FOOTBALL

Leonard Marchant, who played such an important part in bringing junior football to Squamish, is continuing the good work in Edmonton.

He is the co-ordinator of bantam football for the Huskie Association. According to his estimates about six hundred young fellows between the ages of twelve and fifteen will be taking part in the season's activities.

When one realizes that these boys will be divided into twenty teams, it is easy to realize that Leonard's sports football activity will take up much of his spare time.

W. I. reports on summer activity

Pemberton —The Pemberton Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting at Signal Hill School on Monday, September 18th. Mrs. Sally Cherry, president, presided over the meeting with Mrs. Frieda Mitchell acting secretary in place of Mrs. Ruth Hellevang.

Appointed to committee

Two municipal councillors in the school district have been appointed to serve on the Regional College Committee with the school board representatives.

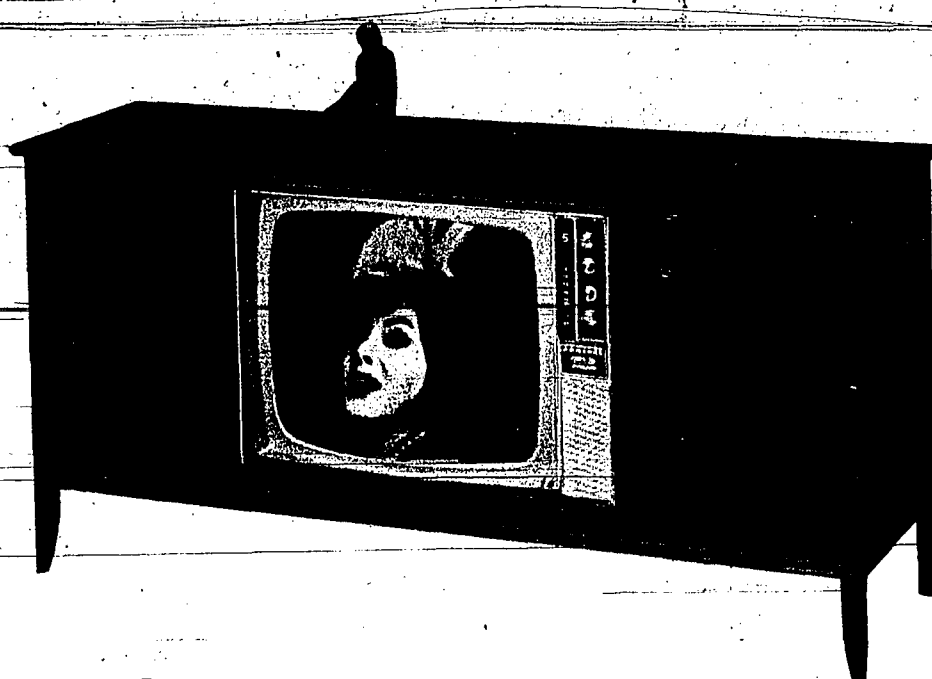

Councillor M. A. Carrico has been appointed at Squamish and Councillor D. Gill at Pemberton.

who was unable to attend. The main business of the meeting was spent in receiving reports of the summer's activities.

Mrs. Molly Ronayne and Mrs. Frieda Mitchell gave briefs on the work done by the group this past summer. An interesting letter was received and read to the members on an evaluation of the August work shop by Mrs. J. Robinson of Vancouver Island who had attended the function.

Ideas for future activities were discussed with a cancellation of the groups November tea, decided upon.

For the coming October meeting, Mrs. J. O. Decker will present a talk on the United Nations convention she attended earlier this summer. The meeting ended with refreshments.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rivett the week of September 17th is Mrs. Rivett's uncle, Mr. Bert Shore of North Vancouver.

Young Jason Olsen, baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Olsen is a patient in Squamish Hospital. He is progressing well and should be home Friday, September 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cooper travelled to Vancouver where they spent the week of September 10th.

Mr. & Mrs. J. E. Deach & family of Cloverdale spent the week end of September 9th with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Leach.

Mrs. L. Shore and Mrs. D. Boyes left September 16th for a week's visit to Vancouver Island.

Miss Lorna Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Williams of Mount Currie, has entered U.B.C. this fall, where she plans to study toward a degree in Social Work. Lorna took Grade 13 at Queen Elizabeth School in Surrey last term.

Miss Margaret Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Mitchell entered Vancouver General Hospital for nurses training.

Pemberton Village has awarded its road contract to Pemberton Gravel and Excavating Co. for ditches and laying gravel on the village roads.

On their week's stay in Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Cooper dined at the Alcazar with a small group of former and current Pemberton folk. Joining the Coopers were Corporal and Mrs. E. Greba, Mrs. Joe Antonelli and the Coopers' daughter, Mrs. Winnifred Blair of Surrey.

Celebrating his 21st. birthday also is Edmund Giguere on Monday Sept. 11th.

Mrs. Syd Webb of Kelowna has been visiting her daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. D. Gill and her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. R. Webb.

The two youngest Gill children have celebrated birthdays this month, Lorraine who turned 3 years and Bruce who is 2 years.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Kel Harris on the birth of a baby daughter Sept. 4th in Vancouver. A sister for Tommy, David, Nancy, and Ross.

LIZ SORBAN wearing the latest "Living Doll" hair style created by Ann-Mari Lappalainen at a recent styling and beauty show in Vancouver.

NEW ACTIVITIES AT BRITANNIA

Two new clubs, of interest to the residents of Britannia Beach are to be formed, providing enough interest is shown in having them. One is a Gun Club and the other is a Horse Owners Club.

Oh yes, and a dancing class is being proposed as well as square dancing. With all this "Extra Curriculum", we are going to have a pretty busy fall and winter season.

The second "Beautify Britannia" year brought many improvements over the first one with many of our residents putting forth a great deal of time and work in prettying up their homes and gardens and once again the judges had a very hard time in deciding the winners.

They deserve a big vote of thanks as this is a herculean task. Congratulations to the winners of the money prizes also the honorable mentions and to all of those who keep up their places for the love of it.

Attend meeting of Beauty Association

Attending the Allied Beauty Association Celebration at the Bayshore Inn on Sept. 17th and 18th were Eleanor Dorey and Elizabeth Sorban of Classic Coiffures.

Liz modelled for hair stylist Ann-Mari Lappalainen, guest artist from Las Vegas, Nevada, known as the "girl with the golden hands."

The picture shows the very latest in fall fashion styling the "Living Doll." This hair style has won continental acclaim.

The girls enjoyed an interesting day watching demonstrations from Ann-Mari Lappalainen, guest stylist; Bob Pursell, Hollywood, Calif., stylist; William of Vienna, wig and hair piece artist from London, Eng.; and Marie KawaKami from Utah, Nevada, internationally known as world's greatest hair stylist and teacher.

Joseph Anthony, Toronto, Ont., guest stylist who has a swinging teen shop in Toronto demonstrated the latest in teen hair fashions.

Mrs. Dorey attended the styling classes conducted by Marie KawaKami.

They both found the instructions and demonstrations very interesting with a great deal of information in the art of hair styling.

Three apply for local rock slide

If anyone asked reeve Pat Brennan, his partner John Drenka or co-worker Bob Ryan if they had rocks in their head, the three would probably reply "No, but we've definitely got slate on our minds!"

They have applied for a lease on Crown lands about four miles north of Brackendale near Brown Lake which contains a rock slide full of slabs of slate which should make excellent patio paving stones.

"Maybe the stuff isn't as good as we think it is," Pat said, but there's a whole mountain side of it and it looks like good paving stones to me."

The pieces of rock are flat and come in practically all thicknesses from one inch to three inches and in varying sizes.

The color is gray, a neutral shade which might not be suitable for interior work but should not affect its use in gardens or patios.

"At any rate we've applied for it," Pat said, "and if we get it if you know anyone who wants some slabs of rock for a patio or stepping stones for his garden we've got a mountain full of it!"

Old clock given to local library

The Squamish Public Library has been given an old clock which once hung on the wall of the old fish hatchery at Seton Creek near Lillooet.

The clock, which was patented in 1898 and whose instructions carry the date 1907 is a calendar clock and records the day of the year as well as the time.

It was given to the library by H. H. Bailey who acquired it when the building was torn down to make way for a lodge built and operated by the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

At the time the building was being destroyed he was asked to take anything he wished from it and this clock came to Squamish where it hung for many years on the wall of his office at the PGE Shops.

When Mr. Bailey retired he took it home with him and last summer asked the library if the board would like to have it. Naturally the board was agreeable and after Doug Fenton checked it over completely to make sure it was in good working order it was presented to the library.

It will eventually be given to the museum, if and when one is built in Squamish, but until that time it will hang on the wall at the Squamish Public Library.

Woodfibre Wanderings

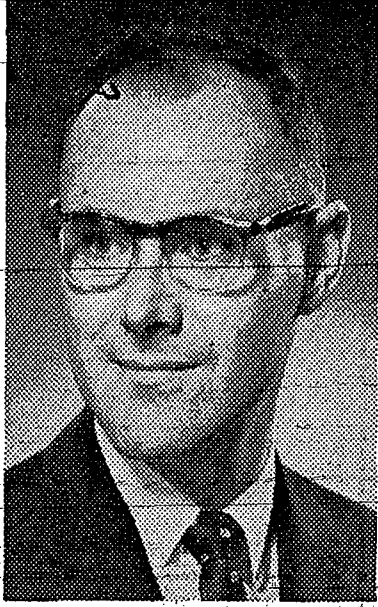

Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson have arrived home after flying to Halifax and Digby Nova Scotia. They visited relatives and friends in the two places but both were glad to get back to the B.C. sunshine. Old timers in Nova Scotia said they had never seen the likes of the fog there this summer.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bernier on the birth of a son, Christopher Bret, weighing 1 pounds 14 1/2 ounces on Sept. 7th.

Mrs. Sinclair (Nana) and her granddaughter Kathleen have returned from Scotland after a wonderful trip. Her niece Miss Rina McBain came back with them for several weeks and will be visiting the Alan Sinclairs in Woodfibre and the Gordon Sinclairs in Richmond.

Miss Terry Otterbine of North Vancouver and a former student at Woodfibre graduated from nursing at the Kamloops Royal Inland Hospital on Sept. 9th. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Otterbine and uncle Mr. and Mrs. W. Wickstrom of Woodfibre were among friends and relatives numbering 260 who attended the occasion. Miss Otterbine will start working at Powell River Hospital on Sept. 25th.

GORDON F. MacFARLANE

New Appointment
Announced

The appointment of Gordon F. MacFarlane as Vice-President — Operations, effective Oct. 1, is announced by J. Ernest Richardson, President and Chief Executive Officer of the B.C. Telephone Company.

In his new capacity, Mr. MacFarlane will be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Company's communications system.

Born and raised in Victoria, Mr. MacFarlane attended the University of British Columbia following service with the RCAF from 1943 to 1946. In 1950, he obtained his Bachelor of Applied Science degree in electrical engineering. He joined B.C. Tel in May, 1950 and has served in various capacities since, including Coastal Division Engineering and Construction Manager, District Manager and Director of Plant and Engineering Services. He has been the Company's Chief Engineer and Director of Plant Services since February, 1966.

Brief endorsed by Associated Chambers

The Whistler Mountain and District Chamber of Commerce last week expressed their pleasure with the approval and backing given to their brief regarding B.C. Hydro power lines, by the Associated Chambers of Commerce.

Presentation of the brief was followed by visits to see if there was anything further which the Associated Chambers could do to support the stand.

The meeting also heard president Frank Menendez outline a proposal to see if the area could attract seminars or similar study groups in the summer to use the Whistler area as their base similar to the one held last summer by Simon

Fraser University.

He said he was thinking of something on the lines of the Aspen Institute of Humanistic Studies, but not on as large or elaborate a scale. He was thinking of seminars for business executives in management and allied problems.

"Perhaps we could eventually build it up to something on the lines of a summer festival," he said "and this would be excellent for the area."

It would also make Whistler much better known throughout the continent particularly if they could attract someone of the calibre of a Kenneth Galbraith to conduct the seminar.

LIFELINE TO NEW FRONTIERS!

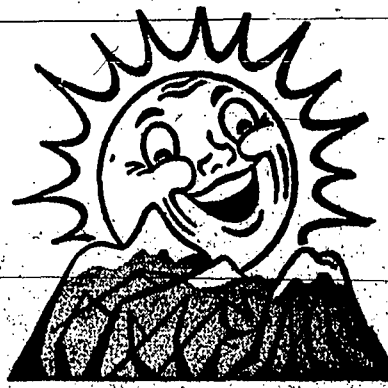

Half a billion dollars. That's how much money is being invested in new industries along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's line to north-central B.C. Half a billion dollars' worth of investment — and that's just the beginning. The P.G.E. is the artery which carries in the materials and equipment necessary to establish and maintain the new industries, as well as bring out their production for the markets of the world. It is a modern railway, equipped with microwave communications and up-to-date rolling stock, but it is still a pioneer railway, too, for the P.G.E. plays an important role in opening new frontiers. The freight service of the P.G.E. is vital to the new industries of the Northern Interior. A few short years ago, there was a wilderness of forest and muskeg where thriving communities stand today. The P.G.E. is the line that keeps the North alive... and growing.

William Edward Chaplin Dated July 26, 1967.

THIS HYDRANGEA is one of the focal points in the shrubbery in the attractive garden of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Summerskill on Britannia Ave.

Shrubs create frame for outdoor living

Shrubs which bloom throughout the year create the frame for the attractive garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Summerskill on Britannia Ave. "Eventually they will grow large enough to provide a screen for the outdoor living area," Mrs. Summerskill said. "Of course they are rather unkempt because we have just returned from a two month European holiday, but with a little pruning and trimming they will be in shape again."

"About the only shrubs now in bloom were the hydrangeas and a red weigelia which she said blooms steadily till frost. An althea was also starting to bloom and she credited this to the warm dry summer.

Roses were climbing trellises and still had a few blossoms. Other color came from calendulas marigolds and geraniums which bloomed in raised beds in the lawn and around the trees.

"Of course another reason we like shrubs is because they are easy to care for," she said, "and you can get bloom at practically any season of the year."

Winter jasmine climbs a trellis by the back door and she said the flowers, while not fragrant, bloomed early and resembled the forsythia.

Other climbers were clematis and two clematis, and a Ville de Lyon.

In a small corner by the garage a pink flowering almond was backed by a wisteria vine which climbed along the building. She said the purple racemes were beautiful in the spring.

Autumn crocus lifted pinkish purple blooms above leafless stems in a bed close to a weeping copper beech whose contorted form bore mute evidence of the heavy winds which blow in Squamish.

She pointed out a snowball bush and said the white flowers made beautiful cut blooms. Rhododendrons, purplish blue, in color stood by the front step and on the north side she showed how she obtained new plants by layering the lower branches. She said this also gave her additional golden cypresses and numerous other shrubs.

But Mrs. Summerskill doesn't just concentrate on shrubs. In their half acre-plot of ground can be found many trees, from pines, cedar and hemlock, to birch, mountain ash, red king maples, vine maples, lombardy poplars and laburnum.

Small fruits such as strawberries, raspberries, blackberry blueberry and gooseberries all have a place in her garden and she has also experimented with grafting trees. Her pear has a pollinizer grafted to the original stock and the cherry tree has grafts from Frank Buckley's Queen Anne cherry.

Apples, in several varieties, Italian prunes and greengages, and she said they bore a terrific crop this year, as well as a peach tree against the wall.

But she does prefer the shrubs and when you see the way they grow, from the hardy to the more delicate varieties, it is easy to see that she has a green thumb and the knack of making plants grow.

Feed lot refused

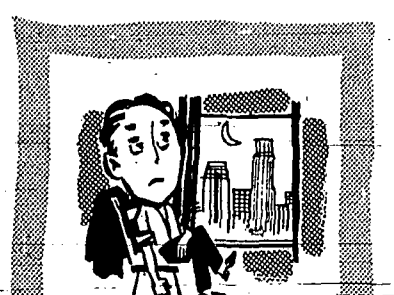

Council last week turned down an application for a feed lot on the west side of the 7th St. dyke area. The proposed site was felt to be too close to the residential area as it was only a short distance north of the Pemberton Road Dike which extends to 7th Ave. and might constitute a nuisance to homeowners.

Portable ski tow to open new ski terrain

Members of the Whistler Mountain and District Chamber of Commerce last week saw a film on the new portable Kuly ski tow which will make skiing more interesting in areas where only the cross country skier visited as well as making any small hill a ski hill where beginners and experts can get a great deal of practice and fun.

Designed to be erected by one person in less than an hour, the Kuly Skitow is the brain-child of Hans Schaer and some components are made right in Squamish by Wayne Boyd.

All parts snap together and the only tool needed is a small shovel. The unit can be packed on a small car or skidoo and can be moved anywhere with little difficulty.

The stations can be anchored to a tree, a rock or a buried log. It is set on top of the snow and the height can be adjusted to allow for snowfalls.

It is manufactured in a series and all parts are fully interchangeable. It has been enthusiastically received by ski clubs which use it as a training tow for race clinics. Ski schools use it for beginners' classes and resorts have found it useful to extend their skiing seasons.

The concept of the portable skitow was first tested in Switzerland where it met with great success. It is perfectly safe in operation, being equipped with a safety gate which shuts off the power source if a skier should overshoot the line. Handles on the cable eliminate wear and tear on skiers' clothing and gloves and reduces tiredness.

Schaer said it has been tried out at Whistler, and was used this summer by the Canadian National Ski Team training on Kakanee Glacier.

Children really like it he said as it is easy for them to grasp and they find it much simpler than a T-bar or rope tow.

The skitow comes in either electric or gas models and there are small ones for use on small hills or for beginners as well as the larger unit which was used on Kakanee Glacier.

High school highlights

Clubs and activities keep students busy

BY LOUISE KILBY

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "to talk of many things" and the time has certainly come to talk of the 1967-68 school year. It is the second week of school and about the best time to start activities such as sports and clubs. Everyone has started to lose their visions of an ever-summer and settle down to a long school year.

So you who are interested in working on the annual, get out to that first meeting and start planning. Interested in the school newspaper? Even if you've never worked on one before you can help out somehow.

Do you want to play rugby, soccer, grass hockey, golf, tennis? Think about it and turn up at the first meetings. Think it would be fun to be a cheerleader? Get some of your friends together and try out.

Boys: want to learn cooking? Get a group together and I bet you could have a riot learning. And girls — think of what you'd learn in an Industrial Arts Club for girls only. Then there's photography, art, band, music, drama, electricity, electronics, chess, bridge, science and skiing. Remember if you have a sponsor and enough students interested you can start any type of club.

And even if you didn't indicate an interest on the forms, you can join anyway. Of course, we've always had these clubs around the school. Maybe some new ones will be brought in this year. I hear a number of students indicated that they were interested in a sky-diving club. Now that would prove very interesting and exciting.

During the long winter months, school can get very boring with the same classes every day, the same teachers, the same work and not much to do in the lunch hour. You can improve this and have more fun in school by filling your lunch hour with activities.

Isn't September an awful month? Now I shouldn't have said that. I'll have all the September lovers running after me. But to me and others who have to spend this month inside, it is awful. It is hot and sunny and reminds us of the summer which we wish was still here. It also had the most beautiful skies (which is about all we can see from most of the classrooms) and they don't help daydreaming much.

Anyone interested in being a library assistant should see Mr. Murray. This work generally involves stamping books out, repairing books, and helping other students find books.

Class elections were held on Thursday, September 14. Representatives were chosen for the student council, service council, athletic council and fine arts council.

Pemberton ACW meet

The Anglican Church Women met at their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Gill Wednesday evening Sept. 13th. There were seven members present with president Mrs. Mary Taylor in the chair.

Plans were made for the coming Harvest Tea to be held Saturday Sept. 23rd. The Women's centennial project, a cook book will also be on sale at this time.

Health inspector moves to Squamish

Harold B. Catlin, the senior Public Health Inspector, with the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit, moved to Squamish this month and has his offices in the Health Unit on Cleveland Ave.

Mr. Catlin has been in this field since 1946, coming to B.C. the following year after his training in Manitoba. He started with the local unit in September of last year and was previously stationed at Powell River.

The area which he serves, starts at Britannia Beach and reaches ends north of Pemberton. It also includes Bowen Island which is readily accessible by ferry.

The large amount of work in this area, largely occasioned by the ski and resort developments in the area surrounding Alta Lake, prompted the move from Powell River to Squamish. The headquarters of the Health Unit will also be located here.

Among the duties of a health inspector are the investigation of complaints and nuisances and environmental health, basically of an educational nature.

He does not work alone but is responsible to the medical director of the health unit, and acts as an advisor to the school board and the municipality.

Other duties cover the routine inspection of eating and drinking places, schools, industrial camps, etc. He also makes regular inspections of water systems and samples them.

Mr. Catlin will be away on holidays until Oct. 15th and during his absence Norman Gallant, who replaced him at Powell River, will be in Squamish on Sept. 29th and Oct. 13th. Any calls can be left at the municipal office.

Mr. Gallant will be taking charge of the area from Powell River to Port Mellon, including Keats and Gambier Islands.

Mr. Catlin, who is married

HAROLD B. CATLIN, senior Public Health Inspector, Coast Garibaldi Health Unit.

with two grown sons who are also married, is living in the Mamquam Trailer Court. He is interested in photography and was once a ham radio operator but gave it up because it took too much time. However he still kept his licence to operate one.

Bank manager transferred

Mr. George Furniss, Manager of the Pemberton branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, has just received news of a transfer. Mr. and Mrs. Furniss and their two children leave Pemberton for Port Hardy, B.C. for his new posting Monday, September 25th.

The Furnisses arrived in Pemberton in 1964 and will be missed by their many friends. George and Pat have both been active in community affairs.
