MEMBERS of the graduating class at Howe Sound Secondary posed on the steps in the hall for the traditional picture last Saturday night just prior to the dance.

Sixty-two students take part in commencement exercises

The largest class to ever take part in commencement exercises at Howe Sound Secondary School, sixty two pupils with their parents and teachers, attended a commencement banquet and dance in the high school on Saturday, May 25.

A Japanese theme with place cards bearing the ideographs for "welcome" and tiny chrysanthemums, mobiles in origami art and wall decorations plus huge artificial cherry blossoms on tree branches decorated the gymnasium used for the dinner while the same motif was carried out in the large gym where the dance took place.

Here the students, first singly, then two by two and then fours wove the intricate patterns of the march as they circled the floor and the pool. J. P. Hughes, vice-principal of Howe Sound Secondary School, was toastmaster and Rev. H. M. Wingfield said the Grace which preceded the meal.

Gerry Dirks gave the toast to the municipality, thanking them for their share in making the community one in which the pupils could further their education. Alderman A. W. Hendrickson, in his response, said he hoped the students would come back later to give us the advantage of what they learned. "Look with charity on what appears to be the failings of your parents or adults," headmishmed, "because you may one day be a parent yourself."

MANY TOASTS
Roy Eliassen, in making the toast to the school board, spoke on the interest in furthering learning which the school board worked so hard to foster.

School trustee J. F. Mulhern said already a start has been made on the additions approved by the referendum. "I urge you to stay in school as long as you can," he said. "But if you do go out and look for a job, try to be bright and cheerful and don't resent those who are trying to help you."

Harry Stockman proposed the toast to the parents saying that "without our parents we wouldn't be here!"

Robert Armstrong, in answering the toast, said "you are going into the world at a very trying time. But I know you can go out and do what has to be done."

Miss Sharon Krieger toasted the staff who had patiently put up with the students all these years. In answering Mr. D. John said too many students leave and don't come back. He urged them to return even if they had been away for some time and assured them of a hearty welcome.

BE NON-CONFORMISTS
Mayor P. J. Brennan spoke briefly, telling the students he had unlimited faith in the youth of today. He said he hoped they would improve the world adding "the way we have managed things in the past leaves much to be desired." His parting request asked them to "please don't be a conformist, be an individual."

BRITANNIA TEAMS WIN AT NANAIMO

Britannia Beach Mine Rescue and First Aid teams did quite well in the competitions at Nanaimo over the weekend of May 25th.

The ladies team took first place and won the MacKenzie Cup in the novice group for men and women. Each lady in the team received a sixteen-piece ironstone coffee set.

In First Aid for men, Mike Denton's team came second for the Comox Logging Cup. They received cheese boards as individual gifts.

Mike's team also came in second for the Department of Mines Cup and each man on the team received a travel alarm clock.

In Mine Rescue Jim Greer's team took second place and received siphons.

Superintendent D. H. Campbell who was unable to attend and from J. T. Croft, former science teacher who is on a two year loan to Kenya.

He expressed his sorrow at the absence of Gay McBride who was unable to attend because of illness and then said he had the pleasant task of presenting a bouquet to Allisen Gebhart, a member of the graduating class, from her brother, Larry, stationed in Germany with the RCAP.

Marianne Schutz gave the class history, from the time they first entered high school as scared little grade eighters till today. She asked how many remembered Peter Napper with his neat ruler which he used to make everyone remember their homework assignment in Socials?

Jeannette Lindley gave the class prophecy and in a short witty speech, predicted what they would be doing twenty years from now; complete with visits to the moon and space craft.

LOVELY GOWNS
The girl graduates, in their long gowns and beautiful corsages, looked like the flowers used to decorate the gyms and the boys in natty white jackets and red carnation boutonnières, added to the scene.

Robert Armstrong chose blue with a round neckline and empire waist, with a single pleat adding fullness to the front while Yvonne Berube's emerald green brocade featured one bare shoulder. Heavy white sparkie crepe with a pleat falling from the empire waist, was worn by Lynn Bigelow and Jean Brait chose pink chiffon with roses at the waistline.

Yellow crepe with a daisy bodice fashioned Elaine Cameron's gown while Myrna Dawson chose heavy white peau d'elephant for her white sheath gown with white lace redingote. Pink chiffon with a floating panel and lace daisies at the round neckline was worn by Sharon Dodd while Cathy Francis also chose white, tafeta with pale green embroidery and flating nylon panels.

Pink silk over peau de soie created Allisen Gebhart's simple gown while Janice Holstine also chose pink, with a raspberry lace bodice topping a pink chiffon skirt. Eggshell satin with a small collar at the high front neckline was worn by Louise Kilby and Sharon Krieger chose white crepe with a chiffon overlay which featured beaded straps and floating panels in flame blue and white.

PINK BROCADE
Soft pink brocade fashioned Dona LaForge's simple sheath and Jeanette Lindley chose pale green with self embroidery at the waist of her gown. Dina Looyen wore gold brocade and Margaret McLeod chose pale lemon with soft blue flowers overlaid with lemon chiffon and floating panels of the chiffon for back interest.

Pat Macconnell wore pink brocade in a fitted style with side pleat and matching buttons while Penny Marcotte's pale pink Empire line gown was fashioned of rose brocade. Blue ribbed crepe was worn by Sandra Peterson and her gown featured white daisies on the shoulders. Lime green chiffon with a white bodice and lime green collar was worn by Gady Price and Shelley Ross chose mauve peau d'elephant for her graduation gown.

Marlaine Schutz wore yellow brocade, the gown featuring an empire waist and yellow was also Sharon Smith's choice, her gown being yellow sheer over taffeta with a yellow lace bodice. Barbara Steeves also chose yellow, "but white flocking accented her dress which featured white daisies on the sleeves. Shannon Timney wore apricot peau d'elephant with a metallic apricot top and Linda Williams chose white peau d'elephant with an overskirt of net and silver below the empire waist.

Kristianson safe after fire at sea

Ed (Tiny) Kristianson, who left for a tour of Scandinavia recently, phoned his wife on Tuesday morning, of last week to assure her he was safe and well after being rescued when the ship he was travelling on burned in the North Sea.

Mrs. Kristianson said he flew to England where he visited relatives in England and Scotland before boarding the Blenheim late Sunday for Oslo.

Fire swept the 5,000 ton Blenheim Tuesday morning and forced her 98 passengers and most of the 80 crew members to abandon ship in the North Sea where they were rescued from lifeboats by an international armada.

When he phoned her to say he was safe and reassure her of the ship disaster, he said he had a helicopter ride but she was not sure if this meant he was rescued by helicopter or just what happened.

"He only spoke for two minutes," she said, "and seemed very concerned about his clothes and other belongings which were on the ship when the fire occurred."

Kristianson was one of sixteen survivors brought to Esbjerg, Denmark, after five hours in a lifeboat.

He told newsmen he was awakened by the fire alarms at 6 a.m. The ship was on fire and you could smell smoke everywhere.

"We were called to the first class section," he continued, "where a lot of people were standing around but didn't seem to regard the situation too seriously. Nobody wanted to go into the lifeboats but I opened the doors to the first-class lounge and saw the fire was raging."

"We got going into the lifeboats then. I helped to pull people into ours which held 40. Ours was the last to leave the ship and then we sat around waiting for rescue for the next five hours."

He said the sea was calm and visibility was good so they just waited to be rescued.

Kristianson, who is employed at MacMillan Bloedel's Squamish division, seems to have an affinity for unusual incidents. Last year on a trip to San Francisco their plane was turned back by bad weather and he managed to make quite a story out of it.

The pre-kindergarten children attending the nursery school for native children at Totem Hall and their instructors were delighted with the visitors who came to see them when they held an open house last Friday.

Sam Lewis, manager for the Squamish Indian Band, was up from North Vancouver and said this was the first school of its kind held by the band.

"There have been a number of nursery schools in other portions of Canada," Mr. Lewis said, "and they have clearly demonstrated how important it is for our children to get this pre-kindergarten training."

He complimented the local Education Committee who had also been instrumental in promoting this development. Members of the Education Committee are Mrs. R. Billy, C. Billy, and David Williams, local band councillor, and Mrs. B. Harris who was asked to join them.

The children played games, worked on their projects and later rested while their visitors discussed phases of nursery school activities with Mrs. D. Baker, their teacher and her assistant Mrs. E. Harry.

Among those present were Dr. C. E. Johnston, District Superintendent of Indian Schools, who was very impressed with the progress being made with pre-kindergarten children; Mrs. Gloria Joe, office manager for the band from North Vancouver; Sam Lewis, band manager; Miss Jean MacDonald, social worker with the band from North Vancouver; Mrs. Hilda Fairbanks, Elementary supervisor, Howe Sound

No federal aid for dyking plan

By Rose Tatlow

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said last Friday the provincial government would receive no assistance from Ottawa for any program of river protection for the Squamish Valley.

A clause to this effect was part of the agreement signed on Friday for protection of the Fraser River Valley between Hope and the sea. Federal Minister of Energy, Jean-luc Pepin and Williston signed the agreement in Victoria.

In a telephone interview Williston said the provincial government acknowledged this responsibility and it could be assumed that Victoria would proceed on its own.

This latest development in the dyking and river control plan dashes hopes for immediate action on the Squamish River.

For more than four years Squamish has been pressing for such action. When the municipality was formed four years ago, river control was one of the main reasons for this action. Both Victoria and Ottawa had stated it would be easier to obtain this dyking program if the area was incorporated.

PLANS PROPOSED
Since that time the provincial government proposed a plan which was turned down by Ottawa as not being sure enough; it only had a possibility of providing for protection against projected fifty year heights of flood water instead of one hundred years.

Engineering studies have been carried out to provide for more protection, thus delaying any action for a further two years.

"I'm disappointed," Mayor Pat Brennan said. "In fact I'm really put out to see these past two years wasted. There's no reason why the federal government couldn't participate in some form of river protection."

"I hope the provincial government will go ahead immediately on their original plans for controlling the Squamish River."

CONTROL IMPERATIVE

"Plans for future development of the Squamish area hinge on some form of river of port development or more industry is pointless unless investments are secured and controlling the rivers within their banks is an immediate and imperative step."

The mayor went on to say some action had been taken by the provincial government and the municipality last winter when the Mamquam River posed a threat to property in the Garibaldi Estates area. This resulted in raising the banks in several places and rocking others to prevent further erosion.

On Saturday morning Minister without Portfolio Jack Davis, said the agreement stated if the federal government matched the provincial contribution on the big river (the Fraser), then the firm understanding is that the province would proceed on lesser developments on its own, taking over the federal responsibility entirely. He added the agreement specifically mentions the Squamish River program.

Davis also said he had correspondence with Pepin and Williston confirming this fact.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. CECILIA DAN

Mrs. Cecilia Dan, a lifetime resident of Mount Currie, passed away on Sunday, May 12.

Mrs. Dan, who was born in Mount Currie and spent her life there, is survived by her husband Stanley, three sons and three daughters.

OPEN HOUSE at the Totem Nursery School saw Dr. C. E. Johnston, District superintendent for Indian Schools and Sam Lewis, band manager for the Squamish Indian band come to Totem Hall to see the pupils in class. Mrs. D. Baker, their teacher, is bending over giving them some instruction in painting.

Multi-nationalism desired

Nationalism seems to be much in the news today. There are several kinds, the nationalism which made us proud of being able to produce Expo; the nationalism which leads segments of the population to demand rights for minute segments of the population.

There's bilingualism and biculturalism; there's parochial attitudes in many parts of the country, our own B.C. included, and there are many odd groups each asking special privileges.

Yet there are many who do not. There are many who have brought the best of their culture or background and added it to the culture of their adopted country, Canada.

We don't think they should all form a homogeneous mass, a melting pot, but feel each race should be able to keep those things and traditions which make it great.

Certainly the Germans, the Italians, the Scandinavians, the native Indians, all have traditions and cultures which can make Canada an even greater nation. They could help create the multi-national state.

Narrow remarks about two Canadas could be carried to extremes. Perhaps since the wave of immigration after the last war, there are as many Italian-Canadians in Canada as French-Canadians. Yet no one hears them screaming about a separate state.

This could be true of other nations as well. Carried to the ultimate it could fracture the country into many segments, each incapable of doing anything yet unwilling to co-operate to make the country great.

What is needed now is not nationalism, but a multi-nationalism which reaches beyond the narrow confines of one's own race or language to realize that we all have something to contribute to make our Canada a country bigger than its parts.

Our different racial origins are what make this country great. Let's preserve and honor their traditions while building up some of our own.

Others are watching us

Capilano College, your college, is beginning to grow.

Only a dream in the interim committee's heart for four years, it was given life by the March 7 mandate. Now it is taking on the bones and flesh of a post-secondary institution.

These are exciting times for all of us college watchers and very responsible times for the college councillors. They are the men charged with the awesome task of creating a pioneer-type college with no precedents to guide them.

Capilano College will be the first of its kind in the province, located in existing facilities at West Vancouver Secondary School in an after-hours program. The idea came from the interim committee to the Minister of Education.

When he accepted this opportunity for a college without building costs, it opened the floodgates in Victoria to other applications that lay dormant on the minister's desk.

These school districts will virtually be sidewalk superintendents watching our college emerge. In fact, they are watching us from as far away as Alberta.

While there is no visible sign of a college yet, the spirit is blazing away at North Vancouver School Board office where council meets.

They have appointed a dean of instruction; set the academic program; will name a librarian next week; called for a list of reference books for a university-level library; arranged with UBC and SFU to use their instructors as needed; and are processing applications for a principal.

The times like the idea that council has adopted of using university instructors on the college staff as needed. This buys valuable time to let them go ahead to select their permanent staff of high calibre.

We realize, too, that college council will make some mistakes but they won't be old-fashioned, sterile mistakes. These men are building tomorrow's college, NOT yesterday's.

So join The Times and others as Sidewalk Superintendents and watch YOUR college grow!

Judgment should be reserved

The new Prime Minister of Canada is an intelligent, suave person with a most warming smile.

It is said that he attracts young people. But older people also like him.

An elevator man at a Vancouver hotel said, "We'll know more about him in six months." As wise a comment as any heard during the Prime Minister's recent west coast visit.

Perhaps Prime Minister Trudeau cannot be known well either as a party leader or as prime minister until many years have elapsed. Of Sir Robert Borden, prime minister through the First World War, it is said that his stature grows in history.

There are many things to learn about Mr. Trudeau, and first impressions of him are encouraging.

Consumer credit

Leading authorities on marketing trends predict that the time is not far off when most of the families in the Squamish and Pemberton valleys will do practically all of their personal business on credit.

The use of "cold, hard cash" will be limited to minor purchases.

This is a far cry from the days not too long ago when charge accounts were the privilege of the well-to-do, and the rest of the people regarded the use of credit as either imprudent or imprudent.

Yet, in little more than a generation, countless millions of Canadians — raised in the tradition that it is best to pay cash — have been persuaded to a whole new way of life which embodies the use of many forms of consumer credit. There are logical reasons for this.

Credit is a modern convenience with a value that people are quick to recognize. Consumer credit for today's housewife opens up a range of wonderful goods and convenient services so that they are immediately available. Gone are the days of saving pennies and nickles for several years in order to be able to buy for cash a big household fixture.

The average business man who extends credit to the public deals honestly and either absorbs the cost of credit or passes it on at a low rate to the customer.

Because of its confidential nature, the use of credit is seldom brought to the attention of the public as a public service. The wise use of consumer credit as a respectable method of doing business is essential to the well-being of a community which in turn will make the municipality a better place in which to live.

HOWE SOUNDINGS

All one needs these days to make one realize just how unimportant you are is to be sick and away from the job for a few days only to discover that everything manages to get done without you.

It's a salutary effect on one's ego which usually tends to get out of proportion, to realize you can easily be replaced. But it's wonderful to be able to get a rest, even if the only way to do it is to visit the hospital and then spend a day or so at home recuperating.

Just points up the old adage that no one is indispensable, not even you!

Went for a drive to the upper valley last week and although it was cold and not brilliant sunshine, it was a wonderful drive. The birds were rejoicing after the light rain and kept swooping in front of the car, flying across the road and often lighting on it. Father said they were getting gravel and I suppose this was what they were after as all birds have to have gravel for their crops.

The white bush honeysuckle was in bloom and the hummingbirds were busy around their tubular white flowers. These busy little birds seem to be continually on the wing but for the first time I saw one light on a dogwood branch. I was sure they never stopped flying but of course they must. I can remember with delight finding a hummingbird's nest many years ago at Alta Lake. The tiny nest was beautifully made and in it were several pea sized eggs.

And spring must be here. Father reports seeing a bluebird the other day. The huge red headed woodpeckers are back too and one was very busy drilling on an old dead tree close to the house the other day. They are a beautiful bird, and now that they are protected we may hope to see more of them.

We went up as far as the forks of the river where the Squamish and Elaho meet and the rocky slopes alongside the road were golden with mimulus blossoms. Ledge after rocky ledge was covered with the flowers and their brilliant blossoms shone against the grey granite.

Later in the spring Indian paintbrush, camas and columbine will vie with the monkey flowers to make these slopes a brilliant many colored tapestry. I noticed the poplars which had been planted in this low lying area were growing and their golden green foliage seemed to glitter in the pale sunshine.

In one spot along the road while father stopped to look for goats on the hillside I looked for flowers. A patch of wild strawberry blossoms caught my eye and as I went over to look at them I noticed some white flowers growing above a bed of pale green leaves.

Surely the leaves looked like bleeding hearts? They were. But bleeding hearts don't have white flowers! Well this one did. There were a number of blossoms and I noticed the plant, similar in every other way to a bleeding heart, had pale green leaves and stems instead of the faint pinkish tinge which usually flushes the plant. I picked some, marked the plant, as we didn't have a trowel or shovel with us, and checked it out when I got home. According to three of my books there are no white bleeding hearts but one book did say they grew in southwestern Oregon.

So on Monday I checked with Phyl Munday who is one of the experts on B.C. wild flowers and she said while she had never seen one she had heard of them. However she felt they are a rarity. So, I must get a root and bring it back for my garden and also get one for her. I'll also have to see if I can gather some seed and get them to come true from seed.

That's the second unusual wild flower we've found up there. Several years ago we found a romanoffia near the gate. Despite the long name it's a very pretty small plant with saxifrage like blossoms and small round scalloped-edged leaves. It only grows in damp places and is usually found up high, not in the river bottoms. But we found it!

Of course we stopped at the Pilchuk for the mauve violets. The bank has fallen in and some of the plants have disappeared but I still found enough to make a small bouquet. We didn't stop at the Pilchuk bridge to see if there were any there but I'm sure someone else will find them. The blossoms are such a delicate shade, almost a lavender color.

The creek was fairly low, and while the Squamish River was up a bit there was still very little run off. Everywhere along the narrow valley waterfalls were pouring down from the snowy slopes, adding their streams to the rivers and before long we shall see the gradual rise which comes each spring.

Fishermen, who had been disappointed in their catches in the past few weeks when the streams were crystal clear, were out in full force and Hank Wulff, who minds the gate at the powerhouse, said several steelhead and Dolly Varden trout came out of the TFL that day.

Also some mighty hunter had killed a bear! We heard the shots and wondered what was happening. Surely no one would want a bear hide at this time of year when they're scruffy, but I guess it takes all kinds?

THE COUNTRY PHILOSOPHER

By A. B. C.

Boy the grapevines are sure doing good of late! Should be plenty of grapes this year. And coming from the grapevine I have heard the cream of the crop!

It appears a certain fellow we all know well was feeling kind of lonely all by himself mowing the lawn and decided to end it all. Wasn't really brave though, he didn't jump off a cliff or into the river. He was chicken and just jumped into his own fishpond!

At least that's the word that's out, but I think either his wife pushed him in or else he was getting fed up being razzed about not catching any fish in the river that he decided to try the fishpond! Sure glad you didn't take the lawn mower with you.

How was the water? Warm? For gosh sakes next time you are going to pull a stunt like that take your clothes off first. Give us a real hot line; besides it's hard to get clothes dry in this country.

Can you imagine anyone getting all the way to work and then realizing they haven't got a key to get in. Yeah that can happen quite easily I grant you. But leaving your false-teeth at home... NO... oh well, maybe the fish got 'em. Don't feel too bad there friend I know a certain party who was getting ready for a wedding and put scissors in the refrigerator. And another party who started out and suddenly realized she had forgotten her shoes!!!!!!

Oh yes, and before I forget; to the party wondering about the sex of the white mice, here's a message for you. "Don't be so stupid, you do the same as with a tree, you lift the limb and take a look."

Guess the next thing on the agenda is the "loggers' strike." Something we could sure do without. Think the women better get together and do a little so-called picketing, wearing signs "Vote NO — or else." I don't know what the "else" could be but leave it to the women; they'll have an answer and it'll be a dilly!

Happy birthday to Debbie Crompton, Marnie Hendrickson and Lou. I'm so sorry I missed out on wishing you a Happy

FLOWERS OF HOPE

CF bazaar and auction huge success

Several ladies from Squamish journeyed to Vancouver recently to attend the 8th Annual Bazaar and Auction in aid of cystic fibrosis.

The many booths and stalls were laden with home sewing, baking, novelties and the many other items made so attractive to entice the bazaar-goers.

Of interest to the Squamish residents was the "Mystery Mail" table made possible by the hundreds of parcels sent through the mail and donated by the Squamish ladies. This booth alone made over $60.00 and to all who made it so successful the Women's Committee of the Vancouver C.F. Chapter extend a very appreciative thank-you!

The highlight of the evening was the Celebrity Auction and Mrs. Leslie Read, Brackendale, was the successful bidder for the sterling silver cuff links donated by Jonathan Winters! Mrs. Read was also the lucky winner of the 'Castle Luck'!

The winner of the Outdoor 'Castle Playhouse' was R. Henderson of Delta.

The proceeds of this yearly event which this year totalled $2500. go strictly towards research into the dread disease of cystic fibrosis which afflicts one in every 1,000 infants yearly and is as yet incurable.

other than B. H. Brown of Yarwood Drugs!!! Yarwood Drugs have been in business here since about 1920, a long time eh? Mr. Brown joined them about 1946. So he has been here a heck of a long time too. How many I wonder did recognize him.

And Bernie did you recognize yourself? Perhaps you could tell us just who the gentleman is with you in the picture.

This week's picture is, I think, a dilly. But I only have one hint for you. It's connected with another article in this same issue.

Bye now. See you next week, as long as I stay away from a certain party's fish pond. Wouldn't you like to drown me?

ADRIENNE CAMERON, top flight fashion model from Vancouver who appeared at last week's Rotary Ladies Night, with Mrs. W. Thirwell of Edmonton who won the grand prize of a one-hundred-dollar wardrobe from Olga's. Full story of the fashion show will appear next week.

Fashion, make-up and prizes featured at ladies night

Fashions, make-up tips and terrific prizes provided something for everyone who attended the first annual Ladies Night sponsored by the Squamish Rotary Club last Thursday evening.

Top Vancouver model, Adrienne Cameron, assisted by five local models, presented fashions for spring and summer and a taste of fall, from Olga's Style Shop. Mrs. N. Barr was the fashion commentator.

Full story on Fashion Show will appear next week. Miss Claire Dempsey, of Lady Clair, gave a demonstration of easy hair coloring and spoke on make-up tricks, stressing the natural look.

And Adrienne Cameron spoke on women in the modern world, touching on fashion, make-up, personalities and everything that goes to make a successful woman.

She stressed the return to femininity, the lace and ruffled look; hair in curls and ringlets, and the two looks which are "in" this year; the dynamic and kooky look and the frothy and feminine.

EMPHASIZED FEMININITY
She emphasized femininity saying that "we all know we are man's equal so let's not try and prove it any further."

Other pithy comments were "woman is the creator, man is the destroyer" and "we have to keep ten steps ahead of our children and two miles ahead of our husbands."

Helena Rubenstein's statement that "there are no ugly women, only lazy ones" was another quotation Adrienne used.

She mentioned the natural look; medium pink lipstick, eyeshadow should match your eyes, "pale pastel whitish lipstick is out." Another admonition was to get out of slacks and not to wear curlers downtown.

"Clothes move," she said. "We see long torsos hugging the body, flaring skirts, pleats, everything in motion." She added that young people are playing roles and find the peasant look, or the romantic look exciting.

COLOR IN ACCESSORIES
"Don't try matching too many accessories," she suggested. "With a navy coat have hand-bag and gloves or hand-bag and shoes to match; then add a white hat. White gives height. Too many matching accessories only causes confusion."

"If you have size eleven feet, don't wear bright shoes!" She mentioned the seven basic types of women, stating no one is a true type but most women are made up of several types. These are the ingenue, gamin, coquette, tailored, romantic, patrician or classical, and sophisticated.

She suggested everyone should concentrate on basics, a plain coat, simple basic suit and then add the dash with accessories.

Her beautiful purple suit with mauve blouse and dash of pink at waist, accented with a brilliant pin, emphasized her fashion theories.

Claire Dempsey showed a film on color in today's make-up world, where color can transform everyone from an attractive teenager to the mature woman. Hair coloring is matched with cosmetics to blend with one's skin and the whole effect is co-ordinated and natural.

Easy hair coloring was demonstrated on a model and then she showed how make-up could change one's whole appearance; using dark-eyed, olive-skinned Miss Rotary, Dona LaForge, as her model.

After the demonstration Dona walked through the hall to show the guests what correct make-up can do.

Laverne Lewis the Squamish Band candidate for the title of Indian Princess for Canada, sponsored by the Homemakers Club, was introduced to the gathering.

MANY PRIZES
The big prize of a one hundred dollar wardrobe, was won by Mrs. W. Thirwell of Edmonton, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. Rizun.

Other prize winners were: a day at the Purple House won by Mrs. J. Helgason, Mrs. E. Klymchuk, Mrs. J. Lehman, Mrs. H. Robinson, Mrs. G. Rustad and Mrs. G. ## GOING? GOING? WENT!

That was the slogan at the United Church Auction Sale in the Old Church Hall on Saturday, May 11th.

There were goods of every sort, beds, toys, pictures, stoves, washing machines, book cases, TV sets, etc., etc. And who bought them? Believe it or not the keenest bidders were the young Lloyds, the young Barrs and the young Halvorsons. One enterprising young fellow bought a TV set for a mere pittance and shortly afterwards sold it at 750 per cent profit. There is a young fellow to watch. And why did one gentleman buy two old wringer type washing machines? Because he had a use for the motors, of course.

Art Lloyd and Norman Barr were excellent as the auctioneers determined to make as much money for the church as possible.

Coffee and do-nuts, juice and candy were sold at the scene of the auction so that everyone present might keep up his strength for the strenuous task of outbidding the competitors.

But in the Christian Education Centre a pancake lunch was served by Mrs. H. Wingfield and Harry McCulloch assisted by a number of the young ladies of the church, and such pancakes, in delicate shades of pink and green, each pretty pancake a mouth-watering delicacy.

Pemberton mill rate stays at 18

At the last meeting of the village council, the budget and rates were adopted with the village mill rate remaining at 18 mills.

This year there will be no hospital improvement requisition.

The Lions Club and Village Council will hold opening ceremonies for the new Fire Hall and Village Office with dates for the opening to be announced soon.

WEARING the latest in beach wear, one of the new models making her debut at Squamish smiles at the camera at the Rotary Ladies night.

Models make debut at Rotary party

Squamish may well become famous when the two models who made their debut at last week's Rotary sponsored Ladies Night, achieve fame in their new profession.

Guests were delighted with the appearance of the two newcomers to the world fashion scene.

Food for the spirit

By Pauline Wulff
Scripture reading-II Corinthians 5:14 and 15 (King James Version)

"For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead:

And that he died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them, and rose again."

Jesus died for a reason and with a purpose. God said "the soul that sinneth, it shall die." We are told in Romans 3:23 that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God," so we were all condemned to die but Jesus died instead so that "whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life" John 3:16. So, if he died for us and saved us from this death sentence, we should not therefore continue to live unto ourselves but in all truth we belong to Him. We ought to live for Him who redeemed us.

Laverna Kindree will undoubtedly make her mark as a model for swim wear, and bystanders were sure Cole of California and other famous swim wear manufacturers would be clamoring for her services.

The blonde model appeared in a flowered one-piece bathing suite with flounced skirt, wearing the latest look in sun glasses and carrying a beach hat. Her orange knee socks, complimented the small flowers in her suit and gold thongs added the finishing touch to her costume.

Nightwear was chosen by Henrietta Clarke for her first appearance as a model and she tripped daintily out on the floor in a two piece negligee set by Kayser, the gown and matching peignoir trimmed with black lace. A red scarf trailed from her fingertips, the color exactly matching the nail polish on her feet.

Guests were delighted with the appearance of the two new models and the workers backstage complimented them on their helpful assistance during the fashion show.

Juvenile styles shown at tea

A juvenile fashion show, featuring sportswear and western clothing for the young set, was the highlight of the O.O.R.P. Picnic Sale and Tea held last Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. David Rea was the commentator and the clothes were supplied by the 5 to a Dollar Store in Squamish.

Shirts and slacks, western style jeans and shirts, along with patterned runners, were the highlight of the show and Neil Kilburn in his bright red cowboy shirt and western hat stole the show.

Marie Rea modelled the latest in sleepwear, matching pajamas and a robe with bright red slippers to complete her outfit, the whole costing about ten dollars.

Mrs. Rea stressed their complete line of GWG sportswear and clothes suitable for the upcoming Horsecapades saying they had clothes the well dressed young cowboy and cowgirl would choose to wear.

Modelling for the show were Leanne, Glen and Neil Kilburn, Marie and Joe Rea and Sharon Murray.

The attractive hanging basket was won by Mrs. O. Cameron and Mrs. Jim Hurren won the door prize.

Picnic plans for OAP

At the regular May meeting of the local OAP group a two minute silence was observed in memory of Mrs. Lipsey Sr., Gary Walker and Carson Taylor.

Business of the meeting centred on the convention to be held in Vernon next month and the picnics in July. Considering the distance and the cost members decided not to send a delegate to Vernon. Regarding the picnics it was suggested that some research be done into the date and availability of a site for the usual annual picnic.

Discussion on the large Lower Mainland OAP picnic ended in the matter being tabled until the next meeting.

At the close of the business portion of the gathering members enjoyed pictures of Expo shown by Mrs. G. S. Clarke.

Church may be moved

Alderman C. N. Bells reported on the meeting between his committee and residents in the area affected if the Church of St. John the Divine is moved into Garibaldi Estates near the proposed shopping centre site.

He said ninety percent of the people contacted were in favour of the move. It was felt the church had a historic value as it was built in 1912 and was the oldest one in the valley.

Seven candidates for Timber Queen

Seven girls will be competing for the coveted title of Miss Timber Queen and a chance at Miss PNE this year.

Sponsors have been announced for five girls and tentative ones for the remaining two. Mrs. S. Rizun, in charge of the Timber Queen contest, says there is still room for more candidates if any girls are interested.

Already selected are Randy Allan, Miss Chamber of Commerce; Roberta Armstrong, Miss Royal Canadian Legion; Sharon Krieger, Miss Squamish Valley Rod and Gun; Dona LaForge, Miss Rotary and Penny Marcotte, Miss B.P.O.E. Two others are Cathy Francis and Lenora Sawatzky.

The girls met last week and heard Mrs. Rizun explain their duties as candidates and outline the duties of the sponsors to those who attended. Sponsors provide the banners and flowers and the entry fee. Arrangements can be made with their sponsored girl regarding her dress or other clothes she wears but even if a sponsor pays the full cost it should not be more than seventy dollars.

She added there is no cost to the sponsor if the girl is chosen as Timber Queen her expenses in Vancouver are paid by the PNE.

She told the girls she hoped to be able to take them all to a charm school for a few lessons in walking and how to carry themselves. Speeches would be on the subject of Squamish, any facet they cared to choose, and should be no more than three minutes.

Judges would come from out of town and no one will know who they are until the night of the judging, probably in late June or early July.

During the next month the girls may be asked to attend various functions but these would be kept to weekends in order not to interfere with their exams or school activities.

The girls discussed the question of dresses and decided to opt for short, cocktail length dresses instead of formals as in the past. They felt such dresses would be much more useful later. Shorts and white blouses will also be worn and these will all be the same.

STUDENTS MOURN FERRY EMPLOYEE

The community of Woodfibre and especially the students who travel the ferry every day, will miss the cheerful services of Percy Laing, Percy, as he was known to everyone, passed away suddenly of a heart attack on April 30 at the age of 60.

He had been an employee of the ferries between Britannia Beach and Woodfibre and also of the present one between Darrell Bay and Woodfibre since they have been in operation.

For many years he was in the same service at Francois Lake.

Mr. Laing resided in West Vancouver and leaves his wife and one son, Ernie, aged 17.

As a remembrance all the students signed a card of sympathy and sent it to his home.

MR. AND MRS. MAX KINAKIN

Garden reception follows wedding

A reception in the garden of her parent's home followed the wedding of Christine Marie McCoy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCoy of Burnaby and Max Harry Kinakin, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cunningham on Saturday, May 18.

Bouquets of peonies, white lilac and iris decked the altar where Rev. T. Bulmen heard the young couple make their vows at 4:30 in the afternoon.

The petite, dark-haired bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a period gown of white nylon sheer, over taffeta, featuring an embroidered panel down the front of the bodice and full billowing skirt. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and long tulle-point sleeves and a taffeta sash accented the bride's tiny waist. Back accent was provided by a bow and streamers falling to the hem.

Her tiered circular veil was held by a flower cluster and pink roses caught in her long dark hair, glowed mistily through the sheer veil. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

Her two attendants, her sister, Mrs. Louise Schmidt, as matron of honor, and Miss Janet Klarich, as bridesmaid, wore identical gowns of royal blue chiffon. Cut simply with a round neck and no sleeves, the full shifts were caught with royal blue ribbon sashes. A circular veil of matching chiffon fell from a flat bow of royal blue taffeta and they carried identical bouquets of white Shasta daisies and blue iris.

Wayne Drenka, was his cousin's best man and usher and was the bride's brother, Greg McCoy, and Brett Cunningham, brother of the groom.

The garden of the bride's parents presented a cool, shady retreat for the reception which followed the service. Tables and chairs were set on the lawn, and the bride's uncle, Max Henne, was master of ceremonies while another uncle, Carl Henne of Trail, proposed the toast to the bride.

A delicious smorgasbord was served and then the young couple cut the wedding cake, beautifully decorated by a family friend, Mrs. Eileen Booth.

Before leaving for their honeymoon in the northern states the bride donned an emerald green pant suit with white felt hat. With it she wore a circular corsage of tiny yellow rosebuds.

Her cousin, Nancy Henne, caught the bride's bouquet and Wayne Drenka caught the garter.

The young couple will make their home in Langley.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cunningham of Squamish and Brett, the groom's grandfather, Mr. H. Brightbill and his aunt, Miss Harriet Brightbill as well as his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. M. Johnson and his cousin Wayne Drenka, all of Squamish.
