Not a surprising topic for Mrs. Fougherg was one very dear to her, that of the historical development of education in the Pemberton Valley. Coming to Pemberton to teach in a one room school she watched the valley grow and with it the education of the children grow also.

With the coming of the railway, came a larger population which warranted the building of a school. In reminiscing over the past, many names familiar to those present were mentioned. Mr. Spetch, who had the first school in the valley built for his children, brought in a teacher. By 1919, Mr. Spetch saw the results of his efforts in being instrumental in setting up a correspondence school for the province. The parents were very involved in the actual building and schools in this area: Before 1950 students were only able to obtain schooling to grade 8, after that some went out to school. Following the first superior school which started in 1950, came the first graduates in 1958, Mary Miller and Michael Ross. In her closing remarks, Mrs. Fougberg wished graduates well and reminded them that if they set their minds to it they could "do anything they want to do."

Squamish council meets tonight

Items on the agenda for the council meeting tonight include a report by Mayor Brennan of his meeting in Victoria with the Hon. Bob Williams, minister of lands, forests and water resources, a report from Rayonier on pollution control equipment at Woodfibre, a report on the cost of the sewerage system and discussion of the bicycle race to take place on July

STATEMENT FROM SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

The principal of Howe Sound Secondary School, C. G. running of the first one room Greenwood, gave the "Times" the following statement concerning the school's announcement last week that Grade 11 and 12 students who had 20 or more days absence from school during the past year would be required to write examinations in all subjects.

"In October 1972 Howe Sound Secondary School was accredited by the Department of Education. The granting of accreditation to the school is recognition by the Department of Education that the school has been provided with adequate facilities, apparatus and equipment to carry on a full program of studies, that the teaching staff is qualified and competent and that the school organization promotes the academic interests and aptitudes of the students. The school thus becomes a responsible agent for maintaining proper scholastic standards.

Standards are dependent on a number of factors: The methods of instruction, grouping of pupils, motivationaldevices, a broad program of studies, and regular attendance. Low standards are closely related to poor

As a responsible institution, the school has protected its responsibility by making those pupils who have missed over one month of school, i.e. 20 days or more, write final examinations. Normally those who have a record of absenteeism would have to write examinations because they have not attained satisfactory standards for recommendation. However, it must be recognized that recommendation is a privilege, not a right. The privilege is granted to those who meet the required standards. Regular, attendance is one of the standards required."

Developments in all areas

An unprecedented construction boom is under way in Squamish. Last week foundations were poured for the new BCR wheelhouse and excavations started for the $5,000,000.

Speaking about the possibility of building a school on the school board site in Garibaldi Highlands. Howe Sound School Board secretary, Don Ross, said it would depend on all rooms in the Mamquam school being used and the number of children of elementary school age in the area. A new booklet, the environment needs you

The following is reprinted from "The Environment Needs You."

Air pollution - even the manmade kind - isn't new. You can find references to it in the history books as far back as the 14th century when coal was first introduced as a source of heat. What is new is the scale and intensity of the air pollution generated by industry today.

Air is polluted when it contains contaminants (solid, liquid, gas or odour) in such quantities or for such duration and under such conditions which may cause discomfort or harm to the health, safety and welfare of vegetation, animal or human life.

There are two major categories of air pollutant: GASES

Such as sulphur dioxide (emitted in large quantities by the estimated—the motor vehicle is burning of fuels high in sulphur responsible for approximately 60 content). carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxides, hydrocarbons and sulphur oxides.

PARTICULATES Both solid and liquid, for instance, fly ash, soot, dust, and fine mists of suspended liquid

Because air is a universal commodity it stands to reason that air pollution is a universal problem and has to be fought on several fronts.

The Canadian government has established the Clean Air Act to provide the mechanism to control air pollution at the national level by co-operative programs with provincial agencies.

National Emission Standards and guidelines are being developed which will apply to the sources of air pollution.

A very important purpose of the Act is to make sure that the burden of fighting pollution is fairly shared and that there be no "pollution havens" in Canada.

Through the introduction of this Act the federal government has assumed leadership in the fight against air pollution in order to promote a more consistent and uniform approach to control measures across the country. There is no doubt that air_ pollution is injurious to health. It is a contributing factor to the rising incidence of chronic diseases including lung cancer, asthma and emphysema.

As individuals we are potential polluters of the atmosphere when we burn fuel to produce heat or mechanical energy. It is

If you wish to reduce air pollution from this source you might consider the following suggestions.

WHAT YOU CAN DO If possible, organize or join a car pool.

Use public transportation systems. Press for their establishment where conditions warrant such service.

Have your car engine turned, frequently and keep it in good needlessly. Support efforts to improve the design of motors in order to reduce pollution.

Don't let your car idle

Walk or use a bicycle whenever

Don't burn leaves - compost them. Keep your furnace in good condition. An inefficient furnace produces hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide. Don't burn coal in your fireplace or furnace. Burn only low-sulphur content fuel in your furnace.. Conserve all forms of energy - thus reducing the use of electricity, which in turn lessens the demand on thermal generating plants.

Support legislation for the reduction of air pollution.

For people who would like to get involved in doing something about poliution but don't know just what they can do there's a new booklet published by Environment

It's called Needs You" and shows how provides practical suggestions: unbelievable bargains. 11 ways to fight air pollution, 10 steps to help preserve water quality, 10 hints on solid waste: and seven ways of controlling noise.

Starting today the Times will publish the four articles on Air, Water, Land and Noise.

"The Environment Needs You" is available from Environment Canada, Ottawa, K1A0H3 along with another booklet called "A Pollution Primer' explains nature's systems, how poisons build up in food chains, how lakes age, how water is constantly on the move, the sources and effects of various kinds of pollution

The Quiet

"And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am there ye may be also." (John 14:3)

What of the future? What will happen tomorrow, next week, next month or next year? Should I plan a new career, or change my job, or remain at my present job? These are some of the questions which are constantly in our minds. Is there any suitable anser for them?

One thing we DO know about the future, Jesus Christ will return to earth, and take those who believe in him to live with him in heaven. Right now Christ is in heaven building palaces for those wholove him. Once these palaces are completed he will return to earth and take his people to live with him in heaven and in their palaces. Now, that is really something to look forward to.

We can prepare for that day when Christ returns. We can know we will go to heaven with him and not be left here on earth. How? By accepting Jesus Christ as your own personal Saviour. By asking him to forgive your sins. Have you ever lied, gossipped about someone or stolen something? These are sins. The Bible tells us that everyone of us has sinned at one time or another. Sin results in eternal death; but if we ask Christ to forgive our sins we can have eternal life with Christ in heaven.

So ask Christ right now to forgive your sins; and you'll know one event of the future for sure, you'll have eternal life with Christ in heaven and in your own personal palace.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

By MARY MacDONALD

In investing, we should remember that the North American marketplace is going to undergo major changes in the next few years not just changes due to political turmoil and financial upheavals, but changes because of the nature of that population

For example, the number of people in the age 25 to 29 bracket will grow by 29 percent in the next seven years. Think of that in terms of homes; furnishings, clothing and similar needs in this huge mass of early-middle-aged people.

Think, too, of their attitudes towards living [It will be a stricter society, with less permissiveness not just in raising children but as well as in public and private morality, and particulally in financial.

A SOCIETY UNDER PRESSURE

As well, it will be a society under pressure to produce against the competition of the newly-emerging industrial nations that are now the under developed countries of the world. The necessity for cheaper, production will bring about an intensive drive towards sophistication in production techniques to lower costs further than the cheap labour of the under-developed nations can do. That will require capital investment beyond our current wildest dreams - or nightmares.

And how are we building a solid basis for this brave new world? Well, most people will say that we are doing anything else but that. I,

I disagree because whether we like it or not, a kind of Christian maturity is being forced on us. The economics of the world's industrialized nations are now approaching at rocket speed the limit of their productive capacities. We will have to learn to produce better goods at less cost.

Inflation is rampant in practically every "Western" country, and governments are hastily raising short-term interest rates and curtailing the money market to try to stop it, but gently.

NO OVERNIGHT REVOLUTION

There, and all too briefly, are the three major factors we will have to live with if western democracy is to survive in its present form. And I think we can do it. For one thing, the incessant leaders will work no revolution overnight, and may not instantly schange the great unwashed electorates into keen-brained, critical analysts, but increasing sophistication will breed demands for better leaders and higher standards, and the swing from hip-youth snap decision today to middle-aged thoughtfulness will put merciless pressure on our electoral process.

In the matter of inflation and controls for it, we should bear in mind that untill a decade ago, all of us were naive children in considering it. To control it, we do not know all the answers - yet. But every western country, alone and as a group, is making seperate efforts to learn to maintain stability of price and stability of international payments to allow trade to expand.

We'll see that learning process successful in many cases in the next few years, as we have just seen it to some extent in just-announced -U.S. trade surplus of $196.3 million. We will all — people and nations - have to learn that income must equal outgo. Period.

PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY TESTED

As to productive capacity, every surge in buying tests new limits, and demand for plants, for metals, for power are pushed higher on each peak. We are on the verge of an era where industry, government, labour and the investing public will be forced to cooperate to create capital to raise our productivity levels without raising costs.

No Sir. No Mam. No. Let me go on record as believing that the present turmoil is building quickly an infinitely better world for living citizens can get involved and and investment. And in that world, present stock prices will be

OTTAWA DIARY

By Jack Davis Minister of the Environment

The crunch is coming on the taxation front - corporation taxes I mean - taxes paid by businesses engaged in manufacturing and processing in this country.

The deadline is July 1, 1973. The battleground is Parliament Hill. The principal antagonists are the Liberals led by Finance Minister John Turner on the one hand, and the N.D. P. led by Dvid Lewis and his red-tinged cohorts, on the other.

The issue is a tax cut for business; not all business admittedly; not businesses engaged in finance or wholesale and retail trade; but all businesses which make goods and sell them competitively at home or in the markets of the world.

Why this preference. Why this "corporate rip off" as David Lewis calls it. Why a cut in corporate income tax for big companies from 48 per cent to 40 per cent and for small firms from 24 per cent to 20 per cent.

The reason can be summed up in a word, unemployment unemployment in the United States -- measures taken in the United States to keep jobs at home, to prevent branch plants from expanding in Canada, to keep capital at home by giving tax incentives in the United States which make it cheaper to export from the U.S., rather than to make or buy the same goods and services in Canada. Maybe you've heard about the now infamous DISC program in the U.S. (DISC stands for Domestic International Sales Corporation). It gives a special tax break to any U.S. parent company that makes things at home which it has or would otherwise make abroad. In effect, it cuts the U. S. corporate tax rate from 48 per cent to 40 per cent less. That's why John Turner had to react in the way he did. Down goes the U.S. rate on exports to Canada to 40 per cent. Down goes the rate in Canada to 40 per cent. Failing that, any U. S. corporation executive who has a choice, will make his product in the U. S. A. rather than in Canada. He will add to his payroll in the U.S., not

Please note - all this has to do with goods, with manufacturing and processing, not with financing and merchandising, not with primary industries like mining, forestry and fishing either. But this is precisely where Bob Stanfield and his Conservatives come unstuck. They won't go along with the Turner response for more than a year. They would rather bid for the support of business men other than those in manufacturing and processing. They'd rather go along with David Lewis on corporate rip-off kick as far as the general public is

As for the N.D.P., heaven knows what they are thinking about. Jobs. Obviously not. Cutting down on imports from the U.S.. No. Reducing company profits in Canada. Yes. But profits, Mr. Lewisforgets, are where the action is and we need more action in Canada, not

Two comments: One - Bob Stanfield can't expect business in Canada to respond to a short, 12 month tax cut. Companies look much farther ahead than that. Two - There are all sorts of tax incentives given to private companies by socialist governments. Witness a recent ad in the U.K. commercial press which reads:

"Come and get it!

If you are a manufacturing or processing industry looking to expand take a hard look at Saskatchewan. If you qualify we can help you greatly. How much in hard, cold cash? Write us we'll come to you!" Guess who paid for this ad. The NDP Government in Saskatchewan, that's who!

"Corporate rip-offs." Nonsense. These new federal tax rates In 1930 Dominion Forest will be available to anyone who wants to get into the manufacturing or Service transferred management processing industry in Canada. These are the rules of the new of mid-western forests to the Canadian game. Anyone can play as long as they do their Canada. What sort of a "rip-off" is that.

To Shannon Creek by helicopter

· Helicopters must be one of the now no longer in use and below us most marvellous inventions anyone ever made. Last Wednesday Ron Richards, who had promised me a ride in the company helicopter, said this was the day. He picked me up at 11 a.m. to go over to the Point Grey dumping ground, where the helicopter was fueling up.

The pilot; Don Fisher of Victoria, was just making the final preparations to fly so we climbed aboard and in a cloud of dust took off down the Mamquam Blind Channel, over the booming grounds and the small boat harbor and headed for Shannon Ealls.

Ron had said we would climb the face of the rock and it was fascinating to see the falls, quite high as a result of the heavy runoff, pouring down the mountain. Above the falls the creek tumbled through the woods, over rocky ledges and steep runs to create the waterfall down

To the north you could see the notch behind the Chief, the steep trail which goes around the back and the three points which mark the top of the mountain. We climbed higher to the 3,000 foot level where we could see the valley below.

Malloch and Moseley have the Shannon Creek logging operation and the snow was rapidly receding

Mount Sheer glistened in the morning sun, its snowy sides feeding the tumbling creek. Then we flew north, over the switchbacks up the mountain. To the Stawamus Creek valley. We flew over the 1,800 acres, purchased last year by Amon Investments from Rayonier, and this will make a lovely area for future home development. There are some rocky outcroppings in the timbered area, but much of it is fairly level and desireable for residential purposes.

Across the Mamquam and over the golf course where ardent golfers were taking advantage of the warm sunny weather to enjoy their favorite sport.

The new sewer plant at the Mamquam, the B.C. Railway shops and the town itself, all look different from the air. In fact, Squamish is a nice little town with lots of green space around. You could see the clearning for the new shop which will produce the much needed cars for the railway; the new sewage plant in the flatlands near Squamish and the Senior Citizens' home all can be seen as you fly over them. We landed on the roof of Malloch and Moseley's new building. Don said it was just to see if the roof would hold the chopper. They originally planned network of logging roads in the . to have the machine use the roof top for landings while it is in this

So, after a quick flip over the town, a whole roll of pictures and from the logged over area. To the about a 15 minute flight, we landed south the magnificent peak of back at the original spot where Ron was waiting to give the pilot instructions before he took off for Victoria.

Alta Lake News

By JENNY BUSDON

Yet another ski season has come to an end and how fast the winter months seem to pass somehow. Maybe more so this year perhaps... because our weather wasn't so tough to bear as last season, with very little snow falling in the valley by comparison and seemingly more sunshine hours: However, although Garibaldi Lifts are now in the throes of preparing for their upcoming new season they are no doubt reflecting on a very successful May Carnival held the Victoria Day long weekend, marking the wind up of daily skiing.

Can remember when this carnival was just an event for a few of the local skiers to participate in about 5 years ago and each year it has grown a little more and this year entries were received from all over the United States and Canada, and the event sponsored by Labatts.

in the Labatts Aerial Championship held on the Saturday, less than a point separated first and second place winners after three series of exciting and breathtaking jumps: Labatts presented first place winner Rolf Hebenstreit of Crystal Mountain with a $600 cheque, Andrew Gross of Whistler Mountain was second receiving $400, Jim Tryon of Alpental was third winning $300, followed by Nick Lewis and John Johnston winning $200 and $100 respectively.

The 5" of powder snow which fell on the Saturday evening just added excitement by camouflaging the moguls as contestants skied their way down Harmony Bowl in the Hot Dog Championships held on the McKAY MOTORS mechanics. Dennis Farquharson and Sunday. After an exciting and entertaining free style skiing contest the result was a three way tie for first place between Eric Lindahl of Bellevue, Washington, Bill Leyrer of Snowbird, Utah, and Jim Garrison of Crystal Mountain, each was presented with a $275 cheque from Labatts. In fourth place, winning $100, was Michel Daigle of North Vancouver.

Special awards went to Claude Martin of Calgary for the longest jump of the day, Eric Lindahl for the most entertaining Hot Dog run. Cathy Brock took the women's combined being the only woman to enter both aerial and Hot Dog events, John Johnston the good sport trophy and prize, and Rolf Hebenstreit the award for the men's highest combined total in the two championships.

Judges for these events were Chief Judge Ornulf Johnsen, Director of Skiing at Grouse Mountain; Stein Eriksen, Director of Skiing at Park City, Utah, Bill Vennels, Supervisor of Skiing at Grouse Mountain, Guy Baerveots, Assistant Director of skiing at Whistler Mountain, Peter Shandro, Western Representative for Fischer-Marker-Humanick Canada Ltd., Willie Vogl, Manager of Olympic Sports Ltd., Wayne Booth, Director of skiing at Whistler Mountain. Al-Menzies, Director of skiing at Apex Alpine, Penticton, Bob Switzer, Member of the 1973 K2 Demonstration Team, and Stanley Larsen Past Competitor and judge from Seattle, Washington.

Those rumors, by the way, of annual ski passes going up in price are wrong again. Price of the pass will remain the same at $155 and there will be no increase indaily lift tickets. And that surely is a nice and thankful surprise when cost of living in all categories seems to be shooting to all proportions.

Congratulations to Valleau Logging who are carrying out a summer landscaping project at the office camp. This project is keeping "landscaper" Dick Fairhurst very busy these warm days. He is doing an excellent professional job and it is really beginning to take shape for there has been a lot of back breaking clearing done in order to plant the planned shrubs and flowers. It is really nice to see the characteristic log houses that were not visible before and Dick tells me they will be painted and generally renovated.

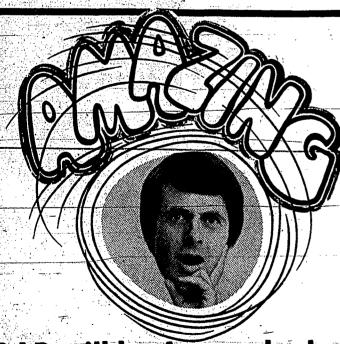

Whistler Cay Estates are also going ahead with an exciting project for the summer months establishing a 9-hole executive golf course on their property ('executive' is mid-way between a pitch and putt and full size course) and are presently slashing a path for the dragline machine to clear all the undergrowth brush. Future plans call for a clubhouse with all the usual facilities. Cannot wait to try my hand with a club! Now all we need are tennis courts in the valley - Nancy Raine's court is being well used whilst the locals wait hopefully!

Sorry to hear our post"master", Cathy Moon and husband Bruce are leaving the area to live on Vancouver Island. Cathy officially leaves her position at the Post Office on June 15th and at the time of writing the Government has still no one to replace her and if a replacement is not found, residents here will be driving to Pemberton to post and pick up mail.

It is also a well-known fact that a new post office has to be built sometime soon, as Valleau Logging now need the extra office space where the post office is presently located and although land has been offered by Capilano Highlands for such a building the Government still remains pretty apathetic about the whole situation.

The future picture begins to look a little sick if residents will have to drive a round trip of 36 miles in order to pick up mail and post a letter. It is quite obvious to all that with the amount of mail now being handled at Alta Lake a new building should be seriously considered instead of constantly being thrown to one side by Government officials. However, at this time the most important thing is for authorities to get busy and become a little more concerned in getting Alta Lake a new

Also leaving the valley to reside in the big City (Vancouver) are Ian and Joan Douglas who have managed the Alpine Village condominium complex for the last year and a half.

Since writing about Trapper Nelson packboards last week I went down to the hardware store and had a look at some they had: They are different than the old type as the wooden sides of the frame stick up a bit too far above the frame and will catch brush. This can be fixed by removing the metal cap on the side piece and cutting off two inches, then

On Tuesday the "good?" news was publicly confirmed "any student who has missed 20 or more school days, loses all recommendations.

Fair? Never, never, never A list containing 83 names of students, of which I am one, from grades 11 and 12 has been distributed; to inform them that they must: write examinations in every subject. These 83 students represent approximately 40 per cent of the grade 11 and 12 classes:

I think this school has a problem It lacks that little thing, called incentive to encourage students to retain an Interest in attending school. In my opinion there is no school spirit in Howe Sound—Crowned Salurday. Secondary. Perhaps there isn't any in other high schools either. I haven't attended another high school so am not in a position to compare.

In the beginning of the school year, there were a few little hints thrown out regarding consequences of poor attendance, but nothing was 'officially confirmed to the students. Usually the "Rules of the game" are conveyed to players before competing. Is it not so that the "Rules of the school!' should be conveyed to the students before the term or

This type of treatment does not encourage the student who, despite the fact that he or she has missed 20 or more days, brings their marks up to a high standard through private study at home or when sick in bed. It is high time that the school administration assessed each individual student instead of issuing a blank statement to cover a pack of wolves. The students do not choose the teachers to staff the schools but must accept their teachings for better or for worse. Self Discovery:

John Hasell, the executive director of Outward Bound, gave a 45 minute presentation of his definition of the program, to a group of high school students last week.

The program originated about thirty years ago and is constantly being modified and updated in keeping with the present day society. Outward Bound's motto is "To save, To Serve, and Not to Yield" and its main objective is for young people to learn through experience how to survive the unexpected with the slightest apprehension.

Each program lasts one month and it costs Outward Bound $400 for every person completing the course in the summer and $350 for each person in the winter. Stunts like climbing over beams 7 feet off the ground and 14 feet high fences are easily achieved at the end of the Young people 16 years and over are eligible to attend these camps and eventually learn to live safely and enjoyably in the wilderness. Feats like climbing rock faces, performing first aid and the art of navigation are some of the categories offered.

In June, Outward Bound will be giving a course for girls. Mr. Hasell said that there were no vacancies and that the course has been fully booked for some time and has a long waiting list of eager applicants. Boys attend Outward Bound during the months of July and

The correctional institute at Porteau is an adaptive form of Outward Bound, and the residents are urged to discover what the real you is capable of achieving

Mr. Hasell had been invited to talk to the students of Howe Sound through the Recreation Commission, in the hopes of interesting people in this area to form a similar summer program, on a smaller scale. Bob Ellison, Recreation Director, said that plans for running such a program through the school and Recreation Commission this summer, is in the planning stages. His tentative programme would consist of 5 days of bicycle and canoe trips, back packing and a one-day excursion. He said further information would be available at the school during the next week or so.

Outward Bound is subsidized by interested people and groups Participating funders are the Provincial and Federal Governments Sports and Fitness Dept., private donors and large companies such as McMillan Bloedel.

Track & Field Sunshine Coast Meet

It was a pleasure to have two track & field stars from Courtenay as overnight guests in our home. They felt quite at home with our family of five because one of the girls - Bernadine, is one of a seven-member family and Miriam is one of a family of four.

The weather was absolutely first class for the track meet. Participating schools were: George P. Vanier from Courtenay, Elphinstone from Pender Harbour, and Howe Sound Secondary.

Elphinstone took three of the four trophies. Those were the junior girls, junior boys, and senior girls. The other trophy, senior boys, was won by both Howe Sound and George P. Vanier, as there was a tie here.

There were no student council elections this year, everyone running got in by acclamation. Laura Lassman, Brenda Hinds, Les Harry, Les Laventure, Bradley McCornick, Archie McIntyre, Doug Wilkinson, Jeff Peterson, and yours truly are the 1974-1975 student council.

Everyone on council this year is equal, by that I mean there are no titles except for president. The president is chosen within the council and will change hopefully every month.

The annual bike race was held on Friday. Of the thirty-five bikes crossing the finish line, Lea Flury was the only girl completing the course. The winner of the overall race was Roy Woods, his time was 12 minutes 5 seconds, Bob Harkness was second with a time of 12 min. 6 sec. and Mike Rattray was third with 12 min. 31 sec.

\ I'd like to thank the R.C.M.P. for their co-operation with the bike race. They blocked off the road making it possible for the bicycles to proceed safely.

Three hundred and fifty elementary students from the primary grades recently travelled from North Vancouver to Squamish on the BCR Budd cars. They were met by the school buses from Whalley, then transported on a tour of the area before finally spending the remains of a wet day at Alice Lake.

A few days later another group of two hundred and fifty school children travelled via the Budd cars and made Britannia Beach their destination where they toured the Anaconda mine.

MANPOWER TO HELP STUDENTS FIND JOBS

Canada Manpower is to set up a student placement service in Squamish. Corolla Stinson from Manpower in North Vancouver was in Squamish this week to tell students about the service and visit employers.

Anyone interested in employing students in their businesses or in baby-sitting, gardening and similar jobsduring the summer should contact Miss Stinson who will be setting up a placement office next week in the "Times" office. A representative from Manpower will be coming up to Squamish one day a week during the summer to take student registrations and list job opportunities.

Don't forget the Survival Swim Clinic this Saturday, June 8 at 9:30 a.m. This is a free clinic which takes about two hours to complete. It is designed so that the whole family (six years and up) can participate whether they are swimmers or non-swimmers.

The aims of the course are to provide the public with basic selfsurvival skills which would be used at the time of an emergency. These skills include "treading water", putting on a lifejacket, swimming with a lifejacket, and the famous "drownproofing method".

If you and your family can spare two hours on Saturday morning it could save a life later on - perhaps yours, or your children's. Register by phoning the pool — now!

SWIM A THON The members of the swim club will be attempting to raise money for much-needed equipment and out-of-town bus fees on Saturday, June

All you have to do is donate five cents per length that a member swims (maximum of 200 lengths in two hours). If one of the swimmers comes to your door pledge five cents and be thankful that you don't have to work that hard for a nickel!

LATE NIGHT SWIMMERS This Friday night program is going "full steam ahead". Last Friday we had over 50 people and everybody had a great time. It starts at 9 p.m. and goes until 11 p.m. If you want to bring some records, we'll play them over the PA. Anyone over 13 years is welcome so come on down for some Friday night fun and get wet.

It's not too late to join in on the "Try it, you'll like It" fitness program. Just call the pool and get information about how you can get a crest for walking to work instead of driving.

Information about all of the above programs as well as the other summer pool programs can be obtained by phoning 892-5823.

Belinda Holoien was up visiting with several friends. She lives in Vancouver now, but lived here for many years prior to moving.

The Britannia elementary school held their annual track meet and everyone seemed to be having a great time. Many youngsters won ribbons for the different races and the children who took their bikes received safety instructions as well as being graded on the safety of their own bikes, 🚞

There was a small concession opened for the children where they could purchase their lunch. Special thanks to the women who spent the afternoon selling the goodies to the children.
