SQUAMISH B.C.-THURSDAY FEBRUARY 28, 1974 One yes, one no, one undecided

THREE CHEQUES helped kick off the campaign for the ice—the Squamish Loggers Sports, represented by Reter Gorarena. The Squamish Lions Club, represented by Art Lloyd, don, all presented cheques for $1,000 to Barney Bensch of the Squamish Rotary Club, represented by Dave Hinds and the ice arena committee.

THIS SUBDIVISION, just over two miles north of Cheekye, has been waiting for power for more than a year and a half. The problem lies in the fact that about 12 poles would have to be placed on Indian Reserve lands and the Squamish Indian Band is adamant about not permitting power lines or poles to be placed on Indian lands unless they are to serve

OLD LICENCES GOOD TILL END OF APRIL

All hunting and angling licences due to expire March 31, 1974 will now be valid until midnight April 30, 1974.

The new 1974 licences will be available some time in April. Announcement of the extension was made by Dr. James Hatter, director of the Fish and Wildlife Branch.

Persons not holding appropriate 1973 licences as of March 1, 1974 and who wish to hunt or fish during March and April must obtain "temporary" licences from local government agents offices or from the Fish and Wildlife Branch office, 1019 Wharf Street, Victoria, British Colum-

Dr. Hatter stated that the extension has been made necessary due to extensive changes in licence fees, redesign of licences, and an unavoidable delay in printing and the design panel for his plan and actually start work before distribution of new licences to issuing agencies.

The aim of the canvass, which will include industry, business and residents, is to raise $100,000 as the local contribution to the plan.

Cost of the building is estimated to be between $500,000 and $600,000 due to rises in building costs since it was first planned. The portion which will have to be raised by referendum should cost taxpayers no more than $16.50 per

However, if a great many extras are wanted the cost could rise as high as $850,000. This would cover the shell of the building, a concrete floor with 30,000 sq. ft., seating for 1,000 people and dressing rooms and change rooms.

You may ask what it would be used for. It's a good question. As just an ice arena, it would not be practical. But there are so many other uses for a building of this size.

No one seems to want condominiums

By ROSE TATLOW

'Council on Tuesday night approved one rezoning, turned down another and asked for further information on a third, following a public hearing which saw tempers rise and angry statements made and denied.

Approval was given to the rezoning of land in Garibaldi Estates for the new Legion building and condominiums; approval was denied to rezoning for condominiums of a small area in Northridge, and council wanted to check on the useable land area and possible storm water damage to a site opposite the golf course, also desired for condominiums.

It was pointed out that, even if approval was given, the developer would have to present plans and get approval from the final approval would be given.

"We're not prepared to give final approval so some developer can sell the property over and over for a higher price," Mayor Brennan said.

• Hospital Hill does not have an adequate access road.

• There is no adéquate playground in the subdivision. There is no room for further additions to Stawamus

Mrs. Ian Walker said she approved scattering of condominiums in the district but that these should be located in areas where people could get out and move around. She asked council to seriously consider the quality of life which would be presented in such a confined

Mayor Brennan said council was planning to improve the access road and it was in this year's construction program and there was a school site set aside in Valleycliffe. He said he was always hearing about better sites elsewhere "I wonder where they are," he added, "out of two we've picked out, both are not -suitable, according to your viewpoints. Just where are they?"

John Hughes suggested that if council was going to have zoning bylaws it "should stick to the damn things" and the mayor retorted that there was nothing sacrosanct about zoning, it was being changed all the time as

Ken Haraldsen, who along with Don Lecky, plans to develop the site, said it would only contain 11 condominiums five units more than would be approved for single family dwellings. He added that park and playground area would be provided and the units would be

The hearing on the Shemko property near the golf course which Landmark Holdings. plans to develop as a 44 unit condominium brought object tions from Gordie McKay and Ron Rosser. They objected to the density and were concerned about the problem of children playing on the street.

The problem isn't getting the power from Hydro. That was solved a long time ago. The problem is how to get that power from Cheekye across a small strip of land belonging to the Squamish Indian Band, which has to be crossed before they can put it along the power line right-of-way from Evans Creek north to the rear of the subdivision.

It's been a long hard struggle to try to get power and the people are wondering just what they can do now. They've gone the route of application under the REA, had it approved,

"What makes it really maddening," John Nolson, one of the property owners in the subdivision, said, "is that last month we were told everything was OK and we paid our deposits, the poles were brought up and Hydro said the work would start on Jan. 15."

"Then, with everything all set to go," he said, "work crews scheduled and all - nothing happened. Apparently the Inover reserve land unless it was to service Indians only."

She said that over a year and dians objected to the poles going half ago an application was made to Hydro under the Rural Electrification Act, for power for the area. To have put in their own power line was impossible as the cost would have been prohibitive.

Squamish Indian Band manager Philip Joe affirmed that it was the band council's policy not to permit pole lines across reserves unless it was for the use of Indians only, but said the band council might discuss the problem when it meets

Mr. Horsey said the only alternative, if the Indian Band does not agree to permitting them to have an easement, would be to put it up along the big power line and this would necessitate placing a power pole... in the middle of the Cheakamus River and cribbing it. This could be hazardous as the river could take it out during high water and this would leave the people without power.

The line, if installed would also service Indian lands in the two mile stretch north of Cheekye. Taking a long view of the installation it would benefit Indianalands and it might not be possible to obtain power for that stretch without total cooperation from everyone con-

SQUAMISH, B.C.—THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1974

Small classes not all the answer to be found for them.

It's no use to cut classes and add another teacher if that teacher is going to be used for administrative work rather than teaching, or if much of his time will be taken up with administrative duties. Perhaps we are reaching a point where the administration and teaching areas should be divorced and someone trained in administration could undertake this, freeing a teacher for classroom duties.

There's also a need to be selective about teachers. Granted it's an extremely well paid job(wewill not say profession because I feel that teachers who bargain for wage increases are not professionals but job holders) and it is an attractive one for people with the summer holidays and the other perquisites which go with the work. But a teacher should be motivated by a desire to teach children and candidates should be screened for this motivation.

We are not condemning teachers, we are just saying that all teachers are not dedicated teachers, some are there for the money and the position, and the job security.

The question of tenure is one that should be thoroughly revised. No teacher should be perpetually sure of his position once he has passed the preliminary period. Rather the trial period should be for at least two years and there should be evaluations at least every five years thereafter and possibly every three.

A good teacher is priceless and we can't pay him enough but there are too many teachers who do not come up to the standards which should be expected of them. swer. It's much more complex than that.

Smaller classes, as proposed by the They should be involved with the students Education Minister Mrs. Eileen Dailly, are and with the community, and we feel that not the answers to all the problems besetting teachers should live in the community in the schools in British Columbia. There are which they teach. If they don't, it is difficult many which will not be solved by smaller for them to be aware of the community and class sizes and different solutions will have the effect it may have on the pupils they

> Teachers should be used for teaching; using a highly qualified and highly paid teacher as the director of a resource centre is not utilizing his training or his qualifications. The work could be done by someone who is not a teacher but is well qualified to operate such a centre, and could be done for a great deal less money.

> When you talk about a teacher-pupil ratio in Howe Sound School District this is over the entire district. It's not really a true figure as some of the classes in the high school have only a few pupils, yet there are many elementary school classes which are higher than 30 pupils. This is far above the ratio quoted.

> Smaller classes, yes; but make them smaller in the elementary schools where the basics have to be taught. Make them smaller so more children can get the special attention they may require to get a thorough grounding in their studies. It's almost impossible for a student to pick up in high school what be should have in grade 2 or 3.

Yet it is not the teacher's fault. Many of them would like to spend more time on these children but with a large class to look after it's just impossible.

Smaller classes yes; more individual teaching, full utilization of teachers as teachers, and a closer liaison between teachers and the communities in which they work, would all help with the problems facing education today.

But just cutting class sizes isn't the an-

> Since 1965, I have attended most of the meetings and discussions about a Whistler Community sewer system but instead of getting closer to it we seem to be drifting further away from this project. Our permit from Pollution Control Board for permission to discharge 400,000 g.p.d. of effluent-into the Cheakamus River expires in 1975 and it seems to me that the P.C.B. will not renew this permit as it is already obsolete. When Tamarisk Development and AdventuresWest are completed, we Here, again, solely as a at the Alta Lake area will be resident of Whistler I am ex- discharging into local ground more effluent than the above permit allows. What about additional natural growth?

To my knowledge the concept outlined by Mr. Brennan is a turning point from all previous presentations on this subject and should be explored without any delay and hesitation especially when Mr. Brennan accepts the fact that the END of this trunk system and sewer plant will be within his municipal area.

His concept, if feasible from a professional viewpoint, may be very expensive at first, but in the long run I feel it will be by far the more economical, practical and less costly for all participants if the cost is distributed in the proper manner between the users along the action and leadership in line with Mr. Brennan's statement and establish a committee to deal with the following.

1. Get approval from Victoria and obtain a professional opinion, as to the feasibility of a trunk sewer line working satisfactorily to carry solids for plus or minus 30 miles before reaching a sewer plant. What are the costs involved?

2. Assess the type of sewer plant required and cost estimates.

3. Investigate the possibility of establishing R. of W. for trunk sewer line along B.C.R. 4. Investigate the possibility of a permit from B.C.R. using the present railway facilities for the construction and digging of the trunk line along the present railway line.

With regard to 3 and 4 above it seems to me that the present B.C.R. lines are ideal for such a project from every aspect especially as: • it is the shortest distance

• it is accessible for construction purposes • it is accessible for maintenance purposes • it is accessible for repair and malfunction year round • gravity carries the effluent

In conclusion, I urge that if the above is found to be satisfactory, let us go ahead and build without any further delay.

The next step for the Regional District should be to form a Corporation to carry on a project, under Regional District jurisdiction, as a number one public utility service.

Unfortunately I am a so called pensioner, having worked all my life to have a bit of nest egg to live on for my retirement, but now that we have this sky rocketing inflation a pension check is not worth the paper it is written on! It is a complete farce! People buy bonds paying seven percent interest, and the cost of living keeps going up at the rate of nine, 10, 11, and 12 percent a year so how in the name of common sense can any one keep up when we lose at least three percent a year.

We have a government in Ottawa whose prime minister only

There always seems to be some other issue for our federal government to debate such as the hanging bill, forcing the railway workers back to work, and now the so called energy crisis (of which there is none). just a debate to make sure the oil companies get huge windfall profits! Can you imagine a government working hand in hand with foreign oil companies to fire the flames of this skyrocketing inflation!

> immediately phoned the local assessment clerk and was told the 10% limitation had been lifted and it would do me no good to appeal to the Court of Revision as this was the value that had been assessed and that was that

On the final day of the court of revision I received a letter from the municipal clerk in Squamish which I quote in part:

'Re: 1974 Assessments. "Further to your enquiry concerning your assessment, please be advised that we are attempting to obtain clarification of statements recently made by the premier." "It so happens that a letter was received from the assessment Commissioner by the district of Squamish during '1973'that all residential properties must be evaluated and the 10% limitation was not to be observed."

On February 8, I received the following letter from Mr. Barrett part of which I will quote.

"The official deadline for appealing assessments has passed, but in most areas of our province Assessment Courts of Revision are still hearing appeals. The Courts have the legislative authority to make final adjustments in assessment rolls, beyond changes resulting from specific appeals.

"If you believe that your 1974 assessment should be adjusted but you did not appeal before the deadline expired last month, go to the court of revision with a written request that they take your assessment into account in preparing the final assessment roll. The Courts can take these requests into consideration on an informal basis because of their power to approve the final assessment rolls. "Under 1973 amendments to the Assessment Equalization Act, land used for residential purposes and farm lands were kept under a provision that restricted assessment increases to not more than 10% annually. This restriction does not apply to vacant lands or commercial properties. These have been allowed to rise to assessments of 50% of market value."

It appears to me that in this modern day and age a person in office could have a matter like this clarified before setting any final figures to assessments.

It took me less than a week to obtain the above information quoted from Mr. Barrett's reply

Howe Soundings

Last week I went for a walk in the forest. That doesn't soundexciting does it? But today when a person-usually only steps out of the car to go to his destination and just doesn't take time out to walk, it was interesting.

The forest was quiet; the only sound the wind soughing in the branches high above. There were no hird songs, no chatter of squirrels, and while it wasn't raining the thin wisps of fog drifting through the tops of the trees gave it an almost eerie feeling.

There were patches of snow alongside the road, on its edges the hemlocks and firs, small but growing strongly, would soon be encroaching on the travelled portion of the old road. As I walked slowly along I kept thinking this would be a perfect place to get the tiny hemlocks I wanted to transplant into the yard to make a hedge. They were anywhere from a foot high to three feet and should transplant easily. This would be the time to get them but I didn't have a shovel, didn't have a place ready for them, and was just too lazy.

Ferns clothed the hillside above the road and there were others on the rocky banks, their green fronds lying flat against the ground or stone, some almost covered by the decaying leaves of last year. There were no new fronds, these would not show till spring started the sap running in the trees and the forest awoke from its slumber.

The deciduous trees showed bare limbs, their stender branches stark against the cold grey sky; but they would soon be taking on their first flush of spring green. Already the alders, their stained grey bark ghostly against the evergreens, were showing that the warmer days and longer hours of light were causing reactions. The red flush which suffuses the alders at this time of year and gives them the name red alder, was beginning to show.

in the open spaces the willows, with soft furry blossoms, were the harbingers of.... spring. They have been showing for the past month and a half and soon will be turning golden as the flowers ripen. Huckleberries and blueberries were also showing the tight buds which will soon explode into the pink and greenish bell-shaped blossoms which clothe the twigs long before the leaves appear. I can remember showing my children how to pluck those blooms and suck the honey from

Under last year's carpet of leaves the first signs of spring are stirring. Plants, whose leaves die each year and which start anew as the warmth of spring returns, were already activating the forces which would produce new leaves and flowers; the rotting leaves were preparing a nursery for the maple seeds, whose wings had carried them to the ground many yards from the parent tree, and soon they would be splitting open and the miracle of growth would begin

Under the ground, warmly protected by the layer of earth and snow, insects would be starting to stir and the busy earthworms, honeycombing the ground with their passages, were making the earth a receptacle for the time of growth.

A forest in winter may seem to be a sombre and a silent one, but it is just biding its time till the miracles of sun and light cause it to burst forth in the annual resurrection of growth we watch with renewed interest

Stump dump reviewed

The operation of a stump dump was reviewed February 7 by the Squamish Council finance committee. Cost of maintaining the dump is from $4000 to $5000 per year with most of the stumps coming from Garibaldi Highlands, Valleycliffe subdivision and other new lots within the district.

It was decided that the stump dump question be tabled for another year until the cost of maintaining the dump reaches a level where employment of personnel in the area is necessary. A study is to be made of the possibility of running the stump dump from the same location as the garbage dump. At that time the maintenance cost might be Sincerely, sufficient to justify employing Mrs. B. Langstaff personnel.

there could be problems if it came down the new road to the Highlands and the cut in the hill behind. He was also concerned about the quality of life in a condominium complex with a high road and a high bank on two of the three sides of the property. In response to Mrs. Shemko's remark that Mr. McKay had been interested in the site for condominiums, he said they had planned on 20 units, but with no children.

That also got the mayor angry. "I'm upset whenever I hear people say 'No Kids'. This is never going to be a place just for a retirement area and what right has anyone to say that there can't be any kids in a housing area."

This proposal will be reconsidered following a site plan showing the useable land and a soil study on drainage from the Highlands behind.

The third proposal, regarding the Canadian Legion building and condominiums on the balance of the Legion property, was also protested but the presentation by Arie Hoogenboom asked about the density, drainage problems, the number of units and provision of a buffer zone.

Mr. Hoogenboom was afraid the property might be filled to a higher level than the surrounding land and that this would complicate already existing drainage problems. He was told that no new development would be permitted till studies have been completed on land levels in the area so no one would be affected by too much fill on any new development.

M. A. Carrico, speaking for the Legion, said he thought it was a logical use for the property as it conformed with the residential buildings to the north and because of its proximity to the commercial area. It was also a relatively isolated area and would not grow because of the limitations imposed by the highway and the commercial core, as well as the power line.

Only three of the five acreswould be developed and the power line, which occupies two of the five acres, could be used for parking and a play area. Council gave notice of motion for approval pending filing of a Land Use plan and the submission of a plan to the Design Panel as well as the proof of actual construction.

In checking over some information on deer hunting in the southern states I found that the populations of white-tailed deer are replenishing themselves year after year as hunters enjoy record success from Virginia to Texas. Changing patterns of agriculture and forestry have felped a lot to increase the number of deer in many southern states. Seasons and bag limits are becoming more generous. For instance South Carolina deer season opens in mid-August in part of the state and is open through December. They not only get four and a half months to hunt but can take five deer. This may seem to be a large bag limit at first but when we consider that hunters take less than half of the deer in the state each season it's easy to see that they may have to increase the bag limit.

Even with this liberal amount of hunting the deer are multiplying so rapidly in some areas that special doe seasons have to be opened to keep the deer from eating themselves out of house and. ome, and that is where the biologist and game commission run into trouble with the hunters who fought to bring the game back. They have strong rod and gun clubs down there and will not stand for long seasons, large bag limits, or doe seasons unless it's clearly long seasons, large bag limits, or doe seasons unless it's clearly shown that it is necessary. The game biologist has no say in regulating seasons on game, he can only recommend changes to the commission and the commission will try and come up with something the hunters will go along with.

A lot of those hunters still remember when white-tail deer were rare in the south and extinct in huge areas, so they are not going to let it happen again. From roughly 1900 to 1950 the southern deer were at their lowest numbers. It was found only in rugged mountains, too tough for most hunters, and in huge swamps which are almost impenetrable. Most southern states had short deer seasons or none at all. In the Piedmont belt of the south, lying between the coastal swamps and the mountains, deer were extinct. From 1950 on the hunters really put their foot down, they formed strong clubs and demanded and got good state fish and game departments and put them to work. Deer were live trapped and brought in and protected under better law enforcement.

Many small farms had been abandoned and had grown up in good deer browse. Forestry plantings and conservation practices resulted in more openings and edges for new browse to come in. Much of the south formerly planted to row crops, was turned into grassland, highly limed and fertilized. People co-operated more in the apprehension of poachers and jacklighters. Large numbers of deer were live trapped in the northern states and hauled down south and turned loose where needed. Then the areas were kept closed to hunting deer. Killing a deer in any of the closed areas brought on a heavy fine and a long jail sentence, and after being released from jail a man just had to leave the county if not the state as he was about as popular as a skunk at a picnic.

Thirty years ago if a hunter brought home a trophy head with wide antlers and many points, he was somewhat of a hero. It meant he had been hunting out west, or in the remote mountain area or in the deep swamps. Not any more. There are too many hunters doing the same thing. Last year, Florida hunters took 48,000 deer, South Carolina hunters took 50,000 deer. I do not have the figures for all the states yet but will give a few figures to show how they have brought the game back. By the hunters backed by the general public insisting on good game management. For the 1910 season in New York 9,000 deer were taken, for 1968, 78,000. Only 8,000 whitetails were taken in Pennsylvania in 1910 compared to the 1968 take Thèse figures have more than doubled now in some states, and -a few states have built their game herds up to the limit of their game ranges, only then will the hunters go along with a doe season. So there you have it, down south the hunter fighting to maintain good conservation, refusing any regulation that would be a danger to their game herds. While here the hunters stand by and go along with any regulations that are handed out. The only thing that will make them start thinking is when there is no longer anything to hunt. However there is some hope now that we have a new government. With the government buying up land for game range and curtailing the logging on the game ranges the outlook has changed for the bet-

To my knowledge there has been only one strong objection to the way our game was being managed and that was when a couple in Vernon, B.C. started a province-wide petition which was loaded with signatures and sent to Premier Bennett. That shook the game branch up a little but after the head of the B.C. Wildlife Federation failed to back the petition the game branch took a chance and kept on with long seasons and large bag limits. The result was that the federation lost members and the government lost thousands of votes

The gun that is most popular for hunting deer in the southern swamps is the shotgun, either with buckshot or rifled slugs. They also use hounds to hunt deer in the swamps. A party of 10 or 12 men will go out and all but the hound man will take up stands, then the hounds will be started and the hunters will feel lucky if one deer is bagged. Quite often no one gets a shot all day. So the deer keep increasing in the swamps.

Coal train deal could mean 100 coal cars a day

There could be up to 100 coal day coming through Squamish and it was announced that no cars a day passing through Squamish and on to North Vancouver from the Sukunka fields near Chetwynd, the Times learned last week.

A principal officer of B.C. Railway, who did not wish to be identified said that "talks are I don't think we should be talking about this."

The railway spokesman said, however, that the railway bid for the coal transport contract is for covered coal cars only. He said the whole matter is "still-in the negotiation stage."

Another usually reliable source also told the Times that there will soon be 90 cars per

Squamish Earful

by Maureen Gilmour

Would like to think that if a moose or deer wandered down the main street of Squamish it would not be kicked or screamed at or chased the way the poor moose was in Prince George last week. What an outcry there is when a wild animal attacks a human but are we mere "humans" to be excused for our cruelty, to animals? It was probably a very few people who harrassed the moose but it tends to give the whole area (Prince George) a black eye!

Active program planned for Local Chamber

The Squamish Chamber of requesting to discuss the proposed business tax with the municipal council as it affects the members of the Chamber who are largely businessmen.

The tourist industry will also be a prime concern of the Chamber as it has been in the past. With the booth now located at Shannon Falls and with the co-operation of Carling's who own the Falls, the Chamber operated the booth at that site last year and is looking Goode; Retail Merchants, Ross as well as the plant at Woodforward to doing so again this year. It is hoped that discussions with the company may result in plans for a permenent booth to be placed on the site.

Last year the booth attendants said the number of inquiries was up sharply from the preceding year and it seemed to be a popular spot for people to stop. The Chamber will also be looking into producing a tourist brochure for the area. It may not be as elaborate as the "black books" which were produced with the co-operation of the Mainland Southwest Branch but it will be a brochure for the people interested in visiting the Squamish area and the recreational lands to the north.

Have we got problems! Even our problems have problems. Our claims centres won't be ready on time, our computers won't all compute, all our phones aren't in, and we don't have enough people.

But AUTOPLAN is ready, and, after all, that's what counts. Nearly every vehicle in British Columbia will be covered by Autoplan from March 1st onward, and that means that PUBLIC AUTO INSURANCE IS A REALITY.

Don't think that just because we're not completely ready yet that you aren't going to get service, however. We have temporary claims service set up right at the locations of the permanent centres, which are under construction. We have travelling adjusters who will be able to reach all of the communities that don't have claims centres near them. We have enough computers to move the massive volumes of paperwork as fast as possible, and we will add extra ones as they're needed. We even have people to tell us what problems we're going to have later.

But, we're trying to give you the best service possible. And believe us, you deserve it.

The Director of the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit, Dr. Thores, advises all parents to make sure their children's immunization against diphtheria is up to date. Commenting on the recent outbreak of diphtheria in Ladysmith, Dr. Thores said that children were the most mobile group in a community and the most likely source of spread.

He said, however, that the level of immunity was high in Squamish because of an immunization "blitz" last spring when more than four hundred people were immunized. He said there was a lot of effort put into the program and 80 per cent of children in the unit were now immunized.

He advised adults working in hospitals or schools to get a skin test from the health unit to check on their level of immunity if they had not had it checked within the last year or so.

> Contract Proposal Invited Howe Sound Log Boom Inspection Patrol

The Council of Forest Industries of B.C. invites proposals to carry out a log boom inspection patrol in Howe Sound.

The contractor will be familiar with the Howe Sound area, and preferably be a resident of the area. He should be familiar with log booming, sorting, and towing practices, and be capable of carrying out minor boom repairs. He should have a substantial all-weather boat capable of a speed of between 15-20 knots. The boat must be equipped with adequate radio or radio-telephone communication so as to facilitate prompt contact with tugboats, sorting grounds and others. It is desirable that it also be radar equipped. The contractor will be responsible for hiring a suitable deputy patrolman.

All proposals should be quoted on a monthly basis. Two separate quotes are requested — one for 168 hours a month, and one for 240 hours a month. These quotes should include the cost of hiring the deputy patrolman and for providing fuel and equipment.

For further information, contact Mr. F. N. Brien, 684-0211. Proposals should be mailed to: Security Manager, Council of Forest Industries of B.C., 1500-1055 West Hastings Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6E 2H1, before March or not! Believe it

The following instructions appeared on the desks of employees in the offices of a government building in one of our capital cities.

ATTENTION — ALL DEPARTMENT HEADS Re: INSTRUCTION ON DEATH OF EMPLOYEES

It has recently been brought to the attention of this department that a number of employees have been dying on duty for no apparent reason. Furthermore, these employees are neglecting to fall over after death has occurred.

On and after the above mentioned date, any employee found sitting up after rigor mortis has set in, will be dropped at once from the payroll without an investigation under regulation 29, paragraph 6, section 5. However, where it can be proven that the employee is held up by a desk, typewriter, or any other support which is the property of the employer, a 90 day period of grace will be granted.

THE FOLLOWING PROCEDURE WILL BE STRICTLY ADHERED TO:

If, after several hours, it is noted that an employee has not moved or changed position, the department head will investigate. Due to the highly sensitive nature of our employees and the close resemblance between death and the natural working attitude, the investigation will be made quietly as to the true condition. Extending a pay cheque to the individual is the final test. If the employee does not reach for it, it may reasonably be assumed that death has occurred. NOTE:

In some cases, however, the instinct is so strongly developed that a spasmodic clutching reflex may occur. This may be disregarded.

standings are Tough Tiggers -40 points, Vikings - 23 points, Stompers - 21 points and Hot Rodders — 20 points. On Wednesday, February 13th, Brackendale came to the school to be challenged at basketball and floor hockey. Well, I'm not going to announce the scores because they are much too embarrassing, but we are looking forward to future games with Brackendale. Also, on Fridays, the teachers have been challenged by the house teams to a few games of floor hockey, so every Friday from 12:30 to 1:00 the gym is pretty noisy. Finally in sports, for the last few weeks a few classes have been going to Whistler's Ski Rainbow for the day and having lessons on skiing and some free time to practice. This programme has been set for three weeks but we all think 10 weeks would be much better!

This year the spring will be different at Signal Hill. Instead of having an Easter holiday we will have the last week in March (23rd to 31st) as our Spring Vacation. We will also get Good Friday and Easter Monday, April 12th and 15th.

Due to all the class changes because of high enrolment, we did not have time to practice for our usual Christmas Concert so instead we will have it in the spring. We are all looking forward to it on Thursday, May

According to the reports that have come in steelhead fishing has been very poor this year in the Cheakamus river, Only two taken weekend. A few weeks ago, they had a fair catch but I think most of them were taken out of the Squamish river near the mouth of the Cheakamus river. It's hard to tell if the large number of fish taken out of the Cheakamus river is cutting down on the number of fish returning to the river. One sure bet is that it is not improving the runs. The Cheakamus river is closed to all fishing from the Hydro bridge north after April first, this is a month too late to give the steelhead much protection as the wild steelhead start running good

All fish have taken a beating from logging in this valley, some streams have been plugged with trash and logs left in them by loggers, and in one case a stream was deliberately turned out of its bed. That was the little Ashlu. A lot of salmon and steelhead used to spawn in that small stream. I reported-it to the Dominion Fishery warden and went up and showed him what had been done. However, nothing was done as that was before the election and a change of government, as a result we lost over a mile of good spawning stream. Mashiter creek has been ruined by logging; there is no good holding ground on that creek until you get to the falls.

The Rod and Gun club was responsible for getting Mashiter and Brohm creeks closed to fishing all year. This was to provide spawing ground for steelhead trout. But once they had them closed they forgot that they had to be protected from poachers and loggers and any type of construction that would harm the creeks. More than once I have found people fishing these streams. Right now there is a log jam forming on Mashiter creek that a fish would have a hard time getting by, and every piece of driftwood that comes down makes it that much harder. Another creek that has been ruined by logging is the one that comes down between Buck mountain and Mt. Wood. There was a quarter mile of spawning stretch on the flat there which fifty to sixty cohoe salmon used to spawn in.

The next creek is High Falls just north of the powerhouse; that creek used to run in a westerly direction straight out to Schoonover's slough which branched off the river just north of the creek. When the B.C. Electric put the road up the river some years ago that creek was moved out of its bed and it runs south down to the powerhouse, very few steelhead or other fish run up that stream now. The next and most important stream of all is Shovelnose ereek, it has been abused ever since they first logged on the creek. After they had logged up as far as the canyon, I noticed that they had left ree tops and trash in the creek and reported it. The company did run a-machine down the creek opening it up. The next spring I got out of my car at my cabin and I could hear water running east of the

I went in and found Shovelnose creek running about a hundred yards from the road, so followed it up and found that logs and trash had been washed down from the logged off area and had formed a jam at the mouth of the canyon which turned the creek at right angles and it ran all over the flat nearly out to the road. No fish could get up as the water was too shallow. I reported it at once and to date nothing has been done about it that I know of. This creek was closed to fishing last fall and should remain closed as it is too easy for fishermen to snag salmon out of the narrow pools. All types of salmon spawn in this creek, also dolly varden trout and SEGSON

The next creek runs into the Squamish from the east about a mile below the forks of the river. Before that area was logged cohoe a salmon used to spawn in that creek but it has been a long time since I have noticed a salmon north of the road as the creek was left in bad shape. The next creek runs into the Elaho from the north just below number three camp. When the company put the road up there they put in a large culvert at that creek but the whole flat was logged to the head of the creek about a mile from the river and something must have blocked the salmon run as it seems to have stopped. This creek was small but a lot of cohoe salmon used to run up it. I checked the upper reaches of that creek last fall and did not

All of these creeks are small except Shovelnose and from fifty to a hundred salmon would spawn in them, but when you add them up it is quite a loss. Some of them could be cleaned out and eggs planted to start the run again. However, the dyke at the mouth of the river is still a big question in regard to the future of our fish runs. The effects of it will not be known for at least two years. It will depend on how many of the fry drift back into the estuary after they pass the end of the dyke. The biologists tell us that the fry can't live if shunted straight out into salt water We will just have to wit and see. But it is a foolish gamble to take. It is bad enough losing a lot of the natural spawning ground without taking the risk of losing some of the fry at the mouth of the river.

If we stop to ask ourselves how much have we done towards keeping our streams clear for the fish to run up, we would come up with a big zero. The man who has done the most to help the run of cohoe salmon is John Ryan up at Pilchuck. He has cut out logs and cleared the creeks on his property so the salmon could get up. If we all pitched in and did one-tenth of the work John has done all our creeks would be in good shape for spawning. I remember when the Squamish Towing Co. logged the Stawamus flats I had to pull all the tree tops and logs out of the creek after we got through logging, but that was before Social Credit took over in 1952.

The Miles rink from North Vancouver took the B.C.R. Mixed Challenge Trophy in the "A" event at the B.C.R. Mixed Bonspiel on Saturday at the Howe Sound Curling Club.

The Chieftain Hotel Trophy for the "B" event went to the Bill Curran rink of Squamish and the Bob Valleau rink won the "C" event.

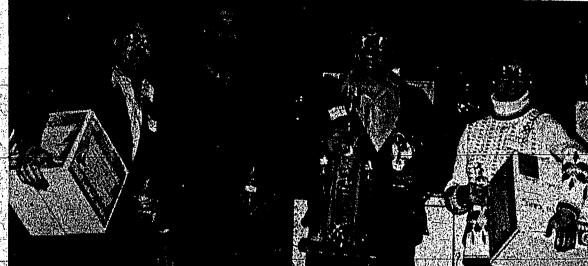

Ray Miles, Jackie Miles, Val Iacovone and George, Bacon composed the winning rink in the "A" event and they defeated the Len Gorsuch rink of Squamish with Matt Vescera, Fred Johns and Doreen Herron to take first place. In third place was the Dan Serbey rink with Perm Serbey, and Murray and Gladys Olson, and in fourth place was the Dick Reimer rink with Ambrose Casey, Lloyd Reynolds and Fran Hurren.

On the winning Bill Curran rink in the "B" event were Patricia Reimer, Alan Crowther and Mary Reynolds and they had their work cut out for them to defeat Lorne Benson, Rosemarie Constantin, Ken Erickson and Robert Buchan. In third place was the Armand Constantin rink with Peg Tinney, Doug Robertson and John McKenzie. Fourth place went to the Ed Knuff rink from Lillooet with Glenn, and Lynn Knuff and Shirley Deno.

On the winning Bob Valleau rink in the "C" event were Bob and Cheryl Valleau, George Gilmour and Rick Reimer while in second place was the Howard Gebhart rink with Lila Constantin, Bob Deno and George Kolatscek

A special prize was given to the Joe Iacovone rink for being the first one knocked out in the tournament. Other members were Ron Pritchard, Al Grant and Ross Gilmour.

Mrs. R. Reimer organized the bonspiel which was one of the most successful ever held. The evening ended in dancing.

Council briefs

A request by Greg Martin to move the former Bailey home to a new location several lots away was approved if the neighbors agree to the move. As it was in the same neighborhood this would probably be approved by the other residents.

A letter from Abe Morigeau asking council's permission to put sawdust and refuse from a resaw shake plant into the stump dump was referred to a later date when a meeting with Mr. Morigeau could be arranged.

Council felt this was a reversion of the usual process, first he should ask permission to put such a plant in the area.

small portion of the ling at McKay Motors, the and the island is encroaching on municipal property. As this was built long before there were lines drawn council agreed to permit McKay Motors to use the property which encroaches on the municipality.

A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Harold Halvorson dealing with drainage at the rear of their property was referred to WEB gracering which will be making a study of lot levels in the municipality.
