Little interest shown in referendum

Major strike expected by the weekend

A strike in B.C.'s logging and pulp industry, which would idle the largest industry in the province, is expected by the weekend unless the provincial government steps in.

The three major unions, the IWA, the PPWC and the CPU have all filed notice of intent to strike and it is expected that the men will be on strike by the beginning of next week.

The forest industry, B.C.'s major industry and the chief source of revenue for the government, has been hard hit by falling markets and high inventories, and it would appear the strike will be a long one if it occurs.

The industry has taken a hard line in the refusal to offer anything more than a cost of living increase and the unions claim this is unrealistic.

Log pile burns on waterfront

All three local fire trucks and crews were needed to contain and put out the fire which started in a log pile at the Weldwood dump south of Squamish on Monday afternoon.

Believed to have been started by a spark from the machinery working in the dry land sorting area, and fanned by high winds, the fire blazed in a pile of logs near the dump and soon spread to debris and log scraps on the ground.

At the height of the fire there was a small one burning in another pile of logs a short distance south of the small boat harbour.

Crews were concerned about the danger to the fuel storage tank beside the dump and feared possible danger if the fire spread north to the Esso tanks at the small boat harbour.

Crews attempted to put out the fire in the pile of burning cedar logs but finally heavy equipment dumped the logs into the water in the booming grounds where the flames were quickly extinguished.

Doug Cooper, manager of Weldwood's Empire Logging branch, said that the company crew of 20 men worked with the municipal crews to contain the fire but were hampered by the high winds which spread the sparks through the tinder dry debris on the ground.

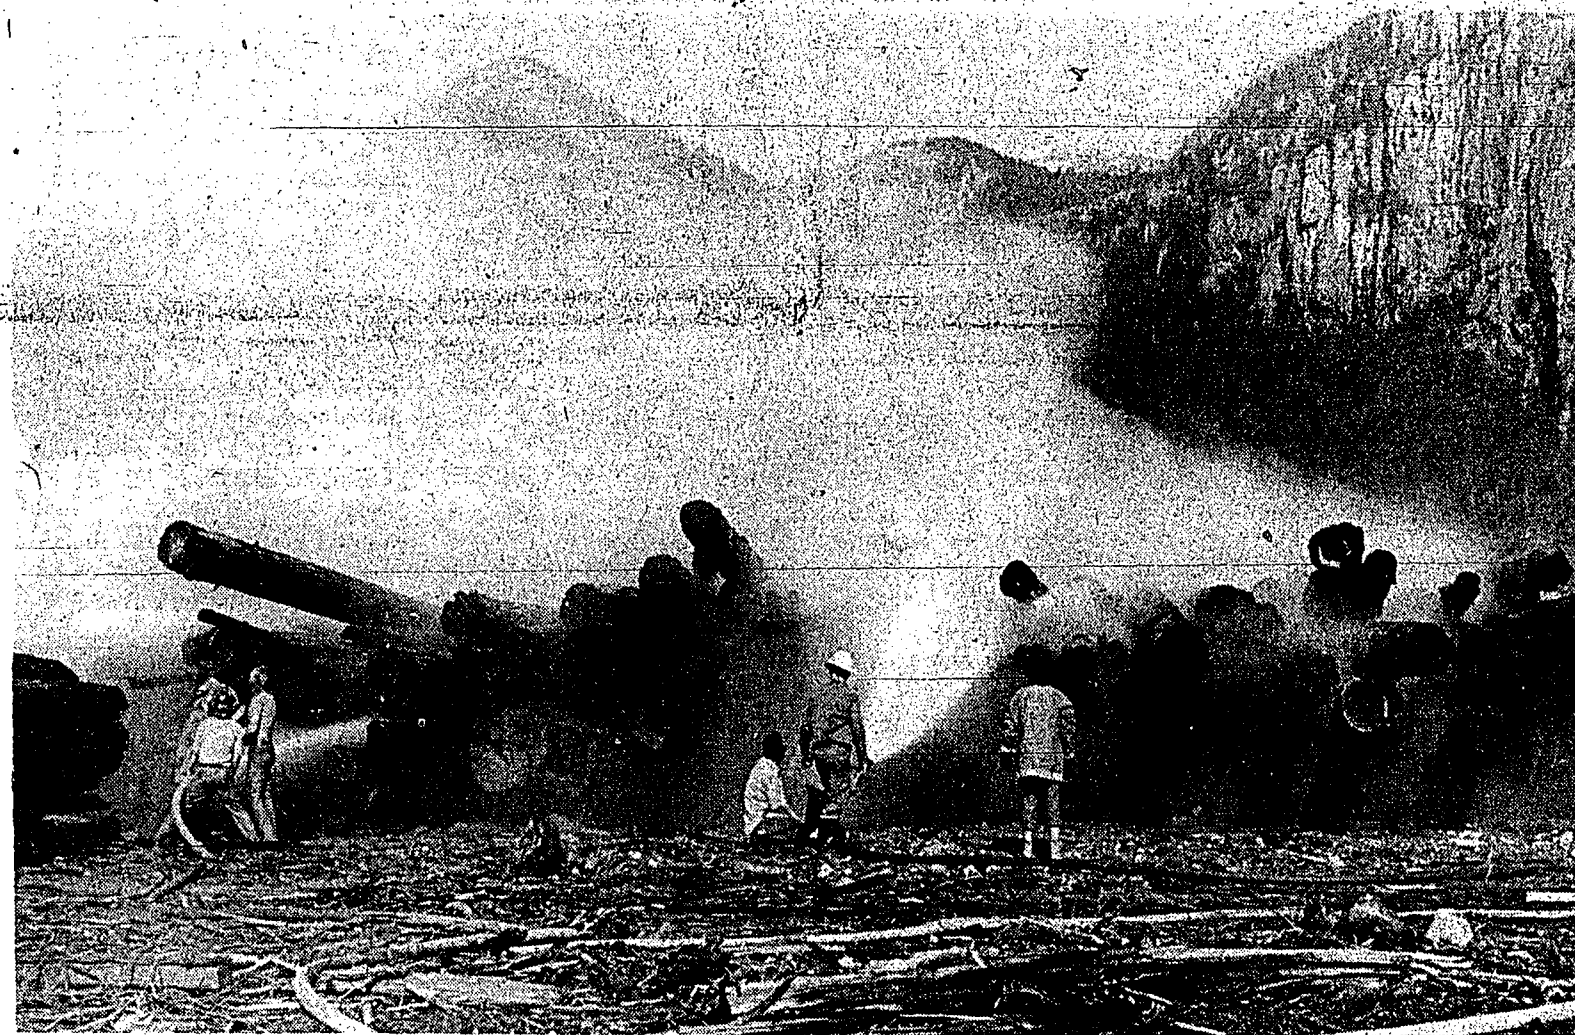

Crews fought the fire for over two hours before the pile of logs was finally dumped and all the spot fires put out.

Cooper said a crew remained on the job all night checking to make sure there were no more flareups.

He estimated that 200 units of cedar logs were destroyed in the blaze.

FIRE at the Weldwood dump on Monday afternoon brought out the company fire crew and all three fire halls in an effort to keep the fire, which started in this pile of logs, from spreading. Firemen were successful in containing the blaze, but had to dump the burning logs into the water at the booming grounds. (Photos by Detlef Rudolph, Images Photographs)

Prison proposed

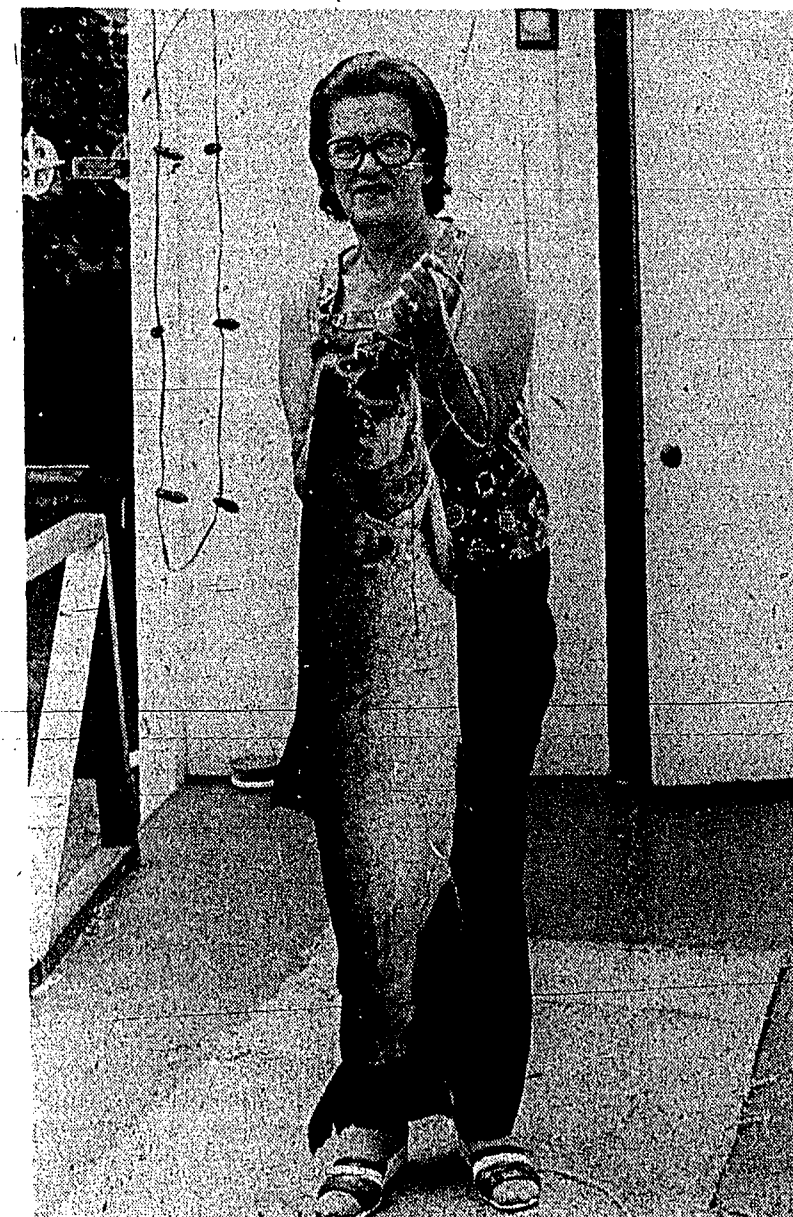

Squamish is one of several sites in B.C. being considered by the federal government as a maximum security prison site.

The news was broken on Monday in a radio broadcast and Mayor D. D. Stewart told the Times that one preliminary discussion had been held with federal authorities but the district had asked for additional information.

Stewart said council was concerned with the social impact of having such an institution in the district and before the matter could even be considered by local authorities there would have to be much more information given. Another informational meeting is planned for this week.

The proposed prison would be a maximum security one with about 200 prisoners and a staff of 200 people. It would provide a stable payroll for the community but this was not the most important aspect. Council felt the most important aspect was the social one and how the institution might affect the community.

Other sites considered are Merritt, Lillooet and Clearwater. Lillooet is very interested in having the institution and the federal payroll as it is desperately in need of the steady income, and it has indicated to the federal government that it would welcome such an institution.

Fire points up lack of water storage facilities

Council is extremely concerned about the lack of water storage facilities following the waterfront fire on Monday afternoon which resulted in a drastic drop in water pressure in the Brackendale area.

Ald. Jerry Jerwa said there is a grave danger of draining mains in a major fire and this could leave other areas of the community without adequate water supplies and fire protection. He also recommended the acquisition of at least one or two auxiliary pumps which could be used in streams or rivers if they are near to the scene of a fire.

On Monday one fire truck pumped sea water into the hoses to use to combat the fire but this could only be done because of the proximity to the waterfront. The existing hydrants were being used to capacity.

Mayor D. D. Stewart pointed out that while there is an arrangement with the forestry department to use Forest Service pumps at the time of the waterfront fire, all their equipment was in use on other fires and there was nothing available. This is a situation which could occur again if there is a prolonged warm spell.

Jerwa said he was mainly concerned about a fire occurring in the Cheakamus valley or Brackendale when there was no water pressure because of a fire in some other area of the municipality.

Ald. L. C. Kindree said that what council was really looking at was more storage facilities. The high pressure line to the Dunhill project in Brackendale and an additional storage tank there would relieve some of the problems but there must be another storage tank in Garibaldi Highlands and the construction of the storage area in Northridge must also be investigated.

Kindree said council was waiting for cost figures on the new underground reservoir in the Highlands before going into more detail on plans for the Northridge reservoir which will likely be the same type of underground storage area.

Ald. Bryant said the municipal engineer should be asked to get a report together as soon as possible on these storage tanks and reservoirs.

In response to a question by Ald. Cunningham on the statement that there was a sufficient water supply for a much larger population than the one at present, she was told there is a much larger supply; there is water pouring over the dam because there are not sufficient storage tanks for it. These would solve the problem faced by the community when the fire at Weldwood's log dump resulted in severely reduced pressure in Brackendale and the Mamquam and Highlands area.

Ald. Jerwa also wanted to know what fire fighting equipment the logging firm had at the site and suggested this be increased.

Jerwa also suggested that council could implement sprinkling regulations but was told this would be very unpopular and was not really necessary. However, it was suggested that people could be requested to use their sprinklers at times of low water use, mainly late in the evening or at times of low use during the day.

However, if the warm spell continues for any length of time sprinkling regulations may have to be imposed.

RECORD LOW RAINFALL

Rainfall in 1975 has hit a record low for the first six months of the year with a total of 20.79 inches, about half the normal amount of moisture for the period.

Rainfall in June amounted to 1.88 inches and this partially accounted for the extreme dryness in the forests despite the cool weather.

The high temperature for the month was 28 degrees on June 1 while the lowest temperature, 4 degrees, was recorded on June 10.

More in council than audience

By ROSE TATLOW

There were six people in the audience at the public meeting dealing with terms of the referendum to spend up to $489,600 for an assortment of public works and capital development on Thursday, July 3 in the municipal hall. And there were six council members and two members of the administrative staff to answer the questions asked.

Mayor D. D. Stewart outlined the proposed referendum which would cover a number of capital improvements including the reconstruction and paving of Second Avenue, downtown drainage, recapping of downtown streets, sidewalk construction, Brackendale drainage, cemetery paving and extension, a dog pound and additional sports grounds.

Stewart pointed out that the bylaw would only authorize the borrowing of monies for these purposes if council decided to do them. It did not mean they would all be done. Stewart also said the projects could be done by borrowing from the provincial government under a five-year program but this would only permit the borrowing of $98,000 per year if the province would recognize Squamish as a municipality of 10,000 population instead of just over the 6,000 in the 1971 census.

In the question period which followed, Ross Chapman wanted to know why sports fields were included and Stewart said that council was planning for the future. Chapman said there was plenty of room on the school playing fields and these were not extensively used.

Ald. Don McLennan said it was more practical to have the youngsters playing in one area as the difficulty in obtaining coaches and leaders made transportation and other problems simpler if they played in one site such as Centennial Fields. The combined use of washrooms was cited as another advantage.

It was pointed out that the field improvement program was for preliminary work and was for only $20,000 of the almost half million dollar referendum, and this would not be done unless it was necessary.

Ald. Ray Bryant pointed out that the two largest items are in downtown drainage and the recapping of downtown roads as well as the upgrading of Second Avenue. These projects account for $66,000 of the amount to go to referendum. A question about resurfacing roads being the responsibility of the sewer contractor brought the retort that many had been resurfaced by the contractor when sewers were put in but these were other roads.

The referendum does not ask for any increase in taxation. This year's portion of the referendum, amounting to some 2.9 mills, is already in the taxes.

Helmut Scherer said the referendum should have been broken down into specific segments so people could vote on the various projects.

It was pointed out that if the items were separated it could result in one area fighting with another and some areas could band together and bill an improvement in another area.

Scherer also asked why there wasn't a ward system so a person with a complaint could go to the person in his area who represented him would therefore know who was working for him and who was not.

Ald. Jerry Jerwa retorted that he worked just as hard for the person in Valleyleffe as the one in Brackendale and felt that other aldermen also gave each area equal consideration.

The vote on the referendum will be held on Saturday, July 19, in the municipal hall, Mamquam elementary school and Brackendale elementary school.

JUNE CARLOADINGS CONTINUE TO RISE

June carloadings for the British Columbia Railway totalled 11,780, up nine per cent from 10,703 in June last year.

Total carloadings for the first six months of this year were 69,119 compared with 64,401 during the same period last year.

June traffic which increased substantially over the same month last year included export grain, copper ores and concentrates, lumber — eastern rail, wood chips, export wood pulp, gasoline, and field and road oils.

Showing a decline were movements of veneer — eastern rail, lumber — local and milled in transit, logs, posts and pilings, less-than-carload lots and interline received shipments.

Cpl. Douglas joins staff

A new addition to the staff at the local RCMP office is Cpl. Don Douglas who is replacing Cpl. Mike Demchuk who leaves this month to become the corporal in charge at Gold River.

Douglas, who has been with the force for 13 years, comes to Squamish from Powell River.

Douglas has moved to Squamish with his wife Brenda and four children, Scott, 10, Brad, 8, Paul, 4, and Jennifer, aged 2.

MP JACK PEARSALL presented a flag to Mayor D. D. Stewart last week to mark Canada Week.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1975

RailWest should pay taxes

The premier and his government are speaking with a forked tongue when they claim that the new rail car manufacturing plant at Squamish, RailWest, is part of the B.C. Railway and therefore should not pay any taxes to the District of Squamish. The company has been set up as a separate entity, apart from the railway, and is being managed and operated as a separate entity. When it was being built the government strongly indicated that taxes or a grant would be forthcoming. It is grossly unfair to expect the people of Squamish, who already pay taxes for their services, to subsidize the railway and its employees by paying the cost of these services for the 200 or more employees of the plant, as well as the additional people who will be required for the service industries, without getting one cent of revenue from the firm which created the need for the services in the first place. No other industry would be allowed to come into a community and obtain the services; or even to come into the community without paying a fair share of the tax burden imposed on the district. We feel that in all fairness to the community the government should take a second look at the question and plan to pay the taxes, or a grant in lieu of taxes, on the rail car plant which is now in operation.

Complete river program

Council should be instigating talks with Resources Minister Bob Williams and his staff concerning the completion of the river program on the Squamish River. The Squamish River has been dyked from the Mamquam River to the mouth and from the north end of Judd's Slough to the mouth of Hog Ranch Creek. The only portion remaining to be done is from Hog Ranch Creek south to the Mamquam River. At the same time the north bank of the Mamquam River should be dyked to ensure that the river does not come over its banks at that spot and menace the sewer plant as well as homes and property. Once this program is completed the valley should be safe from flooding by the Squamish and Mamquam rivers. The program, begun several years ago and carried out under both the Social Credit government and the present NDP government, has protected most of the valley with the exception of the small gap remaining. Reportedly Williams said this spring that consideration would be given to the balance of the work and the mayor should have facts and figures prepared to enable him to go to Victoria to obtain the necessary funds, possibly under another winter program such as we have had in the past. Once the Squamish and Mamquam rivers are properly dyked the district should look to having the Stawamus River dyked as well. The provincial government should be receptive to plans for this dyking as the government has a considerable investment in the area where 30 new homes have been built and are being sold through the government housing program. It's not too early to start looking for the funds necessary to complete the dyking and make the valley safe from flooding.

Quiet times necessary

People cannot exist in a life of constant stimulation, whether it be by excitement, by drugs or by any other means. Man needs a quiet time to re-examine his values and determine what he is to do. Yet in today's fast paced world he is continually seeking surcease from boredom, whether it be by spectator sports, television or some other means. We condition our children to the hectic pace of modern life by offering them a vast array of excitements. We teach them to belong to groups, to clubs, to sports groups, to classes and then complain because they have no time to spend at home. We set them in front of a television set to keep them out of the way, not looking to see if what they are watching is worth seeing or whether it is a program of violence and hatred, or even worse, an unreal one which will make them think they have a right to the good life depicted on the screen. Many children are in the position of the youngster whose mother asked him what he was doing as he lay on the grass and watched the sky. She urged him to go and play with the neighbours. He was wiser than she when he retorted that he "just wanted some time to do nothing!" He was right. We need time to do nothing. To lie on the grass and watch the clouds go by, to look at the color on a songbird's wing, to seek the beauty in the heart of a flower, or just to quietly commune with nature and realize that we are part of a much greater plan. The slow peaceful life and the slow peaceful rhythm which produced great thoughts, great poetry and great ideas, was not one of frenetic anxiety like the life so many of us live. Maybe the pace of our lives is too great to produce great leaders and thinkers and we are poorer because of this. Perhaps we should all slow down and try to find the pace of a quieter life so we can learn to live without continual excitement. Quiet times are necessary if we are going to understand life and each other.

Planning is essential

Planning is essential for the future development of cities and countries, now staggering under the high costs of urban living. We have all seen the problems New York is facing and our own cities could be facing these before long as they become larger and larger and the costs of essential services keep rising. It is becoming impossible for many cities to supply the ever-increasing population with such services as clean water, sewerage, trash collection, electricity, schooling, housing and transportation. These services exist but in many cases they are inadequate and the rush to the cities is not being stopped. There have been many warnings issued in the past few years about the need for planning, for decentralization, but they have gone unheeded. But recently, Maurice Strong, executive director of the United Nations Environment Program, has warned that there is a possibility of a global epidemic or disaster because of the breakdown of city life within 10 years unless remedial action is taken. The suggestion he has made that contaminated water in one country could trigger a world-wide epidemic seems fantastic but in this age of modern jet-travel with people freely moving from one area to another, it would be quite simple for a disease carrier to inadvertently transmit it from one country to another. Overcrowded cities which have found it impossible to cope with problems like garbage and waste disposal, could be breeding grounds for this type of disease or epidemic. Planning is essential to reduce the size of cities, to decentralize the population and make it easier to service and look after the urban centres. The time to start such planning is now before it is too late.

ON PARLIAMENT HILL WITH PEARSALL

By JACK PEARSALL, MP

In a matter of days the 30th session of Parliament will adjourn for a summer recess. This does not mean that your MP drops out of sight and everything shuts down until Parliament re-convenes in September. My office in Ottawa operates on a year-round basis. Joan and Anna will be on duty throughout the summer to answer your requests and assist in taking care of your problems. The constituency offices will also be available for any local issues that may arise during the summer months.

For myself, I will be touring the riding during the recess. I do plan on a few short breaks to be with my family and enjoy a brief vacation with them. I intend visiting the smaller and more remote areas as I did last summer. As soon as I know my itinerary, I will try and let each district know when to expect me.

It has been an interesting and very challenging year for me since my election last July. It is said that a "back bench" MP requires six months to find his way around the buildings and another two or three to learn the parliamentary procedures, the do's and don'ts, as the senior members put it.

What has the government done since the opening last Sept. 30? Despite the complex rules of parliamentary procedure that govern the operations of the House, the timetable is very close to being on time. Some bills took much longer to pass than expected as the Opposition dug in and appeared to be content to talk and argue for months.

Three controversial subjects still very much on the minds of the public are the death penalty, gun controls and abortion. A large part of my mail from constituents deals with these three subjects and all asking my stand on each. I have answered these questions on many occasions since becoming your MP. Once again I am on record as follows:

Death Penalty — I am a retentionist and will vote accordingly in the House when the government puts forth a bill for or against the death penalty.

Gun Controls — I am against the proposed gun control measures currently in a private member's bill in the Senate. I would like to see legislation on the books that will deal most severely with any person convicted of using a gun in a criminal act such as in holdups. I would want to see these same penalties imposed on those would-be hunters who hunt on the "sound system" and are the cause of some of the hunting casualties that occur every year.

Abortion — I have maintained that this is a very personal matter between a woman and her doctor, or doctors. In all those cases, where in the opinion of the doctors, the woman's health is at stake, an abortion is permitted. In all cases of rape, where the victim has been impregnated an abortion will be performed, on the request of the victim.

A number of other bills of a national nature that have been well-aided by the news media are currently before the House and it is to be hoped they will receive passage before the year-end. These would include such issues as bail reform, stiffening of the Criminal Code, increase in the building of more houses, easing of Mortgage rates, to list a few.

The most recent problem that has arisen for B.C. members is, of course, disturbances begun by some of our native people. Coast Chilcotin is one riding that has been feeling these effects for some time. Many people are blaming the federal government as the cause. Our present government in Victoria has consistently refused to sit down with representatives of our native people to settle the controversial land issue.

On Tuesday, June 24, after continued criticism by the people of B.C., the provincial government has finally agreed to meet with representatives of the native people and try to settle the "cut-off land" issue.

I am pleased that a forward step is to be taken after months of delay by Premier Barrett and Attorney General Macdonald as to what was to be done. Their insistence that it was a federal government matter has fundered and they must now accept the responsibilities rightfully theirs.

There are, undoubtedly, many more matters individual constituents would want me to comment on. I trust such persons will write me and acquaint me with the matter of concern to them. The budget handed down by Finance Minister John Turner on June 23 will probably trigger off a whole new set of questions and opinions by the people of Canada. I am sure I will hear from you.

Have a nice summer! I hope to meet as many of you as possible during my visits throughout the riding. Don't forget my office in Ottawa is always open. The telephone number is 613-992-2027. Call me collect (person to person), Joan or Anna will take it from there.

Two accidents

There were two minor injury accidents in the Squamish police area last week.

On July 1 at 9:15 p.m. John McLeod of Burnaby was involved in an accident near Brandywine and suffered cuts while a passenger Phil Robart had injuries to his right knee.

The accident occurred when the vehicle they were in swerved to avoid a car on the road, went out of control and hit a stump. McLeod was charged with driving without due care and attention.

On July 2, at 12:45 a.m. Robert Habkirk of Vancouver suffered injuries to his left elbow in an accident near the Construction Aggregates site at Furry Creek.

Habkirk was making a left curve, said he had problems with the steering, failed to negotiate the curve, applied the brakes which did not work and went into a spin and off the road.

Editor, The Times:
Please convey my thanks to the B.P.O. Elks Lodge No. 119 for their generous donation towards the deficit incurred when the first annual Girls Softball Dance was held. It was most kind of them to contribute.

Also, Children's Day which was sponsored by the local chapter of the Elks was, in my opinion, a very fine effort on their part, giving Canada Day more of a true meaning for the small fry.

HOWE SOUNDINGS

Somewhere else in the paper there's a bit about a secretary's life and there are times when we are inclined to add that an editor's life is also not a happy one.

There are days when you run like mad to get what you think is a good story only to learn that you can't use it for some reason or other — and after all that work.

There are days when you take pictures and something doesn't work. Either the camera goofed, or the flash didn't synchronize (of course that's your fault) or something went wrong. And it is always, but always the picture that mattered the most or the one which was essential to your most important story. It's never one that you didn't give a darn about!

Or you get all the copy ready to send to the printers, rush like mad to make the bus and discover no one was there to pick it up — and it got lost somewhere over at the main bus terminal in Vancouver. When it does show up it's a week late and people are indignant. Meanwhile, you had to scrounge through your overset to find something to fill the paper and the shop boys are going just as mad as you are.

Then there's the time you locked the camera in the house, along with your keys, and couldn't get in. To make things more exciting father was away and the only solution was to find a ladder, reach the bedroom window and climb in. That's a problem. The window only opens a little way and to get yourself through the opening and on the counter below was really a problem.

And to top it all when you arrived where the picture was to be taken you heard a smart remark about always being late on the job. If they had only known what you went through to get there at all!

Of course there are the times you locked the key in the car and had to find someone to help you open it, or finally managed to do it yourself. Carrying an extra key in the purse is no good. That might be at home or in the car too. So the only solution is to get an extra key made and tape it somewhere on the vehicle. But everyone does that so it might be easy for someone to get into the car and drive it away. What to do — you guess and we'll do it!

There are people who never tell you about something which is going to happen and then complain bitterly when they don't see it in the paper. Editors aren't psychic any, more than other people. And there are also the people who always want their names in the news.

There are the people who want a simple event with a huge headline, and those who complain if they can't find the item they gave you in the paper and then are so apologetic when you show them it was there after all. There are also the times when they are right and you've goofed.

There are 'typos' printing mistakes that are sometimes hilarious and sometimes tragic. My favorite was the heading about the company moving into larger premises with a heading "Girdle firm expands."

And there was the classic goof when a local Overweita ad carrying two items, fruit cakes with that rich dark fruity flavor and toilet tissue in assorted colors. Guess what happened? The gremlins got in the type and the ad came out with the fruit cakes in assorted colors and the toilet tissue with that rich, dark, fruity flavor. We almost left town after that one!

But the advertiser was delighted. He got more mileage out of that goof than he ever got from a regular ad!

Of course there are the usual goofs, when you forget about something you promised to take a picture of, when you go to sleep after dinner and wake up to find you've missed a meeting you should have gone to and how do you explain it; when you are working on a tight schedule and something runs late so you either leave one event before it's over or arrive late at the next one and how do you decide which course of action to take.

And then there's the day you go home early, all set for a cool shower and a long, tall cool one only to have the fire siren ring just as you're about to step into the shower and when you check it's a fire at the log dump. Nothing to do but get dressed and get down there to take a picture. So what's the sense in knocking off early?

And you still have to go back in the evening to finish up the copy for the next week's paper. But with all the complaining it's still the only job you'd ever want to do.

That waterfront fire on Monday points up the vulnerability of the business core. If it had ever escaped and roared up the blind channel it could have wiped out half the town. And with the way the wind was blowing it could have happened.

It's a pretty frightening thought. Dry land sorting areas south of town where there is such a strong prevailing wind in summer is like having a powder keg on your front doorstep. Think about it, council.

LETTERS

Editor, The Times:
Canada Week in Pemberton, June 24 to July 1, was a new and wonderful experience for me, my husband George, my children Michael and Michele, and I am sure for everyone who participated in any way, whether it was in the working, organizing or spectator facet.

Pemberton is only a small part of Canada, but we too are a mixture of many races and religions who joined together to make Canada Week something special. The pride in our country, Canada, was well exhibited by all the Canadian flags which are flying in Pemberton and by the full participation during the eight days of Canada Week festivities in Pemberton.

I think that we in Pemberton have shown how, as a community, we can work together and have fun together.

In the past week, there have been many accolades extended to me which I deeply appreciate; however, without the support of the many organizations, businesses, and individuals, Canada Week would not have been the success it was. I would like to extend a very sincere thank you to everyone for their full support and enthusiasm.

Pemberton is a great community to live in and Canada is a great country to live in!

I would like to extend a special thank you to CTV, Channel 8, especially Ron Morrier for his time on the B.C. A.M. show on June 24, to Carling's O'Keefe for their Community Service Caravan on July 1 and the Times for their interest in Pemberton's Canada Week celebrations.

Again, thank you Pembertonians for your support and enthusiasm in making Canada Week 1975 in Pemberton a great success.

Shirley Henry

Editor, The Times:
On July 1, Canada Day, the Elks and O.O.R.P. celebrated their 50th and 25th years respectively in Squamish. They held a children's parade and sports day. As one of those involved, I would personally like to thank the following for their participation and co-operation:
The ladies of visiting lodges for judging; the No. 1 drill team; RCMP; Shrine clowns; our Miss Timber Queen candidate; Britannia Copper Queen; Peter McKay; Squamish Little League teams.

And a special 'thank you' to the children who participated and made the day the success it was.

Bill Mitchell

Editor, The Times:
Your editorials of June 26 must have been written with tongue in cheek. You flattered yourself as putting out a community minded newspaper, then in a "Long Hot Summer" you malign the workers of this community and Canada as being the cause of highly priced consumer goods.

If you are going to talk of the economy of Canada why do you avoid mentioning the 33 percent raise hike, much of it tax free, that the MPs gave themselves, or the $40,000 salary paid to Beryl Plumtre, or the poor quality of consumer goods, or the enormous profits made by the monopolies which is the real reason for the high prices.

Perhaps you do not know that the profits after taxes of one of the largest food monopolies, the George Weston chain, rose from $19,577,000 in 1973 to $34,639,000 in 1974.

I see no difference in workers asking for higher wages than you raising your paper price. From 10 cents to 15 cents, by the way, is a 50 percent increase.

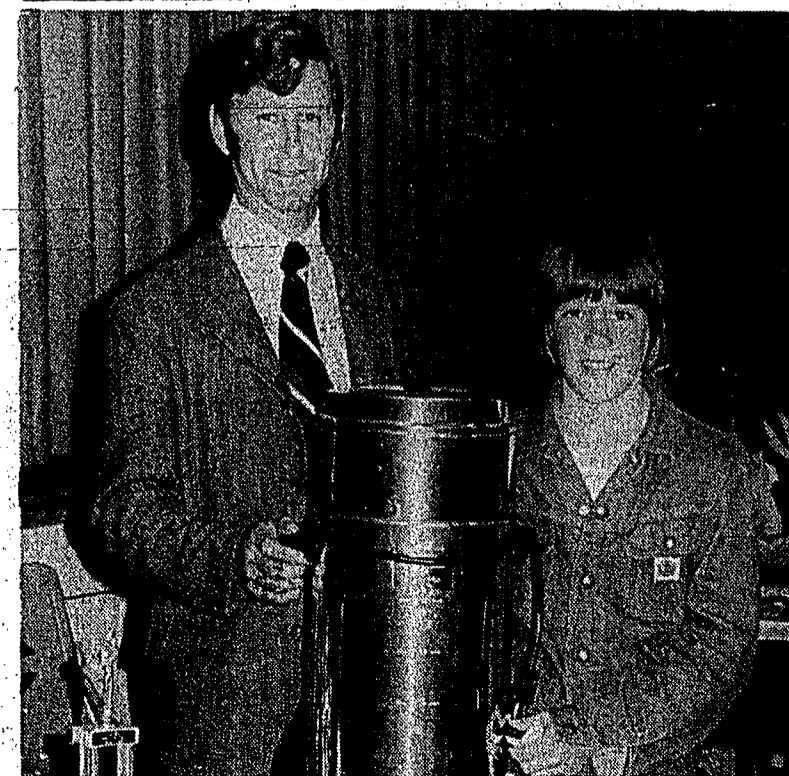

And as for your crocodile tears for the pensioners, if you are as concerned as you say, why don't you let them have ad and subscription rates at a cheaper price. Charity begins at home.

As a pensioner there is no way I am going to blame the Canadian workers for the high cost of living, and to the unions who are concerned with better wages and working conditions for their members, I say "Good Luck!"

Grace Anderson

Ed Note: A rise in the cost of the paper from 10 to 15 cents after 16 years can scarcely be called exorbitant, particularly when you consider the costs of all the materials and wages, which go into making a newspaper. A true raise would have been 20 cents!

The average American uses twice as much energy a year as the average Briton. But the average American also earns twice as much — and pays less tax. American transport uses 25 percent of the total energy — about twice the British level.

Alta Lake News

By JENNY BUSDON

Not too much news from Alta Lake this week. Maybe the highlight was the much-awaited summer sun which finally appeared this past week. I am sure everyone welcomed the warmth after the bitter coldness during the last part of June. It really felt like fall with constant winds blowing and when clouds cleared for the few moments they did on occasion, the new snowfall could be clearly seen on the mountains.

I wondered if summer would ever arrive, but then on July 1 the blue sky and hot sun blazed in glory. On Saturday, July 4, the temperature recorded at the Union service station, I'm told, hit 105°, and in Pemberton where the heat becomes trapped in the valley it was even warmer.

However, as I sit and write this on Sunday, the clouds have once again appeared and the wind is blowing quite fiercely, so perhaps we are in for a change. Rain is now badly needed to douse, or at least help control, the several forest fires blazing in the Cheakamus canyon area, and that perhaps is the unfortunate part about long periods of hot, dry weather — it becomes a big headache for the forestry men.

Regional district briefs relating to this area taken from the minutes of their last meeting are as follows:

It was moved and carried by By-law No. 73, cited as the "Squamish-Lillooet Regional District Zoning By-law 20, Amendment By-law No. 73, 1975" be given its first, second and third reading. It was moved and carried that By-law No. 74, cited as the "Alta Lake-Green Lake Fire Protection Specified Area Loan Authorization (No. 2) By-law No. 74, 1975" be given its first, second and third reading.

The administrator was instructed to inquire if the provincial government would build the fire hall under the authority of Section 9 (1) of the proposed "Resort Municipality of Whistler Act." If the province is not willing to undertake this project, then the regional district will carry on processing By-law No. 74.

A letter was received by the board from Mr. Morgan of Harper, Grey, Easton & Company with regard to the development of Lots 93 and 119, DL 7300 Alpine Meadows Development Ltd., and requesting that the board confirm approval of the proposed subdivision and that they have no objections in allowing Alpine to proceed. This was considered by the regional board and it was moved by alternate director Jack Bright that the regional board confirm its approval of the subdivision as the development will allow completion of the artificial lake.

A letter was received from the Alta Lake fire marshal, and it was moved and carried that the Alta Lake fire chief be paid a $200 per year honorarium.

MP visits Co-op housing site

MP Jack Pearsall visited the new co-operative housing site in Brackendale where the federal government is putting $1.1 million into the construction of 37 homes on provincially owned and leased land.

Nine homes, the first portion of the project, are now underway and Olaf Klasen, project manager for the co-op who is building the houses, says the first ones will be ready in August and he hopes to have the remainder completed by the end of October.

But he pointed out that this may depend on the weather and what conditions for building are like in the next few months.

Klasen, who has been hired by the co-op to do the job, says that there are seven basic designs to the houses being used and these will be made to look as different as possible by the use of various outside materials and other methods. He said the architect is presently working on ways to alter the exterior of the buildings to keep the same designs from looking the same.

The homes will all have thermopane windows and electric heat; underground wiring is being installed along with storm sewers and a small tree area has been left for a park.

Official opening of the new Mira Hotel

The Mira Hotel was officially opened on Wednesday, July 2, when John Persic entertained a group of local and city guests at a smorgasbord dinner to mark the occasion.

The new hotel, located in Garibaldi Estates in the shopping centre, is an asset to Squamish with its wide lobby, beautiful dining room and cocktail lounge, large banquet room and coffee shop. The ground floor also contains a beer parlor and plans are for a gift shop, flower shop and beauty parlor as well.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce has a large portion of the ground floor area for its new bank and this is scheduled to open in the near future with the finishing touches being put to the decor in the past few weeks.

Wide doorways, lush carpeting and a lovely wide stairway leading to the upper floors, accents the spacious lobby and the same carpeting is found in the dining room and other ground floor areas. The kitchens are an important part of any hotel and the large, airy kitchens, strategically located to serve the dining room, coffee shop and special banquet room, is ultra-modern with every convenience. From the huge walk-in freezers to the shiny cooking areas, its an example of neatness and efficiency.

Plans for the future include an indoor swimming pool with two small saunas and a workout area with the whole area leased out as a spa. Hotel employees and guests will be able to use the swimming pool and sauna but the workout area will be reserved for spa members.

Other future plans are for coffee space at the south end of the building.

Ernie Abney, manager for the new hotel, says that there are 44 rooms and eight self-contained one bedroom suites. Plans are to add four penthouses to the roof. Three will have two bedrooms and one will be a large one bedroom suite.

The hotel has full banquet facilities and will also cater to wedding receptions and small conventions. There is a private dining room available for dinner meetings.

MIRA HOTEL, officially opened last week. The new hotel is an asset to community and will undoubtedly become a popular dining and entertaining spot.

Abney said the hotel has 49 people on staff and has added a sizeable payroll to the Squamish area.

But it was the chef, Don McMaster, of the Canadian Federation of Chefs, who seemed to be the proudest person at the opening and he had every reason to be with the magnificent display of food presented at the smorgasbord.

"We worked for three days on it," he said, "with the staff preparing everything which could be done ahead of time, in the preceding days. But we stayed up till five o'clock this morning making sure the food was all ready."

He said in the afternoon the staff just gathered all the various dishes and food which had been prepared and everything just "went together" as it had been planned to do.

McMaster received many compliments on the excellence of the food and the attractive way in which it was displayed. He commented that food should be as attractive to the eye as it was to the palate and he certainly succeeded.

Highlights of the smorgasbord table were the potato salad and the glazed turkey. The latter was glazed with red jelly with an Indian face on it and wore a headdress of feathers while the potato salad was molded in the shape of a Hawaiian island complete with volcano, and palm trees and to add to the effectiveness he dropped some dry ice into a container in the volcano and it actually steamed!

The new hotel should prove to be a decided asset to the social and economic life of the community.

EVERYTHING
 you wanted to know about sports but ...
 By RICK RAYNOR

Sportsfans, where are you? Am I talking to a deaf crowd? Is there no interest for sports in our community except for the children? Since my column last week, I have received no additional information from you. All I really want is a few scores, a few highlights, maybe a small story, and what's coming up next. What have I received? NOTHING!!! Believe me, it's depressing.

When I started part time with the paper three weeks ago, everyone I talked to said "Good luck!!" "It's about time!!" "If you need anything!!"..... Everyone was enthusiastic, BUT, where are you now? Most people I talk to now say, "You're the sports editor, you do it." Is this your way of coping out? Besides, I just don't have the time. I already have one full time job, I don't need another. I get out now and again and take a few pictures (notice all the new action shots?) but I can't be everywhere, its up to you. These sports pages are only going to be as good as you make them.

The only reason I can understand why you are not giving me any information is because you just don't care or you are not going to any of the games. That's right, nobody's going to take two hours to even watch their own kids play! Don't try to con me, I used to coach soccer and on the average, two or three parents would show up for a game.

I guess people are more content to sit at home and wait for the game to appear in the paper. I can tell you right now, you've got a long wait. If nobody shows up for the games then how do you expect me to get the information? I also feel that if nobody is interested in going, then nobody will be interested in reading what happened.

Don't you agree? For example, I had some kids whose parents never showed up for a single game, not even on soccer day!!! Then some people turn around and say that the paper didn't cover the event well enough. What can you do? I'll tell you what you can do.

You can expend a bit of energy and hustle on down to the nearest ball park, lacrosse box, or whatever, enjoy a really thrilling game of minor sports, and when its all over, you can pick up your phone and give us a call at 892-5131 and tell us what happened.

That way you've had an enjoyable form of entertainment that didn't cost you anything, plus you have done your community a service by supplying this paper with information it would not have ordinarily got. I still don't know if you are listening to me or am I talking to a deaf crowd?

Division 9 Lacrosse News

The Squamish Hunters completed regular season action in fine form with two wins and a tie in their three games.

On Friday, June 27, the team travelled to Eton Box in North Burnaby and defeated Norburn 6-2. George Jacobs had three goals and singles were added by Paul Watson, Jamie Raymond and Roy Crowley. Andrew Gravkin had two assists and single assists went to Brian Conn, Davie James and Crowley.

On Saturday, June 28, Hunters travelled to the Grandview Arena in Vancouver and played one of their best games of the season against Van East. The final score was 3-3 with Van East getting the tying goal in the final minute of the game. Jacobs scored all three goals for Squamish and James picked up one assist.

Thursday, July 3, the boys were prepared to meet Norburn in Squamish for the final regular season game, but Norburn defaulted the game by not showing up.

It was a most successful season for the Hunters as they finished in second place in the league (behind Van East) with 11 wins, four losses and one tie.

To Pan Am Games?

Robertson hits comeback trail in Quebec City

By RICK RAYNOR

Doug Robertson is on a winning streak again, having competed in the games in Quebec and taken the championship in his weightlifting class, the featherweight division. Now it's practicing for the Pan Am Games in Mexico City later this fall.

Doug made the qualifying total for the Pan Am Games by snatching 231 pounds and cleaned and pressed 281 pounds for a total of 512 pounds. The snatch and total were his personal best.

To explain the odd numbering such as 231 and 281 pounds, Doug explained that weights are now actually computed in kilograms with 231 pounds equalling 105kg and 281 pounds equalling 127 1/2 kg.

There were 40 competitors in the total for all weights with the "A" group being for 440 pounds or better, the top group; and the "B" group being for those trying out for experience and practice. "This is the group where the newcomers and the upcoming competitors get a chance," Robertson said.

Robertson also said the groups work out on weekends with the B group lifting on Saturday and the A group on Sunday.

It's interesting to note there are many classes with the groups ranging flyweights to super heavyweights. Doug qualifies with the first group and while he's not one of the large ones he's right there with the best of them. They range from flyweights up to 114 pounds; bantamweights 114-123 pounds; featherweights 123 1/2 to 132; lightweight 132-148; middleweights 148-156; light heavyweights 165-181; middle heavyweight 181-198; heavyweight 198-242 and super heavyweight above 242 pounds.

New pin look to bowling alley

There'll be a neat as a new pin look at the bowling alley this fall when the season starts, according to Keith Koch and Bill McAdam, who are busy giving the building a facelift in preparation for the bowling leagues.

The building, which also houses the Black Tusk dining lounge, has been separated from the other facility with the installation of a cement block wall where the door used to be and a new coffee counter is being installed along part of the north wall.

But this is just part of the renovating and facelift going on. Koch said that stairs will lead to an upper storey to be placed on the building and this will become a playroom for the younger children whose mothers play in the daytime leagues, an office and washroom facilities.

Koch said the playroom will be 25 by 26 feet and there will be ample room for the young fry who will be able to play quietly away from the noise and excitement below.

The main area between the lanes and the front of the building will be carpeted and Koch said the bowling lanes will be resurfaced before the season starts.

He hopes to have the whole program completed before September but says if they don't have time to do it all, the downstairs area will be completed as well as the playroom and the office will be completed later.

Koch says he hopes the new look will make bowling even more attractive to the enthusiasts in the valley.

Canada is the second largest country in the world, covering nearly half of the North American continent. Exceeded in size only by the Soviet Union, Canada's vast bulk stretches almost one-quarter of the way around the globe.

Its southernmost extremity (in Ontario) is on approximately the same latitude as Rome, Italy.

Ellesmere Island, far to the north, reaches within a few hundred miles of the north pole.

Squamish Stylers tops in invitational series

The Squamish Stylers, who were turned down when they asked to play in a league in the Vancouver Major Men's Circuit earlier this year, soundly trounced their competitors in a three-day invitational tournament on the weekend to prove they are right up there with the best.

The tournament which concluded at South Memorial Park on Sunday proved Squamish the winner, rolling over five opponents from the major men's, Steveston and North Vancouver leagues, outscoring them 29-6 to take the tournament title, downing North Vancouver's Molsons 3-1 in the final tournament.

Barry Galley was chosen the most valued player for supplying a pair of key one-run singles.

Throughout the game Galley went nine for 17 (.529) and drove in seven runs.

Squamish pitcher Ernie Wall, who relieved Jim Richmond in the final, was the tournament's top hurler, compiling a 3-0 record, striking out 23 batters in 16 1/3 innings.

Seniors-peewee game proposed

Nick Feschuk has proposed a senior citizens-Little League ball game as a feature of the Squamish Days celebrations this year.

If carried out, it would see members of the senior citizens group play a team of Little Leaguers in an exhibition game. Feschuk has contacted the Little League to see if there is a team which would care to accept the challenge.

He is asking that any senior citizens who have played ball in the past please contact him so he can field a team.

Letters

Editor, Squamish Times:
I wish at this time to express my very sincere thanks to the staff at the Mamquam school, my grade 6 students, Dr. R. Thacker, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Pritchard and my friends and neighbors for the flowers, gifts, phone calls and cards I received during my recent accident.

I wish to express a most sincere thank you to Rae and Wayne Drenka and especially Jim Cannell for helping to save my life. I also wish to thank my neighbors and friends for helping me move.

I also wish to express a sincere thank you to the parents of my former students for their co-operation this year. I had intended to send home a letter but circumstances did not permit it.

I have a special place in my heart for the Squamish area services.

Kids and Elks help make Canada Day a success

Kids and members of the local B.P.O.E. lodge joined forces last week to celebrate Canada Day on Tuesday, July 1, with a parade and sports day at the Squamish elementary school grounds.

The parade, headed by the RCMP in colorful red serge uniforms and members of the B.P.O.E. and O.O.R.P. carrying the colors, was made up of cars carrying the Exalted Ruler John Dyck and Honored Royal Lady Mina Bazley.

The B.P.O.E. and O.O.R.P. candidate for Timber Queen, Leigha Armstrong, rode with the Honored Royal Lady.

Following the dignitaries was a vintage car, driven by Doreen Sherlaw, with Lisa Green, Britannia Beach's 50th Copper Queen, and a float with Kelli Hurren as the fairy princess.

There were decorated bicycles by the dozens, some of them very elaborate and others more simple but equally effective. The youngsters seemed to have gone all out for the event and worked very hard on the bicycles. Unfortunately no record was kept of the winners so we are unable to list them.

The Little League ball teams, in their uniforms and accompanied by their managers and coaches, marched in the parade and added color and quantity to it, making it truly a children's day parade.

Last but not least the Demolition Derby enthusiasts had a car in the parade to advertise their next event later this month.

At the sports grounds on the Squamish elementary fields there were hundreds of youngsters, all ages from the tiny ones hardly able to walk to the older ones, all bent on having a good time.

There was free pop, ice cream or hot dogs for all those under 12 years of age; each child receiving three tickets, each ticket entitling him to one of the goodies. In the races all those under five years of age received a prize with the first, second and third place winners getting cash while each of the other children who participated received a dime.

In the older age groups there were money prizes for first, second and third. There were pillow fights, money scrambles and novelty races and the weather combined with the high spirits to make it a truly fun day for everyone.

The day ended with ball games between some of the Little League teams.

The Elks are to be congratulated for reviving the annual Sports Day and to holding it on Canada's birthday. Hopefully they will repeat it again next year.

During the day Elks and ladies of the Royal Purple all took part in overseeing the games, the food concessions and the other activities.

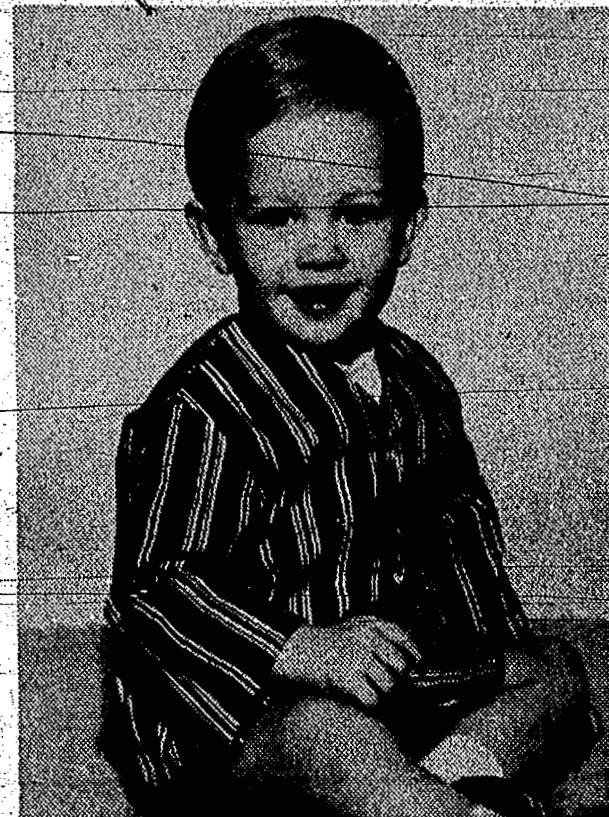

The sports day was financed through the sale of the Western Canada lottery tickets and one member of the lodge said the proceeds from this sale must go to charity and he couldn't think of a better one than youngsters and a sports day for them.

KELLI (ROGERS) catches the checkered flag — at the B.C. Championship Moto-X at Mission Raceways on Sunday, July 6. Kelli did well finishing third in a field of 60 competitors.

Canada Week at Pemberton

By SHIRLEY HENRY
Canada Week was officially proclaimed in Pemberton on June 24 at 10 a.m. by the Mayor of Pemberton, George Underhill, at a Flag Raising ceremony held at the Village Hall in Pemberton.

Signal Hill students proceeded en masse, led by RCMP officers in dress serge, and the Legion color party from the school to the Village Hall. The invocation was given by Rev. Daniel Wong and the benediction by Father W. Scott.

Following the brief ceremony, children were given a Canada Week sticker, and an ice cream treat by the Legion, Branch 201. A slight error in raising the flag upside down was quickly remedied and Canada Week in Pemberton was off to a good start.

The afternoon of June 24 was a beautiful day for the garden Strawberry Tea which was held on the lawn of the Antonelli home overlooking the Village of Pemberton. The W.I. ladies did a lovely job of serving tea and shortcake to 80 people. There was a good response for the free National Film Board movies at the Community Hall on Wednesday, June 25. A thank you to the projectionist, G. Henry.

The Legion chicken barbeque was a great success with some 300 people being served. A special thank you to chief chef Elmer Chumley and assistants Ruth Chumley, Howard Hubbard and Jack McGrade, and all the ladies of the Auxiliary who worked so hard arranging the dinner.

Following the barbeque, there was a short hootenanny in the gym led by guitarists Alex Marshall, Ed Mah, Ken Hillstrom and Allan Fraser. Thank you to Ethel Bertoia for gathering the lupins which were used to decorate Signal Hill for the Miss Pemberton contest, and to Mrs. R. Sankey, Mrs. B. Shore, Mrs. M. Decker, Miss B. Guthrie and Mrs. S. Henry for the decorating; also Mrs. B. Talbot for her arrangements.

The Miss Pemberton Contest was a beautiful evening for all, and wouldn't have been possible without the efforts of MC Bob Priest, Mrs. Betty Shore, Mrs. Minnie Decker, Mrs. Louise Menzel, Mrs. S. Henry, all the contestants and their assistants.

To the judges, Terry Jacks, Mrs. Rose Tatlow, Mrs. Beth Hill, Pat Brennan and Pat Carleton, a special thank you.

And to Gaye and Jack Guthrie, Dave and Rosemary Waldon, Barbara Guthrie, Gary and Elaine McLeod, John Cosulich and Elmer Hellevange, for the entertainment, a vote of thanks.

I would like to extend a special thank you to the Lions Club, Pemberton Sportsmen and Wildlife Association, Women's Institute, Royal Canadian Legion Branch 201 and Auxiliary to Branch 201, U.C.W., Pemberton Agricultural and Community Association, Pemberton Recreation Commission, Pemberton Valley Riding Club, to all the sponsors of Miss Pemberton contestants, and the logging companies for their full support during Canada Week, and last but not least, the Village Council for their support.

Community Hall gets face lifting

As many will have noticed the interior of Pemberton Community Hall has undergone a facelift which is very attractively done.

This project was started by the students of Pemberton Secondary under the direction and supervision of George Henry. The boys spent many hours getting the basic work completed in the hall. Finishing touches were completed by volunteer work parties just prior to Canada Week.

A special thank you to Ian McLeod for all his work, all the volunteer laborers, and to the merchants for their generous discounts on materials.

As many will have heard, the Community Hall was greatly in debt as a result of Canada Week, mainly the dance and Dale Allen's refreshment stand, the hall is now out of debt with all bills paid, leaving a balance in the bank of $600, which will be used to help purchase new folding tables. There will still be money needed for additional materials to finish the renovations, the stage area, and floor finishings.

A total of $448 was turned over to the Community Hall by Dale Aien from the refreshment stand. Many thanks for all the work, Dale and crew. It is so thrilling to see the "new" hall and to see it out of debt. This would not have been possible without the volunteers and support of all the Pemberton residents. Your continued support as volunteers is looked forward to.

There will be a few work parties in the next month. If you would like to offer a hand please phone Shirley Henry at 894-6477 and you can be assured you will be called upon.

Remember, it is everyone's Community Hall, and finally, I am sure you will all agree if you have seen it lately, it is one to be proud of. The hall is in the market for some used cocktail tables and folding tables if possible and if anyone knows where these may be obtained, please let Mrs. Henry know.

Man drowned in Alpha Lake

Bryan Arthur Wagner, aged 25, of Richmond was drowned at Alpha Lake just south of Alta Lake on Sunday afternoon while trying to swim across the lake with two companions.

Wagner apparently got into difficulty and the other two swimmers, Rudolph Urban of Vancouver and Patricia Paterson of Richmond, attempted to rescue him but were unable to do so.

The body was recovered later in the day by skin divers.

Come paint with us

Boys and girls who regularly watched the National Hockey League games on television probably remember the Scotia Bank ads with the motto "Grow With Us". The local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia is holding a contest entitled "Come Paint With Us".

The contest runs from July 1 to July 31 and it is hoped to announce the winners and display as many of the posters as possible during the Loggers Sport weekend.

Squamish Earful

by Maureen Gilmour

Kids Day, July 1, had to be the success story of '75. Kids — they were everywhere, starting from the parade down Cleveland Avenue to the Squamish elementary school. The Elks and Royal Purple lodges did a super job of hosting the children of the district. There were free hot dogs, ice cream and pop for the 12 years and under and with the races and pillow fights, made for a happy day.

The Boys Little League baseball teams were out in full strength and they looked very smart in their brightly colored uniforms. At the conclusion of the races, three teams took to the field.

Thinking of entering the Squamish Day parade? Better do it soon and a call to Peter McKay at 892-3588 or Candy Rustad 898-5253 (after 6 p.m.) will do the trick. They already have many entries but there is still room for more.

A fond farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Art Lloyd and family on their departure this week for their new home in Vernon.

Federal MP Jack Pearsall was a busy man during his two-day visit to Squamish on July 3 and 4. He met with council, groups and private individuals as well as holding an "Open House" at the home of his constituency representative, Mrs. Judy Schildhorn on Thursday evening.

Darcy McNeil and his sister Sharon travelled to Mackenzie last week to visit with former neighbours, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Berube and family.

Mrs. Erma Mitchell spent the holiday weekend in Campbell River visiting her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Pat Morgan and grandchildren Richard and Caroline.

In the latter part of June, I was privileged to attend the Squamish District Guide Banquet and the 2nd Squamish Cub Pack's parent and son banquet. Stories were written on both these events but last week all "copy" for the Citizen was lost enroute to the N. Van office. It has since been found and these stories and others hopefully will be in next week's Citizen.

Celebrating anniversaries this week are Mr. and Mrs. John Hurren, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Langstaff and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fairhurst Jr.

New minister inducted here

Rev. Jack Lindquist was inducted as the minister of the Squamish United Church at a special evening service on Thursday, July 3.

Rev. Alex McLeod gave the sermon and the presiding officer was Rev. John Sorokin. Also taking part in the service was Rev. Stan Pinkerton, secretary of the Vancouver-Burrard Presbytery.

Rev. Lindquist, who comes to Squamish from 100 Mile House, was ordained in 1971 at Naramata after graduating from Fuller Theological Seminary at Pasadena, California, with a B.D. and from UBC with his B.A.

Lindquist, who had been at 100 Mile House for five years, said he felt it was time to make a move and when the congregation at Squamish contacted him, he came to see them and when a call was issued he came to serve here.

Lindquist said it was pleasant to have the members of the Squamish congregation provide the truck and the manpower to load his belongings in 100 Mile and then unload them in Squamish.

Both Rev. Lindquist and his wife Mary are delighted with the manse and its location and believe they will be very happy there. They have two sons, Nels, 4, and Erik, 2.

Rev. Lindquist said his appointment began on July 1 but he has a month holiday and will not take over his actual duties in the church until the beginning of August.

REV. AND MRS. JACK LINDQUIST with their two sons, Nels and Erik. They have come from 100 Mile House and Rev. Lindquist will be the new United Church minister in Squamish.

How much money can you afford to make?

That's a question everyone who works should think about, including people in the pulp and paper industry.

What you earn is important. Your wages are one measurement of how well you're doing in this world. And the fact is, pulp and paper workers are doing very well indeed.

Pulp and paper workers earn more than most Canadians. The chart below gives you some comparative figures. Now, remember, they're averages. They don't pertain to any one particular job, mill or area. But they do reflect how well Canadian pulp and paper workers are doing. And they may even surprise you.

Average Hourly Earnings	October 1969	October 1974	Increase
Pulp and Paper Mills	$3.66	$6.07	$2.41
All Canadian Manufacturing	$2.84	$4.65	$1.81

Source: Statistics Canada

Pulp and paper workers are ahead of the inflation rate. Between April 1970 and April 1975, the Consumer Price Index in Canada rose 39%. In that same period, the average hourly earnings of people who work in pulp and paper went up some 71%. In other words, definitely ahead of the inflation rate, including the particularly high rate of the last two years.

Nobody is suggesting that pulp and paper workers stop trying to improve their position. We're suggesting that requests be reasonable and fair. For instance, recent wage settlements in the U.S. pulp and paper industry amount to approximately a 10% annual increase in each of the next 3 years. If the trend in Canadian settlements since 1969 continues, our hourly labour rates will be some 30% higher by 1977 than those of our biggest competitor — the U.S.A. Add that to the generally higher costs of Canadian wood, transportation, machinery, materials and taxation, and it's clear: we could lose our ability to compete, both in the export and domestic markets.

A healthy industry must be competitive. And such an enormous disparity in labour costs is totally unhealthy. For an industry, and for an individual. If an industry cannot compete, it loses sales both at home and abroad to foreign competitors. And people lose jobs. That's not a threat — it's a fact of life.

Canadians make good pulp and paper. We've got an enviable combination of traditional skill and modern technology. We have an important natural resource: our forests. We make good products, and we can supply a growing world demand for them. We have a pulp and paper industry with great potential, but only if it can match the toughest competition in the world.

The Pulp and Paper Industry of Canada.

The Alta Lake fire chief is to be paid a $200 per year honorarium.

A new zone is to be created to accommodate development on the Louie Potvin property at Lillooet Lake. The current zoning does not allow any more buildings to be built on the property.

At the meeting of the hospital district the chairman advised that the Pemberton Diagnostic and Treatment Centre may be located on the British Columbia Railway property adjacent to the railroad tracks rather than on the health centre site. The new site would not be subject to flood control requirements.

Brenda Hinds has busy summer programm

Brenda Hinds, Miss Squamish and Miss PNE, has a busy program this month starting with the Miss Nanaimo contest where she acted as one of the judges along with Terry Moore and Mrs. Olive Garrett.

It was Brenda's first time as a judge and she found it very difficult to select the winner from the 21 girls who took part in the pageant.

Later this month, on July 18, 19 and 20, she will attend the Cariboo Pageant at Lac La Hache and then, of course, will be back in Squamish for the Miss Timber Queen competition on July 31.

Brenda, who had been attending her first year at B.C.I.T. training in medical radiography, completed her year and passed it and will be going on to her second year this fall.

In between her other duties this summer she will be working at Overwaita at the checkout stands to earn money for her next year at school.

Come to the old timer's picnic

The Squamish Senior Citizens Association is sponsoring the Old Timers Picnic to be held in Stanley Park on Tuesday, July 15.

A bus will stop at the Elks Hall to pick up passengers at 10 a.m. and then proceed to the Cedars to pick up more passengers. The gathering will be held at the covered picnic area near the miniature train in Stanley Park.

Bring your own lunch but tea, coffee, sugar, milk and cups will be provided. The cost of the bus fare is $2 which will be collected as passengers board the bus.

The return journey is scheduled for approximately 4 p.m.

Please let anyone who might be interested know about this event and assure them of a hearty welcome.

Contacts are being made with numerous former residents now living in the lower mainland. Come out, join the crowd and renew old friendships.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD BRANDT

MR. AND MRS. JACK TSE

Summer wedding for Gail Stilwell

Pink peonies, roses and fragrant branches of white mock orange blossoms decorated St. Joseph's Parish Church for the Saturday, July 5 wedding of Gail Trina Stilwell and Richard Jacklin Brandt.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Stilwell of Squamish and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Brandt of Sundridge, Ontario.

Father Griffin heard the young couple exchange vows and Mrs. H. McCulloch played the organ for the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional gown of white lace over white accented with a pink ruffle train. Her three quarter length veil trimmed with lace and ribbon fell from a full cap and she carried a bouquet consisting of a white orchid surrounded by pink carnations and white baby's breath.

Her aunt, Karen Knox was matron of honor, and Sharon Grant was bridesmaid. Both wore pink and blue flowered chiffon on a pale blue background, the floor length halter necked gowns complete with self shawl. Wide pink picture hats covered their heads and they carried bouquets of pink carnations, blue cornflowers and white baby's breath.

Tiny Tara Stilwell, the bride's niece, wore a pink and white gown, the bodice fashioned from white lace while the skirt was cascading tiers of white lace and pink satin. A flowered headband held back her hair and she carried a basket of pink carnations, blue cornflowers and baby's breath.

Ron Lacoursiere was best man and ushers were Kerry

Stilwell, the bride's brother, and Jerry Mongeon.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stilwell chose a blue jersey caftan with white inserts and the groom's mother wore a pink and yellow floral chiffon gown with matching chiffon overcoat. The dresses for the bridal party and the bride's mother were made by Mrs. Valda Reimer.

A reception at the Mira Hotel followed the ceremony with the bride's uncle, Mike Knox proposing the toast to the bride. Before leaving the reception, the bride donned a pink polyester pant suit with white accessories. The young couple plan to take their honeymoon at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandt will be making their home in Squamish.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Jenny Eross and Lynne and Tom Wilson from Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Brandt and Mr. and Mrs. Wes Brandt of Sundridge, Ontario, and Denise Stilwell of Vancouver.

Wong-Tse wedding in Vancouver

Marilyn Mae Wong, daughter of Mrs. Hung Hoong Wong of Pemberton, and Jack Shui Foon Tse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tse of Hong Kong, were married in an afternoon ceremony held at 2 p.m. in the Chinese Presbyterian Church in Vancouver on Sunday, June 15.

Rev. Daniel Wong of Pemberton heard the young couple exchange their marriage vows.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Wong Chung Chui, wore a white lace princess line gown featuring a train, and layered see-through bell sleeves. For her bouquet, she carried white carnations, red roses accented with baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Susan Ducharme and bridesmaids were Colleen Wong, May Wong and Polly Jang.

The attendants were dressed in identical gowns of pink and white floral crepe, featuring long bell sleeves and a light flounce at skirt hem. The attendants carried bouquets of white carnations, pink roses and baby's breath. All wore picture hats to complete their outfits. Little flower girl was Shirley Jang whose dress was fashioned after the senior attendants.

Best man was Charlie Hing Wing and ushers were Jim Wong, Fred Lam and Doug Wing.

A reception was held at the Ming Yuan Dining Complex in Chinatown, and featured a 10-course Chinese dinner.

For her going away outfit, the bride chose an orange coordinating pant suit.

The young couple will reside in Pemberton. The newlyweds enjoyed honeymooning in Victoria and Nelson, where they visited the groom's relatives. The bride is a graduate of Pemberton secondary school; the groom is an accountant.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Tse Chek Min of Dawson Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Tse Chek Kei of Toronto, and many guests from various places, including Nelson, Fruitville, Victoria, Pemberton and Vancouver.

Sawdust and Shavings

How pleasant to see Adelaide and Alan Black of Williams Lake, visitors to Squamish aboard the Royal Hudson last week. Alan is the publisher of the Williams Lake Tribune and a former B.C. Community Newspaper Association president.

Also aboard the Royal Hudson that day was Alice Burritts, Princess Anne-Shula, who acted as hostess on the train.

The Royal Hudson trip on Sunday had an added attraction with the ten lovely young ladies who are competing for the Timber Queen crown on board. They enjoyed the trip as much as the people enjoyed seeing them and then had a delightful luncheon at the Mira Hotel, hosted by the Squamish Independent Loggers.

The official opening of the Mira Hotel last week saw a large group of locals as well as out of town people gather to view the new hotel and sample the delicious food prepared by Don McMaster, a member of the Canadian Federation of Chefs.

John Persie, owner of the new hotel, which will be a great asset to Squamish, was on hand to greet the guests, many of whom enjoyed a tour of the building. But the food was beautiful. McMaster really believes that food should look as good as it tastes and the display last week looked beautiful and tasted delicious.

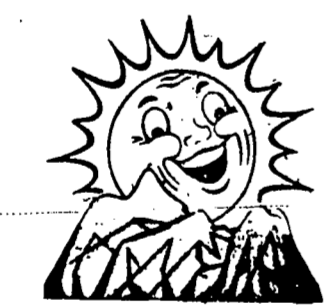

From the potato salad, decorated to look like a Hawaiian island with palm trees and smoke vapors rising from the centre of the volcano (created by dry ice) to the turkey decorated as an Indian face with feather headdress to the salads and plates of relishes and garnishes, everything was colorful and beautiful.

The only trouble was that lots of people thought it was a cocktail party as the invitation was from 6 to 9 p.m. and ate before they came. Imagine their despair when they saw the beautiful array of food!

Congratulations, John, and may your new venture be successful.

Incidentally, after reading about Mount Baker and the steam vents which have recently become active, it was startling to see that Garibaldi, one of the seven sleeping giants, or extinct volcanoes of the Pacific northwest, appeared to be blowing its own steam plume last week. From the cloud configurations it looked just like a plume of white smoke coming from the peak. Startled one for a minute!

Noticed old friend Sandy Sanderson at the opening of the Mira Hotel last week. Sandy is the editor of Hospitality Canada, the hotel paper and was at the opening along with his partner Teresa Evans.

Happiness in our office last week was the acquisition of a fan to keep that air circulating and cool the place.

Have you ever wondered about the perversity of the human being, which makes him complain bitterly about the cold or the wet and then turn right around and complain just as bitterly about the heat and the sun?

I admit I don't like either extreme but then that's me. I'd like a nice even 60 to 70 degrees all year around with rain when it wouldn't interfere with what I want to do and sunshine the rest of the time! But I'll admit that's unreasonable.

Isn't it a shame that the slopes of Bear Mountain and the hills above the Cheakamus Canyon, just really growing up again after that fire over ten years ago, had to be burned again? It was just beginning to look beautiful with the green trees softening the harshness of the rocks.

But it does point up what "Tag" Neighbor said last week when he stated the fire hazard was high even though we had been experiencing cool damp weather. He said a few warm days would see an explosive situation and he was right.

Sorry about that error in your name Rick! But the gremlins or type lice must have been working overtime after the holiday and that's what happens. It won't happen again, I hope, but if it does your picture will be on the column so everyone will know who you are even if they don't recognize your name. And after all it could have been Trick Raynor and that would have been even worse!

Inflation has hit even the junior set. There was the nine year old who wanted to know if the first prize in the races at the Elks Sports Day on July 1 was going to be five dollars!

Bicycles stolen

Police report there have been bicycles stolen in the district in the past week and advise all bicycle owners to take steps to ensure their bicycles are locked when not in use, or stored safely.

On July 4 a CCM 10 speed bicycle was taken from the vicinity of the Mira Hotel while on July 5 there was a report of a bicycle, a Premier 10 speed, taken from the Diamond Head apartments.

Coming and Goings

Miss Jackie Marsh spent a few days with her mother last week while her father Ralph Marsh was in Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Koch have returned home from a two-week holiday in Manitoba.

Mrs. David Morrison and her daughter Brenda of Williams Lake were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boscarol.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Mitchell have moved to Port Moody after selling their home on Cottonwood Road. The move will bring them closer to their daughter and grandchildren.

Every person should have a cemetery lot in which to bury the faults of friends and loved ones.

Mrs. Ida Slack of Vancouver recently spent a week with Mrs. Lucy Turnquist. While here, Mrs. Slack renewed old friendships and acquaintances.

We welcome Rev. John Lindquist, his wife and two small sons, Nels and Erik, into our midst. The new minister of the Squamish United Church and his family have come to Squamish from 100 Mile House.

James Mobey has returned from a wonderful five-week holiday in England.

Overheard at the Chieftain: One logger was talking about a convention he had just attended in the States and claims he heard this comment:

"One Canadian asked the American how they were doing and was told that things weren't too bad. 'We've got Gerald Ford, and then we also have Johnny Cash and Bob Hope. How are you doing?'"

The B.C. logger replied, "Not so hot, we've got Davie Barrett but we've got no cash and no hope!"

Orchids, and a tip of the Tallow hat to former fire chief Gordie Matheos who arrived at the waterfront fire on Monday afternoon, saw the need for additional help and volunteered his services to Fire Chief Doug Orser.

It's good to think that people who have the experience and the skills are willing to turn out to help when the need arises.

Winners of the Sons of Norway raffle held recently were Michael Briston of Squamish who won the Norwegian sweater, Lesley Micenko of Vancouver who won the Norwegian doll and Fran McKilligan of Squamish who won the tray.

Busy days for queen contestants

Contestants for the Miss Timber Queen Pageant are facing a busy schedule of activities leading up to the actual pageant on July 31.

They have attended two make-up classes so far and have yet to attend a speaking class and two modelling classes, all designed to teach the girls the basics for public appearances and speaking.

A highlight of the girls' activities was a trip on the Royal Hudson on Sunday, July 6, between North Vancouver and Squamish. A luncheon at the Mira Hotel, compliments of the Independent Loggers Association, gave the girls a pleasant break in their travelling day.

Still to come are such weekend outings as a garden party at the home of Mrs. S. Rizun, a barbecue hosted by Mr. and Mrs. B. Carson, and Beta Sigma Phi tea, given by Mrs. Frank Kelley. The girls will also spend one Friday evening downtown selling Squamish Day buttons.

In the final few days before the pageant, the contestants will be busy rehearsing for it. Then on Thursday, July 31, the girls will attend a coffee party at the home of Mayor and Mrs. D. Stewart prior to the 8 p.m. pageant at Howe Sound, senior secondary school, where the new Miss Timber Queen will be chosen. Following this, there will be a dinner for all the girls and special guests.

ELLEN HARLEY presented a number of gifts to Mrs. MacKenzie at the farewell party held at the manse the week before the MacKenzies left for Revelstoke.
