Mayor wants permanent storm drain site

To discuss problem with minister

By ROSE TATLOW

Mayor Dave Stewart told council on Tuesday evening that he was not happy with the temporary solution of passing the drainage through Horse Creek into the Squamish River but felt the drainage from the Dunhill Development in Brackendale should go to the power line and follow the power line right of way to the Squamish River.

Stewart said he was prepared to go to the provincial government to urge that immediate action be taken to ensure that the pipes be brought from the development north of Ross Road along Depot Road to the power lines and then down to the river.

"I am afraid that Dunhill may not develop much more of the land in the area," Stewart told council, "and that the temporary measures planned to put the storm sewer water into Horse Creek for a year may become a permanent situation."

The question arose from a Works and Service report which said that the fisheries department had finally come up with permission to use Horse Creek instead of Judd's Slough for the water from the drainage and the storm sewers. They recommended the use of Horse Creek as a temporary measure until a permanent solution could be found.

Alderman Kindree told council Doug Webber, consulting engineer for the district, said some restrictions could be placed on the pipe which would restrict the flow. However, Alderman Makowichuk, whose property abuts on Horse Creek, and Pat McCawley, through whose property the creek runs, felt that damage might result from this flow of water.

Alderman Kindree said his committee insisted that Dunhill would have to come up with a permanent solution within a year but there was some concern that if the company pulls out of the area any guarantees concerning damage might not be honored.

Mayor Stewart told council he did not think the Department of Housing would be doing much more in the Brackendale area for quite some time. Private developers have shown that they can handle the housing situation here.

Dunhill has had four or five months to do something but they haven't come up with any solution," Stewart said, but later admitted that fisheries had been the stumbling block and their decision had just been received.

Alderman Bryant said he feared diversion of storm sewer water to the Horse Creek area would just compound the drainage problem already existing on Zenith and Cottonwood roads.

Alderman Kindree told council that if the mayor could get a permanent site and get the pipe buried, his committee would be delighted. He suggested the matter be left in the mayor's hands to see what could be done but stressed the urgency of the matter and said immediate action would have to be taken.

Alderman Bryant said if the letter from fisheries said it should go down the B.C. Hydro right of way then that's where it should go and to make sure it went down there as quickly as possible.

Mayor Stewart said he would call a special meeting of council if he ran into any problems in his plans to seek further action on the ministerial level.

Warning

Health Minister Dennis Cocke recently issued a warning to the public to avoid contact with bats.

During the latter part of July, three people were bitten by bats which later proved to have rabies.

Normally, during daylight hours, bats roost in dark places. Any bat that is found in the sun, or on the ground, or allows itself to be approached and picked up, is likely to be ill or perhaps could be rabid.

People are warned that they should not attempt to capture bats or come in contact with them.

Anyone who is bitten or scratched by a bat should immediately contact the nearest Medical Health Officer.

RAINFALL EXTREMELY LOW IN 1975

Rainfall in July of this year was extremely low, less than one inch, adding very little to the already record low rainfall of the year.

July was a sunny month with a total of only .91 inches, making the year's total 21.70, less than half of what the normal amount for the first seven months of the year would be.

The highest temperature, 31 degrees, was registered on July 4 and 5, and the lowest, 7 degrees, was registered on July 22.

Fire Chief Reports Fire-Free Month

There were no fires reported in the district of Squamish between July 18 and Aug. 13, reports Fire Chief Doug Orser. Since then, there has been only one reported fire which prompted eight firemen to rush to the scene of the fire.

It was a relatively minor fire at a private home where the female occupant suffered first and second degree burns to her hand. These were caused when the woman moved a pot of burning cooking oil out to her sun-deck. The woman managed to douse the fire with a garden hose before firemen arrived. However, although damage to property was light, the fire chief wishes to caution people not to attempt to move burning fat fryers themselves. They are far too dangerous.

In such an instance, people should either place a tight fitting lid on the pot so that the fire will burp itself out or they should throw baking soda onto the fire. Also, a certified fire extinguisher can be used to douse fires.

In addition, no attempt should be made to put out the fires of flammable materials with water, as water merely spreads the fire.

The fire chief also reports that as of Aug. 14 all burning permits have been cancelled.

The reason for such a low incidence of fires in the Squamish area probably can be attributed to the fact that many people are away on holiday this time of year. Also, there seems to be a pattern of fire occurrence: there is very often a calm before the storm. The department will go for a period of weeks with no reported fires; then, suddenly, one or two or a rash of fires will break out.

Total fire loss is up considerably over last year. This year's expenditures being $535,000. This can be attributed to the large industrial fire at Squamish Terminals on May 31, the Weldwood fire in the early part of July, and the accumulated loss from the beginning of the year.

Fire prevention is something we should all practise at any time of year and particularly in the warmer summer months when we are out using our barbecue and building outdoor fires.

HAPPY FISHERMAN, Sid Roberge and his wife proudly stand in front of their new trailer which Sid won as third prize in the Export A Super-Derby on the weekend of Aug. 9 and 10.

Sid Roberge Wins Third Prize in Fishing Derby

Squamish resident Sid Roberge won third prize in the Export "A" fishing derby on the weekend of Aug. 9 and 10. The prize was a 15-foot travel trailer, made by Prowler of Maple Ridge. The winning fish was a mere 29 pounds 12 ounces.

Out fishing with his wife in a 16-foot fibreglass boat he rented from Sewell's at Horseshoe Bay, Roberge made the lucky catch about four hours after he started out at 5:30 a.m. on the first day of the derby. The salmon took a bite of Sid's bait, just at the south end of Anvil Island. Sid was using a minnow with one and a half pounds of weight on his line. After the ensuing struggle between Sid and the salmon, the latter finally gave up and was taken into the official weigh-in station at Sunset Beach.

The rules of such a derby require that the first ten fish brought in must be kept and, thus, not be returned to the fishermen. Such is the case with Sid's, much to his regret. However, the fish are used for a worthy cause; they are given to hospitals and needy organizations.

In addition to the 29-pounder, Sid also caught a smaller three-pound salmon which he caught the same day. Sid was satisfied with his catch the first day of the derby, so he did not go out again on the second and final day.

Not only was it the first time he had ever won a prize in a fishing derby, it was also the first time this year that he had been out fishing. He doesn't expect he will be out again this year, either!

He enjoys fishing but it's something that he doesn't do that much. The biggest fish he had caught up to the date of his win was a 21-pounder.

Sid, who owns Howe Sound Equipment, has been a resident of Squamish for two and a half years. He and his family hail from Victoria.

Other prizes in the $75,000 Export "A" Super Derby were $25,000 in cash, first prize; and a camper and Datsun truck, second prize.

The derby is owned and operated by a non-profit society and supported by over 75 business concerns and over 200 volunteer workers. All profits towards sports fishing research projects and university scholarships.

This is the eighth year of the derby's running. People who partake in the event come from all over the world, from such places as Belgium, Sweden, Ireland, Morocco, Australia, Japan; all over North America, and, not to forget, Spuzzum.

Although Sid didn't have a big fish to take home, he has a well-equipped mobile trailer which will no doubt give him many travelling and camping hours of happiness. It is his first-ever trailer, and he and his wife look forward to making good use of it. That he should be so lucky!

Labor Disputes in First Half of 1975

There were 87 labour-management disputes in British Columbia during the first half of 1975, according to a report from the Department of Labour.

They involved 25,988 employees, who accounted for a total of 375,380 man-days lost. This figure was well below those for the same periods in 1972 and 1974, which were 1,390,817 and 1,886,977.

One of the two largest disputes during the first six months — that between the Maritime Employers' Association and the roughly 4,000 longshoremen resident in B.C. — fell under federal jurisdiction and accounted for 72,000 man-days lost. The other dispute was between ICBC and the 1,989 members of the Office and Technical Employees Union, who accounted for 43,553 man-days lost. The ICBC dispute continues.

In addition to the two main disputes, there was a large number of municipal disputes affecting 1,963 workers for a total of 111,604 man-days lost.

As for the equivalent statistics for June 1975, there were 19 disputes during that month, involving 3,780 workers for a total of 66,258 man-days lost. Once again, this is substantially below the equivalent figures for the same period in 1974, when there were 23 disputes, involving 59,227 workers for a total of 811,702 man-days lost.

Pearsall Announces Loan Approvals

Coast Chilcotin MP Jack Pearsall received word that CMHC has approved a loan for a housing project in Squamish.

Pearsall reports that two loans were approved through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The two loans, totalling $656,400 to the Dunhill Development Corporation are for the construction of family housing in Squamish and Clearbrook.

Ten semi-detached basement bungalows will be constructed in Brackendale, with the aid of a $290,700 loan. Upon completion, the units will be managed by the British Columbia Housing Management Commission.

Operating expenses will be shared on a 50-50 cost-sharing basis by CMHC and the provincial housing authority.

In addition, the CMHC approved a loan and contribution totalling $1,154,650 to the Bracken Heights Housing Co-operative Association for housing construction in Brackendale.

The loan, which includes a federal contribution of $158,083, will assist in the construction of 37 three-bedroom single family dwellings. The houses will be single-storey with basement and will have paved driveways and carports.

Provided under the National Housing Act, the loan is for 40 years at eight per cent.

Highway 99 Improvement on "Suicide Hill"

Major improvement of a trouble spot known locally as "Suicide Hill" on Highway 99 near Pemberton began in the week of Aug. 11, Highways Minister Graham Lee announced recently.

About three miles south of Pemberton the 2,600-foot section of Highway 99 has been plagued with small but frequent rock falls caused by erosion and dislodgement of loose material on the slopes. While no serious accidents have been attributed to the presence of rock on the road, users of the highway and local residents have expressed concern about the narrow, winding section and petitioned the department to improve it.

The work will consist of widening the grade and improving shoulders, stabilizing the slopes above the highway by shotcreting (high pressure concrete spray application) and heavy gauge wire mesh installations.

Bin retaining walls will also be installed to achieve extra width, together with the provision of catchment areas and concrete barriers to contain rolling rock.

A second stage improvement project along the same section and involving stabilization of the lower slope above the B.C. Railway line is being considered, but no work would proceed on this until next year.

Forestry Report

The local forestry office reported a very quiet past few weeks in the woods. The cooling off trend that began in July brought the local fire hazard back down to normal.

However, Tag Neighbor of the Squamish Forest Service did say that if the weather continued to be dry, the current reading of the fire hazard indicator, which has been bordering on extreme, could go even higher.

It is hoped that the general public will take every precaution in tending and dousing campfires properly to ensure no unnecessary fires are started.

Two youths killed two injured

Two young men, Brent Stanley Downing and Brian Lindsey Valleau, both 16 years of age, are dead following an accident on Highway 99, approximately one mile south of the Alice Lake Park entrance.

Michael Edward Essex, 16, was reported in stable condition in Lions Gate Hospital and Larry Smith, also 16, was treated in Squamish General Hospital for cuts and bruises and released. The four boys were residents of Squamish.

The accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 16 when a 1973 Nova, driven by Essex, failed to negotiate a left hand turn. The car left the roadway and came to rest against a tree. RCMP are still continuing their investigation.

At 6 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 16, William Tucker from Dallas, Texas, was driving his 1958 International camper southbound on Highway 99, going down the Furry Creek hill. He had a brake failure, causing him to go into the ditch. His wife Janie and young son were sent to hospital overnight for observation.

The Squamish RCMP Detachment report the number of accidents this year is down, but the severity of these accidents is up.

TWO SQUAMISH YOUTHS Brent Stanley Downing and Brian Lindsey Valleau were killed in this car in an accident on Highway 99 south of the Alice Lake Park entrance on Saturday, Aug. 16 at 12:20 a.m. Injured were Michael Edward Essex and Larry Smith, also of Squamish.

MISS SQUAMISH TIMBER QUEEN, Colleen Morgan, stands before the bus as she leaves to go to Vancouver to the Miss P.N.E. Contest.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — THURSDAY, AUGUST 21, 1975

A crucial election Recent Political Comment

The first election in the newest municipality in British Columbia will take place at Whistler on the first Saturday in September, Sept. 6. It is a crucial one as the first council will have many important matters to deal with and expertise and knowledge will be essential if the best interests of the area are to be served.

Whistler is fortunate in having four candidates for mayor and seven candidates for the three aldermanic seats. It shows a lively interest in the area and the elections and also shows there is a great deal of community interest.

But community interest is not enough. The members of the council have to have the time and the knowledge to devote to their tasks which will be many as anyone who has seen the problems faced by the regional district in administering the area will know.

The mayor and his council will have a huge task ahead of them. In many ways they will have to be prepared to face up to pressure from government, from the developers and from those who wish to see no development at all. There will be growing pains and there will be many problems which they never dreamed existed.

It would be wise in considering members to make up this first municipal council to consider those who have had some business experience, some knowledge of government or of community activity, and who have shown a keen interest in the area in the past few years.

It's going to be a big job, not just a prestige position and one that will demand the utmost from the people who are elected to fill these responsible positions.

The Times hopes to have a picture and a brief resume from each of the candidates, stating his or her platform to present in the next issue of the newspaper or in the final one before the election.

Read their comments, consider their platforms and then vote accordingly. They will be representing you and your choice is important.

More fact necessary

West Vancouver council is playing a dangerous game that may well backfire. In the municipality's attempt to assure what it considers to be proper development of land within its municipal boundary, it may be alienating the Squamish Indian Band which appears to have been, in the past, more than willing to co-operate.

But the Indians are tired of the endless delays. They have projects on the drawing board and want to go ahead. All they ask is that the municipality sell them the services they need, such as building inspection, fire and police protection, and water. This week the Indians say that if the municipality won't promise to provide these services, negotiations will end and the band will form a municipality and provide itself with services.

This could be an end to all co-operation between the two governing bodies. The latest round of give-and-takes or lack thereof began when the Indian band and Park Royal Shopping Centre announced in July plans for the expansion of the south mall. The municipality was upset, somewhat understandably, to hear that construction would begin in August. But, the Indians protested, the municipality has had the plans for months and months.

The fact is that the municipality has no power to control anything on Indian lands. It is only because the Indians want to buy the municipal services and be good neighbors that they entered into negotiations with the municipality at all. The latest set of municipal "modifications" to the shopping centre expansion are a little vague and it appears that some of them would require major changes to the plans. It's a little late to ask for major changes when the plans have been at municipal hall for months. On the other hand, some of the requests are minor and could be incorporated into the design without much trouble.

But Mayor Peter Jones got the pot really boiling when he asked the Indians to submit all plans for development on Indian lands to the municipal council for approval. This widened the scope of the shopping centre controversy to cover all development of Indian lands.

This scope-widening didn't escape Indian attention and has been met with flat rejection by the Indians. The mayor and council may be merely attempting to protect the municipality from some sort of horrendous development around the north end of Lions Gate Bridge, but this blunt approach is just an insult.

West Vancouver should negotiate more carefully, tactfully, or be prepared to lose whatever influence the municipality now has over development of Indian lands.

Students still need jobs

While summer is more than half over, there are still many North Shore students willing and eager to do relief work, casual gardening and cleaning jobs. The Canada Manpower Centre for Students and The Times encourage North Shore householders and businessmen to consider hiring a student for temporary work until the beginning of school. This year the Student Manpower Centre has relied heavily on the support of householders and as a result, many students have found steady summer work doing casual gardening and odd jobs.

Although total placements in this area are down 30% from last year, this appears to be part of the general B.C. summer employment pattern stemming from the current economic conditions. Unfortunately the number of students looking for work has remained the same and as a result any kind of work is appreciated.

If you need temporary office relief for a vacationing employee, extra staff to handle the August tourist rush, if you need your lawn cut, or garden weeded, your walls washed or house painted and would like an extra pair of hands in that big move at the end of the month... call the Canada Manpower Centre for Students, 984-9177, and use The Times Student Placement Service in the classified section.

A SWITCH

MERRITT — Fifty years ago, it was the poor working man in his struggle to live who was the concern of many. Now it is the poor consumer in his struggle to survive in a world of soaring prices. The Chase-Shuswap Weekly.

STRIKE BENEFITS

OSOYOOS — The strike of the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia is now in its third month, and the people of this province should be elated for two reasons. Firstly, the government is finally showing a responsibility to the people and not just to organized unions by not yielding to exorbitant demands. Secondly, just think of the money we are saving. There are 1,800 workers on strike, and at an average of $1,000 per month per worker, that means a saving to the taxpayers of $1.8 million each month. In other words, we have now saved $4 million while the ICBC workers have been on strike and very few people have really suffered or have been inconvenienced. Makes one wonder how badly we really need the mammoth corporation. The Times.

LETTERS LETTERS LETTERS LETTERS

Editor, The Times:

Isn't it wonderful that 23 cents a day COLA and $1 per hour is not suitable for the woodworkers and pulp and paper workers in their bargaining!

How would they like a three cents a day COLA such as us pensioners are getting and not a cent per hour added as they are demanding. Us pensioners and other fixed income people have to pay the same prices for everything that the people who are demanding such fantastic wages these days and getting!

Us pensioners cannot go on strike for more money, and we just have to sit and watch our meagre savings being eroded after a lifetime of saving at meagre wages, and serving in the armed forces, and having lost ten years in the depression of the 1930s.

You workers just don't know what you are creating by continuing to demand — you are, if you only knew it, cutting your own throats fighting against the pensioners, fighting against the government, fighting against yourselves — by creating conditions that you may have to have a wheelbarrow of money in the future to buy a loaf of bread! It has happened in other countries in the past, and is also happening right at this very moment!

I have been a union member most of my working career such as on the railroads and in mining, while the wages were extremely low, and I do not now begrudge any worker a fair wage, but the things are going now, it is becoming beyond all reason and somehow something has to be done to even out the disparity between pensioners, minimum wage workers, fixed income people and so on!

Anyone who cares to express an opinion of this letter, I wish that he or she will do so through the column of this newspaper.

Victor Johnson.

Editor, The Times:

May I plead space in your newspaper. Visiting your fair city, Squamish, for last weekend, I had with my sister and her family watched the Loggers-Parade.

At the completion of this, we wished to cross an intersection on a pedestrian crossing, when a pick-up impatiently felt he should have prior right to this thoroughfare and expressed this by yelling "Get the hell out of the way."

The supposed gentleman turned out to be the "Mayor of Squamish."

To say we were appalled at such behaviour is to put it mildly. Does not the Mayor of Squamish realize he is still obligated to the rule of the road and his behaviour should be exemplary towards all? Perhaps this letter will enlighten him.

J.R.V. Ratcliffe,
Winfield, B.C.

Editor, The Times:

Does British Columbia's history record any other time when our province's economy collapses without so much as a word from the Premier?

In recent months, we have seen wide-spread strikes from I.C.B.C., the forest industry, to supermarket employees, to fishermen, and what has Dave Barrett done? Well, he held meetings in England about an oil refinery for B.C., which we may not need, and possibly can't afford.

He did come home for two weeks to wind up the legislature amid bitter feelings and deep, wide-spread political concern. And now, while provincial revenues disintegrate, and even more people are on strike or out of work, further eroding our economy, he is enjoying the California sunshine, while on a month's vacation.

$52,000 per year for this type of performance from the Premier of this province is ridiculous! LET'S HAVE AN ELECTION.

LETTERS

Isn't it amazing the changes you notice when you've been away for a few days or, as in my case, in bed for the past three weeks. Thanks for all the kind messages of sympathy, get well wishes and beautiful flowers. They were sincerely appreciated and made me feel so pleased to think that so many people bothered.

The whole thing started with a trip to the Island and the drive from Nanaimo to Victoria has to be one of the loveliest in B.C. The highway was lined in places with huge masses of the perennial sweet pea in its brilliant shades; dogwoods were blooming for the second time some even had blossoms and berries on the same branches and all the arbutus trees were showing their new-rust colored bark.

But that's about all we saw of Victoria. A proposed meal at a restaurant operated by a friend who is an accomplished chef had to be called off when my young one had to go back to hospital and I came home a week later to settle for a two-week stay in the local hospital. For anyone who needs a rest as I did, or who needs care which can be provided in Squamish, the hospital is the perfect place to be. A pleasant staff, combined with excellent food and the best of care, and visitors of course, made it as attractive as a stay in hospital could be.

But coming home. That was something again. I couldn't believe how big the sweet peas were, or that they had climbed to the top of the wire; the carnations were gaily blooming in the hanging baskets and the roses were full of buds.

heralding their second blooming. Even the heather in the back 40, or maybe I should say the front 40, where it just grew, is better than the plants which have been carefully cultivated.

The tomatoes have green ones growing larger each day and there are even some small cucumbers which will soon be eating size. It was amazing.

Downtown the smart new landscaping at the Bank of Montreal has added to the attraction of that corner. Across the street the Standard station's brilliant display of lawn and summer flowers is beautiful and now that the new lane has been added to the entry to Cleveland Avenue from Buckley Avenue, there's lots of room to get by when someone is waiting to cross the road.

Pussy cat was glad to see me come home. You'd think I had been away for months and even father, who says he really doesn't like cats, had been taking care of him while I was away. But he wouldn't stay down and his king sized purr was even larger than ever before.

Squamish looked lovely, the streets were sunny and bright and the crowds from the Royal Hudson were as busy and as numerous as ever. It was such fun to be back in the swing of things again and although for the next week I shall be taking things easy, soon it will be a full working day again and while it's fun to take it easy, to read and to loaf, it's also fun to start thinking of working again.

I guess I just never learned that there's something wrong about this work ethic as so many people say.

THIS IS DEFINITELY a steam locomotive which has been visiting Squamish lately but which one is it?

Motor-Vehicle Act Amendments

Changes to the Motor Vehicle Act made in the recent session of the provincial legislature include the requirement that the licence or a photocopy of the licence of any motor vehicle or trailer be carried in the motor vehicle.

Previously, the Act did not specify that the trailer licence must be carried. The trailer licence may be carried in the towing vehicle.

A change was also made with regard motor dealers licences. In the past, a Dealers Licence has been both a licence to allow the dealer to carry on business and also a licence for which number plates were issued to allow the dealer to operate motor vehicles or trailers on a highway.

The changes made in the Act separate these two functions of the dealers licence.

The motor dealer will be required to obtain a Motor Dealers Licence to carry on business and he may, if he wishes, obtain a Demonstration Licence and number plates to use on vehicles which he is demonstrating to prospective customers.

A section has also been inserted into the Act to require a motor dealer to register any motor vehicle or trailer, excluding mobile homes, which he is offering for sale.

This section would require that any vehicle, both new or used, being offered for sale by motor dealers within the province be registered in the motor dealers name. It will have the effect of establishing very quickly a record of the vehicle that will allow police to check or trace stolen vehicles in the motor vehicle records held by the Motor Vehicle Branch.

In addition, it will provide any vehicle being offered for sale with a registration form to be carried with the vehicle and will enable future transactions in connection with that vehicle to flow into the records in a quicker and more efficient manner.

The section of the Motor Vehicles Act dealing with school crossings has been changed to provide that traffic must obey the instructions of both the school pupil acting as a member of the school patrol and also the adult crossing guard who may be stationed at the intersection.

The Act also makes a requirement that any passenger vehicle of more than nine-passenger capacity or commercial vehicles of a gross vehicle weight in excess of 6,000 pounds be equipped with high-way advance warning devices or, as they are commonly called, flags and flares.

This section has now been changed to remove the reference to the gross vehicle weight and requires that where the vehicle's width or the width of the load exceeds 90 inches, that the vehicle carry highway advance warning devices.

YIELD signs were developed to relieve drivers of the necessity for coming to a full halt as is required by a stop sign. Yet widespread failure of drivers to observe these signs is impairing their usefulness. At a Yield sign, slow down, make sure there is no imminent hazard and enter the traffic stream so as not to take the right-of-way from a driver who is approaching from either direction.

Want To Feel Work and Play Better?

It has been said by some health experts that the average 60-year-old Swede is in better physical condition than the average 30-year-old Canadian. True or not, Canadians generally have a long way to go to reach physical fitness, and groups like Participation are helping them get there.

This Sunday, Aug. 24, at 7 p.m. CBC-TV will telecast a special half-hour feature to introduce the Participation program to Canadians.

In the mind of Keith McKerracher, who started Participation a number of years ago, the necessary exercises to achieve physical fitness were a bore. At least, he decided, that was the way most Canadians looked at them. So Keith developed a program that was both simple and entertaining. Even more amazing, it works.

In a special film entitled The Shape of the Nation, viewers will be introduced to the easy methods and happy results of Participation.

They get to meet J. L. Peabody, a subject who is badly out of shape, and the component parts of his body — the heart, lungs, muscles, stomach, central nervous system and brain, all of them equally out of shape.

Through Peabody's experience, viewers can learn what may be done for their own physical well-being. It's surprisingly simple, starting with a little walking, a short run, or some other form of relaxed exercise.

As David Yorston, the Toronto actor who hosts the program, says, "You simply have to start with some kind of self-disciplinary action, such as 'I'm going to walk around the block every day' and stick to it. You'll feel better! You'll work better! You'll definitely sleep better!"

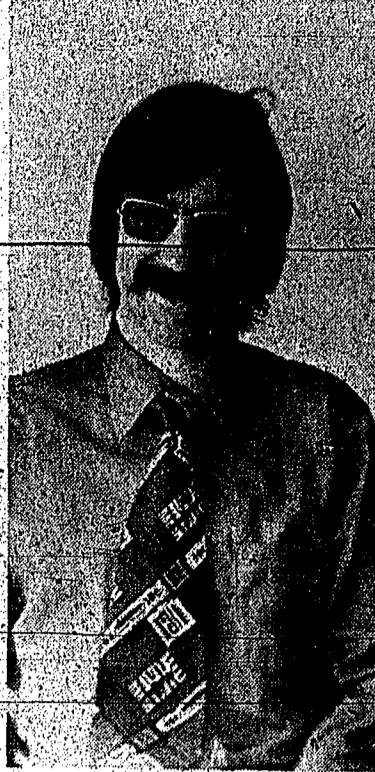

The Participation people are not great believers in bulging muscles and iron physiques. They simply opt for being healthy. It leads, they say, to the good life.

The program is designed not to alarm but to educate and to entertain. And it does, in a straightforward easy-to-take approach.

The Shape of the Nation was directed by David Harris.

New Treasurer

New Treasurer in Squamish

The District of Squamish has a new treasurer, Andre Carrel, as of Aug. 1.

Carrel has spent the past three years in Vancouver working as the administrative assistant for the Laurel House Society, a school for emotionally disturbed children. Previous to that, Carrel was secretary-manager for the town of Fort Simpson in the Northwest Territories.

Moving to Squamish appears to have been a good move for Carrel, his wife and two children. Carrel himself is a railroad enthusiast and was overjoyed the day the Museum Train and the Royal Hudson were both "parked" at the Squamish railway station. Seeing two steam locomotives together like that is a phenomenon one is unlikely to see again in North America.

He feels Squamish has a lot to offer residents in the way of fishing, skiing, and the Brackendale Art Gallery, which he feels is a great asset.

A very personable fellow, Carrel appears very enthusiastic about his new position as treasurer.

The Canadian Constitution, establishing the Government of Canada and the framework within which the federal and provincial governments share their respective responsibilities, is not incorporated in a single written document.

It is instead a combination of enactments, beginning with the British North America Act of 1867, of statutes and Orders in Council.

Most significant of all, our Constitution follows the parliamentary customs and practices inherited from the British system, upon which Canada's parliamentary government is modelled.

School Briefs

After a discussion with Mr. Greenwood, principal of Howe Sound secondary school, the board decided to proceed with the installation of a gravel surface loading loop at the high school to a maximum cost of $2,000.

The bids received for renovations to Squamish elementary washrooms, two kindergarten rooms and a covered play area at Brackendale were rejected and the projects are to be re-tendered.

The Loggers Sports committee is going to be asked to remove refuse from the Howe Sound secondary school grounds once Loggers Sports weekend terminates.

The board is going to ask the Department of Education to apply for the site of the proposed Brackendale junior secondary school of 18.43 acres and the site for the proposed Brackendale trailer park elementary school of 8.78 acres.

The agreement concerning the community use of the proposed Alta Lake school was approved.

The bid of Guran Construction Ltd. for the construction of the Alta Lake school in the amount of $695,200 will be accepted.

The bid of Commercial Construction Ltd. in the amount of $331,059 for the construction of additions to the Pemberton secondary school was accepted subject to the approval of the Department of Education.

The board will apply to the department of education for authority to sell the existing Alta Lake school and teachage. The board will also ask the B.C. Railway Co. if the existing lease on the school property can be extended to new owners.

Do something for yourself.

There is always something interesting at Squamish Floor Coverings. 892-5422

Public Announcement

OTTAWA, AUGUST 6, 1975

REQUEST FOR APPLICATIONS FOR CABLE TELEVISION SERVICE TO CERTAIN AREAS OF ALBERTA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Canadian Radio Television Commission announces that it is prepared to receive applications for cable television broadcasting licenses to serve the Brooks, Wetaskiwin and Camrose, Alberta areas, and Grand Forks, Agassiz, Harrison Hot Springs, Rosedale, Hope, Midway, Sunset Beach, Lions Bay and Brunswick, British Columbia areas.

Parties wishing to serve any or all of these areas are requested to file applications on or before October 31, 1975.

All applicants planning the use of microwave must submit details of routes and costs. In particular applicants should submit the following:

- Where microwave is to be provided by a common carrier, a copy of an agreement in principle between the common carrier and the applicant should be submitted. Details of any proposals by common carriers for the use of microwave, the cost of the service and charges levied by the common carrier should also be included. In the event that the application pertains to an existing or proposed microwave network all details relating to cost sharing arrangements with other applicants or licensees which are, or are proposing to, participate in the network must be provided.
- Where microwave is to be provided by an applicant, or the applicant proposes the use of privately owned non-common carrier microwave facilities, the application must include detailed information on all microwave costs. In the event that such a proposal involves more than one cable television undertaking or proposed undertaking, all details relating to cost sharing arrangements with other applicants or licensees which are, or proposing to, participate in the arrangement must be provided.
- The applications must include full details as to the site of the distant head-end and the proposed microwave routing. Detailed costs relating to the establishment and/or use of the distant head-end facility, as well as any agreements pertaining to the establishment and/or use of the facility must be provided.
- All applications must indicate the monthly subscriber fee including the cost of microwave service.

The Commission will not consider any cable television applications which are predicated on the video-taping of television signals unless all of the necessary authorizations have been received in writing and filed with the Commission. Persons wishing to apply are reminded of the eligibility requirements laid down by the Governor General in Council in Directions to the Commission, Orders in Council, P.C. 1969-2229 as amended and P.C. 1972-1569. The Commission expects to consider any application meeting these eligibility requirements.

Potential applicants are also reminded that in the Commission's past decisions and policy announcements the Commission has required that licensees have effective ownership and control of local head-ends, amplifiers and drops in their cable television undertakings.

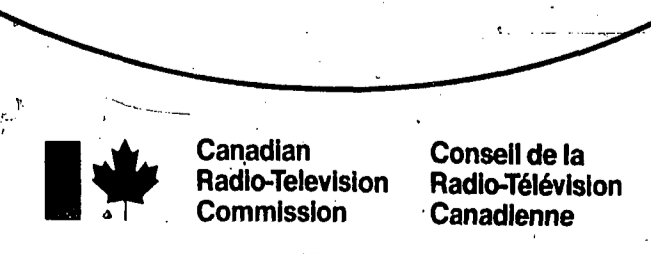

The Commission firmly believes that cable television must complement existing broadcasting services in Alberta and British Columbia and should not jeopardize their present or future capability. Hence, cable television applications must outline specific measures for introducing cable television into areas in a manner that will assist and strengthen these services and help to achieve the broadcasting objectives set out in the Broadcasting Act.

As well, upon hearing applications for the locations in question, the Commission will request:

- the licensees of the local television broadcasting stations, whose A or B contours fall within the territories applied for pursuant to this announcement to file such documentary evidence and to make such representations as they consider necessary concerning the probable effect of the licensing of cable television undertakings within these service contours on the continued viability of such stations, and
- the licensees of local television stations and each cable applicant to explain the actions taken or proposed to be taken individually and co-operatively to ensure the continuing availability and quality of "off air" television service.

The Commission will announce at a later date the time and place of the Public Hearing where these applications will be considered and where they may be examined by the public. The particulars of each application will also be published in the newspapers of the area proposed to be served. The public will then have the opportunity to submit comments on any application by filing a written intervention with the undersigned and by giving a copy to the applicant at least fifteen (15) days before the Hearing.

Lions Bay gets $26,564

The Village of Lions Bay has received a $25,000 cheque from the provincial government, the basic support grant provided under the Natural Gas Revenue Sharing Act.

The program guarantees a share of British Columbia's resource revenues to the province's municipalities under a formula designed in consultation with the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

Several components of the program, such as those involving operating costs and housing starts, are directed at reducing the financial burdens associated with size and growth.

The Village of Lions Bay, located seven miles north of Horseshoe Bay, also received a cheque for $1,564, representing payment of four-fifths of the per capita "catch up" grant established under the Municipalities Aid Act.

The MAA compensates for population growth occurring in the village since the census year upon which the regular per capita grant was calculated. The remaining one-fifth of the grant will be forthcoming in 1976.

DAWSON FALLS
Wells Gray Park, B.C.

Wells Gray Provincial Park

Mankind has always been fascinated by water — by its volume, its beauty and especially its force. Perhaps nowhere in British Columbia is the sheer impact of water more visible than in Wells Gray Provincial Park, where 12 named and a score of unnamed waterfalls awe the visitor.

Each has its own type of impact. Mighty Dawson Falls, for example, dominates its environment with the sheer volume of seething, rushing, boiling white water that floods over its brink, while higher Helmecken seems to fall forever into a glorious cauldron.

Wells Gray Park is located in the east-central part of B.C., in the Cariboo Mountains. Travelling northeast from Kamloops or southwest from Jasper on Yellowhead Highway 5, plan to turn north to Wells Gray at Clearwater.

Nested close to the beautiful and pastoral North Thompson River where the waters of the smaller but more turbulent Clearwater join it, Clearwater was a favorite fishing spot for the Shuswap Indians long before the first white men penetrated the surrounding mountains.

Then it became a resting and layover place for those few overlanders who tried to make it to the Cariboo gold rush from the east by land.

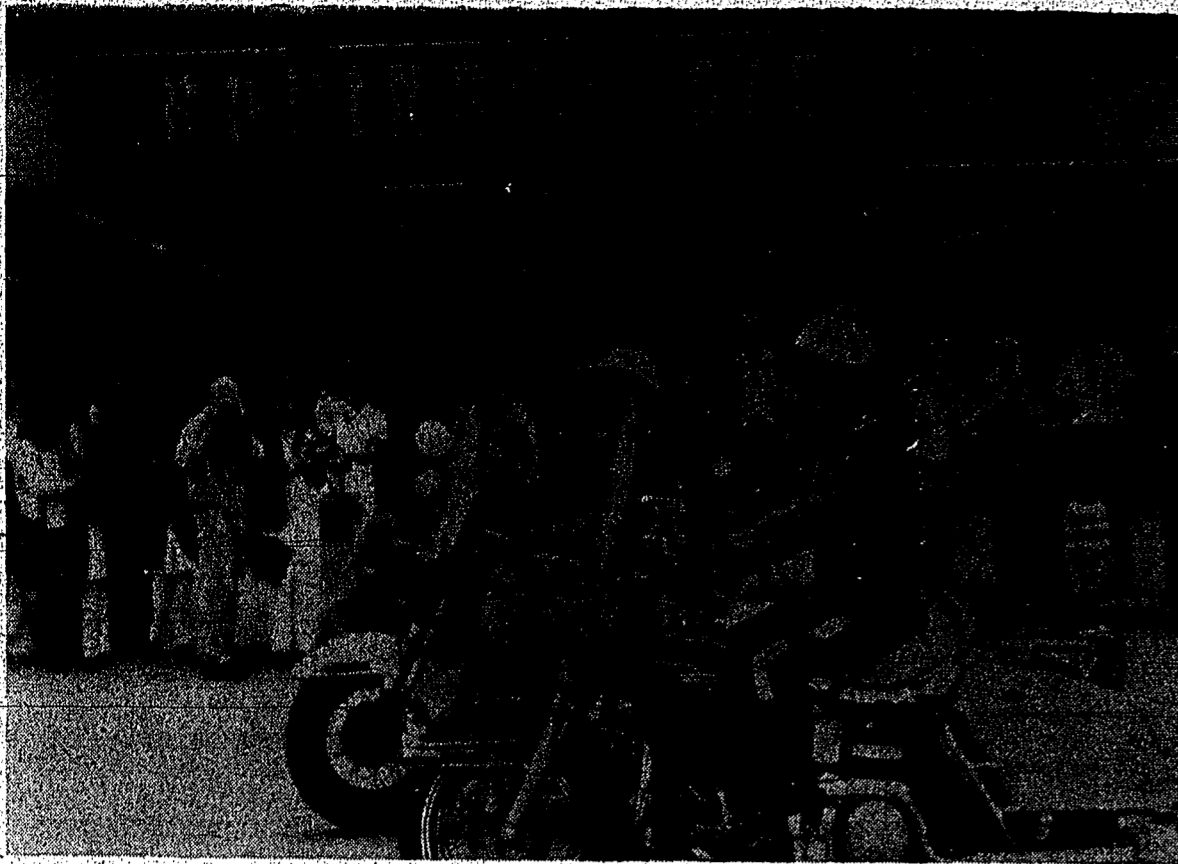

The road to Wells Gray turns north from Clearwater. It is not yet paved, but it is well maintained. Glorious glimpses of the Clearwater River vic with the mountain scenery further afield from this road, and the vegetation undergoes a subtle change from the near-dry-belt flora of the Thompson to the lush rain forest of the province's waterfall wonderland.

Some of the awesome cataracts within the park are just a few steps from a parking area; some involve a bit of a hike — but every one is well worth the traveller's time. Six of the named falls — Helmecken, Dawson, Majerus, Meadow, Horseshoe and McDougall — are on the Murtle River that twists from Murtle Lake to the Clearwater River. The others are scattered around the park, on the many creeks and rivers within its boundaries. Even in winter, the trip to see the waterfalls is well worthwhile. Then, it presents the spectacular sight of glistening giant icicles surrounding the still violent waterfalls of Wells Gray Provincial Park.

GUITARIST Tracy Reynolds and pianist Toni Mitchell are entertaining dining and listening customers at Milan's Restaurant at Eagle Run.

Milan's Offers Good Local Talent

Milan's Restaurant at Eagle Run is featuring two local girls as entertainers Monday to Thursday, 6 to 8 p.m. and on Saturday, 7 to 9:30 p.m., for your dining and listening pleasure.

Tracy Reynolds, 15, plays the guitar and sings a variety of well-known old-time favorites as well as current popular hits. Toni Mitchell, 16, plays a good selection of movie themes and other familiar tunes on the piano.

Both girls are entering Grade 11 at Howe Sound Secondary School this fall but have enjoyed their last three weeks of playing at Milan's. Tracy has been playing the guitar for about five years, off and on, and would eventually like to pursue a career singing in the music world or working in the music engineering end of things. She plays guitar by ear. Previous to moving to Squamish three years ago, Tracy sang in school and church choirs and played in concerts in North Vancouver.

Toni, who was born and raised in Squamish, has been playing the piano for about five years, having been taught by her aunt. Her future plans are to go into the visual and performing arts, courses in which are offered in Victoria and Banff.

A few of the songs that are favorites with both Tracy and the audiences are "As Tears Go By," "Banks of the Ohio," "I'm Not Lisa" and "Delta Dawn."

Toni and Tracy are enjoying the experience of working at Milan's Restaurant. They are meeting a lot of people and, as they themselves say, "It's good for us to play in front of others."

Not only are the girls gaining invaluable experience, they are providing dining customers pleasant entertainment. The girls will be at Milan's until the end of this week, at least. Do try to get out to hear this local talented twosome.

EVERYTHING
you wanted to know about sports but ...
By RICK RAYNOR

To build or not to build, that is the question. That is the question I am asking you, the citizens of Squamish. Do you, or do you not, want an ice arena, sports complex in this town.

I have so far received a few replies to my survey, and I would like to print one of them:

"Do you want an ice arena built in this town?"

YES

NO

WHY: Lots of kids and adults need something to pass the time other than sitting in the bars. There are quite a few guys in this town that could make quite an impressive hockey team that the whole town can identify with and be proud of. I personally think that a few of the guys would really enjoy coaching minor hockey. This would be really great for kids because team sport builds character and helps kids to learn how to share and help each other. The girls would not be excluded as there could be figure skating lessons. A community arena could be the melting pot of the townspeople as it was in my home town in Ontario. It would also give us a chance to get to know our neighbours. And let it not be forgotten that hockey is our national sport, so why shouldn't we have an arena?"

What do you think? Do you think that they're wrong? Do you think that they're right? Or what? Let's hear YOUR views. I want to know what the citizens of Squamish think of an ice arena. If we all stand together and say WE WANT AN ICE ARENA, we may be able to get another referendum. Only this time (I hope) it won't get shot down.

So I am going to ask you once again, and I want every citizen of this town to take a minute to answer me:

Do you want an ice arena for this town?

YES

NO

WHY _____

Men's tournament

On Aug. 9 and 10, Squamish played host to Senior B.C. and Recreation League zone 4 finals.

It was an exciting weekend for all with Senior B being represented by the Squamish Old Stylers and the North Vancouver Molsons. They played the best of three series with the first game going to North Van 4-3 in extra innings.

The second game proved to be the most exciting of the weekend as Buster Moberg pitched a no-hitter for North Vancouver and Jim Raymond a perfect game for Squamish. Squamish eventually won 1-0 on an error. The final game went to North Van Molsons 2-0.

The Senior C event was represented by L&A Diggers of Squamish and four visiting teams: St. Alice Hotel and Big Bird Sound, both from North Van, and Penn Hotel from Sechelt. This event was won by Penn Hotel against Big Bird with a score of 2-1. L&A was defeated by Big Bird in the previous game after they downed the St. Alice Hotel.

The recreation league was represented by the Terminal Chiefs, Weldwood, Squamish Hotel and the Mounties, all of Squamish, and the sole outside team was Roberts Creek from Sechelt.

The most thrilling event of all for the Squamish softball fans was when the Terminal Chiefs, with chucker Ernie Wall, came up with a second defeat against Roberts Creek with a score of 3-0. The Chiefs will now advance to Courtenay to represent zone 4 in the B.C. Championship playoffs this weekend.

Congratulations Terminal Chiefs, we'll all be pulling for you.

Weather controls life in the Arctic

By ED OLANDER
(Last year when Ed Olander was working in the Arctic, he sent down a couple of articles on his experiences. Here is the first one received this year.)

Hello again from the Western Arctic and another saga of how to build islands in the Beaufort Sea for drill rigs.

We arrived at our base Camp Island, Imerk, on June 22, by helicopter from Inuvik and much to our surprise the ice still had us completely encircled and the nearest open water was seven miles to the south. It was ten days before we got our tugs in the water and were able to start building an island for oil exploration.

When we arrived, the weather was the usual cold (0°C) with the wind blowing off the ice but the 24 hours of light was nice to see again. (I think man was made to see the light!)

The first island we were to build was called Kopandar. It was located about 40 miles southwest of us or nearby on the N.W.T. and Yukon boundary. It took us 27 days to build this island as it was only in 6 1/2 feet of water and took only 25,000 cubic yards of material.

We are now two weeks along on the second island and we are experiencing many problems; the main one is the elements. This year is the opposite to last year. The ice pack which was sitting on our door step used to give us fog and relatively calm seas, but this year the pack ice has moved westward to lay heavy on the Alaskan coast. The result is 120 miles of open water which now gives us ocean type swells and very rough conditions to work in.

There is much concern among the engineers involved whether we will be able to hold the island once we break the surface with the gravel. They plan to use four cubic yard sandbags made out of four ply poly to protect the gravel against the wave action. The only problem is they didn't expect 10- to 12-foot waves pounding them.

This island we are building now is in 25 feet of water and the diameter of the island at the surface level is supposed to be 800 feet. I'm sure, the elements will be the deciding factor in the completion of this island.

We have close to 300 men on the project this year along with eight tugs, 12 support vessels, 20 barges, eight cranes (five of the 250-ton class), 10 loaders (966 and 950s), four cats, a suction dredge which will pump 2,500 cubic yards of gravel per hour, and various other support equipment and it is all floating on barges.

As powerful a construction outfit as we may think we are, nature soon shows us where the power lies.

The millions of dollars that is poured into exploration for oil in this area, for example $30 million for equipment, wages, studies of various types — seems like a colossal amount but a dollar spent now in 1975 and the oil and gas that is being found now won't be sold until 1985 or later — at the price at that time. It just has to be a good investment, especially when it's generator money or tax free.

Nature is also going to start putting on a display for us soon, as it is mid-August and starting to get dark at nights and the northern lights will be visible. I work from 7 o'clock in the evening until 7 in the morning by choice just so I can see the light, a real treat.

This is all from the North for now. Enjoy your summer, people of Squamish. We had our first snowfall on the sixth of August and it was heading south!!!

Ever Ladies Softball

This weekend, Aug. 23 and 24, there will be a ladies softball tournament at Centennial Field with games starting Saturday morning at 8:30.

A total of 12 teams will be attending from places such as Vancouver, Burnaby, Surrey, New Westminster, Abbotsford and Matsqui. In addition, local teams will include Britannia, Chappies, Brackendale, C & S Logging and Cabarettes.

The tournament is being organized by the Britannia women's team and by Squamish Chappies. The Weldwood men's team will be handling the concession stand at Centennial Field and will be lining the fields. Hot dogs, hamburgers, and special refreshments will be among the goodies sold at the field.

The tournament will be a double knockout with prizes of $75, $50 and $35 going to the first three top teams. There will also be trophies for an all-star team, for the player with the highest batting average, for the most valuable player, and for the most sportsman-like team. About four judges will have the honour of choosing these trophy winners.

Following the first day of games, there will be a dance at the Chieftain Hotel from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Cost will be $4 per couple, refreshments will be served, and the band from Vancouver, The Heritage, will entertain and provide good dancing music. Tickets for the dance will be available at the ball field.

This is going to be the biggest ladies softball tournament ever held on the Lower Mainland. The organizers and teams are expecting to see everyone come and support this exciting event!

The Royal Hudson Excursion Study

The general impression created by the Royal Hudson was "excellent" (as cited by 75% of the passengers), but to provide more detail passengers were asked to comment on their likes and dislikes about the excursion. The single most enjoyable feature of the excursion was the scenery, cited by 83% of the passengers. While the effects of nostalgia generated a response by 28%. (Multiple responses were allowed.) Other comments were listed by 34% of the respondents and ranged from the "smooth, relaxing nature of the trip" to "pleasant personnel."

Most passengers had no complaints about the trip, but were asked to describe any dislikes. The 147 comments recorded included the lack of a concession stand on board (31%), the commentary, or music from the public address system drew comments (24%) as did dirty or inadequate washrooms (10%). Extrapolated to cover the entire sample, the number of persons who would have liked a concession stand was 13% of the total, improvements in the speaker system were suggested by 10% and the condition of the washrooms were mentioned by 4% of the total passengers.

Impact on Squamish
Squamish, at the head of Howe Sound, is 39.8 rail miles from the B.C. Rail terminal in North Vancouver. The district municipality had a population of 6,121 in 1971, and has an estimated present population of 9,000.

The area has many natural attractions and a number of commercial amenities. The natural attractions include spectacular scenery, such as Alice Lake Park in the north, Shannon Falls to the south, and Stawamus Chief, a towering mountain of granite adjacent to the municipality. An 18-hole golf course, a bowling alley and a loggers sports stadium are among the commercial amenities.

The nature of the Royal Hudson excursion and its arrival in Squamish at noon lends itself to the support of certain sectors of the economy, namely, restaurants and retail trade outlets.

Food Serving Establishments in Squamish

The demand on these facilities at noon with the arrival of an average of 529 persons each day on the train; in addition to the local business, creates a heavy lunchtime trade for the restaurateurs. This caused some congestion early in the season but few complaints were heard from residents or visitors by August.

The other merchants who benefit directly from the Royal Hudson passengers are a variety of retailers from clothing and jewelry, to pharmacy and sporting goods retailers.

This increase in business for the community created employment opportunities in the service sector of about 25 part-time jobs. These jobs were mostly for waiter-waitresses and retail sales staff and were filled by students who were available for employment during much of the season of operation.

Two crosswalk attendants were also part of the staff required to cater to the Royal Hudson passengers, as these people must cross an industrial road to get to the business district.

The train appears to have encouraged the business community to take advantage of the increase in business and many have taken steps to "beautify" their establishments, especially those backing on the Royal Hudson siding. The Chamber of Commerce has produced a handout giving handy facts about Squamish, complete with a list of attractions and commercial establishments. The chamber also sells Royal Hudson T-shirts, and one merchant has brought out Royal Hudson buttons.

The rail excursion does not directly benefit the accommodation establishments in the Squamish area due to the "same-day return" condition of the ticket. It is felt, however, that long range effects imparted on non-local passengers would be positive due to the variety of attractions nearby. This study cannot quantify these long-term effects but it appears evident that introducing large numbers of persons to the Squamish area would have a beneficial spill-over within the travel industry and on the economy of Squamish.

The average expenditure per person ($1.91) multiplied by the total number of passengers (46,000) equals an expenditure of $87,895 throughout the operating season, or a daily expenditure of $1,010. These figures do not include the purchase price of the ticket, but refer only to money spent in Squamish. The reader should be cautioned, however, that these figures have been generated from a passenger sample of 336 persons projected over a seasonal total of 46,000.

Aside from economic and employment aspects, the train appears to have been well received by the residents of Squamish and the business community appears keen to continue their service to the passengers to ensure the success of the excursion.

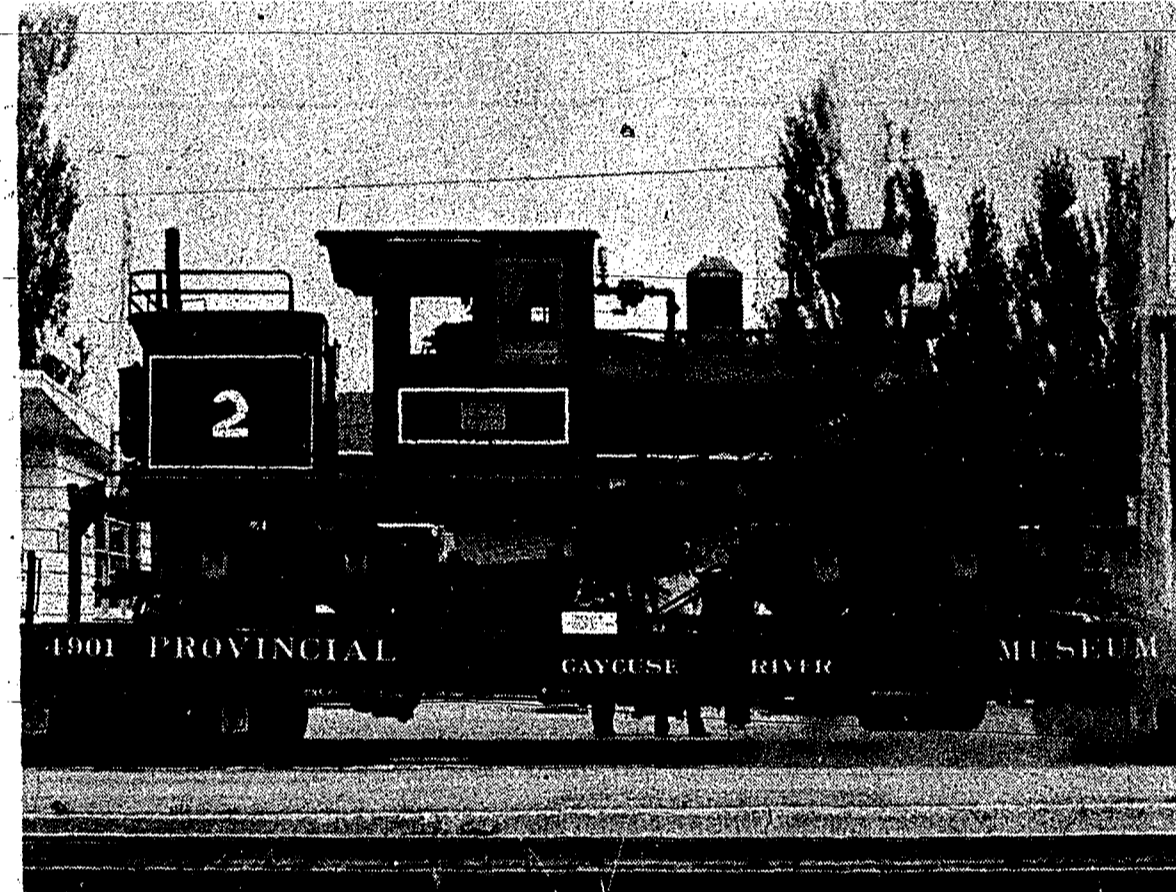

Impact of The Royal Hudson
The Royal Hudson began its regular excursion on June 21, 1974, five days a week, with six renovated CPR coaches. The train operated five days a week from Wednesday through Sunday, including holidays, until Sept. 29, plus the first two weekends in October.

With the service increased to eight passenger coaches, an observation car and a club car by August, the total covered carrying capacity, excluding the club car, was 588.

The load factor, based on a daily tally kept by the B.C. Rail ticket agent, was 96%. This figure should be viewed with some caution as there were two complicating features which, in effect, tended to nullify each other. One, there were numerous reports of non-ticket holding children occupying seats and two, a portion of the uncovered seats on the observation car were sold on warm days. The first condition reduces the calculated load factor and the second increases it.

THIS IS EITHER the Museum Train or The Royal Hudson. Can you tell which one this is?

SHAWIGAN LAKE Lumber Company's "Climax" logging locomotive (1912) was salvaged by Granger Taylor and restored by B.C. Forest Products for exhibit on the Museum Train.

Direct Employment Provided by The Royal Hudson

It should be noted that several of the jobs on the train were filled by existing B.C. Rail personnel diverted from their regular jobs. These were the operational staff of the engineer, fireman, conductor and trainmen. The host, ticket agents and bar stewards were hired specifically for the steam train.

In addition to the B.C. Rail personnel, were those individuals hired by Railway Appliance Research for refurbishing the engine and coaches. As these were not full-time ongoing jobs, they have not been tabulated separately. Also, these persons were working on other railway work such as refurbishing the Museum Train.

Although difficult to quantify, the non-monetary effects caused by the train appear to be very favorable. The author rode the train in July and was aware of a great deal of enthusiasm by onlookers all along the route as residents and automobile travellers took time to watch and wave at the Royal Hudson. Nostalgia seems to be prevalent amongst persons along the rail route (and the passengers), who recall the steam era while the novelty of the experience and educational purposes appear to be the motivating factor for the younger persons' interest.

An example of the enthusiasm with which the train was received was demonstrated by the District of West Vancouver. A special concession was made to its anti-noise bylaw due to public demand, allowing the Royal Hudson to blow its whistle within the municipal boundaries.

As indicated in the opening remarks of this study, the objective of the exercise has been to assess the impact and effects of the Royal Hudson Squamish

Excursion. Completion of the report has led to a number of conclusions that are more appropriately discussed under a section on "Potential" rather than "Recommendations", because some of these items may not be practically applied at present.

The passenger survey indicated that the vast majority of persons were satisfied with the excursion, and no serious complaints were voiced. However, the holiday atmosphere, the nature of the trip and the scenic terrain tends itself to a number of areas of potential that may be worth considering. The following list is by no means complete but does contain some examples that have been discussed during the execution of this project. They, also, are not in any order of importance.

1. Additional picnic tables could be installed in the municipal park in Squamish to supplement the 10 or a dozen existing tables. Also, additional public washroom facilities could be built in the same general area.

2. Based on other recreational railway fares, $5 for an adult ticket is very reasonable. If it is deemed desirable that the train should operate more economically, a ticket price of $7.50 would not be out of line. Similar increases would be applied to the other classifications of tickets.

3. If the club car is to operate at a profit, airline prices should be charged for all beverages.

4. If a destination attraction were created in Squamish, a longer layover of the train would be practical. A number of opportunities exist in this area such as:

Industrial tours
—Rayonier Canada, pulp mill at Woodfibre. This involves a ferry trip which could be an additional bonus to the person interested in a pulp mill tour.

—B.C. Rail repair shops in Squamish could become a natural extension of a ride on the steam train.

—Weldwood of Canada might provide tours of their sawmill and planer mill.

Recreational Activities

—Trips to Murrin Lake and Alice Lake for swimming or hiking.

Historical Tours

—The Carling O'Keefe - L.W.A. Outdoor Logging Museum is expected to be in operation by late summer of 1975 at Shannon Falls Park.

—The British Columbia Museum of Mining at Britannia Beach, sponsored by the Mining Museum Society, is planning to offer tours to the public beginning in May, 1976.

Sightseeing

—Shannon Falls is three miles south of Squamish, and provides some of the most spectacular scenery on the route.

5. A visitor's directory of a "You Are Here" type located at the rail siding where the passengers disembark is a necessity. The directory would indicate all the eating establishments, retail outlets and points of interest in Squamish. In addition, a one-page "fact sheet" about Squamish would aid the passenger and the community.

6. Every indication was received during 1974 that the train could operate for a longer season. Passenger demand caused the initial extensions from Labour Day to Thanksgiving. The train ran 87 days over a 16-week schedule this year, while in 1975 an inaugural run beginning in early May or at least by the May Day weekend and terminating in mid-October for a 22-week schedule over 110 days appears practical.

7. The above objective could quite conceivably be met by independent recreation excursions, as was the case this year. With increased promotion outside the Vancouver area, plus the packaging of Royal Hudson rail excursions by tour wholesalers or convention groups, many weeks of extended season operation could be obtained.

8. Additional promotion outside the Vancouver area is essential to enhance the role of the Royal Hudson as a tourist attraction.

Squamish Earful

by Maureen Gilmour

The fastest two weeks in the year has to be vacation time. Well it's all over for another year and for better or worse here I am back again!! Our borrowed camper van decided to call it quits at Princeton and as luck would have it, my brother from Penticton picked the boys and myself up and on to the Okanagan to start our vacation. After coming back home to get our own van, George finally arrived in Penticton three days later.

He missed most of the weekend festivities but managed to see a few relatives and soak up some "Interior brand" sunshine, along with the rest of us.

Stork Story

Miss P.N.E. for 1974, our own Brenda Hinds, was a guest

Power supply

B.C. Hydro expects that power problems which have hit residents of Lions Bay and Brunswick Beach in the past will end when Lions Bay substation is rebuilt this fall.

Supply through the street distribution system will be boosted from 4,000 to 12,000 volts, to provide a greater reserve and more efficient operation.

The cutover will take place on Tuesday, Aug. 26.

On that day a mobile transformer will be connected to temporarily replace Lions Bay substation. It will feed 12,000-volt power to the street distribution lines.

To accept this voltage, new pole transformers have been installed through the residential areas, and these will be connected at the same time.

The 4,000-volt transformers on the poles will be removed later.

Power will be interrupted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Aug. 26, while the transformers are connected, and again for a brief period at a later date to reconnect the substation after it is rebuilt.

Hydro has 375 electrical accounts at Lions Bay and 37 at Brunswick Beach.

Visitors in Cathedral Grove

Cathedral Grove Park

By GINNIE BEARDSLEY

There can be no more pleasant refreshment for body and spirit than a walk on a sunny afternoon through the serenity of a grove of giant trees. Beneath your feet, there's a spring to the path built up by centuries of softly falling needles.

Overhead, branches meet and touch their twigs in silent greeting. All around you are the majestic natural pillars which have given this park its name: Cathedral Grove.

The grove is located a few steps off B.C. Highway 4, 20 miles from Vancouver Island's east coast at Parksville and eight miles from Port Alberni.

Cathedral Grove encompasses 30 acres of a more than 300-acre tract of woodland and lakeshore given to the province in 1944 and named MacMillan Park in honor of the founder of the donor company.

Here, in the Cathedral Grove of MacMillan Park, the Douglas fir is king — and it is a long reign that many members of his family have enjoyed. Some of these giants have seen 800 summers pass.

If they could talk, they would tell of a devastating fire which destroyed many members of their family 300 years ago — leaving a bare and sunny area in which new Douglas firs could take root and grow. These "new" trees, today grown to near giant size, are the majority of the pillars of the cathedral.

At their feet are no youngsters of their own species, for Douglas fir seedlings cannot tolerate deep shade. But there is tree growth aplenty, as the Douglas fir's near relative, the grand fir, which is not so choosy about nursery conditions, shares the forest floor with Western hemlock and Western red cedar — all stretching upwards for glimpses of sunlight.

While Cathedral Grove is not a true rainforest, it shares one characteristic of these wetter woodlands: the presence of moss which festoons many of the hemlocks.

Frequently, these slender trees grow in close proximity to the giant Douglas firs and share their lacy curtaining with the bare majesty of the fir trunks at eye level.

Here and there, the prevailing deep tone of the evergreen foliage is lightened by the softer coloring of the broadleaf maple which shows up to particular advantage when the sun highlights it as it filters through the forest ceiling — or in spring's newborn green or autumn's pale gold.

Presence of the maple contributes variety to the grove in another way, besides color variety, as it is hospitable to birds, and their cheerful songs break the deep woodland quiet most agreeably.

Sword ferns predominate among the smaller plant life which flourishes on the forest floor, with here and there a clump of maidenhair for variety. Since this is a park and not a wilderness area, a certain amount of housekeeping goes on constantly to give nature a helping hand in presenting her display.

However, except where necessary to allow the trail to continue its planned meandering, fallen giants are left to create their own dramatic effect.

Here and there, a giant which has succumbed to old age forms an instant bridge, well worn by eager and adventurous young feet — while more cautious elders have taken the low road through the shallow ravine.

An interesting variant on the fallen may be seen in a huge, bare and evidently lifeless trunk still standing in the supporting embrace of a couple of moss-draped hemlocks.

Signs, geared to time-conscious city folk, refer to "ten-minute" and "20-minute" trails, but surely only the most insensitive could gallop through this peaceful and tranquil expanse of forest life and history at such a pace!

Real enjoyment calls for a leisurely stroll, with time to savor the contrasts of deep shade, sudden shafts of sunlight, vistas of river or lake, and to avail oneself of the opportunity to sit on a log or stump and meld into the quiet and majesty of the surroundings.

Remote control

B.C. Railway showed off the first of eight new remote control locomotives at a delivery ceremony at its North Vancouver passenger terminal Aug. 12.

The $380,000 engine, number 684, is designed to operate in the middle of the 7,000-ton capacity trains BCR currently operates.

Railway vice-president Mac Norris said BCR began using the middle locomotives in 1970.

The engine can be electronically instructed to duplicate the main engine's throttle and brake setting, or the engineer may give them independent instructions.

The ceremonies also marked the 100th locomotive delivered by its manufacturer, MLW Industries of Montreal, to BCR since the railway bought its first MLW engine in 1951.

The radio remote control of the eight BCR "B" units enables them to be operated either directly in multiple at the head end of a train or to be operated at a remote location in the middle of a train.

The equipment is installed in a compartment which takes the place of the wide crew-comfort control cab of the basic M420 and has the same vertical and horizontal dimensions as the main hood with which it forms an integral super-structure.

Hostler control is provided to enable the units to be moved individually under their own power in yard operations. A single, self-closing window and an entrance door are provided on the right side for servicing and hosting.

Cab heaters and adequate thermal insulation are incorporated to maintain the interior environment. Power from the locomotive's auxiliary generator provides the energy to operate the slave electronic equipment.

These are the first locomotives in Canada designed to eliminate the need for a special car or converted locomotive in the consist operating dead-head to provide power and accommodation for slave control equipment.

In addition to the "B" units, BCR already has eight M420 "A" units in service. These locomotives incorporate the new four-axle high-adhesion suspension system, a new crew comfort cab plus several other advance features.

The M420's new high-adhesion two-axle truck achieves zero weight transfer and incorporates a complete rubber suspension for all modes of motion in the truck. These truck motions include rotation about a vertical axis for curve negotiations, lateral motion between truck and chassis for ride control and, most important, rotation about a horizontal transverse axis for weight transfer elimination.

The M420 introduced the new cab concept of Canadian National which provides increased crew comfort, better visibility, greater protection, improved heating, cooling and defrosting systems with provision for a refrigerator, water cooler, hot plate and also a clothes closet and toilet compartment.

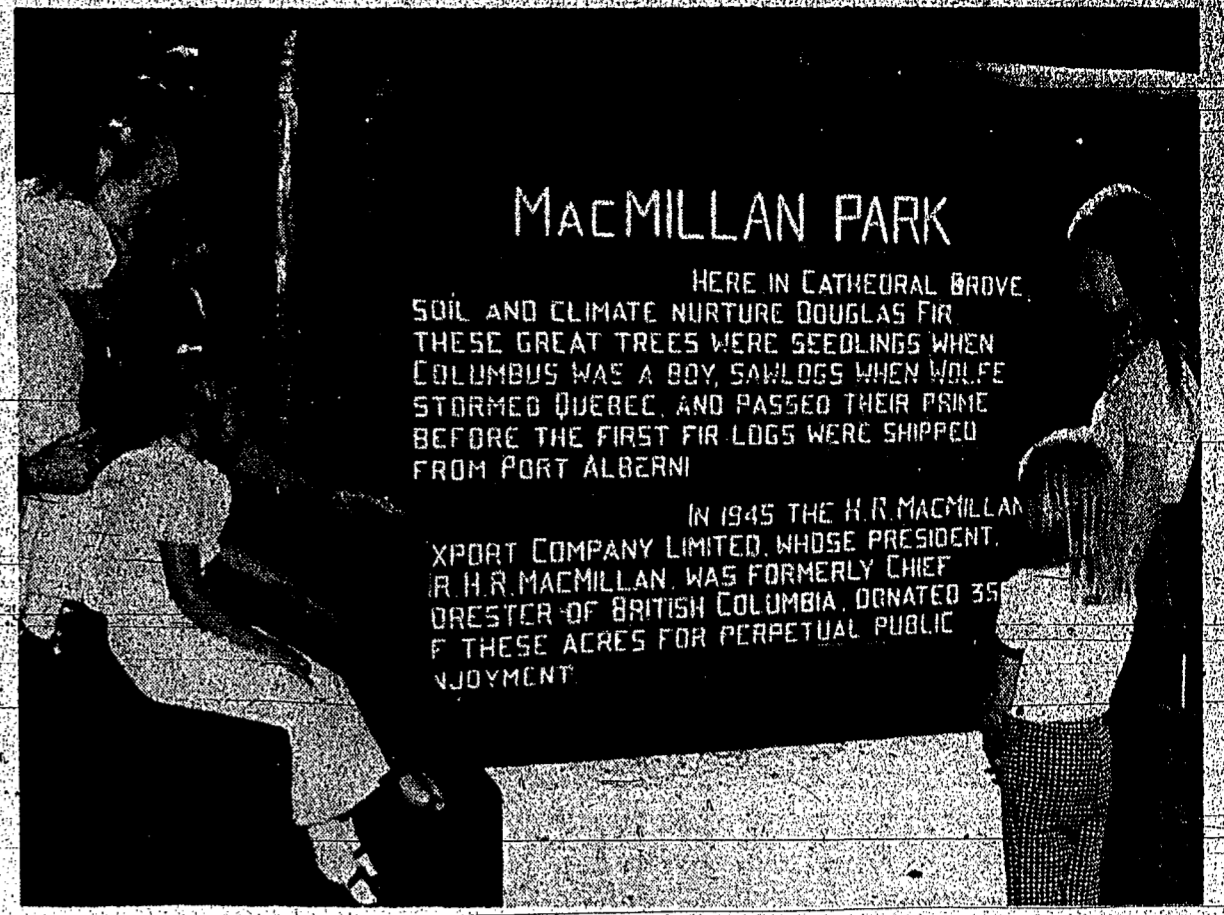

Standardization of the driver's control area is accomplished with the newly adopted Association of American Railroads' standard control stand. New door arrangements, wide nose design with collision protection including heavy steel plate front hood and anti-climb front structure are safety features.

The model 251 diesel engine which powers the M420 is a 12-cylinder, 2,150-horsepower unit which incorporates advanced features including dish-topped steel capped pistons, tufrided valve lever and fuel pump lifter mechanisms, water-cooled Model 131 turbocharger, and a new crankcase exhaustor.

The basic M420 employs an AC/DC electrical transmission system, with the GTA-17 alternator, developed by Canadian General Electric specially to cover the 2,000 to 2,700 h.p. range of the M420. New electric components also include a compact, single package three-phase rectifier.

A new blower arrangement for electrical equipment cooling and air circulation has been applied maintaining the auxiliary power requirements under 200 hp.

Pemberton Mosquito Control

Now that the local mosquito population has gained everyone's attention, it is a good time to initiate public discussion on mosquito control.

It is too late to alleviate the mosquito problem this year, as effective control measures have to be taken before the mosquito larvae hatch into adults. However, studies made this summer indicate that it should be possible to reduce their numbers in future years if a continuing program of control is undertaken.

Unfortunately, any effective control program requires money and the more effective the program the more it will cost. Also, it must be assumed that the total cost of any program in future years will have to be paid by local residents in one way or another.

The questions are, do we want a mosquito control program? If we do, how is it to be paid for, and how much are we willing to spend on it?

It should be pointed out that obtaining funds by way of public donations is likely to be an inadequate and unreliable method of supporting a mosquito control program. An appeal for funds through our local newspaper met with complete failure.

It seems that one of the most logical methods of obtaining funds would be through a Regional District function which would result in an addition to property taxes.

Make your opinions known through your Chamber of Commerce. For more information regarding mosquito control, phone 894-6248.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND SANDBERG

Shaw-Sandberg Wed August 9

Squamish United Church was the scene of the marriage of Darla Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw of Squamish, to Raymond George Sandberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sandberg of Squamish, at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 9. The church was beautifully decorated with bouquets of gladioli. Rev. Jack Lindquist officiated at the exchange of wedding vows.

The bride wore a Swiss-embroidery bodice with a sheer over-taffeta gown. She also wore a short veil with a lace coronet headpiece. A bouquet of cascading red roses and white carnations complemented her attire. As accessories, she wore ruby and pearl earrings and a pendant, that was a gift from the groom.

The bride's attendants were Liz Price, Irene Sandberg, the groom's sister, and Diana Hinde. They wore gowns of pale blue crepe with tiny white flowers and picture hats. They carried bouquets of pink, white and blue summer flowers.

Jim Smith was the best man, while Dave Theriault and Lance Goss acted as ushers.

Tammi Killick was the flower girl and Jason Killick was ring bearer.

An evening reception followed the wedding at the Elks Hall. It was attractively decorated with blue and white streamers and bells with matching blue tablecloths.

As a going away outfit the bride chose a street-length dress in off-white and blue with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The bride's mother wore a floor-length pale green floral sheer over-taffeta gown with a long matching coat. The groom's mother wore a long blue crepe dress with a short lace over-jacket. Photographer, Mr. D. Rhodes, took pictures of the momentous occasion.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Frances Shaw, Mrs. Rose Seymour and Ms. Helen Santiago, all of New Westminster; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Poirier, Mr. and Mrs. David Poirier and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Larkin and Sean, of Coquitlam; Mrs. Mary Seymour Sr., and Bernice and Mary Louise Seymour of Vancouver; Mrs. Nina Driemel, Jeff and Arlene of Shawnigan Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shaw, Candace, Sandra and Bill Jr., of Saanich; Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Driemel of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Gledhill of Port Kells; Ms. Jo Stammers, Leslie and Terry of Burnaby; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Bergman of Thunder Bay, Ontario; Mr. Brian Lehman and Mrs. Christine Durack of Smithers, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Logan, Brenda and Debbie, and Mr. and Mrs. John Marinos of Cumberland; Mrs. Kate Logan of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Con of Courtenay; and Margaret Rye and S. Gills of Port Alberni.

After honeymooning on a camping trip to the Interior, the young couple will reside in Brackendale.

Last rites for 'Tiny' Kristianson

Funeral services for the late Edwin Leonard (Tiny) Kristianson of Squamish were held in the Squamish United Church on Monday, Aug. 18 at 2 p.m. with Rev. J. Lindquist officiating. Cremation followed.

Mr. Kristianson passed away suddenly on Aug. 15 following surgery in a city hospital.

He is survived by his loving wife, Annie Mae; four sons, Gerald of Victoria; Dean of Majorca, Spain, John of Vancouver, and Philip at home, and one daughter, Mrs. C. M. Gunn (Barbara) of Richmond; seven grandchildren, one brother and two sisters.

The Kristiansons have lived in Squamish since 1948 when he came here with Jamieson Construction Co., who were building grade for the PGE Railway. Prior to that they had lived in Pemberton where he worked for the PFRA during the dyking program in the Pemberton Valley.

Later he went to work for Squamish Valley Towing and went with MacMillan Bloedel when the latter company bought out the SVT. He worked as road construction foreman for MacMillan Bloedel on the island and in the Squamish Division.

Last year he took a leave of absence for six months but was back on the job again this year. "Tiny" as he was affectionately known by his many friends, was in his 58th year and was a popular public speaker at gatherings, a well known raconteur and humorist and always had a cheery word or quip when he met a friend.

He was famous as a Santa Claus at many local Christmas parties and was one of those special people who will really be missed.

He was also a member of the Royal Canadian Legion Diamond Head Branch and of the local Masonic Lodge.

Irene Sandberg to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. R. Sandberg wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Irene Anne, to Maury Harold Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lauder Davis of Squamish.

The wedding will take place on Sept. 20 at 7 p.m. in the St. John's Anglican Church.

An action committee has been formed by a number of concerned property owners in the Emerald Estates subdivision to try to obtain an adequate sewer system in order that buildings proposed by some lot owners can proceed. The present system in this area has recently been declared illegal by the B.C. Department of Health.

According to the prospectus issued by Emerald Estates Ltd., the original sewer system should have been completely finished on or before Dec. 31, 1971, to serve 40 lots. The certificate obtained by the developer from the B.C. Department of Health authorized three separate systems and tile fields, but four years after this was originally issued the existing system still utilizes only one tile field intended to serve nine lots, but presently servicing 12. Because of this situation, the Department of Health have finally clamped down and declared it illegal. This means that some lot owners are now being denied permits to build, for no health permits are being issued and no building permits will be granted until an adequate system is provided by the developer.

Norman Patterson listed in the prospectus as the secretary/director of this company, has been approached by some of the lot owners involved and it was hoped that he would be able to attend the meeting the action committee called on Sunday, Aug. 16, to discuss the matter further, and to obtain some answers to their questions. Unfortunately, Patterson could not attend. It was suggested at the meeting that an approach also be made to Eric Allan and Gary Van Norman, other principals involved in Emerald Estates Ltd., in order to get their views on this matter and to clearly define their intentions on this serious matter.

Property owners who have already built attended the meeting also, to express their concern that the present system they are hooked into could conceivably break down with the increased winter traffic in the forthcoming ski season, and consequences could be disastrous, with the environmental question of pollution to Green Lake of course, to be faced.

Regional engineer of the B.C. Department of Health, G. A. Duffield, in a letter written to architects Thompson, Berwick & Co. on July 29, states that he is not prepared to acknowledge the 'as-built' sanitary sewer system drawings submitted, and on reviewing these feels that the builder paid little, if any, attention to the plans covered by the final health certificate. Duffield does not accept that the builder had to make a "field" decision to amalgamate three separate systems without time to advise the Dept. of Health, and by such amalgamation the design sewage flow exceeds the 5,000 g.p.d. and therefore the single system now being used cannot and will not be recognized by the department. Members were told at the meeting that 1,500 linear feet of tile has been indicated as having been used in the present disposal field, but the Department of Health cannot see how it is possible to install such a field within the indicated area. It is assumed, therefore, that either the field is deficient or constructed contrary to the regulations. Hence, the local public health inspector and the Regional District have been instructed that this is an illegal system, and as such no additional connection to it can be permitted.

Of prime concern to the members was the paragraph in the prospectus given to lot owners on purchasing property, under the heading relating to the sewerage, which reads, "A sewer system will be installed at the cost of the company, on or before Dec. 31, 1971. It will be mandatory for the purchasers to connect to the system and a charge will be made for such connection. No performance bonds will be posted and the source of funds for the work will be the promoter's revenue." Members felt the principals involved had failed to fulfill their commitments and legally, once a prospectus is issued this has to be lived up to.

There was much discussion on what possible recourse should be taken, but the members were unanimous in agreement that the group should hire a lawyer for legal opinion on their next move. The meeting concluded that when some definite legal information was available this action committee would meet again.

At the directors' meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Tuesday, Aug. 12, treasurer Mrs. Jenny Busdon reported that the up-to-date bank balance of the chamber stood at $63.17. With so little funds to carry the chamber through the balance of the fiscal year, it was moved that the chamber write to the directors of the TV Society, whom the chamber originally sponsored, requesting a grant of $300 to keep the bank account solvent, until dues monies are received in December-January. If this grant is turned down by the directors of the society, the chamber should re-approach for a loan in the same amount. There were six in favour of this motion and one opposed. It was at this time that director Bernie Brown said that, it was the function of the chamber to spend monies for chamber business only and for matters relating to it; that the chamber should not, in the future, if the bank situation is to resolve itself in years to come, get involved as it has done this year in charity functions. This was to be noted for future occasions when the chamber could be approached for charitable donations.

A letter was received from John Buckam, manager of the Royal Bank in Squamish, in reply to the chamber's requesting possible banking facilities at Whistler. He advised that he would like an estimate of the number of permanent residents in the area, the increase in population during the winter season, and the number of business concerns in the area. Director Ron Johnston offered to compile this on behalf of the chamber.

A letter was received from the Dept. of Highways in reply to the chamber with regard to recent unsatisfactory subdivision oiling programme. Letter advises that a decision would be made on the basis of available funds as to whether a more extensive oiling programme could be considered.

Highways committee chairman Bernie Brown gave a full report to the meeting on the highways committee luncheon meeting with officials from the Highways Department and the RCMP. On the matter of the proposed new parking regulations for the winter snow removal period only, it was moved these be accepted in principle, pending new bylaws, and shelved at this time until the formation of the municipal council when these could be passed over to council for their possible co-operation and support. There were six in favour of this motion and one opposed.

President Pat Carleton reported that the Dept. of Highways had moved in heavy equipment and work would proceed immediately in the Suicide Hill section on rectifying this dangerous portion of Highway 99.

On the question of the new Alta Lake school, Carleton advised that work was now progressing on the building, being constructed by Guran Construction of New Westminster.

Walter Zebrowski, on behalf of the TV Society and as chairman of the communications committee, reported that it was a 99.9% certainty of the area having Channel 12 under operation by the end of August. The equipment is now on order and work is proceeding under Zebrowski's supervision.

At this point president Carleton suggested that as he was running as a mayoralty candidate in the forthcoming municipal elections, he would prefer to step down from his position as chairman of the chamber. He said that if he was fortunate enough in becoming mayor he would automatically resign from his position as president and become a director; however, if unsuccessful, he said he would like to continue his term until the end of the year. There was no objection to this. Cliff Jennings, in his capacity as vice-president, was called to continue the meeting and to carry out presidential duties until the results of the elections are known. Before stepping down Carleton called for one minute of silence in remembrance of director Helmut Salmhofer who passed away Aug. 9. A personal collection of $60 by directors was made to be donated to the Cancer Fund.

Director Zebrowski expressed concern on Act 130 relating to the bills to be paid out for by the people of Alta Lake as a result of the formation of the Resort Municipality of Whistler, under the jurisdiction of the minister of municipal affairs. This matter was fully debated by the directors and it was felt that the chamber should accept Zebrowski's submission, and that it be tabled in the chamber files for future reference.

The all-candidates' meeting sponsored by the Alta Lake Ratepayers' Association still stands for Monday, Sept. 1, but with a revised time of 11:30 a.m. Mayoralty candidates will be given five minutes each to give their views on what their stand is for the future of this area, and those running for office of aldermen will be given three minutes each, to speak on their particular views. The meeting will be chaired by legal adviser to the Ratepayers' Association, Harry Hunter, who will run a question and answer period after the candidates running for office have concluded their talks to those present. It is imperative those who are eligible to vote be in attendance to hear what each candidate has to say. Again, the meeting is at 11:30 a.m., Sept. 1 in the Garibaldi cafeteria.

The Whistler Cay Estates golf course is becoming a very popular place, with many people enjoying this new facility at Whistler. I hear a hole-in-one was achieved by Ron Johnston last week, an achievement worth recording! The golf lessons are very popular, too, with very good attendance, but for those of you who have still not got around to having a game, and are complete beginners, make sure you attend the J2 noon lesson this coming Thursday. For $4 it is well worth it, and lots of fun. Lessons have been divided up to cater to all classes of golfing skills. If any further information is required, please feel free to call the pro-shop situated at the course, phone number 932-5418.

Fatalities near Pemberton

Richard Hale Seymour, 19, of Vancouver drowned in the north end of Tenas Lake on Monday, Aug. 11, at about 7:30 p.m. while trying to recover a boat which was floating adrift. RCMP have dragged the section of the lake without success. Murky lake conditions prevented divers from searching.

On Aug. 12 at about 9:30 p.m., Randal John Syrett, 20, of Chilliwack crashed in his Cessna 185 in the south end of Lillooet Lake following a take-off from a nearby airstrip. Divers recovered both the plane and pilot's body on Thursday, Aug. 14. Mr. Syrett was hauling firefighting equipment out of the area and was employed by Kent Aviation of Chilliwack.

The body of John Michael Pierce, 23, of Bloomfield, Ontario, has still not been recovered. Pierce fell into Nairn Falls while sightseeing July 12. RCMP searchers have been unsuccessful in finding the body following an extensive search right down to Lillooet Lake. The falls are a great tourist attraction just south of the Green River campsite. Tourists should be reminded the falls are very dangerous, although no signs are posted.

Over 900 residents from D'Arcy, Pemberton and the Alta Lake areas took the opportunity to view the BCR's Steam Museum Train during its visit to Pemberton on Friday, Aug. 15. Mayor George Underhill welcomed the train crew and all present.

A special thankyou was made to Premier Barrett for making the Museum Train possible and having it visit Pemberton. The mayor pointed out that the waterworks department of the Village of Pemberton worked very hard to complete a new water line and fire hydrant to the BCR station to accommodate the train.

Aug. 15 was also a busy day for gardeners and residents who sold items at the Gardeners' and Flea Market at the Pemberton Community Hall. Although not many merchants arrived, it was a successful day.

There will be another Gardeners' and Flea Market held at the Pemberton Community Hall on Saturday, Sept. 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Hopefully, more gardeners will have produce ready by then.

Signal Hill teacher Jim Spencer has been appointed as the principal of the Coast Mountain Outdoor School in Pemberton. Other Signal Hill teachers who will be employed at the Outdoor School are Dick Eccles and Miss Donna Winters.

Sympathy is extended to the Gott family in the sudden death of their father and husband, Mr. Stanley Gott.

Get-well wishes are extended to Rose Tatlow from all her Pemberton friends.

Over $500 was raised at an outdoor barbeque held recently in aid of community projects. The D'Arcy Indian Band did a tremendous job of organizing and preparing a delicious meal.

Whistler elections a real contest

With four candidates for mayor, two for the position on the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District and seven running for the three aldermanic seats, a first election in the new municipality of Whistler should prove to be an exciting one.

Running for mayor are Paul Burrows, president of the Alta Lake Ratepayers Association, William Roy Calder, a teacher, Pat Carleton, president of the Chamber of Commerce for the area and a retired businessman, and Roger Lampitt, a construction superintendent for Tamarisk.

Burrows and Carleton are also seeking the seat on the SLRD.

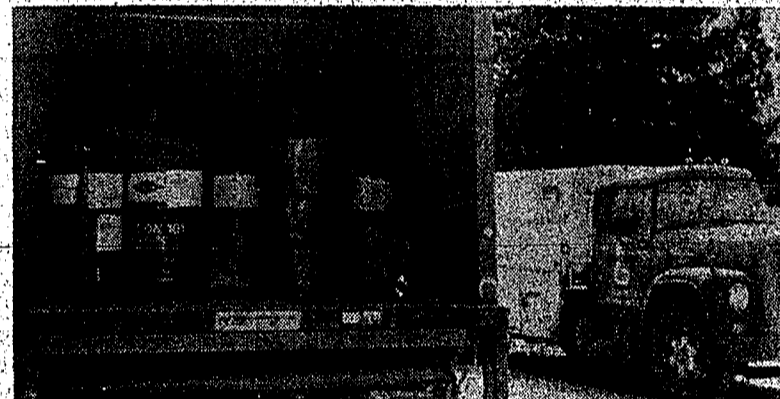

Candidates for aldermen, for the three seats, (the fourth will be a provincial government appointee) are Robert Bishop, realtor and one of the partners in the Whistler Cay development, Jack Bright, ski area manager for Garibaldi Lifts and a former chairman of the Whistler Chamber of Commerce, Frans Carpay, a builder; Julianna Heine, a homemaker, John Hetherington, a professional of the ski patrol, Janet Systad, homemaker, and Garry Watson, a barrister and solicitor.

Several of the candidates have been active in the community life and in the chamber and promotional tourist work on the area and all the candidates are keenly interested in the best development for the new municipality.

There will be an advance poll at Highland Lodge on Thursday, Sept. 4 and Friday, Sept. 5 between the hours of 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. for those who will not be in the area to vote on election day, Saturday, Sept. 6.

Polling will take place at Highland Lodge on Saturday between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.
