Mayors along BCR meet with premier

Mayor Dave Stewart was one of a dozen mayors of communities along the B.C. Railway which have been affected by the recurring strikes on the railway, who met with Premier Bill Bennett for about an hour on Monday.

The mayors of the interior and northern communities urged the government to declare the railway an essential service so that strikes could not continue to interrupt its operations. Bennett did not agree with the request but did outline to the delegation the government's plans to try to bring about long-term labour peace on the BCR.

Stewart said the delegation left the meeting with the premier, which was also attended by Labour Minister Allan Williams, Industrial Development Minister Don Phillips and Highways Minister Alex Fraser, feeling happy that the government was aware of the problems they faced and was prepared to do something about it.

Williams explained the problems and said that negotiations are in a delicate stage and that they were still negotiating. He hoped to be able to come up with a solution in the near future.

Mayor Jim Fraser of Williams Lake, who acted as spokesman for the delegation, said that they were generally hopeful and it looks like the government is taking steps.

Bennett said the government was allowing the unions and management to negotiate a settlement that will be agreeable to both sides in the long term, saying there are no short term solutions and that short term solutions in the past have been part of the problem.

He added that one possibility which is being considered is the formation of a council of unions.

The delegation was mainly interested in pointing out to the government that recurring labour troubles along the railway are depriving many people in their communities of the right to continuous work.

The delegation represented Squamish, Pemberton, Lillooet, Clinton, 100 Mile House, Williams Lake, Quesnel, Prince George, Chetwynd, Fort St. John, Dawson Creek and Fort Nelson.

COUNCIL SEEKS TO RAISE INDEMNITIES

Council is planning to raise the indemnities for the mayor and aldermen and an amendment to the bylaw is being prepared to provide for this.

The proposal is to raise the indemnity for the mayor from $3,600 per year to $5,000 per year and for the aldermen from $1,500 to $2,000 per year.

Municipal administrator Keith Belliveau says that the figures being paid to the mayor and aldermen at present is very low in comparison with other municipalities of similar size.

Even with the raise they will still be below most if not all of these municipalities.

Three students to visit Japan

The three happy girls you see around town are Paige Bloxham, Christine Iverson and Cheryl Bird who have been the lucky people who will be taking part in the Squamish Lions Club Youth Exchange Program to Japan for a period of six weeks this summer, from July 17 to Aug. 28.

The girls, along with 40 or more young people in their age bracket, between 16 and 19 years of age, from the Pacific Northwest will fly from Seattle and be met in Japan by host families. In turn the exchange youth from Japan will be met by host families from our region.

The students, in all instances, will stay with two host families for a period of three weeks each, in different areas of the country or countries they are visiting. A Japanese exchange student may spend three weeks in Seattle and then come to North Vancouver, Squamish or Terrace during the second three-week period.

Paige Bloxham is the daughter of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. W. Bloxham, Christine Iverson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Iverson and Cheryl Bird is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bird, all of Squamish.

In the near future the girls will be corresponding with their host families in Japan, selected and matched as closely as possible with likes and preferences, mutual interests, etc., as recorded by both the host families and the girls themselves.

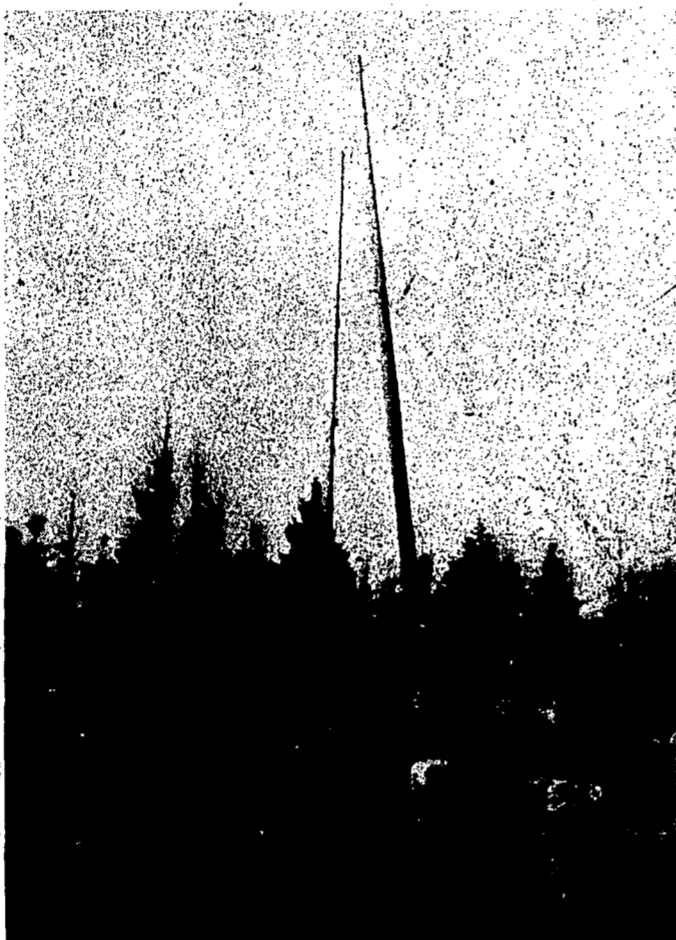

The host family residence will be the girls' base for communications and correspondence and a home away from home. Help in providing side trips and events by local citizens would then be arranged to give the guests as broad and varied an exposure as possible.

Undoubtedly the girls are already starting to collect various small items for souvenirs and gifts to hand out to host families and new found acquaintances. They will also be learning how to say hello and goodbye in Japanese, the first is so easy, "Ohio" and everyone knows "sayonara" means goodbye. The Japanese are a more formal people than we are and manners are very important so please and thank you will be two other important words in their vocabulary.

The local Lions club is planning out of town orientation meetings, and if anyone has any helpful information or suggestions, local sessions will be held, commencing in May, for both the visiting girls and the host families.

The Lions are hoping that Candace Mawer, who went to Japan as an exchange student a few years ago, will be in town to help brief the girls before they leave.

If you feel that you would like to help by being a host family for any period up to three weeks, please call 892-5053 for further information.

DOWN SHE COMES could be what the crew said as they brought down the climbing poles at the loggers sports field preparatory to having them machined to an even diameter to match climbing poles in other areas. Excavations were made at the bases of the poles and then they were pushed over. They will be reinstated before the summer sports day.

$50 PRIZE OFFERED FOR SQUAMISH CREST

The Squamish Chamber of Commerce has decided to offer a $50 cash prize for the best design for a logo or crest to be used for the area.

The design should be suitable for placing on buttons or crests which could be sold or given away as promotional gimmicks for the community.

The competition is open to everyone and closes April 30. All designs must be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce and turned in to D. E. Rudy, secretary-treasurer, either by mail or at his office at 38140A Cleveland Ave.

DON WILSON hands a cheque for $250 to Wally Clausen, prize winner in the April Rotary Charities draw.

New ambulance for local use

A new ambulance, replacing the one previously used in Squamish, has arrived for use in this area and will be able to reach any portion of the district served by the local ambulance. It has been acquired from Kamloops and comes with a full time four wheel drive.

Bob Blomster, of the local ambulance service, says the vehicle is valued at $19,000 and is a 1974 GMC.

In the roomy interior two stretchers can be accommodated with ease in the main body of the ambulance and a third can be suspended from the roof if necessary.

Blomster says the ambulance is equipped with emergency rescue equipment, respiratory and resuscitatory equipment, equipment to handle emergency situations such as wounds, cuts, abrasions and others.

It also contains two heaters, a full lighting system, and a wide range of emergency equipment from splints to obstetric kits. Some diagnostic equipment is also available.

"It's far superior to the one we used to have," Blomster said. "Mainly because we can be sure to get to the scene of an accident. This one will be able to cover back roads and industrial accidents as well as the highway ones."

Blomster also said the 40-gallon gas tank with rock shields makes sure he has lots of gas no matter what happens.

Variable power steering, heavy duty electrical equipment, Cibie headlights, fog lights and driving lights, are all part of the standard on this ambulance.

It was amazing to see how every inch of the vehicle was used for storage. A wheelchair was tucked in the small space behind the seats, other spaces had other pieces of equipment stowed away; there were cupboards and storage areas under seats, under the benches and in every conceivable place.

Blomster says that the new vehicle is now equipped with all the articles they had in the former one plus a number of extra items. "It took us the major part of an evening to transfer all the items," he said. "But it was worthwhile."

He is the only full time ambulance driver in the community, but in order to be able to offer proper service to the community he has a staff of ten part-time volunteer drivers.

They are Bill Sadler, Kai Larsen, Al Bird, Jeff Candy, Gordon Crane, Dave Kuhn, Vince Richards, Peter Gordon, Terry Aldridge and Norm Halvorson.

MARCH WAS WET AND COLD AND MISERABLE

March weather must have set a record for being cold, wet and miserable with rain on 18 days out of the 31. It also had the coldest day of the winter, March 2, when the temperature dropped to minus 8 degrees Celsius.

The highest temperature was March 14 when it hit 14 degrees Celsius and the rainfall during the month amounted to 5.08 inches while there was four and a half inches of snow.

Total precipitation this year has amounted to 22.27 inches and the total snowfall to date has been 54 1/2 inches.

April started off nice and sunny with a high of 14 degrees Celsius and if that is April Fool we can do with more of it!

EXTERIOR of the new ambulance which recently arrived in Squamish. The ambulance, which came from the Kamloops area, is a four wheel drive vehicle and will be able to negotiate any roads in the area.

DON'T FORGET AMATEUR NIGHT ON APRIL 23

The crush in the cities

The plight of people living in the world's cities will be discussed at the big Habitat conference being organized by the United Nations at this time. The Vancouver meeting will focus mainly on the living conditions of the urban poor who must exist as best they can in bursting, overcrowded cities of the developing world. The talks are being held in June.

Without doubt, the greatest long-term challenge facing mankind is how to feed a global population that will rise from just over four billion today to around eight billion by early in the 21st century. Making the farmer in the poor lands more productive is a task that must concern every human being if he wants our civilization to continue.

But not far behind this overwhelming problem of the ever precarious balance between food and population is the grim vision of cities being strangled by their own growth. Already in many cities of Latin America the increase in the number of automobiles is virtually outstripping population growth. Urban planners are forecasting traffic jams that will cut deeply into the productivity of urban workers.

Latin America's population is also expected to double from the present 300 million by the end of the century. Nine of every 10 people in Latin America will live in urban centres, most of them in 30 huge cities. By the year 2000, Mexico City will be larger than New York.

There are ways to make cities more livable. City governments are trying to move people out of slums into satellite cities or even the countryside. Educational campaigns are mounted to prevent the slum dwellers from moving back. In Indonesia, Jakarta's city fathers are going ahead with an urban development project where thousands are being encouraged to upgrade their own housing with assistance from the local authorities. The same concept is being tried in several cities in Africa.

Singapore is keeping many cars out of the inner city through a traffic restraint program. Motorists who insist on driving their cars into town face a special $30-a-month tax. Toll booths are used to collect the tax. The sprawl of the cities must be contained — and not only for the sake of better urban living. By making life on the land more attractive once again, the nations of the world will ensure a steady rise in food production.

The wasteful nations

Canada and the United States are the highest users of energy in the world, consuming between the two some 43 percent of the energy supplies of this planet. In our homes, businesses, governments and industries more than half that amount ends up in waste.

In our haste to develop non-renewable energy sources to meet the insatiable demands of our affluent life styles we, as a nation, seem unwilling to take the time needed to plan our resource development carefully, rather we deal only in crisis situations.

The result is dangerous depletion of energy supplies, pollution of air, water and land and, above all incredible waste.

Yet, in the midst of this waste, there are many other countries, especially among the newer nations, that are suffering acute shortages of energy needed just for basic survival. When tragedy, either natural or man-made, strikes one of these countries we take palliative measures by pouring in dollars when some long-term international planning and restructuring of the present economic order might well remedy the situation.

And waste does not end with our natural resources in this hemisphere. There is the waste of human resources: Natives caught in the web of welfare and alcoholism; the expertise and experience of older people carelessly cast aside; large numbers of chronically unemployed in depressed areas; creative and sensitive young people lost in a sub-culture.

We believe that the waste of our natural and human resources is due in large measure to crisis-oriented, shortsighted planning on the part of governments and private institutions. There is a real need to bring pressure on decision-makers to design educational programs and find ways to examine personal life styles, to change harmful patterns of waste and to see that there is reflective, long-term planning rather than band-aid, remedial action.

We need to examine carefully this global village we live in to try and build a society based on justice rather than greed, and human development rather than waste.

Women have slipped

For all those starry-eyed souls who say of women — "you've come a long way baby," here are the facts. Montreal economist Dian Cohen finds from the Women's Bureau that women workers are slipping — in the amount of pay they take home, as compared with men.

Although more women than ever are in the labor force, one out of every three women are bearing more of the over-all burden of unemployment than in the past. In the clerical field where more than a million women work, men earn 57 percent more than women, averaging $7,769 yearly to a woman's $4,962. The salary difference for men here is INCREASING. In the service sector men made 157 percent more than women in 1972. Back in 1967 men service workers earned only 121 percent more than women. Again the gap is INCREASING for men.

In the sales field things are going from rotten to worse. In 1967 salesmen averaged $6,096 — women $2,292. Six years later in 1972 salesmen were up to $9,567 while saleswomen made a whopping $3,771.

But the gap is narrowing in favor of women in the professions. In 1967 male professionals earned 87 percent more than women. By 1972 they earned only 72 percent more than women professionals.

In the clerical field where 97 percent of all secretaries and stenographers are women — male secretaries earn between $2,300 and $12,000 more than women.

Even babysitting is not sacred. The average 60-year-old male full-time sitter made $5,536 yearly — compared to the woman sitter's $2,099!

When men are outstripping women at such traditional work as looking after the baby all that can be said for the women of Canada is "you've slipped a long way baby."

NOSE TO NOSE. Tumpsey the clown tries rubbing his bulbous nose with a young fan. Tumpsey is just one of the contingent of clowns appearing with the De Wayne Bros. ## Forest Industry deals with environmental policy

By ROSE TATLOW

There is new recognition of the rights of many users of forest lands. There is also a growing awareness that forests have limitations to the uses that can be served, that there are choices to be made, and that a wise and sensitive approach to environmental protection is a responsibility that all must share.

In view of this the Council of Forest Industries, composed of many forest companies in this province, has developed some environmental and land use policy statements and these will be the subject of a six-part series on various aspects of forest use and the environment: management of watersheds, reforestation, environmental policy and objectives, use of prescribed fire, land use and road access policy.

These statements should be of interest to the people of Squamish in view of the fact that this community is forest-oriented.

PART III Environmental Policy and Objectives

The forest companies of British Columbia are the major operators on timberlands and the processors of forest products in the province. They are the largest users of water and waterways. Their harvesting and processing techniques have direct influence on the environment; positive and negative.

Full use of B.C.'s forest resources and the land base upon which the resource depends, will be required if the forest industry is to provide its full share of employment and social benefits for expected population growth.

The industry, in all its aspects; timber growing, harvesting, manufacturing, distribution, waste disposal and recycling activities; is the province's most important basic industry. Despite growth in mining, fishing, tourism and secondary industries, the province's economy will depend for decades to come upon the forest industry.

Population expansion and changing social values are accompanied by demands for an improved environment, which includes air, water, noise and other factors associated with the quality of life. There will also be increased demands on the land base for recreational facilities, parks, ecological reserves, wildlife sanctuaries, watershed areas and various single-use purposes.

The forest industry believes that, because of the need for a long-term commitment of forest land to timber production, the multiple-use concept is the correct approach to management of forest lands. However, within the general principle they believe that representative areas of unique and exceptional value should be set aside as parks and ecological reserves.

However, this can often be achieved by the sequential use of specific areas rather than permanent alienation. Such a procedure not only will allow maximum enjoyment by those who require single-use purposes, but also concurrently increase provincial revenue, assure proper management of the land, maintenance of jobs and continued use of the land to grow forest crops.

To meet their environmental responsibilities forest companies conduct and evaluate their constructive leadership by:

- Supporting proven beneficial and practical (and industry related) procedures that prevent environmental damage;

- Supporting research and technological experimentation to overcome undesirable side effects from forest and other related operations;
- Assisting in the development and establishment of regulations and practices relating to environmental matters.

The forest companies, and their contractors are responsible for compliance with the intent and purposes of these regulations and practices.

Because communication is a critical factor in the development and execution of industry programs, provision will be made through the Council of Forest Industries, for the dissemination of information necessary to support industry's environmental improvement activities.

- Supporting proven beneficial and practical (and industry related) procedures that

Howe Soundings

Several weeks ago we heard the first faint pipings of the frog chorus and we were sure they must be mistaken. Spring couldn't be coming; it was far too cold and miserable but this last week the chorus has been coming on loud and strong and with the onset of the warmer weather there has been an increase in the sound until it is now the full throated spring chorus we have learned to expect.

And just last week I visited the little road behind the school where my children used to gather yellow violets as soon as the spring flowers started to appear. They were there, still in tight buds and the heart shaped leaves barely starting to uncurl. Bleeding hearts were lifting their lacy fronds above the dead maple leaves and the heart shaped leaves of the wild lily of the valley were also tightly curled and just beginning to open.

Along the road the pussy willows had lost their lovely pearl grey sheen and were now soft clusters of yellow stamened blossoms; the red alder showed the reason it had earned its name with the soft red flush along the branches, the reddish catkins dangling from the boughs and the green leaves just starting to unfold.

The weeping willows on Wilson Crescent were pale greenish yellow and everywhere you could hear the birds their soft chirpings and spring songs ample proof that the long winter was finally over.

I have always maintained that I would not like to live in a country of eternal spring or summer. A Hawaii or a Mexico is wonderful for a holiday, especially in winter; but the changing pattern of the seasons is the thing which makes the years in the temperate climates so interesting.

Summer would be lovely, for part of the year, but eternal summer, no. The promise of spring, the burgeoning trees and shrubs, the changing seasons in the fall and even the crisp, clear cold of winter, are all part of our lives and we would lose so much without them.

The salmonberry bushes along the blind channel are showing their pink buds, there are skunk cabbages out of the ooze and mud of the sloughs and damp spots and even the early rhododendrons are showing faint signs of pink, the promise of the beauty to come.

Before long there will be blossoms on the crabapples, the tight yellowish flowers already showing on the dogwoods will be the huge creamy blooms which almost everyone knows and then it will be summer once again.

With a few more sunny days like those we enjoyed last week it will be easy to forget the cold and wet of winter.

This is the time of year when one wishes that something ... or anything would happen to give the last of winter doldrums a run for its money. Maybe we need a new dish for dinner, some exotic fruit, a new hairdo or even some new clothes. But last week I saw some fresh strawberries in the store and they were lovely. Really made you think of summer, of fruit salads with fresh fruit, succulent and juicy, tempting your appetite.

But the new crushed look of some of the fashions for spring looks more like the old mussy look if you ask me. When I saw the wrinkled cottons I wondered who was kidding who? Imagine paying those prices for wrinkled slacks. The blouses look rather nice and I could even go the jackets if I had to but I think the slacks look as if the wearer had slept in them and tossed and turned all night.

They tell me that you just can't iron out the wrinkles either. Although why one would buy them in the first place if they wanted to iron out the wrinkles is beyond me!

Isn't it odd that after all the fuss about getting permapped clothes, or those which don't require ironing to look pressed and neat, we have to go to the other extreme and switch to a style which looks as if we had deliberately tried to see how much we could rumple it?

Congested roads tax driving skills

With the arrival of springtime most of us will begin to feel and enjoy the freedom of travel it brings with it — a freedom that accelerates, as we move into summer. It is good to be freed from the anxiety of winter driving conditions.

While enjoying our Canadian rotation of seasons with all the pleasures and freedoms they bring, let us not forget that while driving conditions improve in summer, accident statistics do not. Commercial and holiday traffic increases.

Children on foot and on bicycles become more numerous. Roads may be ice free but they are congested.

These are the conditions that tax our driving skills and demand our full and constant attention. They demand something else as well. They demand that at least all the safety features on our vehicles be in first class condition. The best driver in the world becomes almost helpless when his brakes or lights suddenly fail. A blow-out can be a disaster.

The Canada Safety Council's 1976 Car Check Campaign reminds you of your personal obligation as a driver to make absolutely certain that your vehicle is a safe vehicle. Have it checked for safety weaknesses and have necessary repairs made promptly. Encourage others to do the same. Stay alert to the need for safety. Increase your concern for others. Resolve to drive only mechanically safe vehicles. Some day you may be very glad you did. Don't be found wanting when an emergency arises. Check now.

Letter

Editor, The Times;
The Village of Vanderhoof, located 60 miles west of Prince George, is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

The 50th anniversary committee is planning a celebration and reunion for former members of the community for the weekend of July 1-4. However, there are many, many people scattered across the province who are out of touch with the community.

The committee wants to be able to send these people an invitation and needs their addresses. They are sure that some of the readers of your "Letters to the Editor" column are former residents of Vanderhoof and they would like to hear from them so that this major event in the life of the Vanderhoof community is well attended.

A simple note to the 50th Anniversary Committee, Vanderhoof Village Office, Box 97, Vanderhoof, B.C. V0J 3A0 will be all that is needed. The committee will take it from there.

Operation Lifestyle

The Lifestyle symbol has been designed to identify various components of the total Lifestyle Campaign as well as promotional and educational items produced in support of the health Lifestyle concept.

The ANKH is the basis of the Lifestyle symbol. Having its foundations in ancient Egypt, it was, in fact, in existence some 5,000 years ago and is properly referred to as the "Key of Life". For distinctiveness, a stylized version of this universally recognized symbol has been superimposed on the human head in profile.

Lifestyle is the unique way in which people live their own lives. It is the food we eat, the weight problem, and the malnutrition. It's the care or neglect of our bodies.

Lifestyle is the cars we drive and the seatbelts we don't wear. It's speeding or taking it easy. It's the alcohol we drink ... it's the deadly "one more for the road". It's moderation or alcoholism. It's protecting our loved ones or letting them down.

Lifestyle is drug addiction in the cigarettes we smoke, the "uppers", the "downers", the hash ... it's abuse of over-the-counter prescription and illegal drugs or intelligent use of drugs. It's taking precautions against child poisoning or tragic carelessness.

Lifestyle is staying in shape and getting fit by regular physical activity, or it's running to seed. It's getting out and doing something enjoyable or being bored.

Lifestyle is how we handle stress, tension and loneliness ... it's knowing how to relax. It's how we feel about ourselves, our lives, jobs, families, and friends. It's being able to change some things in our life and living with those we can't. It's contentment or despair.

Lifestyle is obeying safety rules or ignoring them. It's taking responsible advantage of medical and health services. It's complying with the doctor's instructions or treating ourselves. Lifestyle is learning how to deal with emergencies or being helpless. It's common sense or foolhardiness.

Lifestyle is parents' influence on their children, a couple's relationship to each other and their family. It's involvement in the community or dropping out.

Your lifestyle, at this moment, whether good or bad, is distinctly your own. It will change according to your attitude and ability to change. Your lifestyle reflects with reasonable accuracy what health may be in the future — unless changes are made for better or worse.

Operation Lifestyle introduces the FIT-KIT designed to enable Canadians to estimate how fit they actually are.

The Fit-Kit is designed for all age groups and fitness levels so that each participant can be guided toward the desirable level of fitness.

Each Fit-Kit is a comprehensive fitness testing and information package containing:

1. Canadian Home Fitness Test — a self-administered test of heart and lungs.

2. Rx for Physical Activity — a weekly guide to physical activity.

3. Fit-Tips — an illustrated series of rhythmic exercises.

4. Progress Chart — includes section on Resting Heart Rate.

5. Walk-Run Distance Calculator — special slide rule to calculate how far to walk or run in 15 minutes.

6. Advanced Version of the Canadian Home Fitness Test — an advanced test for those who attain the recommended Personal Fitness Level.

7. Crests — five crests for family and friends who try the Fitness Test.

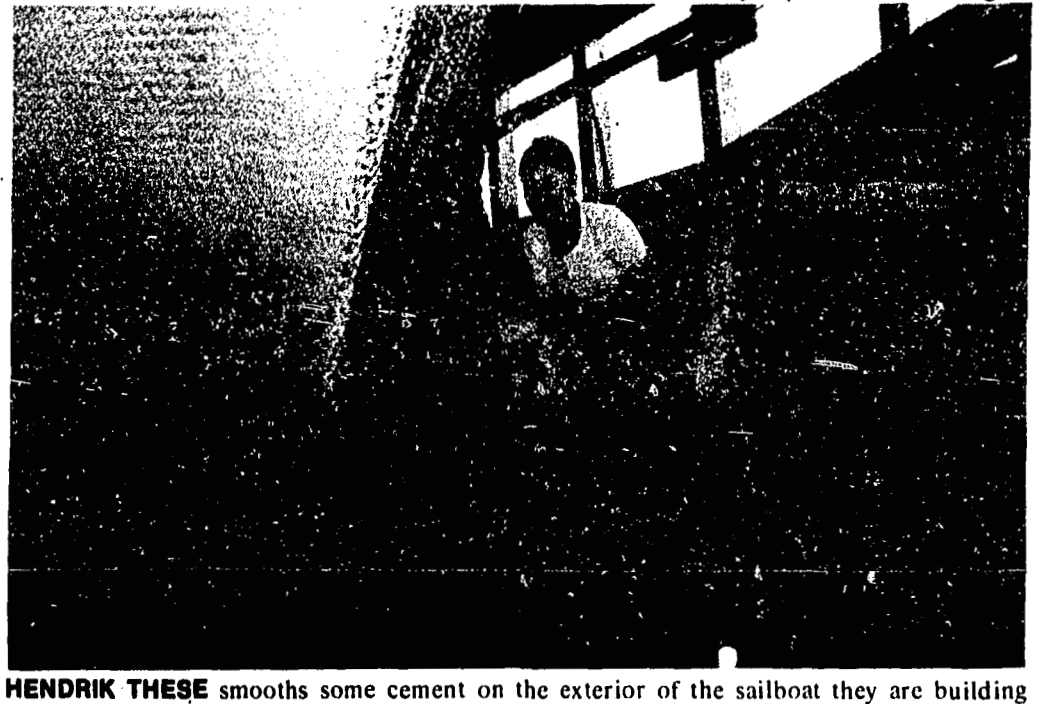

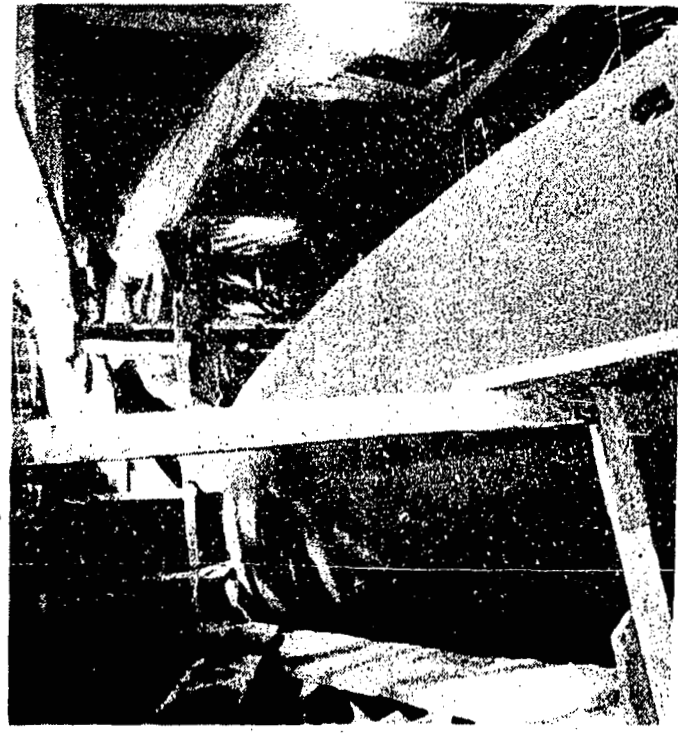

8. Health and Fitness Booklet — a manual written by Dr. Per-Olof Astrand of Sweden, Special Edition for Fit-Kit users.

The Fit-Kit is available for $4.95 through government bookstores in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Or by mail from Fit-Kit, Ottawa, KIA 0S9. Make cheque or money order payable to the Receiver General of Canada.

Three named to APC

Three members have been appointed to serve for two year terms on the Squamish Advisory Planning Commission. They are Frank Ramsay, Barney Bensch and Bob Smith.

SUNDAY was the culmination of the first part of a dream for Hendrik These when the cement crew came to the boat shed on Birken Road where he is building a 42-foot sailboat. The ferro cement boat was cemented Sunday with a full crew working for the entire day. Here he stands beside the hull.

ROLLED ABOVE THE HULL of the boat which had just been cemented is the heavy plastic which will be used to enclose it during the curing process, a 36-hour session with the heat maintained at 200 degrees Fahrenheit.

HENDRIK THESE smooths some cement on the exterior of the sailboat they are building while wife Jill looks on.

Theses celebrate halfway mark on boat project

By ROSE TATLOW
Sunday was a red letter day for Hendrik and Jill These and marks the halfway mark in their project; building a 42-foot C-Ranger sailboat. It was the day when his friends gathered to help him put on the cement and the plasterers came to finish it off and smooth the job.

"I didn't believe this day would ever come," Jill These said, as she watched them put on the cement. "It seems so long since we first started to build the boat in November of 1973, and we had to get the site ready before we could even start to work on it."

She said Hendrik, her tall, stocky husband, who has a perfection for detail and is as meticulous a craftsman as his parents, Ruth and Rudy These, had always wanted to build a sailboat but admitted that if she had realized what a project it was she might have been afraid to tackle it.

"You wouldn't believe what we had to do before we could even get started," she said. "As soon as we received permission from council to build a boat shed at the back of the lot we had to level the land, dig the hole for the shape of the boat so we could work from below and get started."

Hendrik is a faller and does contract clearing for B.C. Hydro so he sometimes does not work in the winter and Jill helped out the family income by working for Squamish Terminals part of the time.

"The boat has a metal frame," she said, "made of steel and it had to be bent by hand to the right curves. During all this operation it has been suspended from the ceiling by steel rods. The main portion of the frame had to be welded," she added, "and the neighbours were great when we did this. They never complained no matter how many blue flashes there were."

Once the frame was made, horizontal and vertical rods, two inches apart, were cut and fitted to the entire frame and where each of these rods intersected they had to be tied with wire.

Then came the laying on of the chicken wire, eight layers, each one put on separately. "Each of these had to be tied every time they covered an intersecting rod," she said, "and each layer had to be tied separately. There are four exterior layers of chicken wire and when all four were in place the four had to be tied to the frame as one. Then the same process had to be repeated on the inside with another four layers of chicken wire."

Jill explained that this is the base through which the cement is extruded from the inside and then smoothed off on the inside.

"There must be millions of ties in the hull," she said ruefully, looking at her hands. "And since October we have been working steadily eight to ten hours a day tying on the wire."

She said there were nights when her hands were so sore she could not straighten them out and all she wanted to do was look at them, all red and rough and torn, and cry.

"But it's worth it today," she said as she looked at the seven-man crew hauling cement from the mixer which had gobbled up 65 bags of cement and 65 bags of sand in making the product which was placed on the inside, vibrated through the hull with a small vibrator and then smoothed off from the outside as additional cement was added.

Once the cement was applied the plasterers moved in to finish the job, smoothing it off. They employed a six-man plastering crew but the cement crew was composed of their friends.

Hull surveyor Bill Image was on hand to observe the entire operation and he told Rudy These that there was no place in the entire boat where he could have suggested any improvement.

On Monday the curing was scheduled to begin. The boat would be entirely covered in plastic which would be sealed and heat inside the plastic tent would have to be maintained at 200 degrees Fahrenheit for 36 hours to cure the cement and make it stronger.

They expect it will take two more years at least to finish the boat before they will be able to go out in it.

"I believe it will be the first ferro-cement boat with an aluminum cabin," Jill said, "and this meant that Hendrik had to do some studying to learn about that. We'll have to put in ballast, probably a mixture of lead and steel and once the hull is completed we'll give it a coat of epoxy and paint it."

She said that when the exterior is completed they will start working on the cabin's interior.

Jill These said the craft will be powered by a Chrysler-Nissan 35hp motor capable of sailing the vessel anywhere.

The sailboat is a ketch, a Sampson marine design and will have a speed of seven knots. "We don't want one that's really too fast," Jill said. "We just want to be able to go anywhere we want."

Ultimate plans are to sail to Europe, up the Rhine, through the Greek islands, and maybe the South Seas.

"But we'll cruise the B.C. coast first," she said, "and once we've had a year's experience here maybe we'll go down to Mexico and through the Panama Canal and head for Europe."

Hopefully two years from now I'll be able to take a picture of Jill breaking a bottle of champagne on the bow of the sailboat as they launch it. Till then, there's lots of hard work but the promise of a lot of fun once the work is over.

John Brennan finds Australian climate hot

In a recent letter to Wilf Dowad of the Squamish Rotary Club, John Brennan, who is visiting Australia as a Rotary exchange student, says he found it a bit difficult to become acclimatized to temperatures which on the first day of autumn were 90F or 32Celsius. He said it usually averages about 90 but sometimes hits 105!

Although only there a month he has already seen a great deal of the country. His first "father" has his private pilot's licence and one weekend they visited Canberra, capital of Australia, and on the next weekend went right down to the southern coast to a small town called Millicent.

They made the trip to the coast to pick up a load of crayfish for the Rotary Club's annual "Crayfish and gambling night" which netted about $4,000 for the club project, which this year is a senior citizens' home in Finley.

John is delighted with Finley which is located in a farming community as this is what he is interested in and he feels the experience will be very helpful.

He is attending Finley high school and is in Grade 11. The standards are very much the same as in Squamish and he is having no trouble adjusting to the new school.

He had spoken to the Rotary Club and presented the Squamish banner to them and would be showing the film and then send it home.

He had also attended a Rotary conference in Mildura, where 50 other exchange students attended the four day session. "We all had a wonderful time. Four returned exchange students spoke on their experiences in foreign countries. They all gave interesting speeches and spoke like professionals. Everyone enjoyed hearing from them. Apparently this is the first time Australia exchanged with Malaysian students, so they got on stage and also spoke well.

"We all went to a dance that night and as I was walking across the hall one of Margaret Hubbard's past parents came over and introduced themselves to me. I was thrilled to meet them and we had a good talk.

"They told me they had a letter from her not long ago and were really happy to hear from her and said how much they missed her."

John ended by saying he was delighted to have the opportunity to visit another country and thanked the local Rotary Club for making it possible.

The Squamish Power Squadron held a film night Tuesday, March 30. The first film was called "The Seaplanes Story". This was about the salvaging of the cargo of the Van Lene which ran aground on the west coast of Vancouver Island a few years ago.

The Van Lene was carrying a cargo of small Japanese cars which were airlifted by helicopter at the rate of one every two minutes onto a waiting barge. Other scenes in the film showed various aspects of tugboating on the Pacific coast.

The other film was called "Northwest Passage" an excellent account of the voyage of the USS Manhattan. The Manhattan, a tanker, was accompanied by the Canadian icebreakers Macdonald and St. Laurent on its journey through the Atlantic Ocean.

The scenes in this film were shot from the commanding bridges of each vessel. Both movies were first rate.

Reminders to Power Squadron members: Graduation and change of watch on May 1 at the Alice Lake Restaurant. Watch paper for time.

An invitation from the yacht club to attend their dance on May 8 at the Legion Hall. See you there!

Five Years Ago

Several residents in the downtown area have reported seeing a white Robin in their gardens during the past two weeks.

Thor Halvorson said he spent some time stalking it trying to get a picture when it was seen near his mother's home on Victoria Street two weeks ago, and Mrs. J. Lonsdale said it was in their garden last week.

Mr. Halvorson said the other robins do not seem to mind it and it feeds and flies around with them. Mrs. Lonsdale also said the robin was with a flock of about 50 which were looking for worms and other food.

It was pointed out that council could offer Woodfibre residents accommodation in Squamish. In Valleycliffe, housing could be built and in this subdivision, 40 lots were available at a cost of $2,500. This was part of the agreement with the company which was developing the property.

However, a check with Guilford Industries revealed that the agreement says $2,500 or the cost of developing the lots, whichever was the greater.

Council offered that there was a trailer court where lots could be bought for $500 down, but there were only seven left. The Valleycliffe homes could be purchased for a low down payment and $160 per month. Also you could qualify for the $1,000 grant.

Council also stated that the only way they can help the residents to remain in Woodfibre is by persuasion, and that council has no authority to interfere, as Woodfibre must be treated as one householder.

Ten Years Ago

Destruction of the old Mackenzie Department Store, for many years a landmark in Squamish, took place last Wednesday morning. The old store began in 1913 and was originally Lake's Department Store. It was called the Gill Block and there was an apartment above the store at the front and the remainder of the second storey was a dance hall. Later four more apartments were carved out of the former dance hall area which were occupied until a few years ago.

Windows will be installed in the new drygoods portion of the stores and these will face north. Doorways will be cut to permit access to the ladies' and men's wear shop, and the hardware, which has been sold to Charles McCartney of Vancouver, will be operated under the title of Paradise Valley Hardware.

Whistler news

by Jenny Busdon

In order to commence the construction of the Whistler sewer this year, meetings have been held and are continuing between Whistler council and the minister of municipal affairs, departmental staff, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. officials, consulting engineers and developers who will benefit and participate in the costs of the sewer project.

The following organizations have supported council's application for sewer financing to Alta Vista: Whistler Mountain District Chamber of Commerce, Alta Lake District Ratepayers' Association, Whistler Development Association and Garibaldi Lifts Ltd.

The provincial government would not be required to put up any of the capital cost, as financing may be obtained from CMHC, the Municipal Finance Authority and chartered banks, plus impost fees on individual development projects. The province is merely being asked to extend to Whistler the normal assistance in annual debt retirement as is available to other municipalities under the Sewerage Facilities Assistance Act.

Because of the critical timing for construction of the first phase of the Whistler sewer project up to and including Alta Vista, Whistler council has resolved to proceed with the ordering of sewer treatment plant equipment knowing that council may be incurring the possible liability of $5,000 in the event that the order must be subsequently cancelled if the provincial approval of the borrowing from CMHC is not finally obtained.

With so much at stake, Mayor Pat Carleton and Ald. Garry Watson have been spending a great amount of their time in Victoria these past weeks meeting with deputy ministers and other officials, and they had the good fortune of meeting with Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis last Monday, although an appointment was not previously arranged. They both flew over to the island specifically to meet with one of Curtis' deputies, but said they were available if there was any chance of a meeting with him. A busy man these days, the secretary gave little hope of them meeting with Curtis without an appointment, but determined our mayor and alderman sat outside his office just in case! Good fortune was with them and Curtis did call them in and discussion of the sewer project took place for 1 1/2 hours. Another meeting is scheduled for this week. It is hoped that the situation of the sewer — to be or not to be — will be confirmed either way within the next two weeks.

At the regular meeting of the Resort Municipality of Whistler held March 26 correspondence from H. D. C. Hunter on behalf of Emerald Estates Ltd. which offered Lots 29, 53 and 19 of Block A, D.L. 3625, Plan 12812 to the municipality for dedicated parkland, was discussed. Council asked for the reactions and expectations of the neighbouring property owners before a decision would be made.

A letter from the Alta Lake District Ratepayers' Association outlined the ratepayers' limited support for the sewer system. Council requested that ALDRA directors write immediately to the minister of municipal affairs urging him to approve financing of the sewer system and acknowledge that it is the most important thing in the area now. In this regard, the Chamber of Commerce and Garibaldi Lifts would also be asked for support.

There was some discussion with director of the ratepayers' association Franz Carpay, present at the meeting, with the objective to isolate the sewer question, thus remove the confusion in Victoria between the town centre, sewer and community plan. Ald. Al Raine affirmed that the cost of the sewer would be less than $200 a year per single family unit and, the unserviced property would only bear the three mill rate.

Bylaw 14 "Sewer Construction Loan Authorization Bylaw" was given first of three readings. The amount of $12,919,237 was to be inserted in the recital as the estimated taxable assessment. It was moved that an immediate application to be made for the certificate of self-liquidation from the inspector of municipalities for the sewer system.

On the question of fire protection Ald. Bob Bishop suggested that the following items be done to help fire fighting in the municipality:

- (a.) Old logging roads be cleaned up;
  - (b.) Catchment basins be dug, at points where streams cross logging roads;
  - (c.) Individual house yards be cleaned to the base mineral soil to alleviate fire hazards;
  - (d.) Every house be required to have two outside hose bibs and one inside hose bib with hose attached.
- Under new business council endorsed Paul Burrows' plans for setting up an office for a proposed local newspaper and saw no objection to the use of his residence.

Ald. Raine presented a report on the stocking of fish in the Whistler lakes. This stated that Alta Lake had been stocked on several occasions between 1930 and 1950. This lake had maintained itself well and there was a reasonable supply at the present time. Alpha and Nita Lakes were stocked in 1973. Green Lake was a good producer, but the public was not aware of the good fishing available. Lost Lake had been stocked in the past, but not recently. At the present time there were no commitments for stocking at Whistler, but new considerations may be given after the new hatchery was operating this coming summer. The department expected to have two to four times the present supply for restocking programs.

On the question of the garbage dump Ald. John Hetherington suggested that council begin preparing to relocate the garbage dump. In this regard he suggested that a no-dumping bylaw to restrict random dumping of garbage be established, that the owners of original subdivisions be canvassed about placing large container garbage bins for every 20 homes, apply for the right to dump behind Malloch and Moseley property, confirm highway access and that conservation officer Bob Reynolds be contacted to consider live bear trapping.

Did you know you can actually damage the structure of the soil in your garden by working it before it's ready?

The eager gardener, itching to start digging as soon as the first clear spring day dawns, should use a time-tested method for determining the readiness of the soil for spading and planting.

The method for determining if the soil is ready, is simply to take a handful of soil and squeeze it into a ball. If it sticks like a mud ball, the ground is too wet and the gardener should wait until conditions are drier.

When a squeezed handful does not form a ball, but breaks apart into a soft, crumbly mass, it is ready for working.

The seminar is sponsored jointly by the B.C. Umpires Association, the B.C. Amateur Baseball Association and the B.C. Physical Fitness and Amateur Sports Fund. On their return, a "clinic" will be organized for all persons interested in officiating in baseball.

Soccer news

The Squamish Selects played the Lynn Valley Falcons last Saturday. The Lynn Valley team is a Premier League team, and lost 2-0 to the Selects.

Darryl Jesson and Ron Rosser were key players in moving the ball from deep in their half to help Lyle Stakowski score one of the goals. The other goal was scored by Dave Stewart from the "impossible angle". Jesson played one of his best yet games, and goalie Mark Burritt was exceptional. Keith Tetachuck is a new player with the team and he is doing very well.

The coaches feel that the great team spirit and effort displayed in this game and in others in the past should get the team the Centennial Cup on Saturday, April 10 at Norgate Park in North Vancouver. The kickoff is at 11 a.m., the players and coaching staff would like to see as many people as possible there.

The Squamish Selects team would like to thank Dan Moon for his hard work in getting enough field time for the team, this included moving goal posts from Centennial Field to the high school fields, and many other incidental chores.

The soccer dance was a great success. Many thanks go out to the coaching staff and others that helped out with the ticket sales, serving, and getting everything organized and ready.

Perennial Ryegrasses Aid For Quick Lawn Repair

Does your lawn show winter scars? If so, a seeding mixture containing one or more of the new turf-type perennial ryegrasses can repair it quickly. Perennial ryegrass not only sprouts very rapidly, but the seedlings are robust and make the turf look mature in short order. The other components of lawnseed mixtures come along more slowly, but in most cases will eventually provide the quality for which topnotch bluegrasses and fescues are noted.

Today's perennial ryegrasses — Derby, Manhattan, NK-200, Pennfine, Yorktown, etc. — are just as good looking as is bluegrass. They are dense, with delicate leaves, of elegant colouration.

Most lawn fertilizers require three to five pounds to the thousand square feet (follow bag directions) in order to supply about one pound of elemental nitrogen.

More than twice the percentage of the phosphorous and potassium combined. This is in contrast to garden fertilizers where all major nutrients are more nearly equal.

Golf, your game

By GARRY NICHOLSON
Teaching Pro
Lions Golf Centre

Garry Nicholson of the Lions Golf Centre, having completed his Golf - The Mind Game series, now begins a series of articles on the physical side of the game of golf. He feels that the material to be presented over the next several months in The Times will be sufficient to bring the over-eighty shooter down into the seventies.

The format that Mr. Nicholson has chosen for his series of articles is the same as the one you use on each hole on the golf course. He will start with the long game and finish with the short game. The first lesson concerns one of the cornerstones of a good golf swing, the grip.

THE GRIP

The most important thing in hitting any golf shot is the grip. You cannot swing a golf club correctly if you have a bad grip.

This is the easiest way to check if your grip is good or bad:

1. Get your driver and grip the club the way you normally grip it.
2. Stand in an open doorway and place the clubhead at the base of the door post.
3. Now press forward with your hands and see how much you can bend the shaft.

THE CORRECT GRIP (LEFT HAND)

Now grip the club in your left hand so that your thumb is slightly to the right of the centre of the shaft. The left-hand grip should be with both fingers and palm.

If you address the ball correctly with this grip you should not be able to see more than two knuckles on your left hand, as in figure 2.

You may read where some pros recommend that you have your left thumb right on top of the grip. There is nothing wrong with that grip. In fact, it may suit you better.

Here is a chart showing the good and bad points about using the grip I recommend and the grip with your left thumb on top of the shaft.

Excellent	Distance	Good
Less (until grip perfected)		Good
More chance	Slicing	Less chance
Less chance	Hooking	More chance
Closely parallel	(palm-club-face alignment)	Less parallel
Longer time	(Club-face square in hitting area)	Shorter time
Shorter	Swing length	Longer

Interested in offbeat vacation?

If you are interested in off-beat holidays, something with a different flavour, see Heb Bleuer, who is one of the guides at Whistler, for the helicopter skiing program.

Bleuer can offer interesting holidays in many areas, most of them skiing, both in Canada and outside the country as well.

Bleuer has a company called Canatrek, with head offices in Banff, Alta., and this is where arrangements for any of the trips mentioned below can be made.

The overseas ones include a hiking trip to the Bernese Oberland, the Italian Dolomites, and to the Cordillera Blanca in Peru. Climbers would enjoy a trip to Greenland and there is also a ski trip to the Bernese Oberland planned for May.

Another ambitious trip, but not outside the North American continent, is to Mount McKinley, North America's highest mountain.

But in the main part these trips will be in Canada, in British Columbia, the Rockies and the north. Contact them if you are looking for a vacation that is different but fascinating. During 1976, Canatrek Mountain Expeditions will be operated in many widespread and hard-to-reach places: Baffin Island, Mt. Logan, Klondike Trail, Canadian Rockies, Mt. Waddington, Queen Charlottes, Ellesmere Island, Kokanee Range, Bowron Lakes, Greenland, Italian Dolomites, Peru, Mt. McKinley and Switzerland.

Canatrek Mountain Expeditions Ltd. is the creation of four devoted and experienced mountain travellers and is designed to offer small-group excursions to the remote and little visited mountain corners of the world. Having twice organized hiking and climbing expeditions to Baffin Island, John Amatt and Herb Bleuer have joined together with Ken Baker and Al Tweter, who have for the past two summers been leading similar trips in the Canadian Rockies. Together for the first time, this team can offer a unique variety of mountain adventures around the world, based upon their own personal experience of many of the places to be visited.

Previous to their coming together to form Canatrek, the four had been involved in a wide variety of international climbing expeditions, ranging from the Andes to Alaska and from Norway to New Zealand.

During this period, they also developed qualifications which make them superbly equipped for leading hiking, climbing and skiing expeditions in remote places. Of the group, three are professional mountain guides, being members of the Association of Canadian Mountain Guides (ACMG) and Union Internationale des Associations des Guides de Montagne (UIAGM).

In addition, two are senior instructors and examiners of the Canadian Ski Instructors Alliance (CSIA), while one was until recently the national training officer of that organization. Finally one is an avalanche specialist and director of his own avalanche control company. Together they represent the social blend of background and experience required to make Canatrek one of the leaders in the field of mountain travel today.

All the trips are graded according to difficulty and required experience. The Queen Charlotte trip will follow an old pioneer trail, along sandy beaches and past Haida Indian villages. Driftwood campfires, beachcombing and a meal of fresh clams will all be a part of this experience. A second trip will attempt to rediscover a long forgotten Haida trail.

There will be two canoe trips to the Bowron Lakes Provincial Park, as well as others to take advantage of our wilderness rivers.

In the Kokanee Range, north of Nelson, there will be a memorable trip for antique collectors and photographers. Hiking from Kootenay Lake, past Kokanee Glacier to Slokan City — five long abandoned mines will be visited. A second trip will traverse the Purcell Mountains from Windermere Lake to Kootenay Lake, a 34-mile hike over the 7,500-foot Earl Grey Pass.

A back packing trip will be featured on Ellesmere Island with ample opportunity for easy hikes up local mountain peaks

In the Canadian Rockies there will be backpacking trips to Mount Assiniboine, to beautiful Maligne Lake and Lake Louise. Also there will be mountain climbing with attempts to visit the Bugaboos, Columbia Icefields and Lake Louise areas.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID KUHN

Kelowna wedding of interest here

Of interest to Squamish where the groom grew up, is the wedding in Kelowna March 6 of David Wayne Kuhn and Darlene Katherine Hayes.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes of Kelowna and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kuhn of Squamish.

Blue and coral flowers were used to decorate St. Paul's United Church and Rev. John Davidson heard the young couple exchange their vows and rings.

For her wedding the bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding dress, of floor length white satin, fitted at the waist and frills at each side. Her floor length veil fell from a crown headdress decorated with pearls and she carried a bouquet of white roses, coral carnations and lily of the valley. Her jewelry consisted of a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom and pearl earrings, a gift from her parents.

Mrs. Marg Bigatin as matron of honour and bridesmaids Irene Hayes, sister of the bride, and Glikeria Musy, cousin of the bride, were gowned alike in floor length coral dresses with a gathered empire bodice and square neck. They carried bouquets of white and coral carnations and lily of the valley. Tom Shields supported the groom and ushers were the groom's brother Ronald Kuhn and the bride's brother Gary Hayes.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Hayes chose a floor length gown of coral and green crepe, in A-line style with fitted waist and round neckline while Mrs. Kuhn chose a double knit gown in salmon pink and navy blue, floor length and with a round neckline for her son's wedding.

A reception at the Weninger Post House in Kelowna followed the ceremony with Peter Musy, uncle of the bride, acting as master of ceremonies, and her father proposed the toast to the bride.

Before leaving for their honeymoon in Cranbrook and the East Kootenays, the bride donned a brown knit dress, accented with red and white, with a white rose and coral carnation corsage.

The young people will live in Squamish.

Out of town guests included the bride's grandmother Mrs. Nellie Ozipko; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kuhn and Vernon of Squamish; Gary and Darryl Hayes and Barbara Baker, Vancouver; Gordon Crane, Bob Blomster, Colleen Morgan, Lisa Rafn and Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Zorn, all of Squamish; Mr. and Mrs. P. Musy, Steveston; Jean Skyrianos and Glikeria Musy, Alta Lake; Tom Shields, North Vancouver; Eric Butler, Port Alice; Isabelle Oberle, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. W. Smit, Lumby; and Mr. and Mrs. M. Grebinski, Winfield.

Sawdust and Shavings

That picture last week brought back memories to a number of people. Dot Chapman phoned to say it was the cast of a play which she believed was called "Here Comes Charlie" presented by a group of young people. She said the picture was taken on the stage of the Starlite Theatre, known in those days as the Rex, and the cast later had a party in the Parish Hall, now the Squamish Floor Coverings building.

Now if somebody could just tell us who the one person she didn't know is!

Congratulations to Wally Clausen, winner of the April rotary Charities draw. Incidentally Wally's ticket was drawn by Ed Shreck who was visiting Squamish that day and the first person he met was Wally. Maybe it pays to be nice to newcomers!

Candidates for Good Joes of the year will be the SMT Coach Lines if the rate request they have presented to the commission goes through. They have asked for permission to carry senior citizens at half fare, effective May 1.

Mind you this has not yet been granted but they are hoping it will be.

The high school students visiting France are apparently having a ball. A card from teacher Marjorie Meredith last week said they had visited Mont St. Michel and were very much impressed with its narrow streets, cobblestones and the magnificent abbey crowning the island. They were welcomed in St. Brieuc, Brittany, by their French families in the warmest fashion and are finding the trip a very rich experience.

They were leaving later in the week for Paris and sent their best wishes to everyone in Squamish who had helped them and wished them well. Sounds like Les Colombiens are having a ball and will have lots to talk about when they get back to Squamish.

Marg Candy said a highlight of their holiday in Hawaii was the meeting with Eddie Kekaula who had appeared earlier this year at the high school. The girls were delighted to see him again and they went to one of his shows. They also met Kay Carlson while they were there and Eddie said Kay's daughter is his Canadian agent.

During the performance he asked how many people in the audience came from B.C. and then how many came from Squamish!

Congratulations to Peter McKay who is celebrating his fourth anniversary of business in Squamish. Bet Peter didn't think he'd ever do as well as he has but he's marked the beginning of his fifth year with an expansion into the body shop business.

We're looking forward to seeing even more startling growth in the next four years!

And Pat Brennan recently had some pretty sensational success with his trotters out at the Cloverdale race tracks with three wins in five races on the last weekend in March.

Winning with Pat were Andy's Wayne, Hanrahan and Senga Leo.

Congratulations to Don and Carol Hobbs, Jack Osterberg and Jeanette Thompson, who won the inter-branch Dairyland curling competition recently.

Note to gardeners — and others. According to Joanne Wilson in B.C.'s Western Living magazine you can mix up your own topsoil and this is her guaranteed recipe. Take 1/2 part sand, 1/2 part rotted leaves (hopefully you saved some from last fall) mixed with sludge from the Iona treatment plants. If you don't know what they are, the Iona treatment plants are sewage treatment plants and the sludge she is talking about is sewage sludge. She adds that the sludge (don't laugh) is free and available at the plant. Call 261-6321 for information and directions.

A small town is usually divided by a railway, a main street, two churches and lots of opinions.

Jobies attend Grand Session

Eight members of Bethel No. 45 of the International Order of Job's Daughters attended the Grand Session held in Victoria April 1 to 4.

Two chaperones accompanied the girls on their trip to the capital city. They stayed at the Empress Hotel for the session and there were over 900 girls at the hotel while the remainder of them were scattered throughout other hotels in the city.

One of the highlights of the four-day session was tea at Government House with Lieut.-Gov. and Mrs. Walter Owen.

Honoured Queen Erin Hoy of the Squamish Bethel was chosen as one of the escorts to bring in the Grand Guide while Toni Mitchell also participated in the escort lineup. All the chaplains including Brenda Jerwa, took part in the formal opening ceremonies and Shelley Toth as marshal was in their portion of the ceremonies.

Attending from Squamish were Honoured Queen Erin Hoy, Junior Princess Toni Mitchell, Guide Joani Cassell, Chaplain Brenda Jerwa, Marshall Shelley Toth, Outer Guard Heather Brygadyr and Messengers Susie Goodall and Tanya Zacharias.

Mrs. Brygadyr and Mrs. Hoy accompanied the girls and acted as their chaperones.

Remember the Auction Sale

Surely you haven't forgotten that the United Church Rummage Sale will be held in the annex this coming Saturday, April 10, beginning at 11 a.m.

Just to make certain that there will be a good supply of items for sale, those with articles to contribute are asked to be sure to get them "to the church on time". If pickup service is needed call Thor Halvorson (892-5097) or Norman Halvorson (898-3158) and your articles will be picked up.

It was noted that in last week's church bulletin the sale was referred to as an "Action Sale". Perhaps the description was not wrong; given a good assortment of items, eager buyers and good auctioneers there is certain to be a lot of action.

And just to keep up

PERSALL OF TO NEW YORK CONFERENCE

Coast Chilcotin MP Jack Pearsall was sent to New York April 5 to represent Canada at the United Nations Law of the Sea Conference sessions currently being held there.

A key issue before the conference is the proposed 200-mile limit for Canada's offshore fishery rights.

Pearsall, a strong proponent of the 200-mile limit, will take a hard position for Canada during the discussions.

Council Briefs

An application from B.C. Hydro to put a pole line along Highway 99 between Cleveland Avenue and the Manquam bridge was turned down because council felt that it did not want to see power lines along this main highway.

A letter from W. V. Manson asking that the District of Squamish co-operate in the upgrading of the green belt area in the vicinity of the apartments on Wilson Crescent was forwarded to the owners of the property.

Manson was referring to the large apartment complex which had been built across the way from the property on Buckley Avenue, west of the original apartments in the area.

Following the report of the engineers on the rock structure in the Northridge area, council decided to apply for the necessary land to construct a water reservoir in Northridge.

Council also decided to send Staff Sgt. W. Bloxham's report to Mr. Goode and suggest that B.C. Hydro be requested to review the street lighting in the area in the vicinity of Highlands Mall.

Musical 'Godspel' comes to Squamish

By RUTH MACKIE

A Godsend is coming to Squamish United Church. The hit musical "Godspell" which has thrilled audiences in such big cities as New York, Chicago, Montreal and Toronto, is now being presented to the residents of Squamish by a local theatrical group associated with the West Vancouver United Church April 11 at 7 p.m. in the Christian Education Centre.

This highly imaginative musical is based on the gospel according to St. Matthew and draws on the Bible's parables and the life of Christ as the context for this genuinely joyous celebration of life and love and laughter in song and dance.

"Godspell" is primarily a rock musical and the music gives much of the vitality. The airs are catchy and gentle enough to be acceptable to most anti-rock adults with each song "Day by Day", "Save the People" and "Light the World" being more dazzling than the others. They are all equally beautiful and they all work within the context and framework of the show.

A bouquet to West Vancouver United Church for making it possible for Squamish residents to enjoy this brilliant theatrical performance.

The full cast and production staff are from the North Shore — some names you will recognize immediately and others you will be hearing a lot about in the future. This interpretation of the exuberant musical is under the capable direction of Michael Foster as well as: Paul McKinnon, production; Jean Minielly, music; piano, Elinor McLean and Marilyn Bennett; orchestra, Victor Inman; costume, Heather Roberts; lighting, Dave Roberts.

Cast includes Ward Minielly, Terri Taylor, Diana Kershaw, Doreen Oliver, Ruth Eilers, Amanda Hardman, Janie Kerr, Annette-Petersen, Ellen Burnett, Kellie Burnett, Wendy Wilkins, Margaret Oliver, Lean McLean, Doug Pinkerton, Andy Wheatley, Ian Brown, John Payne, Rory Holland, Stephen Oliver and John Mann.

They are all very young, very fresh, very enthusiastic and very talented. Go see it! There will be no formal admission but you'll want to give something to the silver collection and we can practically guarantee you'll love the show! Cast a spell on your calendar now — April 11 — it shouldn't take a miracle to remember!

Take a step in the right direction. Take a few.
