The Orangatang from the Gulf Yacht Club beats for the finish line in the Squamish Open Annual Regatta (SOAR) which was held Saturday.

The spinnaker fills with wind on the Australian designed Farr keelboat as it rounds the half-way mark at Defence Island.

CLIMBER KILLED ON WEDGE

Darlene Wright, 31, of North Vancouver was killed Sunday, August 10, when she fell 500 feet while climbing the Wedge, located in Whistler.

Wright and her partner, Brian Prentice, 33, also of North Vancouver, were both experienced climbers.

However, Wright was leading and she had never done this before. The climbers were close to the peak, on the north glacial face, when Wright fell. They were tied together and Prentice tried to break the fall but he also slipped and fell.

He was knocked unconscious for approximately two hours. Prentice arrived in Whistler Monday afternoon to get help. Wright's body was removed from the mountain Monday night.

Prentice was taken to Squamish General Hospital by ambulance where he was treated for bruises, lacerations and shock.

This is the second death on the mountain this year.

Orangatang takes SOAR '80 trophy

Skipper Doug Neal and the crew of the Orangatang took first prize and the trophy, donated by Stewart's United Pharmacy, for the combined class A and B keel boats in SOAR August 16. The Orangatang, from the Gulf Yacht Club, sailed the 21-mile course in 178:42.

Second place went to Tooth and Nail and skipper Ron Martin from Tiddley Cove with a time of 179:26 and third place went to Third Witch, and skipper Tim Knight of Eagle Harbor with 180:59.

In the combined class C and D event, skipper Alan Crowe and Demara from Tiddley Cove took first place and the trophy donated by R.S. Bishop Realty with a time of 170:38.

Second place went to the Deep Cove entry of Quik Trik and Marve Ferg with 193:35 and third place was won by Bluebeard and R. Mills from Gibsons with 222:16.

In the dinghies division, Weiger Oord of Squamish sailed the locally designed and built Wineglass to first place and the Squamish Mills trophy with a time of 184:13.9.

In second place was Wilhelm Schulte of Squamish and his Wineglass dinghy with a time of 198:19.2 and Gary Cotter came third in his Laser with a time of 199:01.1.

Cotter had difficulty near the finish line when his boat capsized. However, he managed to right it and continued towards the finish.

There was only one entry in the catamaran division and the FMC trophy went to Bernard Leroux from the Jericho Sailing Club, Hobby Fleet 214 with a time of 196:28.

A special "guts of the day" presentation of a SOAR hat was made to Don Lang who attempted to finish the race with a broken mainsheet and broken rigging on his Laser. He navigated the finish course twice, but could not control the boat to cross the line. He was finally towed in by one of the rescue boats.

Twenty-three keel boats, seven dinghies and one catamaran from the Gulf Yacht Club, Eagle Harbor, Gibsons, Deep Cove, Tiddley Cove and Squamish entered the first Squamish Open Annual Regatta (SOAR).

The boats tacked down the Sound from the starting line just off Watt's Point and then ran back to the finish line behind the point.

The course was approximately 21 miles and the race lasted six hours.

Cheekye clearing

B.C. Hydro is currently clearing land across from the substation in Cheekye for the Cheekye-Dunsmuir 500 Kv station.

Land is also being cleared for the line that will be constructed to Sechelt.

Fires under control

All the fires in the district are under control and the fire hazard is down to high due to cool weather the area has been experiencing this week.

Forest ranger Larry Elchuk said the fire potential is still there however, and urged people to exercise caution when they are in the woods.

The forest service is currently patrolling half a dozen fires he said, but "everything seems fairly quiet for the time being."

Will not pay for dyke, services

Council will reaffirm its position with the ministry of lands, parks and housing that the municipality does not intend to become involved with developing dyking, roads or other services at the proposed hospital site.

At a hospital site meeting Thursday, July 31, hospital board chairman Peter Gordon suggested money be placed in a fund to pay for the dyking that is required by the Crippen Report and for the roads that should be built at some future date. The money will be paid for from those purchasing the Crown land in this area.

In a letter dated July 17 to Gordon, Ray Skelly, manager of housing and development, suggested it would be "prudent for the municipality to commit a time frame for the construction of such dyking and to arrange appropriate financing, including a pro-rated share attributable to the subject site."

Skelly advised the cost per acre figure of $8,365 is to pay for the past project costs and has not taken into consideration any future development costs. The costs taken into consideration are the existing storm drain, Ross Road development and the existing water tank and water main. The lands department will not perform the function of a developer and has no desire to construct roads or supply other services to Crown land in the area, he said.

Gordon suggested the municipality, lands department and the department of health contribute towards a fund for the dyke construction, which is estimated at approximately $300,000 by the Crippen report.

He said the municipality would receive the benefit of the contribution because of the added protection to the airport, cemetery and water tower. The lands department would receive protection to Crown land in the area, which would be of some benefit in the cost derived from the sale of the lands protected by the dyke.

The hospital board has established a time frame of approximately two years of constructing the dyke, road and hospital.

Administrator Chuck Schattenkirk suggested the east leg of Ross Road connecting up to Highway 99 has to be built and a time frame and cost for this project should be established.

Schattenkirk also advised the members at the meeting that although the official community plan is not in place yet, the municipality expects it to be in effect by this time next year.

Once the plan is in effect, the development cost provided for in the Municipal Act, could be relied on for recouping the cost of the $300,000 dyke.

Skelly said it was possible the lands department could provide a $600,000 loan to cover the cost of the $300,000 dyking and approximately $300,000 for the east extension of Ross Road to Highway 99.

It was also suggested the department of health pay $200,000 because it would be receiving two-thirds of the benefit from the dyke. The remaining $100,000 would be divided equally between municipal funds and future development costs. An examination could possibly be made to determine if the revenue cost-sharing program under the control of the department of highways would provide a 50-50 cost on the $300,000 road extension, providing it is covered by a grid system. The recouping of the remaining $150,000 would have to be examined and the cost-sharing formula determined at a later date.

The hospital off-site drainage situation was dealt with, but a cost could not be determined at the time.

Consultant J.L. Northey suggested the existing large drain pipe now on site in the Tantalus development area could be contributed to the project of off-site drainage, providing the municipality accepts the cost of placing the pipe in the ground. However, this could raise some problems due to the department of fisheries restrictions placed on Judd Slough for the salmonid programs. The drain pipe would empty into the slough.

At the council meeting Tuesday, Aug. 12, Ald. Norm Barr commented council was "being railroaded by these people."

He said the hospital board has the responsibility of satisfying the requirements of the Crippen report.

Ald. Egon Tobus pointed out the $600,000 does not encompass the off-site drainage problem.

Ald. Barr moved council reaffirm its position of not becoming involved in providing any services to the site and accept the minutes of the July 31 meeting.

The motion was passed unanimously by Ald. Jim Elliott, Ald. Barr and Ald. Tobus. Ald. Street, Ald. W.H.R.B. Barr and Mayor Boscarol were not present. Ald. L.C. Kindree was acting mayor.

Driver charged

A vehicle, driven by Thomas Wayne Lee, 26 of Surrey, was stopped during a routine check by RCMP on August 13 at 1:00 a.m.

Lee was arrested for impaired driving and also charged with failing to provide a breath sample, possession of a stolen vehicle and two stolen licence plates. The vehicle was stolen from Surrey.

The case is still under investigation. Lee appeared before Judge Ian Walker early this week.

TOM GOODE NEW DISTRICT SUPER

Tom Goode will replace school superintendent Gene Maglio who is retiring after six years of service to the school district.

Goode was formerly a district superintendent in the Arrow Lakes school district 10 for two years, a director in Castlegar district 9 for one year and a supervisor in the same district for two years.

He has taught geography, zoology, social studies and English in Kelowna, Port Alberni, Duncan and Nanaimo, where he started his teaching career in 1955.

He also did a two-year overseas stint in the 2 Wing RCAF from 1962 to 1964.

Goode and his wife Marlene have moved into Squamish and are "enjoying part of our holidays in beautiful Squamish."

He said he is very pleased with the district and is looking forward to catching a few fish "if we are lucky."

Piping competition winners

The piping competition, with six pipers competing in the second annual Open Pibaireachd competition held in the Civic Centre on Sunday, Aug. 17, was won by Jack Lee, who played MacCrimmon's Sweetheart.

In second place was Hal Senyle who played the same number with John A. MacLeod playing the King's Taxes, in third place.

Other competitors were Byron Barnard of Victoria and Jill Lawrie, who played the Flame of Wrath, and Peter Aumonier of Victoria, who also played the King's Taxes.

Ian Walker of the Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band, who acted as master of ceremonies for the event, said each of the contestants was asked to submit the titles of four numbers and then they chose the piece to play from the names of the tunes submitted.

Judging the event was William Connell, a former open pibaireachd champion in Scotland, now living in London, Ont., who was teaching at the piping school held at Paradise Valley last week.

He told the audience assembled in the hall at the close of the competitions that he was impressed with the work of the open players and added the standard of their instruments was excellent.

He also commented on the excellence of the young competitors who had performed earlier in the amateur march, strathspey and reel, which was won by Andrew Bonar who received the cup presented by Brig. Gen. Douglas Anderson, formerly of the Seaforth Highlanders and commanding officer in the Pacific Militia Area, who is now retired.

Other winners in this event were Sharon MacKinnon, Norman Norcross and Debbie Kisbey.

Pipe Major James Watt, who is conducting the Western Academy of Pipe Music presented the awards to the two top winners in the pibaireachd competition with John Thompson, a past member of the Irish Fusiliers presenting the prize to MacLeod.

Watt said the school would continue this week with a drummer's school and a number of drummers have been enrolled in the program.

The piping competition and the school will be an annual affair and Watt said he hoped it would one day be as well known as those in other areas.

The day's events were formally opened by Mayor L.L. Boscarol who welcomed the competitors and visitors to Squamish.

Emergency plan to revamp apprenticeship training

A $14.4 million wage-assistance program to overcome severe skill, manpower shortages in British Columbia, by increasing the enrolment of apprentices, will be initiated September 1, Labor Minister Jack Heinrich announced recently.

Under the program, the ministry of labour will provide a wage incentive of up to $2.50 an hour for 1,400 new apprentices in seven industrial trades most seriously affected by skilled manpower shortages.

BCR has already initiated an apprenticeship program which is separate from the provincial program.

"The new training program addresses directly the central problem facing us," said Heinrich, "namely, the unwillingness of many employers to undertake the expense of training apprentices who may subsequently be pirated by other employers unwilling to train their own people. By providing an incentive directly to the training employer, the ministry of labour is effectively sharing this cost with responsible employers."

Funding will be paid so employers as direct wage assistance, in exchange for incremental increases in the enrolment of apprenticeship trainees in seven critical trade areas — machinists, electronic technicians, instrumentation mechanics, industrial electricians, millwrights, heavy-duty mechanics, and diesel mechanics. These funds will assist employers by partially offsetting their on-the-job training costs, which are especially heavy during the first two years.

The new program and other changes still in the planning stage are the result of a study of skilled manpower shortages conducted in 1979 by the ministry of labour for the province's occupational training council. Heinrich agreed there are shortages in other trades, and he stated that this problem would be dealt with on an ongoing, long-range basis, once the immediate shortages are resolved.

The wage assistance for new apprentices indentured under the program will be applied in the following manner. One to six months, 60 per cent of wages up to $2.50 an hour; seven to 12 months, 50 per cent of wages up to $2.50 an hour; 13 to 18 months, 40 per cent of wages up to $2.50 an hour and 19 to 24 months, 25 per cent of wages up to $2.50 an hour. The final subsidy payment date is December 31, 1982.

Other complementary elements of the program that are proceeding in tandem with direct wage assistance are:

Up to $100,000 will be provided in the first year to upgrade the skills of tradesmen who require retraining because of technological change.

Immigration of tradesmen will be closely monitored, and recruitment by this means permitted only in cases of exceptional need.

Employers will be encouraged to set up employer-employee training committees.

Ways and means of increasing the number of women in the skilled trades areas will be explored.

Methods of encouraging apprenticeship training for native Indians will be examined.

Long-range planning to maintain adequate future training of skilled tradesmen will be undertaken.

The barriers to entry into apprenticeship by the handicapped and the socially disadvantaged will be examined with a view to their removal.

Heinrich emphasized the present shortage of skilled tradesmen constitutes an emergency, and that the wage assistance program is a temporary measure to alleviate the situation.

"The long-range solution to our skilled manpower problems lies not in special assistance programs," he said, "but with the mature acceptance by employers, unions and government of their respective training responsibilities. The future skilled manpower needs of our province will be adequately met only if we jointly accept those responsibilities."

Court News

Peter Marlow of Squamish appeared before Judge Ian Walker August 11 and was convicted of assaulting a peace officer. Marlow received a six-month suspended sentence with supervised probation and conditions.

Peter Rykers was fined $500, in default 30 days, for public mischief. Rykers was charged with intoxication and later charged the officer with theft. However, Rykers had hidden the money on his body. He also received one year supervised probation with conditions.

Nicholas Arnold was fined $300, in default 30 days, and received six months unsupervised probation for theft over $200.

Kurt Gillingham and James Julien were both fined $25 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Stan Clarke, who celebrated his 97th birthday on Sunday, Aug. 10, still finds time to enjoy his daily paper and get a chuckle out of the news. Sometimes he shakes his head at it as well but he is still able to react with interest.

Two accidents last week

A vehicle driven by Dwayne McCartney of Squamish received $3,000 damage to the front end when it hit a train at the Government Road crossing near Spiral trailer court, August 9.

McCartney was parked at the crossing, when his car jumped into gear. He was not injured.

Heinrich Duffield of Williams Lake was charged with driving without due care and attention following an accident on Highway 99 near Alice Lake August 9.

Duffield was southbound on the highway when he fell asleep at the wheel and went into the right side ditch. His pick up received $7,000 damage.

Is somebody listening?

TRANSPORT 2000, a citizen's group concerned with transport, especially the betterment of passenger trains in the province, has some suggestions for the improvement of the B.C. Rail service to British Columbia.

They are worth noting and while we don't support all of them, we do think it would be a good idea if someone out there listened to some of the suggestions which the group has to offer.

They state that, despite its shortcomings the train is very pleasant to ride, as over 70,000 people a year who use the train, indicate. They continue to ride it despite the fact the railway doesn't seem to care too much about its passengers.

TRANSPORT 2000's suggestions include:

- Advertising of its passenger service.
- Special ski trains to Whistler.
- A station at the North Vancouver Seabus terminal.

- Replacement of the equipment which is now over 25 years old.
- Service through to Dawson Creek, Fort St. John and Fort Nelson.

- Sleeping and dining service to Prince George and north.

- Connections with the VIA trains in Prince George.

- The service to operate under contract to VIA Rail or others.

- Dome car service on the breathtakingly beautiful scenic route to Lillooet.

- The start of a land ferry service for motorists on their way north.

- The start of a commuter service.

- Daily operation to Clinton rather than Lillooet, thus enabling bus connections to Kamloops and Prince George when the train does not continue northward. (They would rather see daily service to the Prince George region.)

- A stop at Horseshoe Bay to allow for Island connections.

- The use of a train to develop Cariboo and Central Interior tourism.

If someone is listening maybe some of these suggestions could be implemented to improve tourism and to increase revenues on the railway.

Two weeks of summer heat and already some of us are wondering if we are ever going to feel good again. But there is something about summer heat on the B.C. coast that just doesn't seem right. Either we aren't really geared for it because we have webbed feet and the lack of moisture is debilitating, or else we just can't survive the sunshine.

But last week after more than a week of sun and above average temperatures, the forests closed and we had a number of fires caused by the lightning strikes in the area on Monday. The sheet lightning on Monday night was magnificent. I was coming home about ten p.m. and the eastern sky above the Mamquam Glacier was lit up with the sheets of light.

Was planning to stay awake and watch the Perseids shower that evening but went to sleep before midnight and they said the best show was going to be after that. So I guess I missed it.

August must be a very popular month for holidaying. Two weeks ago there were lineups almost as far back as the overpass to howe Soundings

Cypress Estates for cars heading for the Island and on Monday of last week when we came home at 4:30 it was almost as bad. I'm sure that anyone who waited in that lineup must have waited for at least three or four sailings and people with campers would find it even worse as they can only be placed in certain areas on the ferries.

But rest assured. By Saturday there will be rain as the PNE starts on Saturday and it is almost axiomatic that it has to rain for the PNE!

Another sure sign of the ending of summer is the turning of the maple leaves. Along the straight stretch north of Squamish you can see maple trees already showing the red and brown of the fall coloring which will intensify as fall draws near. We've also noticed masses of goldenrod along the highway interspersed with the pearly everlasting and the yarrow while the sedum is still blooming on the cliffs above the coastal highway.

The fall asters or purple asters if that's what you like to call them should soon be blooming too. I can remember some magnificent clumps of them along the highway to Whistler near Widow Creek.

Noticed that the crabapple cross on the riverbank near the house is full of fruit. These are not quite as large as tame crabapples but much bigger than the wild ones and grow in clusters like the wild ones. In the front forty the heather is starting to bloom. This always amazes me. When we had the rock garden years ago the heather had to be carefully nurtured to keep it growing and blooming.

Then they moved the house and bulldozed out the rockeries and guess what? You're right. Two years later the heather was growing up all through the front forty and now there are plants a foot and a half high and three feet in circumference just loaded with blossoms.

I keep them well clipped and cut and they bloom beautifully but it just goes to prove that you don't have to take care and cultivate your plants to have a beautiful crop of heather.

Was rather appalled to discover in an item in the city paper recently that despite all the efforts made to improve the status of women, it has been steadily deteriorating during the past few years. Dr. Geraldine Farmer, who recently returned from a United Nations conference on the decade of women said "women today are worse off than they were five years ago."

Even Canadian women, far removed from the destitution of the Third World, face "inadequate enforcement" of existing sex discrimination laws, said Farmer, adding women don't necessarily progress with the economy.

She said women receive only 10 percent of the world's income and own less than one percent of its property. Illiteracy among women, inequality in the job market and loss of jobs through technological change are also on the rise, she said.

The 17 day conference was meant to reaffirm women's common goals, including the need for solidarity to change the present male-dominated status quo.

A few years ago it appeared that women were beginning to come closer to parity with men on the wage scale but recent reports indicate that women are falling behind in the race for wages. A man with equivalent skills will earn up to twice as much as a woman in the same job and with the same or even better qualifications.

His wage increases at an appreciable rate along with his responsibilities while hers is likely to be left in the position where she gets fewer and less frequent raises and much less responsibility.

In many cases there are women who are continually passed over when it comes to senior positions in a firm with the men getting the jobs even though they may be no more qualified.

No matter what they say, it is still a man's world, and despite efforts being made by women to change it, one wonders whether there ever will be equality of opportunity.

Why not big brother?

We are rather surprised at the statement made by the Alberta judge who ruled against helmets for motorcyclists by calling it "big brother legislation."

Frankly, we don't know what he is getting at.

The legislation is aimed at saving lives and as it has been proved that helmets can prevent serious injury or even death in a motorcycle accident, we feel this is similar to the seat belt legislation which is compulsory in British Columbia.

Surely that is also aimed at saving lives and at protecting one in case of an accident.

Yet we have never heard anyone refer to it as a piece of "big brother" legislation. So what is the problem with the motorcyclist's helmets which is the same thing?

If it is all right to legislate for the safety of motor car drivers by commending and insisting it be compulsory to wear a seat belt, what's wrong with making it compulsory to wear a helmet?

Big brother it may be, but the aim is the same, to save lives, and if it works for one, why not for the other?

Take care - fire hazards high

Everyone is welcoming the hot weather we now are experiencing.

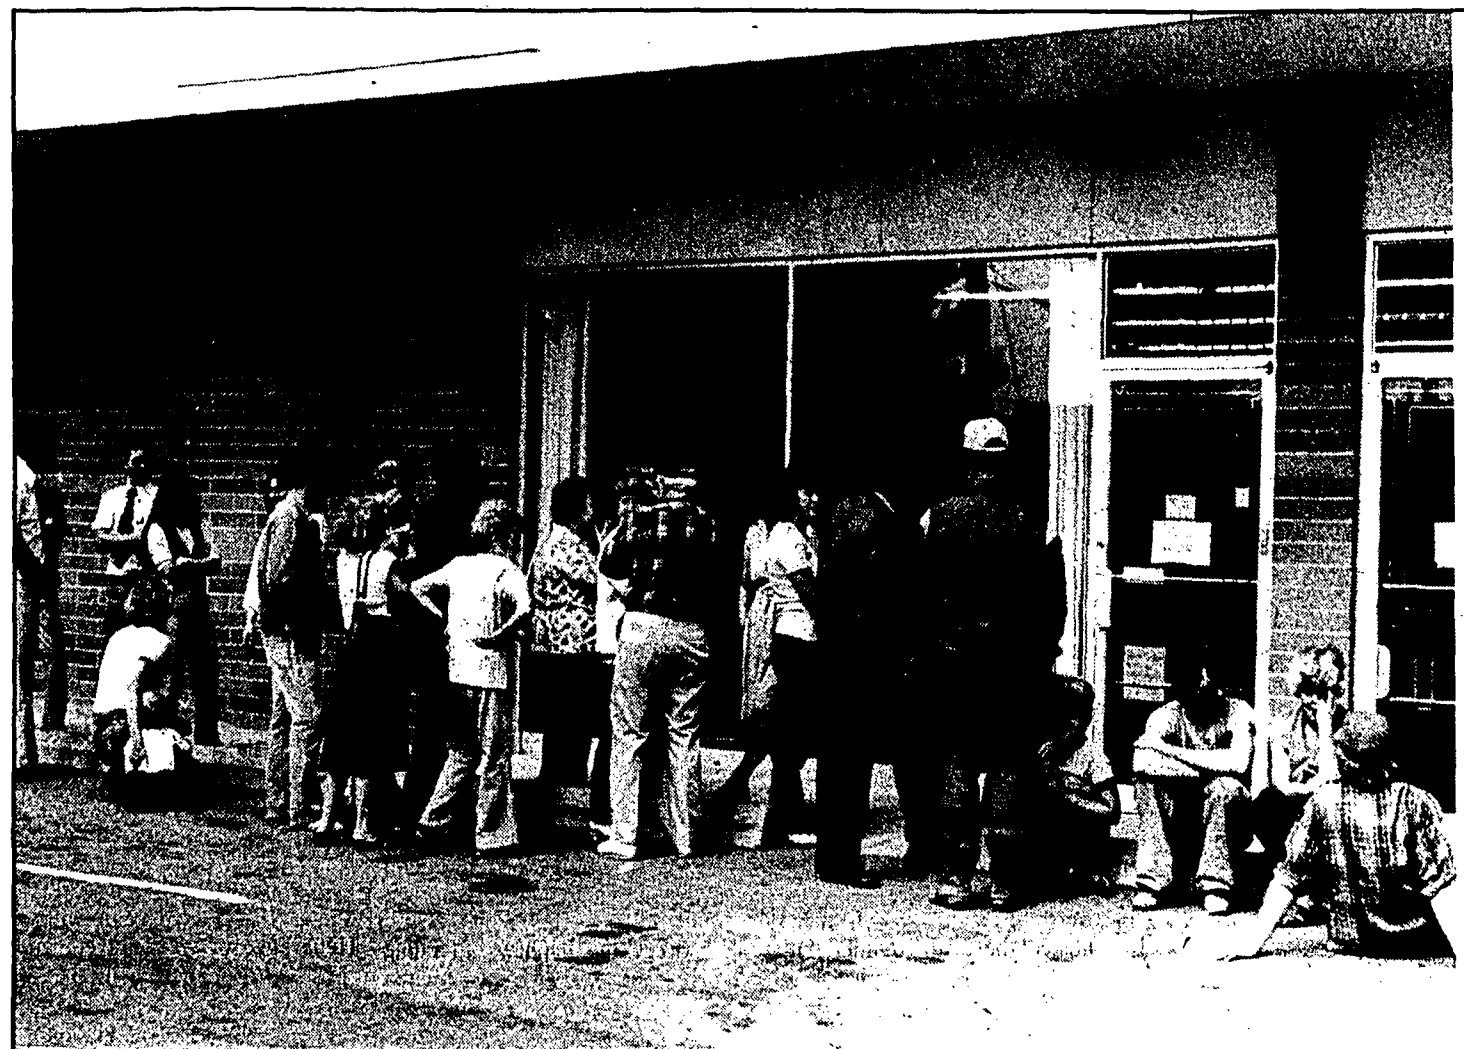

It certainly is a nice change from the dull, overcast stuff we had for so long.

However, if the nice weather continues for several days, the forests will dry out and the possibility of a forest fire become greater. The fire hazard rating jumps from moderate to high.

With this in mind, we urge campers to be careful and use common sense with their fires and make sure they are out when they leave.

Also, if you smoke, take particular care with matches.

With forest fires raging in other parts of the country, threatening lives and property and gobbling up acres of valuable forest, we should consider ourselves fortunate that no serious fires have started here.

When word gets out that there's beer in town, a line-up a block long seems to materialize immediately. But don't get your hopes up too soon. Somebody in the know predicts the beer strike will last until Christmas.

Why kill, why die

Pride and nationalism often cause us to inflict cruel and inhuman misery upon our fellow beings. It is less complex to look back into our history, to better understand ourselves today.

It could be any nation's past, but Scotland, for instance, creates an example.

The stone is passed upon the blade, to create the razored edge. Low voices amongst the men, signal their uneasy way.

Intent, they hone the instrument of their fate.

A flash of steel at still grass, proves the worth of blade.

Pipe's wail, calls together an assembly of solemn faces.

Nothing new, the death and agony that awaits.

Crossed swords gleam in torch light. A young girl stands, eyes lowered, unnoticed for a time.

Swollen bags pressed, create the notes. She stirs, hands on hips, chin uplifted.

Her smile forms a thousand images.

Tender flesh of toy feet, stab within inches of steel.

One so slight, tender and lithe, to show, such courage. Her passionate eyes touch each man, as she floats about the ring. Thrust of thighs and curve of calves, excite these desperate men.

Craven flesh to flash of steel, something to justify the deed. If death descends, it's for her they die, in tomorrow's battle.

She has been used, for this night they dream, of mother, daughter and lover.

With reason and great courage, they may slay other men. But dead and dying armies, cast curses upon the field.

What honour is in death, for those dead.

And yet, today, a head snaps erect.

to the sound of Pipes or National Anthem.

Policy of open visiting hours at Squamish General Hospital, instituted in 1958, came up for review at the last meeting of the board. It was disclosed that though co-operation given to nurses by visitors has been generally excellent, there have been objections raised which are embarrassing to the nurse and to the patient, and could adversely effect the patients condition.

Visitors are asked to leave the room so treatments can be given to patients in private.

WONDERREADING by ALEX

Marcia Davenport's "Too Strong for Fantasy" (Avon, paperback, 1979), is the sort of autobiography which all those people who write about themselves should study. The central character is definitely Davenport herself, but there is little indulgence in self-examination or other types of psychological therapy which seem to pervade the self-told stories of less worthy personalities. Davenport presents herself as merely the thread that ties together personal studies of the greats of the early part of this century with whom she came into contact. And what a list of greats it is.

The author's own mother was Alma Gluck, the great American soprano of fifty years ago who, in a ten-year career made herself so well known across the country that her records are still considered collectors' items sought out not only by musicians, but by those ordinary people whose parents or grandparents have kept her name alive in American households. It seems that Madame Gluck, in demand though she was by the major opera companies, found her greatest satisfaction in singing in small halls in communities throughout the country where the famous were seldom heard.

When, at the birth of her son, her sense of duty as a mother conflicted with her loyalty to the backwoods public which had looked forward to her annual concerts, she compromised. She rented several railway cars in which to carry her whole household so that she could give her concerts, nurse her baby, and be both mother and artist. According to her daughter the mobile home idea proved a financial disaster, and a strain on the health and voice of the artist from which she never fully recovered. She retired shortly afterwards still in her early forties.

The baby in this case was Efrem Zimbalist, Jr., one of the few connections the public has today with that great artist of the past.

Then there was another great musician, Arruaro Toscanini, the brilliant Italian conductor. Though an admirer of Gluck, Toscanini was inclined, at his introduction, to brush off 17-year-old daughter, Marcia, as not worthy even of polite conversation. Yet, as they both grew older, Maestro, as he was known, became one of Davenport's most intimate friends. When she was passing through emotional problems in her later life, Toscanini frequently made up his symphony programmes to include compositions which he knew brought her comfort. Anniversaries were noted in this way, too, although no word about the matter ever passed between them.

Appearing in the book also is the great political figure Jan Masaryk, the Czechoslovakian patriot who fought valiantly to save his country, first from the Nazis and then from the communists. He was unsuccessful in both cases and it is only in her discussions of this aspect of world history that Davenport departs occasionally from the high level of objectivity which marks her approach to the rest of the book.

She manages with admirable restraint and critical judgment to indicate that both Britain and the United States were more selfish than friendly in their dealings with Czechoslovakia. But her references to both Nazi and Communist conquerors of the country for which she had so much affection were less than grand. "Hoodlums", "jackals" and similar words of little imagination and overstated scorn, pop up regularly in this section of her narrative, they are the more noticeable in view of the very high level of vocabulary on which she draws everywhere else in the story. And they are in marked contrast with the description of her life as Masaryk's intimate friend during the few weeks in Prague before his sudden death which political opponents officially dubbed suicide. That part of the story is emotionally moving, politically revealing, and told without a trace of pathos.

Davenport's husband for many years was Russell Davenport, one of the senior editors of Fortune magazine, and one of the architects of the political organization that pressed the Republican party into selecting Wendell Willkie as its presidential candidate. Willkie lost to Roosevelt, but he continued as a friend of the Davenports for the rest of his life.

The description of the rush and tumble of a nominating convention where a group of zealots are able to defeat the traditionalists in the process of choosing a presidential nominee could well be a preview of America's political manoeuvrings of the 1980's. Mrs. Davenport obviously played a large part in the convention, but she puts the emphasis on everyone else. Modest and self-effacing though she appears to be, it becomes clear throughout the book that she was the driving force behind whatever project she threw herself into whether it was political, literary or musical.

She had no need to be modest about her writing. There is no indication that she ever composed poetry, but her book is dotted with passages of descriptive prose which in this day might well be broken up into uneven lines and printed as free verse — except that it is actually poetic. That one so sensitive to the sound of words — she insists that despite her mother's insistence upon her study of the piano, she had no musical talent at all — should have had the toughness of character which brought her into contact not only with the greatest of artists but also the most brutal of politicians, is one of the things that make the book most fascinating.

Here is how she describes a Prague prison just after the war:

"One place I went without (Masaryk) — he could not have stood it — was the cellar of the Petschek banking house where the Gestapo had its torture chamber. . . . The centre of the installation was the guillotine in the middle of a bare room. There was a drain in the floor in front of the machine, and a long hose to facilitate the flushing-away of the blood. All around the walls, near the ceiling, ran a heavy metal rod and from it hung meat-hooks, exactly like a butcher's cooling-room. The guillotine had not been cleaned when I was there; its blade was dark and caked with dried blood. Across it lay a tattered Czechoslovak flag and a dried up wreath."

Underlying her story is a subtle warning that the same thing, in another context, could very well happen again. But that point is not emphasized. Had it been, it might have detracted from the objectivity and therefore the effectiveness of the book. If Davenport has an axe to grind it is a very humanitarian axe and it is ground without any of the sloppiness of the sentimental inverted, dog-gooder of today.

Editor, the Times:

A recent article in your paper described four alternatives for improved road access to the Whistler resort area. Subsequent articles have advocated that the flow of traffic should continue to go through the populated lower Squamish area so as not to bypass the established merchants.

I strongly disagree with this argument.

The existing traffic to Whistler, notorious for its speeding, has many hazards associated with it and has resulted in numerous accidents. An improved highway would undoubtedly make it safer, however, this would be offset by increased traffic volume. Any more direct route to Whistler could have an access road to Squamish for local traffic.

I believe the "silent majority" would agree that any new route to the Whistler area should bypass the populated lower Squamish area if at all feasible. The safety of our citizens is more important than the minor loss to local business from the through traffic.

Goals course for Squamish women

The Career Alternatives Program will be offered again in Squamish starting September 10, 1980. Andrea Kiss, who taught the course last spring, says she is looking forward to teaching here this fall. Andrea says the women in Squamish are friendly, creative, and energetic. "I enjoyed working with them!"

She asked the students for feedback about the course and was relieved/happy to learn that they found most of what was covered useful. They particularly liked doing the job research, the work experience, and learning about resumes and application letters.

Oral communications and assertiveness training were rated high as were the guest speakers. Andrea praised the co-operation of college and community people who came to speak to the class. She said that "above all, the women appreciated the opportunity to meet with others and discuss goals."

Andrea Kiss will be at the Capilano College 2nd Avenue Centre on 2nd Avenue on Wednesday, September 3 and 10:00 a.m. to meet with anyone who is interested in the program. This is a good chance to learn about this and other Capilano College courses being offered this fall. For further information call Susan at the Capilano College Information Centre, 892-5322.

SOAR '80 — a fantastic success

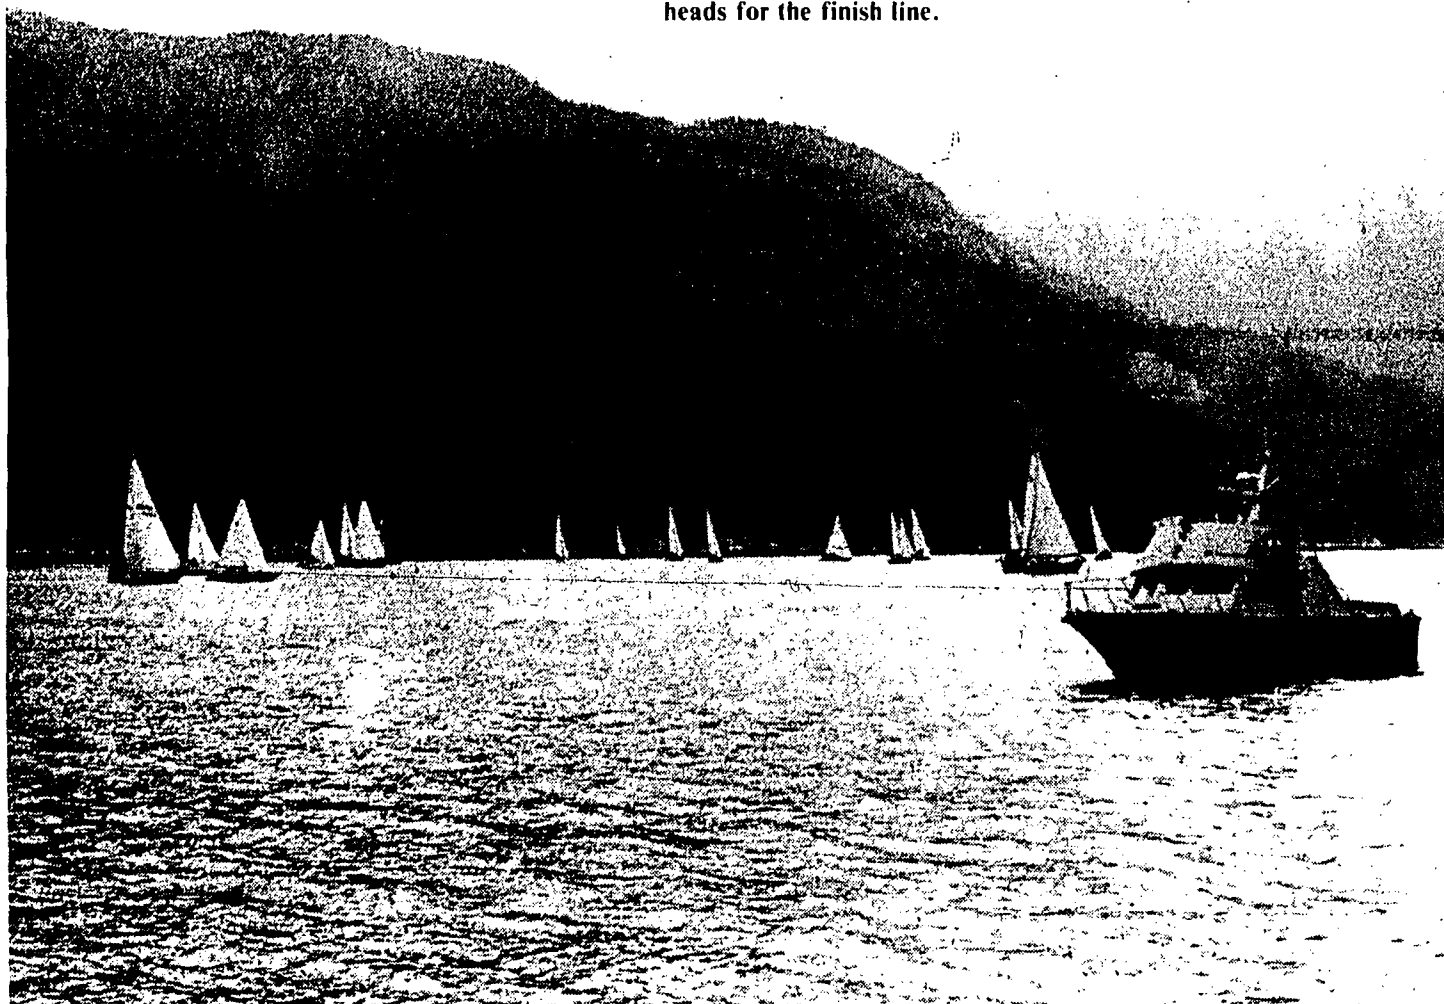

SOAR co-ordinator Gerry Cotter, commodore Jack Stathers and Carling O'Keefe representative Ron Fisher toast the success of SOAR.

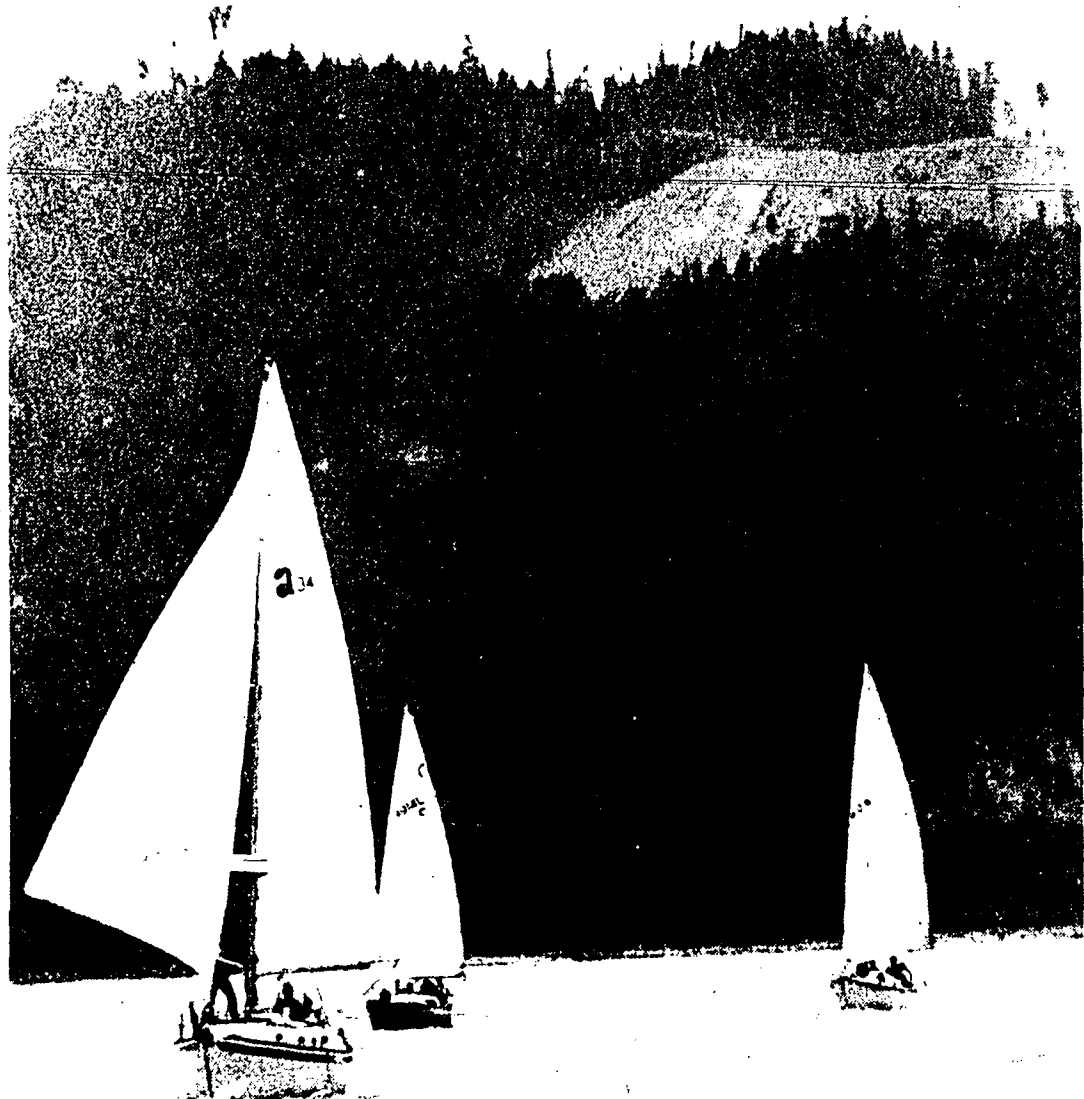

Photos and story
by Sherry Griffiths

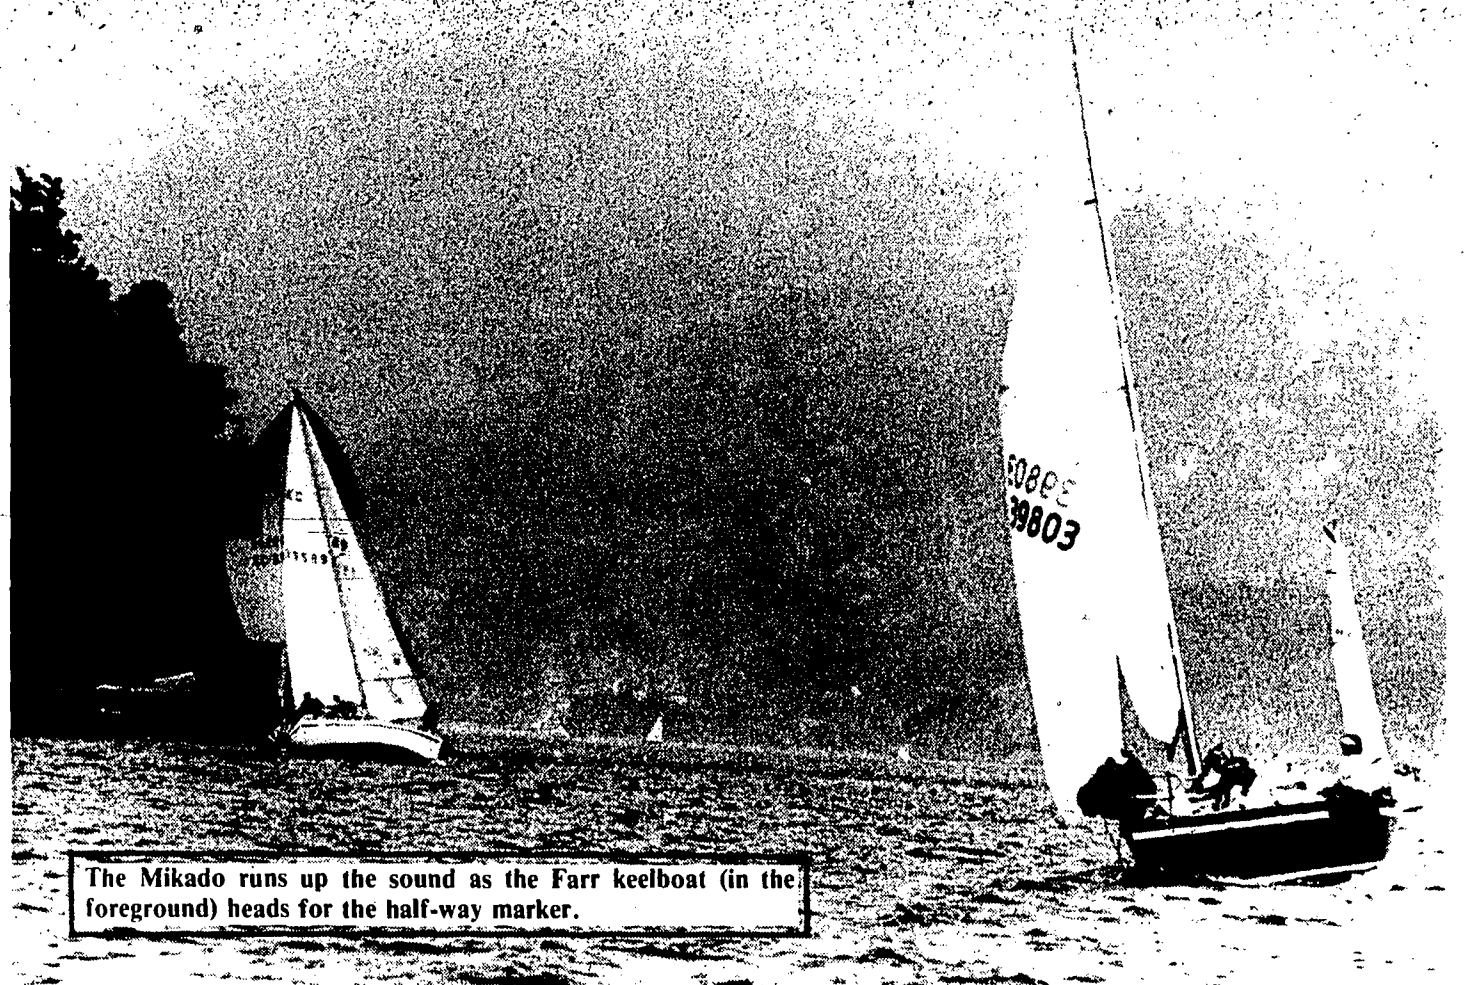

Bernard Leroux leans out over the hull of his catamaran as he heads for the finish line.

They're off! Twenty-three keel boats, seven dinghies and one catamaran tack down the sound as the RCMP cruiser McLellan waits in the foreground.

A sailboat runs toward the finish line wing-on-wing.

The Mikado runs up the sound as the Farr keelboat (in the foreground) heads for the half-way marker.

It was a sight to take your breath away.

Thirty sails dotted the sound for the first annual Squamish Open Annual Regatta, Saturday, Aug. 16.

And judging by the enthusiasm of Squamish Yacht Club members and the comments of the racers, Squamish will soon be known as possibly the best sailing area in B.C.

The regatta started at 10:30 with the catamaran, dinghies and lasers and, at 11:10, the keel boats left the starting line.

Although there was only a slight breeze prior to the race, the Squamish winds proved they run by the clock when a strong wind blew up for the start.

The committee tug, the Beverly Ann, the RCMP cruiser McLellan from Vancouver, and five rescue powerboats kept an eye on the competitors during the entire race.

Sonny Davis was the rescue co-ordinator and the remaining boats were skippered by Bob Howard, John Pitcher, Ray Forrest and Wally Childs. Harold Redman skippered the press boat.

The local fire department provided security on the docks and the air and sea rescue helicopter was also available in case of an emergency.

Also lending a hand in making sure everything was running smoothly were John Hurford, John Knudsen, Kenny Peterson and Elmer Poole from the Squamish Flying Club, who patrolled the sound in their planes during the race and the spotters, Nancy McCartney, Ed Berlinguette, John Krzanowski and Art Davis.

The most thrilling aspect of the 21-mile race was watching the keel boats haul up their spinnakers after rounding the half-way mark off Defence Island.

Judging by the running commentary and remarks on individual skipper's strategies, half of the Squamish Yacht Club wished they could have been in the race. To a semi-landlubber, the pull of the sea was enough to make me want to race, also.

The sound, and the spectators that stopped on the side of the highway and even climbed down onto the rocks at Daryl Bay, experienced a truly beautiful sight when the keel boats ran back to the finish line with their multi-colored spinnakers billowing full with the wind.

At the finish point at Watt's Point, the wind gusted strongly and several boats experienced trouble while reefing the spinnakers into the cockpit.

SOAR committee members on the Beverly Ann will have rather sore throats for the next few days from all the cheering they did as each boat approached the port side of the tug, rounded a marker buoy and then beat across the finish line.

After the race, which ended at approximately 5:10, competitors and club members headed back to the yacht club for a barbecue dinner, presentations and party.

Numerous competitors said they will be back to race next year and several commented they loved the Squamish winds. They complimented the Squamish yacht club members on the royal treatment they received, which included greeting the racers at the entrance to the sound and a "get to know you" party on Friday night.

Gil Newall of the Gulf Yacht Club also complimented the club on its community spirit. Members have been working and organizing the race for approximately a year.

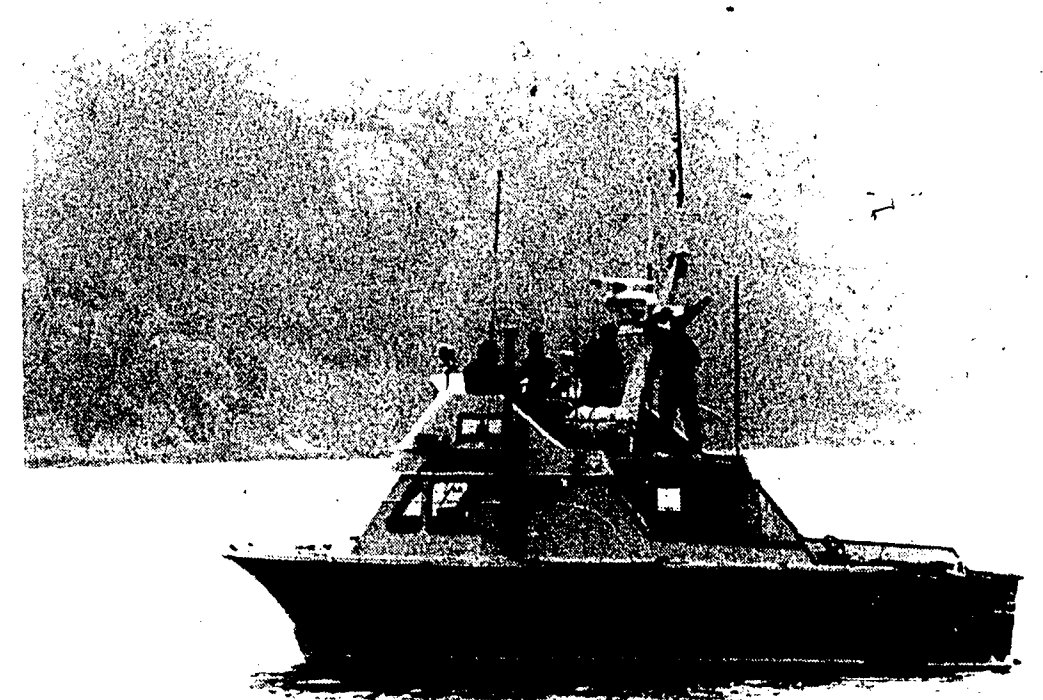

News of good sailing gets around by word-of-mouth.

And if word-of-mouth starts to work for SOAR, then 10-to-one, the number of boats entering the 1981 race will quadruple.

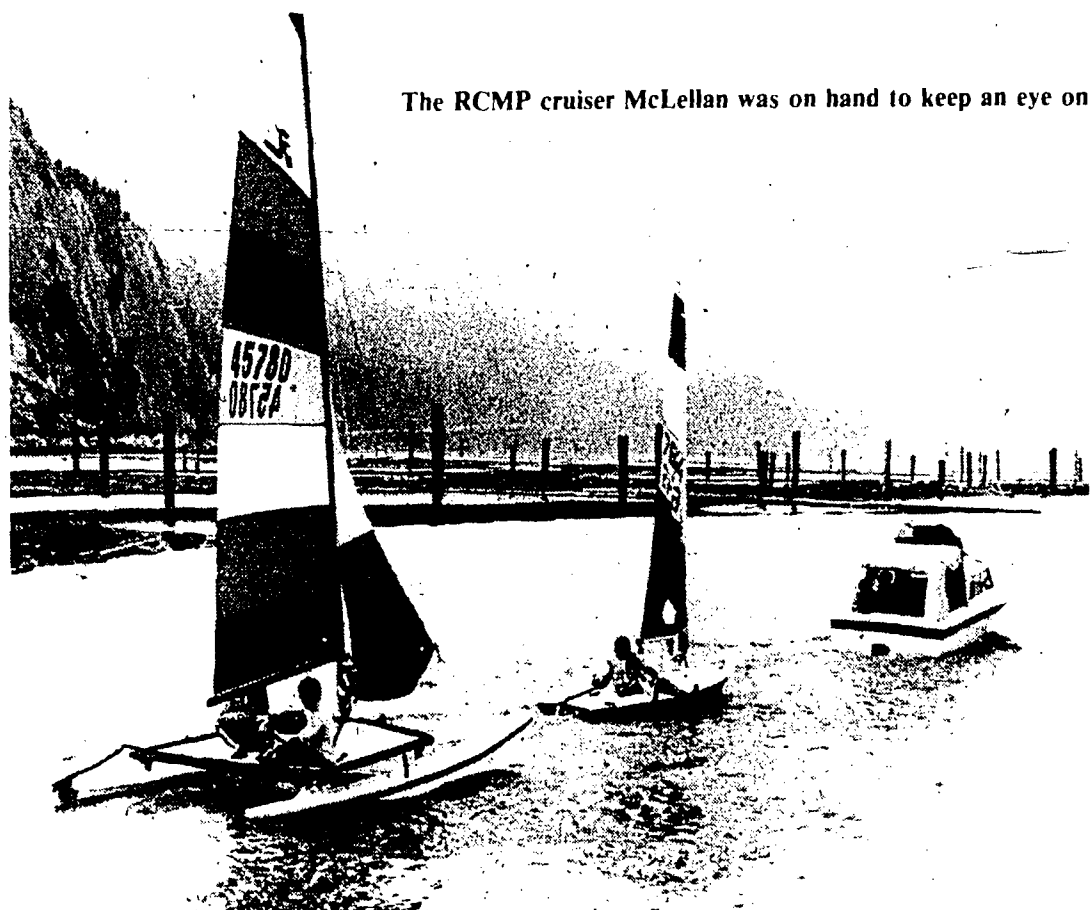

You can bet your hardback on it.

Dave Stewart presents first place SOAR trophy in the combined A & B class to Doug Neale, skipper of the Orangatang from the Gulf Yacht Club.

The RCMP cruiser McLellan was on hand to keep an eye on competitors during the race.

The catamaran and Laser dinghy are towed to the starting line by one of the power boats.

This is one fish story that just happens to be true. Marjorie Rush caught a 51-pound spring salmon while fishing in Hakaye Pass north of Rivers Inlet using cut plug for bait. Mrs. Rush and family now have 34 jars of salmon to enjoy, but you should have seen the one that got away!

Fry released in Ashlu Creek

Approximately 25,000 to 30,000 steelhead fry will be released into the upper Ashlu Creek tomorrow (Wednesday) by fish and wildlife personnel.

Brian Clark, fisheries technician, said adult brood stock was collected from the Squamish River system last spring and taken to the Fraser Valley fish hatchery in Abbotsford. They were kept there until they reached maturity and then stripped of eggs, which were fertilized.

The offspring, each weighing approximately three grams, will stay in the creek over winter and travel to sea in spring 1981. They will return to the spawning grounds in spring 1983.

Clark said there will "hopefully be up to 600 adults."

The fish are for recreational fishing, but are currently not the legal size. He emphasized the fry are steelhead smelts, not rainbow smelts.

Fry will be released into the creek system on an annual basis.

For more information, phone Clark or Peter Caverhill at 435-4137.

HOSTS NEEDED FOR AIRPORT ON WEEKENDS

Volunteers are required as host or hostess at the airport on weekends from August until September. The club will be inviting other flying clubs and the public to drop in for coffee.

RECREATION CHATTER

Ringette: The girls' game on ice. With the nice weather here, I know most of you do not want to think about ice, but the ice skating season is just around the corner for us here at the civic centre. Again this year we will be offering ringette through the recreation department.

What is Ringette? Ringette is a girls' winter team sport played on ice with 16 girls on a team, uniquely designed for girls with safety in mind. The game is played for fun, sports-gal-ship, and healthy competition.

A main safety factor in ringette is the ring, air filled and made out of rubber so the girls will never be hurt or injured by it.

Ringette has a three minute buzzer for line changes to ensure that all girls receive their ice time regardless of their skating ability.

The basic rule that makes ringette a team sport and eliminates body contact is the blue line pass rule. A player cannot skate across either blue line while in possession of the ring. She must pass it to a team mate. The player passing or shooting the ring across the blue lines cannot touch the ring until it has been touched by, or deflected off another player. This rule also makes ringette a team sport as the player cannot skate the full length of the ice to score a goal. It takes a minimum of two passes before any player is in position to score a goal.

A straight stick is used to pass, carry and shoot the ring with the object of the game being to score goals. Defence sticks are red, forward sticks blue, center sticks are white. In order for the game to be fast moving and open, the forwards cannot enter their own defensive zone. The center can go anywhere. All the equipment that is needed for ringette is C.S.A. approved, such as helmet, and mouth guard, gloves, skates.

Registration will begin in late September at the Squamish civic centre for girls, ages 6-17. Ice time is Sunday 3:45 pm to 4:45 pm, Tuesday 8:00 pm to 9:00 pm. Cost is $25.00. Non skaters are welcome.

Ladies hockey: The ladies hockey league asked me to print the following information:

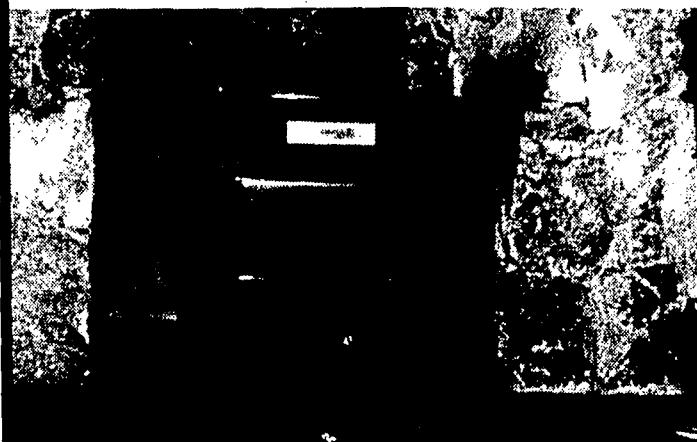

Registration for Ladies Hockey is now being taken.

Time: Saturdays 5:30 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Full dress is not mandatory but advisable. Beginner or advanced, let us know if you would like to participate in a fun evening with lots of exercise by calling Claire at 898-5034 for more information.

A good response at this time would be appreciated if we are to retain this time slot. For more information on this program or any fall programs call Vonda at the Squamish civic centre at 898-3604.

SQUAMISH, B.C. — TUESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1980

SECOND SECTION — Page 9

Squamish Earful

by Maureen Gilmour

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoffman along with their two daughters have been vacationing on Texada Island. They enjoyed beautiful weather at the Gilles Bay campground.

Mrs. Iris Farrow had a surprise visit on Loggers Sports weekend from 2 old friends; Senator and Mrs. David Steuart from Regina. Mrs. Farrow and Mrs. Steuart have known each other since early childhood, and the friendship with Senator Steuart goes back to Mrs. Farrow's high school days.

Celebrating anniversaries this week are: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mephram, Mr. and Mrs. E. Ollander, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rempel and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tinney.

Stork Story - DURANT - Larry and Joan Durant are pleased to announce the arrival of their second child, a daughter, Lisa Marie born on July 24 at the Squamish General Hospital weighing 7 lbs. 15 oz. This is a sister for Julie. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Staff of Squamish, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Durant of Kamloops.

While visiting in Saskatchewan, Cliff Strandberg won a 1980 Dodge 150 half ton pick-up on a draw from the Melfort branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. Sort of made the trip worthwhile!!!

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rey have returned home from Francois Lake where they have been for four weeks enjoying their northern home.

"Young man," said the angry father from the head of the stairs, "didn't I hear the clock strike four when you brought my daughter in?"

"You did," admitted the boy friend. "It was going to strike eleven, but I grabbed it and held the gong so it wouldn't disturb you."

The father muttered, "Doggone! Why didn't I think of that one in my courting days!?"

Sgt. and Mrs. Frank Kelley and their children have returned from a three week holiday in the Kootenays where they visited her father, Leo Nimsick, and spent some time relaxing at Lazy Lake.

Welcome to Overwaitea's new Produce Manager Laurie Olmsted, who has moved to our fair town from Cranbrook with his wife Pat, and their two children.

Happy first birthday wishes this week to Natasha Meurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brander have been having a busy summer, travelling to Calgary in July to meet their granddaughter Maureen Prebnski, and also to take in the Calgary Stampede; then on to Banff, Lake Louise, the Okanagan, Cariboo and Sechelt peninsula. Visiting them in Squamish were Tina Brownell from 100 Mile House, Ray and Patrick Brownell also of 100 Mile House, and Bill's niece, Joan Ferner from New Zealand.

Mrs. Agnes Machin was up from North Vancouver recently visiting Mr. and Mrs. Don Hutchinson. During her visit she enjoyed talking over old times with Scott and Mildred MacDonald.

I'm sure you readers will miss Maureen as much as the Times staff will while she vacations for 4 weeks in Scotland. Whether or not Scotland is ready for her is another question.

Had an interesting talk with two young men from Southern California the other day. When asked what they thought of the draft change in the States, one replied, "I've done my time. Amy Carter can go before me."

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hinds and family on the recent loss of her mother, Mrs. Eva Perry.

Here's a good thought for the week: "Good thoughts bear good fruits, and man is his own gardener."

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. D. Hobby and family on the death of a loving husband and father. His artistic ability will also be sadly missed in our community.

Peter and Patsy Riecker and sons enjoyed a week of canoeing around Cortez Island.

The Squamish Public Library is looking for volunteers to help throughout the fall and winter. There will be a coffee morning on August 21st at 9:30 a.m. in the Library. For further information phone 892-3110.

Welcome to the new pastor of the Squamish Pentecostal Assembly, Rev. Cy Clarke. He has moved to Squamish with his wife, Mary and their four children, and they are looking forward to serving in Squamish.

Stork Story - TWISS. David and Paulette Twiss are proud to announce the birth of their second child, a son, Beau David, born in the Squamish General Hospital on July 26, weighing 7 lbs. 10½ oz. This is a brother for Jade. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rogers of Ft. St. John, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Twiss of Squamish.

It was a thrill for Teresa Clark to sit beside the huge mermaid on the Squamish Terminals float in the PNE parade.

Library needs volunteers

The library is seeking volunteers to help us throughout the fall and winter - and will be hosting a coffee morning on Thursday, August 21 at 9:30 a.m. in the library. If you feel able to support your time please join us. The chairman of the library board and the library staff will be pleased to answer any questions and will introduce you to the present volunteers. There will also be a small film presentation and babysitting will be available. For further information please phone 892-3110.

Summer is coming to a close and there will be time in the longer fall evenings to curl up with an interesting book. There is something to suit everyone at our library, with new books on the shelves including:

Biographies recently added to the shelves include:

Shelly Winters, Phil Donahue, Havelock Ellis, Maugham, Jean Rhys' Smile Please and Tasha Tudor's Drawn From New England.

Arts Council News

The sunny weather make us think that summer has just begun but a look at the calendar reminds us that fall is not far off and that means, amongst other things, an increased effort in community affairs. The Arts Council is gearing up for its winter program and you are asked to consider the following items which are part of this program.

Cultural groups in Squamish, Whistler and points between which need financial assistance with their projects are asked to send in their applications by September 1. The council bases its request for a government grant on applications received and will be greatly assisted in their estimates for the 1981 grant if your written application is received by September 1. Send them to the Squamish Arts Council, Box 193, Garibaldi Highlands, B.C.

The second annual Arts and Crafts Market will be held on October 25. Application forms are available at the office of the "Times" and the Craft Connoisseur. All pertinent information is printed on these forms and further information can be obtained by phoning Maureen Brown at 898-3188.

This year we hope to attract many more artist and craftsmen from Squamish to Whistler and in between, who will bring their work before the public. All we ask is that you are a member of the Arts Council (adult fee: $2.), and that your work is original and of good quality. Those who took part last year generally did very well, so here is your opportunity to join in. The cost of renting your table or wall space is only $4.00, so your overhead is minimum.

If you know someone who produces good work, ask him or her to participate. We are interested in presenting a great variety of arts and crafts and would like to hear from lacemakers, bookbinders, wood workers, etc., who would like to take part in the market.

Our promotion campaign will consist of advertising in the local newspapers, radio stations in Vancouver and placing posters. But the best advertising is still by word of mouth, so talk about the market in October and get your friends to participate.

Join us on Wednesday, Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. to discuss the various aspects of the market. Tell us what you want and where we can help you. The Arts Council wants to work for you, and can only effectively do so with your input.

A few members travelled by Budd car to D'Arcy last Thursday to enjoy a sunny day of painting and sketching. The natural setting around Anderson Lake provided an incentive for all to produce a number of water colour paintings.

A picnic for all members and interested people is planned for Wednesday Sept. 20 at Shannon Falls Park from 11:30 to 3:00. Bring your own lunch and let's enjoy a few pleasant hours together. For more information phone Leona Ingraham at 898-9581, in the evenings, or Maureen Brown at 898-3188.

Nevada honeymoon follows local wedding

Reverend Owen Johnston presided at the double-ring ceremony on July 26, 1980 uniting Patricia Margaret Langton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langton of Chilliwack, with Timothy Francis Cyr, son of Mrs. Frank Cyr of Squamish.

St. John's Anglican Church was beautifully decorated with tall candelabras accented with ferns.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of white satin with lace edged crepe overlay. It featured a sweetheart neckline, semi-empire waist, fitted lace sleeves, and flowing chapel train trimmed with lace. A ¼-length veil with matching lace and seeded pearls completed her attire. She carried a cascading bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis with blue baby's breath.

Her maid of honour, Sherry Langton and bridesmaids, Bernadette Langton, Sue James, Angela James and Tammy Cyr wore identical baby blue crepe gowns, with blue printed chiffon capes, and floppy hats. The maid of honour carried a cascading bouquet of stephanotis, yellow daisies and white elegance, while the bridesmaids carried yellow daisies with white elegance, and blue baby's breath.

Assisting the groom were: Terry James as best man; and ushers Brian Langton, Rick James, Tom James, and John Thompson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Langton chose a knee-length two-piece peach dress with long sleeves and a lace bodice.

Mrs. Cyr, mother of the groom chose a yellow gown with a chiffon cape.

A reception at the Legion hall followed the ceremony. Larry Otto of Richmond was the master of ceremonies and gave the toast to the bride.

Before leaving for their Nevada honeymoon, the bride donned a mauve two-piece knee-length dress accented with white purse and shoes. Her corgie was mauve and white.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cyr from Windsor, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Ean Kerr from Campbell River; Mrs. Hinds from Portland, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Leduc from Princeton, B.C.; and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ward from Abbotsford, B.C.

The young couple are making their home in Squamish.

Mayor Izzy Boscarion wishes Timber Queen Lisa Cumming a safe journey to the Miss PNE pageant in Vancouver. Lisa left Friday morning.

SPCA plans to hold fund drive

The Squamish SPCA is planning a fund raising drive to be held in the near future to raise money to build an animal shelter.

At present a group is operating in a small way as it has no office or shelter. The members are doing all the work they can from their homes.

The group is also in great need of volunteers to help with the work for the animals. Any contribution of time no matter how small would be greatly appreciated. Phone Daphne Wilson at 898-9024.

The SPCA has two inspectors in Squamish who investigate cases of cruelty to animals. Unfortunately they do not have a shelter and are unable to take in animals for adoption.

They offer special thanks to Dr. Hoff and Dr. Burt at the Squamish Veterinarian Clinic who have treated abandoned, sick and injured animals for the group, which has enabled the SPCA to find homes for these animals who would otherwise have had to be destroyed.

The SPCA hopes the people of Squamish and the local industry and commerce will support this drive for a shelter.

Coming and going

Mrs. Iris Farrow was delighted to have a visit recently from two very old friends, Senator and Mrs. David Stewart of Regina. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Farrow had known each other since their early childhood and Senator Stewart joined the girls in high school.

Spending the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Clarke were her sister Mrs. K. Newbert of Edmonton and her son Alan Newbert of Thais.

Could there be anything sillier than having to phone Winnipeg to find out when the VIA passenger train arrives in Vancouver? On top of that foolishness, after being told that the train is on time, one has to wait because it is TWO HOURS LATE! Such is bureaucracy!

Mrs. and Mrs. R. Kristianson have returned home following a most enjoyable month's holiday in Norway where they visited numerous relatives.

Fancy running across Burrard Street to a Bank of Nova Scotia for four quarters to put into the parking meter and running into Flo Stevens!

While holidaying in B.C., Col. and Mrs. Dan Munro and their daughter Michelle visited his brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. Norman Halvorson, then proceeded to Lac La Hache to visit Richard and Bev Munro and then returned to Squamish to take the wedding of Don Halvorson and Kathy Golden. Michelle thoroughly enjoyed renewing her friendship with her cousins.

Sawdust & Shavings

Loved the startled expression on the young man's face at a recent wedding when he put his hand in the pocket of his jacket and pulled out a piece of wedding cake.

When queried by another guest as to how he got the piece of cake so quickly, he smiled and grinned. "Last wedding!" he said.

Did you hear that it was suggested that the new slate for president and vice-president in the States be Billy Carter and Teddy Kennedy, as long as one didn't drink and the other didn't drive!

And congratulations to Carl Walker, who recently made a score of 86 in his clarinet exams. Carl has been studying the musical instrument for the past six years.

Cy Clark new Pentacostal minister

Rev. Cy Clarke is the new pastor of the Squamish Pentecostal Assembly.

He and his wife Mary have four children ranging in age from 10 to 20. Their oldest daughter, Cynthia, is presently on the east coast engaged in summer employment. She enters college to begin theological studies in September. Eighteen-year-old David leaves next month on a government-sponsored project covering nine months, which will take him to the provinces of Ontario and New Brunswick before returning to B.C.

Rev. Clarke came to Canada from England nearly 22 years ago. He took theological training at the Assemblies of God Bible College in Surrey, England. He has visited every province in Canada, and served parishes in Ontario, Nova Scotia, P.E.I., and B.C. His wife is a Canadian, born in Toronto. Mary is a graduate of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, located in Peterborough, Ontario. In addition to having a capable preaching ministry, Mrs. Clarke is also a talented musician and singer.

Although church activities consume much of a minister's time, Cy Clarke is also a sport enthusiast who believes in keeping fit. For the past year he has managed to run about 100 miles a month. He likes to play soccer, tennis and very occasionally, golf.

The entire family is fast falling in love with Squamish and the surrounding countryside. They are looking forward to a happy and effective ministry here.

Starlite News

SPCA

animals

Some of our most gentle breeds of dogs hail from the bloody pits of dog fighting. This is an irony which is explained by the fact that such champions were bred not only for muscle and fang but also for the ability to get along with their human masters. To this irony we owe our terriers and bulldogs.

Today dog fighting is outlawed in Canada. To be sure, this cruel and savage sport belongs more to the Middle Ages than to our own time. But a recent Vancouver Sun report claims that dog fighting, accompanied by gambling, still takes place in clandestine locations in southern B.C. and across the U.S. border.

Jack Homes, secretary manager of the Vancouver branch of the SPCA, doubts that dogs still fight for sport here. "I've been associated with the SPCA for a long time now and at no time has there been any indication there's any dog fighting or even cock-fighting in British Columbia. If anyone has any evidence of it I suggest they contact me about it immediately."

Homes said people involved in dog fighting would face "very serious penalties, not only the people who own the animals, but also the promoter, everybody attending the match, and even the owner of the property where the fight took place."

"I find the RCMP are very concerned about this because it's the tip of the iceberg as far as organized crime is concerned," he says. "I've always found that when it comes to animals the RCMP are very compassionate."

There are many laws relating to animals — up to 15 provincial laws alone. They deal with such matters as bee-keeping, importation of threatened or hazardous species and protection of livestock. But the Canadian Criminal Code deals primarily with cruelty to animals.

Dog fighting is prohibited under the code which makes it an offence to cause unnecessary pain or suffering to any animal. A conviction may result in a fine, prison stretch, or both.

Michael Steven, a lawyer whose firm serves as legal counsel to the SPCA, says the courts will decide on the basis of the facts of a case if something amounts to a criminal act of cruelty.

He tells of one case involving a Quebec man who ran a pet shelter. The shelter destroyed unwanted strays by asphyxiating them with carbon monoxide from a four-stroke motor. The man was found guilty of cruelty under the code after a court discovered the temperature of the gas when it hit the animals was so high that it "more or less fried them for the first 30 seconds before they were rendered unconscious." The court took issue not with the destruction of the strays but with the inhumane method used.

Homes says anyone who sees an animal mistreated should immediately telephone the nearest SPCA office or the local RCMP detachment. A "criminal charge" may result.

What about the sufferings of research animals? Some experiments performed on dogs, cats, rabbit and mice — often involving vivisection — seem to make dog fighting a parlor game by comparison.

"There's no legislation relating to experimentation on animals," Steven says. "Our society takes the position that experimentation on animals is a necessity because it improves the life of humans. And so there are no prosecutions against people who experiment on animals although there is probably pain and suffering by those animals."

"But you must bear in mind," Homes says, "that research is governed by the requirements of the Canadian Council of Animal Care which lays down specific guidelines for the experimental establishments. If they are not met, the council takes action against the people involved. It doesn't do it under the Criminal Code — basically it will stop any grants to the researchers."

Homes says animal research projects are closely monitored on five or six levels to ensure that research animals are not subjected to unnecessary pain. Researchers are only permitted to buy animals from approved sources, rather than private citizens.

The SPCA is forbidden by its constitution to provide animals for research although municipal dog pounds may. The Vancouver City dog pound sold 259 dogs to UBC in 1978 for research purposes.

Another important piece of animal protection law is the provincial Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act. It gives officers of the SPCA, as well as police officers, the authority to seize animals that are not being properly cared for. It also gives them the authority to destroy the animals if they are beyond recovery.

Sometimes, Homes says, cruelty to animals is not so much the result of maliciousness as of ill-founded kindness or ignorance of the animals' needs.

In one case the SPCA intervened when an elderly woman kept 86 cats in the top floor of her small house. According to Homes, "She was becoming feeble and the result was the cats were suffering. Some of them were blind and there was cannibalism."

New park for Pemberton area?

Studies are being made into the possibility of creating a provincial park in the Joffre ice fields area between Pemberton and Duffy Lake.

Studies on the possibility of creating a park in the area began last winter.

Discussions are being held with local hiking clubs and the B.C. Forest Service but no recommendations have been submitted to the minister.

The park is not high priority at this time due to the lack of logging in the area.

The area is very popular now with some hiking trails and some small lakes up near the snow line. Hiking, backpacking, camping and mountain climbing would be the appeals of the area and it would appeal to the outdoor enthusiast.

The nearest lake can be reached in five minutes but it takes several hours to reach the others which are up in the alpine area.

Access to the lakes and the park would be from the Duffy Lake road between Pemberton and Lillooet and a parking lot would be built beside the road.

The proposed park area would include the three Joffre Lakes, Mount Joffre and Mt. Matier. It would cover an area of approximately 1500 hectares.

Swimming pool broken into

The municipal swimming pool was broken into August 13. Nothing was taken but equipment was thrown into the pool and on the decks. The metal gate was also broken.

The incident is still under investigation.

Pemberton Library News

by Janet Naylor

The Pemberton library recently held a film night and two films, Paddle to the Sea for children and Nahanni were shown.

Both are from the National Film Board and it is planned to make the film showings a regular feature at the library this winter.

The library board would like to thank the Pemberton Lions Club for the fine landscaping job completed this spring under the direction of Tom Kemper. The flowers now are in full bloom and very beautifully displayed in the flower boxes built by George Mitchell.

Along with the work the Chamber of Commerce has done on the tourist booth located adjacent to the library, this has become an attractive corner of the village.

New titles at the library this month include Third Wave by Alvin Toffler, the award winning biography of Emily Carr by Maria Tippett, Monica Dickens' autobiography An Open Book, Timmy the West Coast Tug by Vancouver author Jeremy Moray and Volcano, The Eruption of Mt. St. Helens which features fantastic photos and was written by the staffs of two Washington newspapers.

Don't forget the reading sessions for the little ones held on Wednesday mornings at 10:00 and the book sale featuring paperbacks, some hardcover books and a few good buys on duplicate newer titles. These will be available until the end of the month.

Cindy Ross feted at bridal shower

Bride-elect, Cindy Ross was a most surprised recipient of a miscellaneous bridal shower, Wednesday, August 6, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Marilyn Ross. Co-hostesses for the evening shower were Marilyn Ross and Lisa McCormack. The lovely shower cake with wedding bells and "Good Luck Cindy and Albert" written on the bells, was made and decorated by Marion Ayers.

There were forty-five ladies in attendance, including the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellenore Ross, bridesmaids, Sheila Gilmore, sisters Andrea and Alea Ross and maid of honor, Lisa McCormack, cousin of the bride. The groom's mother, Mrs. Bush was unable to come from Merritt, and sent a gift, as did other family and friends of the groom who live out of town.

A special surprise for Cindy was a beautiful hooked wool cushion in shades of brown, hand made and sent by former schoolmate and neighbour, Anthony Beks of Victoria. Mrs. Beks, Anthony's mother, also made an embroidered wool cushion in Norwegian design, much to the delight of the bride-to-be.

Lisa McCormack kept the gift list, Andrea Ross fashioned the ribbon bonnet, and Sheila Gilmore helped with the gift opening. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses to end the pleasant evening.

Cindy's marriage to Albert Bush Jr. will take place August 23.

LOSE 5-14 LBS. IN NEXT TWO WEEKS WITH THE HELP OF THE NO NONSENSE DIET

In May of 1979 Nature's own no nonsense diet was introduced to British Columbia and Alberta through the Prince Health Food chain. Within weeks they were sold out and by the end of July thousands of people had lost weight the no nonsense way.

Unlike most diets to have come along this one is not dying out, but gaining greater momentum all the time. The reason for this phenomenal growth lies in the fact that those people who have tried the diet have gotten positive results. For example I know of one particular young lady who has been overweight nearly all her life. She wanted desperately to lose 25 lbs., and tried every possible means over the last two years. She exercised, joined clubs and went to monthly meetings. All to no avail. After reading about the no nonsense diet, she decided to give it a try before throwing in the towel. It worked. Within a month she lost 23 lbs., within two more weeks she lost another 10 lbs. She is so ecstatic about this diet that she preaches it to anyone who will listen and has most of her friends on it.

The product is a diet's dream. Two tablespoons in a glass of partially skimmed milk is equal in nutrition to a complete meal. But without all those nasty little calories. It has all the essential amino acids, and Vitamins and Minerals in a delicious powder base. The no nonsense formula comes in two flavours, luscious chocolate and tasty vanilla.

Here is a list of the Vitamins and Minerals it contains

Vitamin A	Vitamin E	Vitamin C	Vitamin D
Thiamin	Riboflavin	Niacin B6, B12	Folic Acid Biotin
Choline	Calcium	Phosphorous	Iron
Iodine	Magnesium	Copper	Zinc
Potassium	Manganese	Sodium	Panthenic Acid

This is a wonderful diet because you are dealing with natural foods and not drugs, consequently it is a safe and very healthy. A lot of people after going on this diet, have noticed remarkable improvement in their hair, skin and nails.

The no nonsense diet is available at these and other leading Retailers:

PETITION FOR INSTALLATION OF PROPER TRAFFIC LIGHTS ON HIGHWAY 99 AND GARIBOLDI WAY INTERSECTION

Due to the number of traffic accidents occurring at this intersection, we would like to see proper traffic lights installed. Police reports estimate one serious pedestrian accident, approximately six moderate to serious accidents, and innumerable close calls, but no fatalities yet.

During heavy traffic, proper signal lights would stop confusion. If you are a concerned citizen and would like to see, not only the present pedestrian crossing, but also four way signal lights, please sign our petition which will be distributed throughout the Squamish business area. The sooner, the safer.
