Landslides could cause havoc in Cheekye watershed

Gary Banks standing alongside the fissured area on Alice Ridge showing the ridges and gullies which are part of the classic example of a pre-land slump area. This is above the Cheekye River and a landslide here could adversely affect the Cheekye fan and Brackendale.

Indications point to future slide

By ROSE TATLOW

Teacher and geologist Frank Baumann told a meeting of the Squamish Intermediate Care Society last week that conditions above the Cheekye Valley reveal a "classic case of an earth slump."

He was referring to the area along the southeast side of the Cheekye River on Alice Ridge which had been logged a number of years ago and is in what is known as the "balsam show".

Earlier he had visited the area a number of times and noted the presence of a major scarp with several stepped areas below it. This is an area which is in danger of sliding and which, with the constant action of water, could become dangerous.

Below the scarp lies an area which could slip if it becomes unstable.

At the foot of the steep slope, which is presently heavily timbered, lies the rubble which has accumulated at the toe.

Baumann explained that if the pressures on the slope become too severe, if there is sufficient water in the soil to make it less cohesive, it could slide, triggering a fall of thousands of cubic yards of material which would go into the valley and could create a slide far greater than the one a half a million cubic yards envisioned in the Crippen Report.

Baumann said the slide could also be triggered by an earthquake. The area, which had been logged, shows clear evidence of the fracturing which he said is typical of this land slump situation.

In the picture accompanying this article you can see the ridges where the land is fissured. You will note there were no trees growing in the fissures but only the ridges between.

Baumann said the Crippen Report on the need for a dyke along the Cheekye River to protect the Brackendale area, if it was developed, recommended a 20 foot dyke in the expectancy of a half million cubic yard landslide.

He estimated the amount of land in this land slump area alone could almost be between forty and ninety times that amount and wondered what height of a dyke would be necessary to contain such a massive slide.

Baumann showed pictures of the area taken from the ground and some aerial shots which clearly showed the slump area and white streaks in the picture are areas where there are fissures and no trees are growing.

He also pointed out that there are many gullies at the toe of the slump area and this is another indication of its existence.

This was just one area and Baumann says it does not take into consideration the possibility of a slide on the face of Garibaldi or Atwell Peak, which could also be triggered by an earthquake.

Baumann, who took part in a rescue on the face of the mountain a year ago, said it was a frightening experience, with boulders the size of houses embedded in a slope which falls precipitously to the Cheekye River below. They had to rappel 700 feet down the slope to get the body of a climber who had fallen while walking the ridge to Little Diamond Head.

A slide on this face could also dump thousands of cubic metres of earth and rock into the canyon which could come down towards Brackendale.

He said Garibaldi is a typical composite volcano with layers of pyroclastic material similar to that spewed out by Mount St. Helens; covered with lava, creating a layered effect which can be clearly seen in the exposed face of the mountain.

Baumann told the group that the direct route for a slide from either the land slump area or Garibaldi appeared to be through the Cheekye Valley towards the cemetery but it would spread out on either side.

He intends to present his findings to the Department of the Environment and ask that a survey group establish some points in the danger area to see if the land is in motion. He recommended that this should be done before snowfall this year.

Baumann stressed that the danger of a land slump may not be imminent but said the conditions are there and one could occur. He felt the site should be studied and a report made.

Municipal budget 'tight, but not bad'

Council briefs

by SHERRY GRIFFITHS
The municipal budget is "tight, but not bad," treasurer Charles Schilberg told council when he presented the budget position report up to September 12.

The report covers the general revenue fund, water utility and sanitary sewer utility budgets.

Actual general revenue-fund expenditures total $4,308,195 or 67.87 per cent of budget, while revenues total $4,570,059, yielding an excess of $261,864.

The 67.87 per cent level of expenditure is approximately five per cent below average.

"The lower level of expenditure consumption is attributed to several factors including projects that will be completed for less than budgeted cost, seasonal and cyclic activities which have not commenced that contain unspent funds or portions of budget allocations and the responsible attitude of the department heads in administering control over their budget areas," the report states.

Seasonal activities include operating the pool and ice arena and snow removal.

Revenues from taxation for the fund are expected to achieve budget except for general purposes taxation.

"Discussions with B.C. Assessment Authority indicate that one property in Squamish contains a gross error in assessment. The result of this gross error may reduce our general purposes and other governments taxation revenues by approximately $14,560.

"Of this total, $7,760 is for school purposes. The balance of $6,980 will have to be absorbed by the district, which will be partially offset by other supplementary roll adjustments."

Schilberg said official notice has not been received from the assessment authority, but because there is a potential revenue reduction, this factor was drawn to council's attention.

Revenues from sales of services is "well above the norm."

Inspection fees, culvert installation, photocopies and RCMP search revenues exceed budget for a combined total of $12,550.

Civic centre revenues are expected to achieve budget expectations except for skate shop rentals and special events. However, council approved a reallocation of $10,700 to the contingency account to offset the anticipated revenue shortfall overexpenditure.

Revenues from business licences, fire permits, soil removal, third party surplus, timber sales and miscellaneous will not achieve revenue expectation by approximately $25,600.

"The shortfall will be offset by revenue in excess of approximately $25,740 for dog licences, building permits, leases, returns on investments, tax penalties and interest, garbage penalties and a premium rebate from ICBC."

The net anticipated revenues in excess of the budget is $12,710.

Anticipated revenue excess is $45,290 broken down into inspection fees, $5,240; culvert installation, $5,700; photocopies of bylaws, $600; RCMP search, $1,010; dog licences, $650; building permits, $5,670; leases, $690; investment return, $12,000; tax penalties, $4,000; tax interest, $1,000; garbage penalties, $100; ICBC rebate, $1,630 and housing starts, $7,000.

Anticipated revenue shortfalls total $32,580, broken down into general purposes taxation, $6,980; business licences, $1,000; fire hall permits, $1,100; soil removal permits, $5,000; third party surplus, $4,500; royalties and stumpage from timber sales, $10,000 and miscellaneous revenues, $4,000.

Schilberg said overexpenditures are expected to be experienced in legal fees, and staff recruitment in the general administration account. However, a number of items within this classification are expected to be underspent.

"The legal fees function has unexpected funds of $3,390; however the billing for the soil removal legal costs has not been received to this date and we may be faced with costs in excess of the remaining unspent funds."

Schilberg anticipated $10,000 could be "safely" transferred to the contingency account after realignment of the general government-general administration accounts.

Staff costs in the public works classification have increased due to the recent retirement of the public works superintendent.

The district provided $24,275 in the police manpower budget for an additional two men to be phased in during June and September 1980.

A total of $6,700 was saved because the position had not been filled at the end of August.

Schilberg recommended the $6,700, and the additional $4,390 saved each month the position remains unfilled, be transferred to contingency.

Currently the total unallocated general contingency fund stands at $27,063.

The original fund was $64,500. Of that, designated expenditures were $2,000 for the Highway 99 light, $35,000 for Depot Rd. upgrading and $2,500 for Mamquam River dyking for a total of $39,500.

Of the $25,000 left in the fund, $8,000 went to the Minor Baseball Association, $3,750 for the Big Chief drainage and $5,000 for the swimming pool heat exchanger totalling $16,750 and leaving $8,250 of the original funds.

However, $18,813 in excess funds were transferred to the fund from recreation department, $3,203; transportation and park, $1,000; estuary study, $10,995 and fire department, $3,615.

Reichold request approved
A one-year time limit was placed on the temporary building requested by the Reichold extender plant.

The building was requested because of possible future expansion.

Paving referred to 1981 budget

A petition, signed by 45 Northyards residents, requested council to consider paving Government Road from the BCR shops to No Name Road in 1981.

Works superintendent John Payne will consider the matter for the 1981 paving program.

Swimming pool closed week early

The swimming pool was closed Friday due to problems caused by the recent inclement weather. Leaves were falling into the pool and plugging the filters.

The public works superintendent will examine the situation.

Lock changed

The lock on the industrial park has been changed. Ald. Egaon Tobus suggested the change when he reported he had seen a truck load wood from the park and drive off.

Building used as paper collection depot

The old Garden Centre building on Government Rd. will be used by the Kiwanis and the Cubs and Scouts as a paper collection depot for one year.

The organizations must first properly board up the building, secure it against trespass and make certain all combustible waste is stored indoors only.

The Scout movement intends to dismantle the building after the year and use it as part of a nature study facility at Camp Byng on Secht Peninsula.

EDITOR HEADS B.C. COMMUNITY PAPERS

Rose Tatlow, editor and assistant publisher of the Times, was elected president of the B.C. and Yukon Community Newspaper Association at its annual meeting held in the River Inn from Sept. 24-27.

Tatlow, who was vice-president of the organization and a national director of the Canadian Community Newspaper Association last year, told the convention that the industry was facing a challenging future with many changes and was embarking on a program to make government and industry aware of what the weekly or community press could offer with its wide readership throughout the province.

Also elected to the executive were David Black, Williams Lake, vice-president; Rollie Rose, Ladysmith, second vice-president, and directors are Jeff den Biesen, Lillooet, Bob Hughes, Duncan; Ross Mavis, Port Hardy; John Smith, Grand Forks; Peter Speck, North Vancouver and Ian Wickett, Salmon Arm.

BOSCARIOL WILL NOT RUN IN ELECTION

Mayor Izzy Boscariol will not seek re-election in the November elections "due to personal things." Boscariol made the announcement at the council meeting Tuesday.

He was elected to the position during an April 1979 by-election following the death of Pat Brennan.

"I feel it will only be fair to the people of Squamish to let them know I will not seek re-election."

He said he would like to see a number of things done in the municipality, particularly the lights on the highway. Squamish could anticipate between 4,000 and 5,000 extra drivers on the highway with the ski development at Callaghan Mountain, which is approximately 14 miles west of the highway at the Northair turnout.

Boscariol said he took a lot of time in making the decision and discussed the matter with Ald. L.C. Kindree.

Suggests Mamquam Blind Channel study

Members of the public involvement group (PIWG) expressed concern on some points in the phase one land use work group report which was presented Wednesday.

The report concludes:

• Changes in the composition and foreign market destinations of export commodities beyond 1990 may create a future demand for port facilities that could be met best by port facilities in Howe Sound. Up until that time, bulk loading port facilities in place, under construction and planned for Vancouver, including Roberts Bank, and Prince Rupert will be capable of handling anticipated coal and other bulk commodity exports.

• Pulp, lumber and general cargo moved southward for export on the BCR is expected to increase substantially during the 1980s. Squamish Terminals is nearing full capacity for pulp and will require additional storage and berthing facilities if it is to capture a share of this increase in traffic.

• Expansion of existing port facilities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet, or improved utilization of existing facilities, could provide a highly competitive alternative to expansion at Squamish.

• On the other hand, demand for additional port-related industrial sites in B.C. is strong and may shortly exceed supply.

• An estimated 1,490 acres of land, excluding water areas, is believed to be developable for port and port-related industrial purposes at acceptable (competitive) cost in the study area. Additional land north of the study area is also suitable for industrial purposes.

Sufficient land for a major expansion of commercial and residential areas is available at reasonable development cost.

• Despite substantial expenditures required to improve this land, filling and the provision of basic services, the total cost per acre is expected to be lower than most other post-industrial locations on the coast, making these sites very competitive on a capital cost basis. It is also important to realize the larger parcels of land

TIMES WINS ANOTHER NEWSPAPER AWARD

The Times won another award at the annual convention of the B.C. and Yukon Community Newspaper Association when it placed second in the Metro 1 category of the competitions.

Two years ago the Times places first in this category which covers papers with a circulation of under 3,000.

With the jump in circulation during the past six months the Times will now be moving into a higher category, into the Metro 2 class for papers between 3,000 and 6,000 circulation.

Fifteen students honored at HSS ceremony

Kinsmen Harry Pullen presents the Kinsmen citizenship $250 award to Jane Whittam. Whittam also received the Lord Strathcona award of $1,000.

Fifteen local students were honored during the Howe Sound secondary scholarship ceremony Friday, Sept. 26.

Faune Gingrich, vice-president of the Howe Sound Teachers Association presented the Howe Sound W.J. Tinney scholarship to Ann Jensen and Teresa Clark. The scholarship pays the tuition at the post secondary institution the girls attend.

Clark, 18, will attend Capilano College for two years and then transfer to Simon Fraser University. She plans to be an elementary school teacher. She also received the Squamish Order of the Eastern Star $150 bursary which was presented by Marg Candy.

Jensen, 17, also plans to be an elementary school teacher and is attending the University of B.C.

Glen Andersen received the H.R. MacMillan Fund bursary, presented by HSS principal John Hughes and the FMC $500 scholarship, presented by Gary Hudson.

Anderson, 18, is taking his first year sciences at UBC and is considering a career in forestry.

Lorna Walkey and Paul Woods also received scholarships from the family fund.

Walkey, 17, is studying business management-accounting at Capilano College and Woods, 18, is working towards a bachelor of music at UBC, majoring in performance.

Phillippa Brown, 18, received the district special skills award for $1,000 which was presented by district superintendent Tom Goode. She is currently attending the Pacific Vocation Institute where she is studying architectural drafting.

Michael Smith, 18, received the BPOE and Royal Purple $300 scholarship, which was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Shaw. Smith is working in mining for one year and then will study the chemical and metallurgical program at BCIT.

Ken Ramus presented the Squamish Lions Club $400 scholarship to Terry Parsons, 18, who will attend Capilano College next year and study sciences.

The Independent Squamish Loggers' Association scholarship of $300 was presented to Chris Horne by Norm Barr. Horne, 18, is taking the woods product option at BCIT.

Jack Helmers presented the Weldwood Empire Logging division $250 scholarship to David Farrell and Sandra Bruun. Farrell, 18, is studying academics at Capilano College and plans to go into photography. Bruun, 18, is studying physical education-kinesiology at Simon Fraser University.

Nancy Bolch and Brenda Robson received the Weldwood Empire Lumber division $500 scholarship, which was presented by Abe Wiebe. Bolch, 17, is studying business management at BCIT and Robson, 18, will study nursing at Vancouver general hospital.

Judy Horth presented the $200 Canadian Daughters Memorial bursary to Beth Heisler, 17, who is studying nursing at Langara currently and plans to take nursing at Vancouver General.

Jane Whittam received the Kinsmen citizenship award for $250, which was presented by Harry Bullen and the Lord Strathcona award for $1,000. The Strathcona award is given to students who were born in England and educated in Canada. Whittam, 18, is studying sciences at Capilano College and plans to take the academic program at UBC.

G. Goodall presented the $200 Wayne Saugstad memorial scholarship, which is sponsored by the Legion, to John Nicholson, Nicholson, 18, is studying landscape architecture at UBC.

The Woodfibre Community Club scholarship of $200 was presented by G. Greenwood to Kelly Craig, 18, who is planning to study business at Capilano College.

Guests attending the function were Ald. Egon Tobus representing the municipality, Margaret Marchant representing the school district and district superintendent Tom Goode representing the ministry of education.

Marchant congratulated the students and also thanked the donors.

"It's marvellous to have this community spirit," Ald. Tobus congratulated the students on behalf of the mayor and municipality and personally wished the students "good luck in life's journey." Goode also congratulated the students on behalf of the ministry of education and "my boss, Brian Smith."

The Weldwood of Canada Empire Logging $250 scholarship was presented to Sandra Bruun and David Farrell by J. Helmers.

Abe Wiebe presents the Weldwood of Canada Empire Lumber $500 scholarship to Brenda Robson and Nancy Bolch.

District superintendent Ian Goode presents the $1,000 district special skills award to Philippa Brown.

The Independent Squamish Loggers' Association $300 scholarship was presented to Chris Horne by Norm Barr.

Estuary alternatives

are becoming increasingly scarce in port areas.

Although alternative port facilities are or can be available to meet anticipated needs for export-bound BCR shipments, significant industrial/commercial growth is not likely to occur at Squamish unless access to appropriate port facilities there is provided.

Provision for two additional berths for pulp, lumber and general cargo, with access to port facilities for present and future local industries, should accommodate all needs at Squamish over the next decade, and perhaps beyond.

The report suggested an alternative to the Squamish Terminals proposal of constructing one or two additional berths might be filling an area east of the old Mamquam Channel.

"This possibility has not been explored with the property owners and is presented only as a concept worthy of further study."

The area could be developed at approximately equal-construction cost.

However, division of the port into two separate components would probably add to operating costs of the terminal operator and the BCR, but it may provide to be more environmentally acceptable than the Squamish Terminals' proposal.

Chairman Jack Stathers termed statements made in the Interwest consultants report regarding cutting knolls in the area "ludicrous."

He said they were "not knolls, but young mountains."

The way the subject was treated in the report was "very inadequate and misleading."

"I do not want to see the area with a ludicrous concept and I urge the committee to take another look at the way the area is treated."

He also said there was no need to blast and use the material for fill, there would be enough fill from dredging.

Budget

"While minor overexpenditures exist for some capital expenditure items, none are significant, and all can be offset by savings within the capital expenditure groupings. Final costs for paving and upgrading are not complete at this date. While some individual projects indicate overexpenditures, the overall budget allocation is significantly underspent."

"It is anticipated that when final costs for paving and upgrading are accounted for over the next two to three weeks, this aspect of our capital program will have surplus funds available for transfer to the contingency account."

The overall percentage for both revenues and expenditures in the water utility is below the norm. To September 12, the water utility reports a surplus of $50,277, compared to a budgeted surplus of $29,030. Seasonal and cyclic activities are expected to reduce the present level of surplus to approximately the budget figure by the year end.

The overall percentage for both revenues and expenditures for the sanitary sewer utility is approximately on target with a reported surplus of $42,071 compared to a budgeted surplus of $44,455.

Schilberg recommended the $5,000 provided in the sewer utility be reallocated to the transmission and distribution and lift station accounts because they are beginning to reflect minor overexpenditures.

"You would have a problem dispensing the excess fill," Gerry Sandve, from the ministry of industry and small business and land use work group chairman, said the suggestion was "simply a method of setting up a possibility."

"You may find the possibility ludicrous after further study," Ryan Schlycher said it does not make "any economic sense to pursue the possibility," but Sandve replied it becomes an alternative if Squamish Terminals mitigates the $10 to $12 million to expand.

Jorma Jyrkkanen suggested there be more investigation in more detail on the east channel alternative.

Knocking off Watt's Point "because it is going to go anyway," was suggested by Norm Barr and Stathers added it was the general consensus of opinion that the development take place along the shoreline rather than the estuary.

Reorganization of the existing Terminals facilities to provide additional pulp storage and access for local industries, present and future, and port development at Britannia were two other alternatives mentioned by the report.

PIWG members expressed concern over the last conclusion in the report, which states: "Although a relatively small expansion at Squamish, in terms of the percentage of the estuary required, would appear to meet anticipated needs for at least the next decade, economic growth beyond that stage should not be precluded by implementing a management system lacking sufficient flexibility to accommodate industrial and port needs beyond those currently envisaged."

Dan Williams of fish and wildlife said the statement indicated the management plan would be based at five, 10 or 15 years, when the plan should be 20 and 25 years when talking about resources.

"You have to look to 50 to 100 years,"

"Are you looking to commit this community to a plan that is locked in for life?" Sandve asked. He added allowances for change would be incorporated in the final plan.

"We are trying to make damn sure it's a good plan," A long use plan for environmental land use would also have to be developed, Jyrkkanen said. The statement says there would be "no permanent commitment to environment" and the land would be left open for future expansion.

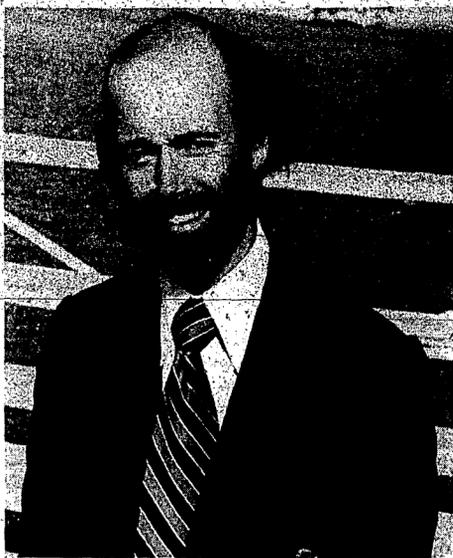

The statement should be reworded to allow for parallel commitments and allow development contingent on industry enhancing the environment, he said.

Al Oloman said he felt he could not trust the plan if that statement was in. He also suggested a substantial part of the estuary be dedicated as a marine park.

However, Stathers' statement, and the report, could not be properly evaluated without an inventory of existing federal, provincial and local policies affecting the area.

"It (the report) does not address itself to identifying and assessing land use policies," The report was looking at land use in a "broader sense", Sandve said and Karen Koncohrada, also from the ministry, said an inventory of the policies was contained in the draft management plan. She also said there is more inventory and analysis needed for the second phase report.

Five hurt in accidents

Five people were injured and taken to Squamish general hospital following two accidents within two days at the Garibaldi Way intersection.

Miklos Horvath was charged with failing to yield at an intersection following an accident on September 22. The pickup truck belonging to Horvath received $1,300 damage and the 1971 Mazda belonging to Rqvia Afial received $2,500. Horvath was westbound on Garibaldi Way and Afial was southbound on Highway 99.

Two people were injured in the accident.

Three people were taken to hospital following an accident at the same intersection on September 23.

Yvonne Garrett was travelling east on Garibaldi Way and Irene Proudfoot was northbound on Highway 99. The 1973 Ford driven by Garrett received $2,000 damage and the 1980 Volkswagen driven by Proudfoot received $3,000 damage.

Garrett has been charged with failing to yield after coming to a stop.

BRITANNIA RESIDENTS GET ADDITIONAL THREE MONTHS

Dome Petroleum has given tenants of Minaty Bay and the trail area of Britannia Beach till the end of April 1981 before giving notice to vacate their property instead of the end of December, 1980 as originally planned.

Jim Peacock, speaking for the company, said implications in articles written in the city papers had suggested that Dome had no intention of making any industrial use of the Britannia Beach property.

He said this was not the case and wrote a letter to the residents of those areas in which he outlined the background to the statement.

He added that Dome has no intention of permitting any of the tenants to purchase the property they now occupy.

Most of the text of the letter to three residents follows:

Dome Petroleum purchased the property in November 1979 for industrial purposes. The property remains an industrial one and no change in that is contemplated. At the time of purchase, Dome did not have a specific purpose for the property and as yet still has not settled on this. When a firm decision is made as to what used is intended, Dome will advise you.

Any industrial use, of course, will be subject to the terms and conditions of appropriate federal and provincial government requirements to safeguard the environment. As Dome president Bill Richards has acknowledged, Dome also recognizes that any development of this property will have to take full account of the need for compatibility with the industrial, commercial and recreational requirements of Howe Sound.

Until decisions are made with regard to future industrial use of this property, the commitments given by Dome at the meeting at Britannia Beach last April 8 and in the subsequent April 24 letter to you from R.L. Saitor still stand. However, we would like to advise that Dome will not give any notice to vacate the properties before March 31, 1981, instead of the previous commitment of not giving notice before the end of 1980. You will, of course, be given 120 days in which to move when you receive your notice to vacate. As usual, the above referred to commitment does not apply if you do not pay the rent or other similar circumstances.

Premises vacated voluntarily in the meantime will not be re-let and, for the safety and security of

A difficult future

The upcoming municipal election will be an important one. With Mayor I.L. Boscarol having announced his decision not to run again, and with the three incumbent aldermen all planning to leave the field, there will be a new mayor and three new aldermen.

If one of the remaining aldermen should choose to run we might have a mayor with some experience but would have at least four new aldermen. Two of the present aldermen have been in office for less than a year and while they have been learning fast, it is not something that one learns overnight.

We are fortunate that we have a strong administration. With the exception of perhaps one sector of the administration the people in it all appear to be top notch and well able to handle the problems of the community.

But a strong administration can pose problems if the council is weak. We would suggest that even the best-intentioned administration, faced with a new council or one which was not aware of its potential or its limitations, might tend to be stronger than the elected members of council and this is as dangerous as having a strong council and a weak administration.

They must balance each other or there is a tendency for one or the other to run with the ball and forget that it is the council's job to set out a policy and the administration's duty to carry out that policy. Squamish is on the threshold of another forward leap, provided the estuary study is not totally negative and cancels any hope of future development. There will be problems with growth; we must determine what we want and where it should be; we must be sure that we do not become a bedroom community for the city of Vancouver and the Lower Mainland, and we must look towards the redevelopment of the downtown area.

Development of the industrial park with the first tenants moving in next spring is a must. While some of the tenants will be moving from their present sites, it is hoped that the move will free up some of the waterfront-oriented land and perhaps provide more of this for heavier industry.

Governing a community like Squamish is not an easy job. There are many complex situations which must be resolved and this requires knowledge and judgement. It is not a task to be undertaken lightly or with an axe to grind. It is a serious commitment to the community in which you live and should be treated as such.

We don't envy the people who will be coming in to the municipal council this fall. They will have many weighty problems to face and will have to be prepared to spend hours of valuable time on these problems. It is a serious task and not one to be taken lightly.

Whether Squamish grows, as anticipated, or whether it is stifled as a result of the estuary decision it will still be a serious situation and one that will require skill and good judgement.

We hope that the people who come forward to seek public office will be prepared to give their best to the community and will be willing to devote the time and energy needed for the solution to the problems we will face.

Support the S.P.C.A.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is holding its annual Tag Day this weekend on Oct. 3 and Oct. 4. It is planned for the Feast of St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of animals.

The local branch of the society has been very active finding homes for unwanted animals and looking after those which have been neglected or mistreated. While most people do love their animals and take good care of them there are always those who leave the community and abandon their dogs or cats.

Squamish has also been a dumping area for unwanted animals from the Lower Mainland. Members of the S.P.C.A. take these animals in, nurture them and heal them if they are ill and then try to find good homes for them.

It's a worthwhile cause and if you are interested in animals, if you have a dearly loved pet of your own, then aid their cause by supporting the Tag Day on Friday and Saturday.

Vocational courses needed

Vocational courses are needed in the Squamish area and Capilano College is one of the facilities which should be providing these. It is foolish for the OTC to suggest as it has, that these courses can be offered by BCIT and therefore the college should not get into the program.

It must be aware that waiting lists for entrance into BCIT are lengthy and some people cannot take a year or two out of their lives to take the courses in the city even if it was possible to get into them. There are people with jobs who wish to upgrade their skills, housewives who have to be at home part of the day and young people who may be working but who want to improve their skills or learn something different.

To suggest that they go to Vancouver to take courses which may be offered there is not practical. We would argue with the OTC that the existing vocational facilities are underutilized and suggest that there are not adequate vocational courses for the people who wish to take them.

Stating the log loading - heavy equipment program which was offered this spring should be funded by federal or some other source is ridiculous. Assistance would be welcome but we feel that this is partially the duties of the community colleges. We do not agree with the heavy emphasis on academic studies, as recommended by groups such as the Occupational Training Council.

Community colleges were formed to fulfill the needs of the communities they serve and if the community sees a need for vocational courses such as the load loading and heavy equipment one, then that is what the college should be prepared to offer. It is not a question of what they think is right but a question of what is best for the community.

We see a need for tourist-oriented courses, aimed at supplying people for the hotel, motel and restaurant industry. With the growth of facilities at Whistler there will be ample room for jobs for people and the people in this community, in Whistler or in Pemberton should be able to take courses which would prepare them for those jobs.

Undoubtedly there are other recreation oriented industries and these should be explored with their needs and requirements considered. Should there be ski repair courses; courses for people who can teach sports such as tennis or other outdoor activities? Maybe there is no need for it but the people in the communities served by the college should be asked what they want; what they need and what they would like to see the college provide for them.

Once this is done an overall view of what can be offered in the form of short courses, upgrading skills or longer courses could be worked out and perhaps something uniquely designed for this area could be provided.

But to arbitrarily say that all courses in the vocational field can best be supplied by the existing facilities or through federal funding or by the industry involved is ludicrous.

We are all paying for the colleges which are funded by the government, which means all of us, and we should all have a say in what we want to see the colleges provide.

We do not want to see them become another academic institute, purely devoted to academics, or even to specialized training such as the business field or commercial courses. Rather they should serve a far broader base; answer the needs of the people, diverse as they may be, and try to provide programs for the people in the communities they serve, whether that be artistic, cultural, academic, vocation or skill upgrading.

A community college should be all things to all people and the way to do that is to provide something for everyone.

Howe Soundings

One of the aspects of living in a community such as ours is the number of comments one hears on the lack of things to do. We have heard people say that Squamish is nice but what is there to do with your time?

We wonder what they want or how they want to spend their time. There are so many things going on in Squamish that one has to be very selective in order not to get swamped and have no free time left at all.

If you are an adult there are all sorts of sports such as curling, tennis, golf, swimming (in summer and at the Easter Seal pool in winter) soccer, hockey, badminton, baseball, or softball and possibly some we have missed.

There are also the same kind of sports for youngsters including football and if jogging or running is your thing you can find lots of people to join you in that.

If you are interested in club or group activities the list is almost endless. There are the service clubs like Rotary, Lions, Kinsmen and Kiwanis and Elks. There are clubs affiliated with the various sports activities. There's a drama club and a folk music group.

If you like to read there's a public library with lots of books to interest a reader with the most varied tastes.

If you'd like to work for your community the Chamber of Commerce would welcome you and your knowledge in any field. Or perhaps you would have some interest in sailing and could join the yacht club (they have a power section as well and are interested in new members).

If you are interested in young people the youth groups like the beavers, cubs, scouts and guides and brownies are all looking for leaders and helpers. They would welcome your offers of assistance with open arms and, believe me they would be happy to have you. They are always crying for help and working with these young people is one of the most rewarding things you can do.

Each of the local churches has a women's organization and they would be glad to have new members. This is a wonderful way for newcomers to get to know more people, and to meet those who share your interest.

And if you still haven't found anything to interest you, how about the auxiliary to the hospital?

For a night out and a chance to learn something try some of the courses offered by the adult education department of the school district, Capilano College or even the Civic Centre. There should be something in the ones offered which would appeal to you and, if you are a newcomer, it's a marvelous way to meet new people.

So if you are saying there isn't anything to do we'd suggest you look into some of the above possibilities. They are endless and we can assure you that any of the above groups would welcome you with open arms.

Have you ever heard some of the twisted sayings from youngsters who were asked to complete some popular adages or proverbs?

Here are a few. Just see how apt they are even if they aren't what you're accustomed to hearing.

"It's easier to catch bees with honey than with a net."

People who live in glass houses shouldn't take their clothes off.

All work and no play... is disgusting. Eat, drink... and go to the bathroom.

Smile and the world smiles with you... cry, and you get into trouble. A picture is worth... about $10.

Have you got any you can add to this?

You know September has to be just about the nicest month of the year with crisp, clear, sunny days and cool sparkling nights. There's not enough heat in the sun to make it as unbearable as summer but it's pleasant to walk without a coat. The nights are cool enough to need a blanket to sleep under; not like summer when a sheet was sufficient and there's a tang in the air.

The tang is composed of the spicy scents of fruit and vegetables at their peak, combined with the scent of falling leaves, and sometimes with the smoke from their burning.

The birds have either left or are flocking up to leave and the ones which stay all winter are evident in greater numbers. Last week we saw three blue jays at the bird feeder and gorging themselves on the crabapples on the tree by the river. They were beautiful even if their raucous cries are anything but charming.

The leaves are turning, the red and gold of the maples accented by the dark green of the evergreens while the Canada maples, always a little slower in turning, will soon be flaunting shades of gold and yellow. The dogwoods turn magenta and crimson, and all shades between, from salmon to cerise. Already the winds are blowing the dead leaves along the streets and roadways, into piles and clumps in doorways and corners.

Soon it will be winter and we can expect to see snow and rain. But for this brief time we can rejoice in the color and scent of fall.

WONDERREADING

by ALEX

The American poet, Wallace Stevens, once commented that all history is modern history. It may sound like a sweeping statement but Antonia Fraser's latest biography "Royal Charles" (Knopf, 1979) certainly supports it. With a few minor adjustments in terminology, the situation in Restoration England (1660-1685) was merely a preview of today's political activity in almost any country, or province, which makes gestures towards a parliamentary system of government.

Fraser's story is thoroughly documented, but her style is as racy as that used in a James Bond novel as she tells how the dictatorial but efficient Charles I was dethroned and beheaded by a populace taken up with some doctrinaire notion about the rights of the 'people' as opposed to those of the ruling class.

England became a protectorate under Oliver Cromwell and the eldest son of the dethroned king spent twenty years in social, national, and political limbo. Then the 'people' in England tired of the dictatorship of doctrinaires repatriated the prince and helped him re-establish the monarchy as Charles II.

That accomplished, they set out in true political fashion to throw every possible obstacle into the way of efficient government. Parliamentary sessions with the new king degenerated into talk fests where such vital matters and defence and the economy of the country were ignored while members waffled about the possible religious affiliations of the next sovereign.

Doctrinarianism in those days was identified in religious terms rather than political ones. The opposing parties consisted of the Puritans who had destroyed the monarchy in the first place, the Presbyterians under whose aegis the Scottish nationalists collected, the Anglicans who represented the English establishment, and the Roman Catholics who, Fraser rather unsubtly suggests, were the innocent persecuted minority. Other parties obviously saw them as fifth columnists directed from a foreign nation.

A biographer can always be selective when presenting historical facts and the modern reader might question whether religion could really be such an all-pervasive issue in national affairs three hundred years ago. On the other hand, when one mentally replaces the denominational names of the late 1600's with the political ones of today - capitalism, socialism, human rightsism, constitutionalism, nationalism - and observes the manner in which their advances and dangers are presented to a gullible electorate, then the Restoration story becomes not only believable but modern.

Charles did not, himself, appear to have taken religious difficulties very seriously, other than to defend publicly the Protestant church in accordance with his father's final request. His queen, a former Portuguese princess, was a Roman Catholic and had her own chapel and her own coterie of Portuguese ladies in waiting - all of which might have done something to meet the emotional needs of the wife who had to share her wifely status with a whole succession of mistresses, whom Charles established in their own apartments in the royal household. (According to Fraser he had seven mistresses and a total of twelve children all of whom he officially recognized and gave titles to. There could have been many others.)

The author suggests that Charles chose Katherine of Portugal as a bride because of her money. He was constantly faced with financial problems, and the fact that the ownership of Tangier was transferred to England as a part of the marriage settlement did not appear nearly as significant as the cash dowry which was offered in addition to the territorial one.

Some years later it was realized that Tangier provided effective control of the entrance to the Mediterranean Sea. Charles called parliament to advance him the money to establish a military garrison there and maintain control of that strategic windfall. But parliament got off on the question of Charles's successor and his possible religious convictions in a sort of Gracie's finger diversion. No money was voted for Tangier and the post was eventually lost.

There seemed a certain degree of poetic justice in the fact that when Charles finally gave in to illness, seven Anglican bishops collected around his bed to ensure that he carried his protestant colours into the next world. But somehow or other with the help of his brother and the queen, the Catholic element managed to sneak a priest into the king's bedroom to 'receive him into the church'. Whether his conversion was sincere or whether it was merely in keeping with his ironic sense of humour remains a mystery. One is inclined to think that his succession of mistresses and royal bastards was a better indication of his true personal beliefs and motivations.

Foreign relations under Charles were as confusing as were the wiles by which he coped with the various religious extremists. While he was placating Parliament by appearing to make treaties with the Protestant Dutch, he was at the same time entering into secret treaties with the Catholic French. At one time he received secretly a large amount of money from wealthy Louis of France in return for keeping the English parliament in recess for a full eighteen months. During that time, England, too, operated without a budget, since only parliament could levy taxes.

Despite his reputation as personally immoral, Charles was abstemious in food and drink, and was probably the original advocate of jogging as a means of maintaining health. He himself took daily walks outside the palace but he was such a long-legged individual and his pace was so brisk, that his attendants had to resort to jogging to keep up with him.

He was as tolerant and accessible and thoughtful towards ordinary individual subjects as he was wily in dealing with their group representatives. He is said to have apologized to those watching at his death bed for the fact that he was inconveniencing them in taking so long to die.

Fraser writes with authority not only about Charles's fascinating personal life and his dealings with parliament, but also about the complicated relationship between England and France, Spain, and Holland at a time when the seeds of imperialism were just being sown, and each little political unit was determined to make a play for an advantageous position in any kind of international constellation.

It was only to be expected that the author should catch in this her latest book, all the subtleties of life in the Stewart period. She had already written biographies of Charles's great grandmother, Mary Queen of Scots, his grandfather James I of England and VI of Scotland, and of Oliver Cromwell, the original of the modern 'people' doctrinaires.

She does not disappoint her readers. "Royal Charles" is a fascinating book, and a thoroughly modern one.

LETTERS

Minister of Highways
Parliament Buildings
Victoria, B.C.
Dear Sir:

On November 15, 1978 I wrote to you as secretary of the road safety committee of the Pemberton Women's Institute. In this letter we expressed concern over the fact that children walking to and from school, plus other pedestrians only have a very narrow, unpaved shoulder to walk on. This shoulder, in most areas, also slopes quite abruptly towards the ditch. The area we are concerned about is between Pemberton Village and Miller Creek Bridge.

In your letter of reply dated November 29, 1978 you stated that the policy was "to provide wider hard shoulders in the close vicinity of schools, to enable younger children to walk or cycle from their homes without travelling in the vehicle lanes."

Your letter also stated that, "the ministry's local staff have been asked to look into the feasibility of doing this near your school, and if there are no unforeseen difficulties it should be possible to have the work done when construction conditions will allow it."

To date (almost two years later) we have seen no improvement in the shoulders in the area mentioned. In fact, there has been some ditching done and now the shoulders appear even narrower. Please advise what plans are being considered to improve pedestrian facilities in the Pemberton Area.

Yours truly,
Shirley Krotz,
Secretary

Editor, The Times:
Once again we have finished another Squamish Days weekend and with the help of people like yourself it is destined to be one of the finest on record.

We, of the Squamish Days Committee would like to take the opportunity to say "Thanks" for your contribution and we look forward to your support next year.

Yours truly,
Don Hobbs,
Chairman

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of both myself and the entire Squamish Fire Department, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you in writing for the tremendous 'write-up' and photographs compiled in the article in last week's issue of the Times on our Department.

We are all proud to be Firefighters and be able to serve this Community in the way we do. Thanks again for your support.

D. Orser
Fire Chief

Editor, The Times:
I have always known that we live in a geologically unstable area but, goodness, I never thought it could be so bad!

The mountains around us are going to cave in they say; the trouble appears to be that several slides are threatening us taxpayers.

As for slide no. 1 which was said to menace our water main at the intake of the water reservoir, a tunnel was proposed but only after costly exploration work, found to be impractical and dismissed; it was decided instead to bury the water line so as to protect it from the slide - an excellent move!

Then, according to the Crippen report, the Cheekye River could bring down a mud slide - which could cover a great part of the Brackendale and Cheekye area - even though it seems hard to believe that such a small river could have such destructive possibilities, especially when its river basin is quite small.

No serious explanation has been given as to where the trouble spot in this particular area lies, although a dyke has been proposed to alleviate the threat - but houses have been built in the past and are continuing to be erected in the said troubled area - and, therefore, how serious is this threat? Is it really serious enough to warrant the construction of such an extensive and expensive dyke? In order to protect what? May I ask? Any of our creeks or rivers could bring down mud and slide for that matter.

Then of course, we have the Garibaldi barrier, keeping Garibaldi and a great deal of our valley in suspense.

To disposes the people of Garibaldi because of this barrier is too incredible indeed; with the advance technology such as we have in this day and age, that threat could have been eliminated, in order to guarantee safety for all the people from Garibaldi to Squamish. And if stabilization of this barrier would have proven too costly, then perhaps this monster should have been dismantled.

Telling the people of Garibaldi to get off their land, without receiving a penny in advance, to reinstate themselves in an uncertain area elsewhere has not been, exactly, a brilliant move; anyone much less competent could have made, such a disruptive, grossly unfair and heartbreaking suggestion - for this land, to some of those people, has been their life.

Whoever is responsible for inflicting this cruelty on the people in Garibaldi should be forced to account for their actions - since, once again, human rights are seriously threatened.

Finding a better solution to the problem, to the satisfaction of all the people in the area from Garibaldi to Squamish would have shown a little more intelligence and concern on behalf of our leaders.

Mind you, I am not challenging the Crippen Report but has such a vital report been double-checked? In order to prove its soundness? There are certain theories which can be frightening and convincing and then, at a later date, could be dismissed as a mathematical error... or, in this case, a geological misjudgement and we could very well see a new subdivision in this area being developed at a later date.

It is very strange that our councillors, or the regional representatives have had nothing positive to suggest while witnessing this revolting, heartrending action, in an area just a stone's throw away from Squamish and Whistler as well.

It should be understood if the barrier does go, releasing a lake of water, that its damaging effects would not stop in Garibaldi, but would continue with severe destruction all the way down the low lying area from Garibaldi to Squamish.

The much controversial new hospital site in Brackendale enjoys a fair elevation, and most of the valley would be buried under twenty to thirty feet of mud and water before it would affect the new hospital site in Brackendale.

If this threat is of such severe magnitude that it warrants dispossessing the people of Garibaldi, then should there not have been more serious action taken already in order to safeguard such a vast area of heavily populated and valuable land, and to protect all the north and south bound traffic in the threatened area as well?

I also find it astonishing that the Intermediate Care Society has withdrawn its support towards the new hospital and have gone their own way, after spending a great deal of time and taxpayers' money on useless preliminary testing on sites which should have been dismissed after a first look at them for being highly unsuitable. They dragged along during the elimination process from a total of eleven sites, down to a final two - and then called it "quits" when there should have been a united and concerted effort to bring about a combined facility in an area which would be more beneficial to the recuperation and health of the patients - a high location, clean air, lots of sunshine, tranquility, reasonably safe from floods and chemical spills - all of which Brackendale would provide. Regrettably however, the Intermediate Care Society chose, to sacrifice all of this for the less important issues such as the convenience of shopping in a rather polluted downtown area, where the possibility of a serious chemical spill does exist.

As to the comments concerning an earthquake, if it is of severe magnitude, its location will make little difference - the facilities would collapse probably. There is a good possibility that Squamish may see a major earthquake or a serious chlorine spill before the barrier in Garibaldi ever slips. It seems to me something is not quite wholesome and one cannot help but wonder what is behind it all.

Sherry Stevens and Dave Sweeney display the trophies they won at the annual cross-country Hamilton handicap at Brockton oval September 20. Stevens won the open girls race and Sweeney won the open boys. The race was 2 1/2 miles long.

HSS Sports News

Intermediate volleyball
The intermediate volleyball team won its first game in the season. The scores of the games played against Handsworth were 15-3, 15-8 and 15-3. The girls' enthusiasm and team spirit aided in this first triumph.

Cross country
On the last three consecutive Saturdays, HSS boys' and girls' cross country teams have raced in the Vancouver Olympic Club's cross country meets, high school division, which were held in Stanley Park over a 2 1/2 mile (4000 metre) course. The students produced many good performances over the first two weeks. Most notably was Roman LeHocky who finished second the first week, and third the next, in spite of improving his time. Other students taking part were: Kevin Rutherford, David Sweeney, Jamie Stevens, Mike Ainscough, Sherry Stevens, Sophia Ciechanowski, Trina Gardner, and Michelle Repo-Hendsbee.

On the third Saturday, the students were handicapped on the basis of their performance during the previous two weeks, with the slowest going first and the fastest last. Therefore, the winners were those whose performances improved the most.

With an excellent effort, HSS won both the high school boys' and high school girls' divisions with David Sweeney finishing first for the boys and Sherry Stevens finishing first for the girls.

Rugby
The first game of the rugby season was held at HSS on Thursday, Sept. 25. Both the spectators and players demonstrated a great deal of enthusiasm and support for this season's open game. The HSS players gave a physically strong performance, and the tackling by the backs was particularly good.

While the HSS team did defeat Hillside in a 10-0 victory, there are several areas in which the team must improve - notably in the set scrums, and the backs in their alignment and passing.

Scoring for HSS were Rick Pennell, 1 try, 4 points; Mike Ainscough, 1 conversion, 2 points; and Nick Pascuzzi, 1 try, 4 points. There were also several strong runs from Steve Harrington and Steve Banks. This triumph for HSS marked an impressive start to the season.

HSS soccer
The boys' soccer team has played four games to date. The first game was a 3-1 loss to Argyle, a game in which the defense played "give away" soccer, and in which our volunteer goalkeeper, Laszlo Beczer, pressed into service in the absence of Spencer Fischen, showed a lot of potential. Unfortunately, the defence continued to play weakly against Sutherland and the result was 6-0 defeat which could have been greater but for some heroics from our volunteer in goal (he even saved a penalty). The return of regular keeper, Spencer Fischen, (in fact, this was his high school debut), was supposed to be a source of inspiration to our sieve-like defense, but an 8-0 defeat, could hardly be termed an improvement. This was inflicted upon the team by Burnaby Central, and team members were becoming visibly discouraged.

The fact that the teams making up our opposition were ranked in the top 10 in the province was small consolation with the prospect of Burnaby North providing the next opponent.

Some positional changes, notably moving captain Terry Hurlbut to midfield, a definite change of attitude, and a willingness to adhere strictly to the game plan got the team off to a good start and, in fact, it might easily have been in the lead at half-time.

As it was, 0-0 was a much better score than could have been reasonably expected. The second period had seemed endless. Constant Burnaby pressure stretched the defense to the limits, but the players held on grimly until full time when the score was still 0-0.

Currie wins fall handicap

Susie Currie was the winner of the Business Ladies Fall Handicap at the Squamish Valley Golf and Country Club.

Dora Rourke placed second with Lundy Candy in third place. Winner of the strongest drive and the closest to the pin was Dora Rourke.

Squamish United ties with NorVan

Under normal circumstances "gaining" a tie would not be headline material for Squamish United. This season however has been somewhat different. After two solid 4-0 thumpings in the big city in the two previous weekends, the United men returned determined to turn things around in their home season opener hosting NorVan Optical.

NorVan boasts a Canadian junior international player on its roster and is rated by some as the top team in the division. During the first half which ended scoreless, and part way into the second half it looked as though Squamish would do it.

However midway through the second half NorVan got a break and a goal on which Squamish keeper Barry Galley had no chance. This seemed to slow the game down and it began to look as though loss number three was coming up.

With but three minutes remaining Jamie Ellis scored one of the most spectacular goals seen on Centennial Fields. With his back to the goal and 20 feet out Ellis saw a ball coming in from the left side - in the air. With all the grace of Pele, Jamie scissor-kicked the ball squarely into the NorVan net. The suddenness of the goal left everyone frozen for a few seconds but when play resumed there was a noticeable surge in the spirit of the United side. All concerned are hoping that this lone goal in 267 minutes of play will be the forerunner of many.

All of the Squamish players deserve credit for an entertaining game but some feel that special remarks should go to the back four, Ken Adams, Doug Muir, Jim Dunnett and Imre Sorban for controlling this powerful visiting club.

Next Sunday Squamish hosts the Portuguese Club of Vancouver at 2 p.m. at Centennial Field.

FISHER

"The Wood Misers"

Our stoves are built to be Wood Misers. Our patented design forces uncombusted wood gases back over the flame repeatedly, producing a cleaner burn from less fuel. In fact, Fisher Stoves can hold a hardwood fire longer than many other wood burning stoves.

Made right here in Canada and covered by a ten year warranty, the Fisher Stove is built to last. Each Fisher Stove is made from 1/2" and 3/4" steel plate. All seams are welded air tight and the cast iron doors are specially constructed with wedge bolt handles and custom fitted door seals to prevent gaps, smoke or fire hazards. Inside, each stove is lined with high density fire brick to retain heat longer and prevent burn out or warping.

A Fisher Stove is really two stoves in one: a heating stove and a cooking stove. The two separate surfaces allow two different cooking areas.

There is a Fisher Stove just the right size for your home or cottage and so easy to install, you can do it yourself. Fisher Stoves truly build "The Wood Misers".

Fire Stoves Indulged

20 REASONS

Why you should buy a Fisher Woodstove!

- You can save up to 50% on your heat bill.
- Of several models available, one is "just right" for you.
- One of the most efficient wood stoves you can buy.
- Open our double door models to enjoy all the pleasures of a fireplace.
- Many eye pleasing colors from which to choose.
- A unique secondary combustion chamber that allows almost total burning of wood gases.
- Heavy steel construction for many years of use.
- "Power failure insurance": The heat stays on when the power goes off.
- Firebrick lining prevents firebox burnout.
- Two cooking surfaces with two different temperatures.
- Patented spin-draft controls regulate air intake and heat output.
- Flue extends into firebox for less heat loss.
- It's the only home appliance you'll ever buy that won't need replacement or costly repairs.
- Uses wood, a renewable resource. Therefore, the availability and cost of fuel aren't dependent on Middle East politics or utility rates.
- Rugged cast iron door that never warps.
- Quality workmanship built into every stove.
- Gravity lock handles.
- Virtually airtight construction means wood burns longer.

Squamish Earful

by Maureen Gilmour

The date has been set, Sunday, October 26 for the 4th Annual Squamish Run. You can pre-register in the Times office or at the Howe Sound Secondary School. It'll cost you $2.00 to pre-register (and please do) but double that amount if you register on the day of the run. Medals and prizes will be awarded and everyone who finished will receive a T-shirt.

Stork Story - EDMONDSON - Greg and Lynda Edmondson are pleased to announce the birth of their son, Michael Gregory, born in the Lions Gate Hospital on September 16 and weighting 7 lbs. 3 ozs. This is a brother for Amanda and Angela.

Mrs. Grace Lindquist was in Squamish last week visiting her son and daughter in law and grandsons, Pastor Jack and Mary Lindquist and Nels, Eric and David. Mrs. Lindquist now resides in Victoria.

The B.C.S.P.C.A. Squamish Valley Branch is holding Tag Days this weekend, Friday, October 3 and Saturday, October 4. The SPCA needs your assistance to continue the work of subsidizing spaying and neutering - of inspections for cruelty - of care of injured strays - and most of all, of finding home for kittens, puppies, cats and dogs, and even the occasional bird. Please be generous. If you would like to help, please call 898-5552 (after 5 p.m.) or 892-5357.

When Stedman's had its Dollar Days recently a draw was held for a ten piece cookware set. Congrats to lucky winner, May Thom.

Birthday persons this week are: Sharron Johns, Michael Looyen, Michael Keeler, Tommy Newman, Melody Girgulis, Kim Goodall, Rose Watson, Pamela Barr, Gordon Sellers, Jennifer O'Neill, Allan Kelley, Rosanna Millia, Jamie Burnie, Anne Boscaroli, Christine Bukowsky, Erik Halvorson, Monica Schwarz, Jason James, Shelly Gatzke, Alice Makowichuk, Heather Sidsworth, Marcia Dheilly, Ione Behrner, Sarah Ramus, Stephen White, David Brown, Carrie Sargent, Al Bird, Barrie Rush, Bob Whissell, Lisa Goodall, Tynann Tattersall, Margaret Hinds, Sandy Moratti, and Mathew Carey. Belated birthday greetings to Peggy Tinklin.

Miss Monica Ardiel celebrates her first birthday on Tuesday.

Please take note that starting this Saturday, October 4 the Squamish Times office will be closed each Saturday.

The Cultural Services Branch of the Provincial Government has scholarships available to encourage young artists to combine and expand their horizons in various forms of art. Marcia Dheilly applied for such a grant and received a scholarship worth $360. Tapestry and Theo Moorman types of weaving will be given by Hilda Gerson this fall and next spring different techniques in weaving will be taken from Miencke Mees.

Marcia is currently enrolled in grade 12 at Burnaby South High School where she is able to take graphic arts and photography. The weaving courses are taken in the evening and are over and above Marcia's regular school work.

Wedding anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Reimer, Mr. and Mrs. Joey Rea (their first), Mr. and Mrs. Bill Auld, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McAdam, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrie Schmidt, their 36th.

And do you believe that marriage is that part of a girl's life that comes between lipstick and the broomstick??

Peter Kirkdale (our neighbour) is a fellow who is in excellent shape. What I mean is - he had to be as he entered the Royal Victoria Marathon (26 miles) on September 20 and completed the gruelling race in 3 hours 38 minutes. He had a faster time for this race than when he entered the International Marathon in Vancouver last year. Accompanying Peter were his "fan club" consisting of his wife Debbie and daughters Lori and Tracy.

Bill and Margaret Auld and children Sheena and Andrew visited relatives in 100 Mile House and then went on to Williams Lake to see former residents, Gilbert and Mamie White.

Les and Aleeta Armstrong were pleased to have their son in law and daughter Fred and Leigha Vinson and son John from Victoria here for a visit.

Last year the Ladies Auxiliary to the Howe Sound Minor Hockey Association really got into high gear and with the help of many mothers, the L.A. was able to support minor hockey in fund raising, phoning committees etc. President June Higham would like to see a good turnout at the Annual Meeting 8 p.m. this Thursday, October 2 in the junior lounge, Civic Centre.

A "P.S." to the above: Please check the sports page re missing uniforms and socks from last year. If your son did not turn in these items last March, it would be appreciated if they were returned to the Road Runner Sporting Goods store as soon as possible.

Stork Story - SCULLY - Mr. and Mrs. E. Wirachowsky are pleased to announce the arrival of their first granddaughter, Erica Lynne, born in the Areson General Hospital, Iroquois Falls, Ontario. She weighed 8 lbs. 3 ozs. and was born on September 13. Christopher is pleased with his little sister's arrival. Proud parents are Barry and Gail Scully.

The first of the season get together for the Folk Song Circle is planned for Monday, October 6 at the Brackendale Art Gallery. It's an informal evening when you are invited to participate or relax and listen. Singing starts at 8 p.m. and there is no charge for admission.

Kathy Hoy was pleased to have her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. Batt from Bexhill-on-Sea, Sussex, England here for a five week visit. Sightseeing in the area, Vancouver and the Island were much enjoyed by the threesome plus visiting with many of Kathy's relatives.

I like this Thought for the Week: Yesterday is a dream gone. Tomorrow is a vision. Enjoy today it is yours.

Not sure who voted for Margaret Thatcher in the last general election in Britain but I was hard pressed to find anyone who had voted for her in Scotland. Whether it's her new tax policies and high unemployment or the fact she's not a "he" - well, I'm not quite sure but she definitely is not a popular prime minister in that part of the country.

Cliff Kilbreath and Peter Letkeman turn the sod for the Valleycliffe Christian Fellowship Church as Rev. John Esau looks on. The church, which will be built near the Valleycliffe mall, will seat 154, with room for expansion, and cost approximately $250,000. The completion date is tentatively set for early next year.

Coming and Going

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. Mary Goad included Mr. and Mrs. Ed Prebo of California, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Heise of Seattle and Mr. and Mrs. Les Garvin of Boundary Bay. Soon after their departure Mrs. Goad was delighted to enjoy a visit from a cousin from Arnprior, Ontario, Mrs. Muriel Saunders. It was Mrs. Saunders' first trip to the west coast; her visit included cousins in Vancouver and Surrey.

The best of luck to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Antille who have left Squamish for the sunny slopes of White Rock. Their many friends were sorry to see them leave but hope to see them fairly often.

JEAN AND GORD DEMCHUCK

Puppet Town comes to town Saturday

Puppet Town is coming to Squamish courtesy of Jean and Gord Demchuk. They along with their favourite characters from Puppet Town will be in Squamish this coming weekend.

The puppets first appearance will be at the Highlands Mall on Saturday, October 4 from 10 - 2 p.m. All youngsters are invited.

Saturday evening, it's Kids Night Out when children of all ages (teens included) and parents too will be welcome. The meeting place is Squamish United Church and the time, 7 p.m.

Both Jean and Gord Demchuk have worked at Timberline Ranch in Maple Ridge with children from 8 - 18 years. They have been in Squamish before doing a Kids Crusade at the Pentecostal Church and also a Puppet Seminar for the teen groups, TICs at the United Church and spent time with the Wednesday night Church school as well.

As the Demchuks know their work with children is so important, they make their puppets alive and exciting. Each puppet has its own character and personality, especially Cuckoo - it's worth the effort if you haven't seen him! The puppets tell the old Bible stories in a new way and apply them to our living today with morals etc.

The Demchuks reside in Burnaby now while Gord attends Bible School.

It's Rally Sunday (for everyone) on October 5th at Squamish United Church and Gord and Jean will be participating at the 11 a.m. service. The official Sunday School's 200th Anniversary will also be celebrated. This celebration is world wide as it was 200 years ago that Robert Raikes of England introduced teaching to children on Sunday mornings. Come and take part in the service and birthday party after the Rally.

Sawdust & Shavings

A tip of the Tatlow hat to Mr. Griffin's class at Brackendale Elementary School. Tracey Hunt suggested the students take money from their piggy banks for the Terry Fox Fund and they came up with $13. Good work; kids.

Wonder if it was a Freudian slip when a speaker recently said, "things like Whistler come apart."

This must have been wildlife month or something. One of the local ladies told us that she saw three raccoons waiting at the side of the road the other night to cross from the Mamquam Blind Channel area to the school grounds and on Tuesday morning Liz Larsen was coming down to the Chamber of Commerce luncheon just before noon when three deer, a doe and two fawns crossed the highway along the straight stretch south of Centennial Park.

What with the bears still being reported around the Burger Baron and in other areas of town we're not as far from the wilderness as we may believe we are.

He who laughs last did not understand the joke!

Big 3 News

Tonight! Tonight is the Big 3 reunion at 7:00 p.m. in the Second Avenue Centre! Hope to see you there.

But if you are reading your paper a few days late and you missed the Big 3 reunion on Tuesday evening, don't despair. You can still become involved by calling the Women's Resource Centre at 892-5322 to find out what happened.

Or here is another idea. How about supporting the Big 3 by selling tickets to the women's health series? The series is educational and covers all aspects of women's development. There is something for everyone. You can share a series ticket with a friend or buy tickets for individual sessions if you prefer. Here is the line-up:
October 8: Preventative Medicine and Self Awareness. Speaker is Cathy Zuest, the nurse at Capilano College. A film will be shown.

October 15: Eating Right. Speaker is Joyce Mackay from the B.C. Dairy Foundation.

October 22: Family Planning: Your Decision. Lezie Wagman from Planned Parenthood will be speaking and a film will be shown.

October 29: After the Baby. Speaker will be Allison Howard from Post-Partum Counselling and a film will be shown.

November 5: Change of Life. Hear Dr. Marlene Hunter, a West Vancouver physician who speaks from wide experience, including her own.

November 12: Drugs and You. Two speakers from the Women's Health Collective will be discussing over-the-counter as well as prescription drugs, especially Valium. Tickets are available at the Women's Resource Centre of Capilano College and at the Times office.

Meanwhile — in Scotland

By MAUREEN GILMOUR

After our frustration on arriving in Scotland things got progressively better. Walking down Princess Street in Edinburgh was an experience itself. With the Festival and Tattoo in progress while we were there and judging by the many languages spoken (French, German, Spanish, Japanese, etc.) it almost seemed like the tourists outnumbered the natives.

I wonder what other city has one side of the main street reserved for shopping, eating places, hotels etc. and the other side of the street for a park? Princess Street Gardens was a great place to visit after a hectic couple of hours of shopping. If you hit it right, a band concert might be in progress or some impromptu group would be entertaining somewhere in the park.

A bus tour took George, Kevin, Jean 'n me to Glamis Castle, the Scottish home of the Bowes Lyon Family. The Queen Mother was born in this castle and she and her husband, the late King George VI spent part of their honeymoon there. From the dining room, through the crypt, drawing room, the chapel to the Royal apartment history surrounded us. Everytime we saw the ruins of an old castle or fortress in the distance and after we had toured Glamis Castle the thought kept going through my head of just how young our country is.

What we know as supper time here is called "having our tea" to "High Tea" in the restaurants over there. Should you go into a restaurant in the late afternoon you can either have "Afternoon Tea" served with scones, butter, jam and a gooey (delicious) sweet or High Tea. Now if you decide on the latter, it's a full meal with all the afternoon tea goodies included. This first experience came at the Grampian Hotel in Perth and the little Scottish lady was most patient with us. If some of your friends and relatives invite you to their home in the evening - for a drink, cup of coffee or tea, sandwiches etc., then that would be called supper. Are you confused?? We were!

While visiting my cousin and wife, Bill and Lillian Rankin in Kirkintilloch, they took us to a dinner and dance. It was to Kilsyth for its annual Celtic Football (soccer) Awards night. The food was smashing to say the least, and after the awards were given out, the dancing began and that was a ball. The president of the club introduced himself to us and welcomed his Canadian visitors. In the course of the conversation I innocently asked if this was a Celtic Rangers club!! That wasn't exactly the right thing to say as I found out the Celtics and Rangers (Glasgow variety) are arch enemies. I didn't endear myself to him at all when I said one of the most popular players Vancouver ever had was probably now playing for the Celtics. Wrong again folks - he plays for the Rangers!

I might have this spelled wrong but I'll take a chance. When was the last time any of you gals did the "slosh" at a dance??? It is very popular in Scotland and the dance floor gets filled with ladies and they do a type of disco dance. Everyone seems to know the steps from the youngest to the oldest. Oh yes, one more memorable moment came when my cousin was asked to sing. He has a fantastic voice and his first song was dedicated to his Canadian cousin. The tears flowed freely when he sang "Because".

No trip would be complete to the Bonnie land I'm sure without a trip to "Burns Country". The memorials and museums are in the County of Ayr with the Nation Burns Memorial and Cottage Homes in Mauchline. It's truly a "Living Memorial" to the great poet Robert Burns. We also had an opportunity to visit the Burns Cottage where "Rabbie" was born over 200 years ago. When it came time to have our pictures taken on the Brig O' Doon, one son was getting slightly bored and wanted to know why it was so important-like did Burns cross it every morning to go to school!!! Some people's kids! That same day George saw a group of young horsemen - maybe getting ready for a fox hunt and he thought he must get a picture. In his excitement he forgot to take the lens cap off the camera. So much for that photo! Toodle - oooooo - frae noo!

Ursula and Gunther Lerch were enjoying a Viennese waltz at the Oktoberfest.

Assertiveness training offered

Are you sure you want to be Assertive?

Some people think being assertive means being tough, hostile or pushy. It doesn't mean that.

Some people think assertiveness training is learning how to get your own way no matter what. It isn't that.

Being assertive means being respectful of other people's rights and also of your own. Assertiveness training helps you to deal with other people in a respectful way without being either submissive or overwhelming.

Do you sometimes have difficulty saying no to requests from friends? Do you find it hard to give criticism? Do you find yourself thinking one thing and saying something else? Do you feel guilty when you cannot please others?

Perhaps the assertiveness training course offered by the Women's Resource Centre of Capilano College is for you. It is being held on Tuesday afternoons from 1 to 3:30 p.m. starting October 6. The instructor is Rachel Aarons, coordinator of the Women's Resource Centre.

Are you busy during the day? Another course that might interest you and if offered during the evening. Speaking up is designed to help people who are shy or anxious about speaking in public. The instructor is Astrid Davidson from the B.C. Federation of Labor, a woman who has learned to speak up in many difficult situations. This course will be Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:30 p.m. starting October 16.

To register for assertiveness training or speaking up, contact the Capilano College office at 38038 Cleveland Ave. 892-5322.

Flying club meeting Oct. 1

Ladies Auxiliary regular meeting is tonight (Tuesday)

September 30th at 7:30 p.m. Please ladies, a good turnout is requested.

Points to Ponder taken from the George Derby Pulse newsletter.

The Optimist Creed

To be strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind. To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet. To make all your friends feel that there is something in them. To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true. To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best. To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own. To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future. To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile. To give as much time to the improvement of yourself then you have no time to criticize others. To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Always work harder at being what you should be, than hiding what you are. Nothing can cook your goose quicker than a boiling temper. Back in two weeks.

ARTS COUNCIL NEWS

The next meeting takes place on Wednesday, October 8th, at 7:30 p.m. Since this will be the last meeting before the Arts and Crafts Market on October 25th we urge those who are planning to participate to attend. Information about the Market can be had by phoning Maureen Brown at 898-3188. Leona Ingraham will give a short demonstration of quilting and will show some of her work. Everyone is welcome to attend.

PRO-POWER
THE KEY TO ABUNDANT ENERGY

The energy food of the future is here now

The one thing we all need in life more than anything else is ENERGY. If we do not have enough our life becomes dull, frustrated and uneventful. To make things happen we need ENERGY and lots of it, and we need a continual supply of it every day of our lives. PRO-POWER was developed for the athlete, the busy executive, the exhausted housewife, the tired husband, an as a nutritional booster for active children. In fact PRO-POWER can be used by anyone who would like to get more out of life by putting more into life.
