Lady Beware program speaks on rape prevention methods

You are walking alone on a dimly-lit street, late at night. Suddenly a man grabs your arm and starts to drag you into a dark alley.

You know you are going to be mugged, or worse, raped.

What do you do?

If the man is unarmed, fight dirty.

An RCMP pamphlet on 43 ways a woman can protect herself from rape or attack advises you to scream loudly and fight dirty: Gouge his eyes with your keys or thumbs or scratch him with your fingernails. Do this, only if he is unarmed.

If you are attacked from behind, dig your heels into his instep, kick his shins or grab his little finger and bend it back.

However, if you have been overpowered by an armed attacker who is determined on rape, remember that in a rape he may kill you if you refuse to submit, the pamphlet states.

The RCMP and the women's organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints presented the program Lady Beware, Wednesday night.

A film, sponsored by the B.C. Police Commission and B.C. rape crises centres, spoke on the statistics involved in rape, the trauma experienced by the victims and the two distinct views held by two rapists who were in the film.

Any woman, regardless of race, age or appearance, is a potential rape victim. Women, from a mere infant to a 93-year-old, have been raped.

One of the rapists in the film said the act had nothing to do with the woman. She just happened to be in the right place at the wrong time.

The other rapist said if the woman had fought back, had shown some aggressiveness, he would have backed off.

The statistics on rape are frightening.

Only one in 10 cases are reported. Half of the women are threatened or assaulted with a weapon. It is estimated that a rape occurs once every 17 minutes. Of the rapists who are convicted, half of them will commit the crime again after their release.

Rape is not a sexual act, but an act of male dominance and aggression. For a brief period of time, the man feels he is in control and does not have to worry about the consequences.

The film said a self-defence course for women is good, but warned it cannot be learned overnight.

Other methods you can use to protect yourself are:

*If a man has already broken in, retreat into your home and put other doors between the two of you. Get to a phone and call the police. The emergency number in Squamish is 911. If he is in the same room with you and is unarmed, fight him or, if possible, run to a neighbour's house and phone the police.

*Memorize a description of the intruder. When he has left, write it down as soon as you have called the police. Do not rely on memory.

*Never pick up hitchhikers and never hitchhike. Cst. Brian Sowden told the women at the meeting that he never picks up a hitchhiker unless he or she is a close personal friend.

*Always keep your automobile well-maintained to avoid possible breakdowns. Check your gas gauge every time you start your car and check your tires at least once a week for possible wear.

*Always check the back seat of your car before you enter it. Carry a small flashlight with you for doing this at night.

*Keep your car doors locked day or night and keep your car windows closed. If you need ventilation, open the window an inch or so, never enough to permit a hand to enter, and use the air vents.

*If another car is following you, do not drive home. To check if the car is following you, drive around a few corners. If it is, then drive to a police station or into a service station with your horn blaring. This draws attention to you and may scare the other driver off.

*If you are stopped at a traffic light and someone tries to enter your car, keep honking the horn. If it is safe to do so, go through a red light. You may even attract the attention of a police officer.

*Always be aware of the possibility that you may be accosted by day or night while out walking. Do not daydream.

*If you are walking on a sidewalk and believe you are being followed, cross the street. If you are still followed, head for a place where there are people, as quickly as you can.

*If possible, do not walk alone, particularly at night.

*If you are walking and being followed by a car, turn around and walk back the other way. The car will have to turn around and will then be on the opposite side of the street.

*If you are walking and someone in a car asks you for directions, remain several feet from the car as you give them. Stay far enough away to be safe from a hand that might grab your purse or you. Do not get in the car, unless he or she is a close personal friend.

*Do not wear revealing clothing while walking alone on the street. If you are dressed for a party, add a jacket or wrap to your costume if you must do any walking enroute.

*If you must walk alone at night, plan your route in advance. Know the restaurants and shops that will be open. Know the locations of telephone booths and police phones.

*Never walk near high shrubbery, dark buildings or parked cars. If you are surrounded by both, walk in the middle of the sidewalk. If the sidewalk seems too dark, walk in the centre of the street.

*Never take short cuts through alleys or parks at night. If at all possible, walk closely behind a group of people who look trustworthy.

*When you walk through a parking lot, have your car keys out and ready to slip in the lock.

*If your bus stop is not adequately lighted, complain to the transit authorities.

*While waiting for a subway train at night, remain near the person in the change booth.

*If you go the movies alone, avoid dark corners or rear seats in the orchestra or balcony.

*If you are bothered by someone in a theatre, express your feelings, change your seat or complain to an usher. If there is no usher, scream. This is the quickest means of getting help.

*If someone walking near you is making you uncomfortable, look up at a lighted window and wave. Pretend that someone is watching out for you.

*If someone sitting next to you on the bus makes you feel uncomfortable, express your feelings to him. If he continues, move closer to the bus driver or get off at the next stop, preferably where there are a number of people.

*Consider purchasing your own lock and key for motel doors, bureau drawers and closets. Several travel locks are available and usually cost between $3 and $6.

*Never give any personal information, your name, address, age, marital status, to a stranger on the telephone.

*Never let a stranger on the telephone know when you will or will not be home.

*If your husband is not home, do not indicate this. Simply say that he is not available, take the caller's telephone number and tell him he will return the call.

*If children are old enough to be left alone, instruct them never to tell a caller that they are alone.

*If you live alone, have only your first initial and last name listed in the telephone book.

*If you receive an obscene telephone call, hang up immediately and notify the police. Put a metal police whistle near the telephone and blow it into the mouthpiece should you receive another obscene call.

*Ask the landlord to install bright lights in all corridors if they are not there. If he will not comply, chip in with other tenants and buy bright bulbs. If he objects, threaten to call the building inspector.

*Ask your landlord if he will remove all draperies, which may hide someone lying in wait for a tenant, from the lobby.

*An unmanned elevator is like an automobile in which you are a hitchhiker. Do not enter one with anyone who makes you feel uneasy. If he enters on an intermediate floor, simply walk out of the elevator.

*Stand next to the control panel in the elevator. If accosted, push the emergency button or several floor buttons to get off.

*Never have your marital status or your first or middle name on your nameplate or mailbox. For example, Miss Jane Ellen Logan should immediately be changed to J. Logan.

Last rites for Mrs. R. Patrick

Funeral services for Mrs. Georgina Juanita Patrick, who passed away on May 7, were held in Squamish on Saturday, May 9 at 1 p.m. in the Squamish United Church with Rev. J. Lindquist officiating. Interment was in Mt. Garibaldi Cemetery.

Mrs. Patrick was a member of a pioneer railroad family and was well known in Squamish and Lillooet.

Mrs. Patrick was 69 years of age and had spent many of those years in Squamish where they had been living during the last years her husband worked for the railway and since his retirement.

She is survived by her husband Ray and one son, Don R. Patrick of Squamish, and one daughter, Mrs. Lorna J. Macholz of Prince George, six grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

She is also survived by one brother, Jack Rebagliatti of Fountain, and three sisters, Mrs. Ina Horton, Mrs. Jessie Christensen and Mrs. Victoria English, all of Vancouver.

Ellis Moving and Storage moves into town

If you are planning on moving, talk to manager Jamie Ellis for free estimates on local or long distance moving.

Ellis established the business last November with a large moving van. He can do large or small jobs and also provides packing and shipping supplies, such as boxes, tape, paper, etc.

He has adequate storage for any needs, including furniture and commercial items.

For more information call 892-3710.

*Keep a list posted of places where you can get emergency help in the building if you need it, the superintendent, neighbors, the building alarm buttons, etc.

*Never admit a stranger into your apartment lobby when you are entering, even if the stranger turns out to be a tenant. He or she will appreciate your caution.

*Never turn your dog loose on an interloper. It could be knifed or maimed. Keep him close to you for your protection.

*Tips like these may some day keep you from being raped," Cst. Sowden said.

One woman asked if a woman should carry a can of mace or hair spray or other weapons, but Cst. Sowden said it might not always be effective. The woman could be fumbling in her purse for it or it could be taken by the man and used against her.

Another woman also suggested women who jog alone should change their route or departure time periodically and jog with someone else.

The police are becoming more sensitive to the rape victims, Cst. Sowden said. RCMP members go through a training program to become more familiar with what the victims go through and to deal with each different phase of the case.

Any person who commits rape and is found guilty is liable to a maximum imprisonment of life.

Any person who attempts to commit rape is liable to imprisonment for 10 years.

FLOOD CONTROL WORK TOTALLED $434,360

A report from the office of Stephen Rogers, Minister of the Environment, stated that the total cost of the flood restoration work in the Squamish area amounted to almost half a million dollars, a total of $434,360. This does not include sums paid out to those whose homes were damaged or work which still has to be done.

Work to date done at the Mamquam River amounted to $143,600; at Mashier Creek, $10,000; at the Stawamus River $94,580; at the Squamish River $20,780; the road to the Upper Cheakamus $8,000 and the Cheakamus River $70,400.

Riprap will have to be placed at Fergie's Lodge, Culliton Creek and at the Outdoor School along the Cheakamus River and this is estimated to cost $45,000.

Administration of the program is estimated to cost $42,000. The completed work includes the Culliton Creek bridge and the work done in the Upper Cheakamus valley.

Rogers pointed out that total protection of the area would require about $2 million dollars worth of work. A prior requirement would be the enactment of a flood control bylaw by the District of Squamish.

Energy group opts for hydrogen

The parliamentary report on energy recommends that the country's energy system must be drastically altered over the next several decades to one based on hydrogen and electricity instead of gas, oil and coal.

The report, tabled last week in the House, projects a future some 20 to 30 years from now when hydrogen will be used to run many cars, buses, planes and ships if the government moves quickly to develop the system.

It recommends that one billion dollars be spent by the federal government over the next five years to foster the broad development of a hydrogen-based system and to make Canada a world leader in that technology.

It states that electricity, generated by resources such as wind, tidal and sun power, would be the other major component of the energy system which the report describes as radically different from the one we are familiar with today.

The seven member committee which prepared the report, spent almost a year on the study and travelled widely to the United States, Brazil, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Ireland and Iceland.

Committee members claim the long term energy program they are proposing for Canada is unique and would make Canada the leader in this technology.

The committee is suggesting that we should develop a diversified energy system and one based on hydrogen and electricity would be renewable as water is the main ingredient and Canada has lots of water.

Three little girls

Anne, Wendy and Brenda. Ann commenced school in Squamish in grade one. She was joined by Brenda in grade three, and when Wendy's parents arrived in Squamish (her father as bank manager at the Royal) she joined the other girls in grade seven. These three girls became inseparable and graduated in grade twelve.

They gave some thought to their future, and decided on a nursing career. Anne going to Victoria to train, while Wendy and Brenda chose the "General" in Vancouver. After three years of intensive and rewarding study it was terminated as nurses, March 24th last.

The graduation exercises and presenting of diplomas for Wendy and Brenda was changed from the Queen Elizabeth Theatre to one of the ballrooms at the Vancouver Hotel, owing to strike conditions prevailing at the time. Ann received her diploma in Victoria.

These three new nurses are now employed in hospitals in Vancouver and we extend congratulations to Anne's parents Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Rattray; Wendy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Buckingham and Brenda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Laventure.

Few accidents in past week

There were few accidents in the past week with one on May 9 sending the driver and a passenger to hospital with injuries. On Highway 99 on the Britannia Beach hill, Steven Hansen of Delta, travelling south, backed out and went into the ditch. Damages amounted to $2000. The case is still under investigation.

Also on May 9 on Highway 99 at Centennial Parkway, Lynn Duchesne of Squamish, was travelling north when another vehicle came up from behind at high speed. She moved over to let it pass and struck the sign at the intersection causing damages amounting to $700. There were no injuries.

On May 10 on the road to Alice Lake Park east of the restaurant, Dave Nadler of North Vancouver, riding a motorcycle, leaned over too far on a tight curve and rolled over and hit the ditch. He was taken to hospital with slight injuries and damages to his vehicle amounted to $2,000.

On May 12 on Mamquam Road, Marie Marty of Squamish and Diana Bonner of Phillips Arm collided at the intersection. Damage to the Marty vehicle amounted to $3,000, to the Bonner one $1,500. Marty has been charged with failing to yield after a stop sign.

No one responsible for road to Birkenhead Park

No one wants to claim responsibility for the road leading to Birkenhead Lake provincial park, according to residents on the 18 kilometre road leading into the park.

According to the provincial government the road, which leads from Devine near D'Arcy to the lake, it isn't a road at all and they say there is nothing at all unusual about a park being without access. But ten families living along the road, a former logging road, say that isn't so.

They want it widened and gravelled and were prepared to hand out pamphlets and questionnaires on the holiday weekend to campers and tourists entering the park. The results of the informal survey were to be sent to Premier Bill Bennett in Victoria.

They state that if nothing is done by June 12 they will block the road. Speaking for the Blackwater Road Ratepayers Association, Pat Ferguson said last week that they wanted one of the departments of government to accept responsibility for the road and upgrade it. But the road is not listed in the B.C. Gazette. This means that, according to the provincial highways department, it is not a public road and the government is not responsible for its upkeep.

A department spokesman said that a road is "gazetted" after examination by the highways ministry staff who make a recommendation to the minister based on the amount of public use.

If approved, it is advertised in the B.C. Gazette and maintenance becomes a Crown responsibility.

The road has been examined in recent years and too few people are living there to justify the cost of $2 million which would bring it up to a gravel standard.

The road was built years ago by Andy Devine, a logger, to bring timber to his mill at Devine.

The road is known as the Blackwater Creek Road or the Birkenhead Lake Road. It is hard packed dirt surface and is crisscrossed with stream beds and deep ruts. It becomes very muddy in rainy weather.

The residents along the road have gone to the highways, forestry, parks and environment ministries in an attempt to get road work done.

Number 2860, the Royal Hudson, travelled to Squamish on its inaugural run Friday, May 15. The train travels from North Vancouver to Squamish every day, except Monday and Tuesday, until July 1, when it will run every day except Tuesday.

The Britannia Story to be featured at museum

The B.C. Museum of Mining will be featuring the Britannia Story at the museum this year. This new display will place the story of the mine and Britannia in its proper place in the history of mining in this province.

The project will highlight Britannia which has contributed so much to the mining industry in B.C.

The first phase of the project will cost $40,000. At this time the displays will be shown in the lower level of the auditorium but eventually a proper and appropriate Britannia house will be developed to contain the exhibits.

The display will tell the story of life at Britannia Beach from the first discovery of copper ore in 1888 to the present times. The pictures, artifacts and documents recall many events such as the days of the first World War when Britannia was the largest copper mine in the British Empire; the disastrous flood and landslide, with many fatalities in 1921; the road link to Squamish in 1948, the road link to Horseshoe Bay in 1958, the purchase of the property by Anaconda in 1963 to the opening of the Mining Museum in 1975.

Included in the display is a six foot geological map of Howe Sound.

The museum opened for the 1981 season on May 11 but actual visits began on March 30th with the first visits from the school children.

The museum is considering building a restaurant for the museum property just east of the museum parking lot.

Peter Crane Consultants are still working on the theme park and contacting potential developers. It is felt that funding for a theme park should be obtained locally from private enterprise along with some participation by governments in Canada.

A master plan and recommendations for future plans for the museum has been developed. These are now being studied by the planning committee.

There will be activity on the waterfront below the museum where the Britannia Adventures logging show was located as this will be used as the staging area for the construction period during Woodfibre's expansion.

A ferry service will be in operation between Britannia and Woodfibre during the three year construction period with the Britannia terminal being at the above site.

B.C. HYDRO ESTABLISHES CONSTRUCTION YARD

The B.C. Hydro construction department has established a construction yard at a four acre site near the B.C. Railway shops where crews are working at putting in floorings for the two new 500 kv power lines to be built from Squamish to Vancouver Island.

Two helicopters belonging to Quasar Aviation are being used in the work now being done and crews are being ferried across the river.

A spokesman for the construction department said only the footings are being built this year, the actual towers will be built next year.

June 3 is Census Day, and it's a day that really counts for Canada.

A census representative carrying identification will shortly deliver a questionnaire to your home.

It's vital to count yourself in. Census information, gathered every five years, helps us understand our changing country so we can make plans for tomorrow. In fact, our national census is so important that, by law, every household must participate.

It's between you and us. The information you supply is seen only by census employees. No other person, government department, or organization has access to it.

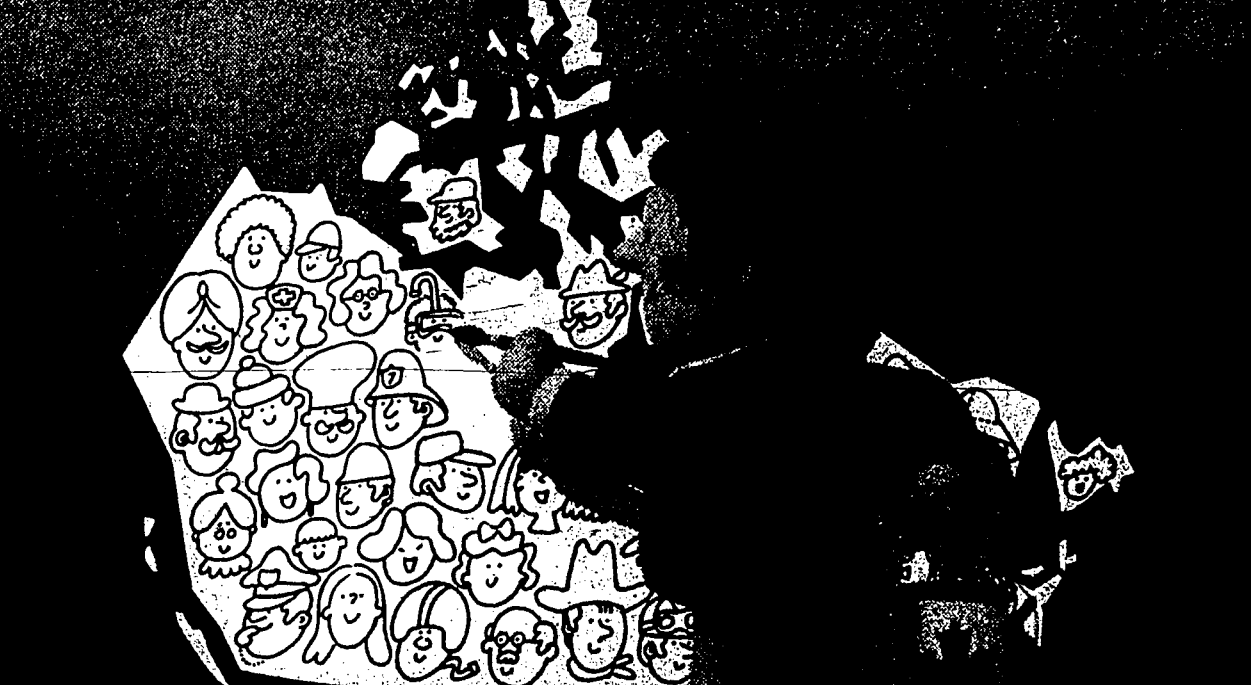

It's not difficult. Just take a few minutes to fill in your questionnaire. If a postage-paid, pre-addressed envelope was delivered with your census package, drop the completed questionnaire in the mail. If there was no envelope included, your questionnaire will be picked up.

It's your future. Remember, the census helps us paint Canada's future. And we need your help to make the picture perfect.

We expected this

Surprise folks! We are now paying more for gasoline than we would have under the Clark government's proposed budget. Moreover, before the year goes much farther, we shall be paying still more for our oil products. This, we predicted at the time, is the result of the policies of the Trudeau government, which, as usual, campaigned against a thing and then did it.

By what means we got where we are, and by what means we will get the yet-higher prices, are subject to argument. But there is little argument that Trudeau government policies got them there. Trudeau government policies will send them higher.

This does not make Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed's dictatorial actions in cutting his province's oil production any more right. But it does illustrate the increasing troubles into which the arbitrary policies of the Liberals in Ottawa are causing in Canada. Division of a kind never experienced before has come about because Mr. Trudeau's idea of a united country is Napoleonic and not at all in line with our tradition of parliamentary policy.

He brushes off opposition and all the talk of provinces separating. But bilingualism and metric problems, bad as they have been, are as nothing to economic matters, which strike at matters fundamental to all of us. One cannot solve disunity or silence disagreement by arbitrary policies. It is those policies which are creating for Canadians an economy in total disarray.

One wonders how Canadians could be so befuddled as to elect such a government with its past history of stating pre-election policies, then reversing them once in office, and doing what it opposed. Voter gullibility is never-ending.

Meanwhile enjoy the gas and oil prices which are up 50 percent over those at the time the government came into office just over a year ago.

New highway proposed

A suggestion in an interior newspaper that instead of building a costly underwater pipeline to Vancouver Island, why not build a road from Campbell River across the various islands, bridging the narrows and up the west side of Bute Inlet to connect with the Bella Coola-Williams Lake highway at Tatla Lake.

This would provide a road away from the busy Vancouver-Fraser Valley area and the gas and power lines could be taken over the same route to the island.

This would also, according to the writer's suggestions, remove the likelihood of having more interior valleys flooded to provide dams because a number of small dams could provide all the water which could possibly be needed.

The road, when built, would also provide a link in a circle, permitting motorists to go from Vancouver to the interior, then back through the Chilcotin to Vancouver Island and back to the mainland. Tweedsmuir Park and the Upper Chilcotin would become a tourist mecca.

It may sound far fetched but is it any more so than the original concept of a road through the Fraser Canyon? And after all the government did allocate a sum of money to study a proposal to build a tunnel to connect the southern end of Vancouver Island to the mainland.

The Coast Chilcotin road idea has a lot of merit. And while we're at it we could also revive the proposal to build a road north from the Pemberton Valley through the Bridge River into the Chilcotin and then north to intersect Highway 16 on its way to the coast.

Maybe what we need is more people with imagination.

All it takes is a good idea and some money and muscle to carry it out.

The new highways would indeed add an amazing depth to B.C.'s tourist potential.

Empowering families

The word "power" may suggest aggressiveness, force, and confrontation but that is not what the B.C. Council for the Family had in mind when it chose as its 1981 theme: FAMILY POWER FOR SOCIAL CHANGE.

Family Power grows from the closeness, commitment and willingness of each family member to care for, support and understand the others within its family group.

Family Power is expressed by parents who insist on healthy educational, recreational and legal services for themselves and their children; by breadwinners who seek employment conditions that enable them to maintain family commitments; by grandparents who resist the lure of retirement ghettos; by many people who recognize that family relationships are irreplaceable.

"All we need to do is stick together and quietly insist," says Dave Nordstrom, an active member of Provincial and Capital Region Boards of the B.C. Council for the Family. Nordstrom claims that families do not have to campaign loudly to assert themselves, and cites his experience with local alternative school programs which fully involve families, and with preventative counselling and health maintenance systems that serve families in their own homes.

True power within a family lies in the recognition of common values and bonds, and the protection and development of such positive bonds. With the support of such agencies as the B.C. Council for the Family and its affiliates, "family" can be broadened to include the increasingly larger groups of committed, caring individuals.

Social change is promoted when an increasing network of families uphold the integrity of their communities, and support each other in resisting the influence of economic, social and political developments that may fragment their family base.

During Family Month every year, the B.C. Council for the Family spreads the good word throughout the province of programs and plans that empower families, and increase their contribution to a responsive community, province and country.

howe Soundings

The latest attempt at assassination in the United States has brought out all the arguments for and against gun control and frankly we don't know what the solution is. But we are convinced that given the conditions in the world today, guns and people just don't mix.

Listening to both sides of the argument still leaves me convinced that people don't need handguns. Sure, I've heard the rabid gun lovers say that a person has a right to carry a gun. Who gave them that right? The Americans conquered their country and the west using the law of the gun and since that time they have considered it their inalienable right to possess handguns.

They claim they have to have guns to protect their families from the violence which has probably been engendered by his possession of guns in the first place. When we hear of the dangerous areas in the United States and in our countries where these people feel they have to have guns to protect themselves and their families we wonder just what kind of communities they live in anyway.

Sure there are murders, and guns are used to murder people. But is it the normal event in your community and mine? Not likely.

Listening to some of the people who advocate possession of guns makes one wonder what they are like. They sound as if they are ready to do battle with anyone and everyone and perhaps they generate the hatred and bigotry which spawn the violence which ends in using guns.

Listening to some of these pro-gun fanatics makes one wonder why they see other people as dangerous. They seem to walk in fear of the world and it is astounding to see how paranoid some of them are. Are they so afraid that they need the support of a gun or a big stick to venture out into the world.

Maybe they are basically insecure and this is heightened by the violence and mayhem which they see daily on television.

What really bothers me is that so much of what we see today is geared to murder, violence and mayhem. Tell me now, how many people of this kind or situations like this did you ever encounter? Don't most of the people you meet seem to be happy, friendly, honest and generous?

Yet if we believed the TV world we would be convinced that it was made up totally of people who are misfits, who have psychiatric problems and who are motivated by harm and greed.

They would have us believe that these are the stereotypes of people today not the others whose values are more like those we share with our families and friends.

Television trivializes and homogenizes, experience misrepresents it. There have been reports of children being paid to throw stones and other missiles for the TV cameramen in the North Ireland crisis. Yet we are led to believe that all this is the truth. But what can we believe when we hear the truth distorted on radio and television and see the results of that distortion.

How many of you heard the media forecasting for weeks before Bobby Sands' death that the streets of Belfast would run with blood? They actually seemed disappointed when it didn't happen and many commentators said the violence was less than expected.

Any resemblance between life as portrayed on television and life in reality is purely coincidental. It makes those of us who do not live a violent life of one like those in the media dramas wonder if we are letting something slip by, and it is definitely producing problems with our young people.

In television, which seems to control so much of our life, all problems whether political, social or moral, are solved by guns or violence. And they are all preceded by noisy car chases with screaming tires and vehicles crashing into each other. That's good for Detroit but when was the last time you saw a high speed car chase? Or when was the first time? Yet it goes on nightly and daily on television.

And we are led to believe that this is the only way to solve a problem. To use guns or fists or some other weapon, but always a violent means of solution.

There are also the ways in which families are portrayed on television. Mother always seems to have all the answers, father seems to be a nitwit who makes all the fools and the kids rule everything. Unless it's the family pet who does.

It portrays mother as spending all her days wondering whether this or that detergent will make her wash whiter, and all the time she looks like she stepped out of a model agency with her hair freshly coiffed, her makeup perfect and her shining, hundred thousand dollar home in immaculate condition. Sound like real life? Not bloody likely!

Television has many shortcomings and doesn't seem to be trying to correct any of them. There may not seem to be much resemblance between a housewife and violence but the same lack of verisimilitude is evident in both cases. We cannot believe the values behind the housewife commercials or comedies so how can we believe the validity of the violent shows?

But one of the biggest problems created by the "one-eyed monster" is that it gives credence to the events it shows. It tends to make every malcontent who feels he has a need to let people know why he is unhappy; every person who has an imagined grievance and everyone who has an axe to grind, believe that they have a right to correct the situation. And to correct it with a gun.

Look at the record. John Lennon's murderer is supposed to have felt slighted because Lennon ignored him at a previous meeting so he took his revenge by killing Lennon. With a gun, even the most unimportant person feels he is the equal of anyone, he can bring his fancied opponent down, simply by using his weapon.

Sure, guns don't kill, but putting a gun in the hands of a person who is psychologically maladjusted or who has a problem is just like putting it in the hands of a small child and saying if you pull the trigger it will go "bang", and anyone in the way will fall down, but don't pull it.

People who can cope with their problems, or who feel they are of value to themselves and the community do not need a gun for a crutch. They can solve their problems with reason and common sense, they do not have to resort to mindless violence.

So perhaps in the long run it's not what one has in his hands but what he has in his head that will determine if he will be able to cope with his problems.

But guns don't solve them. All they do is create even bigger ones. And society must take the responsibility for allowing it to happen.

Jack Mercs of Kinsmen Club of Squamish presenting Bruce Teichman with a cheque to help him purchase his racing wheelchair so he can compete in the wheelchair races. He will use it to make his trek from Port Hardy to Victoria.

Teichman to aid handicapped

Bruce Teichman is going to take part in the B.C. Wheelchair Races at Kelowna on the weekend of July 18 and in order to publicize it and to raise money he is planning to wheel it from Port Hardy to Victoria in his wheelchair.

Bruce is also seeking pledges to raise money for the Wheelchair Sports Association by making the 305 mile trip.

He will be making the trip in his new wheelchair which has been provided by the Kinsmen Club of Squamish, the Squamish Branch of the B.P.O.E., the Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion, and the Kinsmen Rehabilitation Foundation in Vancouver with the local branch of the Kinsmen Club providing the largest amount.

If you are interested in pledging a donation towards this cause, there are pledge sheets at the local RCMP office, the Times and Merv Foote's Men's Wear.

WONDERTHEATRE

BY ALEX

Squamish stage artists who find themselves frustrated by the size of the buildings in which they have to perform are in good company. Katharine Hepburn is facing a similar problem at Seattle's Fifth Avenue Theatre where her play "West Side Waltz" is currently being tried out for a future Broadway run.

The production is scheduled for Vancouver at a date to be announced; it will be interesting to see how much more satisfactory it is in the comparatively small Queen Elizabeth. It would be even more interesting to see it with the same artists at some of Vancouver's small theatres where the nuances of intimate plays are not lost in the stratosphere.

"West Side Waltz" is about as cozy as a play can get without being maudlin. It concerns the interactions amongst five people brought together by no particular circumstance other than the accident of normal living.

The locale is the apartment of aging Margaret Mary (Hepburn) who has resigned herself to inevitable inactivity and boredom. Her best friend in the apartment block is Cara, a spinster of uncertain years but definite Victorian morals, who visits Margaret Mary regularly to play the violin to her friend's piano accompaniment. Dorothy Gouden, the original Miss Hannigan in "Annie", has that role and is billed as Hepburn's co-star.

The relationship between the two characters is ambiguous at best. Each thinks she is doing the other a favour by offering a superficial sort of friendship and even by the end of the play it is difficult to tell whether the relationship is to be considered sincere or merely utilitarian.

For much of the middle section, Margaret Mary centres her interests and vicarious ambition almost entirely on a scatter-brained young divorcee, who calls herself Robin Bird (Regina Baff), and who takes employment as the elder lady's housekeeper. The scenes between the would-be mentor and the irresponsible, frequently vulgar, youth are the best in the play.

Playwright Ernest Thompson seems fascinated with the conflict of moral outlooks that inevitably arises when youth comes into close association with people of two generations back. He dealt with it in "On Golden Pond" which played for several weeks at Vancouver's Arts Club and he continues his examination of the same theme in "West Side Waltz".

In the latter, Margaret Mary cannot push Robin into any recognizable career, but she can and does refuse to be shocked at the earthy language and earlier philosophy of her housekeeper-turned-protégé. She enters into the spirit of off-colour conversations using words of almost identical meaning and certainly identical connotation, and managing to make them sound quite appropriate to the elegant surroundings of her elegant apartment.

Whether this would work with an actress not endowed with Hepburn's 'class' is one of the questions which keeps intruding itself as the play progresses. It seems natural for Hepburn to turn gross situations into refined ones and, in the process, to provide a refreshing experience for a 1981 audience which has not been reminded for a long time that well-bred people are worth writing plays about.

The puzzling part of the production is the fact that the scenes between Hepburn and Gouden, both superlative artists, never seem to satisfy. Margaret Mary and Cara are apparently of the same social category, and somewhere near the same in age and interests. They are distinctive individuals, too, and it is right that they should approach their lines from distinctive directions.

But Gouden acts with the heart and from physical instinct. Hepburn is purely intellectual; her every move, tone, and expression is a calculated one. Individually the co-stars have developed admirable characterizations. Together, they do not mesh. Probably it is asking too much of an audience to adjust constantly to two such opposite approaches to great art, so superbly demonstrated.

The two men in the play are minor characters. The immigrant janitor of the apartment house obviously interprets 'friendship' as something that does not demand a generous, if condescending tip, when he leaves to take a better job in the land of boundless opportunity. The lawyer who marries Robin after a violent shouting match in Margaret Mary's home merely underlines the changing social mores of the age.

The whole play dwells, in fact, on a study of values rather than clashes of emotions. It is a gentle sort of social commentary of the Sheridan type only less flamboyant and less well-plotted.

It is probably in this very character of the play itself that the production problems lie. Each line has been written for a mildly satirical effect in a very-confined situations. The artists have either to shout the line and so lose its impact, or to speak it in the most effective tone and volume and risk a complete absence of audience reaction.

It is a difficult choice and may explain, in part, the discomfort that caused both stars, Hepburn particularly, to resort to so much distractingly obvious stage business. Cushions, books of music, dishes of chocolates and such other useful props had more than their share of working over, especially during the first scene of the play when Margaret Mary was walking about, less than gracefully, without any aids. Hepburn seemed much more secure when the script called for her to have a cane, then a walker, and finally a wheelchair.

That she herself had any doubts about her physical ability to carry through the run of the play was belied, however, by the fact that, whereas understudies were listed for four of the characters, the standard line "understudy for Miss Hepburn" was noticeably absent from the printed programmes.

Without Hepburn, of course, there would be no play. Even with her there is very little of dramatic substance in it. But Hepburn is Hepburn and her personality is large enough to fill the cavernous Seattle theatre even though both the star and the vehicle would be better served at Vancouver's East Cultural Centre.

New recreation maps of B.C.

A new dimension in information about outdoor recreational opportunities in B.C. was launched recently when the Outdoor Recreation Council of B.C. presented Tourism Minister Pat Jordan with one of the first copies of a new outdoor recreation map.

The map featuring the 100 Mile House area is the first in a series. This little-known region has year-round outdoor activities, including sailing, fishing, hunting, horse-riding, camping, rock-hounding, skiing, snowmobiling, and even bird-watching.

The council was awarded $40,000 by the federal and provincial governments, under the Travel Industry Development Subsidary Agreement, to aid in the maps' first printing.

Maps of the Whistler-Garibaldi area and the Windermere Lake region will be available soon.

Council co-ordinator Robin Draper said recreation maps are also being considered for the North Okanagan, South Okanagan, Princeton, the Queen Charlottes and the Salmon Arm areas.

Eventually, it is hoped, all major recreation areas will be featured in the series.

"I just can't say enough in praise of what you have done. It's such a good use of TIDSA funds," Mrs. Jordan told the council's leaders at the presentation.

The maps, which will retail for $3.95, will eventually be self-supporting. They have been produced from the highest quality topographical base available.

On their reverse side, the maps feature valuable outdoor recreation information including weather details, rights of access, history, natural history, geography, safety, local contacts, trail information, etc.

"For the first time, vital information about recreational opportunities, from snowmobiling to cross-country skiing, from ice-fishing to horse-riding, are all in the one place," Mrs. Jordan said.

"This will be a great value to all British Columbians and our visitors and will likely convince them to stay longer in an area when they realize the wide variety of outdoor recreation opportunities," she added.

The minister said the new map series was well worth the financial support given. Persons interested in buying the maps should contact the Outdoor Recreation Council of B.C., 1200 Hornby Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6Z 2E2, or telephone (604)687-3333.

squamish valley rod and gun club news...

May 31 is the date scheduled for the clubs team shoot. This competition will involve four members, one shooting a shot gun, one a rifle, and two pistol shooters. The pistols may be either a semi-automatic or a revolver, however one of each is preferred.

The course has been divided into three separate stages, and each stage has been designed specifically for the types of firearms to be used in it.

Stage one combines the use of all four firearms. Individual "stages" designed for each particular firearm make up this course, and the score is determined by the total team effort.

Stage two is designed for the pistol and revolver only, and separate courses for each of these firearms has been included. These consist of a series of targets set at a close distance for the semi-automatic, and targets set at long distances for the revolver.

Stage three is for the rifle and shot gun only, and as in stage two, separate courses for each of these firearms has been included. These consist of both short and long distant targets set for the rifle, and a combination of metal targets set at various distances and a trap shooting course for the shot gun.

The winning team will be decided by the total team score divided by the total time taken. As well as trophies for first, second, and third place, there will also be a cash prize awarded to the winning team.

The fee for the match is $20 per team, and all teams are requested to preregister with the club. Many teams have already registered, and we are expecting a very good turnout.

If this shoot is as popular as we expect, we hope to schedule more in the future. We are looking forward to having more local interest taken in our shoots by both competitors and spectators and we hope to see you on the range.

Open house at Evans Lake centre

The annual family picnic and outdoor sports day of the Evans Lake forest resource education centre will be held on Sunday, June 7 commencing at 10:00 a.m.

This is an open house for junior forest wardens, summer and school campers, together with their families and friends, and a chance to tour the camp and its facilities, operated on a year-round basis for young people in south-western B.C.

The Evans Lake centre is located 15 kms. north of Squamish, an easy hour and fifteen minutes drive from downtown Vancouver.

Activities will include outdoor sports for all ages, fishing, picnic-ing, swimming and canoeing, plus walks and hikes. There will be competitions going on throughout the day. Prizes will be awarded at 3:00 p.m.

Visitors are invited to come for the day or just a couple of hours. For more information contact the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. by phoning 688-6684.

Good news for little folk! The Cookie Monster Club will be back again this summer offering hours of fun and new experiences to tots ages three to five years old. Children joining the club receive a membership card entitling them to two weeks of daily activities including crafts, games, music and group play in this great outdoor setting.

But that's not all! Special events planned to enlighten your little ones curiosity will highlight the program. Printing Cookie Monster T-shirts, theme days, little trips to neat places and swimming are just a few examples of what is to come with the Summer Fun!!

Consideration of holiday plans has prompted the centre to offer sessions in the months of July and August. Cookie Monster Club members will meet Monday through Thursday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the civic centre in the outdoor play setting (weather permitting) or inside the senior lounge in case of rain.

A great opportunity for your preschooler to mix and mingle with their peers.

Be the first to register! Come down early Monday, June 1, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. to register your child. More information is available, please call Carol at 898-3604.

As can be seen from the standings many coaches are not phoning in the scores. Remember, home team phones in the score. Kids help your coach, remind him to phone 892-3212 after a home game.

Reschedule rained-out games as quickly as possible. Games not played by the end of their season cannot be made up with four point games.

While still on the bandwagon, it is too bad the league has one team without a permanent coach or a parent willing to take on the job!

B.C. Softball will be holding a development camp at Moody Park in New Westminster, June 29 to July 3.

This will teach many skills from an extremely impressive collection of clinicians, including Pat Harrison from the University of Texas. Those wishing to participate phone 892-3795 and leave your name and phone number.

Mt. Currie will sponsor a girls soccer tournament May 29, 30 and 31.

Mt. Douglas, the number two team on the island; Revelstoke, the number three team in the Okanagan; Queen Elizabeth, the number one team in the lower mainland; North Surrey, the number two team in the lower mainland; Ts'zil, the number one team in the Cariboo and either Abbotsford or Mission, the number one team in the Fraser Valley, will participate.

Games will be played in the afternoon on May 29, all day May 30 and the playoffs will be on May 31. Trophy presentations will be at approximately 2:30 on May 31.

Louis Acorn and Lots Goodall took the trophy for the singles in the dart league.

Whistler trail crosses school grounds

The Whistler trail system will cross the proposed new playing fields at the Myrtle Philip Elementary School, trustee Nancy Raine told members of the school board last week.

Raine said the recreation referendum had passed and the municipality is trying to finalize the planning for the lineal trail system which will be funneled in towards the school and the town centre.

She was concerned because it would cut across the playing fields and wondered if it could be aligned so as to disturb the fields as little as possible.

Raine said the trail system would include a walking trail, a bicycle trail and a horse trail.

Chairman T.J. MacDonald said he was concerned and upset at the possibility of traffic across the school grounds.

"We don't have a drawing of what our school grounds will look like," he pointed out, "so it is really too early to get a decision on this."

However Raine said that one of the integral planning concepts is to allow the children easy and safe access to the area and the trail system would do this.

MacDonald pointed out that the trail system would affect the municipality as well as the school grounds.

Raine said the municipality is hiring a recreation planner. She said the program relates to the trail and road access around the municipality.

24 hour take-out and delivery...

...night and day, through every season, B.C. Rail is on the move. We take out sulphur from Fort Nelson and Taylor. Grain from the Peace. Pulp, paper and lumber from Mackenzie and Prince George...copper from Williams Lake. And by delivering resources to major market destinations, B.C. Rail keeps our economy booming.

It also means vital supplies and materials to keep many northern communities prospering and growing strong...more jobs for British

"Before I started to work as a lounge entertainer I was retired and living in Penitence, B.C."

I retired at the age of 26. I have been at one time or another a member of the Elks, Masons, Junior Chamber of Commerce (who made me a J.C.I. world senator) and the Chamber of Commerce.

I also served as Vice President of B.C. and Yukon Jaycees. None of the above comes close to serving the Living God."

Roy Haynes is a fat man who is not always jolly.

He is billed as "Mountain of Love" ... a one-man show ... musician and singer, but foremost entertainer.

He is currently playing the Lounge at the Sheraton Summit, having just recently come off the road, touring nationally with Ireland's Travelling People.

What makes the "mountain" easy to scale? A rare trait.

An entertainer who has had more than his share of heartache and grief in his lifetime, but one who refuses to give up and remains totally positive. Sensitive, caring and deeply in love with people and motivated to devoting a lifetime to making people happy and tolerating those that aren't.

Haynes has written several songs, one (dedicated) to his children whom he sees only sparingly) ... to be put on wax and in much demand from other entertainers in the same boat.

He sang it for me the other night, and even in the smoky confines of a lounge where people go to drown their sorrows or add to them, his voice, word and melody commanded silence without one word of plea on his part for a bit of attention.

You'll like Roy Haynes, and you'll be remembering his name in the future because of his special quality to make you forget your problems; through his music and through his determination to give his all.

Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship of Canada

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE:

I am writing on behalf of the Full Gospel Fellowship of Canada. The Squamish chapter is one of over 2,150 other chapters throughout the world. The chapter in Squamish has been meeting for five months and we are happy to say we are welcoming new members monthly. The intention of this organization is to help others know Jesus Christ and have Christian fellowship with one another. "Full Gospel" means we believe in the entire Holy Bible and that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God." (1 Timothy 3:16)

The response to this organization has been so widespread that we now include more than business men, we in fact welcome men from all walks of life. This organization is not a church; it is a fellowship. We encourage our membership to attend the church of their choice. The leaders of this organization have witnessed the miracles that Jesus Christ has done in the lives of men who have joined this loving fellowship.

Our theme is "His banner over me is love" (Song of Solomon 2:4). This reflects the love that Jesus has for mankind. We meet once a month for a breakfast at the Garibaldi Highlander Hotel; all men are welcome whether members or not. It is at these breakfasts that men hear guest speakers; other men's testimonies and have a chance to sing Gospel songs — a great way to start the day. Watch for postings of dates and times in this paper.

The Fellowship also hosts a banquet once a month at the Brackendale Art Gallery Restaurant. Both men and women are invited to attend these banquets.

There is a delicious dinner followed by joyful singing and inspiring guest speakers. The warm atmosphere of Christian Fellowship makes these events special.

For information about dates, times and tickets please phone 892-5525 or 898-5683. We look forward to seeing you.

Yours in Christ

squamish earful

BY MAUREEN GILMOUR

It's nothing to be proud of but during the past several years politicians and public figures have been fair game for assassination attempts on their life, but why a loving man like Pope John Paul II? When the news was broadcast around the world it surely shocked Catholic and non Catholic alike. Prayers for the Pope's recovery are also world wide. This special peacemaker has affected so many lives in his short pontificate.

Grant and Yvonne McKenzie are pleased to have Yvonne's brother and his wife Keith and Joan Dobson visiting from Godalming, England. They are seeing a good part of our province and Alberta. Trips to Vancouver Island, the Interior and the beautiful Rockies were on the McKenzies' travel plans for their visitors.

Alone without mum, a six-year-old boy told his pal: "Mum's in the hospital and me and daddy and George and the twins are here all alone."

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Squamish Hospital did well with their sale of crafts, baking and the raffle, held on May 9. That gorgeous quilt that was displayed in the Times window went to Al Knight. Henry Carney won the Norwegian wall hanging and J. Green won the macrame owl towel bar. The ladies express thanks to the Overwaita and to the merchants of the Highlands Mall for the use of their premises for ticket selling.

Stork Story: — Keith and Teresa Fowler are pleased to announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Leslie Anne, weighing 7 lbs, 3 oz. and born in the Squamish General Hospital on May 6. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fowler of Squamish and Mr. Al Crowther of Kamloops are the proud grandparents. Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Spender of Kamloops, Mrs. W.C. Crowther of New Westminster and Mrs. E. Constantine of Mission.

When Mrs. Connie White opened the March issue of the Weekend Magazine from England (sent by her sister), she was surprised to see a picture of Squamish. There was a picture page of photos showing unusual weather happenings around the world and the photo of Wayne Burt (it said Doug McCarthy) and his dog waiting to be rescued in the December floods was printed.

Hannelie Platjes is visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Deidre and Arie Hoogenboom and little niece Melinda in Smithers.

Story Story: — WILLSON — A daughter, Tasha Maureen was born on May 7 to Janice and Ross Willson in the Squamish General Hospital, weighing 6 lbs. 10 oz. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Hedges and Mrs. Helen Simmons of 100 Mile House and Mr. Bill Willson of Lillooet. Mrs. Joanna Good of Winnipeg is a pleased great grandmother.

This week our birthday persons are: Corey Doucet, David Loneragan, Flo Myers, Isabella Confortin, Kevin Barr, Benjamin Lassman, Angela Daniel, Bradley Burns, Richard Hastings, Benjamin Leung, Margin Gaal, Don Carlson, Mary Ann McKilligan, Daryle Craig, Adam Brookes, Joshua Honaizer, Robbie Wright, Lindsay Weeks, May Silva, Michael Loneragan, Beth Hill, Paul Petruk, Janet Tobey, Barbara DeCook, Darlene MacKenzie, Lisa Rudolph, Deidre Platjes, James Leedham, Sara Price, Tara Patterson, Michelle Fairhurst, Erik Lindquist, Rita Millia, Laine Trudeau, John Hughes, Gordon Green, Jamie and Phil Ellis, Diane Singer, Billy Baker, Marlene Hendrickson, Cindy Baker, and Deidre Hoogenboom.

Stork Story: — Celebrating first birthdays are Kathryn Stenke, Tammy Leedham and Ryan Bill.

Do plan to attend a performance of the musical 'Entertainment Now and Then' to be presented by Howe Sound Drama Club on May 28, 29 and 30 at the Mamquam School. Tickets are available at the Times office, Brackendale Shack Shack, J&B Grocery, Stedmans, and Peoples Drug Mart - both locations. I think most members of the family would enjoy it.

Wedding anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. D. Tedaldi, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hales, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Versluis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fast, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Neilly, Mr. and Mrs. E. Weiss, Mr. and Mrs. R. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. D.

Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. G. Mathews, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Enge, Mr. and Mrs. Ostergard, and Mr. and Mrs. Bent Mortensen.

The Wilson family who suffered the loss of their business and living quarters (fire) moved into a mobile home in Timber Town Estates last weekend. Anyone having household items, furniture, etc., is asked to contact Barb Cates at 892-3018 or Mary Lou Stathers at 892-5145.

A story on the front page of last week's Citizen carried my byline. The story I was responsible for but the headline - NO!

Those ambitious young men and women who make up the 1981 grad class at HSSS are busy with a variety of fund raising events. Don't know if there is any significance to it or not but the next project is a Bottle Drive this Sunday night. The teenagers would appreciate your support.

Stork Story: — KORMENDY — Rick and Leslie Kormendy are pleased to announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, Ainslie Ann born in the Vancouver General Hospital on May 8, weighing 6 lbs. 9 oz. This is a sister for Christopher. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. R.T. Buss and Mr. and Mrs. I.C. Howe, all of Surrey. This is the 25th great grandchild for Mrs. R. Jordan of Surrey.

The Howe Sound Women's Centre is holding a Spring Bake Sale this Saturday, May 23 at the Overwaita Store. Tickets are going well and the lucky winner will be drawn at the bake sale - around 3 p.m.

Loved this little poem from Sue Morhun's column in another B.C. community paper.
 With Hamburger costing a buck eighty-nine
 And seafood and cheese out of sight
 At least I've arrived at a long cherished goal
 I'm whining and dining each night.

Have you seen the lovely lupins along the railway tracks where the Royal Hudson comes in? They are wild, probably brought down in the ballast for the track and are like snippets of blue sky fallen down to the ground.
 And I don't know if you enjoy the sound of the Royal Hudson's whistle but it really sounded good to hear it again, and to know that it marks the beginning of the tourist season.

Who said it department.
 "You can't have an operative, operating system of federal government if one part of it, province or state, is in a very important special status, if it has a different set of relationships toward the central government than the other provinces."
 Pierre Elliott Trudeau in 1967 speaking against Canadian accessionism.

Gilmours mark 25th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmour were the guests of honour at a 25th wedding anniversary party held in their home on Saturday, May 9. Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. R. Dawson and Mrs. L. Gatzke.

The Gilmours, who were married in St. Andrews Wesley Church in Vancouver on May 5 in 1956, lived in Vancouver before moving to Furry Creek in 1959. They moved to Squamish in 1962.

A highlight of the evening was the beautiful cake made and decorated by Mrs. Gatzke which showed some of the main events of the 25 years of marriage, including the birth of their children, the acquisition of their home and their trip to Scotland.

The Gilmours received many gifts and cards, including a set of silver flatware from their sons Randy, Kevin and son and daughter-in-law Ross and Mickie, and a money sock.

Out of town guests included Bobby and Denny Geddes of White Rock, Hap and Alice Heppner of Burnaby and Rose Mack with Sharon and Jamie of Port Moody. Many local friends dropped in during the evening to wish Maureen and George many more happy years.

Kieran Plunkett, the overall winner in the library logo contest, and Lisa Thompson right, primary winner. Other winners were Kevin Owen, Intermediate and Gwen Hubbard, senior.

comments from parliament hill

BY LORNE GREENAWAY
 MP FOR CARIBOO-CHILCOTIN

Interest rates in Canada are soaring once again. It seems that every Thursday we are forced to feel the jolt of another assault upon our pocketbooks. For those with mortgages and loans, the effect can be devastating to the family financial position. Businesses are going bankrupt at alarming rates as interest payments force overhead costs ever higher.

So what is the solution? Mr. MacEachen, the Finance Minister, has refused to address the problem in a constructive manner despite international criticism. Most recently, the European Economic Community has criticized Canada for the National Energy Program and the isolated course which Canada has charted in the energy field. The NEP was at the heart of the last budget. Mr. MacEachen has instead been content to react to the actions of the international money markets. To understand the Minister's inaction on this matter of greatest concern to Canadians, one must first understand the international monetary system.

The price of a country's currency (i.e. the Canadian dollar) is a reflection of international confidence in that country's economy. Investors like strong economies such as those of Japan and West Germany. Therefore the value of the Yen and the Deutschemark is high relative to the Canadian dollar. A country can attract investors and keep the value of its currency high by offering high interest rates. The principle here is the same as if a bank offers you a higher interest rate on your savings account than its competitors. Canada is presently following the latter course. Unfortunately, these interest rates are also reflected in loan and mortgage rates in Canada.

Canada's economy has become weak and unattractive to investors due to years of mismanagement. As I have pointed out before, we have neglected Research and Development until we are now ahead of only Ireland and Iceland in per capita spending in this area in the Western world. However, the government's lack of economic direction in general has contributed to the slide. The National Energy Program was the only major innovation in the October budget, and it has only served to send investors and oil rigs scurrying for cover. To compensate for this, our interest rates have had to continue their climb.

Mr. MacEachen could ease the burden on Canadians by introducing a new positive budget and by abandoning the hopeless National Energy Program. Through present policies, he is not only hurting business, he is hurting you and me.

Hospital Auxiliary draw and bake sale

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Squamish General Hospital held a draw and plant and bake sale with a hand made quilt as the main item for the draw at the Highlands Mall at 4 p.m. on May 9.

Allen Knight won the quilt, the bell pull was won by Henry Carney and Joan Green won the macrame plant hanger.

The quilt material was donated by Gloria Healy and Vi McPhee of the Bon Marche while Dolly Leigh, Leona Ingraham, Giselle Bird, Hildegarde Schomig, Mary Stathers, Alida Hoogenboom, Jonnie Hughes, Edith Larsen, Emmy Laskovitz, Irene Vickers, Janet Duxbury and Arlene Ingraham spent many hours creating the quilt for raffle.

They thanked the Overwaita, Squamish Times, Bon Marche and Super-Valu for selling the tickets.

Proceeds from the draw and sale will go towards the purchase of an automatic bath lifter for the hospital. This appliance will cost between $2,000 and $3,000.

Assisting at the sale were Teresa Hoogenboom, Jonnie Hughes, Giselle Bird, Hildegarde Schomig, Marian Mills, Emmy Laskovitz, Janet Duxbury, Thora Howard and Alida Hoogenboom.

Directory updating

The Adult Education Department of the school district is updating the information in the Directory of Community Services in Squamish.

Lundy Candy, director of the Adult Education Program, would appreciate any information regarding any changes in the information in the booklet so if your organization is listed, or if there is a new one in the community please call her at 892-5228.

She hopes to have the project completed by September 15 so an early response to this request for information would be appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stevenson.

Patricia McNair wed in April ceremony

It was a beautiful sunny day for the wedding of Patricia Helen McNair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al McNair of Britannia Beach to Gordon Graham Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Stevenson of Calgary, Alberta.

The afternoon ceremony was held at 4 p.m. Saturday, April 18 in Squamish United Church when Rev. Jack Lindquist heard the young couple exchange their vows. Potted white chrysanthemums and blue daisies graced the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father chose a white sheer gown over polyester with lace yoke and long lace sleeves caught into cuffs at the waist. The bodice featured a stand-up collar of lace and a pearl cameo insert. A self ruffle of sheer accented the long skirt. Her floor length veil was edged in matching lace and fell from a cluster of white flowers. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations and daisies and baby's breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Maureen Gilmour, wore a blue polyester floor length gown with sheer flowered cape in tone.

Maid of honor and sister of the bride, Miss Marilyn McNair chose a blue polyester gown with empire bodice, deep vee-neck and short sleeves. Both attendants carried bouquets of baby's breath, blue carnations and white daisies.

The best man was Paul Hanson while Gary Lewis performed ushering duties.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. McNair chose a blue, floral floor length gown and pink carnations corsage.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Stevenson wore a blue dress with matching jacket. Her corsage was also a pink carnation.

At a reception following the ceremony in the Highlander Hotel the bride's uncle acted as master of ceremonies and he also was honoured to give the traditional toast to the bride. His duties also included reading congratulatory telegrams from relatives in England and Mackenzie, B.C.

For her going away costume, the bride chose a blue suit and her corsage came from her bridal bouquet. The newlyweds honeymooned at Harrison Hot Springs.

Out of town relatives included Mr. and Mrs. Keith Stevenson, Mr. Lindsey Stevenson and his fiancée from Calgary and Mr. and Mrs. Fowler from New Westminster.

Prior to the bridal party leaving for the church they stopped at the home of close friend Joan Ehler and presented her with a bouquet of spring flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson are making their home in Squamish.

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on May 19 were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Knowles.

50 YEARS OF MARRIAGE FOR MR. & MRS. KNOWLES

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Knowles of Garibaldi Estates celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday, May 19th. They along with relatives and friends celebrated in Bellingham, Washington.

Both Jen and Bill were born in England and grew up together as children. Bill's family arrived at Woodfibre in 1923 and Jen's family in 1924. The two saw a lot of each other and in 1931 they eloped and were married in Bellingham.

Bill was a kamier operator in Woodfibre and they lived there for 49 years.

The Knowles have one son, Ron, daughter in law Flora and three grandchildren residing in North Vancouver.

1965, 66 reunion draws 100 grads

Over 100 graduates and students attended the 1965 and 1966 Howe Sound secondary reunion held at the North Vancouver outdoor school on the weekend.

The remembrances started on Friday, May 15, with a wine and cheese party. Teachers attending the party were Elizabeth Hansen of Squamish, Peter Naper of Port Coquitlam, HSS principal John Hughes and Al Bird of Squamish.

On Saturday night, the graduates listened to master of ceremonies Chuck Harvey as he introduced the guests and did a rib-tickling impersonation of John Hughes as a teacher calling up students to hand out papers.

Hughes welcomed the grads and spoke on his days as a teacher. He told them not to wait another 15 years to come together again.

Former HSS principal William Baldry, now schools superintendent of Grand Forks, also spoke of the "good old days."

Linda Rothenberger (nee Lush) of Calgary spoke to the audience of the "way they were." She reminded them of the time the curling team travelled on the PGE, now the BCR, to Prince George for a bonspiel and the wonderful time they had. Then they had the "bad manners" to come home with every trophy from the tournament.

She also spoke of the various intramural and interschool sports the classes participated in.

Grace Halvorson collected statistics on the group and said the farthest people to come were Bev (nee Thomas) and Leroy MacDonald from Hinton, Alta. and Marjorie Wingfield from Edmonton. She read letters of regret from teachers Dick Swanton and Catherine Thorne who said they could not attend the reunion because of previous commitments. Teacher Peter Zebroff and Al Bird were also unable to attend the dinner.

Harvey then introduced the members of the reunion committee: Grace (nee Harley) Halvorson, Maureen (nee Goodall) McCarthy, Elsa (nee Eliassen) Harvey, Gail (nee Cleaver) Elcheson, Anne (nee Strom) Babuin, Darlene (nee Babuin) Smith and Raye (nee Eden) Drenka.

Following the dinner, a dance was held.

The reunion ended with a family breakfast on Sunday morning.

Alida Hoogenboom of the Squamish Arts Council presented a cheque to three members of the Garibaldi School of the Dance l. to r. Sandi Schildhorn, Tina Ulstrup and Cara Lee Bloxham.

Author well received at public readings

B.C. author Eileen Kernaghan started writing science fiction because she read it. She has read Evangeline Walter's quadrilogy on Welsh myths called The Tale of the Mabinogion, novels by Ursula Le Guin and Tolkien's Lord of the Rings. For Lord of the Rings, she said she "had to have pneumonia" before she could read it because it was so long.

Her uncle owned a corner grocery store which had everything, including science fiction magazines, in her home town. She had the opportunity to read Wierd Tales, Fantasy and Science Fiction and Thrilling Wonder Stories, to name a few.

In grade seven, a teacher confiscated a copy of Galaxy magazine, because she was not supposed to read "that trash".

Her first novel, Journey to Aprilioth, is her personal answer to the mystery of Stonehenge. Her hero, Nihall, a young priest, is sent on a journey to the ancient city of Aprilioth to complete the circle of stones and so stop the disasters that are plaguing his people.

The circle of stones was originally built by the Great Ones, Nihall's ancestors, before a natural catastrophe destroyed them.

In writing the story, she tried to have nothing that conflicts with the real archeology, land, flora, fauna and weather at that time.

"I did a lot of research to keep the right kings on the right throne on the right dates."

The person who edited the book, thought she had created her own world and asked her to sketch a map. She said she got out an atlas and traced the outlines of the continents.

The magic in the book could be magic, or it could be a natural phenomena such as extra sensory perception or hypnosis.

Aprilioth is part of a trilogy in progress. Kernaghan is currently working on a prequel, which will be purely her own imagination and will use "real magic" in the plot. Part of the second volume in the series appears in the current issue of Room of One's Own, under the title Thieras.

She said Aprilioth can be read as fantasy or science fiction, the science being archeology.

Her other works include a science fiction novelette, entitled Starcult, published in the November 1971 Galaxy magazine and co-author of the non-fiction book, The Upper Left-hand Corner: A Writers Guide for the Northwest, published in 1975.

Her poetry has appeared in a number of Canadian magazines, including Branching Out, Room of One's Own, Northern Journey and Canadian Review.

Kernaghan read part of Aprilioth to two audiences on Wednesday and answered questions as part of the national book festival week celebrations. Librarian Jane Horvath said the readings were well received and the library hopes to have Kernaghan come to Squamish again.

Arts Council reports on year's activities

Squamish Arts Council reported on a very busy and successful year with many activities and the sponsorship of a number of cultural activities.

The council donated monies or gave grants to the Weavers Guild, the Squamish International Festival, the Potters' Group, the Garibaldi Highlands School of Dance, the Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band, the Garibaldi Highlands Elementary School for the piano recorder group and tapes and music for the Squamish Figure Skating group.

The Squamish Arts Council started in 1971 and is marking ten years of steady progress. Yolanda Destradi was the moving force behind its inception and in those years the Arts Council has supported many groups, either with cash donations or with prizes or helping to finance cultural trips.

These have included the Weaver's Guild, the potters' group, the painters group, basket weaving and macrame workshops, silk screening workshop, adult and children's painting classes, the camera club, a batik workshop, art shows and displays and trips to arts and craft markets. They also took bus trips to opera performances in North Vancouver.

Local groups which the Arts Council actively supported included the Mamquam Elementary School Band, Amateur Nights, Jeannie Ryan, and her square dancers, the Stawamus School Band's trip to Kitimat, the trip made by students from the Garibaldi School of Dance to the Frank Augustyn-Karen Kain ballet performance in Vancouver, the trip to the Courtenay Music School made by students of the Stawamus School Band, activities of the Squamish Music Society, the evening of Robert Service poetry at the Brackendale Art Gallery and a donation to the ice arena.

Grants from the government have amounted to $1,525 and this has been spent in support of these causes.

The officers for 1981-82 are Jane Inerson, president; Hedi Knudsen, vice-president; Pamela Temple, secretary; Alida Hoogenboom, treasurer; Ed Bradish, publicity and Maureen Brown, telephone.

Arie Hoogenboom served as president for six years with Maureen Brown for one year.

The Squamish Arts Council could use your support. Memberships are $2 for an individual, $3 for a family and a group membership is $10.

Send your memberships to the Squamish Arts Council, Box 193, Garibaldi Highlands.

LOCAL FAMILIES SHARE IN CELEBRATION

Three local families went to Comox for the Mother's Day weekend to join with the great grandmother of the three wives. Mrs. Leggett, on her 90th birthday on Saturday, May 9th.

With Mrs. Leggett were her daughter Mrs. Vera Clark of North Vancouver, her granddaughter, Mrs. Avril Engler of North Vancouver and her four great granddaughters and their families.

Coming from Squamish was Pat and Earl Karam and their children Nicky, Michelle and Natalie; Jackie and Hayden Eugene with Marcelle and Gillian and Joanne and Larry Zander with Shane and Heath.

A fourth great granddaughter, Cheryl Engler and son Nathan of North Vancouver also attended the family gathering.

Mike Edwards new Signal Hill principal

Mike Edwards, head teacher at Garibaldi Highlands elementary school, will be the new principal at Signal Hill elementary in Pemberton effective September 1.

Jim Spencer, current principal at Signal Hill, will be the principal at Garibaldi Highlands.

Edwards started his teaching career with his wife in a two-room rural school at Narcosis Creek, outside of Quesnel. He was principal-teacher there for two years. His wife now is retired from teaching.

Since moving to Squamish, he has taught at Squamish elementary for three years, where he was also administrative assistant for two years, and has taught grade two and three students in Garibaldi Highlands for three years.

He said he hopes to move up to Pemberton in July and is looking forward to the experience. Pemberton has a reputation of having a very active and supportive community and "the climate is drier too."

He said he does not mind living in a small town, and actually prefers it.

"I grew up in a small town in Quebec, so small towns are no news to me."

Birthday greetings to Jeff Quigley, Melissa James, Cara McLeod, Virginia Tulloch and Colleen Huston and others celebrating birthdays this week.

Rose and Joe Pattenau had a happy houseful last weekend when his parents, Bessie and Archie Pattenau, came from Marquette, Manitoba for a visit. Other visitors were sister and brother-in-law, Dorothy and Cliff Dame and Darrin and Shayne from Port Alberni, sister and brother-in-law, Louise and Walt Antifeve, Campbell River, sister Ellen McPherson of Coquitlam and brother Pat Pattenau of Burnaby.

Get well wishes to George Langstaff of D'Arcy in hospital in Vancouver.

Pemberton Cubs and Beavers did a fine job of cleaning up the village during their meeting last week. They picked up all the litter as far up the Pemberton Meadows Road as the high school. Students of Signal Hill were out again Wednesday afternoon and now the school yard and village are spick and span. Good work, kids.

Joyce and Brian Davis are pleased to have her brother and sister-in-law, Jan and Willie Driegen come from Holland for a two week visit. Whilst here plans call for a camping holiday for the couples through the Okanagan.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Peters Sr. of Mount Currie on the death of his aunt, Mrs. Evelyn Peters, late of Shalalth.

Pemberton Brownies held an enrolment ceremony with a space theme Tuesday afternoon at St. David's Church Sunday School room. Deanna Gilmore, Tania Sillanpaa and Elaine Sillanpaa travelled through the planets and looked into space before saying their law and promise to leader Gloria Elkins. All of the girls are working on their space badges. After the enrolment, each girl received her puppet badge and enjoyed a space age cake with juice. Guests included parents and friends.

Debbie and Raye Shier are pleased to have her mother for a ten day visit with the family.

Pemberton Secondary School is pleased to welcome two new members to the staff. Mrs. Rhonda Harvey will assist Mrs. Bertoia in the office. Miss Cindy Gauthier recently received her masters degree in Media and will teach until the end of the school year.

Mr. Ron Renville attended a Cariboo Trail meeting in Lillooet last week. Teachers arranged next year's sports events.

Plan to attend the municipal "Ski World" at Pemberton Secondary May 25 and 26. Students are practising hard under the direction of Mr. George Henry.

The invitational farewell banquet and dance is to be held at the school May 29 and Farewell Ceremonies are planned for June 12.

Village Clerk Tom Wood attended a three-day Capilano College course exploring the merits of instituting a computer program at the village office.

Debbie and Raye Shier are happy to announce the arrival of their daughter, Paya, born April 30 at the Squamish General Hospital, weighing 7 lbs. 4 oz. Two year old Dustin is pleased to have a sister and delighted grandparents are Mrs. Mary Shier of Pemberton, and Melva and Alan Curtis of Beaufort, Ontario, and great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Curtis also of Beaufort.

Residents of the Blackwater Creek Road are getting desperate in their efforts to have some upgrading done on the road serving the area. They have formed a ratepayers association and plan to block the road next month for a weekend to call attention to their plight. Some work was done in the winter by the dyking district with money provided for flood relief.

Village of Pemberton works foreman Tom Mitchell is attending a one week seminar on Water and Waste Management at UBC.

Iva and Paul Lefebvre's daughter, Linda Britz, came from Fort St. John for a one week visit.

Congratulations to Treana and Marshall Grabas and staff on a most successful grand opening party of the Pemberton Hotel

May 2.

The L.A. to Branch 201, Royal Canadian Legion, held its Mother's Day plant sale and luncheon at the Legion Saturday May 9. Betty Dien and Audrey Doherty convened the garden sales and Georgina Erickson looked after the delicious lunch of open-faced buns and strawberry shortcake, tea and coffee. Phyllis Graham served. The community hall was surely missed as the large crowd came to choose bedding plants, cut flowers and potted indoor plants for mother.

The Pemberton Lions Club must have cooked breakfast for most of the local families when they took mother to the Annual Pancake breakfast held at the Legion last Sunday. As usual the men cooked a delicious meal cheerfully served to start the day off right.

Craig Dan was the first place overall winner when Pemberton Secondary participated in the annual milk run the end of April. Other winners were Senior Boy first, Archie Wallace, first senior girl Pam Spencer and first jr. girl Pauline Hartfield.

SCOUTS, CUBS & BEAVERS ramblings FROM EAST HOWE SOUND

The 1980-81 season winds down and to come full circle the East Howe Sound District Council prepares now for start-up 1981-82 in September. We have enjoyed an exciting year and one that has been interesting, competitive and a year that saw the boys engaged in some very positive learning experiences. Of course, we're a little more than proud of our CJ'81 Patrol who will depart on July 1st for Kananaskis Country and 10 days of Scouting in the finest tradition.

We take time now to say a special "thankyou" to each and every one of our leaders in the East Howe Sound District. Their dedication to Scouting, their enthusiasm and above all their concern and interest in the boys accounts in no small way for the successes and achievements that we have enjoyed this year. Apart from the time given to weekly meetings they are always eager to participate with the boys in camps, field trips and just those extra hours needed to complete a project. They are friend, counsellor and mentor to the young Scouts and they'll always find that extra few minutes to lend an ear, lend a hand or soothe some ruffled feathers. From the boys, their parents and from the East Howe Sound District Council, our gratitude to a group of fine people - Ladies and Gentlemen may I present our Leaders!

As we mentioned above, preparations for the 1981-82 season are already underway. Registration for all District Scouts will be Wednesday, September 17th and if you have a young man in your family who wishes to participate in the Scouting Movement next year now is the time to give it some serious thought. We have mentioned from time to time the phenomenal growth of the East Howe Sound District and we project that next year's registration will set yet another record. New Beaver Colonies, Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Venturer Crews figure largely in our planning and of course it follows that new leaders will be required if we are to realize our goals. Once the now established Sections have their full compliment of boys in September they will be 'frozen' - that is, no further registrations accepted. So perhaps now is the time to think about a Scouting career for your boy and the part that you can play in the Scouting Movement. The Scouting programme provides boys and young adults with a natural outlet for their energies and curiosities while it offers them a pattern to mold their future endeavors by. To be a part of this growth period has its very own rewards. Perhaps Scouting has a part to play in your future too.

Mrs. Rhonda Harvey, the new clerical assistant at Pemberton Secondary School.

Signal Hill Elementary News

Mike Edwards, head teacher at Garibaldi Highlands Elementary School, has been appointed principal of Signal Hill Elementary School, the position effective Sept. 1.

Mrs. Dunbar and Mr. Davidson will be taking the Grade 4 and Grade 7 students to Victoria on a field trip. They will visit Fable Cottage, Victoria's Inner Harbour, the Wax Museum, the Parliament Buildings, Undersea Gardens, Provincial Museum, Fort Rodd and various recreational activities. The students raised the money to finance this exciting three day trip.

Signal Hill students are actively training for the track and field season. They will participate in several mini-meets prior to the district track meet in Squamish on June 5.

Sixteen students, Trevor Gabriel, Rachel Sampson, Sheena Wallace, Caroline Richard, Leah Dan, Paul Illes, John Quigley, Shayne Peters, Jeannie Hjelt, Steven McNulty, Chad Gilmore, Tracy Krotz, Junior Dan, Bobby Watkinson, Timmy Gabriel and Malcolm Pascal were honored for their achievement in physical fitness.

Application for a permit under the Pollution Control Act (Emissions)

This application is to be filed with the Director of Pollution Control, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, British Columbia, V8V 1X4. Any person who qualifies as an objector under section 16 of the Pollution Control Act may, within 30 days of the date of application, or within 30 days of the date of publication in The British Columbia Gazette or in a newspaper, or where service is required, within 30 days of serving a copy of the application, file with the Director at the above address an objection in writing to the granting of a permit, stating the manner in which he is affected.

The purpose of this application is to emit pollutant from a garbage incinerator for a temporary construction camp. The incinerator is forced air, diesel fired type single chamber series TMF 1020 supplied by Territorial Metal Fabricators Ltd. 1. We, Dawson Construction Limited, of 735 Clark Drive, Vancouver, B.C. V5L 3J4, hereby apply to the Director for a permit to discharge or emit contaminant(s) into the air from a garbage incinerator located adjacent to Highway 99, 13 miles north of Squamish, B.C. and give notice of our application to all persons affected.

2. The land upon which the works are located: southeast corner of D.L. 2658 New Westminster Land District.

3. The discharge or emission shall be located 1000 feet north of Culliton Creek Bridge and 500 feet west of Highway.

4. The rate of discharge is (dry basis): (a) Maximum 1500; duration 1 hour per day; frequency once a day (b) Average daily (based on normal daily operating period 1500 (SCFM. mol/s). The operating period during which contaminants will be discharged is one hour per day six days per week.

5. The characteristics of the contaminant(s) to be discharged are as follows: Maximum Opacity: 20% or better for 95% of operating time with variance to 40% opacity for 5% of operating time.

6. The type of treatment to be applied to the contaminant(s) is as follows: Incinerator is lined with refractory brick. Operating temperature 542.4 C at base of stack.

This application, dated on April 16th, 1981, was posted on the ground in accordance with the Pollution Control Regulations.
