There will be a new look to the road through the Cheakamus Canyon when work on this stretch is completed. Trees have been removed from the light area above the present road in the centre of the picture, fill will be used to make a new stretch of road and widen it when rocky corners will be knocked off to straighten the road. Note the old B.C. Hydro tote road in the lower centre of the picture. This was used prior to the building of the present one.

Drilling to start at Meagher Creek in June

A 60-truck convoy of drilling equipment from the oil fields of Alberta will arrive at B.C. Hydro's Meagher Creek geothermal site in the Pacific Coast Range mountains north of Pemberton in late June.

Hydro is stepping up its search for an underground steam reservoir big enough, hot enough and with enough pressure to power an electric generating plant.

Geothermal power production involves the tapping of steam trapped below the earth's surface by means of wells, similar to those used to obtain oil and gas. The steam is then used to turn turbines that drive electric generators.

Now in its sixth season of exploration at the dormant volcanic complex, Hydro already knows it is hot beneath the surface. Drilling in 1978 and 1979 revealed temperatures of over 200 degrees Celsius at a depth of 367 metres and 80 degrees Celsius at only 120 metres, results which indicate that required resource might be found at a depth of less than 2,000 metres. These temperatures, if combined with an adequate pressure and supply of water, could provide steam for a commercial electric generating station.

Encouraged by these finds,

Hydro will launch a $2 million deep drilling and testing program this summer.

An experienced deep drilling firm, Westburn Drilling of Calgary, has been hired by Hydro to bore the first of two production-sized exploratory wells 3,000 metres beneath Pylon Peak, which is 2,750 metres high. Next month the company will haul a full-sized drill rig and associated equipment aboard a convoy of trailer trucks from Grand Prairie, Alberta, to the Meagher Creek site.

One of the world's leading geothermal consultants, K.R.T.A. Consulting of Auckland, New Zealand, has been retained by Hydro to oversee the drilling operation.

Westburn's drill rig, capable of boring more than 4,000 metres into solid rock, will be set up in late June. Using tungsten carbide bits, it will cut a hole 66 centimetres (26 inches) in diameter to a depth of 40 metres. The hole will then taper in diameter to 21.6 centimetres (8.5 inches) at 490 metres and remain at that size to the 3,000 metre mark.

The drill hole will angle at 38 degrees to get beneath Pylon Peak and will curve for some of its length.

Hydro estimates it will take Westburn 90 to 120 days to complete the first exploratory well, most of which will be through very hard rock.

Hydro will call tenders within the next few weeks for the second exploratory well, to be started in the fall in the vicinity of the first shaft.

Several other contracts associated with the exploratory wells are being awarded by Hydro, including a contract to cement the casing of the wells to prevent collapse and to facilitate testing procedures.

BUILDING PERMITS TOTAL $4.6M TO END OF APRIL

The value of building permits to the end of April 1981 totals $4,586,398.

Eleven single family dwelling permits, worth $681,000; one multiple dwelling worth $1,040,000; three improvements worth $11,000; and five duplexes worth $420,000; were issued last month for a total of $2,152,000.

In April 1980, six single family dwellings worth $225,000; seven improvements worth $86,500; and five commercial worth $155,200 were issued, for a total of $466,700.

The permit value increased by $1,685,300 compared to April 1980.

Concurrent with the large exploratory well drilling, Hydro's own construction crews will continue their program of drilling a number of smaller holes to determine the size and location of the reservoir.

A 25-man camp will be estimated for crews working on the large exploration wells and, with Hydro's existing camp, will bring to 75 the number of workers who could be at the site this summer.

Hydro is paying the full cost of the more detailed exploration phase of investigations it is now entering. Earlier geological, geophysical and preliminary environmental studies were conducted jointly by Hydro and the federal government with financial support from the provincial and federal governments.

Depending on results of the engineering and environmental studies and on the degree of success of the drilling programs, Hydro will decide whether to apply for an energy project certificate under the B.C. Utilities Commission Act.

If a certificate is obtained, subsequent phases would involve production drilling to support a 55-megawatt demonstration plant capable of meeting the needs of medium-sized community or a pulp and paper mill, followed by design and construction of powerplant auxiliary works and transmission line.

Hydro recently issued its second information bulletin on the Meagher Creek investigations. Copies are available in municipal, regional and college libraries throughout the province or may be obtained from the Community Relations Department or Information Place at Hydro's head office, 970 Burrard Street, Vancouver V6Z 1Y3.

Rates increase at Civic Centre

Council accepted a manual of fees and charges for 1981-1982 which would increase some fees at the civic centre. However, council deferred the "controversial charge" of $100 per day when a beer garden is in operation until the various organizations meet with the recreation commission.

Recreation director Roger Duffy said this charge was included to recover some of the recreation dollars that are spent on maintaining and developing the fields.

"The bulk of the budget money is on fields," he said.

Duffy said there is a strong feeling among other recreation departments that there should be a charge from the groups using the fields. As the community grows, maintenance increases and some part of that cost should come from the user.

Ald. Ron Barr said it "boils down" to men's and women's fastball organizations which are "up in arms" over the $100 charge.

The organizations put every cent they earn back into developing the fields. If the municipality starts charging the groups, they would feel they are getting "run down into the ground."

Ald. L.C. Kindree asked if the hockey and figure skating organizations put any money back into the facility. Duffy replied the organizations rented the facilities but the fields are not rented. Ald. Kindree said this aspect had to be taken into consideration.

He suggested the charge for the first year be very nominal and a charge against each athlete would possibly be more acceptable.

Ald. Barr said the teams would have to discuss it with their executives.

A charge for each athlete seemed reasonable, Ald. Kindree said, because registration would have to pick up something.

Administrator Chuck Schatzenkirk said in an outdoor facility, a very thin strata of users would pay, because the majority of people who use the fields are amateurs and they do not pay for the upkeep.

Mayor Jim Elliott said there are approximately 10 beer gardens during the year, which would generate $1,000. The amount is "small potatoes" and he said he did not believe anything will be gained.

The matter will be tabled until the groups meet with the commission Monday.

In some cases, rental of the civic centre, ice arena and swimming pool have increased. General conditions for rental of the facilities and payment of rental fees remain the same.

Occupancy limits in the junior lounge, senior lounge and auditorium have been changed. Limits for the mezzanine have also been set out.

In the junior lounge, under code one, which is non-fixed seats, the limit is 75 people. Under code two, which is non-fixed seats and tables, the limit is 60 people. Under code three, which is non-fixed seats and tables with a liquor licence, the limit is 50 people.

The figures decreased because the lounge was divided in half to allow for a possible weight training facility.

In the senior lounge, under code one, the limit is 147 people. Under code two it is 117 people and under code three the limit is 98 people. The figures are a correction over last year.

In the auditorium, under code four, which is non-fixed seats, tables and a dance area, the limit is 480 people.

In the mezzanine, under code one, the limit is 330 people; under code two the limit is 270 people; under code three the limit is 220 people and under code four the limit is 150 people.

Rental of the auditorium, stage or senior lounge for local community benefit activities, local service clubs, summer fairs, community concerts, religious events, district of Squamish civic events and wedding receptions, has increased from $150 to $175 per day and from $100 to $125 per evening.

For activities or events requiring dress rehearsals or set up time, there will be no charge provided there are no paid bookings.

For conventions of three consecutive days or longer, the rental increased from $100 to $125 per day.

For commercial advertising or sales promotions, the rate increased from $225 to $250 per day and from $200 to $225 per evening.

For private sponsored entertainment, dances, stage shows, concerts, films, publicly attended functions and provincial or federal political activities the rate increased from $325 to $350 per day and from $240 to $265 per evening or 10 per cent of the gross at gate, whichever is greater.

Additional charges for chairs increased from $15 to $20 per 100 and $20 to $25 per 100 tables and

VANDALS HARASS VISITORS, DAMAGE CARS

Police report several incidents during the past week of people being harassed by youths and their vehicles damaged.

On May 17 two Richmond people camping about 10 miles up the MacMillan Bloedel road, found their campsite invaded by a group of about 15 youths. They were harassed, their fire destroyed and car windows were smashed. The young people were believed to be from the Squamish area. This case is still being investigated.

On the following day a resident of Burnaby was camped at Cat Lake and his motorcycle was attacked by youths and burned.

On the same day a Vancouver resident reported that rocks were thrown through his car window while he was parked on the MacMillan Bloedel logging road.

On May 19th a D-8 cat, about 20 miles up the MB logging road, suffered hundreds of dollars damage when it was shot and damaged by a rifle.

Police also received a report on May 20 of vandalism to a parks branch backhoe, parked along the Black Tusk road, which had fuel lines cut, and ignition wires slashed.

Stan Clarke, city father, dies at 97 years of age

A long time resident of Squamish and one of the founding fathers of the municipality, George Stanbrook (Stan) Clarke, passed away in Squamish General Hospital on Saturday, May 23 in his 98th year.

Clarke, who was instrumental in the formation of the municipality, and in March of 1948 the machinery was set up for the first village election to be held that December. Along with E.C. Carson and J.R. Morrison he was appointed a commissioner pro tem.

In December he was elected as commissioner with J.R. Morrison and Mrs. Jean McKee. With the exception of one year, he sat on council for the next 14 years, and served as chairman for seven of them.

During that time he became an expert on municipal law and it was said that he could recite it in his sleep.

In those years he was also prominent in community affairs. He was a life member of the Chamber of Commerce and the BPOE and a past president of the former Board of Trade.

An avid reader all his life, he was active on the Squamish Library Board and made many of the improvements to the first library building. He has also been a member of the Cemetery Board, prior to the incorporation of the valley as a district municipality from 1939 and secretary for twenty years. He is also a former chairman of the Old Age Pensioners.

Politically he was a lifelong socialist, a member of the NDP party and before that of the CCF party.

Clarke was also a builder and

many homes in Squamish bore the stamp of his work. The only business building still standing which he built is the B.C. Hydro office.

Clarke was born on the north coast of Norfolk in England and came to Canada in 1910. He worked for the CNR in Winnipeg and Edmonton and ten years later moved to Brisbane, Australia, where he helped to build wooden street cars.

He returned to Canada in 1926, to the CPR at Field and then to Squamish the following year. After a short period on the B.C. Railway, then known as the P.C.E., he went into business for himself, operating a gas station and a construction business.

He also operated a small sawmill on the Goat Creek road. He retired in 1945 but since that time he kept up his interest in carpentry and woodworking and became an expert woodcarver.

He spent some time travelling after his retirement but in later years poor health curtailed this interest but he was actively interested in reading up till a short time ago.

He is survived by his loving wife, Freda, three children, Jack of Kamloops, Peter of Vancouver and Mrs. Joan Remmers of Yellowknife; two sisters, Mrs. Bernice Barclay of Holt, England and Mrs. Elsie Pfister of Metfield, England; eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in Squamish United Church on Wednesday, May 27 at 1 p.m. Rev. Jack Lindquist officiating. In lieu of flowers donations to the Squamish General Hospital would be appreciated.

Hydro applies herbicide locally

B.C. Hydro authorities outlined the program of controlling the underbrush on Hydro rights-of-way to council.

Phase one commences at the southern portion of Brohm Creek, travels north to the northern boundary and is located at the northeast boundary of the district. In this phase, the trees will first be cut and the stumps treated with a herbicide, which will be applied with back pack applicators.

Phase two deals with the areas on the eastern side of the district of Squamish outside the boundaries located south of the Mamquam River and running north to Ring Creek. Tordon pellets will be used in this area.

A permit has been issued for the Brohm Creek area, phase one, and a permit is being processed for the phase two area.

The methods used will be placing pellets directly into the tree, cutting the tree to allow direct spraying, hand application and back pack applicators. Each area will be treated differently.

There will be no aerial spraying. In a meeting May 12 between administration and B.C. Hydro representatives, a question was raised on the possibility of Tordon getting into the water supply at the Stawamus intake through various tributaries. Hydro advised the area in question was too far to the east to allow any run-off into the tributaries or the Stawamus.

An on-site examination of any contentious proposal for a permit is made by the pollution control board.

Ald. Kindree asked if council could be supplied with the tonages used in previous aerial spraying and hand application for comparison.

BETTY SHORE HEADS SOUTH COAST BRANCH

School trustee Betty Shore was elected chairman of the South Coast Branch of the B.C. School Trustees Association for a third term at the recent meeting of the branch.

Margaret Marchant, who had been serving as branch representative on the BCSTA executive declined to serve again and was replaced by Diane McKendrick of Powell River.

A curious bunny is about to be investigated himself. There was lots of activity at the North Vancouver Outdoor School open house in Paradise Valley on Victoria Day.

Subdivision request denied

A request by N.N. Mathias to subdivide his property on district lot 1305, on Loggers Lane at the end of Finch Dr., was denied. It is council policy to discourage subdivision on the property unless sewer and water are provided because of the possible health hazard.

Gene Marcott accompanied Mathias to the council meeting. Marcott said the property is 2,600 square feet, approximately five-eighths of an acre, and is more than adequate for the requirements set out for subdivision.

Works superintendent John Payne said he was the approving officer and he could not approve the subdivision due to the council resolution that there be no more subdivision on the property due to the lack of sewer and water.

Administrator Chuck Schatzenkirk said the Coast Garibaldi Health Unit advised council there could be no subdivision until the land is connected to water and sewer, which would cost $150,000.

The land cannot be subdivided because of its inability to take effluent. The land has a high water table. Ald. L.C. Kindree said locating wells and sewer tanks on high water tables is a "disaster". Mayor Jim Elliott said the tanks and wells could drain into each other.

Ald. Ron Barr said the Boscariol subdivision on East Depot Rd. was approved and it was using septic tanks. However, Mayor Elliott said the land there was "high and dry" and there were no drainage or water problems. He added the two situations were different and not related. Administrator Schatzenkirk also said there was no council policy regarding subdivision in that area.

Also Egon Tobus said if the subdivision complies with the square footage and health requirements then council should give its blessing to the application.

Schatzenkirk said if council wished, it could remove the policy.

Ald. Kindree said if the policy was removed, then every parcel of land would be subdivided and the district would eventually be forced to provide sewer and water.

The district was "stuck with the costs" of water and sewer when the Northridge subdivision was developed, he said. The only sound and safe basis for development in the area was if the residents want to expand and they are prepared to go along with the sewer and water costs.

Marcott said Mathias bought the property because he was led to believe he could subdivide it. Ald. Hugh Carleton said although the erroneous information was given by a municipal employee, council is not obliged to support what was given. Mayor Elliott said if the information had been given by the approving officer, then the municipality would be liable for damages.

Ald. Barr asked if the subdivision could be allowed on the basis that the district was not responsible for sewer and water now or in the future. Schatzenkirk replied the health department would eventually order the municipality to install sewer and water.

Currently there are eight homes on the property. Ald. Carleton said 16 homes would be there very shortly if the proposal was approved. Council has to affirm its policy or change it.

The subdivision was denied. Ald. Tobus and Ald. Barr opposed the motion.

Speeder stolen

A B.C. Railway speeder was stolen from the Britannia area while the driver was having a cup of coffee in the garage on Sunday, May 10.

The operator looked up and saw the speeder, which he had parked on the track, heading south with two male occupants aboard.

He tried to catch it and the RCMP and private citizens, alerted by the operator, pursued the vehicle which sped down the track south of Britannia Beach.

The men left the vehicle and attempted to escape by hitchhiking but were apprehended.

James Paul Lortie of Vancouver and Geoffrey Richard Millman of North Vancouver were charged with theft over $200. Millman was also charged with possession of marijuana.

Admission to the ice arena for public skating remains the same. However, public skating will be free for the public for the first month of the new season up to September 15.

Duffy said this would attract more people and possibly get them "hooked" on skating.

The book of 20 tickets has been divided into three categories. The cost for adults, 19 and over, is $16; for students and senior citizens the cost is $12 and for children 12 and under the cost is $10.

The rate for regular scheduled times for the figure skating club and minor hockey association increased from $25 to $30. For special events, the rate increased from $50 to $60, with no charge for set up time.

Ice rentals for recreational hockey, private use and the Howe Sound men's hockey league increased from $50 to $60 per hour.

If a junior A hockey team is established in Squamish, the rate will be $400 per regular scheduled game, which will include three one-hour practices per week. Pre-season training camp and exhibition games will be charged $60 per hour and playoffs will cost $500 per game.

If the ice is made available during the summer, from June 1 to August 1, the rate will be $70 per hour or $500 per day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Non-ice rentals for local community, benefit activities, local service club money making events and local religious events increased from $175 to $200 per day, from 8 a.m. to midnight.

For commercial advertising and sales promotions, the rate increased from $225 to $250 per day.

A new inclusion in the manual is the rates for the mezzanine. For local community, benefit activities, local service club money making events and local religious events, the rate is $150 per day from 8 a.m. to midnight and $100 per evening, from 6 p.m. to midnight.

For private out of town sponsored entertainment and dances, the cost is $300 per day, from 8 a.m. to midnight and $200 per evening, from 6 p.m. to midnight, or 10 per cent of the profits, whichever is greater.

The rates for the swimming pool stay the same, except the rate for the school district increases from $8 to $9 per lifeguard, per school board program.

Individual tutoring, on a one-to-one basis, was introduced at $8 per 30 minutes.

Fees for the Centennial Fields concession, carnivals and midway, walkie talkie units and portable p.a. system remain the same.

Don John heads local Conservative organization

Don John was re-elected president of the local Conservative Association at the annual meeting and dinner held in the Easter Seal Camp on Friday, May 22.

Jean Rattray is the secretary with Tom Fowler, treasurer and directors are Alice Harris, Doreen Sherlaw, Don Wilson, Maurice Scott, Evie Waldron, Guy Steadman and Gordon Ferguson.

Dave Stewary chaired the meeting and Lorne Greenaway, MP for Coast-Chilcotin was the guest speaker.

MP Lorne Greenaway with Squamish Conservative Association president Don John at the annual meeting on Friday evening.

Greenaway touched on a number of subjects in his talk and then answered some questions from the floor. He referred to the government, which will be spending some $60 to $70 million in advertising this year as "government by Goldfarb" referring to the agencies and polls.

He said he does not favor an entrenched Bill of Rights but 90% of the people seem to want one.

"Everyone in Ottawa's offices are bugged," Greenaway said, adding that Ron Hubtington was the only person he knew who could afford a de-bugger and he had his office swept daily to remove the bugs.

"No one knows where they come from or who is doing it, but everyone's office is bugged."

He was appalled at the small amount of money spent on research and development. He is a member of this committee of the house and said that using research and development is the only way Canadians can work themselves out of the problems they face.

He said Canada spends 9 percent of our GNP on research while Japan spends much, much more. Some private companies spend up to 8 percent. This is the private research which produced the Telidon system which has put us in the forefront in the television-computer programming.

The need for more research and technology in the sciences is the second most important thing in the minds of Canadians, Greenaway said, and one that can put us ahead in the race for the application of science.

He spoke on the failure of the federal government to follow through on programs, saying that in the Yukon there is a small lumber industry and the federal government collects stumpage, but has yet to plant a tree.

Speaking on his recent trip to NATO bases in Europe he said the Russians have a missile system which is active to within feet. "The Russians are way ahead of the Americans in numbers, technology and quality," he said "and their defense is first rate."

He said the chief problem worrying the Russians today is their change in demography. There are more Asiatic Russians than European ones, and they are spreading themselves very thin. But they have the West outgunned.

In answer to a question on the interest rates and inflation he said he didn't think there was much that could be done about it.

"I believe the French-English question and the constitution are red herrings," Greenaway said. "The government won't cut taxes because it needs every cent it can get. Bouey has done his share in following the theory about keeping interest rates to curb inflation but the government is not doing its share. It is not curbing its spending."

"The only reason we aren't bankrupt is because of our resources."

He told the meeting that the Conservatives blew their chances. "We didn't do what we should have done in putting our own people in the Civil Service and getting rid of those who had been there for years."

"There's no reason why anyone in Quebec should ever vote Conservative when they get everything they want now."

"In 1979-80 each Indian in Quebec got $2,500 per capita while in B.C. they got $213 per capita."

"The biggest divisive force in the country today is the prime minister."

Greenaway said he was against restricting Japanese cars but many of his colleagues, who come from ridings which have industries related to North American cars do not agree.

On a question about the possibility of a change in leadership he said this was very likely. "We have to swing seats in metro Toronto if we want to elect a government," he said.

Greenaway said there were a number of serious contenders for the position. Among them are John Crosbie, David Crombie and Brian Mulroney.

Commenting on the Mexican oil deal he said the Mexican oil is so thick they can't pump it out of the tankers in the St. Lawrence.

"It's a standing joke that they should supply the tanker crew with chain saws so they can cut the oil out of the tankers," he said.

Referring to the withdrawal of oil rigs from Alberta Greenaway said 148 of them have gone to the States and each drill rig uses 69 men. They can only take four with them when they leave so that's 65 jobs lost every time one of them leaves the country.

Beer garden for Loggers Sports
The Squamish Days committee will operate a beer garden during the Loggers Sports festivities during the weekend of Aug. 1 and 2. The committee is currently in the process of applying for a liquor permit.

Office supplies tender awarded
Squamish Office Supply was awarded the tender for newsprint lined pads for the district. The bid was $2,059.59 plus six percent tax. A bid was also submitted on bond paper lined pads for $2,128.39 plus sales tax.

Council agreed to award the tender for the newsprint pads because of the substantial difference in price.

Trailer given notice
The occupants of the trailer at the Squamish airport were served with a written notice, stating permission was required from council before any trailers could be located in the district.

The trailer houses the caretaker for the helicopters at the airport.

Transmission line seeded
B.C. Hydro advised council there will be a seeding program, possibly by air, to spray grass seed in the east-west newly cleared line in the Cheekye area, which is servicing the Cheekye-Dunsmuir transmission line.

The program will be carried out over the next several months.

Day care centre zoning deferred
The technical planning committee deferred the discussion on day care zoning to the next TPC meeting.

The committee examined all the documents, but has been unable to reach a successful recommendation to council on where the centres should be allowed.

The suggestions considered are allowing the centres in all commercial zones, residential one, two, two A and five or creating a day care centre zone.

Application denied
An application by George Bures for a variance 20-foot front yard setback on his property at 2636 Rhum and Egg Dr. was denied.

The TPC advised a hardship is not being created if the setback is not allowed because the lot has not been built on to date, the house can be located further to the rear of the lot and the integrity of the existing front lot line should be maintained.

Recreation information received soon

Recreation director Roger Duffy will confirm when information on determining the cost of leisure delivery service will be available from Professional Environmental Recreation Consultants Ltd. (PERC).

Duffy said he recently completed a questionnaire circulated by PERC.

Finishing cutting the trees

How nice to see that some of the trees along the edge of the highway north of Shanon Falls have been cut, permitting a view of the harbour. But why did they stop when they were only part way along the highway?

Years ago when the alders and other weed trees were small it was interesting to view the harbour and the activity. This has been increased since more ships are arriving at Squamish Terminals and people would possibly like to see what is going on.

Surely this can be done with very little work and would make it a much more interesting and attractive sight. There are small boats, logs being boomed and lots of other activity on the waterfront and this could be an interesting place to stop and watch it.

We would also like to suggest that the spot at the north end of the gully just past Murrin Lake, where you first get a good look at Garibaldi and Squamish, be cleared so that people could also get an opportunity to use this viewpoint to overlook the harbour.

Many of the pictures of Squamish were taken from this point ten years ago when you could see what lay before you. But now it has grown up to alders and other trees and it is almost impossible to get a good picture. But if the trees were cut down the view would be opened up again.

New form of censorship

A new form of censorship, called "boycott", is underway against television shows millions of people find objectionable by reason of sexual content.

Started by a Baptist minister outside Knoxville, Tennessee, it now has five million registered protestors and they are making their dissatisfaction known to advertisers.

What started as a sermon has grown by leaps and bounds, with the result that one major advertiser has already withdrawn support and others are said to be considering doing likewise.

In the few months the movement has been afoot it has attracted the attention of Time magazine and others. Because of this, the number of supporters likely will double and triple, giving the movement terrific clout.

Contrary to other such organizations which would try to have objectionable programs removed from TV, the organization just refuses to buy products of supporting advertisers, and they send coupons to manufacturers to indicate their displeasure and boycott.

Five shows, including Soap, One Day at a Time, Love Boat, Charlie's Angels and Dallas, are listed as the worst offenders, because of the way actors get in and out of bed with each other so many times.

By comparison, there are other shows, such as MASH, which have identical situations but not so explicit, with which the organization has no complaint.

One advertiser, Warner-Lambert, received sufficient complaints that it withdrew its support from one of the shows.

If five million people find sex scenes and shapely but wriggling posteriors in jeans on TV unacceptable, who don't they pay more attention to sanitary napkins and disposable douche commercials, which are not only offensive but repugnant?

Permanent crossings needed

Squamish residents who drive north to Whistler should be justifiably annoyed when they drive up the highway and see the permanent crossings which have been installed at the B.C. Railway crossings.

Meanwhile we suffer through the poorly fashioned and outdated wooden plank crossings, especially those leading into town where the two crossings on the main street are damaged almost as fast as they are installed.

There are spaces where the planks have been worn so much that motorists are damaging the suspension of their cars and their wheel alignment every time they come into town. And there is no way it can be avoided as they have to cross the railway tracks in order to do so.

Those are the worst ones, but the ones on all the other level crossings are just as bad. But they do not get the heavy use the two at the entrance to town on Cleveland Ave. get.

Surely the BCR and the municipality could come to some agreement whereby some form of cost sharing or other deal could be made. One permanent crossing would end the problem and make it unnecessary to have them replaced periodically.

Please consider installing permanent crossings to ease the wear and tear on local vehicles.

What is a crisis?

More than five years ago, in the fall of 1975, Prime Minister Trudeau believed there was a grave enough economic crisis in Canada to justify the imposition of three years of wage and price controls to fight inflation.

Trudeau had spent the previous election campaign fighting against the imposition of wage and price controls which had been urged by the Opposition Leader at that time, Robert Stanfield.

Nevertheless Trudeau and his Liberal government eventually saw the light and the crisis it illuminated.

In October of that year the inflation rate was running at 10.6 percent annually. Now it is 11.2 percent. The 1975 Bank of Canada interest rate of 9 percent has almost doubled to 18, its highest rate in history. At that time the Canadian dollar was worth 97.25 cents on the U.S. dollar; recently it dropped to 82.56 U.S., the lowest level in 47 years.

Stanfield's successor, Joe Clark, has suggested that Canada is in its worst economic crisis since the 1930's. The figures certainly bear him out.

Not so, says Trudeau's Finance Minister Allan Rock. He says the word "crisis" is "grim" he admitted, but there is no "crisis."

There are a lot of low and fixed income Canadians who would disagree with Rock. But then, he and Trudeau are not facing an election.

They'd rather not turn on the light and see the crisis. They'd rather operate in the dark and leave us there.

Howe Soundings

Wouldn't you know it? There it was, a long holiday weekend and what did it do? Cloud over and rain. And to add to the problems one of the ferries developed some problems so there was a long delay with the ferries.

But with the long weekend, and with our plant taking their Monday holiday now instead of the Friday before, we are getting our statutory holidays on the same day everyone else does, so it was a golden opportunity to go up the road for the first time this spring.

It was cloudy but not raining when I went up on Sunday and even in mid-afternoon there was lots of traffic. Not bumper to bumper but certainly not light. It was amazing to see where they were working on the highway in the canyon, pecking away at the cliffs above the road, cutting off the first sharp corner past the viewpoint and starting to fill the canyon and divert the river.

From one spot just before the sharp turn which is being knocked down you can see the old road which used to be the B.C. Hydro tote road before the present one was put in, the present road, and what will be the new one.

Noticed some large logs beside the road. Surely they aren't going to leave them but someone will pick them up and sell them for lumber.

In the canyon the river is being diverted. The popular camping spot known as the "Wop Stop" has been destroyed and the fill is extending from it out into the centre of the river. Fortunately there are no salmon above the canyon or else this would not be permitted. Notice that probably one of the bluffs to be removed is one which has a lovely lot of saxifrage on it, one of an unusual kind I have never found anywhere else.

It was appalling to see Daisy Lake so low at this time of year. And a shame to see the lovely picnic spot which has been built alongside the lake closed. The Stanley Lake campsite was closed but the one at Roe Creek campsite just up the creek from the lake.

Just north of Daisy Lake dam there are a few small ponds and along the edges the swamp laurel or kalmia was blooming, the lovely six sided cups in a beautiful deep rose shade. Usually I can pick a bouquet of them but this year there was so much water in the ponds that they could not be reached.

The white buckbean with its soft furry flowers was also poking up through the water and in the mossy banks along the edge of the lake you could see the tiny star-like flowers of the wild cranberry. Soon the Labrador tea and the pond lilies will be blooming and then summer will have really come.

Further up the road you could see the mats of penstemon, still thick and dark but with no blossoms yet. But in some of the sheltered spots close to Squamish the wild columbines are a mass of bloom and before long the Oregon sunshine will be blooming along the highway. The dwarf azalea will shake its pale pink bells on the breeze.

One of my favourite wild flowers is the twin flower, the delicate linnaea borealis of the northern woods, and I can remember the girls coming home from a hike wearing a diadem of linnaea around their brows, the delicate twin bells, miniature copies of honeysuckle standing above the slender evergreen vines.

Along the road closer to Whistler there were lots of Saskatoon berries, the white flowers shining against the deep green leaves and you could also see the blossoms of the red twinberry or white flowered honeysuckle bush. The mountain ash was leafing out and while they are in full bloom here on the coast, just a few miles inland the flowers are still tight buds.

Alta Lake was gay with bright coloured sails as wind surfers were out in full force taking advantage of the winds which always blow along the lakes at the height of land. There were purple and yellow sails, some with stripes and they looked like a kaleidoscope of colour as they shifted in the winds.

We decided to feed the birds and the leftover toast and garlic bread was crumbled for them. The other birds didn't seem to have much of a chance though as the bluejays were there in full force, eating as much as they could and then flying off beak-heavy as they sped away to store it for future needs. It reminded me of the time we made blueberry muffins at Black Tusk meadows and they turned out heavy as lead. We cut them up with the axe and left the chunks on the chopping blocks for the whiskey jacks who developed a permanent droop as they flew off beak-heavy with the chunks of muffin.

A beautiful red-winged blackbird had been around the cabin but I didn't see him. They are beautiful birds and have the clearest, sweetest call. One of them used to come back year after year to the Stockdales at Pinecrest and they even named him. It is startling to see these beautiful birds and then see their dowdy mates.

But the most beautiful birds I have ever seen are the mountain bluebirds, snippets of azure blue sky that seem to have taken wing.

Many of the popular stopping places in the valley between Squamish and Whistler are no longer available. The spot by Culliton Creek cannot be used as construction is going on there; the Stanley Lake campsite is closed and the one beside the Cheakamus at the north end of the canyon is "being torn up and almost unusable. And, if there is danger from the Barrier, perhaps it should not be used either.

Brandywine was full of tents and campers, taking advantage of the long weekend and probably participating in the Whistler May Day Madness weekend. With the closure of some of the areas where people had camped before this became more popular and the parks branch has a small fire circle and some toilets for the use of the public. But there are no plans for development of the park area at Brandywine as yet.

Access to the higher areas is still not feasible unless you go in the early morning when the snow is still firm. But by ten o'clock the snow has softened and it's miserable hiking, even in good weather. Reports say there is still over five feet of snow at Black Tusk and over seven feet at Diamond Head with the snow line below Red Heather Ridge on the Diamond Head side. Could be there will be an early season in the mountains with the flowers much earlier than usual.

Early to mid-August is the usual time for flowers in the meadows but this year it could be as early as mid-July with those on Panorama Ridge even earlier.

And if it hasn't been too cold for the berries there should be an excellent crop of blueberries and huckleberries because there has certainly been enough moisture to plump the berries. Now all we need is some sunshine to sweeten them.

Drama Club members are currently practicing for their musical "Entertainment No and Then", to be presented at Mamquam Elementary Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 28 to 30. The musical will run each night at 8 p.m.

WONDERLEARNING BY ALEX

It is appropriate in a country where human rights are more important than national unity, that some Ottawa parents should have demanded the banning of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" from the grade 9 literature course. The move comes from the B'nai B'rith Women's Council which insists that the play is anti-Semitic in tone.

The fact it is worse than that. It holds the banking system up to scorn; it presents international trading corporations in a jaundiced light; it laughs at the law; it makes fun of the sacredness of a national constitution; it suggests that women get the better of men through subtlety rather than with clubs; and it flouts the whole concept of freedom of religion.

There is even a bit of mild pornography in it, but as with many of Shakespeare's works, the more suggestive words are no longer in use and their connotation is lost on modern audiences.

About the only thing that can be said in its favour is that the play supports the borrowing of money and taking the risk of bankruptcy to invest in lottery tickets. In that, at least, it is not (officially) immoral.

The story concerns an international trader of middle age and no family (Antonio) who has an unnaturally strong affection for a handsome playboy (Bassanio) who seems to be living on the Venetian equivalent of welfare — or unemployment insurance depending upon the philosophy of the political party in power.

When the play opens, Bassanio is without the funds required to enter one of the biggest lotteries of Italy. The prize is the hand — in marriage — of one of the country's wealthiest heiresses (Portia). If he wins the pot, it will be tax free and maybe he can pay his debts if years of deficit financing have not completely destroyed his honour.

The only person with money at that moment is Shylock, a sort of international banker, who trades in money instead of more perishable goods. Shylock considers Bassanio an unacceptable risk, but agrees to loan the money to Antonio on terms that make today's banking practices seem almost Christian. If the loan is not repaid on the due date, Shylock may claim a pound of Antonio's flesh — a sort of banker's takeover of a multinational.

Bassanio takes the money, wins the lottery with a few hints from Portia, who in choosing a husband, follows her dead father's wishes to the letter, if not the spirit. Bassanio becomes automatically the owner of all his new wife's estate and is ready to go straight.

But Antonio's debt has become due and Shylock is demanding official permission to collect his pound of flesh. The Duke of Venice, a stickler for constitutional conformity, refuses to bend the law even to prevent a judicially sanctioned murder.

Portia, however, has not wangled her way around her father's will without learning something about manipulation and hair-splitting when it comes to the law. She disguises herself as a judge, and presides over the trial where Antonio is to be destroyed by the greedy banker.

She grants Shylock the pound of flesh which, according to his bond, is to be removed from the part of Antonio's body nearest the heart — probably the balance sheet in a modern corporation. Then she puts in the proviso that, should Shylock shed one drop of Christian blood in the process of taking his award, he is to suffer dire punishment, like splitting up his capital and himself becoming a Christian.

That saves the day, and when it is all over, Portia manages to make it clear with sweet words that Antonio, his life now saved and his possessions restored, had better remove himself permanently from Bassanio's emotional life.

Obviously that sort of stuff is unfit for the unsophisticated minds of Grade 9 students. There are at least five good arguments for banning it from their curriculum.

In the first place, making the international banker a Jew is obviously an insult to the Jewish race, especially when interest rates are at twenty per cent.

Secondly, encouraging people to borrow money to purchase lottery tickets may be government policy, but is hardly in keeping with the principles of the moral majority, who prefer to take their chances on TV appeals with the promise of hell-fire as an alternative to donations. These people will no doubt get onto the bandwagon now that the Jewish women have started the music.

Furthermore, suggesting that a woman should hand over all her estate to her husband as soon as she marries him is completely out of keeping with modern theories about ensuring marital fidelity or the liberation of persons. Doris Anderson and her group are no-doubt watching that one.

Then, the suggestion that the constitution is sacred, even should its enforcement mean the sanctioning of murder, is a matter which should not be brought up at this point in time. It is political dynamite which the federal Opposition must have overlooked, since they did not, so far as we know, read the play as part of the filibustering tactics a few weeks back.

Finally, for a mere woman to discover how ridiculously simple it is to break a contract upheld by the constitution and the courts of law, is an insult to the whole legal system. The law society and, in fact, the government itself must have some thoughts on that one.

As for the educational value of the play, what child is interested in a work of literature that can pack all that human conflict into five acts of beautifully written English? The spokesperson for the "ban-ers" is quoted as saying "Grade 9 is a tricky age. Their hormones are going crazy, so why present them with more conflict?"

Why indeed, when it is so much easier to let them confine their reading to the "liberty, equality, fraternity" slogans which they can understand? It was those slogans that kept the guillotine oiled up for overtime work not so long ago.

Editor, the Times:

The article by Alex titled "Wonderteacher" in the Times of April 22, 1981, tried to equate the right (of teachers) to strike with hijacking and international terrorism. The argument was not supported but the connection was made by the common propaganda tool of continuous repetition until the reader accepted it.

Alex's solution to better school and working conditions would be to have teachers actively campaign to remove the 10 percent of students who appear to make learning conditions intolerable. Alex would deny those students, to use his own words, the support of teachers who can develop their moral and humanitarian values, which can lead them away from the limitations imposed by ignorance, selfishness, greed, etc., etc.

Truly, the social discord that would result if ten percent of the school population were disenfranchised from an education, would be far worse than any trouble we now experience.

Teachers want the right to strike to improve the learning conditions for all their students; not only accomplished students, but also for those who have limited academic ambitions and need and desire social and vocational training. Let us be humble enough to admit that no system of government, and school is a means of social and governmental control, is so perfect that no improvements can be made. One improvement is that schools should exist for children and not children for the school.

comments from parliament hill

BY LORNE GREENAWAY
MP FOR CARIBOO-CHILCOTIN

A recent news release from the Department of Communications should be of interest to many in Cariboo-Chilcotin. The Department is launching a program of information and technical advice to help rural and remote communities wishing to receive a multi-channel package of Canadian satellite radio and television services. These satellite services were authorized by the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) on April 14, 1981.

This is a refreshing change from the previous attitude, one which made satellite dishes illegal. This was unfair to rural and remote communities who were thus limited to a poor selection of stations, if they had any at all. In the urban centres in the south, on the other hand, television viewers have a large selection of channels — both Canadian and American — from which to choose. When a large number of "illegal" satellite dishes appeared, it looked as if a major confrontation would develop between the RCMP — who would have to enforce the law — and satellite dish owners.

As present regulations stand, a company or organization which wishes to distribute these signals by transmitter or cable will have to obtain a broadcast license from the CRTC and a technical certificate from the Department of Communications. These applications should be filed by June 17th to ensure consideration at public hearings this summer.

Application forms can be obtained from Department of Communications staff in regional or district offices, along with information on licensing, general advice of technical alternatives and guidance in completing application forms.

It is expected that operators of earth stations which are presently considered illegal will apply to the CRTC and cease the interception of U.S. signals.

I personally feel that this approach is much more reasonable, in that it at least offers station operators and viewers an alternative. Prior to this, they were faced with either a pirated signal or a blank TV screen. At least now they will have the opportunity to view Canadian programming.

In the letter, I was criticized for my comments on metrication, and I was accused of being out to grab votes by my stand. I would like to flatly deny the latter point, and I would like to defend my position on metrication.

I would like to begin by pointing out that I am not strictly against metrication, however I am against the process by which it is being implemented as well as the speed at which it is being introduced. I am against the process because it bypasses Parliament and thereby the elected representatives of the people of Canada. This goes against the democratic principles on which this country operates and implies that the government is so wise that it need not worry about what the people think about these measures.

I am against the speed at which it is being introduced because it does not make economic sense. Our largest trading partner is the United States, and it is some distance behind us in the metrication process. While Canadian businessmen are forced to retool and change all their weights and measures, their American counterparts can continue to use the old system without the costs of conversion. In addition, Americans do not wish to buy Canadian products which are incompatible with their needs. For instance, if we wish to sell machinery to an American firm, they would not wish it to be metric when the rest of their equipment is in standard measure. It would make much more sense for Canada to convert at the same pace as the Americans, and thereby protect our markets, as well as avoid further hurting an already ailing economy.

My job as an MP is to protect the interests of my constituents. I feel that that involves keeping them informed of government policies which I view as draconian as well as counterproductive. This is not "stooping to gain votes". It is doing my job.

Dr. Lorne Greenaway, MP
Cariboo-Chilcotin Riding

Well, it's time to update our actions. I am told that my corner is read by many. That being the case, I will gladly continue to report.

After reading my last report, I find many items are still not resolved, but we have not forgotten them. The mills of man also grind very slowly at times.

We are close to making a report on the Cheakamus Road and it may not be nearly as bad as some thought it was bound to be. In January, I advised those good people in Cheakamus that we may be able to talk to them in April. Now it looks like July. We must have facts.

As for dykes, we do not yet have a bylaw concerning building on the flood plain, but it is hoped that will come by August. After that, we will be doing more than writing letters. It is my hope that we can turn the Squamish back at Judd Slough and get it back into a western channel before it cuts through at the school and takes out Eagle Run, Safety Building, Garibaldi Estates and V.L.A. lands. The last flood was a 35 year high. Can you imagine what a 100 year high would do? Very depressing thoughts.

On a brighter note - we sold 5.6 acres of land to Overwaitea for a new store and some adjoining rentals. Looks good on paper and I'm sure it will compliment downtown Squamish. Now we want to buy land at the entrance to Squamish and make it more inviting to come in. It's hoped that it will come soon.

The Loggers Sports are preparing to move and that will be a help for Capilano College and also will enlarge our playing field. It won't happen this year, but it's coming.

Nothing new on Britannia, but I had a call with regard to a fertilizer plant in Squamish. I suggested he try Britannia and he told me Dome would not sell or lease. He was sure they were going to develop. Then I inquired regarding his source of gas. He assured me it would come from Langley. The pipeline would be welcome without the fertilizer plant, even.

Our plan for Squamish is finalized and now we want some public input. We will take a shot at one-way streets at the same time. Squamish has been a one-street town for many years. Would it really hurt to open a second street? After all, we are trying to build up Third Avenue. Why try if we must use Cleveland Avenue exclusively? We will be opening Pemberton from Second to Third. That will give an exit from Overwaitea. Will traffic go south on Second to Main to get in to the Cleveland Avenue traffic without difficulty?

The Estuary Management Plan is now out in 4 volumes. It took 2 years to complete and we are given 2 weeks to study it and bring in any suggestions we may have concerning same. I read slowly - it would take me 2 weeks to read if I abandoned all other activity. Then it would take much more time to do any sort of constructive criticism.

We got one-way windows on the south side of the Municipal Office. You can look out, but not in. It cuts the sun's glare and heat - it's ok.

On revitalization, we want to move power poles from Cleveland Ave. back to the lanes and when widen the street by 12 feet. This would allow angle parking and almost double the amount of cars. The cost would run half a million and where would it come from? It had been hoped we could ease parking restrictions to the point that many more lots could be built on along Cleveland. That could make it economical for owners to go for the improvement. Was it just a dream?

Depot Road financing is, in some trouble, but we have not abandoned it yet. There's still hope for this year.

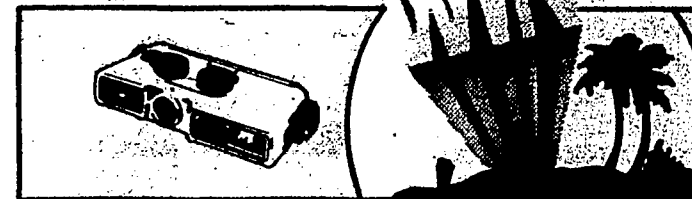

And that's another 6 weeks.

Terminals tournament success

Brennan Park was full of activity over the Victoria Day weekend. Seven out of town and three local teams participated in the first annual Squamish Terminals midge girls softball tournament.

The event was split into two parts. The first was a modified round robin in which each team played four games. The second section was a double knock-out tournament for the top four teams from the round robin section.

The visiting teams, Ladner, Guilford, North Vancouver, Lynn Valley, Coquitlam and two from Chilliwack, provided the stiff competition expected. The local teams played very well and were ready for the opposition. Games with extra innings, outstanding pitching and batting were common over the weekend.

A particularly outstanding game was pitched by Barb Penner from R.W. Simpson Insurance when she pitched a one hitter. Also of worthy note was Valerie Sankey, playing with the Drillers, batting 1,000 going 9 for 9. The interesting side of this is she is playing two divisions higher. Many other outstanding plays made for a very crowd pleasing weekend.

The allstar team was: pitchers Barb Penner, R.W. Simpson, catcher Tammy Baarje, The 3Gs; first base Chrisandra Lewis, Diamond Drifters; second base Kim McKinney, The 3Gs; third base Sandra Chiesa, Kelly's Pro Shop; short stop Nancy Erikson, Westward; left field Valerie Sankey, Drillers; centre field Lorraine Ovres, Kelly's Pro Shop and right field Shelly Larson, Dykhoffs.

Other awards were best batter: Chrisandra Lewis, Diamond Drifters; most valuable player: Barb Penner, R.W. Simpson and most sportsmanlike team: Diamond Drifters.

H.S. track team performs well at N.S. finals

Howe Sound Secondary School sent a strong track and field team to the 22nd Annual North Shore Track and Field meet held at Empire Stadium on Thursday, May 21st.

British Columbia is divided into 12 zones and Howe Sound is a member of the North Shore Secondary Schools Athletic Association, one of the strongest zones in B.C.

A total of 13 schools competed and Howe Sound came away with a sixth place finish overall. The five schools ahead of H.S. have a school population of some 1100 compared to this school with approximately 600 students. The Most Improved Team trophy went to Howe Sound with a point increase over 1980 of 218½ points.

In the junior division Mike Darvill came away from the meet with a first place finish in both the high jump and shot put and 4th in the 100 metre run. Kevin Pederson in the juvenile division placed first in the 400 metres, 3rd in the 200 metres and 6th in the shot put.

In the juvenile girls' division, Jackie Everet placed first in the 400 metre, 3rd in the 800 metre and 4th in the 100 metre run. Also in this division, Rhoda Reece was 2nd in the shot put.

Carolyn Teel, a junior had a 1st in the shot put, 4th in the hurdles and a member of the 4th place 4 x 100 relay team.

In the bantams Carol Sadler was 2nd in the javelin and Jamey Raymond was 2nd in the long jump and 4th in both the 200 metre and 100 metre races.

In the senior division, Francine Lewis was 2nd in the javelin. Another senior, Sherry Stevens was 3rd in the 200 metre, 4th in the 1500 metre run, 5th in the 3000 metre and a member of the 4th place 4 x 400 metre relay team.

Usually the two top finishers in each age division go to the Vancouver and District Meet but it was cancelled this year due to the CUPE strike and other factors. Howe Sound would have been well represented. HSS representatives to the Provincial Meet in June are yet to be decided.

A complete list of all competitors and events they participated in will be printed in next week's edition.

squamish valley rod and gun club news...

The history of international practical shooting is credited to one man, Jeff Cooper. This California native was once a member of his country's Secret Service, and was a respected firearms expert.

In the late 1950s and early '60s, Cooper was organizing matches called "leatherslaps". In these matches two contestants standing side by side drew together on a signal and tried to break their balloons first. These matches were similar to the later "fast-draw" contests, but for two differences. The firearms used shot lead bullets, and the targets were at such a distance that accuracy was needed to hit the balloons.

From this type of match, Cooper evolved the idea of practical shooting. The contest would be made up of "stages" or situations in which a practical shooting scenario could be duplicated as closely as possible.

The firearm used could be any handgun that was safe, and at least as powerful as a .38 special. There would be no limitations on how the shooter was to engage the stage, except those of safety. This was also seen as a test of equipment, as the selection of firearm, holster and reloading equipment was left up to the shooter.

The ideas and philosophies of practical shooting soon spread to other countries. The 1970s saw the organization of the International Practical Shooting Confederation (IPSC), and today there are 18 countries represented in IPSC.

Practical shooting started in British Columbia in 1975 when the first matches took place at the Thompson Mountain range. Within two years it had spread to other clubs in the Pacific Northwest, and the Western International Practical Shooting League (WIPSL) was formed.

There are now many clubs in Canada, as far back as Ontario, and every year sees the addition of several more. Provincial and Canadian championships are regular events each year, and Canada fielded a team at the 1978 world championships in South Africa, and will again this year.

Both the pistol and rifle sections of SVR&G have recently joined IPSC, and hold monthly IPSC shoots. Anyone interested in shooting IPSC matches, either for fun or serious competition, and would like to join the confederation, may do so through SVR&G.

Whitecaps wave submerged Surf

By DAN WEST

Whitecaps, playing perhaps the most impressive match of their young '81 season, were flawless as they subdued the California Surf 5-1 in a game played last Saturday night at Empire Stadium.

Despite the dismal weather 22,755 fans ventured out to watch their local heroes dispose of the Surf. For the second consecutive game Caps gained maximum points to tighten the Northwest Division's race for top honors. (See statistics at end of article).

Alan Taylor, playing in his first regular season game this year, filled in admirably for the injured Ray Hankin by scoring a pair of goals and earned top honors for his efforts.

Valentine and Beardsley were instrumental as they teamed up with Taylor and the Caps new-found forward line. Bob Lenarduzzi scored a pair of goals off penalty kicks while Beardsley added the other marker.

California slipped on the scoreboard at the 82.04 mark of the match as substitute Craig Allen took advantage of a Whitecaps defensive lapse to ruin Barry Siddall's chance for a shutout for the second consecutive game.

introductions as the Surf were being introduced, when John Craven's name was announced the Whitecaps fans brought back fond memories for the veteran defender with a rousing ovation.

For the Whitecaps the victory was sweet and justifiable for a game played in Anaheim earlier this season when the Surf defeated the Caps 1-0, scoring with only 12 left in the match.

Chicago Sting turned the Seattle Sounders back 3-1 to aid Vancouver's cause while the Portland Timbers play Edmonton on Sunday. A Portland victory would put the Timbers in first place.

Portland Timbers are next on the Whitecaps' schedule as the two rivals square off in a key match to be played Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Empire Stadium.

NASL Standings (at Sat. May 23)

Northwest Division	W	L	F	A	BP	P
Seattle	6	5	25	19	20
Portland	6	3	18	10	17	53
Vancouver	6	4	20	12	13
Edmonton	3	5	12	21	10
Calgary	1	8	6	14	6	12

Six points are awarded for a regulation or overtime victory. One bonus point for every goal scored with a maximum of three per game. No bonus point is awarded for overtime or shootout goals.

Other NASL scores for Saturday: Washington 3, New York 2; Jacksonville 2, Tampa Bay 0; Chicago 3, Seattle 1; San Diego 3, Atlanta 1 (shootout).

Mangan head of power squadron

Urban Mangan is the new Commander of the Power Squadron, being installed at the Change of Watch on Saturday, May 23.

Installed as Lieutenant Commander and Training Officer was Tony Biggin-Pound while Doug Morrison is the secretary and public relations officer for the squadron.

Gary Pattullo was installed as treasurer and Peggy Hess is the retiring Commander and supply officer.

Ed Mills came up from Maple Ridge to officiate at the installation and to present diplomas to Bob Jones and Doug Boyd who had successfully completed their training course.

Merit marks were presented to Urban Mangan, one year; Peggy Hess, two years; Doug Morrison, three years; Tony Biggin-Pound, five years and Gary Pattullo, seven years.

Before turning over the meeting to the new officers retiring Commander Peggy Hess welcomed Jim Lehman and Mrs. Lehman. Lehman had been the first Commander of the local power squadron.

She spoke on some of the problems in the past year when John Eveleigh, the Commander, moved away in the fall and Wayne and Dianne Yaremchuk, who were also officers also moved away.

She thanked everyone for co-operating with her when she took over the job and expressed the group's gratitude to the yacht club for permission to use its quarters for meetings. She also thanked Tony Biggin-Pound for teaching the basic course.

Mangan told the group that his first effort would be to try and revive interest in safe boating and to involve more people in the work of the group.

recreation chatter

BY PENNY BROWN

Okay everyone, enter into dreamland! Decisions are having to be made, commitments and assurance. Now, right now is when you should be deciding just how you are going to spend your summer holidays.

If you don't do a little homework now, your free time will have come and gone and you'll find yourself dreaming about your next holiday and deciding that next year you will be ready for them. Take advantage of our area and your pocket book this summer by joining some of the activities the staff has already planned for you. All programs are oriented to include you, even if you've never done any before.

For adults the "bill of fare" provides windsurfing, an exciting sport that really allows you to "get in touch" with your surroundings. Put on with the B.C. Sailing Association, the quality of this course is most commendable and when all equipment is included and 15 hours of instruction, $30 seems unheard of for this type of recreation!

For those of you who like something in between you and the water besides your bathing suite, the centre offers canoeing and kayaking. These courses cover basic technology and principles, balance, paddling flat water, moving water, rolls, turns and the list goes on and on.

Both these programs are put on in conjunction with Canoe Sport B.C., so again top quality instruction is assured. Participants will begin in Alice Lake and graduate to the rivers. Dates, times and fees are all available at the civic centre.

For children's summer fun, the centre has programs for those who want to spend the whole day, the morning or the odd afternoon. The "play people" will provide a most enjoyable summer with hikes, barbecues, roller skating, imaginative crafts and cooperative games. A great chance for kids to work and play together for a summer they won't forget!

Now, registrations must be limited to ensure the quality of the programs, so don't be disappointed. Registration commences June 1. Office hours are Monday to Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. See ya there.

A lot of people call life "The Survival of the Fittest". You know, a lot of people are right.

April dog pound report

Forty dogs were impounded and eight destroyed during April this year.

Sixteen recorded complaints were received and acted on and 14 warnings given.

Revenue received from impoundment fees was $180; board fees came to $36 and donations to the pound for services rendered was $225. Twenty licences were issued by the enforcement officer for $225 and 21 were issued from municipal hall for $215.

Total revenue for the month was $881.

The total revenue for the year to the end of April is $5,611, up $468 from the year to date April 1980 total of $5,143.

The total number of licences issued for the year to date are 551.

The game marked the return of former Whitecap defender John Craven, a popular performer at Empire Stadium when he donned the Vancouver colors. Craven was selected at NASL All-Star in 1978 and followed the next season by accepting the 1979 Soccer Bowl in New York.

1980 marked Craven's last season as a Whitecap and he was released by the club for virtually nothing prior to the start of the 1981 season. During the pre-game

squamish earful

BY MAUREEN GILMOUR

What a difference a year makes — isn't there a song with those words in it? Anyway last year I was "gung ho" for the New York Islanders in the finals of the Stanley Cup playoffs. I, being a Canuck and B.C. Lions fan know (as do several thousand others) it's more "fun" backing a long shot!! The Islanders weren't exactly long shots though.

Well anyway after the Canucks, Edmonton, Calgary and St. Louis were knocked out my loyalties went to the Minnesota North Stars. Well after Thursday night I must congratulate the New York Islanders, victorious for the second straight year. Let me see now — I wonder what chances Winnipeg Jets will have next year??

Visitors to Alberta and Saskatchewan for the past three weeks were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Antosh. In Esterhazy, Sask. they attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Ed's brother in law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Jurick. A visit with his brother and sister in law Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Antosh of Calgary was also an enjoyable time as it was for the Antosh's seeing many friends and relatives.

"I never understood why my mother liked burned toast and chicken backs until I became a mother myself." Bet lots of mums would agree with this statement??

Many people in Squamish must remember former residents Earl and Ruth Trekofski? They have been missionaries in Brazil for the past ten years (and still are) but will be in Canada for the next few weeks. They will be guests at the United Church on Friday, June 5 at 7 p.m. and everyone is invited to meet them and their son Luke. The Trekofski family will be attending their daughter Lynn's wedding in Edmonton later in the month.

I, along with several other parents attended the North Shore track and field finals held at Empire Stadium last Thursday. The meet was held under less than ideal conditions — it was freezing cold!! Howe Sound Secondary School students did exceptionally well by placing 6th out of a total of 13 schools. There were many first, second and third place finishers as well as personal best times for many of the students. Hats off to P.E. teachers Peter Hotston, John Gilmour and Doug Sheffield. For results please check the sports page.

We mustn't forget our birthday people this week and they are: Lois Carson, Darrell Erickson, Jordon Stinson, Ruth Smith, Tommy Goodall, Virginia Dawson, Sherri Golden, Lisa Lewis, Kenny Pinchbeck, Krista Venekamp, Carri Essex, Susie Loneragan, Sherry Picard, Ann Sullivan, Laura Bentham, Corey Doucet, May Stack, Laura Metzler, Mr. John Sobotka, Dionne Bennett, Brad Greffard, Bill Cyr, Mrs. Jean Gunn, Patricia Osterberg, Simon Dawe, Gayle Keyes, David Prothero, Izzy Boscaroli, John Lacoursiere, Ann French, Bob Muloughney, Ethel Robson, Karen Dadge, Bruce Rourke, Dustin Roberts, Jaime Wilde and Conrad Fassler.

Our younger citizens celebrating first birthdays are Laura-Marie Harvey, Devin Lewin and Jason Weisberger.

Want to forget your troubles, high cost of inflation, taxes etc? Can't guarantee you'll forget them period but for an evening — yes. Get the family together and head for the Mamquam School on either Thursday, Friday or Saturday night of this week (8 p.m. start) and find out what "Entertainment Now and Then" is all about. The Howe Sound Drama Club would love you to find out.

Pastors Jack Lindquist and George Inglis and lay delegate Shirley Pudney attended the annual B.C. Conference of the United Church held at Naramata in the Okanagan last weekend.

Bruce Teichman, a young quadriplegic is also an accomplished wheelchair athlete, competing in track, volleyball and murderball. For Bruce and his fellow athletes to get the adequate training and competition, they need money. With that in mind, Bruce is attempting to raise money by wheeling from Pori Hardy to Victoria, a distance of 305 miles. Won't you support this young man and his friends by making a pledge! Remember this is the International Year of the Disabled Person. Bruce will attempt this strenuous and hazardous journey during the last two weeks of June. We have a pledge form in the office.

The holiday weekend was a good chance for Chuck and Gwen Rattray to relax at their cabin at Canim Lake in the Cariboo.

Wedding anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. A. Tinklin, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Howie, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Lecky.

What an ambitious bunch of guys and gals the Grad '81 class are. They are having another Car Wash at Surfside Motors this Saturday, May 30. Not sure of the hours but knowing the gang, they'll have lots of sings beckoning you in. HOT FLASH - TIMES 11-3 p.m.!!

The weather wasn't much better in Alberta and Saskatchewan than here according to Cam and Debbie Kary. They've just come back from a visit to those provinces. They visited Debbie's parents in Calgary and Cam's sister and family in Moose Jaw — with multi stops in between. It was also a chance to show young son Ryan off to the family.

I asked awhile back for people to save Campbell soup labels. You've done a good job and up till the middle of May, over 700 had been collected. The U.C.W. group is looking after this ongoing project with the labels going to the Vancouver Church for the Deaf who in turn are able to purchase equipment (e.g. overhead projector, table tennis equipment) for the Christian School for the Deaf in Puerto Rico. You are welcome to continue bringing them into the Times office.

Glad somebody went somewhere where the weather was good. Gary and Vilma Hendrickson said the weather was great in Hawaii!! While there, Gary took part in a left handed golf tournament. Sounds interesting.

The Bingo at the Elks hall tonight at 7 p.m. will support the Vic Hurford baseball team. They want to purchase team jackets.

Library growth stressed at annual library dinner

Librarian Jane Horvath pointed out the growth in library services and in bookstock at the annual dinner honoring the volunteer librarians, held at the Loggers Inn on Wednesday, May 20.

In the past months, circulation, membership and bookstock have steadily increased and services have expanded to meet the increasing demands of the community.

The foreign books circulate well, the expanded reference section is attracting students, patrons are using the inter-library loan service, the pamphlet table in well stocked and government reports are available to the public.

Magazine circulation is very popular and the library welcomes donations of periodicals and pocket books for the shelves. If magazines prove popular they are subscribed to.

Donations from the Kinsmen and the Sons of Norway made the purchase of a bank of shelves possible and the nucleus of a collection of Scandinavian books. The Canadian print collection will be framed, thanks to a donation from the Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation.

Acquisition of a photo copier has been a popular one with the patrons, the municipality provided a new desk, a coffee urn came from Valley Hardware and a table and chairs for the board room from Squamish Surplus.

Horvath commented on the special book displays and programs which have proved popular. These included quilting and pottery, music and ballet, anthropology and the arts, cooking, gardening, travel, household drugs and solar energy. These programs involved local people such as Dave Stewart, Gary Wong, Dr. Dundas, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bradish, Lynette Kelley, Maureen MacDougall, the Squamish Folk Song Circle, the Squamish Arts Council and Capilano College. The preschoolers Story Hour is very popular with Patsy Reiker presenting this imaginative program to at least 20 youngsters each week.

She commented on the recent Book Festival and the popular reading by Vancouver author Eileen Kernaghan and hoped that it would be possible to bring her up again.

Horvath said they were badly in need of a reference room, the staff room is bursting at the seams and an all purpose room for films and special events is becoming a necessity.

She thanked the volunteer librarians who have served so long and well: Marlene Bering, Marg Cox, Kathy Davis, Janet and Kamal Dhalwal, Ady Den Dekker, Evelyn Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, Joan Graydon, Addie Harrison, Joan Hinds, Pat Hollingshead, Sarah Kass, Elspeth Klausner, Leona Ingraham, Rose Lamport, Kay Loddell, Jean McKinnon, Marg Muir, Maureen Painter, Rosaline Pillay, Judy Schildhorn, Tillie Shemko, Maureen MacDougall and Gwen Westwood.

She said they would be hiring two people for the summer, on a government grant, and thanked the municipality for its support during the year. She also thanked the Times for supporting and promoting the library.

Library board chairman John Crowther also thanked the volunteers and said the library has 3,499 members, with a total circulation of 35,226 books and a bookstock of 17,564.

Special emphasis this year has been on the promotion of a library building as the cultural centre for the greater Squamish area, and he said they hoped to do more of this during the rest of the year.

He also expressed his thanks to the volunteers and to the librarian, Jane Horvath, and her assistants, Joan Candy and Amarjit Sandhu, for their hours of dedicated work for the community.

He was concerned about the future growth of the library and the need for larger quarters, saying this was a problem which would be explored with the municipality and hopefully a successful resolution could be found.

Ald. W.R. Barr, the council delegate to the board, said the district was aware of the work put in by the librarians and the volunteers. The capital budget contains an item for the possible expansion of the library at a cost of $200,000 in 1983.

"If this happens," he said, "you will find that for your effort all you will be getting is more work."

Other special guests at the library dinner included Mayor and Mrs. W.J. Elliott and life member Rose Tallow.

arts council news

The Squamish Arts Council is putting together an exhibit representative of the arts and crafts presently practised in the district. There is considerable talent in this valley and it is hoped that by bringing artists and craftsmen together for 1 day will not only act as a stimulus to those now practising their craft, but as an encouragement to those currently in the learning process, and those who have always wished to expand a hobby.

The exhibit will be free to the public, no entry fee for exhibitors, no judging, and membership in the Arts Council is not a prerequisite. Those who are interested in showing their work should contact any one of the following: Jane Iverson, Britannia Beach, 896-2205, Heidi Knudsen at 892-5692, Jane Bradish at 898-3831.

A bake-sake will be held in conjunction with the exhibit to defray expenses and the members of the Squamish Skating Club have kindly agreed to lend their assistance in this regard.

The exhibit will be held on Saturday, June 6th, in the old Forestry Building on Highway 99, through the courtesy of Capilano College. Open to visitors from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Drama club musical ready for the stage and you

By PEG TINNEY
The Howe Sound Drama Club musical Entertainment — Now and Then is ready. Two weeks ago I was sure the club would never make it, but somehow it all seems to fall into place.

However, credit for the musical end of this miracle has to go to the musical director, Linda Morgan, who not only had all the music to learn, but transposed and re-wrote much of it (a talent possessed by few), beside teaching and directing the cast. Her expertise, wit and patience are second to none.

A relative newcomer to the drama scene is Ron Pickard. Not only has he undertaken the taxing job of producing the show, he is also part of the cast. It's a good thing wife Jean is understanding and also a hard working club member.

Entertainment — Now and Then is self-explanatory to a point. Members have simulated a studio where a panel consisting of John Slack, Margaret Johnson, Doreen Ramus, Bob Armstrong and Maureen Gilmour (the 80-year-old Charleston dancer), talk about entertainment. They will take you back to the 1900's, a time of beautiful melodies like the first number, Milk and Honey-moon, sung by Owen Sutton and Rory Odenbach.

You will thrill to the well known voices of Margaret Johnson and Deo Pontini as they sing Make Believe and Joyce Slack, Shirley Rutherford and Glenora Odenbach will take you with them on a Sentimental Journey.

Crystal, Won't You Listen? brings back fond memories of the days of the crystal set. Radio brought the hits of that era, the humor of commercials and not to be forgotten, the "sound effects". Where would Inner Sanctum be without the squeaking door (I can just hear some of the younger set asking, "What was Inner Sanctum?") and the Lone Ranger with the lusty cry of "Hi-ho Silver".

Humor is prevalent as we reminisce about the "tune-in tomorrow" and "to be continued" shows. Doreen Ramus and John Wright will surely make you laugh with their version of Dearie, Do You Remember?

We thought we had it all when entertainment became live, but Dave Colwell tells us his feelings about being a cameraman on these live shows and trying to get a goldfish "to swim on cue". Bruce Ramus, recently returned from a year touring the States and Europe with an Up With People cast, sings of his desire in My Corner of the Sky.

The cast tells us it's fun to remember — and it is. So come and take a trip down memory lane. The place is Mamquam School on May 28, 29 and 30 at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Times office, Peoples Drug Mart (downtown and Garibaldi Highlands Mall), Stedman's, J. & B. Grocery (Eagle Run) and Brackendale Snack Shack. Seats are on a first come, first served basis, so come early if you want to be up front.

Although the show is considered family entertainment, it may not be quite so entertaining for the younger ones.

SUMMER WEDDING FOR TRACY WHEELER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wheeler of Squamish are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Tracy Michele to Robert (Arnie) Weiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Weiss, also of Squamish.

The wedding will take place in July.

Britannia Beach crowns May Queen

Karen Lindholm was crowned May Queen at Britannia Beach on Saturday, May 23, taking over from retiring Queen Suzanne Akers.

Other members of the royal party were princesses Karin Fortin, Rebecca Prime, Sharon Snowden, Cindy Ward and Tammy Ward while the two train bearers were Christine Doyle and Jessalyn Hensbee.

The parade formed at the school led by Jason Wiggins carrying the B.C. flag and Jocelyne Haultman carrying the Canadian flag. There were followed by Sgt. Martin Thompson of the Squamish RCMP detachment in his scarlet serge uniform and the Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band led by Pipe Major Ian Walker.

The royal party followed the pipers and marched to the ball field where the stage had been set up for the events.

Jim Wiggins introduced the royal party and a gift was presented to the retiring queen who crowned her successor.

Earlier in the day there had been a number of sports events and a children's dance with a grand march taking place in the evening, followed by an adult dance.

CORRECTION

an outdated public relations release regarding ROY HAYNES was mistakenly given to this newspaper and published in its May 20/81 issue. Our apologies go to Roy Haynes as well as to all those who read the aforementioned advertisement. Following is a corrected statement describing Roy Haynes:

Roy Haynes is a professional entertainer and songwriter who is now devoting his considerable musical talents to the Lord. Prior to making his decision for Jesus Christ he was a lounge entertainer who billed himself as "The Mountain of Love". The name was partly a reference to the fact that he suffered from a serious weight problem. Since Roy's life transforming commitment to the Lord, God has gently ministered to him about his weight; as a result Roy has lost a considerable number of pounds.

Roy is a married man with children. The one, true, loving God has put his family relationships on the right track as well.

Roy says, "I have been at one time or another a member of the Elks, Masons, Junior Chamber of Commerce (who made him a J.C.I. world senator) and the Chamber of Commerce. I also served as Vice-President of B.C. and Yukon Jaycees. None of the above comes close to serving the Living God."

God has put this special love in Roy's heart. Because of this, Roy no longer desires the all too temporary pleasure of helping people forget their problems in booze, smoke-filled lounges. Now the message he sends you loud and clear, wherever he happens to be, is one of peace, joy and love through surrender to Jesus.

You'll be specially blessed by Roy Haynes' music and message. Come early in order to get a good seat.
