Inquest delayed, expected to resume late November

A coroner's inquest into the death of local resident Joe Pilnasek was adjourned so the services of a lung specialist could be obtained. The inquest was held in North Vancouver and was adjourned after two hours to an unspecified date.

A coroner's inquest into the death of local resident Joe Pilnasek was adjourned so the services of a lung specialist could be obtained. The inquest was held in North Vancouver and was adjourned after two hours to an unspecified date.

Jack said, under the Evidence Act, the coroner's office does not have to supply anything until two weeks before a hearing. The inquest is expected to resume in late November.

Pilnasek, 40, died Sept. 20, 1980 after suffering what appeared to be an acute asthma attack during a backwoods trip with two companions. He lost consciousness and died after choking on his stomach contents.

Following the adjournment, senior regional coroner Doug Jack said the inquest requires a specialist in respiratory diseases to define asthma and indicate whether it can be aggravated by toxic chemicals.

Pilnasek worked as a longshoreman for many years and for the last five years of his life was a foreman for the Canadian Stevedoring Co.

Theresa Pilnasek, the widow, wants to know if any of the occupational or environmental hazards her husband was exposed to were an underlying cause of his death.

Lawyer Craig Paterson, who is representing Pilnasek, said her husband might have been exposed to grain dust while he was a longshoreman.

In July 1979, Pilnasek was off work for eleven days as a result of an acute chlorine exposure following a chlorine spill at EMC. While Pilnasek was a foreman, he worked close to the EMC chemical plant.

At that time, Pilnasek received compensation from the Workers Compensation Board (WCB), which accepted the exposure as aggravation of an asthmatic condition.

However, Paterson said he is not sure Pilnasek had asthma.

If it can be proved that Pilnasek's death was related to hazards encountered at work, his widow might have some claim to compensation from WCB.

At the inquest, Pilnasek's family physician, Dr. L.C. Kindree, testified he had treated many victims of chlorine gas during his years in Squamish.

Pilnasek was off work longer than normal after the 1979 gassing, because of the amount he inhaled and his underlying respiratory ailment, he said.

Dr. Kindree was asked if he felt chronic exposure to chlorine gas could cause lung ailment. He replied he did not know but suspected they could.

At the inquest, Paterson ex-

PLANE CRASHES AT LAKE LOVELY WATER

A deHavilland Beaver float plane capsized at Lake Lovely Water, five miles north of Squamish, on Wednesday, Sept. 16.

The 50-year-old pilot, Joe Cliftonhughes of Huntington Beach, California, received a minor scrape on his left arm. His passenger, Elizabeth Thomas, 27, of North Vancouver was uninjured.

The plane is owned by Tradewinds Aviation of Richmond and is being used in a film by a movie company from California.

The department of transport is investigating the incident.

DYNAMITE AND CAPS STOLEN SEPT. 14

Two cases of explosives, each containing 20 sticks, and 49 electric blasting caps were stolen from two magazines in the Culliton Creek area on Monday, Sept. 14. The magazines are owned by Dawson Construction.

A Squamish RCMP spokesman said it appears the entry into the two buildings was made by a professional. Electric tools and a generator were used to drill through the concrete walls. The explosives were in a separate site and electricity is not available.

The RCMP are concerned the materials could be stockpiled and advise anyone who might see them to contact the police. They warn residents not to touch the explosives.

Police are still investigating the incident.

HOSPITAL BUDGET IN GOOD SHAPE

The hospital budget is in fairly good shape. Although there was a deficit of $57,285 in July, B.C. Hospital Programs made a $65,817 adjustment in August, leaving a surplus of $8,532.

The actual income for July was $438,140, while the budgeted amount was $522,034, leaving a deficit of $83,888.

Expenditures for the month were $495,431, leaving an excess of $26,603 from the budgeted expenditure of $522,034.

Few accidents last week

On Sept. 17, Robert Graham of Squamish, driving a 1970 Chev, was involved in an accident with Olene Haynes, driving a 1978 Chev, on Buckley Ave. near Wilson Crescent.

Haynes had stopped to make a left turn into the apartment driveway when Graham ran into the vehicle. Hayne's car jumped forward and ran over a youth who was walking to school. He was taken to hospital and later released.

The 1970 Chev received $400 damage and the other vehicle received $50.

Graham has been charged with driving without due care and attention.

On Sept. 12, John Wilson of Squamish, driving a 1978 Chev, lost control on Fernwood Crescent, near Friedele Crescent, and struck a Hydro power box. The box was knocked off its foundations.

His car received $1,500 damage. Wilson has been charged with driving without due care and attention.

Also on Sept. 12, Dale Brown of North Vancouver, driving a 1974 Renault, lost control on Government road near Fergies and went into the ditch.

His car received $1,000 damage. He has been charged with impaired driving and will appear in court at a later date.

Six ships in three weeks

Six ships are expected to arrive in Squamish to take on cargoes in the next three weeks.

Expected at Squamish Terminals to load pulp for Europe is the Star Magnate on Sept. 24 and on Sept. 30 the Star Visayas will be loading for the Mediterranean.

Japan will be the destination of four other ships loading in late September and October. They are the Swan Arrow on Sept. 28, the Star Enterprise on Oct. 2, the Star Carrier on Oct. 12 and the Star Mindanao on Oct. 15.

Knudsen receives silver art award

KAREN KNUDSEN

Karen Knudsen, 12, has received a silver medal award in the Shankar's International children's 1980 competition, sponsored by Nehru House in India.

The award is similar to a highly commendable award in Canada.

Each year, Shankar holds competitions in art, poetry and composition for children up to the age of 16 years. Competitors come from Aden, Indonesia, Iran, Romania, Sierra Leone, Tanzania, Thailand, Uruguay, Vietnam, Zaire, Nicaragua, Fiji and Canada, to name a few.

Knudsen submitted a pencil crayon drawing of a sunset in the Rocky Mountains.

The prizes are distributed in the third week of December in New Delhi, India. If winners are not able to attend, the various diplomatic missions in New Delhi will represent their respective countries on behalf of the winners.

Knudsen entered the contest last year when the library received entry forms and books on Shankar from the India consul-general. Each year, the organization prints a book of the winning entries.

Several of the books are available at the Squamish public library.

Knudsen attends Squamish Elementary and is the daughter of Hedi and John Knudsen.

Application approved

Vector Holding application for Crown land north of their property was granted. Aldermen Hugh Carleton, Bill Street and Egon Tobus opposed the motion.

The company is applying to rezone property between Highway 99 and the BCR tracks north of Olsen Road from residential five to residential three. The Crown land would be used to construct a road to the north allowing access on to the highway.

The rezoning application is set for public hearing today

(Tuesday) at 5 p.m. in council chambers.

The technical planning committee recommended if the rezoning application is approved that arrangements be made for proper access to this site other than the original Olsen Road access.

The department of highways has indicated to council Harris Road will be an intersection on Highway 99 and recommends the developer gain access to the highway through Harris.

TAKE A DRIVE AND END YOUR CURIOSITY

If you have nothing to do one of these days, satisfy your curiosity about those yellow prints on the main roads of Squamish.

The yellow sea to sky country logo with an arrow is part of the Chamber of Commerce's plan for tourists, and residents, to take a scenic drive around Squamish. The route takes in Hospital Hill, the downtown area, Garibaldi Highlands, up to Alice Lake and down the old road back to town.

The drive is tied in with the nature walks in the estuary, the bluffs overlooking Squamish and from the Highlands to Alice Lake.

So far, the downtown and Hospital Hill routes have been established and next summer the whole route will be finished. Information will be given out to tourists at the information booth in Shannon Falls Park.

WOOD HEAT DISCUSSED AT LIBRARY, SEPT. 29

How efficient is wood heat? What size stove should I buy for my needs? What kind of wood should I burn? Do I need a permit?

These questions and more will be answered at a wood heat program sponsored by the Squamish public library, to be held at the library on Wednesday, Sept. 30 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Doug Orser, Squamish fire chief, and Jack Stathers will each address an audience, and answer further questions. Everyone is welcome. Bring your queries.

Bylaw adopted
The amendment to the advisory planning commission bylaw was adopted. The bylaw reduces the number of school board representatives on the commission from two to one.

Matter referred
Council referred correspondence from the ministry of lands, parks and housing, dealing with community parks assistance, to the parks and recreation commission.

Parking slots to be examined
Mayor Elliott requested each alderman examine correspondence from the ministry of affairs regarding parking slots for disabled people. He asked council to be prepared to discuss the program at a later date.

Council advised on ditch problems
Ald. Bird expressed concern over children playing in roadside ditches and tunneling so the ditches cave in. Works superintendent Payne advised this was a universal problem and he will take what action he can as the problem arises in various areas.

Dirt bikes cause problems
Administration will contact the RCMP and ensure the police are taking what action they can to prohibit dirt bikes on the dykes in the Brackendale area.

Ald. Tobus said he had received a number of complaints about noisy dirt bikes.

Negotiation entered into Administrator Chuck Schatzenkirk will begin negotiating with the owner of a lot located at the entrance to town on the north west corner of Highway 99 and Cleveland Ave. The municipality plans to purchase the lot as part of its beautification plan.

Dyking studied
Mayor Elliott met with members of the water rights department on Wednesday, Sept. 9 to discuss the dyking construction in the area, and particularly the Squamish river.

The mayor will report on the meeting to council at a later date.

Paula the Clown hands a round of wood to a member of the World Business Council. He then gave her a big kiss. Council members travelled to Squamish on the Royal Hudson on Thursday.

report from the mayor's office

So another Squamish Days or should it be Squamish Daze is behind us! It was very successful and now we must concentrate on moving the sports grounds to Brennan Park. Time flies by and we do have a limited amount of time to do it.

Early in August we wrote B.C. Rail regarding the crossing at Cleveland Ave. The planks are badly worn and something needs doing. This week we got a reply. We had enquired regarding the patent crossing around Brandywine. It is far superior to wooden planks. Mr. Norris advises us that the crossings on Cleveland Ave. are ours to pay for and the new wood would cost us $1,200, whereas the patent material would cost us $80,000. We'll take the new wood for now with the other material in mind for the day when we can afford it. Who knows, it may come down in price?

Then I was advised by Cigas that they were not prepared to invest in pipes for our industrial park until they could see users moving in. Of course, we lay blacktop and they cut it up. I determined from B.C. Hydro that we could get all the power necessary for any use. Then advised Cigas we would not require their services. One week later orders were issued to lay the pipes. Along about this time the post office voted to go back to work. That was a great day. We are still getting stale mail.

The council meeting Aug. 11 was uneventful but some urgency to go to a regional district meeting in Pemberton Aug. 20th. It concerned expansion of emergency services. Milt held forth for some length. He, too, seems to feel one just turns a tap to get money.

About this time, Aug. 13, we realized that we were using more water than our mains could deliver. We ran a plea on Channel 10 to reduce consumption and by Aug. 17 all reservoirs were again full. Thank you, Mr. and Mrs. Public.

Mrs. Atkinson came in to inquire about supporting an inter-provincial truck-loggers meet along with Squamish Days in 1982. I assured her council would give full moral support and we did at our meeting on Aug. 25th.

About now, Aug. 17, I started phoning often regarding dyking. I got a commitment of a visit early in September from an engineer.

Then my family began to come home for a visit. Four from Toronto for two weeks, and five from Prince George for a week. It made for a houseful. I enjoyed it all; not sure about Vickie, but I think she did.

By Aug. 20 mail was coming through quite well and by Aug. 24 the IWA had settled. Not long after NABET settled and also our school board. That is progress. Now it's grainhandlers. Will they settle this week?

On Sept. 2 our treasurer, Charlie Schilberg, and I flew up to Kelowna to an urban transit meeting. With gasoline going to a dollar per litre we may soon need urban transit. Many places smaller than our now have it. At least we know something about it. It was hot in Kelowna. Had a nice visit with Stan Kary. He's doing fine in Prince George.

On Labour Day we visited the Rollerts at D'Arcy, the Potvins at Lillooet Lake, the Bishops at Whistler and got back to enjoy the opening of the Vera Cruz restaurant. All visits were enjoyable and educational.

The 8th was council meeting and all aldermen were back from holidays. The next morning I had Jake Wester over from Victoria. We had all the plans for dyking and we were all taken somewhat by surprise. However, if we can get some money, I suppose the plans will have to work. We flew all over and around the Brackendale area and I have many pictures, if they turn out.

On Sept. 10 we got much static about the ice. It won't freeze. I think it is being resolved.

On Sept. 11 the Lord Provost of Glasgow came up on the Royal Hudson. Tourism asked me to show him around. There were six of them. I took six also. We had lunch on the train and then had a 15-passenger bus waiting to drive around some. I believe they enjoyed it.

Sept. 12th was rather busy with the unveiling of our hospital sign by our MLA, the Hon. Allan Williams at 10 a.m., lunch at the Loggers Inn at noon and the opening of the golf course at 3:30 p.m. and lunch there at 5:30 p.m. In between I was able to get our member to my office and to have an hour of very meaningful discussion.

Next week we have the union of B.C. Municipalities convention on Vancouver. It should be interesting.

And so another six weeks slips by. How fast they go.

New flower shop called LaFleur

An intriguing new flower shop opened in the new Tantalus Mall on Sept. 12 when LaFleur opened its doors. Jette Ulstrup, the attractive owner who had formerly worked in a flower shop in Denmark, took refresher courses before opening her new shop.

The interior, tastefully finished in light coloured wood, features mirror-backed shelves as well as more conventionally wooded backed ones and a central island where plants are attractively displayed. The warm, deep red tile floor is easy to keep clean and adds to the outdoor look of the shop.

The refrigerator was filled with fresh flowers, roses, carnations, lilies and freesias, and on the shelves were arrangements of dried flowers as well as silk ones and she will be delighted to make up arrangements to suit any occasion or event.

The shelves are filled with a beautiful assortment of vases, accessories, baskets and gift items including beautiful brassware from India, woodenware from Portugal and some from Scandinavia.

Potted plants accent the shop and would make beautiful gifts or house decorations.

For a special gift or a nice way to say "thank you" drop in to LaFleur and say it with flowers, either real or artificial.

Runs up 100 percent

The number of runs made by the fire department in August is 20, up 100 per cent from the August 1980 total of 10. The number of runs for the year to date, up to the end of August, is 120, up 12 per cent from the 107 total for the same period last year.

The department attended a chimney fire on Fir St., caused by a dirty flue; a fire at the municipal dump, caused by a cutting torch; trees burning across from the Brackendale store, caused by Hydro wires on the trees; a grass fire at John Hunter's shop, started by children; a garbage fire at Fourth and Victoria; a car fire on the Axen reserve, started by the electrical system; a forest fire north of the Hydro substation, caused by a lightning strike and a motor home fire north of Culliton Creek on Highway 99, caused by the electrical system.

Members answered three calls for extrication, one on Highway 99, one-half mile south of Culliton which was cancelled; one at Leskies crossing and one at Highway 99 on the MacBlo hill.

Fires with unknown causes were a fire on the tracks at Leskies crossing, a brush fire at the industrial park, three BCR ties on fire near the Esso bulk plant, a car fire on Guilford Ave. and an underground fire at the base of the Chief.

A possible drowning on the back road near Leskies crossing was a public service call and a yard fire at Carney's shake mill was human error.

LETTERS

Editor, The Times:

When we volunteered to serve a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, we knew we could be called to serve anywhere in the world. When our call came to serve in the Canada/Vancouver mission we were delighted. Upon our arrival we were assigned to Squamish.

For the past twelve and one-half months we have been experiencing life in a smaller community than we were used to, and it has been interesting and enriching.

The weather broke many records for us with the wettest November, early December snow, rainiest spring, etc. We even had a major flood, and we watched the good people of the community respond to each other's needs.

We enjoyed many pleasant associations with our neighbors through the hours we spent as volunteers in the Squamish Public Library. We watched your young people dance and perform so professionally in their concert, enjoyed the nostalgia of your drama groups presentation "Now and Then", heard a high school band concert and watched as the young ladies presented a fashion show to exhibit their sewing skills. We were fortunate to be here when the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra came to Squamish and we were fascinated by Squamish Days.

How fortunate you are to have so many cultures represented that you were able to have a very successful Folkfest, which we truly enjoyed. We captured the sounds of the Royal Hudson train on tape for our grandchildren and cherish the association with the Folk Song Circle as they participated in the Family Evening we sponsored in May at the Elks hall.

Our assignment now takes us to Vernon where we still get to experience another area of British Columbia.

Truly we have been blessed through our time spent here, not only for those events mentioned, but for our opportunity to get to know and love so many of you. Thank you for those cherished memories.

It has been rewarding to watch our little branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints more than double in less than a year's time. We are grateful to still be able to hold our meetings at the Civic Centre, in the senior lounge, until our own chapel is built in the near future. Our meetings begin at 9:00 a.m. and you are all most welcome any time.

Thank you, Squamish.

comments from parliament hill

BY LORNE GREENAWAY
MP FOR CARIBOO-CHILCOTIN

Three articles came across my desk recently which made me pause to reflect on the economic direction which this country is taking.

The first article to catch my eye was a report in the Globe and Mail on a speech given by Peter Newman, the editor of Maclean's magazine, to the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association in Vancouver. Newman predicted the government would be continuing its efforts to nationalize key sectors of the economy through the 1980s.

As an example, Newman gave the national energy program; a program which indicates that the government is becoming increasingly interventionist. He felt the NEP is just the opening salvo in a major attack on the free enterprise system by government.

To quote Newman: "This is not token jousting for position or simple argument about how to plug tax exemptions. The feud between the main spenders of wealth (government) and its chief generators (businessmen) will, I predict, become a dominant issue of the 1980s."

The second article also came from the Globe and Mail, and dealt with the present economic conditions in Britain. The article, written by Jeffrey Simpson in London, was titled "The staggering ills of nationalized firms".

Britain has a large number of firms which it is now supporting through huge transfers of public money. Perhaps the most outrageous example given by Simpson was the case of British Steel which took $1.5 billion from the taxpayers' pocket last year. Other major losses which were funded by the British government were British Airways ($270 million last year), British Rail ($83 million in six months) and British Leyland ($83 million in six months).

Finally, I received a book in the mail from the C. D. Howe Institute entitled Government in Business. It outlines the series of disasters that both federal and provincial governments have brought upon themselves as a result of bailing out ailing industries. The key conclusion of the study was: Governments are intervening increasingly in the economy without having a firm basis for evaluating the impact of this intervention on the health and vitality of the overall economy. In other words, the government does not really know what it is doing to the overall economy when it bails out losing industries.

A "bail out" requires money from the private sector—you and I as well as healthy companies—in the form of taxes. Essentially, the government is throwing good money after bad in the vain hope that the company will be revitalized. The end result is an economy that is being sucked dry by businesses that should have died a natural death years before as in the case of British Steel. The British economy is drowning in a sea of business vampires which draws the life blood out of healthy companies in order to extend their own lives.

As pointed out by Newman, it looks like we will soon be suffering from the "British syndrome". The government, under Herb Gray and Allan MacEachen, is steering an increasingly interventionist course for Canada. The fall budget will probably indicate just how far down that road we will be going. Soon the dinosaurs of Canada's economy will devour the jobs of our children.

Politics make strange bedfellows

Who would have believed a few short weeks ago that Premier Davis of Ontario and Premier Hatfield of New Brunswick would join the other eight premiers to present a united front against Prime Minister Trudeau and his economic policies.

Premier Davis has even gone so far as to call Trudeau and his administration incompetent and ask for a federal-provincial meeting to plan a new economic strategy for Canada. He is saying in so many words that he no longer believes that the present government is capable of solving Canada's problems.

How come they finally discovered that the Trudeau policies were all wrong? Canadians in all the other provinces have been saying for months that the government in Ottawa has been heading for ruin with its economic, constitutional and energy issues. Yet Ontario and New Brunswick continued to support him and only since the new energy pact has been signed have they changed their minds.

They supported the strong central government because they said Canada should avoid the slightest sign of regionalism in our country. Everything would have to be organized in Ottawa or else the wealthier parts of the country would try to walk away with the profits.

But now the energy agreement has been signed; Ottawa is going to get a much better deal than originally planned but Alberta is also coming out of the deal with more than Ontario wanted it to get. So now Davis realizes that the energy fight has been lost and that Ottawa has lost, so he has suddenly discovered that his alliance with the prime minister and his party didn't pay off after all. Hatfield's objection to the federal policies is that he fears he will not be getting as much in transfer payments as he would have before.

This proves that the strong support of the federal government was strictly what would have been called a "cupboard love" situation, or one which was advantageous as long as it promised benefits for the two provinces involved. But notice how quickly the scene changed once the game changed.

The other eight provinces should be chary about accepting the support of Ontario and New Brunswick. Their rallying call for a provincial-federal conference, while supposedly based on the most high-minded reasons, is still only motivated by self-interest.

Perhaps self-interest may be necessary in a country like Canada with so many regions and so many economic policies. With some inspired leadership a new national economic policy might be developed.

But it won't come from the federal Liberals. It won't come from provincial premiers who are blinded by self-interest and jump whichever way their interests lie. It will only occur when our political leaders, or the majority of them, show they have a genuine interest in Canada and are prepared to forego the cheap politics aimed at power for power's sake.

For the past fifteen years this has been the tradition of the Trudeau government which has assumed that what is good for the Liberal party is good for Canada. It's about time they started thinking about what is good for Canada as a whole and forgetting about their individual politics.

And it's about time the ten provinces really cooperated for the good of the country, not just for their individual benefit.

When I see joggers out doing their thing, or hikers with packs on their backs getting ready to climb the mountains or head into the high alpine areas I wish I was twenty years younger when I used to be able to do those things along with the best of them. It was just 20 years ago last month that I took a group of eager and excited young girls up to Black Tusk meadows for a week-long camp.

They hiked over meadows, climbed mountains, explored glaciers, slid down snow slopes and learned about alpine flowers and plants, as well as cooking meals over a fire and sleeping under canvas. The weather was beautiful, we had a wonderful time and they all came home brown as berries and able to hike much more than they had when they started. We noticed we could get up to the main meadow ten minutes faster by the time we were ready to come home than when we started.

But once you get older and are confined to a desk job and drive a car to wherever you are going, you just don't seem to be able to do those things. And when you add an arthritic knee to your list of complaints it definitely limits your capacity to get around. So I found this list of office exercises for the lazy person a real boon. Now if I can only get around to doing them!

They were taken from the B.C. Tel News for August and were recommended by Pat Lee, B.C. Tel's Fitness Coordinator. The preamble points out that the human body is the only machine that will break down if it is not used regularly. Even the slightest amount of regular, light exercise will improve your posture, flexibility and muscle tone.

The following office exercises were developed with this in mind. They are not a substitute for regular strenuous exercise but can be used every day at your desk to relieve stress, muscle tension and maintain joint mobility.

These exercises require no special clothing, no equipment and no special space, so there is no excuse not to do them!

1. Shoulder rotations: Rotate your right shoulder, slowly, ten times in one direction. Reverse the direction, and then repeat with your other shoulder.

2. Finger flicks: With both hands in front of you and palms up, grip tightly with your fingers and form a tight fist. Then open your hands flicking your fingers out. Repeat 20 times.

3. Desk pushups: Keep your body at approximately a 45 degree angle from the desk, with body down and arms straight. Lower yourself down slowly and push up. Repeat several times.

4. Alternate toe touch: Sitting, extend one leg, pointing toes and touch with your opposite hand. Repeat using other leg. Try ten times each side.

5. Knee-to-nose touch: Sitting, clasp one knee with both hands and bring to nose. Repeat with other knee.

6. Seated leg raises: Both feet together, legs straight, try to lift your thighs off your chair seat. Try it without holding on to the chair with your arms.

7. Toe points and circles: Seated, lean back in your chair, and point your toes, legs straight and parallel to the floor. Repeat several times. Then try rotating your feet, first in one direction, then in another.

8. Iso-chair pull: Seated grasp base of chair with both hands. Pull down with arms. Relax and repeat several times.

9. Chair dips: Seated, push down with arms on arms of your chair. Don't worry if you lift yourself in the air! (Make sure your chair is sturdy.)

10. Half-knee bends: Feet, shoulder-width apart, back straight, perform squat so that thighs are almost parallel with floor. Raise slowly, and repeat. (Do not attempt if you have weak knees.)

There you have them. If you try them you will find that you will feel better and the tensions of your job may not affect you as much as they would if you do not try some form of exercise. But don't let them take the place of the running or swimming, hiking or jogging or even walking which you should also be doing.

I have always said that September is consistently the nicest month of the year and this year has proved me right again. Of course the children have gone back to school and that's always good for a week of good weather so they can complain and gripe because they have to be indoors, but it is still warm and sunny but with that nip in the air that tells that fall is well on its way.

Sunday, the 13th was a beautiful day for the Terry Fox Run and it was heart-warming to see the numbers of people who turned out to do their thing for cancer... and help themselves at the same time. Working at the registration desk was an eye opener.

There were young mothers who carried their babies with them, others who took their children along on tricycles and one couple pushed the baby in its buggy over the entire ten kilometre course. Then at the other end of the spectrum there was Nana Todd who hiked the ten kilometres and rounded up pledges of $450 as well.

But the numbers of young people who turned out was surprising. There were over 200; $2,600 was raised in pledges and the day was a success. And for volunteering to help with the registration I am now the proud possessor of a Marathon of Hope T-shirt, something I've always wanted. And it was an opportunity to make a contribution even if I can't hike or run the ten kilometres.

The weather smiled on others during the weekend too. The hospital board and intermediate care society unveiled the sign on the site of the new Squamish Health Care Centre which will contain 35 acute, eight extended care and 30 intermediate care beds. The project is jointly funded by the Ministry of Health, the Squamish-Lillooet Regional Hospital District and the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation to the tune of six million dollars.

Plans for the building are now being drawn up and the next step will see the sod turned for the new facility. It's a big step forward but Mayor Jim Elliott said, "When we started the last one they dug in and built it, this one has already taken a number of years and I hate to say how long it's going to take if we ever build another one."

Then on Saturday afternoon on a perfect day for golfing, members of the golf club and invited guests, many of whom would probably have preferred to be out golfing, turned out for the official opening of the new clubhouse which includes the squash courts and the gym as well as saunas, a lounge and dining area. It's a beautiful building and will prove an asset to the community. And it was a gorgeous day for the official opening.

But that's what we expect in Squamish in September. And it never lets us down.

Clean up the act

It's said the squeaky wheel gets the grease. Well, we're about to squeak again.

Have you driven by the sanitary landfill site recently? It really looks like a dump. Garbage is piled in front of the gates and strewn along the road and in the ditch.

The Chamber of Commerce is incorporating the road past the landfill site into its scenic drive route around Squamish.

The entrance to the dump is hardly scenic at the best of times, despite the fact that it is cleaned up every day. The fault lies squarely on the shoulders of those people who are lazy and/or irresponsible and do not take the time to dump their garbage properly.

Visitors who take the scenic drive are not going to be too thrilled with the sight of garbage piled on the side of the road.

Neither will residents. The district may have to lengthen the hours of operation and that will cost us all money. Our taxes are used to keep the garbage dump open.

So clean up your act.

September

September has to be the most beautiful month of the year, especially in Squamish. The lovely warm days coupled with cool nights, the brilliant stars, and the waxy scent of the air, all combine to make it a beautiful month.

It's a bit too early for the trees to start changing colour; there isn't any frost yet and the flowers are putting forth their last flush of blooming with a mad rush of blossoms, as if to rush to beat the winter season.

Goldenrod and purple asters bloom along the roadsides, the thistle heads float in the air casting their seeds far and wide, blackberries ripen in the hedgerows and the birds feast on them while thrifty people pick them to store away in jam and jelly for the winter.

Fruit trees are laden with their crops, boughs bending with the richness of their yield and the crapple on the riverbank is full of fruit, tempting the jays and other birds who feast on them.

The birds, who were so silent all summer, are flocking together, getting ready to head south; the ducks and the huge blue heron are back in the Blind Channel and the trout are coming back up the channel in pursuit of the few salmon which spawn there.

We love the warm weather, as long it's not too hot; detest the winter and really enjoy the in-between seasons like spring and fall when the changing weather patterns are so attractive. We would hate to live in a country where there were no seasons, where one could never know the scent of spring or the tang of autumn.

September's song is a paean of gladness for a successful summer and a prelude to the storms of winter. Enjoy it.

Now it's my turn to sit down. Paula the clown relaxes on the chair he carved following the Loggers Sports demonstration for 300 members of the World Business Council.

WONDERSVOICES

by ALEX

An overenthusiastic minister of one of the more simplistic faiths got himself into difficulties recently for using a hot-seat type of chair to give electric shocks to children at a church camp. He said he wanted to shock them into listening to the voice of God.

When he discovered that more than the chosen children were shocked, he apologized to his congregation, explaining that sometimes people needed a jolt of this sort before they were ready to listen to the Almighty. He did not say why he had chosen any particular part of the anatomy as a listening organ, but it may have had something to do with the direction from which he, himself, approaches the scriptures.

Only six volts of electricity were involved, he said, and there was no physical danger to those elected for a charge of salvation.

There could very well have been other dangers. Social and emotional chaos, to say nothing of nationalistic catastrophes, have been known to result when individuals listened to the voice of God with ears and minds attuned only to the will of men.

The Yorkshire Ripper said he was instructed by God to get-on with his ripping. He had heard a divine command to rid the world, or at least to rid Yorkshire, of the prostitutes who were obviously looked upon from on high with less benevolence than had been shown early in the Christian era to women of that status.

Christianity began in a different part of the world, of course, and the God of the Yorkshire Ripper may have developed a keener sense of geography and sociology over the 2,000 years that separated the incidents.

If, however, God can have a sense of geography and a human social consciousness, reason demands that he also be credited with some ability in the field of economics. The victims of the ripper could reasonably have argued, had they been spared to do so, that they were carrying on their trade in response to divine commands.

They could have made their argument more potent by insisting that God had despaired of getting the ear of Margaret Thatcher and advising her to provide more socially acceptable employment for the lusty and the needy and the lazy and the greedy. A jury would be inclined to believe readily enough that Margaret was deaf to any suggestion that once cannot sustain the human body indefinitely merely on the hope of winning a football pool promise. But in ancient Greece, no one ever indulged in lese majesty to the point of accusing the chief god of having messed up the whole of creation.

Not so today. Respect for authority vanished sometime during the hippy era and apparently for good. A lady writing in a Vancouver daily only last week made it very clear that God had made a biological booboo when he decreed that women must carry the baby for the first nine months of existence, assuming of course that it began to exist at the moment of conception, a controversy that Zeus never had to deal with.

It was only right, the lady wrote, that women postal workers should be paid full salary during their pregnancy leave; and if the postal union had to stop all communication, human and divine, in order to correct some blatant divine chauvinism, it was only upholding the moral responsibilities of enlightened moderns. Moreover, she added, this sort of action must continue until all the divine mistakes have been corrected.

That could be as dangerous an approach to scriptural sociology as was the minister's hotseat in the summer camp. If other newly liberated persons jump onto the bandwagon, and if they have as much success in intimidating God as the postal union had in frightening God's representative, then one must tremble at the thought of what the future holds.

Pregnant men, a nation of Amazons, test tube babies, truly creationist adults imposed upon the world without any of the preliminaries hitherto held essential to birth, hearing organs and even brains transferred to more appropriate areas of the body — the possibilities are endless when a movement gets started. And especially so when God is not only directed by a powerful, if altruistic, union, but is supplied with the technology to put the demanded changes into effect — provided always that no one is thrown out of procreational work in the process.

Shocking as it sounds, such a scenario is probably inevitable. Money-minded theologians have already reduced God to the image of a vindictive man. Now the stage is ready for the social do-gooders to step in from the wings where they have had success in reducing man to his lowest common denominator. The only thing left is the spectacle of the humanized god being brought down from his already tottering perch while the iconoclasts affirm loudly and piously that God, himself, is directing the operation.

Little Brothers and Sisters enjoy picnic

Little brothers and sisters enjoying a weiner roast with their big brothers and sisters.

"Wow, what a noise!" could be these little brothers' reaction as Lorraine Allan fires her gun.

Bob Brant

Board members, big brothers, big sisters, little brothers and little sisters, were given a rare treat — sunshine — on the day they chose for their picnic at Alice Lake.

A roaring fire was built, hot dogs roasted and many salads and cakes were enjoyed by the 27 people who participated in Big Brothers, Big Sisters of Squamish. Over the past year the organization has grown to four big and little brother matches and four big and little sister matches.

The picnic was the last of four group activities held for little brothers and sisters over the past ten months. We are looking forward to resuming these group activities in the fall. Over the summer months big brothers and big sisters have continued to see their little brothers and sisters on a regular basis.

This fall we are looking forward to expanding our services to include more matches. Anyone interested in "sharing a moment with a child," please call Big Brothers, Big Sisters at 898-3125. There are many children who would benefit from an adult companion in your community. A notion of fun coupled with helping a child grow and develop appeals to you please give us a call. We need you.

Clowns coming to Squamish

Basketball monkeyshines! That's what local fans will see when the world famous Harlem Clowns bring their fantastic show to the Brackendale high school gymnasium on Saturday, Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The globe-trotting Clowns have been criss-crossing the United States and Canada as well as the rest of the world for more than 40 years.

For folks who like laughs with their sports, the Harlem Clowns have all the answers. From the time they take the floor to the tune of their theme song, "Sweet Georgia Brown" until the grand finale "baseball game" the clowns are working their hardest to combine fancy ball handling and shooting with both planned and spontaneous humour.

Opponents have as much fun as the Clowns — because owner Al Pullins insists that his players "keep the game interesting". Often the Clowns purposely pass up scoring opportunities and even toss the ball into the wrong "bucket" now and then.

And the fans never tire watching the Clowns — they come back year after year and always there is a capacity audience out to watch them.

Don't shoot at lines

Vandals who shoot at B.C. Hydro powerlines are risking long prison terms for a single foolish act.

The Criminal Code of Canada provides up to 14 years for wilful damage to public property, and a lifetime sentence if the damage places another person in danger.

B.C. Hydro will pay a reward of up to $2,500 for information leading to a court conviction. Damaged high voltage transmission lines are dangerous to those responsible and anyone else in the area, sometimes causing major service interruptions affecting large numbers of people.

Hunting and fishing clubs have carried out education programs over the years in an effort to eliminate irresponsible shooting. Others can help by reporting to the nearest police or Hydro office any information which might help identify a vandal involved in a shooting incident.

It's in everyone's best interest to stop powerline vandalism.

OLI enrolment up again

"Over 3,200 students have enrolled for the Open Learning Institute for its fall semester," registrar Denis Meakin announced recently. "This is our highest enrolment yet, and there is every indication that the figure will be still higher next semester."

This summer's postal strike and news of OLI's own strike were expected to affect enrolment figures significantly, but the determination of students to continue their education seems to have overcome most of the inevitable delays and inconveniences.

"We've been forced to postpone or cancel a few courses for this semester due to strike-related production delays," Meakin said, "and we've had to limit enrolment in a number of very popular courses. But in spite of all these factors, our enrolment is up from 3048, our next highest enrolment which occurred last January. I'm very pleased that OLI can serve the many people for whom distance learning is a practical choice."

Once again, introductory accounting is OLI's most popular course, followed by first-year university arts courses, and high school completion courses in core subjects.

The big news this term is OLI's new course in personal computing, which allows students to hook up a loaned computer to their television sets to learn basic programming and computer consumerism. Since the course was announced several weeks ago, OLI has received hundreds of application requests which are still being processed on a first come, first served basis. OLI is also offering a non-credit computer applications telecourse in association with UBC (CMPT 002), and a first-year university computing science course (CMPT 100). OLI plans to expand its range of offerings in the computing field in upcoming semesters.

For more information on OLI courses and programs, call your nearest OLI advising centre. An advisor is ready to assist you in Richmond. Call collect 270-8021.

BE CAREFUL AROUND THOSE POWER LINES

That power wire that crosses the yard to every household can pack a deadly punch.

A Vancouver workman was electrocuted recently when he held onto the metal pipe of the electrical service entrance and touched an exposed portion of electrical wire at the same time, causing 120 volts to pass through his body.

Workers and residents doing home repair or tree pruning should be aware of the potential hazard. The electrical service entrance is located at an elevated position and is normally quite safe.

However, anyone climbing or reaching up to clean eavestroughs or siding should stay well clear of the connection and all overhead electrical wires.

Seventy attend Block Parent meeting

Approximately 70 people attended the annual Block Parent meeting at Mamquam elementary on Monday, Sept. 14.

The events of the last year were discussed by chairperson Judi Jenkins and certificates of merit were presented to Florence Widows, Paulette Bell, Diane Orser, Anne French, Lori MacIntosh, Edith Moule, Anne Babuin, Doreen Thompson, Pat Hansen, Elizabeth Lunn, Sherry Picard and Glen Morris by Liv Hendrickson for their assistance at the Brennan Park Fair. Linda Chadwell was presented with the same award for her assistance with the float for the Loggers Day parade.

Nominations were then called for the area leaders positions left vacant by retiring people. Roberta Zaharia's position was filled by Linda Chadwell, Sherry Picard's by Marcia Danialson, Eleanor Bowcock's by Pat Hanson, Donna Scott's by Bev Bortolotto and Dorothy Cram's by Judi Jenkins.

As there were no nominations or volunteers to take the position of co-ordinator or assistant co-ordinator left vacant by the retiring of Judi Jenkins and Liv Hendrickson, the program was in serious jeopardy and would have been discontinued in Squamish. Stephanie Wiebe and Peggy Hess stepped forward to save the program.

Cst. Jim Hunter then gave an excellent talk on hitchhiking. He read some startling statistics on the crime of murder and stated that in the U.S. a murder is committed every 23 minutes and one in every four women will be raped in their lifetime. Of the females raped by strangers, 90 per cent of them were hitchhiking at the time. He demonstrated very vividly how quickly a person in a car can be subdued by a simple pickle fork placed at the throat of the victim.

Cst. Hunter showed many valid reasons for not hitchhiking and said the dangers are as great for men, boys, girls and women. The dangers of picking up hitchhikers were also pointed out. He then went on to say that if your mind is made up and you will hitchhike anyway there were also rules to follow.

He made it clear that the responsibility rests with the parents to teach their children and the schools and police can only reinforce what they teach. There are parents and friends of 11 dead young people in the Greater Vancouver area that can testify how important it is to teach your children now.

A film was then shown to those in attendance and the people in the film related first hand experiences with us, some of the uncomfortable positions they found themselves in when they had been hitchhiking.

Act simplified

Further deregulation and simplification of the Home Purchase Assistance Act was recently announced by Lands, Parks and Housing Minister Jim Chabot.

The new regulations will allow shareholders in a company which is registered under the Companies Act and which owns a multi-unit housing project in which the shareholder leases a housing unit to qualify for the first home grant.

"This form of home ownership is very similar to that of a housing co-operative, whose members have been eligible for the grant for some time," Chabot said. "This change removes an inequity which has previously existed."

The regulations have been consolidated, deleting sections that were no longer pertinent due to changes made in the Home Purchase Assistance Act, and continue the job of making programs more flexible and more responsive to public demand.

Children can be bilingual

It comes as a surprise to many parents in this community that it is possible for their children to become bilingual.

They think back to the schooling they had in French and see how their older children are learning French in school and come to the conclusion that language instruction is a waste of time.

They can neither understand nor converse in the language they often spent many years studying.

Today, however, the Ministry of Education has made available to districts who request it a program which will enable your child to become fully bilingual by the time he or she completes high school.

Partly funded by the federal government, this French immersion program can be initiated at a number of grade levels. However, it is most effective when begun in kindergarten or grade one.

Studies have shown that the rate a language is learned is related to the time that one is exposed to it. Early French immersion requires two years of French only in the classroom. In that time a solid basis is achieved.

To get the equivalent exposure in a French as a Second Language course, more than 20 minutes per day of French instruction would be required in each year of elementary school.

A group of parents in Squamish are interested in having an early French immersion program offered next year. If you are interested in having your child involved, please call Marlene Baker at 898-5927 or Vivian Drought at 892-5093.

Capilano College is willing to offer a French course for children in January, similar to the one available this fall in Whistler.

If you think your child could benefit from an after-school program such as this, please call the college at 892-5322. They need a minimum number of interested people before they can proceed.

Laura Burroughs feted at shower

Laura (Proctor) Burroughs who was married to Larry Burroughs on August 15, was honoured with a bridal shower on August 6. Hostesses for this happy event were Julie Hamar and Judy Bousfield.

Mother of the bride, Frances MacLellan and mother of the groom, Sharon Burroughs were in attendance as were Irma Jones, Ingrid Dalen, Seana Cassell, Mari-Lynn Bousfield, Pat Burroughs, Sandra MacLellan, Marie Leveque, Tracy Weiss, Joan Cassell and Pat Haigh. Sending gifts along but unable to attend were Betty Rayfield, Wendy MacLellan and Sandra Haffey.

Recording the gifts was Julie Hamar and from the many bright ribbons and bows on the packages, Judy Bousfield created the traditional bridal bonnet. The delicious refreshments included a beautifully decorated shower cake.

Bride-to-be Laura Proctor modelled this stylish wedding hat at a shower for her in August.

"Percs" and quirks

By SHERRY GRIFFITHS

Now I've done it. I've gone and committed myself. (In the newspaper business, one column is a commitment. Two is a lifetime guarantee you'll come up with poignant, thought-provoking and/or humorous words every week. Three and you agree to sign your firstborn over to the editor and publisher. Four ... well ... maybe I shouldn't tell you what happens after four. It gets pretty nasty.)

Actually when I started this column I thought it would be a breeze. I mean ... Hey! I can write every week. No problem. Heaven knows I talk enough.

Besides, it won't be too bad if I just keep ahead of myself. Rattle off two or three columns each week and I'll be laughing. Well, that's just fine.

Except for one problem. After the first three columns, I felt as if I were a mindless idiot in the middle of the Sahara Desert.

Dry? We're talking major dehydration here. That's when the panic sets in and you start feverishly casting around for ideas. Sometimes you're about as successful as a bloodhound with a nose cold.

Other weeks, there are so many newsworthy items to comment on, you feel like you're drowning in the middle of the ocean ... and you're surrounded by numerous lifesaving crafts.

In that case you have to decide which one will float the farthest. It doesn't do much for your ego if your "lifesaver" sinks after two or three paragraphs.

And I tend to be a coward. I don't particularly enjoy going down with a sinking ship.

That's one commitment I won't make.

But that's okay. Nobody wants to make a commitment anymore.

I read an article about a woman who had been going with a married man for years. As soon as he started divorce proceedings, the woman dropped him like a hot potato.

She didn't want to commit herself to a relationship. Of course, she already had a relationship, but she felt secure it would not bloom into anything because her lover was married.

How many people just don't get involved because they don't want to make a commitment? How many people won't make a decision, but put the matter on the back burner and let it stew? Maybe eventually it will just dry up and disappear.

I don't know if it's an offshoot of the (a) Me-generation, (b) insecurity, (c) indecision or (d) pass the buck. Maybe it's (e) all or none of the above.

One of these days I just know I'm going to hear this conversation:

"I'm sorry, but I just can't commit myself."

"But I just asked you to bring home milk and bread on your way from the office."

Ah well. I'm not worried.

Mainly because I feel good about this column ... once the panic settles down, the headaches and nausea subside and that tight feeling in my throat disappears, of course. That usually happens late Sunday night when I finally type -30-

In journalism talk (yes, we do have our own lingo), -30- means fini, end, kaput and Thank God that's finished.

So, until next week, -30- (Pssst. Anybody want to sell a good column, cheap?)

Ministerial assoc. sets up marriage counselling

The Squamish Ministerial Association has been concerned for some time about the rapid rate of marriage breakdown and divorce in society. The situation has reached such alarming proportions, that the association has decided to take positive steps towards alleviating the problem.

Up to this point, local ministers have provided marital counselling on an individual basis. After months of deliberation and planning they are now ready to launch a marriage preparation and enrichment program.

The course will be considered mandatory for all couples planning a wedding in any church in the community of Squamish. Exceptions to this rule can only be made in unusual circumstances.

The purpose of the program is to prepare couples ahead of time as to what they can expect in a marriage. Competent professionals will deal thoroughly with the medical, legal and budgetary aspects of married life, while the importance of one's spiritual relationship will be emphasized by the clergy.

These skilled teachers are donating their valuable time to this worthwhile cause. Some couples from the local area, who are known to have stable marriages, have been enlisted to lend additional support.

The program is not only for those who are planning to be married, but also for couples who are already married, and whose marriage may need to be enriched. The association hopes many of these might take advantage of this opportunity.

The program will be conducted on a regular basis in the months of October, February and April, and will comprise four Thursday evenings from 8 to 10 p.m.

There is a charge of $25 per couple for the entire course, which will include refreshments and literature. The first course starts on Thursday, Oct. 15. A brochure containing more details is in the process of preparation. In the meantime, your local clergyman is available to answer any questions.

Highlands Elementary parent teacher meeting

The first parent-teacher group meeting for the Garibaldi Highlands Elementary school will be held on Wednesday, September 23 in the school library at 7:30 p.m.

Elections presidents, secretary, publicity officer, social convener and room mothers will take place. A nominating committee has been setup and nominations can be made by phoning Nayda McNeil at 898-3150 or Sue Foote at 898-5936.

After the elections, Jim Spencer, the new principal will be talking to the group. We hope many parents will be there to meet and welcome him.

Weavers' Guild News

The Squamish Weavers' and Spinners' Guild finished its year in June on a high note.

At the meeting a report was given on the excellent results achieved from a course done with Minika Maase.

During the course each member set up a loom with a different threading. The looms were then circulated so that many techniques were woven by each member. The result was a lovely swatch of samples for everyone taking the course, tangible evidence of what can be done with open weaves.

Later that month the guild took part in the display of crafts which the Arts Council had organized, and was complimented on the work being done by the local weavers.

The new year, which started in September, is also going well. A report given on the colour and design workshop with Barbara Heller was well attended and very informative. Heller has a workshop on Granville Island and is well known for her original tapestries.

Several members brought in pieces they had finished during the summer which were all beautifully done. The members seem to be turning to much finer pieces, as opposed to the heavier weavings in wools that were so popular for a long time.

There was much discussion about the works presented, and everyone at the meeting could not fail to learn a great deal.

Anne Simpson will speak to members on Oct. 27 on garment making, or rather weaving for garment making. Simpson has presented workshops before and also instructed for a few sessions at Capilano College here.

The next meeting will be Oct. 6. The guild in Squamish is on the move. If you are interested in weaving, you will be very welcome. You cannot fail to learn something from the members and various instructors who present workshops.

Do not hesitate if you do not weave, you will be most welcome.

The Royal Canadian Air Cadets, #835 Chimo Squadron is starting its seventh year in Squamish and boys and girls between the ages 13 to 18 years are invited to join. The squadron meets every Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in Howe Sound secondary school cafeteria and uniforms are supplied. Anyone wishing further information is asked to contact Doug McCartney, 892-3711 or Brian Pennie at 898-3077.

A visitor from Tenterden, Kent, England for three weeks is Vera Barnes and she is the guest at the home of Ken and Doreen Ramus. Vera and Doreen took nurses training together in England some years ago. The last time they saw each other was approximately 16 years ago.

This past summer, one third of the nation was ill-housed, ill-nourished and ill-cared. Only they called it a vacation!

Mrs. Catherine Phinney, from Aylesford, Nova Scotia, was a guest at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Norman and Margy Phinney and grandchildren.

A young man who was our advertising manager four years ago, Gary Hall dropped into the office for a little visit last week. His last job took him to New Guinea but he says he hopes to stay closer to home for awhile now. His parents live on Vancouver Island.

Stork story - BARDEN - A second son, Scott James Peter, was born to Jim and Susan Barden in the Squamish General Hospital. This is a brother for Jeffrey. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Barden of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. P. Stattler of Mt. Lehman.

Mrs. E. "Nanna" Todd is to be congratulated for completing the 10 km Terry Fox Run for the Marathon of Hope and at the same time collecting $450 in pledges. She wants to thank everyone who supported her and, of course, the cancer fund's the big winner.

Doug McCartney and his mum, Evelyn McCartney, enjoyed a two-week holiday on Vancouver Island. Their trip took them to Tofino, Port Hardy, Long Beach and a pleasant stay at Fisher Bay Camp at Sayward. It is owned by former Squamish resident, Mr. Wheelodon.

H.O.P.'s (Horse Oriented People) are going on a trail ride Sunday, Sept. 27 and are meeting at Eagle Run field at 10:30 a.m. (rain or shine). Anyone interested will be welcomed but please take your lunch and drink along, plus a couple of weiners as a weiner roast is planned somewhere along the trail.

Happy with their third place finish in the All Police baseball tournament held in Kelowna were local R.C.M.P. constables Tom Hansen, Doug Brooks, Hal Boland and Peter Forbes. Other members of their team picked up most valuable player and best infielder awards in the three-day fourteen-team tournament.

Stork stories - WYSSEN - Donna and Chris Wyssen are pleased to announce the birth of their first child, a son, Christian, weighing 7 lbs. 4 oz., and born in the Terrace General Hospital on Sept. 8. Proud grandparents are Chris and Margo Wyssen and Mrs. Edit Bolon of Kitwanga, and the extremely happy great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Arie Hoogenboom of Squamish. A proud great, great grandmother is Mrs. Gerda Kleinwold of Velp, Holland.

BULLEN - Congratulations to Laurie and Harry Bullen on the birth of their second daughter, Emily Elizabeth, born in the Vancouver General Hospital on Sept. 14, weighing 7 lbs. 8 oz. This is a sister for three-year-old Katie. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bullen, of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Stare, of Secht. Mrs. Beech, of Vancouver, is a proud great grandmother.

Greg D'Amico didn't stay in Ontario very long! West is best, I reckon, and this time he brought his mum with him for a short visit. Mrs. D'Amico lives in Welland.

Wedding anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hales, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laventure, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sadler, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sobotka.

The Squamish Folk Song Circle is starting its fourth season and they would like to be part of the evening's entertainment on Monday, Sept. 28. It starts at 8 p.m. in the Civic Centre. Refreshments will be available.

There's lots of people having birthdays this week and they are: Paul Kindree, Trevor Wulff, Glenn Cook, Phillip Blindenbach, Kathy Dinwoodie, Tom Eged, Trevor Mlinaritch, Erin Luck, Alishea Inman, Cameron Donald, Laura Sikora, Paula Scott, Dave Gatzke, Margaret Johnson, Neil Mangan, Shannon Price, Lynn Gauthier, Terry Cyr, Maurice Scott, Luke Plunkett, Jack Meres, Helen Lehman, Lisabeth Halvorson, Rene Trudeau, Kimberley Kiloh, Jackie Wright, Dominic Milia, Gregory Burt, Donna White, Linda Looyen, Linda Finter, Tresa Langstaff, Gerri Beaulie, Peggy Tinklin, Cindy Hughes, Walter Regier, Sherrie West, Bob Middelman, Kai Jenkins, Todd Singer, Christopher Clark, Sharon Julien and Debby Kary.

This Friday will be a special day for Miss Sarah Johnston and Master Stephen Kelm as it will be their first birthdays.

Way back in the 50's (54, 55 and 56) "our gang" in the Lower Mainland dwindled to no gang at all but "happily" married couples. Now not everyone stayed in that blissful state but when a reunion was organized, seven couples answered the call on the Labour Day weekend. What fun we had, looking at old pictures (my, weren't those styles and cars something else) and reminiscing about the "good old days". We, naturally, had to talk about our kids and some even bragged about their grandchildren! Wilma and Art Fraboni were down from Port McNeill and Wilma's sister, Edna Kenney, also enjoyed the fun. Our hosts on Saturday night were Eric and Vi Jervis in Surrey, and the barbecue on Sunday, was at the home of good friends Rose and George Mack of Port Moody.

Here we go folks—another (ugh) definition of middle age: When it takes longer to rest than to get tired. What else is new??

Sheila Haffey is pleased to have her sisters from Britain visiting her this month. Jean Richards is from South Fleet, Kent, in England, and Vicki Graham is from St. Andrews, Scotland.

The Behrner family, Don, Retta, Paul, Ione and Vicky and Don's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Behrner attended a family reunion in Vernon on the Sept. 12 weekend.

Help! Where do I go?

Are you unsure of your career plans, don't know which university or college to attend, having personal problems and need a shoulder?

Capilano College can help. The college is pleased to announce the counselling department of the Squamish learning centre will be open this fall for appointments on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

For further information and appointments, call Christie or Susan at 892-5322 or visit the centre at 38038 Cleveland.

Correction

In a front page article in last week's Times dealing with four rezoning applications, it was incorrectly reported Ed Moloughney and Block Bros. owned property near No Name Rd., which was previously owned by Denis Los.

The property is owned by Grant Adlington. Block Bros. was handling the sale for Adlington and Moloughney had an interest in acquiring the property. Los also had an interest in the property but dropped out.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY BURROUGHS

Hawaii honeymoon followed ceremony

Following the August wedding of Laura Jean Proctor (nee MacLellan) to Lawrence James Burroughs, the couple enjoyed a three-week honeymoon in Hawaii.

The bride, the second daughter of Mrs. Frances MacLellan of Squamish and the groom, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Burroughs of Abbotsford, formerly of Squamish exchanged marriage vows before Rev. Jack Lindquist in an evening ceremony at Squamish United Church on August 15.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride chose a gown featuring sheer sleeves and a scalloped lace trimmed bodice. A Juliet cap held a cathedral veil and blusher of silk illusion. She wore a gold necklace, a gift from the groom. Laura carried a bouquet of roses, daisies and stephanotis in blues and white, cascading from a lace fan.

Maid of honour, Julie Hamar, and bridesmaids, Sandra MacLellan, sister of the bride, and Judy Bousfield, wore identical gowns of pale blue polyester featuring empire style waistline, narrow straps and square neckline. The maid of honour wore a three-quarter length crocheted jacket. The crocheted edging on the bell sleeves of the jackets worn by the bridesmaids. Each carried bouquets similar to those of the bride.

Rick Misiurka was bestman and ushering duties were shared by Dave Maglio and Kim Cassell. Son of the bride, Richard Proctor, was the junior usher and he also assisted his younger brother, Robbie, who was the ring bearer.

The organist during the ceremony was Mrs. Ethel Jean Gray. Barbara Fortner, friend of the family, sang "Because" and "You'll Never Walk Alone".

Mother of the bride, Mrs. MacLellan chose a sea green formal gown, featuring sheer sleeves and a full pleated skirt, highlighted by a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Burroughs, mother of the groom, wore an empire styled gown of black and white. The bodice was complimented by a sheer white cape and corsage of red roses.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Legion hall.

Norman Davis, uncle of the groom was the master of ceremonies and Bill Saunders, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to his niece.

The beautifully decorated three-tiered wedding cake was made by Nancy Davis, aunt of the groom.

Guest book attendants were Pat Burroughs, sister of the groom and Kerry Williams, second cousin of the groom.

The young couple are residing in Squamish.

Check safety standards for baby furniture

Due to improper maintenance or clothing entrapment, infants and children die every year in accidents involving nursery furniture and equipment. Others receive treatment for injuries associated with these products.

Yet, the vast majority of these tragedies would never occur if consumers were better educated in the selection, use and maintenance of nursery furniture.

At least 22 infant fatalities related to baby cribs, cradles or playpens have been recorded in the eight years since federal legislation governing their safety was introduced.

It is significant that 18 of these deaths involved older cribs made before safety standards for baby cribs and cradles were introduced by Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada in October 1973 under the Hazardous Products Act.

Similar legislation for playpens followed in September 1976. The other four deaths were related to inadequate safety precautions.

It is illegal to sell a crib, cradle or playpen, new or used, which fails to meet the safety specifications of the Hazardous Products Act.

While regulatory enforcement at the industry level has been very successful since the legislation was introduced, and inspectors check the second-hand stores, not all places of sale can be supervised.

Many used cribs and playpens are purchased privately, at garage sales, swap meets or through newspaper advertisements. Still others are handed down in families, or are homemade.

Especially in temporary situations, they may be borrowed; for example, at a motel. In each of these cases, it is impossible for inspectors to ensure that the crib or playpen would meet current regulations.

It should be noted, however, that legislation extends only to point of sale. Beyond that, individual parents must assume their responsibility in ensuring a continued safe environment for their children.

Even the most observant parent cannot eliminate all the potential hazards of a youngster's life, but many needless tragedies can be averted with an increased awareness of the proper way to select, use and maintain cribs and playpens.

Young children do not know how to prevent accidents. Please help by making their world as safe as possible.

Remember — cribs and playpens are safety devices! For more information, contact your nearest district office of Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada.

Cap will build your media image

Many people today find themselves called upon for radio and TV interviews and approach the media with real trepidation. These situations can be turned to a maximum advantage with some practical training. In the course of Media Image, offered at Capilano College this fall, participants will get practical training with video recording equipment in handling a variety of media situations.

This credit free course is of use to many people apart from those expecting to be on the media, however. Through the use of closed circuit TV people have an opportunity to access their communication skills more clearly and to improve them.

The topics to be covered in the course, will include on-camera image, studio procedures, pre-interview techniques and preparation, dress and mannerisms, and speech and attitude.

The two instructors of Media Image both have a vast amount of experience in the field. Michael Berry is a well-known TV producer and director with numerous productions to his credit including the Beachcombers, Ritters Cove and Hourglass. Mike Wintlaw's career spans 20 years, including eight years hosting Hourglass, and is best known currently as host of CKVU's Vancouver Show.

Media Image will be held Tuesday and Thursday for four sessions October 27 and 29, and November 3 and 5, from 6 to 9 p.m. For further information on registration contact Capilano College at 986-1911, local 321.

New fall programs at women's resource centre

The Women's Resource Centre of Capilano College has a new slate of interesting programs for women this fall. If you've been thinking that you might like to take a certain program "some time," now is the time to do it.

The centre is lucky to have Dr. Marlene Hunter, family physician and hypnotherapist, giving a series of workshops on the application of hypnosis to stress, menopause and obesity. These three workshops will be held on Monday evenings, October 5, November 2 and December 7. Also focusing on the issue of menopause will be a series of Tuesday evenings from October 6 to November 10 entitled "Prime Time". The instructor, Yetta Lees, will look at many of the myths surrounding menopause, as well as the reality of the symptoms. She is a good example of a woman who turned this period into one of the most positive and creative times of her life.

Then on Wednesday evenings from October 7 to November 4, there will be an Assertiveness Training class offered by Rachel Aarons. This is more than just a series of techniques to apply to difficult situations. It also focuses on your image of yourself and how you can improve your self-esteem as well as the attitudes and reactions of others. The series "Choices: A Guide to Women's Whereabouts" to be held on Thursday evenings from October 15 to November 19 will examine major issues of concern to women in the areas of work, the Constitution, changing roles of men and women, women in transition, women and power, and what's happening for women in Squamish.

If you are trying to decide on a suitable career or are thinking of a job change, the Career Planning and Test Workshop will be helpful for you. The workshop will be on Saturday, October 31 (one day only) and there will be individual follow-up sessions with the instructor, Phyllis Howard. The following Saturday, November 7, Louise Alden will be back to offer a workshop on "Living with Teens and Staying Friends". This is a topic that has been continually requested and an instructor who was very popular in Squamish—a dynamic combination not to be missed.

Last but not least, on Tuesday evenings from November 3 to December 8, there will be a Wednesday course: Self Defence for Women. This combines physical exercise, confidence-building, and some useful strategies to deal with harassment in all types of situations. You can register for any of these courses, the series or individual sessions at the Capilano College office from 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. every weekday. For further information, call the Women's Resource Centre at 892-5322.

Fireplace shop opens in mall

Does your fireplace suck heat up the chimney and all you can see are the dollars going up the chimney?

Do you wish there was some way of using a fireplace to heat your house and cut down on your heating bills?

If so, the new Southland Fresh Air Furnace shop may have the answer to your problems.

This shop, which had its grand opening on Saturday, Sept. 12, is owned by Ben Denis with Lee Francis as manager, and features fireplaces which bring in fresh air from outside into the house, eliminates incoming drafts and adds the proper humidity to your house.

"The fireplaces circulate heat throughout the house and believe it or not, works best in houses where there are cracks which allow the fresh air to seep in," Lee explained. "It reverses the flow with hot air."

Francis said the fireplaces can be either in a convention style or free standing.

The firm also carries the 'Hurricane' brand heaters with radiant or convection heaters.

They also carry conventional fireplace inserts which can be fitted into an existing brick fireplace.

Project stack units for chimneys are also carried and the firm will install fireplaces.

Francis says that the firm carries a line of kitchen cabinets made by Harwood Industries. This comes in a number of attractive finishes.

If you are interested in something different in the way of fireplaces which will help fuel bills come and see the ones in this new shop.

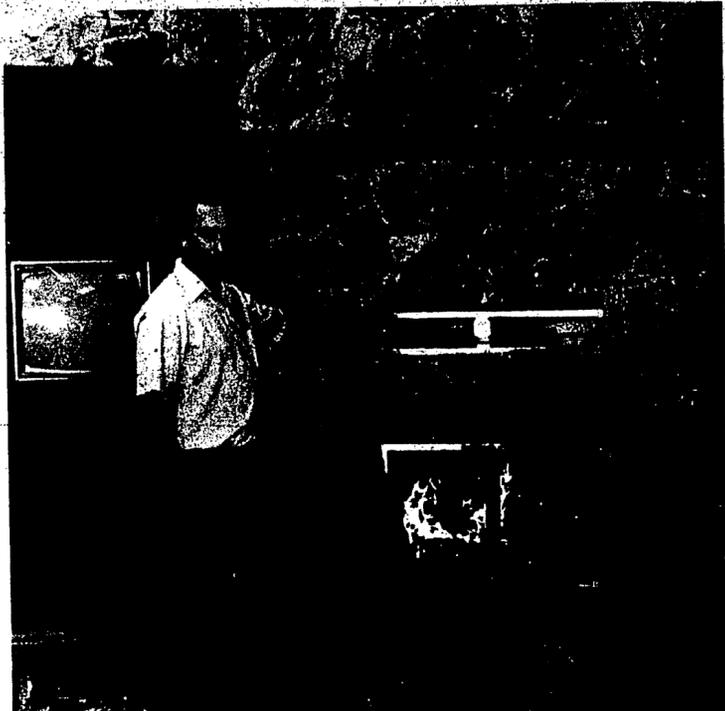

OCTOBER CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCES

Child Health Conferences will be held in Squamish on Wednesdays, Oct. 7, 14, 21 and 28 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Tuesday, Oct. 13 from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Adult clinics will be held on Fridays, Oct. 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30 from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and on Tuesdays, Oct. 6, 13, 20 and 27 from 3:30 to 4:10 p.m. Sexually transmitted disease clinics are held on request. For all clinics people are advised to phone 892-3585 for an appointment.

Pre-school clinics for vision and hearing testing, speech and development testing, health counselling for children 3½ to 4½ years old are also held. The next one will be Monday, Oct. 5 from 9 a.m. to 10:50 p.m.

Parent and infant groups, a program available for parents with infants from birth to four months, program includes infant nutrition, health, safety and infant development. For more information phone the health office.

NOTICE TO:

Holders of Judgments and Orders for Alimony, Maintenance (including maintenance provisions in an affiliation order), Support, or Periodic Payments, which were registered in a Land Title Office before October 31, 1979.

Holders of judgments and orders of the types mentioned above are advised that the registration of such judgments and orders will expire at the last moment of October 30, 1981, unless before then you have renewed the registration specifying real property of the debtor against which you wish the registration to take effect.

The reason you are being given this notice is because of changes which have been made in the law. Up to now the holder of a judgment such as yours did not, when registering a judgment, have to mention a specific property of the debtor against which the judgment was to take effect. Difficulties which arose over this procedure have necessitated a change in the law to the effect that henceforth a person registering or renewing the registration of a judgment must mention a specific property.

For information as to the procedures for renewing the registration of your judgment it is suggested you contact the Registrar of Title with whom the judgment is currently registered. If for any reason you cannot contact the Registrar of Title it is suggested that you contact the Director of Land Titles, 201 - 1250 Quadra Street, Victoria, B.C., V8W 2K7. Telephone: 387-3055.

There will be no charge for the renewal of registration of a judgment of the type mentioned above.

Spring Flowering Bulbs
Fall is the time to plant your bulbs to get a beautiful display of spring blossoms in April and May, and in British Columbia September is the best month to get them planted. This enables the bulb, which produces the flower from nutrients stored within it, to develop a strong root system before winter sets in.

Another practical reason to get your bulbs for fall planting early is that this is when the selection is best and if you have any specific varieties you wish to grow, look for them early before all the best ones are gone.

Here on the coast the most popular bulbs are crocus, daffodils and tulips. Crocus and daffodils can be naturalized, that is planted in lawns or on the edges of lawns where the grass does not have to be cut right at the beginning of spring.

If you are planting crocus in the lawn just dig a hole with a dibbler and put the bulb in. Bury it about twice the depth of the bulb and it should be done in late summer or early autumn in well drained soil in sunny positions.

Crocus come in many shades. The early species crocus bloom in late February with the larger Dutch hybrids coming along later. They bloom until late April and my favourites are the pale lilac species crocus along with the deep violet and gold ones. You can propagate them by digging them up every few years and separating them. They multiply rapidly.

Daffodils come in many forms but perhaps the favourites are the large trumpet daffodils and the most common variety is the King Alfred with its deep golden trumpets and deep yellow perianth.

But today there are many forms with white or cream perianths and long or short cups, or all white ones. The jonquilla hybrids have sweetly scented flowers and come in clusters and the commonly called narcissus is really a daffodil.

They should be planted as early as possible; they can be planted in groups in the lawn or borders for naturalizing and if planted in clumps should be in off numbered ones, i.e. 7, 9, 11, etc.

Well drained loamy soils are best for daffodils and they should be planted in September and October. They flower from March to May.

Tulips are perhaps the most exotic of spring bulbs, coming in many shapes and sizes and in many brilliant colours. The early flowering varieties start in March and among the finest are the Red Emperors and the doubles. The best known are the Darwins with huge cup-shaped blooms, but the exotic lily flowered and the bizarre Parrot tulips are all beautiful.

They should be planted in October and November, in well drained sandy loam with lots of peat moss added. Plant them where the beds will receive full sun and, if possible in Squamish, where they will be sheltered from the sun.

Their flowering season is from March to May.

La Leche starts locally

La Leche is a non-profit, non-sectarian, international organization offering information and encouragement to the woman who wants to breastfeed her baby.

There will be a series of four monthly meetings in Squamish in the homes of mothers. Members need not be pregnant or have a family to attend the meetings. If you are interested, you are welcome.

Pregnant mothers will find it helpful to start the series before their baby arrives. Women may also bring their nursing babies.

The nursing mothers of La Leche are always available for moral support and practical help through meetings, correspondence or telephone calls. The organization also encourages mothers who have related experience to share their experiences with the new mothers.

For more information phone 892-5747 or 892-3817.

council briefs

Pem-Van Transport's application for a general freight licence will be supported by council, providing the vehicles are based in Pemberton.

It was suggested that prior to any referendum, figures be obtained of the difference between insurance rates within and without the fire district for comparison.

The airport liability insurance was increased to $3 million, at a cost of $900 per year.

Mr. Zorkin will be invited to address council on October 6. He wants to start a rock cutting plant, using rock from a quarry near D'Arcy. The rock could be used for fireplaces, decorating homes, etc.

A letter of thanks will be sent to Robert Bonner, chairman of Hydro, for the offer of a rescue vehicle. Hydro offered to sell the vehicle to the village rather than put it up for public auction.

The fire chief, Milt Fernandez, inspected the vehicle Monday and will report back to council on its suitability.

Car vandalized

A car belonging to Jim Kernaghan was overturned by vandals during the weekend of Sept. 12. It was left at the Pemberton Express garage for repairs to its exhaust system.

The vandals also broke most of the street lights in the Pemberton area.

The matter is under investigation by the Pemberton RCMP.

St. David's Church was scene of August nuptials

Beautiful baskets of cream, pink and mauve roses and baby's breath graced the altar at St. David's United Church in Pemberton on Aug. 1 when Corinne Laurel Curtis and Darryl Drew Oberson exchanged marriage vows.

The bride, the daughter of Allan and Melva Curtis of Baltimore, Ontario, and the son of Warner and Audrey Oberson of Devine, B.C., were united in matrimony by Rev. Jean Angus of Vancouver who officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length cream coloured gown of layered chiffon, high neckline and bodice of lace and chiffon ruffles with long sheer sleeves. The full skirt featured a short train which gathered at the waistline. A soft flat bow was off to one side of the wide waistband.

A lovely old fashioned cream coloured lace hat held the dainty finger tip veil. The hat was covered in lace, held with tiny seed pearls and soft netting covered the face of the bride. Corinne carried a lace parasol which held pink and old rose coloured roses, greenery and baby's breath.

The "something new" worn by the bride were the earrings, a gift from the groom, and the "something old" was a very old cameo, pinned on the neck of the dress and it was borrowed from a friend, Kitty Edwards.

The bride's sister, Debbie Shier of Pemberton, was the maid of honour and her other sisters, Jeannet Puddy of Cobourg, Ont., and Cathy Curtis from Baltimore, Ont., were bridesmaids.

The bridal attendants wore identical gowns of jacquard satin in old rose colour. The full length skirts were gathered on a round yoke and drawn in at the waist with a sash. Each carried a cameo of cream roses with baby's breath. Miss Jennifer Puddy, the bride's eldest niece from Cobourg, looked sweet in her gown, similar to the attendants but in a cream colour pinafore over top with ruffled shoulders and bottom. She carried a basket filled with cream, old rose and pink baby roses with baby's breath.

The groom's brother, Dean Oberson of Pemberton, was best man.

Ushering duties were shared by Gerald Giguere of Pemberton, William Hamilton of Sechelt and Allen Sankey of Squamish. Jason Puddy of Cobourg, the bride's eldest nephew, was the ringbearer.

The attendants wore light grey tails with matching striped cravat ties. The groom wore light grey tails with grey tie.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Curtis chose a dress of crepe de chine in a light shade of old rose with matching corsage.

On the occasion of her son's wedding, Mrs. Oberson wore a floor length two-piece, blue floral organza gown with yellow corsage.

The reception was held outdoors and took the form of a barbecue and dance. The bride and groom had such a wonderful time they decided to stay for the whole evening. The bride changed into blue jeans and plaid shirt.

Many, many friends and relatives gathered on this special occasion and relatives of the bride included her parents Melva and Allan Curtis and grandparents Carl and Gertrude Curtis of Baltimore, Ont.; Jeannet and Jim Puddy and children Jason, Jennifer and Jeffery and Jeff and Karen Curtis and daughter Rebecca; Cathy Curtis, Dave Begg and Rob Curtis and Lydia and Keith Curtis, all of Baltimore; Greg Hannah of Alberta; Dustin and Taya Shier and Neil and Audrey West of Cobourg.

The groom was pleased to have his 90 year old grandmother, Mrs. Drennan in attendance. She along with aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mawson and cousins Travis and Nicole came from Dundurn, Sask. Other relatives and friends included Mrs. Mona Rasmussen from Saskatoon; Alvin, Darlene and Jodi Newfelt from Calgary; Clayton Meyers from Williams Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wright and Vicki from Kamloops; and Mr. and Mrs. John Wetzel and Richard of Surrey.

Other guests of the groom included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Oberson, Graham, Norman and Bill and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Belisel of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wetzel-Barry and Patricia and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wheeler and Nadine and Dawn of Surrey; Mr. and Mrs. David Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Len Wetzel, Drew and Jason from Langley; Mr. Nick Caras, Jennifer and Steve and Mr. and Mrs. Brian Montebrun of Maple Ridge; and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Jago of Castlegar.

The young couple are residing in Pemberton.

MR. AND MRS. DREW OBERSON

Tony and Wendy Hepburn, holidaying from New Zealand, stopped in Pemberton to see the Old Summerskill farm and visited with friends of Kathy and Don Summerskill. Tony is Kathryn's brother.

Rose and Joe Pattenau have returned from their cruise to Alaska on the Prince George. They were lucky to have an extra day because of some problems with the engine of the ship and enjoyed every minute of it.

Chicken pox is still affecting some youngsters in Pemberton and parents of children attending Signal Hill School are reminded to be sure to let the school know if your youngster has been in contact with the virus. A grade four student must not contact chicken pox under any circumstances and must remain at home if there is any chance of contacting this contagious disease at school.

Shirley and Ron Collett of Thunder Bay are visiting their daughters and sons-in-law, Shirley and Bill Pietila and family, and Colleen and Larry Janke and family at D'Arcy.

Happy birthday wishes to Isabel Lefebvre, Shelly Elkins, Pat Montgomery, Ryan Ayers, Bernadine Sampson and Gregory Burt and belated greetings to Frieda Mitchell and May Yang.

The next meeting of the Pemberton Agricultural and Community Association will be held Wednesday evening, Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. in the Legion. Everyone is welcome to attend and help with the planning of the proposed new community hall.

On Sept. 12 two Vancouver men were hang gliding when one of the men crashed into a mountain. Const. Brian Gabriel flew to the scene and the man was on top of the glider and, fortunately, not injured.

Mrs. Patsy Kaiser has returned to Paris, France after spending a month visiting her parents, Adele and Hector Harwood. Visiting the Harwoods last week was son, Bill Harwood, from Edmonton and grandson, Brent Harwood, on holiday from Bering Sea where he works on an ice cutter.

For the first time in the history of the Village of Pemberton, Council members were given an up to date financial statement at the meeting held last week. Council felt the statement, thanks to the new computer, was very helpful.

Mrs. Margaret Moffat has come from Edinburgh, Scotland to spend a month with her sister, Mrs. Jean Spetch, at Mount Currie and with niece and nephew, June and Phil Perkins and family.

Friends of Harry Mohs will be saddened to learn of his death at Chilliwack, September 14. Sincere sympathy is extended to Gerry Mohs on the loss of his father.

Elizabeth Taylor and Don Hurton had some car problems when they holidayed here last week. They were delighted that Lorne Hillstrom was able to fix the car's transmission so quickly. They stopped at the Legion for supper before heading on their way back to Los Angeles.

Boy Scout registration will be held Wednesday, Sept. 24 at 7:30 at the Signal Hill school gym. Beavers; Cubs and Scouts should be in uniform and must be accompanied by a parent.

On September 18 co-workers and friends of Edie McGrade and Len Hickinbottom gathered at the home of Muggie and Fred Meen to wish them well on their retirement from the Pemberton secondary school maintenance staff. Edie retired Sept. 18 and Len retired the end of August. The group of 25 people presented Mrs. McGrade with a clock radio and Mr. Hickinbottom with a fishing rod.

Everyone enjoyed a sing-a-long with music by Bill Busby, Muggie Meen, David Kernaghan, Dr. Arthur Moody taking turns at the piano, Arthur Moody playing the organ part of the time and Father Wilfred Scott playing his guitar.

Congratulations to Clayden and LeaAnne Meen of Prince George on the birth of their second daughter, Elysia, August 30, a sister for Melanie. Happy grandparents are Mrs. Dianne Walker, Vanderhoof and Muggie and Fred Meen at Pemberton. Mrs. Muggie Meen spent last week at Prince George visiting the new baby, Melanie and LeaAnne and Clayden.

An invitation is extended to anyone interested to attend Special Bible Services at the Pemberton Legion hall each Sunday afternoon at 3:30. There will be no collection taken at the non-denominational meeting and all ages are most welcome to attend. Please phone Miss Lynn Peterson or G. Websdale at 894-6461 if you wish more information.

Eva and Paul Lefebvre have returned from a month spent in Saskatchewan visiting her father, brothers, sisters and some of her children. One brother came from Ontario and it was the first meeting with him for the Lefebvres in six years.
