Local couple seriously hurt in highway accident

Bryan Couture and his fiancée Lorraine Wilgress, who were to be married on Saturday, Sept. 12, were seriously injured in an accident on Highway 99 just a mile north of Horseshoe Bay on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

BRYAN COUTURE

They are both in Lions Gate Hospital as a result of the accident. Also in hospital is the driver of the other vehicle, Samantha Burgon of West Vancouver and her four year old daughter.

Couture and Wilgress were coming home about 10:15 p.m. when they were involved in a head-on collision with a vehicle driving by Burgon. West Vancouver police said she had been parked in the turnout just a mile north of Horseshoe Bay and had pulled out and headed south. Apparently she was in the wrong lane at the time.

Police said that except for the fact that Couture is a large man and in superb physical health, he would probably not be alive today. Wilgress was asleep at the time of the accident.

Couture suffered severe facial injuries, including a shattered jaw and leg injuries, including a broken ankle. At the time of writing he was in intensive care but was progressing satisfactorily.

Wilgress had a severe concussion, facial injuries and possible fractures and bruises from her seat belt, a cracked spine, knee injury and possible internal injuries. She has regained consciousness and is in a special care unit at the hospital.

The driver of the car which was in collision with the Couture vehicle is in the same hospital with broken ribs and her four year old daughter has abdominal injuries.

West Vancouver police said charges are being considered as a result of the accident.

A number of other accidents, some involving motorcycles, occurred during the past week.

On Aug. 28 on Highway 99 half a mile north of Tunnel Point, Raymond Forbes of Richmond, travelling north, lost control of his motorcycle and hit the gravel, causing damages to his machine amounting to $1000. He has been charged with speeding.

On Sept. 3 on Government Road and Garibaldi Way, David DesJardins was involved in an accident when a dog ran in front of his motorcycle. Damages to his

Tapes found

The RCMP had in their possession some tapes which appeared to be interviews with senior citizens and pioneer residents of the area. They were found in Valleycliffe near the J. Gunn home and Gunn turned them over to the police.

If anyone knows anything about these tapes please contact the RCMP or Jim Gunn.

Al Doherty and Carol Tenney of the Federal Business Development Bank visited Squamish last week and outlined some of the services offered by the bank.

On Aug. 30 on Diamond Head Road, about five miles from the highway, Edwin Hood claimed he was forced off the road by another vehicle, resulting in damages amounting to $800.

On Aug. 31, in Valleycliffe Paul Yaky struck a car illegally parked in a fire lane, when he attempted to drive around it. The accident occurred at the rear of the Southpark Apartments and damages to his vehicle amounted to $350.

On Sept. 1, Barbara Walkey, driving on a steep hill on a gravel road, attempted to put on the brakes and went into the ditch causing $1,200 damage to her vehicle.

On Sept. 2, on Highway 99 one mile south of Garibaldi, Brian Miller of Squamish was travelling north when the front tire of his vehicle blew and he hit the rocks causing damages to his vehicle amounting to $1,500.

NEW CLOSURE TIMES IN CHEAKAMUS CANYON

Effective September 8, the Cheakamus Canyon will be closed for blasting from:

Table with 2 columns: A.M. and P.M. listing closure times from 7:05 to 11:30.

Traffic will be cleared after each closure.

Chamber comments on postal strike

The Chamber of Commerce directors decided last week to write to Ottawa protesting the comments made by the Postmaster-General during the postal strike, particularly his reference to businesses which could not operate without the post office should not be in business.

It also pointed out that small businesses cannot use couriers and other means of getting information from one area to another because small business cannot pay the costs incurred. The chamber also stated that free enterprise is the basis of our economic system and free enterprise cannot operate without a strong and efficient post office.

Chamber members also decided that it would be only right to withhold six weeks box rental when they prepaid their rental when it became due because the mail could not be obtained for six weeks. Permitting the boxholders to extend the expiry date of their box rental period by the requisite six weeks would be a suitable alternative.

The chamber also expressed grave concern about the effects the possible increase in the cost of fuel oil would have in the area. B.C. Hydro had made a survey of the area and two out of three people would convert from oil to gas if natural gas comes to Squamish.

Discussion concerning the construction of a permanent float to be used in parades outside the community advertising Squamish and the Squamish Days celebrations, brought forth some interesting comments and parade marshal Lis Larsen said that she had discussed tentative proposals for such a float.

They're involved. How about you? Marie Atkin, Dawn St. Cyr, Penny Brown, Diana Liberty and Marilyn Everett... and Lace, the dog... are jumping with enthusiasm over the Terry Fox Memorial Run to be held at the civic centre Sunday, Sept. 13 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The fee to enter the walk, jog or run is $5 for the six-mile course. Or you can get sponsors. Pick up entry forms and pledge sheets at the Times office or the civic centre. Entry forms are turned in during the day of the run and pledge sheets can be turned in at any chartered bank. For more information, phone 898-3604.

Garibaldi residents stage information campaign

Residents of Garibaldi who are being forced from their homes as a result of the threat from the Barrier, fought back over the Labour Day holiday by staging a campaign to make people using Highway 99 aware of their problem and the cause of it.

They staged a "stoppage" on the highway just north of the Cheakamus Canyon, asking north-bound travellers to pull over and presenting them with a pamphlet outlining some of the problems which have resulted since the order-in-council was passed in June of last year.

They also placed a number of signs along the highway indicating what had been stopped as a result of the plan to move residents from the area and the amenities which can no longer be used.

They outlined the history of the area, the access to the Black Tusk area of Garibaldi Park, the Daisy Lake dam, the beginning of Black Tusk Village, which was stopped by the Department of Highways and then the decision to buy back the properties from the people living there.

They pointed out that Alpine Lodge with its tourist cabins and campsites at Lake Lucille, Garibaldi Lodge, and B.C. Hydro parks and campsites at Daisy Lake, Stanley Lake and Roe Creek, cannot be used. Also the Black Tusk trail and parking lot will be abandoned.

Members of the Garibaldi Heritage Committee claim that the danger, if it exists, of the Barrier falling and causing a slide which would damage the area, would affect travellers on the highway as seriously as it would those living in Garibaldi and the effect on travellers could be greater.

They claim the government has apparently accepted the principle of the "selectivity of danger." That people on private property or in parks will be destroyed by rockfall or flood. People using the "corridor facilities" (roads and railroads) will be spared. They contend that if a collapse of the Barrier is imminent, the danger is immediate and common to all who are in the designated zone.

They claim that in peak periods of the summer tourist season or winter ski season that more people by far would be inundated by a rock or mud slide on the highway than would be in the few remaining homes or buildings in Garibaldi.

Included with the information they handed to motorists was a form which they asked visitors or residents to sign protesting the action which had been taken by the government.

One of the signs along Highway 99 erected by the people still living at Garibaldi.

In B.C. forests and mills

Professional foresters seek better utilization

Professional foresters of B.C. are asking for better utilization of B.C. forests. The association is concerned about the projected one-third drop in the annual timber supply if forest management programs are continued at past levels.

They suggest one method of avoiding the social and economic impacts of a one-third reduction in provincial cut would be by better utilization of existing forests. Better utilization can be a result in both harvesting and milling practices. They will have significant effects upon corporate profits and government revenues.

Cleaner logging is one way in which higher utilization can result. At present about five percent of the sound wood volume that could be taken from the forests is left behind. Much of this is in small pieces which could be used if government and industry teamed up to improve logging techniques, and cleaner logging.

Decadent cedar-hemlock stands which cover six percent of B.C.'s forest lands are expensive to log and, in many cases, growing at a negative rate due to insect and disease losses. These should be rehabilitated.

Inaccessible stands must be balanced by low-cost logging areas so that an acceptable average cost is achieved. Logging the best and leaving the poor behind as economically inaccessible cannot be tolerated. New logging techniques must be developed to reach inaccessible areas. Logging helicopters have made some of these areas accessible and special stumpage rates have made them economical.

Hardwoods should be utilized. There are 1.5 million hectares of aspen and cottonwood in the Peace River area and 10,000 hectares of alders on the coast. These must be managed. Reduced stumpages and temporary harvesting licences should be encouraged.

Increased utilization of the existing timber supply through improved milling technology could augment fibre production by about 25 percent. Much of this could come from reduction in sawdust, trimmed ends and planer shavings as well as improved techniques in the manufacturing of decadent wood found in hollow shells, tops and partly rotten logs. New product lines should be developed to utilize some of the currently uneconomic fibre. An economic climate must be created in B.C. conducive to developing specialty mills.

Many mills are not as versatile as they could be in the handling of smaller logs. In many cases logs destined for chipping for pulp are of the higher use such as sawlog, peeler and lumber types. Many of these were small in size which meant they could not be sawn in an inefficient mill and were therefore destined to be chipped.

When this country starts producing large quantities of thinning wood we will be wasting it if it cannot be sawn into lumber, but becomes chips. Thinnings could be capable of supplying 10-25 percent of the annual harvest. The foresters state that significant utilization improvements can be made in both harvesting and milling techniques. They must be made. Government and industry can help by improving the efficiency in logging and milling.

The governments can help by improving the economic climate in order to encourage cleaner logging and improving milling efficiency. Waste in the woods and the mills must be reduced.

In order to maintain B.C.'s number one industry, they stress that the forest companies must:

- Preserve our productive forest land base.
Intensify our silvicultural effort.
Protect our crop from fires, insect and disease.
Maximize fibre utilization.

MAYOR DECLARES SAT. AS HOSPITAL DAY

Mayor Jim Elliott has declared Saturday, Sept. 12 to be Hospital Day in Squamish.

Attorney-general and MLA for West Vancouver-Howe Sound Allan Williams will unveil a site sign during a 10:00 a.m. ceremony at the Keeley property, which is located below the present hospital.

The mayor acknowledged the event on behalf of the Squamish-Hospital Society and the Squamish Intermediate Care Society and urges all residents to attend.

Langman new nursing director

Rex Langman is the new director of nursing at the hospital. He replaces Gloria Healey, who resigned recently.

Langman has 12 years experience in general duty, emergency and teaching nursing and was previously nursing director and assistant administrator at Thompson general hospital, in northern Manitoba, for 3 1/2 years.

He studied at Ottawa General Hospital for three years and then studied for, and received, his bachelor of science in nursing at the University of Ottawa.

Langman said it is unusual for a man to choose nursing as a career, "but there are more and more of us now. There are 300-plus men in nursing across Canada now. One percent of them are directors of nursing or in a position in administration."

He said he is interested in administration in the health field and the "DON (director of nursing) is the fastest and best way to get into hospital administration."

He has lived in Squamish with his wife Louise and their child for one month.

LETTERS

Editor, the Times: Hurra! We had some rain on the 25th. Hope the municipal road crew took advantage to fill the rest of the potholes on the road to the Vancouver Outdoor School. They run out of wet weather patching and had to start already in the dry season.

Since Squamishville is becoming so popular had another movie filmed here I suggest the Chamber of Commerce should try to get a whole series made here. Called "People are Funny" or combine all the dillies which were done here in the last 20 years.

stage at the council chamber and pulleys. When you have no greased pulleys it will squeak to high heaven when you pull strings continuously behind the big show.

These are only a few samples: got a lot more in my memory bank. Also stepped on enough toes already and want to leave some room for other hopefully open minded letter writers.

Madeline Robertson and Candy Rustad, the two Guide leaders who volunteered to come to camp for the week to assist. They worked very hard and did a super job, for which I am really grateful. prices are out of sight, and we haven't tasted bacon or ham or roast beef since we left.

They are all available, though you can buy anything you want if you have the money. I was pricing an electric frying pan last week and it was $130 ... needless to say, I didn't buy it.

The scenery around here reminds me strongly of the Prairies, but there are 'mountains', not very high ones. They look like our mountains sheared off at the base. Everything is very green right now. There is so little pollution here that the only smell you get is that of an occasional fish factory.

If you think Squamish is windy you ought to come to Iceland! This beats anything I've ever encountered! We had a hurricane in February and I thought the windows of our second storey apartment were going to blow in. Cars were overturned in the street, and two poor sailors drowned in the storm.

Stolen goods retrieved

As a result of a routine arrest on Sept. 1, police retrieved a quantity of goods stolen earlier this year from Valley Hardware.

As a result Donald Campbell Galdaur, aged 30, has been charged with possession of stolen property.

A majority of the items recovered, worth many thousands of dollars, came from Valley Hardware. At the time of the break-in some $5,000 worth of items were taken from the store.

Galdaur was also charged with possession of a narcotic under the Narcotic Act.

A very special "thank you" to Editor, the Times: Vic Johnson, in his letter in the September 1 issue condemns the federal government for granting "maternity leave" to female postal workers. He can attack from a personal impregnable position, his age and sex preclude the possibility of pregnancy. He reminds me of those elderly men who have been known to be in favor of conscription.

These women are incapacitated for work and they should be entitled to the same privileges as any incapacitated worker who claims sick pay.

Is Mr. Johnson in favor of sick pay? Despite instances of malingering? At least pregnancy cannot be faked.

It will be stated that pregnancy is the responsibility of the woman. Such a statement lacks validity for there is a dual responsibility entailed. But even if granted it is beside the point.

Sickness is also often the responsibility of the sick person. In many cases sickness is due to overeating, improper diet, overindulgence of alcohol or lack of exercise. There are numerous instances where a person is responsible for sickness yet that person receives sick pay under most union agreements. Then why discriminate against women who are incapacitated?

I am disappointed that Vic Johnson, whose progressive outlook is well known, has taken such a regressive position in this instance.

Geo. W. Lyons.

Ed has just got a job working with computers, and this will not only give him a raise in pay, but also a good chance for advancement if he works hard. I have not started work yet as Laura (four) has not been able to get into daycare yet.

On the whole, Icelandic people are very nice, helpful, honest. The children seem to run wild, perhaps because the parents are usually working, often holding down more than one job, to make ends meet. They spend their hard-earned money quite freely, and like a lot of Canadians, are up to their ears in debt.

We had an extremely hard and cold winter, which didn't end until April, and was the coldest winter on record for over 50 years. The summer so far has been mild and pleasant.

I'm sure the Canadian kids would love the school system here as they are only in school for four hours a day, and get four months summer holidays! Don't ask me how much they learn, as Elizabeth (12) has been having a hard time with the language and so has not learned a great deal yet.

However, arrangements have been made for her to take correspondence instruction from Victoria, B.C. There are no facilities here to teach non-Icelanders to speak or learn in Icelandic, such as there are in Canada to teach English to non-English speaking children.

On the whole, Icelanders don't seem to have many immigrants. We find this language very difficult, but admit to not having made as much effort as we should have.

BY LORNE GREENAWAY
MP FOR CARIBOO-CHILCOTIN

Patronage is alive and well in Ottawa. The Liberal government continues to see the taxpayers' dollar as a tool to be used to purchase seats in the House of Commons.

Two recent sets of figures which came across my desk reaffirmed my faith in Liberal electioneering practices.

First of all, a traditional source of patronage for the Liberals has been the Department of Regional Economic Expansion (DREE).

Since this program was set up in 1970, $691.9 million has been spent on the Department's Regional Development Incentives Program. Of this total, $317.2 million has gone to the province of Quebec. This comes to 46% of the money given out by DREE. The Liberals hold 74 of 75 seats in Quebec, coincidentally.

In the same time period, British Columbia received only $8.9 million or 1% of the total. So far this fiscal year, Quebec has received 59% of all DREE funding for a total of $18.9 million, while our province of B.C. received 2% or $700,000.

In the recent by-election in Joliette, the Liberals poured $5.5 million into the riding during the seven week campaign. This is equivalent to all of the DREE money given to all of B.C. in the past six years.

In spite of this, the voters in that Quebec riding returned Mr. Roch LaSalle by 14,000 votes - his largest majority ever.

The second set of statistics came from the Minister of Employment and Immigration. According to Mr. Axworthy's figures, this year the Canada Community Development Projects will dole out $104,400,000 in funding. Of this total, $38,725,000 or 37.1% will go to Quebec. About 3.8% or $3,924,000 will go to British Columbia.

Incidentally, this grant goes to both native and general projects. The only explanation for this inequitable distribution of funding is that the Liberal party is using your money to buy seats in Quebec.

Fortunately, this abuse of the public purse has been meeting with less success lately. Aside from the Liberal defeats in Joliette and Spadina, the Liberals lost considerable ground in another recent by-election in the Quebec riding of Levis.

It would appear that the people of Quebec are reacting against the poor economic conditions that prevail in Canada as a result of government policies, as well as the government stand on the Constitution.

Canadians demand that their government be able to do more than cynically manipulate the public purse. We want a government that will lead us out of our present economic conditions which threaten our careers and our homes.

Callaghan Lake ski development outlined

A proposal to develop a nordic or cross-country ski area at Callaghan Lake was recently presented to members of the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District.

Bart Deeg of Westwind Resources appeared before the board of the regional district and said his company had done an extensive review of the potential of Callaghan Lake for a nordic ski proposal which would be a first class development, which would complement the Whistler development.

A nordic ski development would diversify tourist industry in the area with from 3,000 to 5,000 dayskiers participating on a regular basis. Deeg said surveys had been made which showed that 85 percent of the people are willing to pay trail fees and that the Callaghan Lake area lends itself to at least six months of skiing each year.

Deeg said that in September the cabinet will be making a decision on the use of the Callaghan area and he asked the support of the board for the proposal to be made to the minister.

Director W.R. Barr of Squamish asked if the "world-class" designation would exclude local skiers. Deeg said the proposal would look after the Lower Mainland skiers as well as tourists. Deeg said that the Westwind Resources would not oppose a similar development of nordic skiing within 50-100 miles of the Callaghan Lake area.

Director Frank Rollert asked about the background of Westwind Resources and was told that J. Novacek Associates; Marshall, Macklin & Associates, were in the group and that someone like Block Bros. would be contacted to sell property in the Callaghan Lake area.

The firm has not developed a previous ski development but had been working very closely with Al Raine of Whistler.

Deeg said approximately 250 units would be required to pay for the infrastructure and that the development would be for summer use as well.

He said the nordic type of skiing would have a number of trails, some of which would be packed so cross country skiers would find them more attractive. He had pictures of the type of equipment and type of trails which would be developed in the area.

Deeg also said the area lent itself to the cross country or nordic type of skiing more than to downhill and said it would be easier on the terrain and the environment.

Three ships due in September

Three ships will be expected to arrive at Squamish Terminals in September, the first since the forest strike ended.

Due on Sept. 20 is the Star Bulford which will be loading cargo for Europe, while the Swan Arrow on the 25th and the Star Enterprise on the 29th will be loading for Japan.

The strike, which forced the cancellation of shipments due to the lack of cargoes, ended on Aug. 24.

Hospital torn down when new built

Squamish general hospital will be demolished once the new facilities have been completed.

In a letter to the joint committee, D. Thompson, assistant deputy minister of health, said the position taken by the minister of health if that planning for a new facility was on the assumption that the existing building would be demolished.

Hospital board chairman Peter Gordon told board members a "conservative estimate of over $100,000" would be needed to upgrade the present facility.

Gordon said the roof would have to be replaced, a number of electrical items upgraded, the galvanized piping replaced as it is corroding from the inside out and the outside of the building painted.

It would probably not be feasible for service clubs to rent the facility, he said, because they would have to provide their own furniture and pay for light, insurance, heating and maintenance.

He added the ministry "wants nothing to do with the building."

September is arthritis month.

Liquor taken in break-in

At about 2 a.m. on the morning of Aug. 31, police were called to the Royal Canadian Legion by reports of a possible break-in.

As a result three men, Dennis Campbell, aged 24 of Port Alberni; Gary Brown, aged 25 of no fixed address, and 21 year old Leonard Julien, a former Squamish resident, have been charged with breaking and entry.

A quantity of beer, hard liquor and cigarettes, as stolen in the break-in but most of it was recovered.

They appeared in court and were released on bail but will appear again on Sept. 8.

Watch those kids

It's that time of year again! It's September and the kids are back at school. And it's time to make sure that you watch carefully when you drive by the schools, or even along the roads because they are going to be walking home, or riding their bicycles and some of them are pretty tiny and unsure of themselves. It's up to us to be extra careful, to look out for the youngster who wobbles down the road on his (or her) shiny new bicycle, or forgets what he has been told and plays alongside the road on the way home, or going to school. Our highways are busy and keep getting busier all the time and we know you are probably in a hurry and have a lot to do but please be careful and don't take a chance with a child's life. We urge you all to be very careful when you drive the roads and highways now that school is back in session. We don't want any accidents!

Buckle up for safety?

We've all heard the saying that "Laws are made to be broken." One law that is ignored more frequently than any other and has raised many questions, is the law concerning seat belts. British Columbia states that wearing of seat belts is mandatory. They say seat belts save lives. This is where the questions start — has it been proven seat belts actually save lives? If an occupant of a car is thrown from his vehicle, immediately one will say he should have been wearing his seat belt. But if a passenger is thrown from his car and the car continues on to be totally demolished, then one will say the driver was fortunate not to have been wearing his seat belt. Why then was the law enforced if it can be stretched so much? If a passenger, after a bad accident, is unable to be removed from his vehicle because of his seat belt and therefore unable to receive medical attention, then once again one would say, we might have been able to save his life if he hadn't been wearing his seat belt.

If the car is flipped over, or crashes and burns and the driver or occupants are trapped inside with their seat belts on, we would say they might have lived if they had not been wearing belts. When do the arguments stop? Like any topic of discussion, there are bound to be pros and cons. But why just take the pros of a situation and develop a law? With seat belts, the occupants become part of the car. When a car travelling at 50 kilometres comes to a stop, the occupants don't. A waist seat belt will keep one from going through the windshield. But how will it stop one's head from whipping forward and smashing the windshield? Several major head injuries occur each year because of these waist belts. If seatbelts are enforced then the shoulder belt strap should be used. The head will still jerk forward possibly causing some sort of neck injury, but at least it will prevent one from striking the windshield. What side does one take? Seat belts do save lives, but in some cases they cause death too.

Vicious circle

All around us costs are rising, inflation has become a fact of life for everyone. However, some people feel the blow more than others do. The latest group in our society to feel the impact of inflation has been our students. Recently it was announced by the Ministry of Education that tuition fees to colleges and universities would be increased for the coming term. While the increase may have been necessitated by inflation and is justified, we can't help but feel sorry for the families and kids who have plans to attend a post-secondary institute. Think of the parents, who when they set up a college fund 20 years ago for their children, thought $1,000 would cover everything. Today that will hardly see the student through his first year's tuition and books and incidental expenses, let alone his room and board. Now these families and young people are forced to get the funds somewhere to put the kid through school. Summer jobs do help but for many a summer job is almost impossible to find.

Some local school guidance counsellors view post-secondary education more of a privilege than a right. This may be true but with the job market the way it is today it is becoming harder and harder to get a well-paying job without having a college or university diploma, or taking some training at a vocational institute. And yet, instead of making it easier for a student to obtain that valuable education it is costing more. Sure there are grants and loans to fall back on, but the loans always seem to be significantly larger than the grants and if not paid back within a certain period, have high interest rates. Also, under the present system, some students don't get grants or loans, many don't get them on time, and none of them get as much as they need. It is a vicious circle, and a seemingly unfair one. It's certainly a lot more difficult for young people to try and make it today. And they are receiving quite quickly, a look at the way things really are. Somehow that just doesn't seem right!

Howe Soundings

Trying to write a column once a week for fifteen years is a problem. Not only is it almost impossible to try to come up with a new subject each week but it's just as difficult to try and find a new twist to an old one. You don't want to make it sound like an editorial; you can only say so much about the weather and the days of your youth, or when you grew up in Squamish, dare we say it, fifty years ago. There is only so much one can say about one's pets, even though you know that your cat is the smartest, sweetest, most exasperating animal that ever lived. There's only so much you can write about places you go or things you do; your family is only good for so many items, everyone isn't interested in your diet or the way you cope with your desire for food. So what can you find to fill a column each week. Sometimes it's pretty hectic. You occasionally get a good idea and find a subject that can be used but it's really a problem. The new telephone books came out recently and you may notice there are 30 pages devoted to phone numbers in Squamish alone. Just 35 years ago, in October, 1956, Squamish was included with the Sechart peninsula in a slim phone book with four pages for Squamish. Amazing isn't it. We knew the community had grown but really that's an amazing growth and where better is it shown than in the number of telephone subscribers. A quick look through the book reveals some of the people are still here. There's Ed Aldridge and Alvie Andrews, Ed Antosh, Les and Bob Armstrong and Mrs. Axen. The Boscariols, Izzy and Willie, Sam Baker, Fred Barnfield, George Behrner, Moses Billy, George Binning and Al Bird, Russ Bliss, Bob Bruce and Bud Butterworth. Others still here include Ken Cain, Pat and Nick Candy, George Carson, Ross Chapman, Freda Clarke, Tom Clarke, Ivo Confortin, Armand Constantine, Curly Crosson and Bill Curran while Harold and Leo Davis, Dennis Debeck, Fred and John Downer, Frank Downing and John Drenka were here, too. Bob Deno was living in Squamish but moved away and is now back. Jim Eadie was living here then, along with the Al Fairbanks, Rod Farquharsons, Iris Farrow, Mike Favaros, Doug Fentons, Katy Feschuk, Tom Fowler, who moved away and then came back again, the Keith Greens, the Bill Hales, all the Halvorsons, Ernie Hansens, Jim Harleys, Peter Harrison, Basil Hartnells, Warren Hayes who also moved away and came back again, Myrtle Herndl, John Hills, Vicki Elliott, Arie Hoogenbooms, Kathie Hoy, John Hunters, the Vic and Hank Hurfords, all the Hurrens, Ted Hursts and Don Hutchinsons. The Iacovone, Joe and Val, Butch Juliens, Kindrees, Hannah Kirkwood, Anne Kristianson, Russ Lamports, Harry Lassmanns, Fred Leeworthy, Dick Lerus, all the Lipseys, George Lyons, Hannah McCormack and the Ron McCormacks, Sandy McCraes, Scott Macdonalds, Al McIntoshes, Wally McDougalls, Mackenzies, who moved away and came back again this year, the Jim McKenzies, C. F. McKinnons and the Angus McRaes. Also living here then were the Bruce McConnells, Dave Magees, Bill Mansons, Cy Marchants, Tom Marshes, Tony Martins, Laurie Midnights, Les Moules, Joe Mulherns, the Harry Nicholls, the Dick Olsens and Bob Owens. Raymond Patrick and Mrs. A. D. Patterson were also in the book along with Owen Reeves, the Sonny Rennis, Art Reynolds, Louise Riis, Don Rosses and the Bob Ryans. The Gordon Selles, Al Shemkos, Harry Simms, John Sobotkas, Eric Stathers, Sullivans, Theresa Summerskill, the Sweets, Jim Taylors, Clayton Thornes, Peg Tinney, Arthur Twisses, Bud Wains, David and Wilfred Williams families.

Frank Wilsons, Pat Woods and Annie Wray all lived here then. A number of the businesses are still active but some of them have changed names or hands. The Bank of Nova Scotia was the only bank in town; Bob Bishop sold his real estate business to Don Lecky and it is now Suncoast Realty; CRB is still active but with only two of the three original partners; Empire Mills is no longer the logging branch but now the sawmill branch of Weldwood of Canada; Doug Fenton is still a busy jeweller and Howe Sound Timber Co. is no longer John Drenka's company but has a new owner. The Newport Hotel burned down two years later and the Chieftain Hotel rose in its place and Tom Marsh had the Shell oil agency while Stan Clarke operated the Shell garage. Fred Leeworthy owned the Squamish Bakery which has changed hands twice since they retired and the newspaper at that time was the Squamish Advance. The Squamish Credit Union operated from a tiny office on Cleveland Ave., the hospital had just been built a few years before and the Squamish Hotel was owned and operated by the Sullivans then as it is now with grandsons Danny and Spenny Hinde now carrying on the family tradition, Squamish Mills was operated by the late Pat Brennan and his partner, John Drenka and the Squamish Super Market was operated by Danny Thom and his partner, Jim. Jim You had the Waltz-Inn Cafe which later became the Coach Inn when it was renovated and which burned down two years ago. Al Hendrickson had Westbank Logging but the company dissolved following his retirement and Yarwood Drugs, after changing hands a few times, became People's Drugs. There were no numbers as we know it now, no direct dialing for long distance calls and everyone was on a code ring except for businesses which had private lines and a single number. I can recall our number was 87X and the code ring was soon memorized. Before long you knew what each ring meant and who was being called. Party lines were common and some people really had problems with those who monopolized the telephone. If you were unfortunate enough to be on a phone line with someone who had a slough of kids you could expect to have difficulty getting the phone for yourself, particularly if the youngster was obnoxious and refused to get off the line. Pemberton had no exchange and all numbers, what few there were, were on party lines and this was true of Whistler, which was then known as Alta Lake. Pemberton had 28 numbers on two lines; Britannia didn't have any phones at all and Alta Lake, Birken, Creekside, now Mount Currie, D'Arcy, Devine (which no longer exists), Garibaldi, and Woodfibre were all listed under toll stations. Those were the days when the telephone office was one of the best places in which to work, with a staff that was one of the largest in the community. There were some times when extra staff had to be called in, such as the times when the Newport Hotel burned early in the morning and extra staff had to be brought in. But, fortunately, the people working there were so dedicated many of them came in voluntarily to help with a switchboard that went mad. 1956 was the time when the tunnel was being built from Daisy Lake to the Squamish area and the highway was being built to Squamish. It was almost impossible to get on the toll lines where these camps were located. But it was a busy and exciting time and it was less than seven years later Squamish went dial and all the operators were no longer needed. Today, of course, there is long distance dialing and you can get almost any country in the world just by dialing from your own home. Things do change.

Alice Lake on a quiet day last week. There were only a few people on the north beach and lone canoers on the lake. But come the holiday weekend it was shore to water people.

WONDRUNNER

by ALEX

The organizers of the Terry Fox run, scheduled for next Sunday, have expressed disappointment with the public response. They should not have been surprised that the enthusiasm of a few months ago has waned into apathy today. The person who inspired it all has gone, and today's age is one which has been conditioned to idolize individuals while ignoring what those individuals represent. Terry Fox was, in fact, typical of youth, idealistic, altruistic, perceptive and humane, and eager to do his bit to ensure a better world for coming generations. He was unique in that he committed himself to a project which caught the imagination of the public and the approval of people of all ages. But he was merely expressing in his own individual way what his generation as a whole has been expressing for a long time, an impulsion to expose and destroy all those cancerous growths which are attacking society today and which threaten to destroy it tomorrow. In endeavouring to raise money for research into the causes and cure of the cancer that attacks the human body, he was, consciously or unconsciously taking what, to him, was the most effective method of turning the thoughts of society towards some self-examination, some soul searching, into the causes of the disease which is eating its way into the whole structure of what we call the civilized world. Contempt for race, racial prejudice, economic dishonesty, price fixing, profiteering, nationalism, the list of cancers in today's society is almost endless. And it is members of the Fox generation who are going to suffer from them. Many have already suffered and have set out to do something about them, although few, if any have resorted to methods that are as acceptable, as demanding, and as self-sacrificing as a marathon across Canada in defiance of what would seem a devastating handicap. Some quite the opposite. Take the rock musicians. The more serious of them obviously see the dangers inherent in social attitudes; and in their own way have attempted to draw attention to them, though to adults their methods are incomprehensible and indigestible. Obscured by the noise and clatter and discord of amplified instruments of one group, for instance, is the statement that the girl in the bikini is an incitement to war. Rock musicians have hardly been noted for prudery, but in that line they are obviously expressing an awareness of a fact which might well escape more complacent adults who are unaccustomed to looking beyond the immediate image. Are the rock types who shout those words not suggesting that lust, however inspired, is not confined to sex? Are they not suggesting that the lust of possession, whether it is personal, economic, or nationalistic, is what leads to crime in the individual case and war in the international one? If the message escapes the adult who finds it difficult to hear anything at all at a rock concert, that does not make it any less a message. It could be that the cacophony which surrounds the words is deliberately representative of the degree to which youth sees the times as out of joint, their concept of a society which permits bigotry, power hunting, selfishness and ostentatious disregard of the governed by their governments. Terry Fox ran across the country on one leg because his other leg had been destroyed by cancer. Is it not possible that many of the young people who have turned to the mesmerism of rock music have also been incapacitated emotionally by the society in which they have been brought up? The rock band could be their method of turning other people's thoughts towards an examination of the cancerous state of today's world. Whether human reaction to trauma will be positive or negative is at best unpredictable. It is indicative of the cancerous state of society that Terry Fox, who has taken a very positive means of confronting the disease that had deprived him of this athletic career, would find his efforts unappreciated in all but the surface honours accorded the human individual. It is doubtful if the young runner would have hesitated a moment to forego every one of the honours directed towards his person in exchange for an assurance that cancer in all its manifestations, bodily and societal, had been conquered. Or that anyone of his admirers had an overwhelming desire to conquer it. But the hero is gone and it is becoming obvious already that few who worshipped him really caught his message. In the field of medicine it has been determined that cigarettes are a major cause of cancer. Yet, according to the press, the amount spent on advertising to encourage smoking reached over one billion dollars in the United States last year. Drunken driving is listed as one of the major causes of motor accidents. Yet steps are being taken to make liquor more readily available and to more people. In British Columbia, certain liquors are now apparently to be classed as staples, and sold in grocery stores. Racial prejudice, which is, in effect, merely a cultivated association of skin colour and language with personal character traits, is being encouraged by a government whose policies emphasize the 'multi's' in our culture to a degree that encourages the cancer of bigotry in what was becoming a Canadian nationality. Exorbitant taxes, price fixing, government waste, nationalistic trade policies, capitulation to pressure groups at the expense of the general economy, all have in them elements of the cancer which Terry Fox hoped to eliminate, in one of its manifestations at least. Putting the young man's picture on a Canadian stamp is an appropriate way of honouring one Canadian youth for a particularly valorous campaign on behalf of humanity. To continue his fund raising efforts is commendable. Doing something towards wiping out, in its wider meaning, the disease he campaigned against would be giving his effort something more than merely personal and passing significance.

School bus safety

The biggest single problem associated with school bus operation is still the number of drivers who refuse to give way to the flashing lights indicating pupils are either boarding or leaving a bus.

Every school bus driver knows the problem of the auto, van or truck driver who is in so much of a rush, or who is so oblivious to the environment, that flashing lights are ignored.

The fact that we have not, in Canada, experienced an epidemic of school bus accidents is purely a matter of good luck, not good driving. The potential for tragedy is enormous, and parents must wait in doubt each day, hoping their child or children will return from school safely.

How many children must die before effective measures are taken to enforce existing laws, to determine why they are so often ignored, and if necessary, to improve the warning devices on the school buses themselves?

School Bus Safety Week is being observed from Oct. 24 to 30 and the theme this year is "Wait A Minute!". This theme can readily be applied to drivers, but need not end there. It can also apply to the students: Wait before crossing the road to ensure it is safe, wait to get on or off the bus in an orderly manner. It can apply to the school bus driver: Wait a minute to get there safely, or to many other people involved in school transportation.

Never allow a shortage of time to lead to chance-taking. Wait a minute, instead.

School's In

School started September 8 so watch for children in the vicinity of Brackendale, Mamquam, Garibaldi, Highlands, Squamish, Stawamus and Valleycliffe elementary schools, as well as Howe Sound and Brackendale secondary school. In Britannia Beach, watch out for young children on the highway who are travelling to school.

In Pemberton, take special care at Signal Hill elementary and Pemberton secondary. If you are passing by the Mount Currie school keep an eye peeled and watch the highway for young ones near Myrtle Philip elementary in Whistler.

Parents, teach your children to look both ways before crossing the street and to use crosswalks if at all possible. Sit down and discuss with them the various rules of the road for pedestrians and make sure they know them thoroughly.

School patrols

Throughout the province more and more school crossings will be controlled by school patrols.

These are members of the school patrol or adult school crossing boards.

The Motor Vehicle Act requires that all pedestrians, bicyclists and motorists obey the instructions of such guards or pupils.

I know they're on a tight schedule, but don't you think that's going a bit too far?

Woodcock wins low gross trophy

Vickie Woodcock of Marine Drive came in with a score of 80 to win the low gross trophy at the annual ladies' open at the Squamish golf course, on Thursday, Sept. 3.

Cindy Sellers of Squamish edged out Marg Hendrickson, also of Squamish, to win the low net trophy with 68.

The unusual trophies, burl clocks, were made by Ian Moretti of Squamish.

One hundred and sixty-three women from the Lower Mainland, Vancouver Island and Sunshine Coast, enjoyed the day, the course and the weather.

Low gross and low net winners in their divisions were Connie Grant, Sunshine Coast; Marg Hendrickson, Squamish; L. Sproule, Gleneagles; C. Miller, Fort Langley; M. Ewart, Pitt Meadows and N. Marsden, Pitt Meadows.

The ladies were entertained before the trophy presentation by a sportswear fashion show by Joni Fashions of North Vancouver. Models were members of the Squamish golf course. Especially enjoyed by the ladies were the models of the opposite sex, who pivoted with the greatest of ease.

Raffle winners were Rufus Lobdell, a clock; Frank Hanlon, Nanaimo, hamper, and Elsie Milner, Squamish, the luncheon cloth. The lace tablecloth was won by Mrs. Morris of Comox.

Tennis outfits were also modelled by some of the younger models.

squamish valley rod and gun club news...

The club's combination match was held Sunday, Aug. 30 and drew 24 competitors, with three people entering in both the manual action and semi-automatic categories. The match required the use of three firearms (rifle, shot gun and pistol) and consisted of four separate stages. There was a possible score of 455 points, and trophies were awarded in both categories and all classes.

This match was designed to make the competition between manual action and semi-automatic rifles more even. Although there were very few manual actions registered for this shoot, they all finished in respectable places, first, fifth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth. As you can see, bolt action rifles are no longer at a disadvantage to semi-autos, and members hope this will encourage more local sportsmen to compete in the club's rifle matches.

The match winner was Jerry Black of Wenatchee, Washington with a total score of 414.79. Black won the match with a Ruger 25.06 rifle, and 12 gauge shot gun and a Colt .45 semi-automatic pistol. Black shot a very good match, as he also placed third overall with his .308 semi-auto rifle.

First and second place in "A" class went to Murray Gardner, Langley, who finished second overall with a score of 411, and Bob Baum, Vancouver. Baum was fourth overall, and had a score of 312.31.

First, second and third place in "B" class went to Lem LeMercier who placed sixth overall with 293.4, Drew McClure who was eleventh with 218.76, and Michael Brewster, Squamish, who was twelfth with 217.4.

First, second and third place in "C" class went to Larry Zakreski, who placed eighth overall with 286.66, Jim Errington, Squamish, who was tenth with 231.05, and Roger Budzianowski, Seattle, who was fourteenth with 177.87.

First place in "D" class was won by David Jenkins who finished seventh with 292.51.

First and second place novice went to Larry Kish, who placed fifteenth with 170.81, and G. Kovics, who was seventeenth with 131.83.

First and second place bolt action trophies went to Jerry Black, match winner with 414.79 points, and Baum, who placed fifth with 298.

Once again the competition for trophies was a good one, with only 3.79 points separating first and second place. The match was late getting started, and ran a lot longer than expected, but members hope things will run more smoothly for the "revolvers only" match scheduled for September 20.

The revolvers match is the final qualifying shoot for the Overwea police challenge cup, and it is a mandatory shoot for all competing police officers. The match will consist of five stages designed specifically to test the speed and accuracy of revolver shooters.

Stage one is a target practise, with the targets set at distances of 30 to 60 meters. Stage two is a barricade maze, requiring a minimum of 17 rounds, and stage three is a handgun assault, requiring a minimum of 19 rounds. Stage four is a stress scenario, for which the number of rounds required is unpublished. All shooters are advised to be prepared for anything. Stage five is called easy chair, and requires a minimum of 10 rounds to be fired.

This shoot is open to all revolver shooters as well as law enforcement officers, and the club is anticipating a large turnout. The registration is from 9:00 to 1:00 September 20, and the entry fee is $8.

As well as the trophies for the top three police officers, there will also be trophies for match winner, second, third, fourth and fifth places overall, and first place in B, C, D and novice classes.

"Percs" and quirks

By SHERRY GRIFFITHS

All right Squamish! This is it. I'm issuing a challenge to all your armchair athletes out there to get involved.

The Terry Fox Memorial Run is this Sunday, Sept. 13 at the civic centre. I'm no athlete (if sitting was included in the Olympics, I'd win it... hands down), but I'm going to be there to walk, jog and/or run the six-mile course at the civic centre from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

So far, the Terry Fox Fund has reached $23.7 million. If all of Squamish joined in the run, at $5 a shot, the contribution to the fund would be approximately $50,000. Even in only one-tenth of the population showed up, that would still be $5,000.

It may not sound like a lot, but it is a beginning and combined with the funds from the rest of Canada, it will help research into the causes and treatment of cancer.

Here is some information I picked up from the Canadian Cancer Society.

Every day scientific researchers in Canada are trying to increase their knowledge of the various forms, causes and mechanisms of cancer to cure or prevent the disease one day.

In Canada, the major support for cancer research comes from the National Cancer Institute of Canada. Ninety-five per cent of its income is provided by the Canadian Cancer Society.

The major portion of funds are collected by the society during a campaign in April. Of every dollar donated, 56 cents goes to research, 19 to public education, 14 for services for patients, six cents for fund raising and five cents for administration.

The special fund set up for the Terry Fox Marathon of Hope enabled the society to expand the base of its overall research programs, including the recruitment of young, enthusiastic researchers.

In Canada, the 10 most common cancers in men, from high to low, are skin, lung, prostate, colon, bladder, stomach, rectum, lymphoma, leukemia and pancreas. In women the corresponding order is breast, skin, colon, body of the uterus, cervix uterus, ovary, rectum, lung, stomach and lymphoma.

However, for deaths the order varies with skin particularly being an unimportant cause of death. In men, the order is lung, prostate, colon, stomach, pancreas, leukemia, rectum lymphoma, bladder and brain. In women the order is breast, colon, lung, ovary, stomach, pancreas, lymphoma, leukemia, cervix uterus and rectum.

Cancer causing agents include chemicals by the score, radiation and viruses. The first observation of chemical carcinogenesis (cancer induced by a chemical) was made by Sir Percival Pott in 1775. He noticed chimney sweeps often got cancer of the scrotum. It subsequently proved to be the result of the constant presence of soot in their bodies.

The perplexing and complex character of cancer has caused a lot of misunderstanding. Many people believe all forms of cancer are equally serious and none are curable. A diagnosis of cancer seems to them like a death sentence.

The fact is some forms are much more amenable to treatment than others. Skin cancer is almost 100 per cent curable if treated early enough, but the cure rate for lung cancer is only about six per cent. Both types are largely preventable: Skin cancer by avoiding repeated contact with carcinogens (cancer causing chemicals) and excessive exposure to the sun. Lung cancer by abstaining from cigarette smoking.

Recent figures show more than 50 per cent of Canadians, who report symptoms leading to a diagnosis of cancer, are alive five years later and many of them are cured.

But what is needed is more research and that costs money. Over the years, cancer research funds have risen from $20,000 in 1947 to $11 million in 1978-79.

Don't let the flame die out. Push yourself away from the boob tube on Sunday and help keep the memory of Terry Fox and his dream alive.

Like the song says: The dream never dies...

Four hours and $5 isn't so much to give, is it?

Think about it.

For thousands of Canadians, arthritis research is paying off.

Basic training skills development

Even though in the province of B.C., unemployment is low, for people who do not have grade 10 or 11 or 12, it is very difficult to find a worthwhile job. It is the aim of Capilano College's B.T.S.D.

(Basic Training Skills Development) to upgrade individuals academically to enable them to qualify for employment or for enrollment in specific vocational training programs, or simply for the satisfaction of upgrading themselves.

There are three main areas of study: Communicative English, Applied Math and Basic Science. The program offers both day (starting Oct. 5) and evening (Sept. 15) classes for adult beginners through grade 12. Whether it is basic reading or math you want, a brush up in one subject or a course leading to grade 10 or 12 equivalency certificate, Capilano College's B.T.S.D. program can help you.

For further information, there will be a chance to meet with the instructors at a public meeting on Sept. 15 at 1:00 in the old Forestry Building on the highway, or call the Squamish Learning Centre at 38038 Cleveland 892-5322 and ask for Christie or Susan from 11:00-6:00. (closed 1:00-1:30) Registration is now being accepted.

Making a Lawn

Fall is really the best time to make a new lawn but it is also an excellent time to repair an already existing one. When you have the site thoroughly dug, it's time to add improvements to it.

In the Squamish area where we have so much rain dolomite lime should be added to the ground at the rate of one bag per 1000 square feet of lawn. Soils here are sandy, gravelly or clayey and these require some organic matter; good topsoil, compost or peat to give it body so it can retain nutrients and moisture.

It is also recommended that a good fertilizer, a 3-15-6 be put in the ground and be sure to put peat moss in the top four or five inches of soil to speed up the germination of the seed.

Once the lawn site has been dug over, fertilized and improved to your satisfaction, rake it as evenly as possible and roll it. Again, the ideal for a lawn is to have it sloping very slightly away from the house, especially in areas of heavy rainfall.

Once the lawn is even and the slope is satisfactory, roll it again, as long as the soil is not wet. Rolling a lawn makes it firm over the entire site and if there are any soft spots after you roll it, fill them and roll again.

You may have to repeat the raking, rolling, raking and rolling several times before the soil is smooth as you wish. Walk over the site, look at your footprints and if they sink no deeper than half an inch and are of a uniform depth the site should be ready to plant.

If they are any deeper, start over again, rake the low areas and roll again.

Now you are ready to start with a good standard fertilizer and this is where we recommend a 3-15-6, one which has a high percentage of phosphorus. That will give you a quicker, stronger root development for your grass plants.

Seed mixtures recommended for this area are Playfield or Golf Green and use in the quantities suggested by your local garden centre.

One good tip and one worth remembering is to scatter peat moss over your seed to protect it from the wind and the birds.

Rex Langman, director of nursing, said he plans to start an in-service program for the nurses.

The program will be operated on a "shoe-string budget" and will utilize local nurses, doctors and "the odd clinician" from Lions Gate or St. Paul's hospitals. He said he will also do some lecturing.

The estimated budget for the program for the year is $1,000. Langman said that is the "highest I will go."

Dave Hinds will examine the possibility of stockpiling topsoil for the grounds of the joint facility.

And there there was the gal who said that when she was choosing between two evils she hadn't tried to try, the one she hadn't tried before.

It's a small world!! Nicola Candy, who is taking the nursing course at B.C.I.T. was assigned to a class of eight students to spend the day at Burnaby General and during the coffee break one of the other girls asked Nicola if she came from Squamish and if she knew Tammy Boscarol. "Sure," said Nicola, "she's my cousin." "She can't be," came the answer, "she's my cousin!" When they sorted it all out Nicola discovered her fellow student was Carrie Morrison of Williams Lake, whose father is Anne Boscarol's brother, and of course Willie Boscarol is Nicola's uncle.

A young man who resided here with his parents for several years returned for a visit last week. Doug Lloyd, his wife Sheryl and three month old daughter, Christie of Vernon quite enjoyed their time here.

Those "bridge" people were at another sectional bridge tournament in Bellingham at the end of August. Faith and Oliver Nelson as usual had a fine time. Faith reminds everyone that the bridge club is back in "operation" after recessing for the summer. All former players and newcomers are welcome each Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Elks hall. If you wish further info please call Faith at 898-9005.

Our neighbour, Peter Kirkdale and friend Fritz Orth are an ambitious twosome. They are retracing the wagon road into Bralorne and along the way are enjoying a week of Alpine hiking and fishing.

This Saturday at 1 p.m. you are invited to see a film (55 minutes) entitled "Hi I'm Ann". It is an inspiring film about the life and witness of besting selling author and dynamic Christian Ann Kiemel. It will be shown in the United Church Annex and admission is $1.00. Refreshments and a time of fellowship will follow.

During the summer, Leslie and Kobey Kearney, daughter Mabel, son Colin and Steve Pudney went to South Africa on a four week vacation. Prior to leaving for South Africa, the Kearneys visited relatives in Norway and Sweden.

Tonight the Squamish Arts Council will hold its first general meeting of the season. Applications for grants will be received and the Fall Craft Market discussed. If you are a newcomer to the area and would like further information but are unable to attend the meeting, please call 898-3831.

Birthday wishes are sent this week to Lisa Quinn, Philip Lacoursiere, Jamie Cudmore, Millie Thomas, Skip Beatty, Steven Thomas, Shawna Thompson, Bill Drake, Mitchell White, Chris Billy, Dino Zacharias, Sheila Haffey, Donald Hurford, Bob McKilligan, Maurice Scott, Jackie Elliott, Pat Waldie, Nicole Couturier, Amanda West, Bill Tinney and Timothy Albus. Belated greetings to Marj Mitchell.

A young lady celebrating her first birthday this Saturday is Miss Sharon Malleappah.

Now I admit that going to Laidlaw (near Hope) on your vacation is not guaranteed to turn many people on - that is unless it's at your dear sister's place. None of Beatrice and Lokken Rosenberg's kids are at home anymore but really, Bea should be running a boarding house or a cafe as that gal surely loves to cook and bake and I reckon we did more than our share of eating!!

Have you been over the Hope-Princeton highway recently? Be patient if you haven't and are planning a trip soon. Construction crews are busy working near the slide area and for approximately 10 miles are building a new portion of the highway.

Our next stop was at Kaleden (near Penticton) and a relaxing visit with sister in law, Maria Drybrough and nephew Bruce. What a beautiful location, overlooking Skaha Lake, - it's a hard place to leave! Oh what misery to try and get the old brain into gear after "resting" it for two weeks. My tongue worked overtime though - and George was so patient!!!

Rose was so excited about a young relative winning a gold medal at the B.C. Summer games in Courtenay that she mentioned the wrong brother. Taking all the honours in slalom water skiing was Rick Munro of 108 Mile House.

How did our young people from Squamish do at the Summer games? Watched CTB's 90 minute special on the Saturday and in the 400 metre run, Jackie Everett came in second in her heat and I think 4th overall. Nice going Jackie. How about the swimmers and the black powder gun clubmembers?

Anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Moloughney, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Matheos, Mr. and Mrs. John Toman, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Denney, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brooks, Rev. and Mrs. Jack Lindquist, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Honey, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clarke and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Haraldson.

Mrs. Beatrice Koch wrote the following poem and I thought it might be a good thought for the week: It's entitled "If I Had My Life To Live Over" - I'd dare to make more mistakes next time. I'd relax, I'd limber up. I'd be sillier than I'd been this trip. I'd climb more mountains and swim more rivers. I'd eat more ice cream and less beans. I'd start barefoot earlier in the spring and stay that way later in the fall. I'd go to more dances. I'd ride more merry-go-rounds, I'd pick more daisies. I'd perhaps have more actual troubles but I'd have fewer imaginary ones. More actual troubles but I'd have fewer imaginary ones.

The Ed Glover and Tim Dundas families spent a few days on Broken Island, off the West Coast of Vancouver Island recently.

Any little goodie from the Safety Canada magazine: In Salem, Virginia a lawyer sat in his office awaiting a client who had been charged with impaired driving. There was a sudden crash, the door caved in, and the client, in his automobile, came to a halt in the middle of the lawyer's office. The report does not say whether the driver was again intoxicated, but readers may perhaps draw their own conclusions.

There was a story (front page) in the Province on Friday telling of the terrible disease 13 year old Christopher Shirley is afflicted with. The disease is considered incurable, but there is hope for this young man in a West German clinic. The cost of travel and treatment is estimated at $30,000 and to date the Coquitlam Lions club has raised $22,000 and local 170 Plumbers and Pipefitters have donated $700. Christopher's great aunt, Marj Mitchell lives in Squamish and she is well aware of the suffering he had and is still going through. If you wish to make a donation mail it to the Coquitlam Community Lions Club, 7658 Hedley Avenue, Burnaby V5E 2R3.

When you return to work after holiday time has ended doesn't it make you feel good when fellow workers, say how pleased they are to see you back??? Or perhaps there's an ulterior motive in their greetings and what they are really saying is, "Thank goodness I don't have to bother to do her (his) work anymore!!!"

Well whatever the reason gang, I must say thank you for keeping ye olde column full of news. By the looks of the paper, you didn't miss me too much.

Visitors to Stuttgart, Germany during July and August were Rainer and Joanna Scharwz and children, Monica and Michael. They were guests of Rainer's mother and other relatives.

The Terry Fox Run for the Marathon of Hope will be held at Brennan Park this Sunday, September 13 between 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Coordinator, Roger Dufty would really like to see more entries and he said even though it is a 10km "Run" you are certainly welcome to walk, jog, crawl and of course, run. Pick up your entry form at the Times office or civic centre. Pledge sheets are also available. Remember the winner in this Run will be the Cancer Research fund.

Ken and Jill Webb and family were pleased to have his aunt and uncle visiting them last weekend from Bothel, Washington. The Webbs also managed to spend a couple of days at Pender Harbour visiting Jill's sister and brother in law.

A four week vacation to Italy was an interesting experience for Gian and Jody Mameli. Before they returned home they stopped off in Winnipeg to visit former residents, Howie and Sandra Metzler.

Any horse owners interested in forming a riding club is asked to attend a meeting on Wednesday, September 16 at 8 p.m. at the home of Sheila Hurford, 1654 East Depot in Brackendale. If you wish further information please call Anne at 898-3815 after 6 p.m.

Mildred and Bill Campbell visited Manitoba in August when they drove Mildred's sister, Florence Stainthorpe back to Melita. The Campbells had a great time on the prairies what with sightseeing and visiting old friends.

Couple wed at Pinecrest resort

The grassy lawn at the shore of Pinecrest Lake was the scene of a wedding on Saturday, Sept. 5 when Francis Mary Gray and William Charles Rose were united in marriage by Rev. Jack Lindquist of Squamish.

Residents of the Pinecrest area where Rose has been caretaker for the past seven years, with friends and relatives, witnessed the ceremony which took place at 2 p.m.

The bride chose a pale green polyester floor length gown with round neck and long, full chiffon sleeves for her wedding gown. She carried a nosegay of yellow roses, white chrysanthemums and creamy yellow daisies.

Heather Houston as her mother's matron of honor, wore a white street length gown with scalloped lace trim at the neck and a white orchid corsage and Connie Gray, as her mother's bridesmaid wore a white blouse with a plaid skirt and a white orchid corsage.

Jack Fenton was the best man. A reception on the lawn by the lakeshore followed the wedding with Jack Fenton acting as master of ceremonies and Jim McGinnis proposed the toast to the bride.

Following their honeymoon in Lake Tahoe and Reno the couple are planning to make their home at Pinecrest.

Relatives attending the wedding were the groom's mother Mrs. Emily Rose of Barrie, Ont.; his sister, Mrs. Elinor Moat and her son Cliff, also from Barrie; and the bride's mother, Mrs. Elsie Jones of Coquitlam.

Local family adopts Guatemalan foster child

Ramiro Reyes Castro has been adopted by the Fleming family of Brackendale, through the Foster Parents Plan of Canada.

Ramiro Reyes Castro may just have a chance in life.

The 12-year-old boy lives in Vado Ancho, El Progreso, Guatemala and is the foster child of Kathleen Fleming and family of Brackendale.

Fleming adopted Ramiro "just because Mom always did it." Her mother, who passed away late last year, adopted a family in the Philippines through the Foster Parents Plan of Canada. Instead of sending birthday and Christmas presents to her grandchildren she pooled the money and sent it to the family.

When her mother passed away, Fleming said she continued to support the Filipino family until they wrote and said they did not need the money.

One of the children also wrote that he loved her mother, Fleming said. "Mother would have loved to see that."

She added the two families still exchange letters.

Her daughter then picked Guatemala from a list of countries the Foster Parent Plan had drawn up.

Fleming's monthly contribution helps not only the foster child, but his family and the community.

The objective is not dependency, but to help the family become independent and self-supporting, through programs of medical and dental care, vocational training and counselling by social workers.

All programs are adapted to the needs of the people and tend to be concentrated in rural areas where the whole community can benefit through the provision of wells, schools and much more.

Education is stressed, and all school-age members of foster families are encouraged to attend school.

Foster parents are advised annually of the family's progress and regular exchange of letters builds a warm and meaningful relationship.

Ramiro has lived with his grandmother since he was two years old. His parents gave him to his grandmother because she was alone. His grandfather is dead.

Ramiro has dark eyes and hair and is of medium height. He is attending fourth grade in primary school where he studies Spanish, arithmetic, social studies, natural science, gymnastics and singing.

The family's main expenditures, which include food, household fuel, clothes, health care and school expenses, are approximately $30 per month. His grandmother, Maria Castro, sells fruit for a monthly income of $30, which she contributes to the household.

Fleming said it "sort of make you have a second look at what your life is about."

She added "would not mind" visiting Ramiro if she could get the time off.

For more information write the organization at 153 St. Clair Ave. West, Toronto, Ont. M4V 1P8 or call toll free 112-800-268-7174 any time.

SORORITY TO SPONSOR ARTHRITIC CAMPAIGN

Zi Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi is sponsoring the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society's campaign in Squamish during the month of September.

The volunteers will be calling on people in Squamish but it may not be possible to call at every home. If you are missed, it would be appreciated if you would send your contributions to the Arthritic Campaign, Box 231, Brackendale.

The Beta Sigma Phi is looking for more volunteers to assist with the canvass. If you are willing to contribute your time and energy to this important cause, please call Ann London at 898-5011 or 898-5828.

Buying school supplies

Now that the kids are heading back to the classrooms, parents are heading to local shopping centres, with their lists of the young students' required supplies.

Though readily available throughout the year, school supplies take on a new meaning towards the end of the summer holiday, when the demand for them reaches its peak, and they are heavily advertised and displayed.

The difficulties associated with shopping in the large crowds that are typical at this time of year, are minor when compared to the choices and decisions faced in purchasing the supplies.

With such an assortment of products available in a wide variety of sizes, colours, and designs, and at varying prices, how can you ensure that you're shopping wisely and getting good value for the money you spend? Here are some points to consider:

—Before you go on your shopping trip, check the supplies left from last year, and cross off anything on the list that your child already has.

—Remember, the retailer sets the prices, so what you pay for an item can vary a little or a lot from one store to another. Check the ads and watch for sales and specials.

—When purchasing supplies for classes such as art, home economics, industrial arts, or physical education, find out if discounts are available on student purchases, either by school board arrangement, or as a matter of store policy. Before purchasing such items, find out the store's return policy, so that you'll know where you stand if goods purchased are defective or, for some reason, unacceptable to the teacher.

—Shop when crowds are at a minimum, if possible, and when you are not pressed for time. If you are relaxed and uncrowded, you can shop comparatively and make wise purchases without too much time and effort.

—If buying supplies for more than one child, consider buying items such as loose leaf paper, note books, or pencils in larger packages, or "econopaks", and dividing them among the children as required. But before you buy, remember to first use a little arithmetic to make sure that buying in quantity really does represent a saving over buying individually or in smaller sizes.

If your child will be accompanying you, remember that the array of school supplies abounds with cartoon characters and novelty items, which will undoubtedly be the preference of most children.

To avoid buying unnecessary items, and added expense, stick to your list, and counsel your child about wise buying habits in a manner that he or she can understand.

Use the shopping trip as a learning experience, demonstrating how you compare prices and quality, and pointing out the added expense of such features as elaborate packaging and novelty designs.

Letting your child participate in comparing and choosing the school supplies, and guiding him or her towards the best choice, could be a very valuable exercise, providing you don't let your child guide you!

The Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band is beginning its fourth season in Squamish. More members, both pipers and drummers are required. If you are interested in joining please contact Pipe Major Ian Walker (892-5484) for further information.

Pipe Band: Starts New Season

The Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band begins its fourth season of operations with an offer to train new members as pipers or drummers. Lessons will be available to men or women, boys or girls, who wish to learn to play the bagpipe, or any of the three drums used in a pipe band: the side drum, tenor drum and bass drum.

If any persons are interested, they should contact Ian Walker at 892-5484, for further information. Three band members furthered their musical studies this summer by attending the Western Academy of Pipe Music summer school, operated by Pioneer Chehalis Camp, near Agassiz. Pipers Jim Wright and Scott Mercs, and Side Drummer Jimmy Walker attended the school, which operated in 1979 and 1980 at Paradise Valley. All three came away greatly inspired, and more skilled in their art. Special thanks should be given to the Squamish Community Arts Council, who gave the band a grant to assist in the tuition of these three students. If any community groups wish to make use of the band, they are also asked to contact Pipe Major Walker at 892-5484.

New Restaurant Now Open

Squamish's newest restaurant, the Vera Cruz, in the new mall on Tantalus Way, opened yesterday.

Taso, your host and owner of the new restaurant, and Kary, are proud of the latest addition to the dining centres in the valley and are looking forward to meeting many of the people in Squamish in the next few weeks.

Taso, who owned a restaurant in Maple Ridge for many years, told the Times last week that it had long been his dream to open up a restaurant here. "I drove up to Whistler some time ago," he said, "and stopped in Squamish. I liked it so much I wanted to open a restaurant here in this valley with so many beautiful mountains."

Kary, who is the chef, has worked locally for a number of years, and also in Vancouver, and brings a great deal of experience to his new job.

The restaurant will seat 114 people and will also cater to private parties and banquets and offer a catering service as well. They will also be delighted to arrange a special dinner party for you and your guests.

The restaurant will open for lunch at 11 a.m. every day of the week but closing hours are at 12 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 1:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and on Sundays and holidays 11 p.m.

The Vera Cruz is a warm and inviting restaurant with white stucco walls and brown wood decor; warm red, brown and white rug on the floor and the brown chairs upholstered in striped material in the same shades white red tablecloths deck the tables.

Brick insets in the walls add to the decor and hanging baskets with plants make it seem more rustic. Brown drapes accent the windows.

A special feature of the dining room are the separate raised areas which can be used for private parties if desired.

Paintings, one of Shannon Falls, another of Greece and one of Vera Cruz and a ferry boat adorn the walls along with some pictures of Greek scenes. The wooden bar with shelves of gleaming glassware is a focal point in the room.

Try the Vera Cruz for your next dining out experience. They will be glad to see you and make you welcome.

Buildings more than just four walls

Some people look at a building and see only four walls, a roof and a floor.

Other will see the architectural design, the year it was built and any possible renovations.

Ann Rosenberg, an instructor at Capilano College, will be teaching contemporary architecture at the Second Ave. centre starting Monday, Sept. 14.

The course introduces people to architecture and helps them to appreciate and think about it.

Rosenberg said she thinks "everyone should know something about architecture and have an appreciation of styles, origins and ideas."

Vancouver's past and present buildings will be used as a "jumping off point for development of architectural types. Once you understand and know, you will be able to say 'Ah ha!' that is a building from the 50s, this looks like a 19th century building, for these reasons."

Vancouver is a multi-cultural place and students will look at the northwest coast Indian, west coast Indian, oriental and "some other curious influences on the environment."

She said she hopes students will not only be reading about architecture, but looking at the typography, fences and roofs as "indicators of tastes at different periods."

For instance, a building can be dated by the use of shiny tiles or glass bricks in its structure.

The course may sound "heavy" and "academic", but it is not intended to be.

Rosenberg said one of the assignments would be for the student to design an "ideal room."

"This will be a challenge to people who are not artistically gifted, but ingenuity in solving the problem will be given a sort of respect."

For a research paper, a student might interview someone who is involved in architectural planning, "rather than do book type research."

A minimum of one day trip will be made to Vancouver to see the anthropological museum at UBC, the new Erickson court house complex at Robson Square, downtown business buildings, and buildings in Chinatown and Gastown.

Rosenberg is an "art historian by profession" but she has been interested in architecture for a long time. She is familiar with development in general in art and architecture.

"But some art historians like architecture in particular and I am one of those."

She graduated from the University of Toronto with a masters degree in fine arts in 1962. She was the art critic for the Vancouver Sun from 1966 to 1968 and has also worked at the Vancouver Art Gallery as an education officer. She has taught at Capilano College for 11 years, as well as at UBC and SFU.

"I am also one of the editors of quite a classy magazine, the Capilano Review."

Currently, she is writing a book on architecture, which will be available to the students, as well as a collection of photographs.

For more information call Rosenberg collect at 263-6693 between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m.

MINI REFRESHER COURSE AT CAPILANO COLLEGE

Two mornings a week students can attend a Mini Refresher Course in Math and English, to be held at the Second Avenue building. There is a formal yet friendly atmosphere in the classes, where everyone works at his or her own pace.

This is an ideal program to prepare to write the G.E.D. (General Educational Development) program where the successful writing of this test gives a student a Grade 12 Equivalency Diploma. Students may also use the Mini Refresher Course to prepare to write the E.P.T. (English Placement Test) which enables students to participate in English at colleges and universities in the future. The only prerequisite in your favorite coffee cup!!

For further information and registration, call Christie or Susan at 892-5322 or visit us at the Squamish Learning Centre on 38038 Cleveland from 11:00-6:00 (closed from 1:00-1:30). See you soon.

INSURANCE CORPORATION OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

OPERATION HIGH-GEAR

... a program planned to clear the backlog of claims resulting from the recent strike and to deal with new claims which continue at the rate of approximately 2,000 each day.

APPOINTMENTS REQUIRED

■ A key feature of "Operation High-Gear" is an appointment system which will reduce line-ups and delays at Claim Offices and enable claims to be settled with maximum efficiency.

■ All claimants are required to complete an Appointment Request Card and mail or deliver it to the nearest ICBC Claim Office.

This includes all motorists who have a claim resulting from an accident before, during or after the strike, or one that was reported during the strike.

ONE EXCEPTION ONLY

■ Emergency glass damage claims will continue to be handled by glass replacement shops temporarily. Therefore, motorists who have a claim for glass damage only, are requested to go to a glass replacement shop.

When an Appointment Request Card is received at the Claim Office, the claimant will be contacted as soon as possible and a convenient appointment will be arranged.

■ Appointment Request Cards are available at Autoplan Agents, Motor Vehicle Branches, body shops throughout the Province, and any of the Claim Offices of the Insurance Corporation.

■ Appointments will be scheduled according to the date of the accident. Non-driveable vehicles will receive first consideration.

NON-DRIVEABLE VEHICLES

Damaged vehicles now in storage compounds will be towed directly to a body shop where damage will be estimated and repairs completed.

DAMAGED-BUT-DRIVEABLE VEHICLES

When an Appointment Request Card is received, arrangements will be made to estimate the damage and have repairs completed.

TRANSFORMER CAUSE OF POWER OUTAGE
Power was out for a section of the Squamish area on Tuesday morning when a transformer blew at the Weldwood Empire Lumber operation.
Plant manager Al Siemens said a transformer that was installed last year, blew, when some changes were being made, and caused an outage.
The company removed the faulty transformer and was able to work around it in order to be able to start up as scheduled on Tuesday.
Siemens said the plant would start up at about 25 percent capacity and the planer mill would be operating two shifts. He hoped to be able to increase capacity and keep the operation going but stressed that the market was poor.

Night school offers courses

Eighty-four different courses are offered at night school this winter by the school district. They range from airbrakes theory to yoga, and include the theoretical, the practical, the artistic, the esoteric, the transcendental and the religious. Fees range from mere nominal payments to $50 for a course in microcomputer technique and $70 for the 16-hour course in airbrake theory.

are covered in eight Wednesday evening sessions for $25. Amateur prospecting and gold panning are dealt with in a weekend course, and for the person who wants to build his own home there are two courses of 10 sessions each, one in blue-print reading, the other in contracting one's own home.

For the new citizen of the country there are Canadian citizenship classes, conversational French, conversational Spanish, and even classes in English. There is also instruction in Chinese cooking and in using micro-wave ovens.

The ministerial association of Squamish is offering a four-session seminar on death and dying, and another on preparation for Christian marriage. Courses helping to fill in the time between these two mortal landmarks cover such things as bookkeeping, bridge, cake decorating, bee keeping, calligraphy, dog obedience, home bartending, building self esteem, acquiring self-awareness, and something called effective parenting.

There are also sessions on establishing businesses, salesmanship, personal financial management, and how to avoid income taxes—legally. There is no fee at all for the sessions on wills and estates and on the law in buying and selling a home.

These courses, and a great many others, are all outlined in the latest booklet issued by the school board and available at the board office, Second Ave., or by phoning 892-5228.

Most classes will start during the week of September 21. Organizers have pointed out however, that the classes in modern jazz dance will not begin until October 22, since the instructor, Lynette Kelly, has been invited to Brazil as an examiner for the Royal Academy of Dance. It is also noted that the sessions on starting one's own business, selling, and personal financial management will be held earlier than the rest. September 14, 15 and 17 are the dates for these.

SCOUTS, CUBS & BEAVERS
FROM EAST HOWE SOUND

"Between the innocence of babyhood and dignity of manhood we find a delightful creature called a boy. Boys come in assorted sizes, weights and colors, but all boys have the same creed; to enjoy every second of every minute of every hour of every day and to protest with noise..." The man who wrote that surely knew boys! And, indeed, boys is what the Scouting movement is all about.

The Scouting program is designed with a boy's needs, desires and capabilities in mind and offers him action, variety, challenges, an anchoring influence and, perhaps best of all, friendship.

Boys need the challenge of outdoors. Camps, cookouts, hikes, canoeing are exciting outdoor activities that are enjoyed by the boys throughout the year. Outdoor activities are the basis of the Scouting program because they appeal to today's youth and there is no limit to the activities, both indoor and out, that fascinate the young Scouter. The program is designed to keep in step with a boy's age and interests and provides a very positive "learning and living" experience. No boy ever voluntarily joined the Boy Scouts, or anything else, to be "made a good citizen." He joins for the fun and the adventure he expects to find hiking, camping, canoeing and in the 101 things that Scouting offers.

Baden-Powell in his 'Handbook for Scouts' phrases it rather neatly. "From the boy's point of view Scouting puts them into fraternity-gangs which is their natural organization, whether for games, mischief or loafing; it gives them equipment; it appeals to their imagination and romance; and it engages them in an active, open-air life."

At the present time the East Howe Sound District offers to boys four levels of the Scouting program. Beavers encompass the five to seven year olds and like their older brothers, Scouting Beavers need to be out. They have picnics, visit local parks and learn about their community with visits to the firehall and areas of local interest. They participate in games, handicrafts and every manner of activity that appeals to these young Scouters.

For boys aged 8 to 10 there is the Wolf Cub program. These youngsters enjoy their rambles, wiener roasts, ball games, winter sports and tours of their community. As well they acquire skills and crafts that will serve them for a lifetime. It is a rewarding experience to see 8 to 10 year olds try new outdoor activities, cooking over an open fire, finding the path with his compass or just keeping the canoe from going in circles. The 'Grand Howl', the campfire by the lake or river; these are the badge of the Wolf Cub.

The Scouts, those boys aged 11 to 14 have always enjoyed their hikes, tours, canoeing and camping and they enjoy the outdoors today as much as they ever did. They hold a variety of camps, take overnight hikes and engage in exciting wide games. The Scouts in the community really enjoy these activities and are active the year round.

Venturers are open to youth aged 14 to 17 and their field is more open. They enjoy wilderness canoe trips, mountain climbing, in fact, almost any challenging outdoor activity there is. Their leader is called a Venturer advisor and their activities are more independent and personally challenging.

The district invites you to join the members on Thursday evening, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the civic centre for the Scouting program presentation. The organization will acquaint you with all aspects of the program that the movement has to offer your son. This is also registration night and there will be Scouters present from all groups in the Squamish area available to answer your questions and to show you Scouting in action.

A final note to remind you of the skate and sports equipment swap to be held in the civic centre on Saturday, Sept. 19, from 10:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Please note the change in date from the previously announced date of September 12. Due to unforeseen circumstances it has been advanced one week. This will give you one more week to gather up that used equipment and plan for this winter's needs. Ten per cent of the proceeds will be donated to the district Scouting program and your support can be of benefit to everyone.

That new date again, Saturday, Sept. 19, from 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. at the civic centre.

Court News

The following cases appeared in police court in Squamish before Judge C.I. Walker last week.

On Aug. 31, Gerald Noganosh, charged with driving while under suspension by the Motor Vehicle Branch, was sentenced to seven days in prison.

On Sept. 1, Harold Peters charged with driving with a blood alcohol reading of over .08 per cent, was fined $300, in default 14 days in prison.

Robin Owen appeared on three charges. Dangerous driving for which he received a $500 fine, in default 30 days in prison, and one year unsupervised probation with conditions; for no insurance, he was fined $250 and for failing to have a driver's licence he received an additional $35 fine.

Kelly Anderson, charged with common assault, received a suspended sentence and nine months unsupervised probation.

Robert Jackson, charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident, was fined $50.

Peter Roberts, charged as a minor in possession of liquor, was fined $50.

Amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act

A number of amendments to the Motor Vehicle Act will result in tough driving laws in early 1982 to reduce the number of motor vehicle accidents on B.C.'s highway system. The emphasis will be on fines and jail terms in addition to points for the bad driver.

Penalties will be based on the type of offence and the number of points for traffic rule offences recorded in the past year.

A driver with less than 3 points on his record will be assigned points only.

A driver with 3 to 8 points will be assessed additional points and receive a fine.

A driver with 9 or more points will be required to attend court, be assessed a minimum fine of $100 and assigned points.

A driver with 15 or more points will be prohibited from driving a motor vehicle by the court for a mandatory period of two months in addition to a fine and points.

Any prohibition from driving will apply to highways and industrial roads. The court will review a driver's record in each case to establish the penalty which may include a prohibition order.

Present legislation covering 24 hour roadside prohibitions will be amended to include a driver whose ability is affected by drugs or where the blood alcohol level is at .05. These occurrences will be included on the driver's record for review by the courts of the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles.

Drivers convicted of driving while prohibited and criminal offences such as impaired driving will receive a mandatory six month probation from driving.

Motorists convicted of driving while prohibited will receive on a first conviction a minimum fine of $300 and seven days in jail and on second conviction a minimum fine of $300 and 14 days in jail. At time of apprehension, the vehicle will be impounded regardless of ownership, for a 24 hour period.

The Superintendent of Motor Vehicles will monitor the driving habits of particular drivers through the use of short term drivers' licences. These may be issued to drivers completing a term of prohibition or to a new driver.

Driving offences committed by B.C. motorists in other areas will be included in the residents' driving record which could lead to a prohibition from driving.

A new offence of driving 30 km over the posted speed limit will result in fines ranging from $100 to $2,000 and a possible court prohibition from driving.

These amendments will not affect the responsible drivers of B.C. but will increase the penalties for those who continually disregard our traffic rules and regulations and make it safer for our citizens to travel the highways.

ask about the forest

A Dawson Creek reader, Mr. Joe Deak, asks the following question:

Who invented the "Tree Snipper" or mechanical tree shear? Because it splits the butt of the tree and is wasteful, I would like to know why its use is permitted.

The mechanical tree shear (tree snipper) was first devised around 1965 by the Roanoke Company in the United States. It consisted of a simple blade which was forced against an anvil by a hydraulic piston and was similar in action to what could be imagined as a giant garden pruner.

This device for cutting trees offers a positive feature — it has the ability to cut lower stumps than other mechanical fallers, such as the chain saw. But, as you point out, the shear frequently splits the butt (lower trunk where tree is cut), especially in winter when the wood is frozen.

Over the years many modifications of the design have been tried in an effort to overcome this problem. These have included the addition of ribbing to the blade, changing the angle of the cut, and using two blades instead of the anvil arrangement. In general, the modifications have brought about an improvement, but the degree of splitting still remains higher than that experienced with the auger head and various chain saw heads, which can also cut larger trees.

However, in most cases the shatter extends only 12 to 16 inches up the butt and this may be compensated for by the machine's capacity to cut much lower stumps than hand fallers, especially in cases where the snow is deep. Even in the coldest weather conditions, maximum waste is not more than approximately 5 percent of the usable lumber volume in the tree.

Nevertheless, you are justified in your concern. It is hoped that research will result in the development of newer models that will some day eliminate the splitting.

A Salmon Arm reader, Mrs. Eileen Underhill, has asked the following question:

How do our B.C. Conifers pollinate and reproduce?

The general pattern of the reproductive cycle of our B.C. coniferous trees is as follows: In the spring, certain buds on a mature conifer will develop into cones. On each tree, some will be male, some female. The smaller male cones (or strobili) which produce the pollen are usually to be found near the bottom of the crown. The larger and more obvious female cones produce the seed and are normally located near the ends of the branches and at the top of the tree.

During the spring, the wind blows pollen from the male cones to neighbouring trees where it is readily accepted by female cones on trees of the same species. (Pollen from male cones will not normally fertilize the female cones on the same individual tree, due mainly to the way they are placed.)

Depending on the tree species, the Block Parent Association is sponsoring an educational evening in conjunction with its annual meeting about the hazards of hitchhiking.

the seed that develops in the female cones will mature in one or two seasons. For instance, pines require two seasons while hemlock, Douglas-fir and spruce take only one season to ripen.

Once the cone and seed have matured, the seed is released and scattered by the wind, with dispersal aided by wing-like structures on the seeds.

Send your questions about the forest and forestry to Ask about the Forest, c/o Canadian Forestry Association of B.C., 410 - 1200 West Pender Street, Vancouver, B.C. V6E 2S9. A professional forester will reply and a book prize will be sent to each person submitting a question that is published. This column is a joint project of the Canadian Forestry Association of B.C. and the Association of B.C. Professional Foresters.

arts council news

The first meeting of the Council for the 1981/82 season being held tonight will be prepared to receive completed applications from those groups wishing financial assistance for the coming year. All group representatives should be in attendance to pick up and/or complete their applications which must be returned to Alida Hoogenboom (898-3362) by September 30.

Council is looking forward to a busy season and the first report from the craft market committee will be submitted by Jane Iverson, council president. Input by the general membership is welcomed and a special effort to attend should be made by all interested artists and craftsmen to make their suggestions known for a bigger and better market.

A tentative market date has been set for Saturday, November 14 and applications for registration will be ready shortly. Please read Arts and Council news in the next issue of the Times.

Hitchhiking---a game of chance

The Block Parent Association is sponsoring an educational evening in conjunction with its annual meeting about the hazards of hitchhiking.

A film entitled 'Hitchhiking' will be shown and it is suitable for teenagers as well as parents. The guest speaker will be Constable Jim Hunter from the Squamish RCMP detachment. A discussion period will follow with questions welcomed from anyone in attendance.

The Block Parents have been in Squamish for five years and has been used on many occasions. There are 114 Block Parents available to the community and many are needed as the community is growing rapidly.

What is a Block Parent? He or she is a concerned citizen, screened by the police and ready and available to assist someone needing help. Parents are given a sign to place in their window when they are available to answer their door.

Working people are not exempted from this programme even though they are not available during peak school times as they are then available at alternate times.

Apart from Block Parents, area leaders and coordinators are also required to make this programme function. Judi Jenkins and Liv Hendrickson have completed their terms as coordinators and replacements are being sought to extend the life of the programme. With the growing numbers of violent crimes against innocent children, a programme such as Block Parents should not be lost to an apathetic community.

Please plan to attend the Annual meeting on Monday, September 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Mamquam School. Show your care!
