

Board concerned with next year's budget costs

The board of school trustees for Howe Sound School District No. 48 is very concerned with possible cutbacks in next year's school budget.

The 1982 budget was $10,408,311, reduced to $9,906,818. From August to December of this year, $48,000 will be taken each month from the account which had been approved in the additional restraints.

The projected operating budget for 1983 is $10,126,567. However, the 1983 acceptable operating budget is $9,524,761, so the budget is $601,806 more than the acceptable amount.

Even with a reduction of five working days as per Bill 89, the excess will be $401,806.

The operating budget is made up of teachers' and other salaries plus other expenses, with salaries making up 85 per cent of the budget, 60 per cent of it for teachers alone.

The teachers' contract comes up for renewal this year but the CUPE contract has one more year to run so there can be no changes in it.

There are a number of increased costs over which the board has no control. These include the CUPE contract, hydro, gas, B.C.

Telephone and increased costs for supplies and materials.

The board has held preliminary budget discussions on October 27 but decisions will not be made without public and staff input between now and February when the budget is finalized and there is a full board.

There may be further changes as new information arrives from the ministry. Often information emanating from the minister, William Vander Zalm, through the various media is not actually confirmed in the manner in which he has stated it.

This makes the board's job more difficult as it is forced to react to situations when it is trying to plan responsibly for restraint in the coming year.

The board's position is that cutting programs and laying off staff is the last resort. There is no indication that any programs cut in this period of restraint will ever be reinstated.

In reference to education cost sharing and the property tax per pupil, the board has compiled some interesting statistics for the other provinces from Ontario west.

B.C. had a provincial grant per pupil of $1,126 prior to the July 30 reductions, with the grant amounting to $1,043 following July 30. In that same period, the property tax per pupil was the same $2,157. In Alberta, the corresponding figures were $2,391 for the provincial grant, $1,460 for the property tax; in Saskatchewan, $1,751 and $1,552; in Manitoba, $1,542 and $1,303 and in Ontario, it is $1,635 for the provincial grant and $1,597 for the property tax per pupil.

As can be seen by the above figures, B.C. charges the highest property tax per pupil with the smallest grant for the pupils.

In cost sharing before restraint, the government paid 34.3 per cent with the residential and commercial property owners paying 65.7 per cent. After restraint, these figures changed to 32.6 per cent and 67.4 per cent.

By comparison, the Alberta government pays 62.1 per cent, Saskatchewan, 53 per cent and 47 per cent; Manitoba, 52.4 per cent and 45.8 per cent and Ontario, 50.6 per cent and 49.4 per cent. In each case, the governments of the four other provinces pay the larger proportion of the cost through grants.

Fears ebbed as rivers drop

The rain gave little reprieve in the week between October 21 and last Thursday, but the Cheakamus River and an open drainage ditch in Brackendale were the main trouble spots.

The municipality received a few complaints from people who cannot figure out why dyking and pumps are being done the way they are, but no one complained of water in basements with one exception, according to the district office.

The drainage ditch is between Horse Creek and Judd Slough and some residents have complained about it being open and presenting a safety hazard.

Public works superintendent John Payne says eventually the ditch will be filled in, but for now it will stay open. Getting dykes and pumps in place to prevent an onslaught similar to last year has been the number one priority.

Work was being done on the Cheakamus River where water came over the road last week above the North Vancouver Outdoor School. Last Tuesday night and Wednesday, the district was trying to reinforce "the little bit of dyke that's there."

Gravel was taken out of the river to lower the bed which might help alleviate the problem somewhat in the future.

"It's not the final answer, but it might help some," Payne said, adding that it is a "chewing gum" solution for the bigger problem.

He estimates $1 million would be needed to do the job properly on the Cheakamus, but there is no money.

"You give me the money and I'll move a mountain," he quipped.

A resident at the bottom end of Judd Road has written a letter to the district regarding water surrounding his house and in his basement, but the district maintains that is not its responsibility as it is private property. The letter will come up in the near future at a council meeting.

And the outright grant of $75,000 Squamish has been allotted from Victoria will not be used until clearing can be done and gravel can be obtained.

The grant must be spent on the south bank of the Mamquam River between the BCR bridge and the gravel pit, but first the existing dyke has to be cleared of brush. Also, it is intended gravel will come out of the riverbed of the Mamquam.

Now that will have to wait. When the water came up October 22, fish went upstream and deposited eggs which are now in the gravel of the lowered riverbed. So even though the water is down, gravel bars cannot be touched until the eggs have hatched.

Gravel will be taken from under both the old and new bridges on the Mamquam River.

In addition, Victoria has no more money to offer Squamish for the Squamish River dyke. However, according to reports from Environment Minister Stephen Rogers and MLA Allan Williams, when they visited Squamish recently, they will look to other ministries for further funds.

Fireworks and Hallowe'en are synonymous and this year was no exception. The display at the civic Centre lit up the sky Saturday.

WELDWOOD DOWN FOR FIRST TIME IN 1982

Lack of sales for wood chips has forced Weldwood's Empire Lumber division to close down for the first time this year.

The sawmill shut down October 25 and the planer mill went down Friday throwing, in total, about 120 people out of work until November 8.

"It's because we haven't been able to sell our chips," said Al Siemens, manager of the mill.

He added there is a possibility down time will occur again the last two weeks in December, but that remains to be seen.

Blood clinic sets new record

The Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic, held last Wednesday, Oct. 27, set a new record with 322 people donating. Three hundred and fifty-eight people registered at the desk for but various reasons some of them could not donate.

This topped the spring clinic when 296 people donated blood and set a record.

The Squamish Lions Club, which sponsors the clinic, had been hoping for 350 but were delighted to come to close and will be trying to top this record next spring when the next clinic is held.

Allan Houillebecq, president of the Squamish Lions Club, said he was delighted with the response from the community and with the people who came out and volunteered their services to assist with the clinic.

The Blood Cup, symbolic of the most donations from any one company, was won by the BCR team which had 17 donors.

Three draw prizes were awarded with Linda Czegledi winning the $25 food hamper from Super Valu, John Gunia the $25 food hamper from Overwaitea and Evelyn Schnurr the Texas Mickey.

ALL CANDIDATES MEETING RESCHEDULED TO NOV. 10

The all candidates meeting, reported last week as set for November 8, had to be moved to November 10.

It will still begin at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Civic Centre, but the date had to be changed because of prior programming in the building November 8.

The format of the public forum for candidates in the November 20 election has not been changed.

Those running for school board will have the floor from 7 to 7:30 p.m., to be followed by aldermanic candidates from 7:30 to 8:15 and mayoralty hopefuls between 8:15 and 9 p.m.

Moira Biggin-Pound, Dorlean Haynes, Margaret Marchant, Terrill Patterson, Heather Pattullo and Don Wilson are running for school board.

Louie De Vent, Joanne Dheilly, Chuck Harvey and Dave Stewart, along with incumbents Al Bird and Hugh Carleton, are the candidates for alderman.

Jim Elliott, Debra McAteer, Terrill Patterson and Bill Street are looking for position of mayor.

Good attendance at first diabetes symposium

There was a good attendance at the first "Sea-toks" Diabetes Symposium held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Squamish on Saturday, October 25.

Dr. John Hunt, a world-renowned internist, who is a member of an international panel and left this week for an international congress on diabetes in Nairobi, spoke in the afternoon.

He discussed a visit to Kenya four years ago, where a similar congress was held and spoke about meeting some of the experts in the field of diabetes. Among them were his former teacher, Professor George Alberti who, in addition to his work on the artificial pancreas, is the editor of the international journal on diabetes.

Dr. Hunt also spoke on new methods of monitoring the disease; the closed loop system, the open loop infusion system (which is not as good) and other discoveries.

In Kenya, they visited a Masai village, toured the Rift Valley, saw how diabetes is treated in their hospitals which do not have the advantages we do and how they managed to control it without our sophisticated methods of treatment.

Dr. John Hunt, guest speaker at the diabetes symposium, receiving a cheque from Michael Jordan of Connaught Laboratories to further work on diabetes.

He touched on some of the newest discoveries about the disease; how research says we have 48 chromosomes, linked together in 24 pairs. Everything is determined by these chromosomes. Each gene programs the cell for a specified protein; some of these genes are susceptible to diseases. If you have a susceptible gene, you will get diabetes; if you have a resistant gene, you will be lucky and escape it.

Dr. Hunt said the Diabetes Federation has been asked to send teams of doctors to visit some of the underdeveloped countries to teach in the smaller centres.

"If you are going to be stuck with diabetes," he said, "you couldn't be stuck with it in a better country than Canada."

"In Canada, you get the best treatment and can live longer and more normal lives than in any other country in the world."

He pointed out that the quality and grade of insulin in Canada is uniform.

"In Kenya, you take what insulin you can get. It varies and this can cause serious repercussions." Following his talk, Michael Jordan of Connaught Laboratories presented Dr. Hunt with a cheque for his work.

Other speakers in the afternoon included Dr. Timothy Yateak, a podiatrist who is consultant to the Squamish General Hospital. He spoke on the importance of the care of the feet and illustrated it with some slides showing foot problems.

"If you leave here today with nothing more than the knowledge that there's something at the end of your body, I will have accomplished something."

He warned the audience that if they let things get out of hand, they are heading for trouble with their feet.

Other speakers included Dr. Richard Cudmore, who spoke on stress in today's world; Irene Bayers from Lions Gate Hospital who discussed the importance of diet, exercise, etc.; John Dillabough, hospital administrator; Sheila Zoltay, diabetes assessment nurse and dietician Elizabeth Lange.

Some people were turned away from the blood donor clinic Wednesday at the Civic Centre, but there was still a record turnout.

the Times

Candidates say experience helps

Two candidates in the November 20 election, who were not interviewed for the October 26 issue of The Times, want their opinions known.

Molra Biggin-Pound, running for a two-year term on school board and Dave Stewart, up for election as an alderman on municipal council, talked to The Times this week. Don Wilson, school board candidate, in the race for a one-year term, could not be reached for comment.

Biggin-Pound points out she has been on the school board for two years and "I find that the experience I have gained has been of real value in these difficult times."

She contends the board is guardian of public education and must ensure the provincial government does not lose sight of educational goals when the budget is being set.

Also, responsible planning is a better way to achieve restraint than a forced reaction "to sudden edicts from the ministry."

"The children of this district are entitled to the best education we are able to provide for them in order that they should realize their individual potential," says Biggin-Pound.

The hard time that has beset the country with the recession gives the district time to plan "so we're ready when things turn." It is not a time for spending, according to alderman candidate Dave Stewart.

He maintains it is important to have contacts with Victoria and Ottawa because that is where the money is.

"You've got to know how to make presentations and you have to go (to Victoria) to see provincial politicians," says Stewart.

Stewart says his interest in the entire community and his desire to sit on council and do the job are in his favour as his past experience as alderman and mayor in Squamish.

"We should have people with experience. The community needs that."

It is not the time to go ahead with the downtown revitalization program, but it is a project that should be ready to go when the economic situation picks up.

And Stewart would like to see the industrial park progress faster.

"We need it for a tax base and employment."

Self defense course an eye opener

One out of four women in Canada will be raped

Just remember, women are not safe in the home or on the street. Rape has been known to happen in one room of a house while other members of the family are in another room unaware that it is taking place.

Think, don't trust everybody and remain calm before an attack and there is a chance it may not happen.

Experts cannot agree on whether it is best to fight back or to give in if a rapist descends on a woman. Police will not tell you to use a weapon or not to fight, but there are some statistics and patterns worthwhile knowing if the situation ever presents itself.

The information sounds alarming, but it is better to be aware that it can happen to you. Simple precautions can be taken that may scare off an attacker or prevent a rape, or even just decrease the change of it occurring.

Constable Jim Hunter, a seven-year member of Squamish RCMP general investigations, showed a film and spoke about some precautions that can be taken.

It was part of a pilot project called Your Time, coordinated by Maria Ealing through the recreation department. About 15 women from the community attended.

Although the program was called self-defense, it did not offer popular self defense methods of today, but rather, simply pointed out some everyday safeguards and common sense advice about what to do in the event a rapist confronts you.

Hunter provided some startling statistics. For example, one out of every four women in Canada will get sexually raped.

In Canada, there is a murder every 40 minutes, a sexual assault every four minutes and an assault every three minutes.

Sixty per cent of all rapes are done by someone the victim knows, such as a spouse or parent and only about 75 per cent are reported to the police.

The prosecution rate is only ten to 12 per cent because of loss of interest and the time that elapses between the offense being committed and the case going to court.

"You must be aware of what's around you and don't forget (rape) can happen to you," Hunter advised.

After Hunter showed the film, talked and answered questions, public health nurse Carol Sinclair demonstrated artificial respiration and how a choking person can be helped immediately until support arrives.

He warns women not to let anyone into the home unless you know who it is and suggests door jam locks, which bolt into the floor and peepholes in the door so people can be identified before the door is opened. Also, if it is someone posing as a policeman or "repairman, don't be afraid to ask for an identification card for verification.

Keep doors and windows closed and locked.

"It's so easy to get into a house through a window."

And hitchhikers ask for trouble, he said, adding that a lot of people in Squamish do hitchhikes. The problem with that is once you are in the vehicle you have lost control of the situation.

"You've got to know who you're getting a ride from."

Hunter also says although the police "can never tell you to use a weapon, if you are going to use one be sure it's sufficient to gain escape."

Often women carry things in a purse that could be used to defend themselves if an attack is made.

Sometimes causing confusion, like dumping a purse upside down on the ground or turning around to face someone who appears to be following you, can be enough to scare off a potential attacker.

And, if you decide to fight, go for soft spots such as the eyes, throat or chest. Keys between each finger can be damaging if aimed toward a soft spot.

No one can tell you what to do, whether to fight or not and how to protect yourself, and each case may be different. Many things might work, but "you have to use your head," Hunter told the group, saying the imagination is the only thing that can limit your options in case of an attack.

Asked about incidents of rape in Squamish, Hunter said he is not sure about the numbers, maybe ten in the last two years, but "you'd be surprised how many weirdos there are in your community."

Just by talking and fielding questions from the women present at the self-defense course, Hunter made the women more aware. And that was the message he wanted to convey. Women are not safe anywhere, but can greatly reduce the change of being raped or attacked with the intention of rape by watching what is happening around them and not leaving themselves open to an easy attack.

Be aware and remain calm in the face of danger. At least as long as the mind is working your defenses are up and a way out of the attack may be found. Use common sense to talk to the rapist or in some way give yourself time for a get-away.

In the future, the recreation department intends to offer such things as wardrobe planning, insurance policies, gardening, flower arranging and another self-defense course. It will be open to women and their husbands or boyfriends as they should also be aware of what can happen and how to lessen the opportunities for rape to occur.

Lice epidemic at Whistler

Dr. Jim Lugsdin, Medical Health Officer for Coast Garibaldi Health Unit, said that within the CGHU there has been a definite increase in pediculus humanus capitis (the head louse) over the past month.

In some areas, particularly Whistler, it is a widespread epidemic. He said it is also a serious condition in West Vancouver. There is no upsurge in the Squamish area as yet.

The medical health officer suggests the following steps be taken:

1. Check your family once a week for evidence of this problem.
2. Treat every case as instructed by the physician, pharmacist or public health nurse.
3. Avoid unnecessary bodily contact and sharing of clothes and personal items.
4. Good personal hygiene is most important.

Should there be an outbreak in Squamish, community support would be urgently needed to stop this scourge. Following the above suggestions is very necessary.

The reasons given for this outbreak of head lice according to Dr. Lugsdin are a decrease in the resistance of the people, an increase in the strength of the germ and the bugs are becoming resistant to the drugs.

The recommended drugs are Kwellada (Lindane) and A200 Pyrinatre. Both are considered safe drugs but should not be used by pregnant women or children under the age of one year.

Dr. Lugsdin said it is also helpful to use a fine tooth comb on the hair that has been dipped in a solution of half vinegar and half water.

Dr. Lugsdin felt the epidemic at Whistler had reached its height (generally a four week cycle) and the problem is not confined to the school population but also to adults in the community.

A meeting was held at Myrtle Philip School in Whistler last Wednesday evening and was attended by Dr. Lugsdin, superintendent of School District 48 Trevor Harris, Mike Dennison, principal at Pemberton Secondary, and Fred Meen, superintendent of school services, and members of the community.

The medical officer was most concerned that people not become hysterical about the epidemic. He said it was not a disease but carried a social stigma to it.

He said there was a need to screen the adult community as well as the children and a committee was set up to implement this suggestion.

Rape laws changed

Canada's rape laws have been overhauled providing a new system of sexual assault.

The amendment to the Criminal Code replaces current rape and indecent assault offences and places more emphasis on the degree of assault and violence used in the crime.

"The new laws will help. Women won't be subjected to what they have been," says Constable Jim Hunter of Squamish RCMP general investigations.

He says amendments to the Criminal Code take the stigma away from the word rape, explaining the stigma as guilt. The woman who has been raped often thinks, "I'm the one who made it happen," because that is what people tell her to think.

"Any kind of change is a benefit," he believes, because of the nature of the crime and the after effect it leaves on the woman and anyone associated with her.

The amendment was given royal assent in the Senate Wednesday and justice of the Supreme Court of Canada gave the nod to the bill in the final step of the legislative process.

Believe it or not those are candies on the table and that's a gas lamp hanging over it at the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District meeting in Pemberton on Nov. 25. Chairman Dan Cumming is seated at the head of the table with administrator Ivan Knowles. Left to right are directors J. Harder, K. Otting, M. Garratt, building inspector John Hidi, F. Rollert, S. Young, W. Street and E. Tobus with the planner at the extreme end of the table with his back to the camera. Reason for the candles: a power outage at Pemberton.

REGIONAL DISTRICT BRIEFS

A delegation from the Birken Historical, Recreation and Cultural Society, consisting of Mrs. M. Gimse and Mrs. C. Janke, appeared before the board, asking when the land at Birken, owned by the school board, would be available.

T. B. M. Fougberg said the board had not yet turned the property over to the regional district but was negotiating for another parcel of land. They expected to be able to announce by mid-week that it would be turned over to the regional district.

The regional board will write the cultural society, stating that when the land is obtained it will be leased to the society.

The request from Walden North Enterprises for a special resolution to exempt it from taxes was turned down. Director Otting felt it would set a precedent which the board might find difficult to live with in later years.

The B.C. Rail property at Anderson Lake, desired for a park by the people at the lake, is for sale, but the railway does not want to sell it for a dollar but for an appraised price. The railway is to be asked to appraise it with a view to disposing of it to the regional district providing the district continues to honour the existing lease on the property. The board intends to install park zoning on the land.

The board has decided to refuse the request for funding for the public health nurse for the Resort Municipality of Whistler.

The Union Board of Health had asked for assistance towards the rent of space for the nurse in the village.

A request from the Pemberton Lions Club regarding the Pemberton cemetery was discussed. The club outlined the need for long-term maintenance of the Pemberton cemetery and what would be involved if the regional district took over the cemetery function.

The club was asked to prepare a plot plan for the extension of the cemetery, to reconcile the plot plan to the existing records and to outline the capital improvements desired. The building inspector will assist with the plot plan.

The board will look into the possibility of securing the cemetery function for the entire regional district.

A request from Raymond Rogers for fire service extension to his subdivision was denied with the board saying that the request can not be granted at this time because of the extra 12.5 kilometres from the fire hall to the subdivision road entrance.

Three bylaws, for Electoral Area C and the Village of Pemberton Library Function for the Pemberton Rescue Service Grant-in-Aid and for the Pemberton Fire Protection Specified Area and Village of Pemberton Fire Truck Purchase Function Referendum Bylaw, were given final readings and adopted.

The next meeting will be held in Pemberton on November 22 at 10 a.m.

Director Frank Rollert said there were some small deficiencies in the Devine water system and the system would be checked out.

The regional district will bill the Village of Lillooet each month for the services of the building inspector, instead of the three-month period as in the past.

Director Garrard told the board she would like to see the computer used more. It was suggested that the policies of the board be coded for easier access to the board members. The administrator suggested the use of a policy manual.

The official regional plan from Pemberton to D'Arcy and through Lillooet Lake was received by the board.

The directors would like to study the plan before it is presented to the technical planning committee.

The planning committee will meet in the Squamish municipal hall on Thursday morning.

The B.C. Museum of Mining had asked the board to support a study in the Britannia Beach area regarding its tourism potential. The chairman felt support should only be given if the need for such a study is justified.

No money for paving request

There is no money in the district's public works budget to appease parents in the Brackendale area by paving a path between Axen Road and the Brackendale school.

A letter from Brackendale parents' group asked that a path on at least one side of Government Road, between Axen and the school, be paved for safety purposes.

The letter says children who walk to school are protected because there is a graded path, but bicycle riders are in danger because the gravel is hard to manoeuvre a bike on "with the result that the road is crowded with bicyclists, on both sides of the road, at the same times as parents are driving their children to and from school."

Aldermen Bill Street and Al Bird pointed out that the problem is more with the bicycle riders than anything else because children ride on the wrong side of the road and do not pay attention to vehicle traffic.

Council did pass a motion for John Payne, public works superintendent, to cost the paving request for the 1983 budget. Also RCMP will be asked if they feel there is a problem in the area of the Brackendale school.

Minor accidents in past week

There were only three accidents last week with no injuries.

The heaviest damage occurred in a collision near Depot Road on Highway 99 on October 25 when a vehicle driven by John Munson of Los Angeles was in a collision with one driven by Frank Schultz of Langley. Damage to the Munson vehicle was $1,000, to Schultz', $3,000.

There were no witnesses to the accident and the two people involved had different stories about the incident. Munson said he was proceeding southward when Schultz passed him, striking the side of his vehicle while Schultz said Munson pulled out from the side of his lane and struck him.

In an intersection accident at Highway 99 and Garibaldi Way, William Doak of Squamish and James Crombie of Garibaldi Highlands were in a collision which resulted in $900 damage to the Doak vehicle and $500 to the Crombie one. Doak was travelling south on the highway and proceeded through an intersection while Crombie struck the Doak vehicle as he entered from the other road.

On October 26 at 9 p.m. on Victoria Avenue and Second Street, James Stack of Squamish struck a fire hydrant, damaging both his vehicle and the hydrant. He has been charged with impaired driving and with failing to provide a breathalyzer sample.

Hopeful signs

Maybe the economy has taken a slight turn for the better and perhaps the recession has bottomed out.

Certainly there are some hopeful signs. September real estate sales are up, and October sales continue to be good. The stock market was burgeoning but last week's downturn did slow things down a bit.

But there are other hopeful signs on the horizon. Construction in B.C. is expected to be up by six percent over last year; the inflation rate will be almost four points below last year's and industrial production in Canada rose by one percent in May, the first increase since June of last year.

Personal incomes are up over the last quarter of last year; the Canadian dollar is rising by a higher percentage against the American dollar than any other currency except the Deutschmark and the pound; Canadian exports have increased and the savings rate for Canadians is higher than it was in the same period last year.

It appears that investors believe the recession has bottomed out and are loosening the purse strings and buying real estate, homes and stocks. But it will be a long time before U.S. housing starts rise enough to bring relief to B.C.'s beleaguered forest industry. We are told that unemployment will be high for several years and we seem to sense that the world will never be the same again.

The days when growth went on unchecked, when bigger was better, are gone. As Alvin Toffler said clearly in his Third Wave, the world is in a period of change as great, or greater than the one which created the industrial revolution.

There will be many changes in the next few years: in the economy; in the school system, which instead of teaching children to learn and think, is impressing opinions on them by rote; in the political systems which are destroying our countries; and in everything which affects our lives.

We must also realize that our lives will not be the same, the age of electronics will affect us all; from our jobs to our way of living; from our work place to our leisure time. The changes will be as deep and profound as those which affected the medieval society when the industrial revolution took over.

These times of adjustment are difficult. They are exciting but they are not easy and we won't find them enjoyable. But in the end we will find there will be more individuality and less nationality. And perhaps that won't be a bad thing.

Youth camps, shades of the 'thirties

We were appalled to hear the federal government suggest the implementation of youth camps to take care of the young people who are unable to find work and to get them out of the cities and off the streets.

They bring back memories of the "relief camps" of the 'thirties and old timers in Squamish can remember when one was located at Darrell Bay. Unemployed men from the cities were dispersed to these camps to defuse potential trouble areas.

We don't think youth camps are the answer to today's problems. Some form of government-inspired work plans are necessary but certainly to herd young people into camps just to get them out of sight and out of the cities is not the answer.

The suggestion was to teach them languages. Really! While we believe the exchange of pupils between French Canada and English Canada is a good thing, we don't think building these camps, at an estimated cost of millions of dollars, just for a few weeks' course in languages for a rotating group of young people is a practical solution.

The Conservative government of R.B. Bennett built the camps in the 'thirties in an attempt to stem the unrest among the unemployed but it is unlikely today's young people can be treated in a similar manner.

Perhaps Trudeau and his government should come up with a more practical solution to today's problems.

Family must decide

Surely the field users assessment is correct when they say the recreation commission is not the place to decide whether people should go to church or to sporting events on Sunday morning.

We wholeheartedly agree with that conclusion.

Although the Squamish Ministerial Association approached the topic from the logical point by addressing correspondence to district council, which was then forwarded to the parks and recreation commission, the choice between church and sports is one that cannot be dictated.

The association clearly stated it is in favour of recreation in the community, but the dilemma of going to Sunday services or sports events as one that tears at some people, is those people's problem.

The request to try not to schedule sports during church hours went through the channels and received a hearing. While the association is not remiss in making its feelings known it is stepping a little far afield; we think, in attempting to have a standard set for sports programming.

Anyone involved in the church, with an equal interest in recreation, has an individual responsibility to fulfill in relation to both. Certainly activities on Sunday morning can be put in priority from an individual standpoint.

Following the field users meeting it is clear there are strong feelings on both sides, but they must be resolved in the home.

And if one sport, such as hockey, has to schedule Sunday morning, there must be a good reason. It is well known that ice time is at a premium in Squamish, and most communities for that matter, so teams must utilize the rink whenever possible.

The family must decide which is more pertinent to the child and set its own rules. At least now both the local churches and recreation groups know where each other stand and that makes the exercise well worth the effort.

howe soundings

People today are so used to looking at their television sets for entertainment, sitting glued to the tube for hours on end, that it seems impossible to think of a time when television was not a common form of entertainment.

But in the years when I was growing up in Squamish, there was no television. I know my grandson, when he was just a little gaffer, asked me once what I looked at on television when I was little and just couldn't believe me when I said there was no such thing. He couldn't imagine growing up without one!

But you must remember that television was not conceived till after the second world war. Radio was the big thing in my time and I can remember when we used to visit Jim and Janet Eadie to listen to the radio.

Those were the days when everyone sat around in a circle and listened to the sounds coming out of the old-fashioned sets. We were devotees of the Firestone Hour when great singers would entertain us with some of the magnificent voices of those days. The late Richard Crookes was one of our favourites. And Lawrence Tibbett.

Those were the days when we listened to Amos and Andy. And can you ever forget The Shadow? The voice would intone "only The Shadow knows" in deep sepulchral tones and then you would sit entranced while Lamont Cranston outwitted the forces of evil. Or the creaking door that squeaked as it opened.

And then there was Fibber Magee and Molly. And Fred Allen with his reputation as the tightest man in the world and Richester, his servant. George Burns and Gracie Allen were favourites as well. Can you ever forget his gravel voice or her zany comments? It's almost impossible to believe that he is still alive and going strong.

Then the great day came when we managed to get our own radio and would listen to the hockey games on Saturday night. Those were the days of the Maple Leafs when Conacher and the Kid Line were the greatest line in hockey. We used to listen to Foster Hewitt and hang entranced over the radio for those games. Surely it was true that the hockey games united Canada. We may not have known much about the east but we sure knew the Montrepreneur and even if they were French, they were Canadian so they were the good guys.

I remember one year my mother went to visit her sister in Detroit and we were horrified when we discovered she had a chance to watch a Stanley Cup playoff game between Detroit and I think it was Montreal and didn't go! Such indifference was unthinkable!

In those days, people used to visit each other and listen to their favourite programs. Radio played a large part in our lives and I can remember even later in the war years, how important the radio was. We can remember Lorne Greene giving the news, with that rich, deep voice investing it with great importance.

We can remember hearing all the big events of the war years on the radio; the popular songs, the news and the importance of president Roosevelt's fireside chats.

Today, television can take us to the scenes and, in many cases, the scenes are faked for the benefit of the audience, but we were a simpler audience in those days and believed what we heard. We hadn't heard of the big lie and how, if a lie was repeated often enough one would believe it to be the truth. But, in our naivete, we believed what we heard on the air. The radio was our lifeline to those who were in Europe.

I recall hearing the London news during the war and being reassured by the sound of Big Ben and the deep voice of the announcer saying, "This is London calling ...". It made you believe in the permanence of London and the British Empire and all it stood for.

Maybe it's a sign of getting old but movies were simpler in those days, too. When we first moved to Squamish, the Saturday afternoon serial was the "in" thing. We all went to the movies on Saturday afternoon. It cost a dime and if you were lucky you had an extra nickel for a chocolate bar.

Those were the days of the small nickels, too. How many of you remember the tiny nickels, about half the size of a dime and slimmer? Not the big ones we have now but the little ones. But anyway you could buy a chocolate bar for a nickel, or in summer you could get an ice cream cone.

Sometimes you would pool your money with your brother or sister and buy some penny candy and that would last for the whole show. The chocolate "nigger babies" were chocolate covered hard candy in the shape of a doll. There were jaw breakers, hard balls of different coloured candy with a pungent tasting seed in the centre that were delicious and lasted for ages.

Or the candies with the mottoes on them. You would swap them with your friends until you found a saying you liked. Sometimes you would even get a scoop of small candies for a penny and if you spent your money wisely, you would have a sackful to clutch in your hot hand as you went to the show.

Those were the days of the early talkies, too. I can remember how surprised I was the first time I heard a sound track on a movie. It was so startling to see the actors talking instead of watching their lips and reading the dialogue on the screen.

And those washbuckling early movies, I was going to school in Vancouver early in the 30s and I remember going to see John Boles and some blonde actress in the "Desert Song" about six times. I wasn't that interested in the girl but I sure thought he was wonderful. Of course, the Arab robes, the sword-fighting and the singing, complete with wicked Arab emeers and French soldiers and the misunderstood hero, all made it that much more exciting.

But can you imagine watching some of these modern movies half a dozen times without throwing up? If it isn't the violence, it's the implicit sex and maybe we were all more naive in those days.

But we knew it was just fun. The movies were meant to entertain us, just like the radio. It wasn't meant to be a slice of life, in its harshness and reality. Maybe it was escapism and maybe it was a sop to the people who were suffering in the depression and had to have something to cheer them up. But we didn't want harsh reality. We had to face enough of it every day without seeing it in our entertainment as well.

Today, of course, we are seeing somewhat the same thing happening. Movies like "E.T." and all the space ones like "Star Wars" are another form of escapism.

LETTERS

Questionnaire

Editor, The Times:

We, the employees of School District #48, realize the importance of the public's representation in educational matters for this district. With this in mind, we would appreciate that the public and the candidates consider the following questions:

1. In terms of personal income, B.C. spends the least on education than in any other province in Canada. What percentage of overall government expenditure do you feel education merits? What are your priorities regarding the direction of educating the children of this province?
2. The budget cuts have and will drastically affect non-teaching and teaching staff and the service they will be able to provide. Do you support Bill 89 and the Compensation Stabilization Act? If you do not support these government measures, what effort would you make towards bringing pressure on the government to rescind Bill 89 and the Compensation Stabilization Act? If you do support these measures, what are your reasons?
3. What is your position regarding the use of volunteers in the school system?
4. Do you believe workers in our society should be entitled to keep up with the increases in the cost of living?
5. In most every other occupation, seniority plays an important role in the organization, both private and public. Do you believe teachers should be entitled to have seniority rights as well?
6. In general, the worker performing the job is the person who can most effectively assess and point out cost efficient policies as they pertain to the operation of the school district. Do you see these people as a valuable resource and would you welcome their ideas towards the financial operation of the school district?
7. Good teacher-student-trustee relations are very important for a healthy educational atmosphere. From time to time there are incidents where this relationship is affected. Do you believe a teacher-student-trustee liaison could help avoid or solve problems? Would you be in favour of implementing such a liaison?

Sikh Holy Day

Editor, The Times:

Note: Sikhs mark November 1 the birthday of the founder of Sikhism. This letter deals with Guru Nanak Dev's task.

About five centuries ago, when the effect of the teachings of the previous spiritual teachers had diminished and India, again wrapped in vice, darkness and ignorance there, shone a Divine Light in the person of Guru Nanak Dev. He was the founder of Sikhism born in 1469 who brought back the people to the path of the spirit.

The people of the world were groaning under the stress of class hatred when Guru gave an afflicted world his gospels of goodwill, love and peace.

Guru Nanak was no theoretical philosopher but a thoroughly practical man who realized that example is better than precept. Love of God is first great teaching which naturally leads to love of man. Guru cares more for humanity than religion. He had to break the shackles of the caste system. His life and message had a practical mission for the country and world. The message of unity and tolerance which in other words love and universal brotherhood, was preached most successfully by him.

The teaching of truth, tolerance, forgiveness, human brotherhood, justice, peace, love and righteousness for rich and poor alike, taught by our lofty Saviour, Guru Nanak Dev, are international in scope and free from boundaries of race, creed and land. Guru's lofty and world-wide teaching is not confined to India alone.

The Indian nation has heard his message, which teaches us to love God as one in all religions and love the God in man. Deep-rooted heart unity consists in treating all alike and by offering love of tolerance to all, our brothers, for the betterment and welfare of the country.

Guru Nanak Dev loved one and all irrespective of caste, creed, race and religion. He worked to serve and lived for the poor and oppressed and this is the mission which should be carried out by his followers.

Dear friends, it was Guru Nanak, the apostle of peace, whose watchword was love. Our Guru's birthday celebrations with so much pomp and show every year do not amount to much if no solid work is done and universal brotherhood is not promoted in the world.

Guru raised his voice most emphatically against all those who took airs because of their birth in a particular family. He says, "appreciate understanding and don't care for caste, for there is no caste hereafter."

Let us today patch up our petty communal differences and embrace our brethren with whom we have fallen out.

Let us all unite ourselves on this auspicious occasion in the name of Guru Nanak and do our bit towards universal peace, good feelings and brotherly affection and carry out his message to the world for better international relations, peace in the world and goodness of humanity.

Guru Nanak's call is the call of love.

Denies action was hasty

Editor, The Times:

I have read Ray Keyes' "As I See It" column (Times, October 13) with interest and feel compelled to respond to the suggestion that the closure of the Rail West plant was done hastily.

At the time of the closure of that plant the British Columbia Railway was undergoing a Royal Commission Inquiry. The Royal Commission interrupted its inquiry into the affairs of B.C. Railway in order to deal specifically with the Rail West plant, and as a result of their own independent studies concluded that, indeed, the Rail West plant should be closed and recommended its closure.

During the months preceding closure, both the B.C. Railway and the provincial government attempted to secure federal contracts to build rail cars and to extend the life of the Rail West plant, but could not secure the necessary contracts.

Closures inevitably are distressing and Rail West was no exception. The decision and its implementation were carried out as decently and humanely as circumstances would allow with proper regard for those employees affected and the Railway was commended by the federal government for the manner in which the retraining of employees and settlements were handled.

Further, contrary to Mr. Keyes' statement that the equipment was disposed of at "rock bottom prices," much of the equipment was retained by the railway and is in use today, and surplus equipment was disposed of through public tender at market value.

The plant itself has now been fully integrated into the railway in a move which saved B.C. Railway many millions of dollars capital with considerable operating savings in addition.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Keyes chose to write his article without first discussing the matter with the railway.

Gas prices high

Editor, The Times:

I have just returned from my holidays, touring the Okanagan. During that time, nowhere did I find gas prices as high as they are here in Squamish. I gassed up in small and large communities, e.g., Keremeos which is a small community and I paid 42.2 cents per litre, regular gas full service and in Kelowna a larger community I paid 39.2 cents per litre for regular gas self service.

I have yet to hear an honest answer from our local gas station operators as to the reason for the high prices in Squamish. Whatever their excuse, whether it be distance the gas has to come from the bulk plant, quantity of gas pumped or how much they are called upon to give to or donate to various functions, etc., one must assume the gas stations I visited all have the same problems to contend with and yet can still pump gas at a lower price.

On my return journey I filled up with gas in Vancouver. Even with the three cent per litre Urban District Transit Tax paid by Lower Mainland communities, which by the way is not applicable in Squamish, the gas is still much lower (average price 42.8 to 43.8 cents per litre regular gas self serve) than in Squamish.

I get the distinct feeling it's the same old story. Pay as much as the traffic will bear or if you don't like it here gas up in Vancouver.

Naturally, I am not expecting a reply to the above from the Squamish gas station operators and/or owners because there is no valid explanation they can give.

Editor, The Times:

It's not quite two years ago that we had a major flood in the Squamish area, but Hydro's operating engineers must have a very short memory, because at the last flooding, they did again lower the Daisy Lake beforehand, which caused some havoc again.

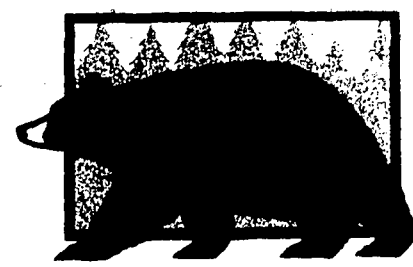

Also I have been asked many times, how come I don't write more often. What good does it do? Some people will get a chuckle; some get mad; but nobody gets out of the pot to do anything to correct some of the important, justified beefs.

Also I don't know where the priorities are and who makes the decisions, concerning the highway improvement, especially south of Britannia, as it was already pointed out by the editor where for the cost of the present unnecessary improvement at Brokenridge many times more the distance of the highway could have been improved. The highways department lets out the contract for the Cullington Bridge, but I can't understand why they don't put a clause in the contract that the department blasts rocks along the highway where it needs widening out. The contractor has to haul rock anyways which he needs for fill. At the present, the contractor was hauling rock a larger distance from far offside, where it could have been economized for both. Special taxpayer's money wasted again. In my opinion, it's a crime when it takes more than five days to have a road repaired after a washout. I guess when more important people would live in the Cheakamus subdivision, as orinary taxpayers, the road would even be repaired to highway standards, but this way nobody gives a darn. Maybe we should call CBC again to embarrass a few responsible people.

FIELD HOCKEY TEAM GOES TO CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Howe Sound Girls Field Hockey team won a berth in the B.C. Field Hockey Championship Thursday. The team defeated Crofton House, the Vancouver and District rep team, by a score of 2-0.

Previously, the Howe Sound team defeated Sentinel, the North Shore rep team.

Before more than 100 cheering fans the Howe Sound girls played a strong, defensive game and quickly dominated the disciplined but less aggressive Crofton team.

The local team will travel to Chilliwack this week to play the best teams in the province.

United Earns Tie

By MIKE ECKERSLEY
Squamish United Pharmasave has closed out the first half of its season with a come-from-behind 3-3 tie against Micalense.

Though United controlled much of the game and could have easily found themselves up several goals, at half time they were still down 3-1. This was despite the fact they gave up only three shots on net in the half.

Part of the reason for this score was not only a hot Micalense keeper who stopped a number of sure goals, but also the poor field conditions. The contest, like all games last weekend, was played on a wet, slippery field that caused a lot of problems for both sides.

In fact, these conditions contributed to the match's first score.

With Micalense breaking towards the Squamish net, they sent a low pass that deflected off a United defender. The ball then skidded right to the foot of a Micalense player who miskicked on his shot and still put it into the net.

But Squamish finally launched a come-back after Dave Harrison connected on a penalty shot.

Then in the second half, United continued to press and was justly rewarded with a two-goal performance by Ron Rosser, who had stepped into the forward position in place of an absent Tom Johnstone.

On one of the goals, the usually solid Micalense keeper made a glaring mistake as he misjudged a cross by Rosser.

In attempting to knock the ball over the bar, the goalie in fact put the ball into his own net and Squamish was right back in the game.

Perhaps a major factor that contributed to the come-back was not only the play of the team as a whole, but also the work of Flavio Vergara. With United behind 3-2 and beginning to tire, Vergara came on to add some fresh legs.

Almost immediately, his presence was felt as his performance seemed to put an added spark into the team and helped pace Squamish to the much needed tie.

With the first half of the season over, the tie gained in this contest helped Squamish remain in third place in the league, only three points out of first.

With skating coach Tracy Taylor, second from right, are skaters who will compete in the B.C. Coast championships at the PNE Forum Nov. 5, 6 and 7. Anita Boyd, left, Giselle Klemencic, Cori-Ellen Zaharia, and Sherree Tuinquist will compete while Dougle Fenton will carry the Squamish Skating Club banner in the opening ceremonies.

Howe Sound girls reach provincials

By MIKE ECKERSLEY
The Howe Sound Girls' Field Hockey team has achieved what many, except themselves, felt to be the impossible.

After what can only be described as a very successful year, the team has reached the Single A provincial finals to be played in Chilliwack.

The tournament, which includes seven other teams from around the province, will begin this Thursday and will last for three days. Howe Sound's first contest is at 1 p.m. Thursday.

During regular season, the team amassed an impressive record. In ten games they won nine and tied one for first place in the North Shore Intermediary League.

"We have a really strong defense," said coach Shirley DeCook. Well, that has to be the understatement of the year as in those same ten contests, Howe Sound gave up only three goals.

Last week, they took on Crofton House in a very exciting 2-0 victory. Over a hundred fans watched the game and nobody left until the final whistle.

Today, the team will also battle it out for the league championship in Vancouver. If they continue to play the way they have been, Howe Sound could go far.

Members of Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 277 will be out "in force" in the downtown area and Highlands Mall on Friday (noon to 9 p.m.) and Saturday (10 to 6 p.m.) during Poppy Days. I think we are all willing to support the Legion and are proud to wear a poppy as a way of saying we remember. Do keep in mind the Remembrance Day service will be held in Howe Sound Secondary school on November 11.

Stork Story — BONAR — Tom and Diana Bonar are happy to announce the birth of their first child, a son, Thane Thomas, born in the Lions Gate Hospital on October 8, weighing 6 lbs. 13 ozs. Proud grandparents are Jim and Vickie Elliott and Frank and Elsie Bonar of Squamish.

The CWL Harvest Tea held on October 23 was a great success. In the draw, the winning number was 514063 and Marie Cote (898-5039) would like to hear from that person.

Thinking of winners, the draw for two China wall clocks in the sixth annual Stedmans Sale was held and Diane Pearson and Steve Martin were the lucky winners.

The all candidates meeting scheduled for November 8 has been changed to Wednesday, November 10 at the Civic Centre starting at 7 p.m. Aldermanic candidate Chuck Harvey wanted to know if the confusion of dates was on purpose so that the meeting could be held "in camera"!!! Not likely!!!

Christmas is only a couple of months away and if you would like to get a head start on gift purchasing, consider two events that are taking place in our community on Saturday.

Squamish Senior Citizens' Branch #70 invites everyone to attend their bazaar in the Elks hall from 11 to 4 p.m. Included will be home baking and canning, crafts and novelties, knitting-sewing-crocheting, paintings and plants. Stay for lunch and don't forget to buy a ticket on the raffle. Five beautiful prizes made by the seniors will be drawn for. This day, November 6 has been set aside by council as Senior Citizens' Day.

The Squamish Arts Council will be holding its annual craft sale on Saturday from 10 to 5 p.m. in the Squamish Elementary school. Sample of works will be on display at the Squamish library until Friday. It is a chance to see some beautiful original works that will be on sale.

Stork Story — MCCAMMON — Dave and Joan Hinds are proud to announce the birth of their new grandson, David Thomas. He was born to Mike and Lynda McCammon in the Caribou General Hospital, Williams Lake, on October 24, weighing 7 lbs. 10 ozs. This is a brother for Gregory. Paternal grandparents are Tom and Mae McCammon of Shawnigan Lake, Vancouver Island. Mrs. Mae McCammon of Burnaby and Mrs. Mabel Hinds of Willowdale, Ontario, are the thrilled great grandmothers.

A dance sponsored by the Squamish Lions Club will be held in the Civic Centre on Saturday night starting at 8 p.m. Featured will be the Vancouver band "The Pulse" with local citizen Mario Iacovone, one of the six members. A local band "No Dogs Please" will also play. Members of the band are Cam and Paul Wagner, Glen Holstein and Brad Fredrickson. Advance tickets are available at Hitman Music store.

It's birthday time for: Bob McCormick, Elisa Downer, Hans Jost, John Krzanowski, Katie Young, Linda Burns, Karen Siggers, Owen Wilkinson, Aaron Johan, Natalie Karami, Margaret Keresztes, Friedel Goode, Mike Balinowski, Marcello LoGiaccio, Mark Confortin, Peter Newell, Dallas Smith, Wynnter Moon, Jennifer Moloughney, Rob Snee, Dell Roberts, Rene McIntosh, Vilma Hendrickson, Many Redman, George Merten, Ryan Pelletier, cousins Scott and Danny Brooks, Michael Wessells, Wendy Drenka, mum and daughter Pat and Amanda Middleton, Robert Babuin, Kelly Smith, Wesley Errington, Lonnie Brock, Clarice Matheos, Edith Larsen, Jilly Varga, Scott Smith and Kerstin Bicknell. A young man, Vital Peeters celebrated his birthday last Friday.

Two little ones are having first birthdays this week and they are Miss Alicia Arundel-Mintzes and Miss Stephanie Power.

Take a look at the nifty posters displayed in many business premises advertising the Senior Citizens' Bazaar. The original was designed by art students at Howe Sound Secondary school.

Stork Story — LAURSEN — A first child, a son, Mathew Bryce, was born to Cathy and Gary Laursen (of Horsefly) in the Caribou Memorial Hospital, Williams Lake, on October 20, weighing 8 lbs. 9 ozs. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Les Magee of Squamish and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Laursen of Loon Lake, British Columbia.

Ethel and Jim Hurlbert (Klahanie Campgrounds) spent a vacation in Saskatchewan recently.

Wedding anniversary wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Keshwa Pillay, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Saugstad and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Balinowski.

Well, we (George, Norma and Jim MacNeil) survived Reno okay. It's quite the city and very easy to get a lot of "arm" exercise. I don't really think I'm much of a gambler but the other three did just fine. A day trip to Virginia and Carson City and Lake Tahoe was a nice change.

On the same flight as we four were Bud and Betty Lloyd and daughter Susan. Travelling by car were Peggy and Pete Dawson.

The Squamish Arts Council would like to remind those interested to call Lundy Candy at the school if the silk screen workshop is for you.

Also, the Squamish Weavers' Guild has another workshop planned for November 8 at the home of Denise Roberge.

Knowledge Network programs

Knowledge Network has a series of programs for parent education that began in October and will continue through December.

The B.C. council for the family and public health offices are involved in promoting the series and would like to get public response to it. The local health unit, or council at 892-3585 can be called for any questions and reaction to the show.

Two of the programs have already been aired, but there are six remaining in the series.

On Nov. 4, "Changing Limits" looks at the importance of trusting relationships between adults and children.

"Question of Values" is the topic Nov. 18. It explores the meaning and consequences of becoming independent and is said to be good for anyone who works with adolescents.

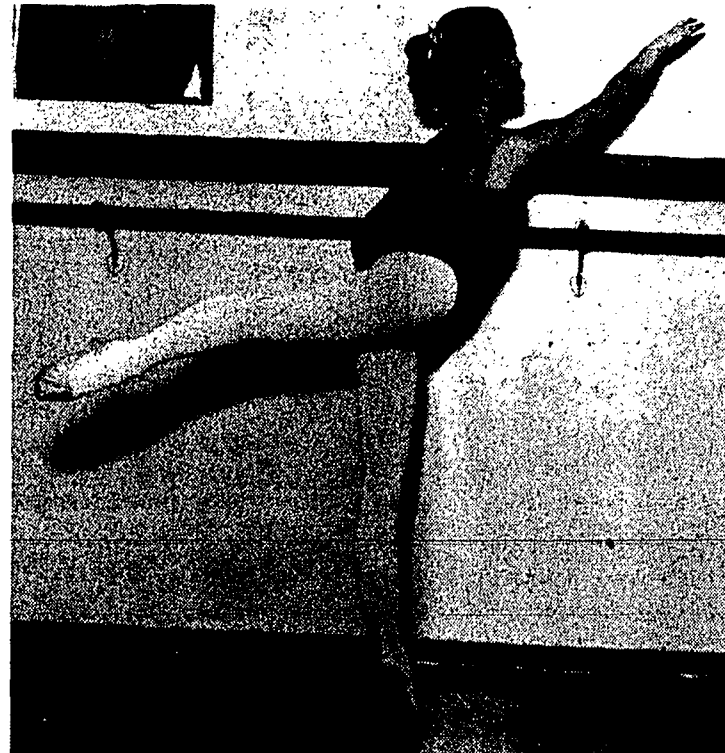

The following week, on Nov. 25, is a program that follows physical development from fetus stage to adolescence exploring the physical body and body image. The title of the program is "Body Image".

"Feeling Free", about the ongoing expression of emotions which change and grow with child development, will be aired Dec. 2. The process of a child's thinking is the subject in "Magic in the Mind" Dec. 9.

And the final show in the series, "Three Families", is scheduled for Dec. 16. It examines three different families, their lifestyles and functions, and points out different dynamics in families.

The programs run from 10:30 to noon each day and include a film, time for group discussion and interaction with series host Stu Gardner, who is a member of the education faculty at Simon Fraser University.

Joelle Babuin in Nutcracker ballet

Ballet student Joelle Babuin will perform in "The Nutcracker" in December.

Joelle Babuin, a ballet student at the Garibaldi School of Dance, was selected at a recent audition in Vancouver to dance in "The Nutcracker" which is to be performed by the Pacific Northwest Ballet Company from Seattle.

The performances Joelle will participate in at Queen Elizabeth

Theatre are Dec. 29 at 2 p.m., Dec. 30 at 8 p.m. and Jan. 2 at 8 p.m.

Joelle has a busy rehearsal schedule but is looking forward to the exciting experience of observing the professional world of ballet.

Weavers' Guild holds workshop

Two of the three day long workshops titled "Weaving for Interiors" which are being given by Minnie Mees have been completed, and the third was to be held Nov. 1.

During this course many samples of both rug and upholstery weaves have been made for the participants to add to their collection, and as the weavers become more expert, the need to do samples becomes more evident.

This is a very easy and pleasant way of doing some of them. The feeling was unanimous that this was a most successful workshop.

At the guild meeting on Oct. 7 many members thought they would like to do another spinning course and plans are now in motion to have one organized for early in the new year. When the meeting had finished, members were treated to a display of two members' work.

Freda showed a lovely jacket she had made. It might be interesting to non-weavers to know that Freda, when she started her project, was making a baby blanket, but found that she was not satisfied with the results of the weaving for that particular use, so adapted her thoughts and material, and produced a much smarter than average jacket.

Jane, who found herself in the work that did not suit her much, concentrated on making herself two very nice winter toques from wool she had previously hand spun. Weaving is not only a skill for the hands, but there are times when the brain is very much called into action!

If you are interested in joining the guild, or want more information about any of the courses offered, please call any executive member; Hedi at 892-5692, Denise at 898-9463, Hanne at 892-3911 days 892-3830 evenings, or Ruby at 898-9086.

You are also welcome at guild meetings, which are never long. The next meeting will be at the Community Arts Council Building on Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Dinner raises $3,101

The NDP fund raising dinner, held in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Squamish on Friday, October 22, raised $3,101.80 for the coming provincial election campaign.

Billed as a "Dollars for Change" dinner and held in various areas in the province, the campaign raised over $150,000 throughout the province with more monies still coming in.

MARTIN RETIRES FROM HIGHLANDS POST OFFICE

Florence Martin, who has been the postmistress at Garibaldi Highlands, retired last Friday after 17 years of service. She started working in the post office six months after it was opened in what is now the Tantalus Mall.

Mrs. Martin will join her husband Tony in his retirement. He retired from the BCR on October 19.

They plan to travel, to enjoy their grandchildren and to visit their children who are in the Queen Charlotte Islands, 100 Mile House and in Merritt.

They also plan to enjoy their garden and to spend some of their time square dancing which is one of their favourite pastimes.

In the years she has been working for the post office, she has seen it grow from a tiny one with 100 boxes to today's 777 boxes. She has been working alone most of the time but in the past ten years has had part-time help.

Taking Mrs. Martin's place at the Garibaldi Highlands post office is Ingrid Schwunk.

Shauneen Campbell summer bride

The home of the bride's parents was the scene of a summer wedding, uniting in marriage, Shauneen Ann Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell of Brackendale, and Peter George J. England, son of Mrs. Rita England of Squamish and Mr. Lawrence England of Merritt.

Pastor Jack Purdie heard the young couple exchange their wedding vows. A variety of garden flowers decorated the Campbell home for the 3 p.m. ceremony on Saturday, June 26.

Given in marriage by her father, Shauneen chose a floor length silk gown with lace overlay. The bodice, gathered with spaghetti straps, topped a pleated skirt. A matching lace waist length jacket completed her gown. The knee length veil trimmed with daisies fell from a Juliet cap of lace and daisies.

The bride carried a bouquet of red baby rosebuds and baby pink carnations trimmed with baby's breath and trailing pink ribbon. A beautiful pearl necklace, silver charm bracelet and diamond earrings were the jewellery worn by the bride.

A close friend of the bride, Wanda Johnson was the maid of honour and Freda Campbell, the bride's sister, and Louise England, the groom's sister, were bridesmaids.

Wanda and Freda wore identical baby pink knee length dresses which had a gathered bodice and pleated front. Louise's dress also had a gathered bodice but was in a deep pink shade. Each attendant carried a bouquet of baby mauve carnations, a single rose and a mauve ribbon. Baby's breath adorned each young lady's hair.

The groom's uncle, George Desmarais was best man with Robert England, the groom's brother, as usher.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Campbell chose an afternoon dress in royal blue which featured a gathered waistline and pleated skirt. Her corsage was a blue carnation with a matching lace ribbon.

Mrs. England, the groom's mother, chose an afternoon white polyester dress with black polka dots. A matching silver tone shawl completed her ensemble. Her corsage was a white carnation and matching lace with silver ribbon.

The reception was also held at the home of the bride's parents, and George Desmarais, the groom's uncle, gave the toast to the bride.

Before departing for a honeymoon to Victoria, Shauneen donned a cream coloured knee length polyester dress with spaghetti straps and gathered at the waist. A matching waist jacket completed her going away costume.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's brother John Campbell, the groom's aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. George Desmarais, all from Alberta, and the groom's grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Desmarais from Ontario.

The young couple are residing in Squamish.

'Just For Me'

'Just For Me' is a film about today's woman.

It's about women — with children, husbands, and careers — whose lives are so busy that they can't seem to find time for themselves.

It is the sensitive and true story of three women who decided that it's time for a change. It's not about women athletes or sports or even physical fitness. It's about taking time for yourself, feeling good ... and having fun through physical activity.

There were problems to be worked out — how to find the time, where to begin, what to do with the kids? But these women discovered ways to overcome the obstacles. Each was able to satisfy the demands of her family and the pressures of her job, and still take the time to get involved. And each felt better as a result.

The film 'Just For Me' and the film 'Interview' will be shown Wednesday, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. at the Elks Hall. For further information call the Howe Sound Women's Centre at 892-5748.

A wedding in Duncan United Church on October 9 united in marriage Vicki Lynn Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fraser of Squamish and Joseph Rene Michael St. Onge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix St. Onge of Sarnia, Ontario. The young couple are making their home in Calgary.

SPORTSBEAT

By MIKE ECKERSLEY

Winning: everyone likes to come in first, everyone strives to come in first. At least so I believed until October 24 when the sixth annual Squamish Road Run took place.

As 141 people set off to complete the five mile course under heavy skies, two runners immediately began to stand out. When most of the other competitors were out of sight, Mrs. Boscarol and Mrs. Barr could still be seen working their way around the track.

Already the two women were far behind and I thought to myself, "Why don't they give up?"

Then again, why should they? For them, it wasn't a race, it was a challenge. It was simply something they had to do. And as far as I'm concerned they should be commended for doing it.

A lot of people were scared away by the torrential downpours that greeted the race. But it didn't scare them away. The two ladies knew that first place was an impossibility. The only thing that was certain was that each passing second put them further and further behind.

But off they set anyway, determined to complete the course. Long after Dave Smith and Sherry Stevens crossed the finish line to establish new records, Mesdames Boscarol and Barr were still at it.

Intermittently walking then jogging, they passed the first mile mark, then the second, and then the third. At the finish line, everyone else had completed the run. People became impatient and started to drift home while the awards ceremony was delayed.

On the course, rain began to fall once again. Walking, jogging, then walking some more, the women continued their trek. They didn't care what anyone else thought, they were going to finish the run no matter what.

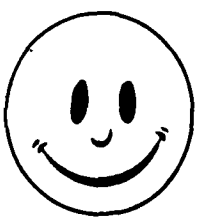

Two and a half hours after the lead runners came in, Boscarol and Barr crossed the finish line. There were no crowds to greet them; there were no computers to time them.

But so what? They had finished and when you get right down to it that was all that really mattered.

It makes you wonder who the actual winners really were, doesn't it?

Marlene Gervin held the Puffers Trophy high following the road run.

Church or sports; individual choice

Baseball and soccer are not the culprits when it comes to scheduling sports events during church hours Sunday morning.

That message was made clear at a meeting between field users and the parks and recreation commission Oct. 25.

Representatives of baseball, softball and soccer present at the meeting said the only time games are scheduled Sunday morning is during tournaments.

The rest of the time the hours of 10:30 a.m. to noon are free of those two sports, they said, while pointing out hockey is scheduled Sunday morning. It was also noted that is probably because of the shortage of ice time, particularly if Sunday morning practices and games were eliminated.

The subject came up as a result of a letter from the Squamish Ministerial Association to Squamish council which said programming sports on Sunday morning interferes with church services.

The letter pointed out the difficulty that arises when churches find they must compete for people's time and says the association's program is hindered when community events conflict with church services.

It was made abundantly clear at the Oct. 25 meeting that recreation versus attending church is something that should be decided at home.

"That's a housekeeping problem" that should stay out of community sports, said Dave Morris.

"I don't think that's a matter to be decided by the recreation commission," he added.

His comments met with agreement from both the commission and other field users in attendance.

recreation chatter

By LAUREL BLACKMAN

These days everyone wants to go to a "specialist". Well now you can talk to the recreation specialists in Squamish at the Civic Centre.

Our second set of programs is starting soon. Come on down and register for the special program we are offering that suits you.

Our Puffers instructor Marlene Gervin is going to be visiting far away places in December and I am sure our ladies will miss her. Let's wish her a great time on her trip.

Sometimes I am pretty slow; it just dawned on me that hockey club Duffers chief executive is Gordy Gervin. Puffers is the brainstorm of Marlene Gervin. Is there a connection? Or do great minds think alike?

Gordy and his group of hockey players will be busy Nov. 26, 27 and 28 with their hockey tournament. Lots of luck to you all.

Don't forget the next non-instructional day skate session. School will be out Nov. 12 from 12 to 1:30 p.m. Regular admission will be charged for this skate session.

Just a reminder for those who would like to lose! I don't mean money or a game, but I'm referring to the great losing program that Weight Watchers offers at the Civic Centre Wednesdays at 7 p.m. in the junior lounge.

For those of you who are interested in aerobics, an aerobic instructor workshop is being offered in North Vancouver Nov. 5, 6 and 7 at the Delbrook Recreation Centre.

The cost of the workshop is $100 for the entire weekend which includes all instruction, material and music. For those interested in obtaining more information please contact 985-4787 for more details. If there's no answer you can call the Delbrook Centre at 984-4181.

Just remember, for those days when there seems nothing to do, come to the Civic Centre and see what we have to offer.

Public skating is Wednesdays and Fridays from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 3:30 p.m.

Also, during the week the recreation department offers Moms and Tots skating Mondays and Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and another on Thursday from 1:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Drop in hockey has become really popular. Bring your gear Mondays and Thursdays from 12 to 1:30 p.m.

Our second Swap Meet of the fall takes place Nov. 14 at the Civic Centre and tables are available for people who have goods to sell. Register early to make sure you have a table.

To quote an old saying, "Food For Thought"

Try the Recreation Recipe: 1 part community participation 1 part Civic Centre facility use 1 part department participation Mix that all together gently, taking care to leave no lumps, and pour into well greased and ready facilities! Bake in slow oven, adjusting heat as cooking increases.

Outcome is a well balanced, well organized Squamish Recreation centre.

To start off, I would personally like to thank those of you who came to the Civic Centre on Wednesday, Oct. 27 for the Blood Donor Clinic. It was really good to see this event well participated.

Also, on the same note, thanks should go to the Squamish Lions Club, and of course the people from the Red Cross for their part in this activity. I understand that 358 donated blood at this year's clinic, so next year let's try for another 100 or so more.

Also, this past weekend, we had our annual Halloween Fireworks and Bonfire here at the Civic Centre. The Civic Centre would like to thank the Squamish Firefighters for their help during the day's activities, as they would not be possible without their help and cooperation. Thanks also go to the Squamish Fire Department for their approval for the equipment to be used for this community event.

I hope that everyone had a great time during this festive weekend, and if you looked upon the horizon on Saturday night, maybe you caught some of our act.

The credit once again for the efficient way in which the fireworks were displayed goes to George Mearce and his colleague. Thanks a lot for your help!

I know that the children had a great time at the Halloween Extravaganza on Saturday, and the pumpkin which came home with my own daughter was quite original to say the least.

I saw lots of ghouls, and ghosts, and even angels, and devils this weekend.

This week is the beginning of the Fitness programs which the Civic Centre is offering to you! If you haven't registered yet, but have plans to do so, make sure and make it down to the Civic Centre before the office closes on Friday, as registrations will not be taken for these programs past the first week they begin.

This is due to the level of exercise which you begin at, and then the classes increase their individual levels as a group.

Just a reminder, our second Swap Meet of the Fall is taking place right here at the Civic Centre on Nov. 14 which happens to be a Sunday. Tables are available for the low sum of $5. Set up for this event begins at 10 a.m. on the Sunday with the doors open to the public from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Civic Centre is proud to be offering for those gymnastic enthusiasts a gymnastics program for grades kindergarten to seven. The lower grades have filled up fairly quickly, with some opening still left.

So for more information please call us here at the Centre and we will do our best to accommodate your child in a gymnastics program. Waiting lists are being made for those programs which are full, in the hopes of possibly more classes being offered for the overflow.

I thought I would add something new to my column starting this week. The word for the week is SUFFICE: definition, be enough or adequate, satisfy.

The Civic Centre can certainly SATISFY your recreation needs so come on down or for more information call us at 898-3604.

Countdown to Vernon

By DWAYNE THOMAS

With seasons winding down in most outdoor sports, one that is less evident is also coming to a close. Cross-country running is one of the most demanding and gruelling sports that can only be mastered by rigorous training, determination and good coaching.

The Howe Sound Girls' Cross-Country team has participated in eleven meets this year and placed well in each. For example Saturday, October 23, Swagard Stadium, Howe Sound girls placed second in team standings behind Hillside.

Big factors in this finish include Kim Rutherford placing fourth, Sherry Stevens seventh, Missy Rayfield eighth, Lucy Milia 13th and Cheryl Neufeld 16th.

These previous meets have all been leading to the big event November 20 in Vernon, B.C. — the B.C. High School Cross-Country Championships.

According to coach Peter Hotston, "the kids are working hard." With just two meets left before Vernon (the November 7 ten-kilometre Seawall Run along Stanley Park Seawall and the November 14 15-kilometre Khat-sahlano Run from Horseshoe Bay down Marine Drive to Park Royal) the girls seem to be gearing up for the big meet.

They won the Trout Lake meet handily, taking the top two positions. Three members of the girls' squad, Stevens, Rutherford and Rayfield, placed first, second and third at the October 24 Squamish Annual Road Run, just one day after their fine showing at the Swagard-Dairyland meet.

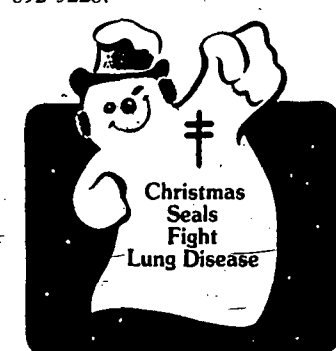

With time running down, the girls seem to get better and better.

Small Claim Court class

The People's Law School will be holding a free class titled "Small Claim Court" on Wednesday, Nov. 10 at Howe Sound Secondary School.

The class is co-sponsored by School District No. 48 (Howe Sound). Time of the class is from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

For pre-registration phone 892-5228.

Fire destroys trailer

A trailer was reported on fire at the gravel pit near Porteau at 10 p.m. on October 27. Damage to the vehicle and contents amounted to $15,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown but the local RCMP office said it was calling in the arson squad from Vancouver to investigate it.

The Lions Bay fire department responded to the fire but was unable to save the trailer or its contents.

The trailer was valued at $10,000 and the contents, mainly tools, were valued at $5,000.

David Smith sets new Road Run record

David Smith completed the sixth annual Squamish Road Run in a new record time of 28 minutes, 58 seconds. Sherry Stevens set a new course record for women completing the course in 33 minutes, 49 seconds.

The new course was some 700 metres longer than in previous years and came as close to an eight-kilometre (five-mile) run as possible.

Despite the pouring rain early in the morning, 142 people turned out to cover the course, including four young people who walked it starting out with Dag Aabye an hour before the race. They were Hans, Heidi and Dana Aabye and Adam Ryan and they completed the course in one hour and 56 minutes. They received specially-ordered small-size t-shirts.

Peter Hotston and Shirley DeCook thanked the Squamish Rotary Club for sponsoring the event and complimented those who had turned out for the run. Members of the Rotary club assisted in giving out the t-shirts to the winners following the completion of the run.

A new twist was added this year when computers were used to record the winning times and numbers and the winners were determined much more quickly by using this means.

In the Masters section, John McDougall finished first, closely followed by Don Lecky. Both men are over 50 years of age.

A special trophy was presented to Marlene Gervin for the Puffers, a number of whom completed the course.

Winners in each of the ten categories are:

Elementary Girls: No. 230, Lynn Slaby — 39:19.
Boys: No. 203, Cory Antosh — 36:14.

Secondary Girls: No. 185, Sherry Stevens — 33:49.
Boys: No. 160, Terry Van den Maagdenberg — 29:46.

Open, Girls: No. 47, Heidi Wippich — 34:08.
Boys: No. 14, Dave Smith — 28:37.

Sub-Masters, Women: No. 120, Gill Hotston — 35:50.
Men: No. 86, Doug Race — 29:49.

Masters, Women: No. 280, Diane Turley — 37:41.
Men: No. 273, John McDougall — 32:48.

A list of runners will appear in next week's paper along with a more complete story.

Roughriders backed into corner after loss

By MIKE ECKERSLEY

For the Squamish Roughriders, a late bid for victory was simply not enough as they fell short in a 14-12 loss at the hands of the West Vancouver Lions.

With the score 14-0 and time rapidly running out in the last quarter, it appeared as though Squamish was out of contention. But the Roughriders proved everyone wrong as they suddenly came to life on their final two possessions of the game.

First, it was a five-yard jaunt to the middle by Rick Brown that made it 14-6 and put some spark into the team. Then on their last offensive thrust of the contest, quarterback Andrew Walters struck on a ten-yard rollout that put Squamish right back into the thick of things.

Despite this surge, the Roughriders still came up short as they simply couldn't collect on the converts.

Their first attempt was stymied by a tough West Vancouver defense that blocked the kick by Neil Wippich.

Then, with the score 14-12, Wippich couldn't grab hold of a high snap that kept him from kicking the ball through the uprights. All the Lions had to do from there on was keep possession to preserve the win.

"In the first half, our defense did well but our offense simply bogged down," said Herc Davis, who shares Roughrider coaching responsibilities with Mike Rattray.

The West Vancouver defense prevented the Roughriders offense from ever getting off the ground. Squamish found themselves behind 14-0 at the half and were unable to mount any scoring threats until it was too late.

But Davis still praised the team for not giving up even when they knew time was rapidly slipping away.

The defeat puts Squamish in a tight position as each remaining game left in the season is important if they wish to make the playoffs.

Titans get win in mud bowl

By MIKE ECKERSLEY

When it comes to playing football in the mud and rain, Squamish teams have a decided advantage over their Vancouver foes.

After all, while local clubs have to practice outdoors, other teams in the city make use of indoor facilities during inclement weather.

The Squamish Titans proved this theory October 24 as they trounced over the West Vancouver Patriots by a score of 20-0 under very wet and muddy field conditions.

While the Titans' offense clicked for a total of 139 yards, 121 of which were on the ground, the Patriots were held to just 41 yards. All of their gains came in the rushing department as the West Vancouver quarterback was unable to complete any passes during the match.

But thanks to the wet conditions, neither side could make any substantial yardage as they simply had to ground it out.

"Players had enough trouble walking, never mind blocking," said Titans coach Jim Errington.

Despite this, Errington felt it was easily the best game his team has played this year. The Titans' offense not only had possession for almost the entire match, but they were caught for only three losses, a significant improvement from past contests.

"The best linemen of the game were Dean Arneson and Pat Gaudin," Errington said. "They made holes you could drive a truck through."

Meanwhile, the defense, led by Gaudin, Cliff Roberts and Dave Dino, also came up big as they did an excellent job in penetrating the front line.

In fact, it was the Titans' defenses that actually won them the match as it forced the Patriots to cough up the ball on a number of occasions.

Twice these fumbles were directly responsible for creating Squamish touchdowns.

On the contest's first and winning major, Kevin Heichert recovered a Patriots' fumble to set up his own touchdown. After the convert was made by Alex Ross, Squamish had themselves an 8-0 lead that was all they needed for the victory.

But the Titans kept pressing and were rewarded when Cliff Roberts scored twice himself. One of them came on a beautiful heads-up play that saw Roberts slip the ball from the arms of the Patriots' quarterback in the end zone. Roberts then jumped on the fumble to score the major.

Unfortunately, the game was marred with some pretty chippy plays that turned the contest into a slug match.

Frustrated by their inability to get on the board, West Vancouver came out of several tackles with fists flying.

As a result, one of the Patriots' players was suspended for the balance of the season while the Titans' Tony Fischen was suspended for one game.

Also, six players on Squamish received a variety of injuries. The most serious was to Heichert, who has a cracked bone in his hand and Gaudin with a cracked thumb.

The victory for the Titans now firmly entrenches them in second place in the league behind the Falcons with only two games left in the season.

Winterhawks too fast for Pizzeria

By MIKE ECKERSLEY

The Whistler Winterhawks proved to be simply too fast for the likes of Vince's Pizzeria in this weekend's C Division hockey action.

Their speed gave them a decided advantage over the opposition and time after time they used this advantage to the fullest extent.

In the end, they had walked over Vince's by a score of 7-2.

After only 29 seconds had elapsed Mike Sadler broke down the side and fed a pass into the slot. Bill Haggerty then pounced on the puck and slipped it behind Pizzeria goalie George Rozman.

Bob Dufour also found his team's speed advantageous as he struck three times and added an assist of his own for a four-point night. The other goal scorers for Whistler were Mike Young and John Gabura.

With a lot of play inside his own end, Rozman had to come up with some outstanding saves to keep the score down.

On one occasion the Winterhawks, after winning a face-off deep in Vince's end, fired a blistering point blank shot from the slot.

Rozman met the challenge with a fantastic kick save.

At the other end of the ice, Chris Jacobs had a fairly easy time of it between the pipes for Whistler. Though he did have to make some good stops of his own, Jacobs was victimized on a wicked drive from outside the blue line by Jim Fryer.

The only other shot that evaded the Winterhawks' goalie was one by Kelly Rodman during a goal mouth scramble.

Meanwhile, in an earlier contest, John Hunter's Trucking defeated the Terminal Exporters 7-4 in a wide open game. The win averages an 11-1 loss at the hands of the Exporters in a match played earlier this season.

In the first period nothing could go wrong for Hunter's as they connected for five unanswered goals.

Dave McRay opened the scoring for Hunter's as he positioned himself in the slot and shot the puck past goalie Ken Bayers.

The team kept pressing and later went up 3-0 on a beautiful solo effort by Mark Westlund. Westlund broke down the left wing and swept around the defense and in front of the goal. He then waited until Bayers went down before slipping the puck into the gaping net.

But lady luck also played a big part in the victory as a shot by McRay seemingly crawled over the head of Bayers before plopping over the line.

In the second period, Gary Turk made it 6-0 when he sent a shot from the point that was deflected into the goal by a Terminals' defenseman.

But the Exporters never gave up and Keith Downer finally put one behind goalie Ken Campbell. That seemed to give some life to the Terminals as John Acorn scored once and Ed Bachuk connected twice in a span of less than a minute to make it 6-4.

All of a sudden, it was a brand new game. However, with only 34 seconds left, Dave Gill quashed any thoughts the Exporters might have of a come-back by making it 7-4.

The other goal-scoring honour for Hunter's went to Bob Mangher as he found the net on two occasions.

Rayfield wins Trout Lake

Despite an injury to key member Sherry Stevens, the Howe Sound girls' cross-country team emerged victorious Thursday at a meet at Trout Lake.

The two-mile trek saw Missy Rayfield come out on top as number one overall, edging second place teammate Kim Rutherford.

With Lucy Milia in sixth and Cheryl Neufeld in eighth place, Howe-Sound dominated the top ten.

The boys were not as lucky, but still showed promise as Barry Wright placed fifth, George Jacobs seventh and Terry Vandemaagdenberg came in at eighth.

The next event for the teams will be November 7 at the Seawall Run in Vancouver.
