Industry lay offs reflect local impact of lockout

The pulp and paper lockout which began Feb. 2 is taking its toll on industries in Squamish.

Squamish Terminals will be doing a little business this week, but about 20 people have already been issued lay off notice which comes into effect Friday.

Frank Collard, president of the Terminals, said Friday, "We'll be out of business as of tonight (last Friday)" though there is still a bit of pulp to be shipped.

"Our whole supply has been cut down."

Canadian Occidental is not shipping at all as all its markets are down. It delivers chemicals to about four or five pulp mills and continues to ship to one plant in Bellingham, but that is all.

"We were reduced anyway, so we went down even further," according to Peter Groenewald.

FMC, which also ships chemicals to pulp mills, has nowhere to store any more material as its tanks are full.

Early this week about 40 people, including maintenance, operations and office personnel, will be laid off until further notice.

"Woodfibre impacts us quite heavily," a company spokesman said last week. That is where the bulk of its chemicals are sent.

"We play it scow by scow," Al Siemens of Weldwood's Empire Lumber division commented.

As long as its chips can be sold it will keep operating, but the mill just started operations up again Jan. 30 after a shut down and is only running at 50 per cent capacity.

The lockout has affected Empire Lumber for hog fuel, but "We're cautiously optimistic that we'll keep going."

The movement of pulp has dried up completely for B.C. Rail and the movement of chemicals has been curtailed as well, but so far no Squamish employees have been laid off.

No trains have been dropped, but a company spokesman says Prince George, as the hub of northern operations, has been hit hard. Of 2,500 B.C. Rail employees, 500 are in Prince George and 38 of them have been laid off to date.

In total, BCR has 50 people in the province off the job, those mostly in the running trades, such as conductors, trainmen and engineers.

About 400 Western Forest Products' Woodfibre employees were locked out Feb. 2 and everyone was out of the plant by that evening after a smooth shut down.

Employers served 72-hour lockout notice two weeks ago, disgruntled about the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada and Canadian Paperworkers Union not sitting down at the bargaining table to attempt to negotiate a deal.

More than 12,000 employees in the two unions have been without a contract since June 30, 1983 and they rejected a contract much like the three year one ratified by the IWA, CPU and PPWC with a two year contract with improved pension benefits.

Predictions are that the dispute will be a long one and Squamish, with primarily a forestry-based economy, cannot help but suffer from the industry lockout.

The Emily Carr College of Art and Design is coming to Squamish this week. It will be hosting a free open house for the entire community in its Printmobile on Friday, Feb. 17 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Printmobile will be parked at Capilano College's Second Avenue Centre, across from the school board office.

People of all ages interested in printmaking are invited to attend. An artist-teacher, Anne Meredith Barry, and a technical assistant will be on hand to answer any questions.

While the Printmobile is in Squamish adults can register for a mid-week or a weekend workshop. Workshops for children are being arranged through the schools. For further information call 892-5322.

Attempt to retrieve truck ends in charges

An attempt by the owner of a truck, found at 1:30 a.m. Feb. 4 on the cement abutment near the Squamish Propane office on Government Road and towed to the area behind the public safety building, to retrieve his vehicle later the same morning resulted in damages to his truck and the public safety building.

Thomas William Howells, age 27, of Squamish, was the owner of the 1979 Chev pick up and when police heard the truck start up during the early hours of the morning they went out to apprehend the owner. In his attempts to evade them the truck hit the side of the public safety building causing $5,000 damage to the vehicle and several thousand dollars damage to the building.

Howells has been charged with impaired driving and will appear in court on March 6. Further charges may be pending.

Looking over pledge sheets and planning for Sunday's Radiothon in aid of the Intermediate Care and Long Term Care health facility are Denise Roberge, left, Bill McAdam, right and Del Alton, centre. The Times urges everyone to support this worthwhile cause by clipping the pledge form in this issue, filling it out and sending it in or keeping it handy to use on Sunday, Feb. 19.

Help furnish the hospital

Circle Feb. 19 on your calendar. It's the date of the big radio telethon in aid of the Squamish Intermediate and Extended Care building which is nearly complete and must be furnished.

The government will pay half the cost of furnishing and equipping the building which will amount to about $150,000, but it will still leave $70,000 to be raised by the community.

The facility is scheduled to open this spring and already there is a list of applicants for the rooms with a waiting list for any vacancies which may occur.

The radiothon will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Jonathon Brett of Mountain FM is hoping to have interviews with prominent people such as MP Lorne Greenaway, local MLA John Reynolds, the mayors of Squamish, Whistler and Pemberton and others.

There will be music and you can ask to have your favorite song played for a donation, or you can challenge your co-workers, people in your line of business or club members can challenge other community groups to match or best their donations.

Check the radio dial on Feb. 19 and take part in the radiothon.

Development of Block 19 is still in the news as council and the chamber of commerce try to decide how far to go with, and whose responsibility, landscaping is this year.

The site of the tourist information booth has been cleared and fill in place, is waiting to be spread, but the chamber does not want to take full responsibility for the property.

At this time the $16,000 grant to the chamber from the district cannot be expected to cover the cost of landscaping the land, building maintenance and operation of the tourist facility and other chamber projects. The chamber is going to make another pitch to council regarding its grant before the final budget is set in May.

Members of council have expressed a desire to get as much done on Block 19 as possible while top soil is available. Rick Hunter has offered to haul top soil to the site and to the entrance to town for $7,500.

Ald. Chuck Harvey says the district "has to get moving to get something ready for 1986", the year of the world exposition in Vancouver, but he says development has to be planned properly.

To that end, Mayor Jim Elliott has spoken to the Canada Employment Centre about hiring a planner for a couple of months to lay out a design for the entire property, which runs south from Big Scoop to Main Street. Elliott is anxious to proceed with work at the Royal Hudson arrival point.

However, Ald. Wilf Dowd would like council to slow down and decide exactly what it wants to do with the site before going ahead with anything else.

"I think we're moving just a bit too fast," he remarked last week.

Dowd cited maintenance costs once the property is landscaped and the unresolved downtown parking situation as a couple of things to bear in mind prior to progressing further on Block 19. He stated top soil is only the beginning, after which grass, shrubs and walkways will have to be considered.

Dowd has repeatedly expressed his displeasure with departing from what has already been established in the 1984 preliminary budget and believes council is getting in over its head by forging ahead with complete development of the land.

Preliminary school board budget set at $10,147,291

The preliminary school board budget has been set at $10,147,291; the board reduced the budget from its previous figure to conform with the amount permitted by the provincial government.

Secretary-treasurer Don Ross said that little change was expected in the mill rate this year but he warned that if the board has to chop the budget by $680,000 for next year it will mean the equivalent of 14 full time teachers.

He pointed out that the board already made as many cuts as possible in the other areas of the budget, leaving the staff the only place where further reductions could be made.

The subject of funding for native children attending schools was discussed with Ross saying that the federal government pays over $3,000 towards the education of each of these children. The money is given to the provincial government which only turns 40 per cent of it over to the district.

There are 220 native students in this school district and the provincial government receives $706,552 but only turns over $282,608 to the district. The board decided to write to both MP Lorne Greenaway and MLA John Reynolds regarding this.

John MacDougall told the board he had spoken to the teachers after the last board meeting, saying they might have to face cuts next year. He was concerned because he said pupils' needs could not be adequately met by the budget and he could not agree with the proposal that education can be determined by a bottom line figure.

"We're not here to assure that teachers will have jobs," chairman Don Wilson said. "If the students can be taught just as well with less teachers we would consider this."

Dr. Peter Rothe, commenting on the pupil/teacher ratio, said "the whole notion of the pupil/teacher ratio is pretty loose. Different areas have different ratios."

District superintendent of schools Trevor Harris pointed out that "what kills us is that we have one or two students with a teacher be difficult to keep up to a reasonable average."

Audrey Rhodes, president of Howe Sound Teachers' Association, commented that "pupil/teacher ratio is part of the problem. There is no real figure which can be applied to every school district. You can't really relate class size to the pupil/teacher ratio. You have to look at the pupils you put in the class."

Council has received its first report on bylaw enforcement from officer Bob Splinter. It identifies complaints from the public, those initiated by the department and the resolution.

Splinter was appointed as of Jan. 1 and the report deals with infractions acted on in the first month of 1984. He says the majority of items specified in the report are complaints from the public and they "always have been unless it's a blatant violation. Then I will go in under my own authority."

Three warnings were issued under the auspices of the building bylaw and five warnings fell under the untidy and unsightly premises bylaw, with four warnings for traffic bylaw violations. The enforcement officer is issuing warnings for vehicles illegally parked on the street, parking in back lanes blocking traffic and such.

"I don't really see any major enforcement problems," Splinter said after his first month officially in the capacity. Prior to being appointed, he was acting on bylaw complaints received by the district and is municipal building inspector.

There were 94 business licences issued in January, four complaints regarding business licences and one that the department initiated. Of the five complaints, three were cleared as unfounded and two were given warnings.

All business licence renewals are sent out by the district in December and they are to be paid by the end of February.

The zoning bylaw also was cause for four complaints and three warnings came as a result with one complaint dismissed.

Splinter notes that bylaw violation and warning notices have been ordered and should be available for use this month.

for future development. It has not been decided how much work will be carried out there this year.

Beautification projects running up original tab

A welcome to Squamish sign, to be installed on the triangular-shaped property on the northwest corner of the Cleveland Avenue/Highway 99 intersection, has been designed by Seascope Signs.

The estimated cost of the yellow cedar sign with carved letters, complete with a relief carving of an eagle and a salmon, is $2,247. Add to that the cost of a rock cairn at $2,500 and flood lights if required at $1,000, the total reaches $5,747.

Originally, $19,000 was pegged to fill and landscape the entrance area and the sign is separate from that project.

Ald. Ron Barr and Corinne Lonsdale along with public works superintendent John Payne, as members of the landscaping committee, will look at the design of the sign and make a recommendation to council. It will also review the cost of $19,000 for beautification of the entrance to town.

Storm damage

The District of Squamish has applied to the environment ministry for $12,000 to repair bank erosion on the Cheakamus River.

The damage occurred during storms early in January. Squamish has applied to the government in the past for repairs along the Cheakamus River and was successful.

Public works superintendent John Payne surmises the district will probably have to wait until the beginning of April to hear from Victoria on the application. The provincial fiscal year runs from April to March.

Payne also said the district has not heard anything from Victoria about funds to begin dyking work on the Stawamus River in Valleycliffe. Last year the project was given priority by the environment ministry and it said there would be a $1 million dyking program here in 1984.

Civic Centre insulation

Squamish Insulation provided the lowest tender for installation of insulation in the auditorium of the Civic Centre.

The bid of $9,727 was some $200 less than a bid from Active Insulation Systems of Duncan; Gino Barone also bid on the project with a tender of $10,000 and Korble Painters Ltd. of Burnaby priced the insulation job at $18,673.

Though recreation director Grant Dickey expressed some reservations in awarding the contract to what is not, in his opinion, an "established company", council opted to award the contract to Squamish Insulation.

The tender closing date was Jan. 27 and the district expects to reduce its heating bill considerably by insulating the auditorium.

Municipal airport

Council will appoint an advisory planning committee to meet with the B.C. Aviation Council and discuss management of the municipal airport.

"We don't want to lose the airport, but at the same time we don't want to be saddled with administration of it," Mayor Jim Elliott commented at last week's meeting.

"It looks like we're being forced into some administration," he added.

"It's something I had hoped I would never see us have to take on."

Administrator Chuck Schattenkirk mentioned that, in relation to the industrial park, there had been questions about whether there was an airport close to the park. He said the importance of the airport is becoming community wide so far as commercial development is concerned.

The technical planning committee, comprised of department heads, suggested the advisory planning committee be made up of several members of council, the business community, two members of the Squamish Flying Club and a member of TPC to act as a resource person and council concurred.

Contract ratification
Council met in a closed session Friday afternoon to discuss ratification of the proposed CUPE contract.

Student employment
Council agrees with the idea of hiring students on employment grants this year under the Environment 2000 Heritage Trust and Canada Youth Employment program. Specifically, clearing dikes in the district was considered a good project for the employment program and the district plans to make use of the grant. Students hired must be between 16 and 24 years of age.

Railway resolution
A resolution to be discussed at the Lower Mainland Municipal Association general meeting Feb. 23 has received support from district council.

The motion proposed, which the association would like support on, requests the Canadian government provide incentives to encourage national railways to bypass urban areas, where feasible, in conjunction with twin tracking and other upgrading programs.

Risks associated with transport of hazardous material, which leads to traffic problems at level crossings when mainlines pass through urban areas, is cited in the resolution and it is considered that rail corridors in rural areas can diminish problems and reduce costs to local governments.

The LMMA will, upon support of the resolution, make the request through the Federation of Canadian Municipalities.

International Women's Day celebration March 8, 9

Women from the garment and textile industry in New York staged a demonstration on March 8, 1857 protesting low wages, the 12-hour work day and increasing workloads. They called for improved working conditions and equal pay.

Three years later, in March of 1860, these women formed their own union and called for their demands to be met.

On March 8, 1908 thousands of women from the needles trade industries demonstrated for the same demands plus some new ones: legislation against child labour and for the right to vote.

In 1910, March 8 was chosen and proclaimed in the U.S., Germany and Denmark as International Women's Day. In 1913, women in Czarist Russia celebrated this date even though forbidden to hold meetings.

Four years later, women textile workers poured into the streets demanding bread. They went on strike against the advice of all organized political groups that expected the police and troops to be called out. By the end of the day there were 90,000 men and women demonstrating against food shortages and high prices.

Since then the underlying theme of International Women's Day has been "Bread and Roses".

In 1967, over one hundred years since the first demonstration, the representatives of the peoples of the world unanimously adopted a Declaration of Women's Rights at the United Nations.

The declaration addressed not only the question of formal legal rights for women, but the real roots of the issue, the question of attitudes and customs that conspire to preserve, in the face of evidence to the contrary, the idea that women are inferior to men.

Women have a specific concern and need to make their voices public. They must continue to speak out against violence against women and children, against pornography, and most especially to work for disarmament and peace.

March 8 is Women's Day to celebrate successes, to share their different backgrounds and cultures, knowledge, talents and creativity.

And so we come to why March 9?

It is the day Howe Sound Women's Centre is holding an International Women's Day dinner party at the legion hall. There will be dancers from Africa, Jamaica, Mexico and Iran, singers from Quebec and perhaps other countries, native costumes from almost every country in the world and certainly exciting and exotic food as it is a pot luck dinner.

Tickets are only $6 and everyone is asked to bring a dish from her country of origin. If Canada is your country of origin bring something to share that was especially favoured in your family at family gatherings. An exciting program is planned.

Displays of handicrafts and art work are invited as well. This is a celebration of the women of Squamish. It is our day to show each other what wonderful people we are. All women are welcome.

Tickets are on sale now at the women's centre at 38009, Third Avenue, at H & R Block on Cleveland and at the Squamish Times office or phone 892-5748 for more information on how you can participate.

Men honoured for rescue

Five B.C. residents will receive the Medal of Bravery at Rideau Hall in Ottawa in June.

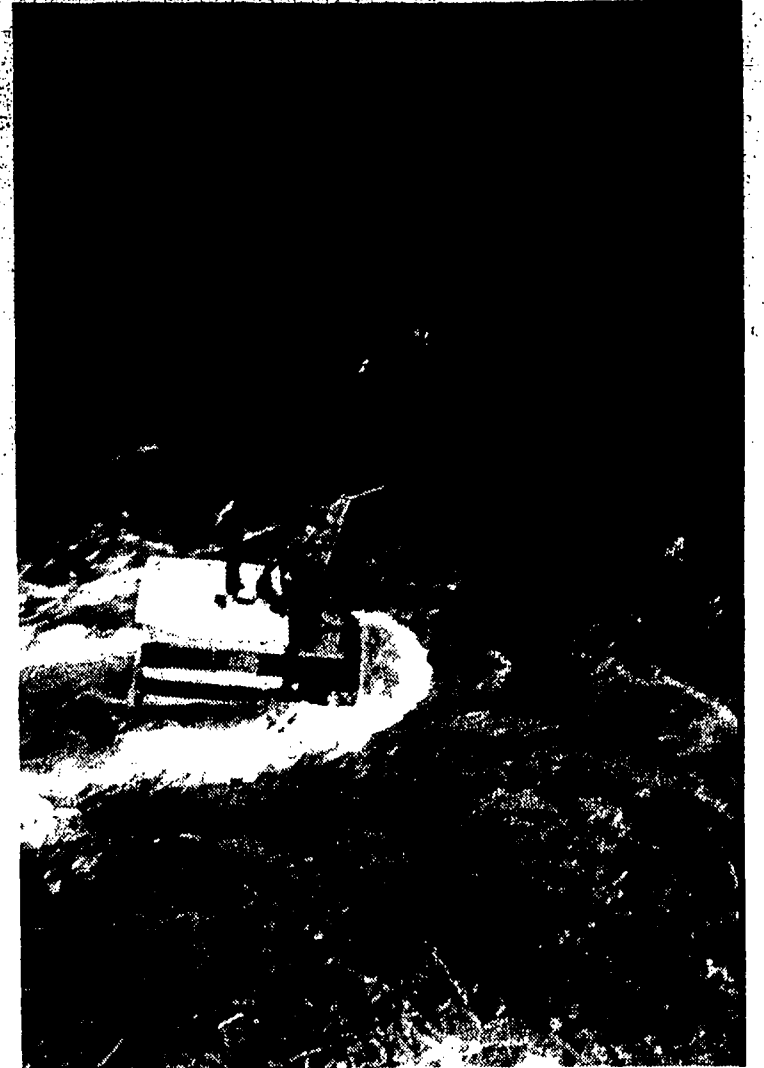

Peter Marochi of Squamish, Peter Robinson of West Vancouver, Norman Lesage of Kamloops, Norman Walker of Duncan and RCMP Constable Mark Oliver of Princeton were recommended for the award by Governor General of the time Ed Schreyer.

At great risk to their own lives, the five combined their efforts to rescue Victor and Nada Stankovich from the Similkameen River on June 25, 1982.

The camper truck the couple was riding in plunged over a 50 foot embankment and it turned over twice before landing in the middle of the raging river. They were swept downstream but a rock stopped the truck in midstream.

Though injured, the Stankovich's pulled themselves onto the roof of the vehicle and waited for help.

When a rope from shore had

Peter Marochi and Peter Robinson plunged into the Similkameen River to reach the truck and reassure the stranded couple that the situation was well in hand. Three more men took part in the rescue and are being rewarded by Canada's Governor General and the RCMP.

been secured to the camper, Marochi and Robinson waded chest-deep through the icy waters to reassure the stricken couple. Cst. Oliver tried to reach the camper in a rubber raft but it overturned and he was thrown into the river.

Stankovich was convinced to attempt to reach the shore by using a second rope held by others on the bank and Marochi entered the water to assist him. Marochi's energy was sapped and he had to return to the truck. Robinson reached Stankovich and began inching his way along the cable.

The rescuer was pulled under several times but both finally reached shore. Robinson then returned to the camper.

Helicopter pilot Lesage and another onlooker, Norman

Walker, volunteered to airlift the woman from the camper. Marochi was able to secure a collar on her and, relying on hand signals from Walker, Lesage lifted her to a waiting ambulance. He returned to recover Marochi and Robinson.

On Oct. 21, the five men went to Ottawa to be presented with the bronze St. John of Jerusalem Life-Saving Medal from Governor General Ed Schreyer. The medal, instituted in 1874, is awarded for gallantry in saving life on land.

The men also received the RCMP Commissioner's Award in Vancouver on Feb. 8.

Peter Marochi has been a park ranger with the provincial parks for the past ten and a half years. He was transferred to Alice Lake Park on Nov. 1, 1983.

Dandelion Day Care wants site at school

Trustees T.B.M. Fougberg and Ellenore Ross, who had been asked to investigate the request for placing the day care centre on the Myrtle Philip school grounds, along with Trustee Bob Mallett, reported back to the board last week.

Fougberg said they suggested it might be better for the centre to find another site as the school grounds were already being chopped up with a number of other uses and a school bus garage should be built at the site the society wanted.

Fougberg said he and Ross suggested it might be better to use the former municipal hall site close to the school grounds and use the old access road.

"I have a feeling they are trying to dump too many buildings on the site," Fougberg said.

However, he said that Mallett seemed to prefer the bus garage site.

The board recommended it would be better to find a site other than at the school.

Visitor turned away from bank

So, you want to change U.S. cash into Canadian funds?

It may not be as easy as you thought, as one tourist found out, and she will tell you where not to go. Mary Tauer was visiting relatives in Squamish last week after vacationing in Mexico and before returning to her home in Fort Nelson where she and her husband operate a lodge on the Alaska Highway.

Their business account and two of Mary's personal accounts are at the Bank of Nova Scotia. She has no complaints there, but ran into a little problem while in Squamish.

With cash in her pocket, a passport and other identification in her possession, she went to the local branch of the bank to change $1,000 American into Canadian bills.

No go. She was told $1,000 could not be changed. How about $500? No, again.

"They weren't interested in seeing my credentials," Tauer said last week.

"I can't understand it," she said, particularly since it was cash. She said she had never had a problem before exchanging money and could understand the bank's position if, as a stranger to the bank, she had tried to cash a cheque.

Afterwards, Tauer was just glad she was not stranded in Squamish with nowhere to stay and no Canadian money.

"If I had been passing through I may have been stranded. It's hurting the bank and hurting the town. I think other people should know for the sake of the town."

It caused the visitor "inconvenience and aggravation among other things," but luckily she managed to get the bills changed somewhere else.

The Squamish & District Credit Union welcomed Tauer's American cash and exchanged it for her without a hitch.

Even though the credit union does not deal with non members, Tauer's relative in town had shares in it and her American bills were welcomed.

The manager said exchanging $50,000 would have presented problems because of the cost involved.

"Every time you buy money you have to have it shipped out," Dan Recsky explained, but said he could not understand the problem the woman had at the bank.

"It's not like a cheque" where extra care has to be taken when accepting them, he added.

ed. And what's $1,000?

The manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, George Furniss, simply said it was bank policy not to exchange cash or cash cheques for strangers to the branch.

And there's no way the bank could check serial numbers on the bills as a list of fraudulent or stolen bills is provided only once in awhile.

Just for comparison, the Times contacted the Royal Bank as well to see how it deals with strangers who enter the bank to do business.

"Normally we would deal with them," Mike Hoskins stated.

Someone not familiar to the bank may be asked for his name and address and possibly a piece of identification so contact could be made with the person if a problem arose after the fact. Serial numbers on the bills would likely also be recorded as an extra precaution.

Hoskins added the Royal Bank has been fortunate in that it has not been "stung", but said a bank's policy may to some extent depend on past experience.

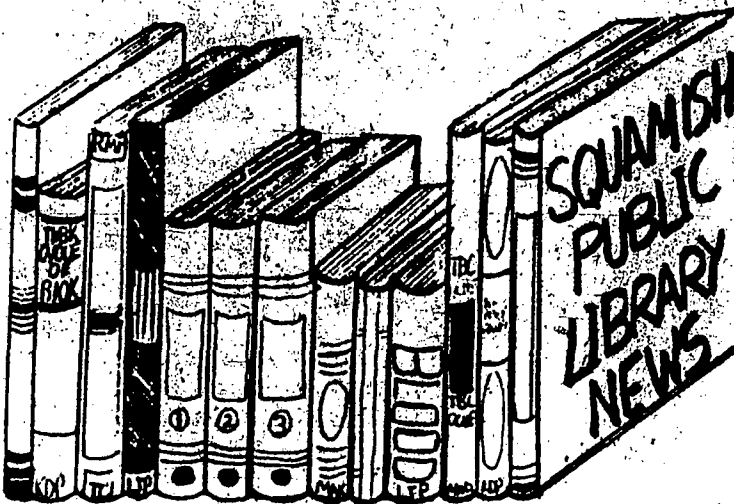

In dealing with a stranger to the bank, extra precautions would be taken, however.

The bank would not take a U.S. cheque from a non customer, said Hoskins, because it would take a long time to clear and if it was returned would create too many problems, but cash deals would normally be put through.

Tauer said it would be "perfectly understandable" for any bank to want to check serial numbers to be sure the bills were not counterfeit, but felt tourists can help Squamish and the difficulty she ran into could crop up in future with tourists to town.

The other thing to keep in mind is that there are no banks in Whistler and the popular ski resort draws tourists from all over the world. Also, when the Royal Hudson makes its annual summer runs from North Vancouver to Squamish it brings people from throughout the world. There are many other recreational attractions that draw people to this mountainous area.

Tauer, aside from working out the inconvenience, said as a visitor she was not upset about the incident because it was resolved, but did admit to anger initially. And if it happened in her home town? She would expect people close to the affected party to pull their accounts; it's bad for business.

Godfrey Watson, president of the Squamish Beekeepers Association and a library board member, has coordinated a display of beekeeping which will include a mannequin dressed in a beekeeper's outfit.

The B.C. Honey Producers' Association has provided three films and these will be shown in the foyer on Friday, Feb. 17 at 7:15 p.m. They are "The Biography of the Bee," "The Language of the Bee" and "Secrets of the Bee World." The presentation will last about an hour.

On Thursday, Feb. 16, award winning author Jean Little will be at the library at 11 a.m., 1 p.m. and 1:45 p.m. to read from her books and answer questions.

New titles recently added to the shelves include Smith and Other Events by Paul St. Pierre; the Life and Times of Michael K. by J.M. Coetzee, Pet Semetary by Stephen King.

No independent voice

For the first time since its inception there is no school board representation on the council of Capilano College.

From the time the concept of the community college was formulated, the idea of representation from the various school districts was a key feature.

Howe Sound School District has been represented on the board since the beginning with Jim MacDonald serving as chairman for a number of years. There was also a government appointee from this area and a number of people have served in that role with Hilda Rizun, the present one, also serving as chairman.

The concept of having board representatives from the various school districts was a good one and helped give the college input on local interests and problems, and also helped to bring the college closer to the community. Somehow one queries the impartiality of a board which is totally made up of government appointees, no matter how well-intentioned they may be.

Another glaring lack in the present board is the absence of a representative from the Sunshine Coast, either from the board or named by government. Surely with a satellite campus at Sechelt there should be a representative from that area. Or are appointments only to come from areas which elect an MLA of the ruling party?

We would hate to think politics is playing any part in the naming of members to the college council, but it is significant that the only area without a representative is the one which has an NDP member sitting in Victoria.

But politics aside, we feel it is unfortunate the government chose to do away with the representation by school districts and we are unhappy about the concentration of representation from the North Shore.

There is a possibility that the needs of this area and the Sunshine Coast could be submerged to the needs and wishes of the North Shore, to the detriment of students wishing to attend the college.

We also wonder whether this will affect the plans for a future campus in Squamish. Plans for this are on hold due to the economy, but we wonder just how long that will be and whether by the time the economy improves there will still be a desire in Victoria or in the college council to see a campus at Squamish.

Welcome news

The news that the mall, scheduled for the property between the present Overwaitea building and the senior citizens complex, is going to get off the ground in the near future is welcome news indeed.

Not only is it an indication there is a need for a larger store for Overwaitea, which signifies growth in the community, but the fact that additional businesses may be coming into Squamish is proof that, in some quarters, there is faith in the future of this area.

It is also welcome news that some of the tenants will be new businesses not previously located here. This will provide additional services for our residents as well as a wider shopping base. The more different businesses we have here the better it is for local people and the less incentive to go to the city for what is wanted.

Also the new development will provide some additional parking, well within walking distance, of the post office and other downtown shops. Lack of parking has been cited as one of the drawbacks to the business community.

But we are pleased to see the new step marks another stride forward for Overwaitea, which started out in a very small building about 30 years ago and has now planned for its third move.

The first store was small but it was soon necessary to expand and Overwaitea moved into one which was double the size — the building now occupied by Fields. It also provided more downtown parking, something which was sorely needed. The next move was up to the present site, where again the store almost doubled in size, and additional parking was provided for its patrons and those in the other four shops in the complex.

The latest move has been planned for some time but was put on hold due to the downturn in the economy. Now that it is on stream again it is a clear indication that conditions must be improving and the company is looking forward to increasing its space and its business.

The kids will do it

We've all heard many suggestions as to what will end the economic problems of this province. They range from the courageous policies of the politicians who are going to initiate all sorts of innovative policies to create new jobs and more work to the wise, but often conflicting, theories of the economists who have all sorts of suggestions on how to lift us by our bootstraps.

But it might come as a shock to all the experts who have been telling us what to do to lead ourselves out of the morass in which we find ourselves that Mother Nature is the one who is going to put this province back on its feet.

And, believe it or not, she's going to do it with a baby boom! It's on the way.

howe soundings

Did you notice the beautiful sunsets we had in the lovely days early in February? I know I was amazed at the color of the southwestern sky, the beautiful crimson glow with the mountains etched so clearly against it. One evening, just before dark, there was still the glow in the sky and in the middle of it the tiny crescent moon, just a sliver, shone brightly golden in the sky.

Another evening there was a skiff of cloud across part of Garibaldi and through a rift in the cloud the snowy slopes shone in the reflected light. It would have made a beautiful photograph.

During the foggy weather at the end of January there were some glorious sunsets. I remember one on a trip home from Vancouver when the color the sky was reflected in Howe Sound. Looking back you could see Bowen Island and Gambier starkly black against the sky, but around the edges of the islands there was a faint golden line, almost as if they were rimmed with gold. It was beautiful, but eerie. Those are times one longs to be a painter and have the talent to depict the scene.

We are indeed fortunate to be living where there is such a diversity of scenery. From sea to sky with mountains starkly accenting the view, with plunging waterfalls and swift flowing rivers. Travelling to Vancouver is always an adventure and there is so much to see. Traffic on the sound is ever-changing, with big freighters coming up to land at Woodfibre or Squamish, busy tugs herding their booms of logs or heavily laden scows and small speed boats stitching the waters as they flit to and fro.

There are always sailboats out on a clear windy day, idly drifting around the northern tip of Bowen Island or even some of our local sailors venturing on the waters nearer home.

A frequent sight along the sound is an eagle perched on a bare tree limb, looking out over the waters as if in watch for some unwary prey below. They are so beautiful and so free, with gleaming eyes watching for every movement.

Last week there was a strong wind on the water and the waves were breaking on the beach at Porteau. But despite the wind and cool weather there were people camping in the park. With vans or trailers I suppose the weather doesn't really matter because you can live in your own little cocoon.

Porteau Park is a welcome addition to the parks in the Lower Mainland as it provides one which can be used all year round and is the only marine park close to Vancouver. Even on a stormy winter day sitting in the parking lot and watching the angry water could be restful. And on a clear bright day it is a delight.

Have you looked at your spring flowering shrubs yet? Friends took some clippings from a forsythia which was headed for the dump after the shrubs had been pruned and in a short time they had the cheery yellow blossoms decorating their living room.

Other shrubs which are easy to force are the japonica or flowering quince. They are such a beautiful deep pink or orange shade when they grow outside but lose some of their color indoors. However if you put them close to a sunny window they do well and do show their color.

I have forced the wild flowering currant as well but here again you can lose their color if you keep them away from the light. If you have some of the ornamental flowering trees like the plums or the cherries and have pruned some of the branches, bring them indoors. Plunge them in water at room temperature and wait for them to bloom. They will reward you with some lovely flowers long before the outdoor ones are ready.

I've never tried forcing camellia buds because I've never had any success with a camellia. I always seem to have them in the wrong position and the few times I have tried to grow them they have died. But if you are lucky enough to have one they tell me it can be forced into an early blooming period.

This year the Womens' Institutes are celebrating 75 years of service for home and country. At present there are two active institutes in the corridor, at Pemberton and at D'Arcy.

In 1924 a Squamish Valley Women's Institute was started and it stayed in operation till 1950 and around that time the Brackendale Women's Institute was formed. The women assisted the Squamish Hospital, worked toward obtaining a public health nurse and a fire department, as well as other worthwhile causes.

In 1940 the Pemberton Women's Institute was chartered with Frances Decker as the charter president. Over the years the institute was instrumental in bringing electricity, a school bus, dental clinic, rural mail and telephone service into the Pemberton Valley. The 4-H Club was sponsored by the W.I. and was the first club for children in the valley and until recently they sponsored a 4-H Perky Pins group.

During the years they have helped at fall fairs and flower shows, held bazaars, raffles, dances, picnics, plays, sports days, banquets, quilting bees, etc. and catered for many groups. They also furnished a ward in the Squamish hospital, helped provide a wheelchair for the station, pushed the BCR into offering reduced fares for high school students for weekend trips home and supported the men's organizations in their appeals to governments for improvements.

They collected material for a local history and helped start the Pemberton Pioneer Women, took part in Canada Week celebrations, suggested the health centre as a centennial project and did the spade work for it. More recently they were recognized by the national Women's Institute organization for their work on road safety in the Pemberton area.

Along with the Anderson Lake Women's Institute, formed in 1982, they entertained three bus loads of women from the Associated Country Women of the World conference at UBC at a hospitality day in June of last year with a dinner, mini-loggers' show and Indian dancers.

Sensational news report distressing

The Times:

The teachers of Howe Sound Secondary School, and no doubt the parents of many of the students, were shocked and dismayed the weekend of Feb. 4, to be told the school had been subject of some rather sensational "news" reports on the local radio.

Admittedly, February marks a kind of dull, doldrum period between Christmas and the coming of spring; but this kind of excitement is such as we can very well dispense with.

To those of us who were present when a piece of horseplay resulted in one of the students accidentally cutting himself in the leg, it was quite incredible that the incident should not only have been transformed by the media into a "stabbing", but should have been cited as the root cause of a rowdy brawl that took place later in the weekend amongst young people from various localities, mostly unconnected with the school.

The fact of the matter is that a boy injured himself in a careless accident, something which we all deplore, but something not unknown amongst normally active youngsters anywhere. That this minor occurrence should have been blown up into such exaggerated proportions to provide a more succulent tidbit for a newscast is most distressing both for the boy's family and for the school as a whole.

The truth may be far less colourful and titillating than the rumour; but it has to be stated in its bald simplicity. We are proud of our students in Squamish, especially when we hear of what is alleged to happen in other areas.

Let us be thankful that we do have such a decent body of young citizens in our midst, and let us protect their good name from this kind of sensationalism.

Yours faithfully,
The Staff, Howe Sound Secondary School

Unions won't be forced into settlement

Editor, The Times:

The Executives of Local 1132, Canadian Paper Union and Local 2 of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada wish to expose the hoax which is presently being foisted on the public of British Columbia.

Our employers continually stated we refuse to meet to negotiate a contract. This is not true.

What is true is we refuse to meet at the dictates of Don Saunders. The lockout is not to get us to the bargaining table, it is to force us to accept a sub-standard contract.

The claim the IWA contract is the same as ours. Not true.

We work under entirely different conditions — continuous operations 24 hours a day, 7 days a week; different hazards, theirs (the IWA) are more physical, ours are physical and environmental, such as chlorine gas, caustic, sulphuric acid, etc.

Experience in the number of people who live to retirement exposes the hazardous nature of our occupation; very few people from our industry enjoy long retirement, in fact most do not reach retirement.

When we, or our national leaders, are interviewed by television, radio or newspaper, or responses to questions placed by the media are not relayed to the public, only a carefully edited morsel designed to portray unionists as bumbling anarchists is released. In short, the interviews are lengthy, the reports are minuscule, if at all.

To close, we ask what really went on at Kelowna? A deal was cut. Is the latest IWA agreement part of that deal?

We realize we are in a fight not just with our employers but also the government, the Employers' Council, Fraser Institute and some members of the news media. We accept the challenge and will respond together in order to gain a contract acceptable to our respective memberships.

the Squamish RCMP on Sunday of a "rumble", we reported that, plus a short story on "a minor fight" at which someone may have been stabbed". This story was carried on the 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. news.

Quotes are taken directly from the story. At no time did we state the rumble and the stabbing were connected.

After receiving a call from Mr. Rutherford, we ran a story at noon saying "Rutherford emphasizes that the stabbing in the schoolyard on Friday was an accident, and had nothing to do with the rumble over the weekend".

After another call from Mr. Rutherford Friday afternoon complaining about the word "stabbing", we used this story at 4 p.m. and 5 p.m.:

"The two boys were rough housing, and a cut, rather than a stabbing resulted, the cut was accidental, says Rutherford, and had no connection with the rumble over the weekend".

To quote Mr. Rutherford's letter to the editor, "The truth may be far less colourful and titillating than the rumour".

Had Mr. Rutherford and his staff contacted us before registering their complaints with you about our news coverage, we could have provided them with the following facts:

On Friday, Feb. 3, we received a number of calls from parents of students at Howe Sound Secondary reporting a "stabbing". Upon confirming with the school board office and the hospital that there had been some type of problem which resulted in a knife wound, we decided to hold onto the story until more information could be obtained on Monday.

This is part of the display for the safety campaign conducted at Valleycliff Elementary. Parents got in the act with students; one father designed this logo while an aunt made the T-shirt.

Students at Valleycliff were lucky enough to experience a wonderful performance by the Pageant Theatre Group from Bowen Island. They performed five plays taken from Rudyard Kipling's collection of Just So Stories using movement, masks and percussion instruments to stimulate the audience's imagination. Valleycliff students would welcome them back.

Valleycliff school buckles up campaign

Valleycliff Elementary School, which won a $500 prize in ICBC's car safety contest last year, has worked on a seatbelt safety project this year.

Students and parents collaborated on some aspects of the project with one of the fathers designing a logo for a T-shirt and a student's aunt making the shirt.

Another item was a large stuffed model of a youngster who had been in an accident and because he didn't buckle up he was nursing a broken arm!

"Why seatbelts are important to our family" was the theme behind the display which is in the Valleycliff library. Families were given four weeks to complete their projects at home. The effort and imagination used is outstanding.

Entries ranged from a meter high wooden Captain Click to the T-shirt design, board games, dolls and a model of an actual crash on Highway 99!

Students brought in poems, stories and songs and these were compiled in a booklet so that everyone could see what has been done.

The booklet will be circulated among the classrooms so everyone can see what the students and their parents have accomplished.

The booklet is filled with drawings and cartoons as well as the stories and offers a great deal of advice for students and for parents.

The display will be in the school until Feb. 24.

Summer Canada '84 Let's put tomorrow's work force on the job today.

Everyone knows that summer jobs give students a chance to earn money to continue their education. But that's just part of the story. Summer employment is also the best way to get the kind of experience that makes it easier to eventually find a full-time job. Employers who hire students help to develop skills that will benefit them in the future.

The Government of Canada will assist sponsors of Summer Canada Works projects with a contribution towards student wages and job-related overhead costs.

YOU CAN HELP TO CREATE JOBS FOR STUDENTS THROUGH SUMMER CANADA WORKS PROJECTS

Summer Canada Works projects provide productive employment for local students. Projects should employ at least three local students and should produce goods or services to benefit the community. All jobs must be full-time and must last between six and 18 consecutive weeks during the summer.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE FOR FUNDING?

Community and volunteer groups, professional and technical associations, most local governments and private sector employers are eligible for Summer Canada Works funding.

HOW TO APPLY

If your organization has an idea for a Summer Canada Works project, contact the nearest Canada Employment Centre or Employment Development Branch office of Employment and Immigration Canada for information and application forms. APPLICATION DEADLINE IS FEBRUARY 24, 1984.

Staff at the Canada Employment Centre can also give you more information about other Summer Canada programs and services. These include:

- SUMMER CAREER ACCESS a student wage subsidy program
- CANADA EMPLOYMENT CENTRES FOR STUDENTS a summer job placement service
- RCMP and DEPARTMENT OF NATIONAL DEFENCE student employment programs

court news

The following cases appeared in provincial court before Judge C.I. Walker on Feb. 6.

Alan Carrigan, charged with impaired driving, was fined $500, in default 14 days.

Josef Benke, charged with impaired driving and refusing to take a breathalyzer test, had both charges dismissed.

Peter Heidenreich and Dean Aldridge appeared on charges of assault causing bodily harm. The charges arose out of an incident in May 1981 involving a male and female, and took place at a party at the foot of the Chief. They were each fined $750, in default 30 days and Heidenreich was given 18 months probation with conditions while Aldridge drew two years probation with conditions.

Judge C.I. Walker presided over the following cases in provincial court in Squamish on Feb. 7.

Thomas Hunt, charged with impaired driving, was fined $1,000, in default 21 days. On a second charge of failing to have any insurance he was fined $300.

Andrew McNeill, charged with impaired driving, was fined $350, in default 14 days.

Hans Geue appeared on two counts of impaired driving and refusing to take a breathalyzer test. A stay of proceedings was issued on the impaired charge, but on the refusal to take the test he was sentenced to three months at the LMRCC, and one year probation on each count, the sentences to be served concurrently. On two charges of failing to have any insurance, a stay of proceedings was issued on one count but on the other he was fined $300.

Shane Boxall, charged with possession of a narcotic, was fined $100, in default five days.

Eivind Hansen, charged with impaired driving, was fined $350, in default 14 days.

Charles Grooms, charged with having an improper licence plate on his motor vehicle, was fined $200. On a further charge of failing to have any insurance, he was fined an additional $300.

Sawdust & Shavings

At last week's annual meeting of the East Howe Sound District Scouts, Urban Mangan, commenting on how many officers and leaders had left the movement and then rejoined it, suggested that a special badge be struck with a rocket on it to signify re-entry!

Spring arrived at our place on Feb. 7 when I first discovered some snowdrops blooming at the foot of the mock orange bush beside the driveway. Granted, the ones which are in a more exposed area are not in bloom yet but this is a sure indication that winter is on its way out.

Overhead at the Squamish Hotel: The couple next door were discussing universities and degrees and one man said his son had completed his B.S. and M.S. and was working on his Ph.D. The other asked what that meant and was told, "Well, you know what B.S. is. M.S. means more of the same and Ph.D. is piled higher and deeper!"

Buckle up for your loved ones

This year show your Valentine how much you care by buckling up. If you have not been using a seat belt for that extra measure of safety, this is an excellent time to begin.

Statistics across Canada and the United States show that your chances of surviving an accident are dramatically increased if you are wearing a seat belt.

Two main reasons people say they don't wear safety restraints are that they feel too confined or they think, in the case of an accident, it would be safer to be thrown clear of the wreckage.

Neither of these excuses is valid. Today seat belts are designed for comfort as well as safety. They allow for physical movement, yet lock into place upon impact.

For those who think it is safer to be thrown clear, remember, unrestrained occupants of a car hitting a solid object at 50 kmh would be ejected at a force more than 100 times that of gravity. BCAA urges that you buckle up on Valentine's Day and every day.

squamish earful

BY MAUREEN GILMOUR

Sunday, Feb. 19 is the date set for the six hour radiothon on Mountain FM Radio in a fund raising effort to provide furnishings for the intermediate and extended care building now under construction. Several people have volunteered their time and they are hoping the phones will be kept ringing from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The government provides about $80,000 for furnishings and equipment but the balance of $70,000 has to be raised through local efforts.

Karen and Randy Smith were pleased to have their mum, Mrs. Irene Patterson from Elmsdale, Nova Scotia visiting with them for the past two weeks. Mrs. Patterson was thrilled to see her newest granddaughter, Ashley who was born on Jan. 11 and also three year old Lori.

The next distribution date for the Food Bank will be this Friday, from 1 to 3 p.m. in St. Joseph's Parish hall on 4th Avenue. Anyone wishing to make a donation or request information is asked to call 892-5748.

Stork Story — CHADWICK — Wayne and Christine are pleased to announce the birth of their son, Colin Angus, weighing 7 lbs. 5 ozs. and born in the Squamish General Hospital on Feb. 1. Proud grandparents are David and Peggy Watt of Squamish and Bill and Gwen Chadwick of 70 Mile House. Great grandparents are Mrs. Watt in Scotland and Mrs. Perry in Surrey. Special thanks from the parents to Dr. Raymond and the nursing staff.

Mrs. Janet Duxbury, the Squamish representative for the B.C. Lung Association said the Christmas Seal Fund was some $3,664 richer thanks to the generosity of residents in this area.

After vacationing in Hawaii, the Barr family, Norman, Doreen, Allan and Scott are sporting super tans. Norm and the boys were out for a day of golfing and to make it a foursome, it was suggested that Alice Cooper join them. Norm said, "You mean Alex not Alice?" You are dating yourself kid but of course Norm I know your boys put you straight. Didn't everyone know that Alice Cooper was a well known "male" rock star a few years back???

Karla Koch and a group of friends are planning a 1975 Howe Sound Secondary School reunion and she would like to hear from former grads. The ten-year reunion is planned for August 1985. Write to Karla at 7616 Hollywood Blvd., #405, Los Angeles, Cal 90046.

Stepping Stones (formerly Squamish Parent Participation) Preschool is now located in the Valleycliffe Christian Fellowship Church. There are openings for three and four year olds. If you wish more information, please contact Diana Bland at 892-5423 or Elizabeth Unsworth, 892-5644.

A first birthday will be celebrated by Lindsay Hill on Saturday and a little belated I know, but Miss Shaela Twiss had her first birthday on Feb. 8.

The Squamish Youth Choral will present the musical "Dreamer — What Really Happened to Joseph" (remember the brother with the coat of many colours?) at the Civic Centre on April 6, 7, and 8. Rehearsals have been underway for several weeks and will continue each Saturday night.

Former resident Ted Mahaffey, now of Prince George was in town last week visiting relatives and friends. He was a guest at the home of Art and Doreen Sherlaw.

The popular CBCTV show Reach For The Top had a team from Howe Sound Secondary School competing recently. Grade 12 students Karen Pattullo and Jason Brown along with Parker

Cook and Wayne Jackson from grade 11 made up the team. Sponsors were Richard Coldwell (gr. 11) and Christine White (gr. 10). The young people will make their first appearance on TV on Saturday, Feb. 25 at 9:30 a.m.

Stork Story — DRESCHER — Werner and Dawn Drescher (nee Arnet) were the pleased parents of the first babies born in Smithers in 1984. Identical twin boys were born Jan. 3 with 6 lbs. 4 1/4 oz. Ryan Curtis Werner arriving at 1:46 a.m. and Kyle Charles Walter, weighing 6 lbs. 1 oz. arriving at 1:49 a.m. Former residents (of Squamish and Pemberton), Mr. and Mrs. Chris Arnet of Tomahawk, Alberta and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Drescher are the proud grandparents. The great grandparents are Mrs. Ida Young of Vancouver and Mrs. Jackie Gray of Maple Ridge.

The Canadian Heart Fund campaign is ongoing until Feb. 26. Local chairman Elaine Hopkins said the local campaign is going well but there are still many homes to canvass. If you are not home during the canvass but still wish to contribute, call in at the Squamish Physiotherapy Centre on Cleveland Avenue with your donation.

Doreen and Ken Ramus were in Phoenix, Arizona earlier this month visiting their son Bruce. He is still a stage manager with the Up With People organization and the cast was preparing to leave for performances in Texas, Tennessee, Missouri and other States. Doreen and Ken also went to Mexico.

Howe Sound Drama Club is looking for an accompanist-director to assist in any future musicals the Club may want to present. Please call Peg at 898-5260 after 5 p.m. if interested.

Wedding anniversary wishes to

Mr. and Mrs. Alex McBride, Mr. and Mrs. John Archer, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Goss, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Danks, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kilburn, Mr. and Mrs. Brett Hartnell, Mr. and Mrs. John Sikora, Mr. and Mrs. A. Tamburini and Mr. and Mrs. John Knudsen.

The fund is growing and as of Friday, the Variety Club Telethon donations at the Royal Bank totalled close to $500. Remember, the big telethon is on BCTV Feb. 25 and 26.

Our Timber Queen Shannon Atkinson was one of 59 pageant queens who attended the annual Vernon Winter Carnival on the Feb. 3-5 weekend. Each young lady was presented to Lieutenant Governor Robert Rogers and each rode in the parade and attended the Snow Flake Ball. Shannon was a great ambassador for our community and she made everyone aware of the fun and excitement of Squamish Days. She was accompanied by her mum, Jackie Atkinson and both agreed the hospitality had been fantastic. This was Shannon's first official function since being crowned Miss Timber Queen last July.

In support of the local Heart Fund campaign, the Squamish Squash Club will hold a tournament on Friday night.

She's a great "trooper" and its good to have "Nanna" Todd back after a stay in hospital in Vancouver. Nanna said what with all the lovely cards she received and prayers said for her, she just had to feel better!

And in the middle it says
"I love you"

The Best Valentine

The flowers are blooming
My heart is zooming
Friends give flowers
So be my Valentine like flowers

I love ladies in big silk dresses
But most of all I love friends without any messes

Pee Wee Reps show strength too late

With roughly four games left in the regular season and currently sitting back in sixth spot, Howe Sound Pee Wee rep coach Ted Hart summed up his team's playoff hopes with, "I don't think we'll make it."

A dismal opening half of the season is to blame for the club has played considerably better since Christmas. Thursday's home game added proof to the pudding as the locals dished out a 4-1 edging at the expense of North Vancouver.

For the fans it was a bit frustrating as they watched their boys build up a 2-0 lead and then sit back to enable the Vancouverites to apply pressure.

Nineteen seconds into the first period Brian Jahnke, one of four returnees from last year's squad, ripped a sizzling drive in Guy Lafleur-like fashion from the top of the face-off circle right by a startled netminder.

Nine seconds into the middle frame Dale Hart picked off the short side to increase this advantage two-fold, but then it became a game of fundamental mistakes that almost cost Squamish. They stopped skating and were constantly being beaten to the puck by the steady fore-checking of Vancouver forwards.

The latter's ineptness helped, though, for minutes after a pass from the boards was deflected under keeper Dean Reesky to make it 2-1, the visitors got tied up in their own skates to botch a 3-on-1 rush.

Howe Sound immediately counter-attacked, took advantage of North Vancouver coughing up the puck in their own end and shovelled home the insurance marker a la Scott Hunter.

In a tight, scramble contest the lead proved to be too much for the out-of-towners and Hart nailed the coffin shut in the third frame by working his way towards the net on a give-and-go series of passes with David Keeler.

Vince's storms back

by Mike Eckersley

It could be, perhaps, billed as one of the most exciting games this season.

Personal opinions aside, the Sunday match up between the Raiders and Vince's Pizzeria will eventually come back to haunt the former club in its bid for top spot in the Howe Sound Men's Hockey League.

Down at one point in the first period by the score of 4-0, Vince's survived a rash of penalties in the second half and tremendous pressure in the late going to literally steal a 6-4 victory.

The loss by the Raiders, incidentally, was the team's second in a row, having been ambushed 6-3 by the Home Hardware Hawks on Feb. 1. It was also their fourth defeat in five contests.

With six games left the Raiders find themselves in third, four points back of the division leading Whistler Winterhawks which has 43 points.

All seemed to be going well for the slumping Raiders as Gary Halvorson, Matt Ambrose, Lino Vanzella and Bob Versluis all ripped shots in behind Pizzeria keeper Murray Deno. Things looked even better when Vince's Tom Johnston was ejected with coinciding infractions of holding, roughing and a five minutes match.

Actually it had an opposite affect as Vince's began to play with more emotion and a mere 17 seconds after Johnston was sent to the showers and with the teams at five aside, Brent Wood hit pay dirt.

The club then came storming out in the second frame and with 3:38 showing on the clock Ray Lacourse bagged the winner, albeit a strange one.

Meanwhile, the Whistler Winterhawks are a team on a roll, riding a five game winning streak to take over first place overall. Included in this record was Sunday's game against the Home Hardware Hawks in which the former logged an 8-2 win.

Again the opening moments proved to be deceiving as it appeared it was going to be a goaltender's night. Both teams dinged a pair of drives off goal posts with the keepers clearly beaten.

Hats off, though, had to go to Hawk Ade Laramie who made several big stops to keep his team in the running during the first frame. Without him the score would have undoubtedly been worse though it was his mishandling of a bouncing puck that led to the Winterhawks first goal, by Mark Sadler, that tied the match.

Steve Blackett gave Hardware a brief moment of glory when he gobbled up the rebound of a Tom O'Brien shot from the point and tucked the puck in behind Kevin Crowston to make it 1-0.

Triple C Logging is also playing with a hot hand having won the last five straight. Though they stand at 38 points, good enough for fourth position and five back of Whistler, the C's do enjoy two games in hand over the latter side.

In their only game of the week, which came on Wednesday, Triple C stormed their way to an 8-0 victory over the Cliffside Blues. C's keeper Rick James rarely had his shutout bid tested while at the other end the only thing holding back the offense was determined nailing of Steve Hadden.

Despite some rather good saves it was like trying to stop the Squamish River with a cork as Chuck Gardner, Rick Rosser, Dave Anthony, each with a pair, Ron Rosser and Tim Cyr all bulged the mesh.

Cyr supplied the winning margin with the help of Brian Clarke and Terry James just 29 seconds into the contest.

In other games Hunter's clipped the Blues 3-2 on Saturday while Whistler earned 8-4 and 14-3 victories at the expense of Hunter's and Vince's respectively.

An added note for hockey fans, especially those who were on hand to witness the exciting contest between the RCMP and the Division Three All-Stars, is a re-match scheduled March 2 at 8:45 p.m.

Teacher's travels in Zimbabwe

by Herb Johnston
Herb Johnston, science coordinator at Howe Sound Secondary, recently returned from a six week volunteer teaching assignment in Zimbabwe, Africa. During this time he was able to visit many parts of Zimbabwe.

The Christmas holiday period provided a two week opportunity to see the countryside of Zimbabwe, formerly Southern Rhodesia, and all six Canadian team members looked forward to seeing the highlights of Zimbabwe.

Fortunately we were able to make reservations after our arrival in Zimbabwe early in December. To anyone contemplating a holiday in beautiful Zimbabwe, it is worth noting we were almost too late to get anywhere in Zimbabwe by leaving our bookings until that time. Few sightseeing buses run and most tourists get around using the few daily airplane runs. It does not take long before all seats are filled.

The witch doctor, more commonly called spiritualist or herbalist in Africa, was away, but Herb Johnston took a moment to get a closer look at the hut.

We worked out a plan that involved air, bus, rented van and walking for a two week tour of the countryside.

The first destination was a flight to Hwange Game Reserve, formerly Wankie. Arrival at the game reserve hotel saw 35° Celsius temperatures and sunny skies.

A quick change to bathing suits by the pool and we were soon staring at baboons, many birds and before long a herd of about 200 elephants coming for their daily watering. All this took place within 200 feet of the pool.

One of the safari guides asked if we would like to accompany him in his land rover into the middle of the herd of elephants for some good pictures. This was an opportunity not to be missed so, camera in hand, we were soon looking down the trunk of bull elephants at 20 feet.

My new telephoto lens brought me eyeball to eyeball with these magnificent creatures. Many pictures later we were back at the pool.

Next was a late afternoon and evening safari ride through the many miles of park roads. Everywhere we looked there were different life forms to see — wart hogs, giraffes, zebras, impalas, wildebeeste, monkeys, birds and many more.

We soon learned to control the trigger finger on the camera or we were going to be out of film. It is impossible to buy slide in Zimbabwe, mostly because of the expense of projectors.

During the evening safari we used a spotlight; it was amazing to see eyes looking at us from every direction.

The highlight of the evening safari was finding an aardwolf which is rarely seen. It appears to be a cross between a jackal and a hyena.

That night we slept in bush camp which is a series of round clay huts in the bush. Although it sounds like rough accommodation, the huts were tastefully laid out for tourists.

We were up with the sun at 5:30 a.m. to go on a walking safari and investigated everything from a myriad of tracks made the night before to dung beetles and hairy caterpillars. The guide asked if we would like to try eating the latter and, being one of several crazy Canucks, I willingly offered my hat to collect them.

The complement of 36 caterpillars were first cleaned by squeezing, boiled and then fried in butter. With some hesitation we closed our eyes and bit into them to discover they resembled potato chips in flavour. One caterpillar filled us and we returned to main camp to ready for departure to the famous Victoria Falls.

The falls were spectacular! Here the Zambezi River tumbles 100 metres into a gorge about a mile long. The cloud of mist rises about 400 metres in the air and falls in what appears to be rain.

The effect on the vegetation was creation of a Tarzan-like jungle or what is properly called a tropical rain forest which stretches for only about 500 yards.

Another impressive aspect was that there was little protection from the cliff edge. It appeared the falls and area were changed little from the time David Livingstone, the famous missionary doctor explorer, first discovered them in the 1850s.

While there we also attended a Christmas church service in a black African Township church. To hear the beating of the drums and harmonizing of African voices, all blending to create the Christmas spirit, was a most memorable experience.

Victoria Falls was all we had been led to expect and more.

The next leg of the journey was a coach ride from Harare to the beautiful Eastern Highlands by the highveld, high fields, that we had been used to in the centre of Zimbabwe changed to erratic mountains ranging up to about 3,000 metres.

It was here, in the valley and mountains, that many blacks had been resettled by the whites in what was known as tribal trust lands. Basically the soil was poor and the African plowed out a meagre existence, usually on maize (corn).

Literally thousands of clay or dakhia houses with grass roofs populate the land. It is in the mountains of this part of Zimbabwe where tea and coffee crops grow and it is also the playground of the more well-to-do Zimbabweans.

The views from their peaks were spectacular, allowing us to see for 70 kilometres toward Mozambique to the east. It was indeed an unusual experience to find wild bananas growing at the 2,000 metre level. Snow never comes to these mountains.

Although this is the area where leopards are found we were fortunate not to encounter any.

The Eastern Highlands of Zimbabwe had to rate as one of the most spectacular and lush areas we had ever seen.

Next on the journey was travel on by local African bus to the southern area of the country to see the famous Zimbabwe ruins.

The buses are difficult to describe, but they are exceptionally long, holding more than 100 people. They are built like Sherman tanks and are just about as noisy, except that you can't hear the noise over the radio blaring out African music. Luggage racks are up on top of the bus and they carry everything from bicycles to live goats and anything else you can imagine.

They stop everywhere there are people waiting. The conductor is frequently seen climbing out the door to the top of the luggage rack while the bus is speeding along at 80 kilometres per hour and thinking it is great fun.

As it was Dec. 31, the local African travellers decided it was good party time and provided music using a pail as a drum. Road checks by police were frequent as many of the buses had been overloaded recently and some of the drivers had been caught drinking or driving off the road.

Needless to say, there was no shortage of things to look at. People were extremely friendly. In fact, we concluded it was the only way to really see the country, even if it did take ten hours to travel 300 kilometres and all for $5.40. We were also the only whites on these buses.

The last highlight was the visit to the ancient ruins of Great Zimbabwe. It was after these ruins that the country took its new name following the war of independence. Zimbabwe means "houses of stone".

These ruins are extensive stone walls and houses built on a hilltop and in the surrounding valley. They are truly a mystery as the tribe that lived there left no writings of any type.

The few articles found through excavations indicate that it was likely a trading town that flourished between 1200 AD. Articles were found that came from China, India and Arabia. Other finds include nine unusual birds carved in soapstone that were seemingly half human and half bird. Whatever they were, they have been incorporated into the flag and are representative of the country.

The massive stone ruins are the largest structure south of the Sahara Desert leaving us awestruck as to the life that had once existed there.

The Canadian teachers were most fortunate to have experienced many of the highlights of this beautiful country of Zimbabwe. There are many things left unsaid that are difficult to describe — the warm African sunsets, kindness shown us by the African people, music and laughter and much more.

To those who yearn for adventure, Zimbabwe is a great and growing country to visit.
