Highway 99

closed

Highway 99 will be closed from 10 a.m. to noon today at Windy Point, 20 km north of Horseshoe Bay.

The closure is to allow the Dept. of Highways to continue the blasting and scaling operations on the highway.

Bennett denies election in the air

B.C. Premier Bill Bennett last week crushed the suggestion that a provincial election may be called shortly.

Bennett, who was in Whistler attending a week-long cabinet retreat, was responding to reporters at the signing of the Provincial-Municipal Partnership Agreement between Whistler and the B.C. government.

Bennett told reporters he has been bombarded with inquiries regarding a possible upcoming election.

"You'd be better off placing bets at the horse races," Bennett quipped.

Whistler becomes 50th municipality to join Partnership Program

Whistler became the 50th municipality Sept. 4 to sign the Provincial-Municipal Partnership Act with the

B.C. Government.

Premier Bill Bennett and Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Ritchie, Whistler to participate in the provincial cabinet retreat, attended the signing ceremony at the Whistler Municipal Hall with Whistler Mayor Terry Rogers.

Bennett said the Partnership Agreement, an economic scheme designed to provide tax breaks to new industries and expanding companies, merely "enhances the partnership we've always had," between the provincial government and the municipality of Whistler.

"This will allow you to get on with the job," Bennett told the small gathering.

"You don't have to wait for the bureaucracy in Victoria," he added. "This will contribute to the economic renewal that started last year."

Bennett added he hoped over 100 municipalities will sign similar agreements with the province. He said each agreement signed is tailored to fit the particular municipality.

"Each community has its own unique industries" Bennett explained.

Bennett also alluded to the lagging tourism industry in recent years, blaming it on the economic recession. He added, however, that the government began a conscious resort upgrading program several years ago, and referred to Whistler as "the flagship."

Whistler Mayor Terry Rogers echoed Bennett's suggestion that a time for recovery was here and added: "It's time to broaden our community."

Rogers also thanked the B.C. government for its economic aid to the resort municipality.

"Without a great deal of provincial assistance in the past decade, we wouldn't be here," Rogers said.

Under the new agreement, Whistler will be able to provide for property tax breaks of 50 percent for new industries and the expansion of existing companies. The province will give equivalent breaks.

The program will also allow the municipality the authority to offer special tax incentives and reduced fees to new or expanding business.

Under the agreement, Whistler will also be exempt from the Municipal Act which will allow the municipality to reduce municipal property taxes on all new improvements in industrial property.

As part of the program, the province will reduce the provincial non-residential school tax in participating municipalities by 50 percent for new industrial improvement.

An added feature of the program is electricity discounts to industries.

Bennett avoided answering specifically how the new agreement will directly benefit Whistler, suggesting instead that the local council would best be able to answer.

The Provincial-Municipal Partnership Agreement program was first announced by the provincial government in mid-March.

At the time of the announcement, Ritchie said in a press release: "Economic renewal and job creation are the most pressing issues of the public agenda and it has been increasingly recognized that local communities and their elected governments have unique abilities to work in partnership with the province in shaping and motivating economic growth in the private sector."

Whistler's signing of the agreement follows closely Squamish's decision to enter into a similar agreement with the province.

Ritchie was in Squamish on July 18 to sign the agreement with Squamish council.

Council places temporary ban on chemical spraying

Council passed a motion at the Sept. 3 council meeting to stop all chemical spraying on municipally-controlled property for three weeks.

The ban will be in effect until Oct. 8 when council will receive a report from the Works and Services Committee regarding an all-out ban on spraying in the area.

Council passed the motion, introduced by Alderman Chuck Harvey and seconded by Alderman Corinne Lonsdale, after receiving a delegation representing the Committee Opposed to Pesticide and Herbicides Spraying (COPHS).

At the same meeting, council squashed a motion introduced by Lonsdale to put the issue of chemical spraying to the public via a referendum at the upcoming municipal election.

The motion to place a temporary ban on spraying for three weeks was passed by council, 5-1, with Alderman Wilf Dowad voting against the motion.

Said Dowad: "A total banning-I don't see how we can do that."

Alderman Dave Stewart also spoke out against a total banning of pesticide and herbicide spraying in the municipality.

"A total ban bothers me," Stewart said. "Our job is not to go around banning things but to make sure things are handled correctly."

Stewart added B.C. has the strictest chemical spraying laws in the country.

Brian Giles, COPHS delegation member, responded quickly to Stewart's comment.

"Dave that's a crock," Giles said. "There are kids getting sick. There is a possibility of a death in North Vancouver. There have been problems with spraying throughout B.C."

Stewart also questioned the delegation about the alleged misuse of chemical spraying by local officials.

"They're not spraying along the highway," Stewart pointed out to the delegation. "I'm not aware of any misuse."

Alderman Ron Barr concurred with Stewart: "The Parks Dept. has not gone out and done blind spraying. There's been no spraying on playing fields. This is a misconception that people seem to have."

The two-member delegation from COPHS comprised of local residents Brian Giles and Hilary Sheffield, initially requested council pass a motion designating the municipality a pesticide and herbicide free zone, such as instituted in the City of Port Coquitlam.

"We're looking for an extension of the present by-law

Partnership Agreement signing ceremony, skirted an-that covers aerial spraying," Sheffield explained to council.

"We can't come before you over every permit for spraying that comes up."

Sheffield added that COPHS would like to see the ban extend to public lands, and called a total ban, including private property, "unrealistic."

As an alternative to council making an immediate decision on banning spraying, Sheffield suggested organizing a public forum in an effort to resolve the issue.

Said Lonsdale, who introduced the defeated motion for a public referendum: "I am very much in favor of it going to public referendum and giving everybody a chance to voice their opinion."

The motion was defeated, 5-1.

swering directly the future of the proposed hydrogen peroxide plant at FMC.

"Bob McClelland (Minister of Industry and Small Business Development) is on top of it," Bennett said.

"I'm aware of the situation," he added. "As far as I know the plant is only being re-assessed. It hasn't been cancelled."

Bennett attributed the recent decision by FMC of Canada Ltd. to halt further development on the new plant site to changing U.S. market.

FMC announced its decision to re-evaluate the size of the hydrogen peroxide plant in early August, less than one month after Bennett attended the sod-turning ceremony in Squamish for the new $35 million plant.

FMC officials said the halt to further development on the site is to determine whether or not to make the proposed plant larger than originally intended.

In a press release, William A. McMinn, vice-president and general manager, Industrial Chemicals group of FMC, said: "During the past weeks there have been several announcements of new hydrogen peroxide capacity in North America. These announcements dictate we should review our world-wide strategy. This review will include the size of our Squamish plant while pending issues of Canadian offsets are resolved."

FMC Vice President and Resident Manager Jack Selby later told the Times that he did not know when construction on the site would resume.

The proposed plant was to be located adjacent to the existing chlor-alkali plant on the north end of FMC's property, occupying 10,000 square metres.

Minister of Municipal Affairs, Bill Ritchie, also at the signing of the Whistler Partnership Agreement, declined to elaborate on the FMC plant saying he has been out of the country and was not familiar with all the details.

Ritchie did confirm, however, that Squamish's decision to enter into the government Partnership agreement was largely swayed by FMC's decision to build a new hydrogen peroxide plant in the area.

Keynote speaker Dr. Milt McLarin, right, chatting with Tom Crogt at the seminar for trustees and administrators at the North Vancouver Outdoor School last week. Representatives from Howe Sound School District No. 48 met to talk about future trends in education.

Trustees, administrator enjoy day-long seminar

Trustees and administrative staff from Howe Sound School District No. 48 enjoyed a day-long seminar at the North Vancouver Outdoor School Conference Centre on Thursday, Aug. 29.

The topic was trends in education in the future and how this district would cope with them. The keynote speaker was Dr. Milt McLarin, an associate professor of education at Simon Fraser University and he spoke on the perspectives of the future, indicating some of the factors which would have impact on education in the next 10-15 years.

Following his speech, the group broke into smaller groups and discussed the varying trends and how they could be met. Then, following lunch, they met again and each group outlined what it felt should be done and where the emphasis on how to deal with education should be placed.

Six significant fields were delineated and methods of handling them discussed. Community involvement in education was one area which the seminar members felt should be widened. In many schools there is community involvement by parents and others with expertise in various fields.

This could be expanded to set up an advisory commitee for community involvement.

Another suggestion was that the board should meet with the staff and parents at each school and ascertain their needs and viewpoints.

One recommendation was that each trustee should have certain schools which they would visit and show an interest in. In other words, trustees would have "pet" schools and schools would have "pet" trustees. This would involve the trustees more effectively with the schools and make them more aware of their needs and desires.

The board and administrators decided more should be done to sell the positive effects of education to the public. Instead of complaining about everything that is wrong, dwell on the positive effects of what is being done and try to enhance them.

Another recommendation was that the school situation for teachers should be improved to maximize the service for the pupils. Happy, motivated teachers would have happy motivated students.

And, finally, it was decided that all those involved in education should emphasize the good things about school and education and stress the good activities both curricular and extra-curricular.

Trends which will affect education in the next decade

On Aug. 29 the trustees, principals and administrative aides from Howe Sound School District No. 48 heard an interesting talk by Dr. Milt McLaren which provoked ideas for discussion on education in the next decade.

McLaren, who is an associate professor of education at Simon Fraser University, gave a very provocative talk on how to equip young people to prepare them for the next century.

He spoke on some of the factors influencing education today, saying we are in turbulent times; that we are facing problems created by world events and must be prepared to cope with them. Times are changing and the old methods of education no longer apply to the future.

He pointed out that from 1945, from the time the Marshall Plan was instituted, to the beginning of the GPEC problem in 1974, the world had lived in the longest period of economic stability in history.

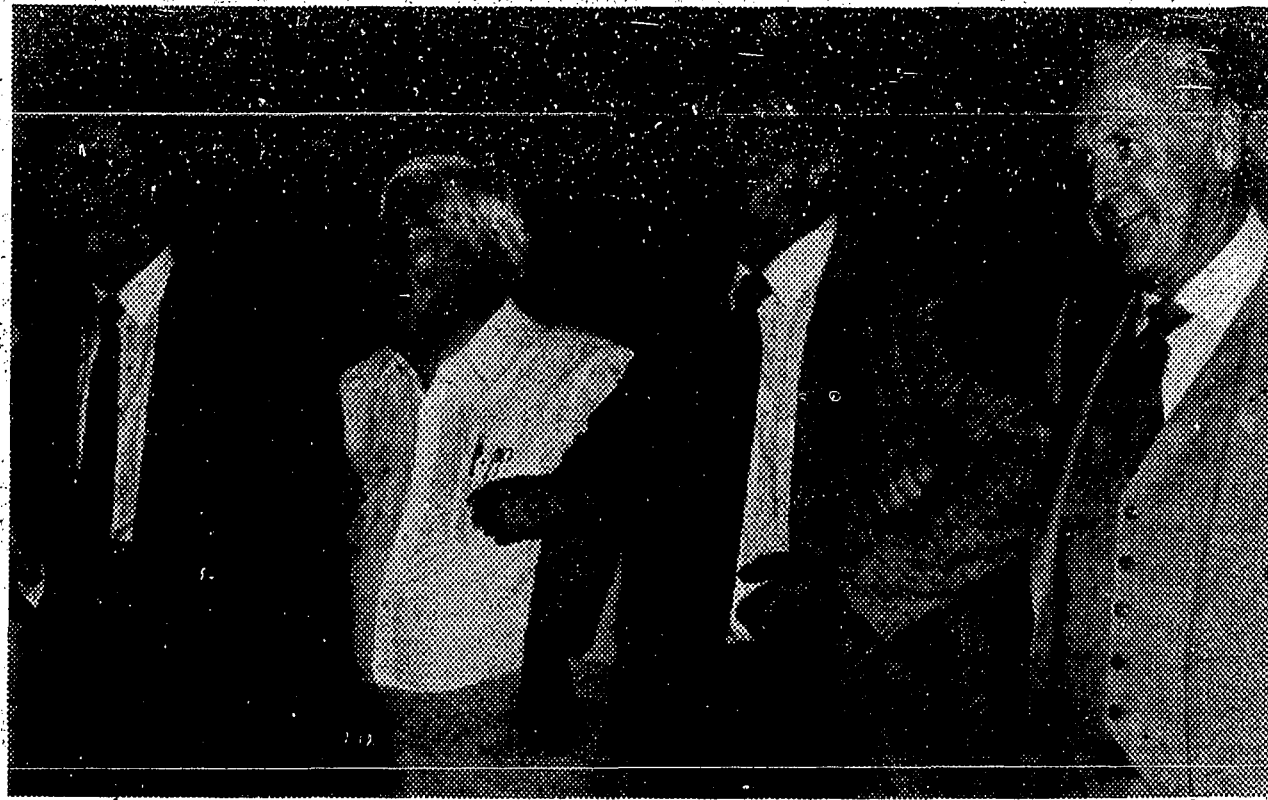

"I'm not a futurist," he stated, "most of the futurists turn out to be wrong. I think predicting the future is a very difficult business. All we can do is recognize the forces working on the public schools and see what they show."

He pointed out that the change in the age structure of countries is a significant factor in predicting education needs.

By 1990, 60 percent of the population in the developed countries will be over 50 years of age. People in the Third World countries will be younger. By the end of this century 80 percent of the people in the Third World will be in the 20's.

This throws a need for education for the older people on the education system.

"Traditionally," he said, "education is considered to be most important for the young people and health care most important for the elderly. But we are seeing that education is increasingly more important for the older person."

He stated that in the 1980's it is the young people who are having a hard time. A hard time to get jobs and to establish themselves.

In the past four decades there has been a major shift in the work structure. In 1957 there were, for the first time, more white collar workers than blue collar workers. Agriculture, which used to be a large field for workers, is now highly mechanized and agricultural workers are only a miniscule factor in the work force.

"Computers are one of the least understood of the modern developments," he told the audience, "and one which has brought about many changes."

McLaren stressed the changes brought about in the world economy by new technologies and techniques; the change from metals to ceramics, to plastic, to graphite fibres which are being increasingly used instead of metal. Iron is no longer as

Drive Carefully

It's that time of year again when motorists are advised to drive carefully, especially around 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. when students will be going to or coming from the various schools in the districts.

Most parents have taught children how to behave when they cross busy streets or intersections, but children, and even the older students are sometimes distracted and do not pay attention to oncoming traffic.

School crossing guards do their best to alleviate the situation and many parents walk their little ones to school, but sooner or later, the time comes when the child is on its own and that's when the crunch comes.

Motorists are asked to be specially careful about children riding bikes to and from school. These youngsters are taught bicycle safety but again a slight distraction or incident could lead to an accident.

There are a number of schools in the district and while we have been fortunate in never having a fatal accident on the roads near the schools, there is always the possibility that one could occur. Please ensure that you are not the motorist involved if there should be one.

Drive carefully this first week of school and every other week.

Estuary "treasure" to Squamish

Dear Editor,

The McDonald Report recommends non-resource development to help Canada re-establish its economy. Mr. Bennett praises Whistler and we may see tourism as the industry of B.C.

Squamish has some unexploited attractions for tourists.

I understand the first return of fish to the Tenderfoot Hatchery is expected this year. This could be quite an asset.

The estuary just west of downtown is a pristine wilderness of natural beauty. The Squamish Public Library is currently mounting a display on the Squamish estuary. There are slides, a movie and microscope compliments of the North Van. Outdoor School with which to view estuary wildlife. Next Wednesday, September 11, the governing body of the Squamish Estuary Management Plan will be in Squamish for a meeting. Hopefully they will be pleased to notice the public interest in the biological treasures of our estuary.

Walter Clarke

Temporary ban on spraying applauded

Dear Editor,

Last Tuesday Squamish District Council voted to suspend herbicide and pesticides spraying in the municipality until October 8. A group called COPHS (Committee Opposed to Pesticide & Herbicide Spraying) produced information showing that Port Coquitlam has had a ban for a couple of years with no problems, and Vancouver has just followed suit.

We support Hilary Sheffield and COPHS completely in their efforts to bring about healthy, safe environment for our children and ourselves. It was probably without pleasure that she read the letter from a mother in the Eagle Run area who watched Parks employees spray a local park and then saw children playing in the same area directly afterwards.

Council will be assessing the matter over the next four weeks and then at their 7 p.m. evening meeting on Tuesday, October 8th, they will decide on their next step. We applaud their concern and hope that interested members of the public will be there to voice their concern.

Sincerely,
Brian Giles,
Secretary, Squamish Estuary Conservation Society.

TV viewers have rights too

Dear Editor,

How long will it be before the People of Squamish become aware that we do have rights. We do not need to watch 6 television stations from wherever. And of course 4 & 6 are subject to CRTC permission and another bloody rate change - payable 3 months in advance. It is time for a change!

Thank you

Visitor Praises Air Alps

Dear Editor,

During a recent trip to Vancouver, I made a two day excursion to Squamish. The scenery in Howe Sound is all the guide books say. But the highlight of the trip was a sightseeing flight, including a landing on a glacier, with your local charter firm Air Alps Ltd.

During travel to over 40 countries I have done few things more exciting. No wonder 20,000 people a year take similar flights in New Zealand. I can imagine Squamish becoming as famous as Stratford, or Niagara Falls. You are indeed fortunate to have Ron Banner and Air Alps at the Squamish Airport.

Dear Editor,
Re: soliciting of local merchants by B.C. Coast Skating Program.

Because of some misunderstanding, which arose last fall, we hope this letter will prevent the situation from repeating itself.

Donations made to B.C. Coast Skating Program benefit skaters in one particular competition. Last year four skaters from our club attended this competition. However, the Squamish Skating Club receives no direct donations made to B.C. Coast Skating Program and we are in no way affiliated with this advertising company.

You don't need to look at the calendar to know that summer is over. The cooler days, a bit of a chill at night and the fall rains which have started, but in a mild way, are all indicators that the year is drawing to a close. Have you noticed how soon it gets dark? There were days last summer when the daylight seemed to last forever, but now by eight o'clock it's almost dark.

Even our little cat seems to notice the change in the seasons. During the summer we'd have a terrible time getting him to come in at night and often have to play 'chase the kitty' before he'd tire of the game and let himself be caught. Now he seems to be glad to come in and settles down quite nicely without trying to get outside again. He's also more content to stay inside in the mornings and doesn't bug us to let him out at the crack of dawn.

During the summer, he would start prowling by five o'clock and by seven he would be standing at the door begging to be let out. Noticed last week he wanted out by 7:30. It was a cool morning with a hint of rain and by the time I left for work, just after eight, he was ready to come in again. Maybe he's got more sense than I have!

We're still busy working on the place. Beth has most of it raked and ready to seed. We planted some grass seed this spring but with the hot weather, couldn't manage to keep it wet enough so now she is reseeding the bare patches. The beauty bush has come back beautifully after it was chopped down last fall and by next year should be lovely. The kerria is also a mass of new growth and there are a number of other young plants which will be allowed to grow. It has such lovely soft yellow balls of blossoms in the spring.

However, the forsythia seems to be dead and I'll have to get another one. Mine was one of the older varieties so it will be a good idea to get one of the newer ones. I'd also like to transplant a few mountain ash trees to the property. There are a few places where one could be put and they add such a bright note to the property when they are full berried as they are this year.

The honeysuckle that we transplanted is also growing and perhaps a few more could be placed along the river bank where they could climb into the trees. Surprisingly the mountain ash which is growing from the top of the old spruce snag some 30 feet above the ground, is full of berries and seems to be thriving. After the hot summer, you would think it would be dead!

The signs of fall are everywhere. The gusty winds of the last few days are bringing the leaves down and they are swirling along the ground and on the lawn. The vine maples are turning into gorgeous shades of pink, crimson and magenta while some seem to take on golden tones. The western dogwood changes to a gorgeous crimson or magenta in the fall, accented by white berries while the blueberry and huckleberry bushes change to a blazing scarlet.

The roads and highways are edged by grasses which turn golden in the fall, with clumps of purple asters and goldenrod, accented by the dried flowers of the pearly everlasting.

This has been a wonderful year for the fruit trees. Starting with spring cherry crop the trees have been loaded with fruit. People have reported heavy crops of apples with some of the early trees so loaded with fruit that much of it has fallen to the ground. I know they hybrid crabapple on the river bank has as much fruit that the branches are bending over. The wild crabapples are also bearing heavily and a drive through the valley shows the profusion of the fruit on the mountain ash.

The birds love the mountain ash, or rowan tree, so beloved of the Scots people, and they will literally move in on a tree and strip it of all the fruit in a very short time. The wild varieties, which grow along the highway to Whistler and Pemberton, are shorter than the tame ones and many of them have scarlet berries as well as the more familiar orange ones. However, the trees are short and stubby more like shrubs than trees.

Beth also wants some willows cut in order to let more light in on the birch tree and the seedling cork elm. Last summer, she made two bird baths and set them up on some old stumps. During the hot weather, the birds loved them and of course the cats couldn't get at them.

But it would be nice to get a few more shrubs, particularly those which would attract the birds, or which have decorative seeds or berries to add a splash of color to the fall and winter scene. The shrub roses which has wound its way through the mock orange bush is loaded with rose hips and these turn a beautiful reddish orange. They are indispensable in making flower arrangements for winter and add a note of color to the garden. Of course, the berberis and the cotoneaster are always a source of brilliant berries in winter and the dark green foliage makes a gorgeous contrast. But even when the leaves are gone, the berries are beautiful. They look particularly lovely against a stone wall.

This is always a good time in the garden. If you were one of the lucky people who grew tomatoes you will have more than you know what to do with. They make a beautiful gazpacho soup, which can be frozen. And those who love corn are so pleased to see fall come with its tender ears of golden corn that taste so good. All you need is a pot of corn, lots of bread and butter, and a simple dessert to make a satisfying meal.

Late summer and fall also means pickling time and I can remember the years when I made gallons of dill pickles; pints and pints of sweet cucumber pickles, cucumber relish and a delicious relish for meats made with green and red peppers and onions. But have you

Hey Kids!

Do you have good sense?

Garibaldi Park and Park Naturalist Sadie Culliford invite all children between the ages of six and twelve to an exciting new program on the shores of Cheakamus Lake Sunday September 15. During the 1 1/2 hour program, Sadie will encourage children to explore their senses through numerous activities including a "Blind" Walk, "Meet-a-tree," and the "Un-nature Trail".

The program will begin at 2:00 in the afternoon, at a site approximately three kilometres from the Cheakamus Lake Trail parking lot. Just follow the lake trail through the magical fairy forest until you come to an orange flag on a pole! That's where the fun will really begin! While the kids explore, parents can enjoy themselves amid the spectacular scenery surrounding Cheakamus Lake. Bring a fishing rod and a camera; catch some fish--or explore the heart of a moss-carpeted mature coast forest.

Cheakamus Lake is located within Garibaldi Provincial Park. Access to the parking lot is gained from Highway 99 approximately eight kilometres south of Whistler. Those of you travelling north will find the sign marking the turnoff approximately 45 kilometres north of Squamish. The parking lot is situated approximately five kilometres from hwy. 99 at the end of a well-kept gravel road. Hope to see you there! Sadie Culliford Park Naturalist Garibaldi Provincial Park.

Council endorses Sea to Sky Country

Council unanimously passed a motion at the Sept. 3 council meeting to support the Squamish and Howe Sound Chamber of Commerce in its bid to have the area from Lions Bay to D'Arcy identified as the "Sea-to-Sky Country".

The motion came after council received a letter from the Squamish and Howe Sound Chamber of Commerce requesting council's support in the matter.

Phil Turner, Chamber President, said in his letter to council that similar motions were passed by the Whistler Chamber of Commerce, the Whistler Resort Association, and the Squamish and Howe Sound Chamber of Commerce.

The "Sea to Sky Country" designation is intended to be used in promoting tourism and travel in the area.

A touch of Japan

On the last Wednesday of August the trustees and administrators, comprised of principals and administrative aides at the schools in the Howe Sound School District, enjoyed a Japanese evening at the North Vancouver Outdoor School Conference centre.

The Japanese theme stemmed from the recent visit of Grant Dickson, principal of Brackendale Elementary School, to Japan, where he saw the Japanese education system in action.

He had some comments to make about the students' expertise in math and gave a list of numbers to be multiplied to two of the administrators. The Japanese students did them without the aid of computers in record time and even with computers the two Howe Sound people couldn't match them. However, Dickson explained that these competitors were the top students.

He showed a video tape taken in some of the schools they visited and pointed out the wide use of computers in Japanese schools. However he also pointed out the high cost of education in Japan where students who want to be admitted to the top universities have to go to "Cramming" schools and take many hours of extra training if they want to be admitted.

He also displayed examples of work by Japanese students and showed many of the gifts which had been given to him and his wife.

A typical Japanese meal with sushi, tempura, chicken yakator, shish-kabobs and rice was served to the guests along with sake, the Japanese rice wine.

Later the group ended the evening with a sing-song and Japanese song, with Japanese words, sung to the tunes of Brahms Lullaby, you simply haven't lived! you simply haven't lived!

The evening was delightful and set the scene for the day-long seminar which followed.

Workman injured in grader accident

James Gunn was taken to Lions Gate Hospital in North Vancouver with serious injuries following an accident on Aug. 23 at 12:56 p.m. when a grader he was driving left the highway just south of Depot Road.

The driver was proceeding south on Highway 99 when he applied the brakes. The grader left the road and hit a barn on the left side of the highway, demolishing the structure.

Gunn, aged 49, received broken ribs and other injuries and was taken to hospital. The accident is still under investigation.

Board approves residence for CMOS

The board of school trustees approved the construction of a residence at the Coast Mountain Outdoor School. Funds for this construction came from the sale of property at Garibaldi where there used to be a school. This money has been earmarked for the construction of buildings at CMOS since the sale.

Teachers Rick Price and Delores Franz-Los pointed out that it is inconvenient and costly to bus students from the residence in Pemberton Meadows to the school site, and classes could be better conducted if the residence and the school were in one spot.

A phone call from the Ministry of Education indicated there would be no objection to the use of the non-shareable funds for this purpose and teachers as well as parents have indicated there is a need for accommodation at the site.

With the present residence located about ten kilometres from the school conveyance of pupils to and from the site by bus is a cost which would be eliminated if the residence was at the site.

Portable classrooms used at Pemberton Secondary School following last year's flood, have been moved to the site and could be used as the dormitory portion of the residence.

The board of School Trustees for Howe Sound School District No. 48 recently approved the 1985-86 capital building program. Total capital improvements amount to $1,597,230.

Of this, the board has established a number of priorities. These include additions to the Garibaldi Highlands Elementary School of three classrooms, an extension of the gymnasium and a special education area. Cost of these additions would be $648,696.

Second priorities would be the construction of a bus

Board approves capital program for district

shelter at Pemberton Secondary at $10,000; an extension of the gym at Valleycliffe Elementary at a cost of $243,076 and renovations to the office area at Howe Sound Secondary for $111,540.

Third priorities would be the construction of a lunch room, kitchen and storage area at Brackendale Secondary at a cost of $251,100 and the addition of a teaching area and washrooms at Signal Hill Elementary for $156,743.

Other items which were included in the summary were re-roofing, conveyance equipment, fire loss risk reduction, minor renovations to the district office and a school bus garage at Squamish.

Costs for site development for these projects would be $32,000; buildings $1,385,884 equipment $106,838 and architect's fees $72,508.

The board members pointed out that this is what they would like to do in the coming year but there is no assurance that any, or all of it, will be done.

September Arthritis month

by Kathy Deminger

Now that September is here, it is officially Arthritis Month.

Because of frequent climatic changes in September, it is usually one of the most difficult months for the person suffering from one of the 120 types of arthritis. It is also the time of year when the Arthritis Society conducts its nationwide fund raising campaigns.

Within the next few weeks, volunteer canvassers will be calling on all residents of Squamish. If you can help in any way, please call me, Kathy Deminger, at 898-3489.

While people with arthritis may appear to be perfectly healthy, they could, in reality be suffering from excruciating pain. Try to visualize awaking at 5:30 a.m. to find that all your fingers are stiff, your wrists swollen with fluid, and pressing on the nerves. Try to pick up a frying pan or electric kettle to prepare breakfast. Make the attempt to get out of bed, to stand on knees that are hot, stiff, and swollen and inflexible. Imagine grasping a hairbrush, but being unable to raise your arm to your head, to use it. People who suffer from rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, or ankylosing spondylitis face such problems every day. If they receive prompt attention, their diseases may go into remission for weeks, months, or even years. If they do not see a doctor, they will eventually become crippled or disble.

Arthritis does not discriminate against age; it can strike babies, teenagers, young adults, or the elderly. Unless a person has a form of arthritis or has a close family member or friend with the disease, he will probably find this difficult to understand. I know because specialists first diagnosed me as having a strange form of arthritis twelve years ago.

It is vitally important for people experiencing any of the symptoms I have mentioned to see a family physician immediately. Like with other diseases, early detection is necessary for proper treatment. The family doctor will refer the patient he suspects of having some type of arthritis to a Rheumatologist. The specialist usually reviews the patient's past medical history, orders a urinalysis, a battery of blood tests, and X-rays. He will work out a plan for coping with arthritis to suit each patient's individual needs. Medications, exercise, and therapy are prescribed. It is not easy to learn to live with arthritis, but it can be done.

Although the Arthritis Society may not seem to take an active part in our community, many Squamish residents are aware of the wonderful work it does. I know many people who have benefitted directly from the Society by having treatment at the Arthritis Centre on West 10th Avenue in Vancouver. A countless number of others benefit indirectly each time they visit the Physiotherapy Department of the Squamish General Hospital.

Under a shared program, our hospital and the Arthritis Society fund annual conferences which our therapists attend to upgrade their training. They learn of the latest and best exercise programs and methods of treatment. Over the years I have met many, many outpatients at the Squamish Hospital who receive therapy for lupus, Rheumatoid

Arthritis, or gout. Others require therapy after operations or various injuries. In the past year I have had to undergo intensive treatment after a total hip replacement. As a result I know how important physiotherapy is in the recovery process.

Please contribute generously to the Arthritis Campaign, and if you are interested in the disease, watch for the following programs on the Knowledge Network:

"The truth about Arthritis" Mondays, September 9, 16, 23, and 30. 9-10 p.m. Tuesdays, September 10, 17, 24 and Oct. 1-2-3 p.m.

Guzaldo's life is made 'Crazy' by new series

By Gillian George

Joe Guzaldo likes to think of himself as an actor who isn't afraid to take chances. He's proud that his career has been varied, but in 27 years, the actor insists he never envisioned anything as bizarre as the climactic scene in the debut episode of "Stir Crazy," the new series in which he stars. "Stir Crazy" premieres on CBS and Global stations this week.

of a proper trial) to 132 years behind bars.

The concept may not be too original, but Guzaldo insists he's "proud that the treatment and the writing are amazingly fresh."

There's an appealing goofiness running throughout "Stir Crazy," but the show also has a higher degree of intelligence than most sitcoms. And the dialogue (much of it, at least in the pilot, by author Bruce Jay Friedman) crackles with credibility.

Guzaldo, who seems a lot like his character — especially in his bubbling enthusiasm — has no qualms about admitting that he feels "like the luckiest guy in the world. Who would have thought that, just four days after moving to California to try my luck, I'd get a call from CBS that would make me the star of a national TV show?"

Guzaldo paid his dues, mostly back home in Chicago, where he appeared in low-budget theatrical productions. He says that one of his fondest memories will always be calling home to his father's beauty salon to give his parents the good news about "Stir Crazy."

"Dad shut off every dryer in the salon," the actor recalls with a smile, "and made the big announcement. The place went wild!"

Guzaldo's shooting schedule is so busy that he claims he doesn't have time to date. Nor does he have time to find a home in Los Angeles. "There's plenty of time for all that later," he says. "Right now, I'm just trying to get used to the stretch limos and the crazy hours."

Joe Guzaldo

There Guzaldo was, dressed as a geisha girl, in the middle of a food fight, sushi whistling past his ears and burly lawmen on his tail as he escaped from prison.

The hilarious action is typical of the shenanigans in which Guzaldo and his "Crazy" costar Larry Riley find themselves. The series is based on the popular 1980 Richard Pryor-Gene Wilder movie in which two innocent men are wrongly accused of murder. In the small-screen version, they are sentenced (without benefit

Local homicide featured in "Crimestoppers"

The June 14 shooting death of 29-year-old Toni Gail Engel, a Squamish resident, will be the focus of an episode of "Crimestoppers" a citizen, media and police co-operative program designed to involve the public in the fight against crime.

Det. Fudge, of the Vancouver Crimestoppers Unit, said the unsolved Squamish homicide will be featured on an upcoming episode in an effort to solve the case via public participation.

Although Vancouver-based Fudge said the Vancouver Unit is not designed solely for the Vancouver area, but rather for the whole Lower Mainland.

Crimestoppers is a community-oriented project which features an unsolved crime being re-enacted and brought to the attention of the public via the media.

A reward of up to $2,000 is offered to anyone providing information which leads to an arrest and prosecution.

Rewards are also offered for information leading to the arrest of individuals for other criminal offences; the recovery of stolen property or the seizure of narcotics.

The TIPS line is manned by trained Police Personnel who receive, process and pass the information to investigating officers. Callers are given a code number which is used in all subsequent transactions thus ensuring anonymity.

The program was initiated in the Greater Vancouver area on January 7, 1985. The program is centered in Vancouver but covers all Municipalities in the Lower Mainland region.

The Vancouver Crimestoppers Unit reported that half way through its first year of operation, the Unit has seized more than half a million dollars worth of stolen property and drugs as well as breaking its original target for arrests.

"Crimestoppers has cleared by arrest, charge of admission 195 cases as of June end," said Sgt. Bill Harkema, Crimestoppers Coordinator.

"That's nearly a 200 percent increase over the original target of 100 cases, the goal set in January when the community, police and media program kicked off."

Harkema said a new annual target of 300 cleared cases is now being set.

According to the Vancouver Unit, the success of the Vancouver program has outpaced that of other Canadian cities.

"The Edmonton program is very successful, but our start is picking up even faster than theirs did," said Norm Pringle, Board Chairman for Greater Vancouver Crimestoppers.

The Vancouver Unit reported that statistics for the first six months also show 2,466 calls were fielded for a total of $109,900 in stolen property recovered and $365,000 in drugs seized (estimated street value). Every dollar paid out yielded $63 in retrieved goods and drugs, according to the Vancouver Unit.

"As has been the case with other North American Crimestoppers Associations, the Greater Vancouver Unit is proving it is not only working but cost efficient, an ability that yields tax dollar savings," Harkema said.

Rewards used by Crimestoppers are donated from community organizations, businesses and individuals.

Man fined following chase

Leonard Julien of Squamish appeared in provincial court before Judge J.K. Shaw on Aug. 29, charged with failing to stop when signalled to do so by police, resulting in a chase.

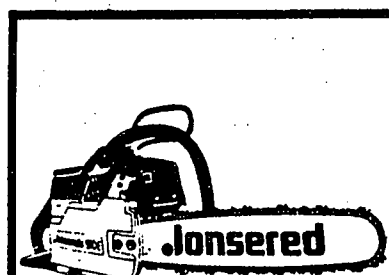

Julien was signalled to stop when police observed him talking to someone on the road at an early hour one morning. He left the scene when the officer approached the vehicle he was driving and the officer then pursued his vehicle.

In the ensuing chase the police vehicle was damaged.

Julien was fined $500 and ordered to pay restitution of $700 for damages of a motor vehicle in the incident which occurred in the chase.

Hotspurs, United come away empty handed in Season openers

Four years ago, on November 21, 1981, Canada in deciding on a 2-2 draw against Cuba came within one goal of doing the seemingly impossible, advancing to the final round of the World Cup of soccer held in Spain.

On Saturday Canada's hopes and dreams of attaining what they fell short of in 1981 again will come down to one last game, as it did four years ago, but this time there are some distinct advantages.

One is that Mexico, the team which has knocked Canada out of the running on three of five previous World Cup qualifying attempts, is for the moment not a factor as they earned an automatic berth as hosts of the 1986 event.

Another is that unlike before, Canada will have an opportunity to seal their fate at home in St. John's, Newfoundland, thanks to a home and away format, which is a tremendous improvement from playing every match in the often humid and hostile environment of Central America. Thirdly, and perhaps as an indirect result of the previous two, is that Canada has failed to lose a game on the road to Mexico City.

In the opening round, pooled with Guatemala and Haiti, the local lads accumulated a record of three wins, no losses and one tie to run away with Group B of the CONCACAF standings. Now put against Honduras and Costa Rica that record has yet to suffer a blemish though it is far from perfect, at 1-0-2.

In light of the opposition that comes as no surprise. Canada had never before met Costa Rica in a full international match until this year and has yet to beat them, losing 1-0 in San Jose on March 21 and tying 0-0 three days later at the same site before opening the third qualifying round on August 11 in Toronto with a 1-1 draw followed by another scoreless battle in the Central American nation's capital on September 1.

Historically, Honduras has been no kinder as they knocked off Canada in all four of the two side's previous meetings between the period of 1980-1983.

Thus while it was "the goal Canada didn't score" against Cuba in Tegucigalpa, Honduras that put our country out of the running in 1981, it may well be the goal a 33 year old water meter mechanic from Victoria named George Pakos did score in the same ancient stadium, carved into the side of a mountain, on August 25 that will put us into the World Cup.

That goal gave Canada a 1-0 victory over Honduras, which was at the moment the only win any of the three clubs had managed to post in four contests. It was a victory that also put Canada in the driver's seat.

But the finish line remains invitingly one game away. Honduras' 3-1 victory over Costa Rica on Sunday not only knocked the latter out of contention but also put the former one point in the standings behind Canada to set up a showdown at St. John's where the home side need just a tie to capture a berth in the World Cup.

So while Honduras is claiming that they will come to Canada and win, coach Tony Waiters and company is quietly sitting back, knowing that the pressure is on them as the home side, knowing that despite the rash of injuries and suspensions, Honduras can be beaten. A Carl Valentine in the line up will definitely not hurt matters.

Mike Sweeney out of the line up will hurt however. Known throughout his career, including his years in Squamish, as an aggressive, hard working individual, or pest to the opposition, his approach to the game will be missed especially when one considers how Central American countries such as Honduras shy away from hard tackles.

In the sixtieth minute of September 1st's scoreless draw in Costa Rica, Sweeney was issued a red card after, according to the referee at least, kicking a player in the head. Canada, which thus had to finish the contest with ten men will see Mike sitting on the sidelines serving a one game suspension as a result.

Walter Sweeney, father of the 25 year old midfielder who has 37 international caps to his credit, travelled to Central America with the team and sat in the stands with five other Canadians amongst a sea of frenzied opposing fans.

"The people were really great down there," Walter said, "and the fans were actually more behaved than you think they might have been."

It wasn't too long ago that Honduras and El Salvador took to arms after fans rioted at a soccer match. Of course there were deeper roots to the issue but nevertheless, 2,000 people died in the brief but bloody war sparked by the game.

Besides sightseeing and some rather interesting side trips to a "disco?" and a Costa Rican jail, which is a story in itself, Sweeney, of course, took in Canada's two soccer contests down there.

"Actually," he said, "I think Costa Rica was more upset at the tie than Honduras was at losing to us. That was probably because with eleven men to our ten they expected to win."

And on the famous red card incident which Canada is calling "the worst call ever?" "When Mike got the card I really wasn't that upset, but later, when Randy Samuals was hauled down by the Costa Rican keeper while on a breakaway I just exploded. That in itself is a card but he got nothing."

"But I think I blew it later. After the game I talked to Mike and I think he expected a little sympathy but I just told him "the way you play you have expect that kind of thing"...I think he was kind of disappointed in me."

Whether or not Canada will be disappointed remains to be seen on Saturday.

Eagles get busy as exhibition season fills

Up until now it has been a relatively slack training camp for the Junior B Squamish Eagles but it is promising to get busy, and soon.

Regular practices commence this week for the 35 (32 skaters and 3 goaltenders) players vying for positions on the newly formed West Coast Junior Hockey League club and on Sunday, at 1:30 p.m. the Eagles will play host in their second exhibition contest, this time against Grandview. Two days later, on September 17 the squad will hit the road for the first time, travelling for a game versus White Rock, followed by yet another home pre-season match up on September 22.

Meanwhile the club also announced on Sunday that Mykonos Restaurant will sponsor the "Fourth Period" post-game festivities every Sunday and fans will be welcome to join the crowd. The Eagles management is also sending feelers to Whistler in hopes of selling a package for fans there to purchase season tickets and enjoy a common seating area.

Those interested can approach Wayne Jackson, who will be in Whistler this week selling program ads to merchants.

Season tickets sales are continuing at a good pace with the $60 price tag, good for twenty games, eighteen regular season home games and two exhibitions, plus first crack at playoff tickets.

One side played well, the other didn't but all added together game one of the Vancouver Metro Soccer League dealt an unkind hand to Squamish on two counts.

Playing before a home town crowd on Sunday the third division Squamish Hotspurs and the first division Squamish United Pharmasave opened the new season by doing something each managed to do less than fifty percent of the time last season, lose.

For the former side of it was a case of stacked hand being beaten by an outside straight as their opponents, the Condors, eked out a 2-1 victory. Despite a strong first half in which Kevin Pederson was solid between the posts watching one penalty shot skip wide, the Hotspurs failed to capitalize.

A lack of this finishing touch, or "hand luck" as the players call it, proved to be Squamish's downfall as the Condors built up a 2-0 advantage in the second frame and held on to win. Midway through the final 45 minutes the Condors broke the scoreless tie as a player dippy-doodled his way through the middle.

Pederson went down to get in front of the initial drive but couldn't hang on as the defense got caught watching and the rebound was popped home. Later, moments after Paul Behrner ripped a free kick at the edge of the 18 yard box past the post, the Condors got another opportunity at the penalty kick.

This time it resulted in a two point bulge and the winner but Pederson, in applying the leg hold trap while prone on the ground to a breaking player, had no choice but to take his chances on the infraction. Mike Howard closed out the scoring in this well played, entertaining match as he rushed forward to grab a miskick from Kevin Doherty and pick off the right side.

But while the Hotspurs and Pederson deserved a better fate such was not the case with United Pharmasave and Barry Galley, in a 4-0 humbling at the hands of Richmond Labatts.

Missing key members such as Pepsi Takhar, Dave Harrison and Doug Muir, United utilized the services of youngsters John Cameron, Dave Sweeney and Buljit Binning. By far however the best man on the field for Squamish was Ron Rosser whose speed and head work in front resulted in the few scoring chances Pharmasave earned.

Richmond was full marks for the victory as their hustle and ability to move into open spaces to take a pass kept Squamish one step behind. It was also not a vintage defensive nor Galley performance as the latter hungback in his net more than he challenged.

This made the cross an especially dangerous ball in the Pharmasave end, one that resulted in the game's first two goals. Mere seconds after Galley got a hand on a weak shot off an unmarked man in front, the United keeper failed to hang onto a free kick shot as the ball bounced off his chest and Richmond deposited the rebound in behind.

Labatts went up 2-0 off a corner kick, forced when a player snuck through the defense and Galley tipped the high shot over the bar, with a flick on at the near post deflecting in off the goalie's hand.

Richmond then proceeded to put the match away by adding on to a 3-0 half time lead courtesy of a howitzer that caught the short side from 20 yards out. The best opportunity for United to score came earlier on a penalty shot, which Tom Johnstone pumped off the top of the cross bar.

Pawlett sweeps Junior open

Playing amongst an older crowd didn't seem to bother Sam Pawlett on Sunday.

The thirteen year old tennis player, competing against 15 other competitors in the 16 and under Squamish Junior Open Tennis Tournament, also didn't seem to need much time either as he took two straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, over Abe Remtulla in the final to earn top honors in the two day, double knock out event.

Tennis, in the form of the Summer Finale Open for the ages of 16 and over, will also be on the agenda on Wednesday. So far 20 players have entered the 5-6 day tournament with Tuesday being the deadline for signing up.

Those wishing to enter can get in touch with Parm or Simi Johal at 892-9281.

Squamish Scouts attend Canadian Jamboree

Six Scouts from Squamish were among the 12,000 Scouts, Venturers and leaders who attended the Canadian Jamboree held at the Guelph Lake Conservation Area in Ontario, July 3-12th.

Joining hundreds of other Scouts and Venturers from British Columbia were David Biggin-Pound, Ron Brown, Warren and Douglas McDougall, John Rieker and Leif Smith accompanied by Bill Brown, the District President.

The Jamboree offered a wide variety of Program Activities for both Scouts and Venturers, including a trip to Canada's Wonderland, a Disneyland style amusement park near Toronto. In addition, the Squamish Scouts enjoyed an unscheduled trip to Niagara Falls, Niagara-On-The-Lake and Fort George on the Niagara Peninsula.

A highlight of all jamborees is the trading of badges between the Scouts and leaders from all the Provinces, an activity which our boys joined in quite heartily, fast becoming schrewd traders. The most sought-after badge was the P.E.I. Contingent Badge due to its scarcity. But for sheer beauty, the B.C. Contingent Badge was head and shoulders above the rest and was worth its weight in gold at trading sessions.

The logistics of operating a Jamboree are horrendous and not without mishaps, such as being flown into Hamilton while our gear was flown to Toronto. Subsequently, our gear arrived in camp twelve hours after our arrival. A minor set-back that left us sitting in the hot sun on our first day in camp. No report about a Scout camp would be complete without a comment about the food, which for Scout fare, was quite passable. It might even have been graded high but for the days the meat arrived two hours after dinner and the day it never arrived at all.

Overall, the boys adapted very well to camping in a land with few trees, where the weather was hot and humid, windy and stormy, every day!

Ok, we're here, and ready to set up camp, but where are our tents? Disconsolate local Scouts David Biggin-Pound, Ron Brown, Warren and Douglas MacDougall John Reiker and Leif Smith sit on one of the picnic tables waiting for their gear to arrive.

necessary as it once was, copper is no longer king of the metals and nickel is no longer indispensable.

The decline in the use of these materials has affected countries like Canada which relies on its vast metallic deposits.

The modern world is inventing post-industrial techniques and this also brings post-industrial politics. New forms of work are being created. But, he pointed out, automatics and robotics will not create as many jobs as they will eliminate.

"The industrial world has been based on paper; reports, forms and many other uses for paper. But we are moving beyond this to computers; to data being stored in many forms. We are moving from paper base to a mylar base and the main use for paper today is in packaging."

McLaren pointed out the world is an integrated system: companies do span the world and we are now a global economy. He said this factor was one of the strongest hopes for peace, as the countries of the world are no longer insular but are dependent upon each other.

"We are learning that we can't go it alone."
"We are witnessing vast changes in population," he told the seminar. "The cities in the Third World are exploding, becoming larger and larger. Pollution is a major problem in many world cities. In Mexico City alone there are 30,000 infant deaths each year due to pollution.

"In contrast the cities of the western world are imploding. We are experiencing de-urbanization." Referring to employment, he said we are seeing middle-management being squeezed out. The main use of middle management was to shuffle paper around, to prepare reports and this is being taken over by computers.

"We will see the five day work week become a thing of the past. People are now working odd hours and odd shifts. If an employee, who does most of his work at home, wants to do something else during the day he can put in his hours, using data machines, at night, or any other time. He doesn't have to punch a time clock or come in from nine to five. If he wants to work weekends and take time off during the week it doesn't matter as long as the work is done."

Another major factor for change has been the jet engine. Today a migratory worker is an international consultant, who takes his expertise from country to country.

"We are redefining the roles of males and females in society," he pointed out. There have been fundamental changes regarding women; their abilities and capabilities, and their role in a world which is changing from an industrial to a post-industrial society.

"Life styles are changing. There are more non-smokers than smokers and this is affecting the economy. Hawaii is suffering a slump in the sugar industry, for years the major industry in the islands. The decline in the consumption of sugar has seriously affected its economy."

He said we must be prepared to meet the changing needs of the world. If we want to play the international recreation and tourism game we've got a lot to learn. We've got the scenery but now we need to know how to prepare our people to handle the hordes of visitors which can be expected to come here in the next decades.

"The most profound challenges today are to the imagination. We need people to create our society and to make it interesting. We need new ideas and new methods."

He concluded by saying people want to work. If not at jobs, then in recreation or hobbies. But people do not like to be idle. They need challenges. The education system must be prepared to offer them.

Fall styles show at Highlands Fashion show

Fall styles, emphasizing the bright colors, the big look, both in shirts and sweaters, plaids and the return to the 50's were featured at the fashion show held in the Highlands Mall on the weekend.

Fashions for adults from Fashionability, and for young adults and teens from Whistlestop, showed the latest styles and trends and were displayed by a number of local models.

On Saturday styles for the younger set were displayed by models who showed clothes from the Red Balloon.

For casual wear vests are in and are worn with everything from skirts to slacks to jeans. Big oversize sweaters hanging well below the waist, oversize tops and tapered pants are part of the new look, along with jewel-bright tones for the fall dresses, many of which featured touches reminiscent of the 50's; the peplums, the diamond shaped inserts in the front of a dress and lowered hems.

Plaids are shown, both in the traditional plaids and others which would make a true Scotsman pale if he saw them. They're in suits, in slacks, in skirts and in dresses.

Styles for the younger set also feature the big sweaters, lots of paisleys and plaids, stirrup pants and bright colors. For dressier wear there were imported French stockings... with seams!

Plaids were also high in the clothes for the younger children and a new feature was the Fisher Price clothes for the younger set. Co-ordinated outfits for girls and boys were also featured in this section.

Commentators for the fashion show were Linda Hinde for Fashionability and Todd Richards for Whistlestop and the Red Balloon.

Modelling for Fashionability were Pam Harness, Debbie and Karen Piche, Rhoda Reese, Helga Siatecki and Cory-Ellen Zaharia, with Christine Gebert, Vedron Jelinsic, Laura Persic, Ruth Plunkett, Twylla Reichert and Joan Tarr.

Among those modelling for the Red Balloon were Dana Conn, Jessie and Eric Sandberg, Deanne Dwyer and Geoffrey Rawsthorne.
