MAKIN TO TENDER SITE PREPARATION FOR NEW PAPER PLANT

Makin Pulp and Paper is preparing to post an invitation to contractors in B.C. to submit information for pre-qualification and bidders on site preparation work for its planned fine paper mill at Britannia Beach a company spokesman announced Jan. 31.
The company said it expects to complete the pre-qualification process within a matter of weeks. Qualified bidders then will receive tender documents for the initial site work, which includes clearing and access road construction.

Spokesman Jim Peacock said Makin plans a pulp and paper project on an industrial site at Britannia Beach.
The pulp and paper complex will produce the light-weight coated papers in the types used in printing of magazines, color advertising flyers and brochures. When completed, the operation will employ about 350 people in facilities to make pulp from both softwood and hardwood chips, a paper mills, and a coating and converting plant.

The company said the negotiations for complete project financing are in an advanced stage.
Contractors interested in qualifying for site preparation work should write to the following address:

Intex Construction Corp.
12604 126th Ave.
Edmonton, Alberta T5L 0X6
Makin said it is not yet processing applications for plant employment but will be working with Canada Employment Offices in the Squamish area to set up an appropriate procedure during the coming months.

Local pitbulls accused of terrorizing neighborhood

Just when you thought it was safe to let your toy poodle out of the house again, a group of pitbulls has been reported terrorizing a Brackendale neighborhood. Alderman Robert Ewacha reported to council at the Jan. 21 meeting of a recent sighting of five pitbull terrorists running at large on Zenith Road.

Ewacha told council one neighborhood dog was killed by a pitbull in that area. Ewacha added that neighbors are afraid to let their children out of the house, let alone their dogs.

Ewacha suggested council consider a fencing by-law which has been adopted by other municipalities as a possible solution to the pitbull problem.

Mayor Egon Tobus informed council there are presently no by-laws dealing with restricting pitbulls, but said the administration is currently monitoring the pitbull situation after receiving reports of pitbull terrorism on previous occasions.

"There has to be some assurances to the public that there is no danger," Tobus told council.

Clerk Bill Bloxham added the Pound has already had one instance where a pitbull which had been trained to fight and kill other dogs was seized. Bloxham said the administration is presently gathering evidence sufficient to have the dogs destroyed.

Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus signs the document proclaiming Feb. 20, "Kinsmen Day", and Feb. 16-22, "Kinsmen Week". Looking on are Wayne Burt, Chairman of the Kinsmen Club, and Ian Hyslop, President of the Kinsmen Club.

Trio to stand trial on hostage charges

Three Squamish residents were committed Monday, January 27, for trial in county court following a preliminary hearing here on charges of assaulting and confining a 16 year old girl.

Michael Bruce Reed, 25, Anita Gail Prine 27, and Dawn Arlene Tannock, 22, appeared before provincial court Judge J.K. Shaw on charges of common assault, assault causing bodily harm, taking a person hostage, breaking and entering and mischief.

The three were charged following an incident last March 10 in the Riverside Trailer Court in Squamish, where a 16 year old Squamish girl said she was held hostage and assaulted.

All three accused have been granted bail.

Mtn. F.M. requests North Shore expansion

The Squamish-based Mountain FM Radio appeared before the CRTC Dec. 5 requesting approval to establish an FM station on the North Shore of Vancouver.

The North Shore station, if approved, will have the call sign CINS-FM, and will add to the station's existing network which includes stations in Squamish, Whistler, Pemberton, Gibsons, Sechelt, Pender Harbour and Egmont.

Vice-president Carol Potvin maintained the company has steadily improved its program quality and the additional North Shore station will mean an increase in staff time spent reporting local news and community events in the present Mtn-FM coverage area.

Mayor authorizes emergency repair of fire truck

Rather than leave the district with only one Fire Department pumper, Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus authorized an emergency procedure which effectively by-passed agreement from council to allow the repair of pumper No. 2.

Under council policy, council was directed to pass a motion to receive a report from the administration which detailed the reason for and details of the emergency procedure.

At the Jan. 21 meeting, council formally confirmed the actions taken and authorized the sum of $5,320 from the Provisional Budget Contingency Account for the emergency repair to the the pumper.

In a report to council, Fire Chief Pat Hampson said the municipal mechanic found indication of damage to two cylinders on the pumper and "...after consultation with the Mayor (Fire Committee) and yourself (Treasurer Charlie Schilberg), it was my decision that the most expeditious route to follow would be to have Zephyr Motors assess the damage and perform the necessary work in a three-day time frame."

In addressing the use of the emergency procedure to repair the pumper, Tobus told council: "It was prudent to get it done immediately without your approval."

Locals want nudies prosecuted

Although the summer heat wave has long since passed, nude bathers at Brunswick Beach are still in the "hot seat".

A group of Brunswick Beach residents filed an application in B.C. Supreme Court last week for a declaration that Attorney-General Brian Smith is obligated to refuse or permit the Squamish RCMP to prosecute nude bathers already served with summonses.

According to St. Sgt. Dan Leroux, of the Squamish Detachment of the RCMP, the police served the summonses on four nude bathing violators last August, but Smith has since exercised his authority by not giving his consent to prosecute the nudists.

Police have until mid-February to prosecute the nudists before the six-month time limit for charges expires.

Last summer, the Squamish RCMP monitored the area by police boats after receiving complaints from local residents, who frequently use the beach area to pick berries or go for walks.

Check those steelhead

Bob Reynolds, Conservation Officer in Squamish, reminds steelhead fishermen that while the bait ban will not be enforced, anglers are subject to a roe ban till further notice.

A bait ban between Dec. 1 and May 31 will be in effect by the time the 1986-87 season commences.

Wild steelhead also must be released. However, anglers may take hatchery steelhead. Hatchery steelhead are missing either an adipose fin or a maxillary bone on the right or left upper lip, which will be replaced by a healed scar.

Very few hatchery fish will be present in the Squamish River system. Lip clipped fish are from steelhead fry stocked in the Squamish River. Please report lip clipped steelhead to the Conservation officer in Squamish.

Alderman wants "Cheque checking" reinstated

Alderman Ron Barr asked council at the Jan. 21 meeting to reconsider a Jan. 14 motion eliminating the Accounts Payable procedure from the council agenda.

Barr said the alternate solution, having members of council make their own inquiries to the Treasurer regarding municipal cheques, is not feasible.

"It's a bit of a nuisance," Barr told council, adding that he and other council members had to make special trips to the municipal hall to review the Accounts Payable whereas before the matter was dealt with at the beginning of each council meeting.

Barr added that the new procedure creates a problem with the municipal staff as several aldermen might make an inquiry about the same cheque.

"I think it's more expeditious way of handling it," Barr said of the former procedure of listing Accounts Payable on the agenda.

Alderman Terrill Patterson had previously introduced the motion to have the procedure deleted from the agenda, saying the process was time-consuming.

Two injured in Function Junction collision

The collision between a B.C. Rail passenger train and a Squamish Freightways Truck on January 22nd at 9:45 a.m. left only two people injured, but caused $35,000 in damage.

The accident happened when the Squamish Freightways truck was northbound on Highway 99 at Miller Creek Road collided with the passenger train also traveling north.

Escaping injury were two others. One escapee was a passenger in the trailer truck who when he saw the impending accident jumped free and into the ditch. The truck flipped and rolled into the ditch completely missing the passenger. The other who escaped injury was the train engineer.

The driver of the truck was seriously injured, as was the B.C. Rail employee who was sitting next to the train engineer.

The Rail employee suffered a broken arm and leg which was caused by flying cargo from the truck.

Both of the injured person were assisted by a doctor and two nurses on the train. Their assistance speeded the helicopter airlift to St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver.

Damage to the Freightways truck was a total with an estimated value of $20,000 and there was $15,000 damage done to the B.C. Rail. The value of the cargo on the truck was unknown, but reported to be liquor supplies and presto logs.

No charges have been laid, and police are still investigating.

Dr. Anthony Gregorc, international authority on style and mediation abilities and their influences on learning, will be the guest speaker at a seminar on Feb. 14 hosted by the Howe Sound Teachers' Association.

The Howe Sound Teacher's Association will be presenting a seminar on learning styles of the mind on Feb. 14 at the Whistler Convention Centre for teachers and the public of the Howe Sound School District.

Local teachers host learning seminar

Regular school will not be in session on that day as the School Board has designated Feb. 14 as a District-wide Non-Instructional Day.

Members of the public are cordially invited to join the teachers in what should prove to be a very stimulating presentation.

Dr. Anthony Gregorc, a specialist in learning processes, will be the guest speaker.

The main focus of his presentation will be how humans learn, develop and use their mind. However, he is also expected to provide insight into the mind's ordering and perceptual abilities, which personality types work best together, and why there is no single best teaching style.

Some of Gregorc's thoughts are summarized in his recent article where he states, "The time has come for our schools to teach more than subject matter. It is time for them to accept the challenges of individual differences and to face squarely the need to help the teacher and the learner understand how and why human beings learn."

Gregorc is a former high school principal and associate professor of curriculum and instruction at the University of Connecticut and is now President of Gregorc Associates Inc., which conducts seminars for education, business and industry. He is considered a highly entertaining and informative speaker.

Registration fee for the seminar is $45. Applications are available from Ms. L. Wood, Garibaldi Highlands Elementary School, Box 280, Garibaldi Highlands, B.C., VON ITO. Enrollment is limited and on a first come basis.

Restraint results in low morale in schools

A study by Jean Wilkinson and Elsie Anderson into the effect of the restraint program in local schools was presented to the board at the last meeting in January. The study revealed the greatest effect was on staff morale.

Other important observations were the diminution of library services. This was mentioned by both teachers and the students. The library can barely manage to circulate books, let alone offer any additional services. The lack of library aids throws an extra load on the librarians who have to cope with clerical jobs in addition to library services.

Elementary teachers were concerned about class sizes and the lack of enough time to spend with the students. In such situations, the gifted child suffers as much as the handicapped child. Large classes make it harder for the teacher to work with all the children and results in an attempt to teach to the middle.

The main concern of the secondary teachers was the reduction in the options open to students in both junior and secondary schools. Now that government exams are compulsory, it is essential students should be able to take courses which will enable them to branch out.

Teachers also commented on the increased workload resulting from the restraint program, with many of the duties formerly undertaken by aides now being done by the teachers.

Rumours of cutbacks in staff, fear of losing one's job, and the constant media coverage of everything connected with the educational system is also enervating. Staff in schools become static as there is very little change and younger teachers are often laid off because they lack seniority.

Principals also see the effects of the restraint program in curriculum supervision, the work loads they and their staff have to carry, and the supervision aide time.

The program has also affected the maintenance of the schools, and has resulted in less equipment and many teaching aids such as film projectors, duplicating machines, etc. are not being replaced as rapidly.

Orchids for Expo

Many people have been downgrading Expo 86 and apparently seem to be delighted with every adverse story or piece of publicity concerning the fair which is scheduled to open in May.

But, whether you like the provincial government or not, it is about to bring off an event which will certainly be memorable in this province's history. Already, the fair is shaping up and seems to be meeting its goals.

A friend recently returned from a holiday in Mexico and said many people in the small town in which he stayed were planning to come up for the event.

Some of the accomplishments to date are:

*Expo will be ready on time.

*Despite some labor problems it has not been plagued with those which menaced Expo 67 in Montreal.

*The project has created considerable urban renewal in a slum area in Vancouver.

*It has brought rapid transit to Vancouver.

*The fair is being built within budget.

*The fair will be a showcase for the province and will show others what B.C. has to offer.

*It has created massive public support. Already advance ticket sales have exceeded the wildest dreams.

*There has been widespread participation by many countries which will be exhibiting in the Fair.

*Showcasing the skills and imagination of British Columbians in its design and construction.

*Created a complex around False Creek which will be a tourist attraction long after the fair is over.

*Shown that union and non-union labor can co-exist.

Anyone who has had the opportunity to tour the site and preview the attractions has been impressed with them and cannot help but be proud of the presentation we will give the world.

In addition, the creation of Canada Place will give B.C. the cruise ship facility which it has needed for a long time and give visitors arriving by sea a spectacular view of our province.

Call for provincial election

Dear Editor:

The letter last week referring to "lies" about Northeast Coal sounds like a desperate Socred searching for respectability, a hard thing to find these days.

In fact, the "megadream" documentary exposed the great myth of Socred management prowess. Northeast Coal is an unmitigated disaster. B.C. taxpayers put a billion dollars into it and now the major mines up there are writing it off as a tax loss. Don Phillips wouldn't know a good business deal if it came up and kicked him in the head.

We've been told for 10 long years that good times are just around the corner, that this or that megaproject is going to put us back in the clover. We're still waiting.

We're the only province in the country with food banks (except Alberta - they've got one we've got 32). We've got the highest unemployment in the country outside of Newfoundland. We've got the lowest number of high school kids entering university outside of Newfoundland. We've got the lowest minimum wage in the country.

We've quadrupled our provincial debt to 17 billion dollars in the last 10 years. We've lost our triple A credit rating. We've sold our ferry fleet for instant cash to the Americans, for God's sake and leased it back.

The Socreds had better continue mis-using public funds for political purposes as they've been doing on TV recently with their gaudy ads telling us "how great it is to be working." The taxpayer has just about had enough of the amateurs running this province. Bring on the election!

Brian Giles

Opinion Time

"Have you visitors coming for Expo?"

Wayne Broomfield, marketing rep., Mtn-FM Radio:

"Yes, from Canada and the U.S. They're not staying at my place, but I'm sure they'll find really nice accommodations wherever they go. I'll be working at Expo for tourism and I'm sure I will see them."

Allan Knight, longshoreman: "Yes, I have."

Ken Dehr, logger: "Yes, we do. They're going to use our place for base operations."

I have to admit that I admire Maureen McTeer, the wife of Joe Clark, Minister of External Affairs, for her stand on the abortion issue. She is a strong-minded woman who calls things as she sees them.

For a practising Catholic to accept an honorary position with a pro-choice group must have taken a lot of courage. It also shows McTeer has a mind of her own. She made it clear she would never have an abortion herself, but she believes every woman has the right to make a decision for herself. I agree with her.

I do not feel she should be expected to conform to anyone else's thinking, whether she is a housewife or the wife of a cabinet minister. That shouldn't enter into the picture.

We have heard McTeer condemned because she retained her maiden name when she married Clark. We admire her for the fact that she wanted a career of her own and was not content to be just the wife of Joe. We admire her for the way she stood by him when the going was tough. And we admire her for the way she stood up to his detractors. She suffered with him in his defeats and rejoiced in his triumphs like any other wife, even if she did believe she was a person in her own right.

And we admire Clark for standing back and cheering her on just like he did when she was the centre of controversies before. He's one of those unusual men, but much more common today, who isn't afraid of his wife's ability and who really believes in the equality of the sexes. The fact that he is supporting her in an issue which most politicians are afraid to tackle is even more refreshing. At least he's not afraid to stand up for what he thinks.

In our country, the Church and State are supposed to be separate. The Catholic Church doesn't countenance abortion but this is a matter which should be one for the women to decide. We don't condone it, we don't think abortion should be used as a means of birth control but we do say that a woman has a right to a safe legal abortion if she feels this is the best solution for her. After all, she knows what is best for her and if she feels she cannot cope with having a child, there should be no law which says she has to have it.

We agree with her when she insists that a woman has the right to control her own fertility, especially when she risks the anger of her Church in the process. She admits that she doesn't expect the Church to act against her but she is willing to take the risk.

There are cries for Clark's resignation because of his wife's position. That's a crock of garbage. He is not responsible for her actions and there is nothing that says what she does is a reflection on his position. Rather, he should be commended for showing that he believes in the equality of women and his wife's right to say what she thinks and to follow her beliefs with her actions.

The same people who are castigating McTeer for her stand, saying it "shames the government and the nation," are also praising the Mulroneys for "the magnificent modelling of wholesome family living" they are setting for Canadians.

Detractors are insinuating that because McTeer has stated her beliefs, this is undermining Clark's role as External Affairs Minister.

This is supposed to be a modern country, one which believes in equal rights for women, and one in which a woman is entitled to her own views.

Why should she parrot the same line and beliefs her husband does? And why should what she believes in render him a less effective person any more than what he believes should affect her credibility?

And those who disagree with her can't have it both ways. Is it right to consider the Mulroneys an example of what is right and wholesome because of their beliefs and to castigate the Clarks because of theirs? We think the detractors are trying to ride two horses at the same time!

We also can't understand why a politician's family can't take a stand or make a statement without everyone getting into the act. And especially those who condemn them. It is much better for them to have an opinion than to waffle on every subject as many politicians do.

There are many women, and I am one of them, who admire Maureen McTeer for making her own way as a lawyer in her own right, and not trying to ride on her husband's coat tails. I admire her for retaining her maiden name and I am sure that if the practice had been prevalent when I was married, I would probably have done the same thing. I know if I was starting a career today, I would certainly retain my own name when I married and I hope the man I married would understand that I wanted to accomplish something on my own.

And that wouldn't be a put down.

Today many men have wives who have a career under their own name. This has long been the practice in arts and the theatre or movie industry and no one condemns the women. Why should it be different if she wants to be a doctor, a lawyer, a newspaper person, or anything else?

And men today don't seem to be threatened if their wives are a success, and do it under their own name. Rather, they seem to be proud of their wives, pleased to see it gives them satisfaction to succeed under their own name and not under the guise of their husband's position or title.

Women today should be cheering McTeer for her stand and complimenting her on having the courage and the intestinal fortitude to stand up and be counted for what she believes in instead of hiding her beliefs for political expediency.

Good for you Maureen! I hope you will continue to stand up for what you believe in and to feel that you have as much right to your opinion as any one else, even if your husband is the Minister of External Affairs.

KATIMAVIK LIVING ON THE EDGE

by Teresa Stefishen

For two weeks, while in the Katimavik program, we, as participants, get a chance to live with people in the community.

From Jan. 19 to Feb. 3, I had the pleasure of billeting with George and Maureen Gilmour.

While living with the Gilmours, I became part of the family, doing day-to-day activities with them such as helping with the dishes, watching T.V. together, and going to Vancouver.

During the days from Monday to Friday, I worked at the Squamish Times office where Maureen works. I had a chance to get to know the people Maureen works with, as well as meeting people in the community. I was even introduced to the Mayor of Squamish.

I would like to thank all the staff at the Squamish Times for being so kind and supportive. A special thanks to Jesse Mahnger who provided work for me while I was in the office.

After a hard day's work at the Time's office, Maureen and I would go back to the Gilmour home for a relaxing evening.

Even though Maureen's evenings are pretty booked with meetings and work for the Times, she always made time to sit down and talk to me and have tea.

I really enjoyed being with Maureen and George.... you're just like a second family.

Thank you very much for taking me as your billet. You are two very special people and I hope you will keep in touch.

RRSP

What is an RRSP?

A Registered Retirement Savings Plan is a government-approved plan through which you save money for your retirement years. Your contributions are tax deductible and the income earned is tax sheltered.

What does an RRSP mean to you?

You are investing money when you can most afford it—during your peak earning years—to build up a comfortable retirement fund.

The following graph shows the amount you could accumulate by annual RRSP contributions of $1,000 each at the beginning of each year, assuming constant interest rate of 8%, 9% and 11%.

Not only do you invest some money that would otherwise be paid in taxes, but the earnings of your plan are not taxed until you withdraw them. Since 100% of these earnings can be reinvested and compounded, the growth in value of your RRSP increases rapidly over the years as the above graph shows.

What happens at retirement?

The first stage of an RRSP is to accumulate retirement savings. The next stage is to provide retirement income. Your accumulated savings may be invested in a variety of retirement income options which are available to provide a regular income for life or to age 90. Retirement income payments are taxable in the year you receive them, thus spreading the taxation of your accumulated savings over your retirement years.

Who is eligible to contribute?

Anyone, including non-residents, with earned income subject to Canadian tax may contribute to an RRSP. In addition, you can contribute to a plan for your spouse. Your contribution must be made before the end of the year in which the planholder's 71st birthday occurs.

Can you have more than one RRSP?

You may have any number of plans. However, your total contributions for a year must not exceed your personal contribution limit.

Personal contribution limit

If you are not a member of a registered pension, superannuation or deferred profit sharing plan, or if no contributions were made in your name to any of these plans in the year, the maximum that you may contribute is the lesser of 20% of your earned income or:
$5,500 for the 1985 tax year end.
$7,500 for the 1986 tax year.

If contributions were made in the year by you, or on your behalf to any of the above, you may only contribute 20% of your "earned income" up to a maximum of $3,500, whichever is less, MINUS the amount you have contributed during the year to the pension or superannuation plan.

If your employer makes your company pension contributions and you make no contributions, you may contribute 20% of your earned income up to a maximum of $3,500 to an RRSP.

What is earned income?

Earned income generally includes income from the following sources:

- salary, wages, bonuses and taxable fringe benefits (minus employment expense deductions, unemployment insurance premiums and union dues)
- income from self-employment (minus current year business losses)
- net rental income from real estate (minus current year rental losses)

- royalties of an author or inventor
- alimony or maintenance payments
- amounts received from a supplementary unemployment benefit plan (not U.I.C.)
- death benefits paid by an employer
- taxable payments from an RRSP or Deferred Profit Sharing Plan
- superannuation or pension benefits including Old Age Security, Canada Pension Plan and Quebec Pension Plan benefits
- retiring allowances included accumulated sick leave credits

NOTE: INTEREST AND DIVIDEND INCOME, AND U.I.C. PAYMENTS DO NOT QUALIFY AS EARNED INCOME.

Form T2097 is available at District Taxation Offices to help you calculate your maximum RRSP contribution.

How Safe are RRSP Investments?

If you invest at a credit union, you receive 100% protection for all non-equity shares and deposits. There is no maximum amount set.

What does an RRSP cost?

Always be sure to ask about fees before deciding on an RRSP. Squamish Credit Union has no commissioned salespeople, no administration fee and no close out charge.

Drop by Member Service today and ask for a copy of "THE BASICS" a Credit Union information guide to RRSPs.

1705 MARINE DRIVE NORTH VANCOUVER

Squamish celebrated the 20th Annual Burns Night on Saturday, Jan. 25 in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall complete with the skirl o' the pipes, Scottish singing and dancing, the traditional haggis and the speeches commemorating the life of Robbie Burns, the national poet of Scotland.

Pipe Major Ian Walker and the Squamish Kinsmen Pipe Band led the parade of the haggis with Mary Crombie carrying it around the hall and placing it before Alex Haden who gave the address in the traditional manner which no one could understand. The guest enjoyed the delicious roast beef dinner prepared by the Legion Ladies Auxiliary and the shortbread baked by Peggy Watt.

Head table guests included Tom and Susanne Campbell Frank and Isabel Wheeler, Jim and Theresa Craven, Hank and Irene Hurford and Dave and Peggy Watt.

Dave Watt, as Master of Ceremonies, introduced the head table, and Susanne Campbell sang "Star O' Robbie Burns."

Jim Crave, former Squamish municipal clerk, and new secretary-treasurer and of the Municipal Finance Authority, gave the address to the Immortal Memory.

Craven told the crowd he had always enjoyed Scotch Whiskey and the Scottish people with their genial self-congratulation which so endears them to others, mainly the English.

"Burns," he said, "is a national poet in a very special way...what other poet has his clan gathering throughout the world for an annual rite."

"Burns found a great deal of solace in his relationships with women and with his tavern friends."

"He had a well of understanding to draw on and lived vicariously. He refused to let the customs of his day dominate him."

Craven concluded by saying that he spoke accurately for the common man throughout the world.

He quoted excerpts from two of Burns poems, "My Love is like a Red Red Rose," and "Ode to a Louse."

Dan Cumming proposed the Toast to the Lassies stating Burns was a magnificent poet, a man for all seasons, but he used the words which you wouldn't use even in today's wildest rock fancies.

In her witty response to this toast, Constance Rulka said she was the right person for this task, because she was too young for medicare and too old for men too care.

"A man's love should be like a tooth brush," she said. "It should never be shared."

Other witticisms were "a man is 61 pounds of muscle, 49 pounds of bone and three pounds of brain", and he is "42 around the chest, 54 around the waist, 104 around the golf course and a bit of a nuisance around the house."

Seven dancers from Lynette Kelley's Garibaldi School of Dancing entertained the crowd with a spirited Scottish dance and the Pipe Band made a second appearance playing number of Scottish songs.

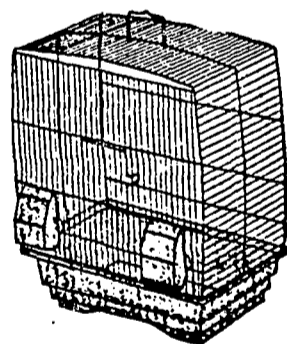

Dancers were Judy Alden, Andrea Drew, Jerri Saugstad, Kindra Wilson, Lynn Pennington, Debbie Vidas, and Joelle Babuin.

Dave Watt spoke briefly about the 20 years since the dinner originated in the old Legion building on Cleveland Ave. and mentioned the regulars who had attended every one of them: Ian and Jane Walker, Irene and Hank Hurford, George Thompson, who had come from Parksville for this year's dinner, Rose Tatlow, John Wright, and Dave and Peggy Watt.

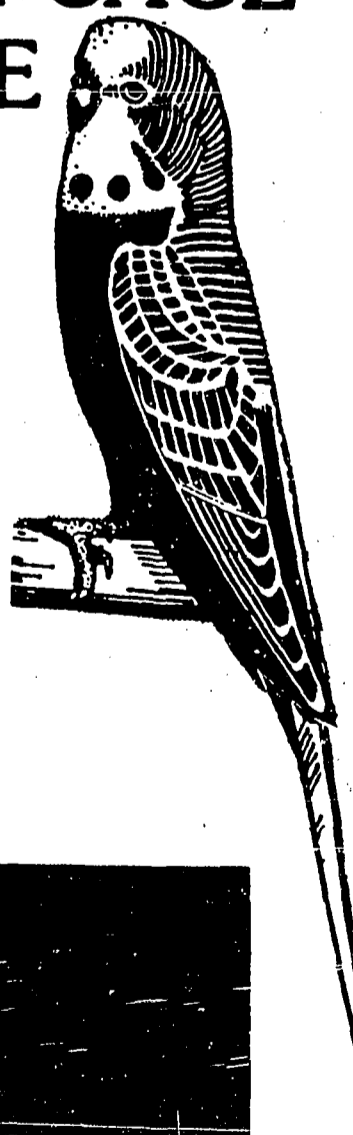

Following the dinner, guests enjoyed an evening of dancing with entertainment by Alex Haden and Susanne Campbell.

College chairs economic conference

Capilano College held a conference on Economic Development and Renewal through Education in the college learning centre on Thursday morning Jan. 30. Guest speaker on the Vision for the Howe Sound Corridor and the individual communities outlined their ideas on the future of the corridor and this was followed by comments on the government assistance and programs which could be used to stimulate economic renewal.

In his preamble Doug Jardine, principal of Capilano College, cited some of the needs of the area including job strategy and forestry and renewal programs, for the corridor area.

Shirley Henry, Mayor of Pemberton

Shirley Henry, Mayor of Pemberton, said the economy of the area ranges from heavy industry to service industries. She said we were looking for ways to strengthen the economic base of the area and the existing industry.

"We want to encourage development of our own industries," she said, "and we must work together. Whistler cannot succeed without the surrounding communities.

"We must market day trips. Our airport will be a major instrument in promoting tourism. The MLS will be installed in Pemberton this summer. This system will be on display at Expo this summer as part of the DeHaviland exhibit.

"We are planning for a golf course as another amenity for tourists. But we need trained and dedicated employees for the tourist industry. This is where Capilano College can help us."

"We could process agricultural products grown in the Pemberton Valley. Perhaps we could have an agricultural school and experimental farm in Pemberton."

She wondered how long logging would be our major industry and said a cause of concern was the fact that trees left the Pemberton area for processing elsewhere.

Henry said she was delighted that this year would see the start of a small shopping plaza within the downtown area. She also added that the tax base in Pemberton is very limited as the village population is less than 300.

Egon Tobus, Mayor of Squamish

Mayor Tobus of Squamish emphasized the financial problems which are facing municipalities.

On one hand there is a demand for funds to maintain services and standards and on the other we are faced with the loss of tax monies. The 50 percent tax savings to new industries, the loss of the machinery and equipment taxes and the reduced cost of Hydro services to new industries are all affecting the municipalities.

The savings have to be borne by those who do not

Just in Time
BY MAUREEN GILMOUR

When the U.S. space shuttle Challenger exploded shortly after lift-off last Tuesday morning resulting in the death of seven astronauts it stunned people all over the world. I know I saw a replay of the disaster a few minutes after it happened and it left me with a saddened heart. It is not the end of the world I know but for those relatives and friends who witnessed the explosion live on TV it is a sight (and tragedy) they will never forget.

Bob and Teresa Wilson and little daughter Ivy spent six weeks in Teresa's native Mexico recently. Many of Teresa's relatives live in Mexico City but they also travelled to many other parts of the country. When they returned home, niece Kristana Velasco came with them and she is enrolled in grade 12 at Howe Sound Secondary. Another niece, Rocio Tinajero was here for an extended stay some three years ago. She sends greetings to all her friends.

Propaganda - A little goose was receiving some information about his parents from a wise old goose. "Your mother," explained the scholarly bird, "is a propagoose, but your father is not a propaganda."

Miss Alanna Flett celebrated her birthday on Jan. 28th but it was her fifth birthday and not her first as was announced last week. She had a great birthday with her Mummy, Bill and Tara.

Elementary age school children are invited to the Squamish Public Library for the Listening Hour. On Friday, Feb. 7 starting at 3:30 p.m. you will hear the story of Heidi (author Johanna Spyri) and the well loved Robert Louis Stevenson's book Kidnapped will be told on Saturday starting at 2:00 p.m. The stories are condensed versions and are on tape. Pre-registration is required by phoning the library at 892-3110.

Stork Stories- IACOVONE- Michael and Ellain Iacovone are pleased to announce the birth of their first child, a daughter Kathleen Dawn, born on January 11th in the Squamish General Hospital, weighing 8 lbs. 7 oz. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Iacovone and Mr. and Mrs. Hank Stroshein of Squamish. The thrilled great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Dillabough of Powell River and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stroshein of Sechelt. Kathleen also has a great great grandmother, Mrs. Emily Dillabough of Vancouver.

CHADWICK- Wayne and Christine are pleased to announce the birth of their daughter, Kelly Anne, weighing 6 lbs. 10 oz. and born in the Squamish General Hospital on January 22nd. This is a sister for Colin. Proud grandparents are David and Peggy Watt of Squamish and Bill and Gwen Chadwick of 70 Mile House. This is a great granddaughter for Mrs. Doris Klingstal from the parents to Dr. Raymond and the nursing staff. Mrs. Chadwick is enjoying a visit with her son, daughter-in-law and grand children just now.

It is not too late to get involved with the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Squamish Bowl for Millions. The fund raising week ends on Saturday and you can participate by sponsoring a bowler or by picking up a pledge form at Garibaldi Lanes. For information call 892-3125 or 898-3750.

Next Tuesday, February 11th, the ladies of St. John's Anglican Church will be having their Shrove Tuesday Pancake Luncheon. Make a date to attend with your friends and neighbours. It starts at 11:30 a.m.

Celebrating birthdays this week are: Mrs. Mary Coleman, Olaf Halvorson, Chris Pearson, Gerri Koch, Daniel Lebel, Kirsten Haywood, Trevor Emoff, Bruce Cassell, George Gruber, Lisa Tychonick, Amber Lunn, Carol Griffiths, Tora Goss, Neil Boyce, Marla Falt, Lori Claridge, (hi Lori in Quebec), Elaine Hodgson, Nicole Westerlund, David Essex, Gary Trento, Lara Forbes, Jim Andrews, Tommy Lloyd, Roger Bird, Aneline Plaatjes, Christine Leedham, Ronnda Bouwman, Jennifer Schnurr, Ronnie Elliott, Chaya Desroches, Bob Harkness, Arnold Cunningham, Curtis Tinney, Bridget Danks, Craig Ostergard and his grandpa Art Wittman and aunt Rhonda Wittman, Milissa Barr, Shaela Twiss and Frank Immink.

The 30-member Northwest Baptist Theological College Chorale will present a musical evening at the Squamish Baptist Church at 7:00 p.m., Sunday, February 9th.

Members of the community are invited to attend.

Stork Story-RAMSAY- Congratulations to Margaret and John Ramsay of North Vancouver on the birth of their first child (after 13 years of waiting), a son, Michael Erl James, born at 8:36 a.m., January 29th in Lions Gate Hospital, weighing 7 lbs. 7 1/2 ozs. The extremely proud grandparents are Mrs. Evelyn Ramsay and Mr. and Mrs. Erling Poulsen, all of Squamish.

The annual International Women's Day Potluck Dinner is planned for March 5th at the Brackendale Art Gallery. There will be a limited number of tickets and they will be available at the Women's Centre for $5.00. If you wish further information please call 892-5748.

Stork Story - ENNIS - A first child, a daughter, Cheryl Irene, was born to Chuck and Sue Ennis in the Lions Gate Hospital on January 9th, weighing 6 lbs. Mrs. Doris Green of North Vancouver is a proud grandmother.

Volunteers are needed to assist with the Annual B.C. Heart Foundation canvass. Jess Campbell at 898-3176 would like to hear from you if you have a few hours to spare between February 14th and March 1st.

A heritage display which will include art work, handicrafts, artifacts, photographs, contest, slide shows and talks will be ongoing at the Squamish Public Library from February 9th until February 23rd.

Wedding anniversary wishes to: Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Latulipe, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cella, Mr. and Mrs. B. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Odenbach, and Mr. and Mrs. Schattenkirk.

I certainly don't mind sport writer Mike Eckersley "stealing my thunder" but I would like to congratulate his sister and brother-in-law Laura and John Wiebe on the birth of their daughter Janette.

Luciana Baruffa wed in West Vancouver

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Roberts

St. Anthony's Parish Church in West Vancouver was the scene of a fall wedding on Saturday Oct. 12, 1985 at 3 p.m., when Luciana Baruffa, daughter of Fiorella and Vito Baruffa became the bride of Neil Roberts, son of Keith and Doreen Roberts... all of Squamish.

Orange chrysanthemums decorated the church for the 3 p.m. ceremony while white and orange rosettes and white flowers marked the pews.

A reception at Antoine's followed the ceremony.

For her marriage, the bride wore a heavy white satin dress, the V-neck edged with flowers centered with pearls. The bodice featured long sleeves of marquisette caught into long satin cuffs with an embroidered motif, edged in lace and pearls. Lace appliques adorned the bodice and edged the vee'd waist line.

Bowl for Millions this week

What is "Bowl for Millions?" "Bowl for Millions" is Big Brothers' largest fund raising drive. Your active support of this event is what keeps Big Brothers rolling all over Canada for the year to come, so play your role and make this our biggest year yet.

Locally, Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Squamish will host their 5th Annual Bowl for Millions at Garibaldi Lanes with Celebrity Days on Friday evening, February 7th, and Saturday, February 8th.

Teams have been formed by various businesses, clubs, and services for this big event. League bowlers are participating through their regular league play. The bowlers have been issued pledge forms and are looking for sponsors.

We encourage non-bowlers to support Big Brothers/Big Sisters by sponsoring your favorite bowler for a few cents a point. There is still time to form a team and come out and challenge our local schools, public servants or just come out and have fun.

Squamish merchants have once again been extremely generous in donating prizes for the bowlers. You may win a dinner, a haircut, or perhaps merchandise. For each $25 a bowler collects, he earns a chance for the provincial prize: draw as well.

First prize this year in the provincial draw is $1,000. There will also be trophies, T-Shirts and more but the best part about participating is that you will be contributing to your local Big Brothers/Big Sisters agency, helping us to grow and better serve the community.

A little of your time can be the gift of a lifetime. As always we are in need of Big Brother and Big Sister volunteers. The waiting list continues to grow and grow.

This is just one more reason to bowl for Big Brothers and Big Sisters this Bowl for Millions week. See you at Garibaldi Lanes.

Budget management program offered

Today, The Drilling Rigs Are Hard At Work...

Tapping New Wealth For British Columbians

The oil and gas industry is pumping new life into the economy of northeastern British Columbia.

Because of provincial incentives, about 600 new oil wells will be started in the next four years that would otherwise not be drilled. And thanks to new government initiatives, we've got new investment in our gas fields, added markets for our natural gas, and further development of our petrochemical industry.

In partnership with the petroleum industry, we're turning our energy to jobs.

EAGLES SPLIT WEEKEND

Exporters suffer from season surprise

It is late in the season. In the past that fact meant that the thoughts of four members of the Howe Sound Men's Hockey League were turning towards the playoffs. Actually, that's not true for due to the predictability of the division it was quite easy to point out the post-season players even before the regular season kicked off.

Those four sides, without fail, were the Whistler Winterhawks, Triple C Logging Terminal Exporters and Cardinal Concrete.

But 1985-86 has seen some startling, depending on who one is talking to, results. Three of them to be exact, as the Cards have fallen to the cellar, above only John Hunter's Trucking, which is in its usual spot. The other two? Well just ask the Exporters.

It's not that the latter squad is playing terrible. After all they are two points over .500 hockey, enough on other occasions to advance. The work however of the Hawks and Suds have astounded everyone and coupled to push the Terminals into fifth place and fading hopes.

During the week the Exporters aspirations ascended and descended like a roller coaster as the club earned two wins in three nights. On Friday a goal by Ray Wilburn at 16:18 of the final half gave them a 3-2 win over the Hawks after the latter side had jumped in front 2-0. The victory slipped the Exporters up to being three points behind the fourth place Suds.

Then on Saturday, the Cards took a 4-0 advantage only to watch Terminals reply seven times in the last period, including the hat trick from Bachuk, for a 7-4 victory. Yet there was one slight problem: the Suds.

Facing off against the Hawks in an important showdown that same night, the Suds got the production from the players it is supposed to get it from. All totalled Dan Townsend, the league's leading point getter with 47 goals and 41 assists, Tom Johnstone, and Mike Skands have scored 110 of the Suds 188 goals, not to mention creating 220 points themselves.

So on Saturday the trio each found the back of the Hawks net, Skands twice and got the winner at 18:00 of the second from R. Ballard in posting a 5-4 edging.

The victory maintained the Suds tenuous grip on fourth with a game in hand.

Not a team to give up, the Exporters went up against the Whistler Winterhawks on Sunday in an attempt to make it close. Coming off a 12-0 pounding of cross-town rivals the Sabres, on Wednesday, Whistler found themselves in a game during the weekend.

In a see-saw battle that went into the intermission at three, Winterhawk forward John Robinson notched his third of the evening at the thirteen minute mark of the second by rapping in a Keith Tindle rebound in a 4-3 Whistler win.

The result puts Terminals in the doghouse and the Winterhawks in a first place tie with Triple C, 9-1 victors over Cardinal Concrete earlier.

Guy earns top rookie honours

It was a day for the freshmen, and ladies to bask in some of the limelight.

In a one day, eight team tournament, the Howe Sound Curling Club put on its first Rookie Spiel in quite some time on Saturday and the only thing that could have made it any better would have been a few more foursomes.

But Lionel Guy liked it just the way it was thank you very much as he, along with vice Ernie Kupper, second Bonnie Sallie, and lead Patti Todevic, bucked the odds in accumulating three wins and a tie in four games for 43 points.

Pre-bonspiel odds had the Ron Erickson rink as the favourite with Al Hoyrup a close second. Besides the betting another interesting facet of the event was the point system which has shades of N.A.S.L.. The points scored during the actual match counted with three additional bonuses for a win, two for a tie and one for a loss.

Therefore a 5-4 game would net eight points for the winner and five for the loser. But Guy never experienced that latter problem as he knocked off Rodger Siebert in the opening round and then took over first place for good by doubling Hoyrup 10-5 in the second. Hoyrup, in the end, had to settle for the bride's-maid position at a record of 2-2-38.

In the third game Guy got by the winless Don Barkhouse 9-4 and then sealed the title with a 5-5 draw against third place finisher, John Todevic. Todevic wound up with a pair of victories along with a tie for 33 points while the last money position, fourth, was taken by the Dave Banbury squad at the identical record as Todevic but with only 30 points.

If it comes as any consolation, with four games left before their first season in the West Coast Junior Hockey League draws to a close, the Squamish Eagles should make the playoffs.

Barely, in the sixth and final spot, but the club is now master of its own destiny. On Saturday the Eagles were on the North Shore to take on one of the other sides vying for that position, the N.S.W.C. Flames. With perhaps the season on the line Squamish responded with a 6-1 victory.

The loss by the Winter Club put them two points back of the Eagles and in the unenviable position of having to go to Seattle on Sunday in an attempt to draw even. Results from that game were not known late Sunday but a loss would assuredly put the Flames, with two games left versus Ladner and UBC, out of the running.

But don't count them out yet.

On Sunday Squamish had the opportunity of increasing its stranglehold on a playoff spot as the squad was at home against the Ladner Rebels, then one point back of the locals. The Rebs, thanks in large to a second period in which they outscored the Eagles 4-1, continued its mastery of Squamish in a 9-6 drubbing.

The unfortunate part was that many of the Rebel goals came as a direct result of glaring mistakes that some disciplined hockey might have changed.

After Dan Payne came out of the corner at 3:21 to open the scoring, Ladner came back with a pair of low drives in which goaltender Paul Durante would have had on a normal night.

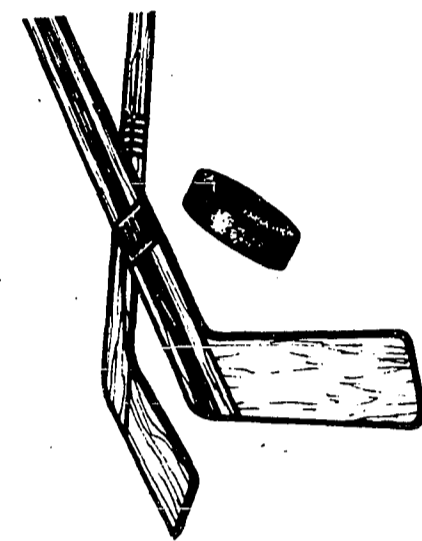

Durante did make some spectacular stops later in the contest but in the first he could do nothing but watch as the Rebels struck three times in a pair from John Barone and one from Brent Muehlbauer, in a span of one minute and 36 seconds for a 3-1 advantage.

The Eagles though, outshooting the opposition 15-8 in the opening frame shook off these quick tallies and stormed back. Midway through Myles Rosser made full use of an indecisive Angelo Maggio.

The Ladner keeper, in gathering a loose puck, couldn't decide on whether to cover it up or not as Rosser and Dinwoodie stormed in. In a fit of panic Maggio swept it in off Rosser's skate, and half a minute later John Hunter fed Craig Warren a perfect pass to put the latter in the clear. Suddenly it was 3-3.

But just as a lucky goal sparked the come back, so did a lucky goal stop it. Early in the second frame and just after Durante had helped his teammates get through a minute and a half two man disadvantage and were in the process of killing yet another penalty, a weak shot from Gunner Dahlberg hit the goaltender's stick and the short rebound trickled in off Dominic Farrell.

All it took was a couple of defensive mistakes resulting in two-on-one breaks and the contest reversed itself to a 6-3 Rebel lead, and the Eagles never recovered. The locals tried, earning a second effort from Payne before the close of the middle session to make it 6-4 but that was as close as it got.

Craig Warren and Bob McQuay replied in the third though as Squamish occupied most of its time trying to kill off two more series with a pair of men in the box and thus ran out of steam.

Ice Chips- six Eagles were named to this Saturday's all-star game. On the list of over roughly 40 players to compete in the event at the Trout Lake Arena, home of the Grandview Steelers, were forwards, Myles Rosser, Richard Lee, and Dan Payne, defenders Chris Jesson and Mark Sutherland, and goaltender Peter Milkovich.

Squamish's four remaining contests will be tough ones. On Wednesday they are in Surrey and then return home on Sunday for a rematch against Ladner. White Rock and Seattle are on the final week agenda.

Arctic Winter Games of interest locally

A former resident of Squamish and graduate of Howe Sound Secondary School, Jane Hutchinson was recently appointed executive director of the Yukon Sports Federation.

The Arctic Winter Games will be held in the Yukon in March and Hutchinson will be directly involved. The Games are run by a staff of eight who are the liaison with the teams and coaches of the over one thousand athletes who will attend from the Yukon, Alaska, North West Territories and Northern Alberta.

Miss Hutchinson, who received much of her aquatic training in Squamish and her Recreation and Aquatic Specialist Certificates at Camosun College in Victoria, has been the recreation director at Watson Lake for several years.

Quitting Smoking - The thoughts of Michelle Richard and Tina Ward

On Cold Turkey Day, January 22, hundreds of Canadians put out their last cigarette butts and decided to quit smoking forever. A brave decision indeed, because every smoker, whether he realizes it or not, is a drug addict.

The drug, nicotine, found in cigarettes, becomes addictive after a short while. So, not only smoker's mind, but also his body, craves cigarettes.

Venturing

by Fred Meston

January was another busy month for the Venturers. We were busy with our wood sales.

At this time I would like to apologize for those names which were spelled incorrectly in last month's column for reasons beyond our control.

In early January, we took a tour of B.C. Rail's Locomotive Rebuilding Center, and diesel shops. We would like to thank Mike Lloyd for a very interesting and unforgettable tour.

On Jan. 5 the Venturers rented a car and went skiing at Blackcomb. We all had a terrific time except for Kevin Stant who broke his arm.

On Jan. 19, Craig Clausen and Mike Martin attended a planning meeting for this year's District Cub Camp. The Cub Camp will be held on the weekend of Feb. 8 and 9. Good luck to Mike and Craig who will be helping out as activity leaders.

We had our monthly executive meeting in the Howe Sound Secondary School Library on Jan. 28. At the meeting we discussed plans for the company until the end of August. We also discussed fund-raising projects and equipment purchases. It looks like a very exciting and busy year ahead.

On Feb. 3, we will be presenting awards to James Tough, Bill Remple, and Rick Hunter, for their help and generosity.

We will be opening a Venturer Woodlot downtown in the middle of February. Come and cut your own wood. We will have fir and will be selling all you can get in a pick-up truck for $25. Keep an eye open for our advertisement later this month.

WE'VE TOUCHED THE HEART OF SOMEONE YOU KNOW

B.C. Heart Foundation

To quit the habit one should always consider the disadvantages to smoking. Depending on how many cigarettes a person smokes, he spends hundreds of dollars a year on the habit. The tobacco stains that develop on the teeth and fingers and the smell of smoke which lingers on a person, is very unattractive. Smoking shortens a person's life by increasing the chances of developing cancer, coronary artery disease and other illnesses. A smoker finds it more difficult to perform physical activity. Also, cigarette smoke, over a period of time, severely damages the lungs and throat and reduces the efficiency of the lungs.

So, even if you didn't quit on Cold Turkey Day, it's never too late to do so. Get support from your friends and family, and do it. It isn't easy, of course, but anything worth getting is worth fighting for, because you'll look better and you'll feel better. So don't have cold feet-quit smoking. You'll definitely thank yourself later.

benefit from them. Tobus said the present over-emphasis on economic development detracts from services offered to residents. "Police, fire, water, sewers and other services all have to be provided. Meanwhile grants have declined and tax arrears are greater than they have ever been before. "The best way to promote our respective municipalities," he said, "is to provide services and to manage our funds wisely. We must use advertising by radio, newspapers and such things as trade fairs to bring people into our communities." He said communities are stagnating; demands on municipalities for services cost more than it did last year.

"But," he said, "Squamish has tremendous potential and its day will come. We have a deep sea port, power, water, undeveloped industrial land, the infrastructure for a much larger community and the people to work in the industry. Our day is not too far away."

Phil Turner, Chairman of the Squamish Chamber of Commerce.

"I have a dream of Squamish at the end of the 20th century," Phil Turner, chairman of the Squamish Chamber of Commerce, told the gathering.

"I can see it increasing tenfold, with an increase in local population to 100,000 people, by the year 2000. Improved road conditions will make us the next major expansion area in the Lower Mainland. Forestry, mining, will still be the primary industries and the arrival of natural gas will contribute to industrial development.

"Tourism will continue to grow and rival the primary industries in this area," he continued. "Whistler will continue to grow. Aquaculture will be developed in Howe Sound. There will be marinas and a growth in recreational boating. Industry will change and there will be development of further port facilities.

"Squamish will be the gateway to the Cariboo with the development of the Duffey Lake road as a major highway; there will be a Skytrain-type of commuter run to Whistler, an upgraded airport at Squamish.

"We are excited about the youth program in Squamish with the Job Entry Program providing job training for 20 young people for seven months. We can foresee commercial redevelopment in the downtown area and many business opportunities for young and old. We are looking for entrepreneurs with new ideas."

Turner concluded by saying we were still looking to an alternate highway at some future date.

Terry Rodgers, Mayor of Whistler

"Whistler's problems have taken all our energies," Mayor Rodgers said. "The growth scenario showed 725,000 skier visits last year; this year it will rise to 785,000 and we can expect our first millionth skier in five years. We can sleep 16,000 people in Whistler now, but we will need 21,500 beds by 1990 and 30,000 beds by the end of the century."

"Our permanent population is 2,400 to 2,800 with 1,000 seasonal employees in winter. By the end of the century we will have between 5,000 and 6,000 permanent residents. This means we will have to add a high school to our community and the money must come from the taxpayers.

"We had a growth rate of five percent in 1985. It will be higher this year as we expect to see $46 million in development in our community. The general trend is up. This will mean serious implications in the tourist industry.

"Tourism is a labour-intensive industry," Rodgers continued. "Pay rates tend to be low but can't provide the services with high pay rates. Squamish and Pemberton will be the dormitories for Whistler for a long time to come."

Drew Meredith, President of the Whistler Resort Association:

Drew Meredith, president of the Whistler Resort Association told the gathering in 1975 the village of Whistler decided to create a variety of services to attract people to Whistler on a year round basis. But people can't get there if the road isn't open. Pemberton Airport will be a fabulous asset," he added. "Squamish benefits from providing services and is the major source of our employment and counteracts the recession."

"Who travels the highway," he said. "It's a yellow snake heading up on Friday night and down on Sunday night."

Visitors come from Ontario and Eastern Canada, Washington (30 percent), Oregon and we're just tapping the California market. We want growth in destination visits with longer stays. Our competition comes from the other destination resorts in

THE GREATEST OF ALL TIME

North America. Canadian resorts don't have the advantages of those in the States where the weather is better.

"We must be able to change," Meredith said. "We spend $2.5 million marketing Whistler and 75 percent of this comes from the business community. We have to have a variety of attractions. Visitors want something to do, wilderness is not enough. Service is very important and is good advertising."

Meredith said very few people in B.C. know what tourism is all about and must learn to look at tourism as a career.

"One of the things tourists look at is safety and comfort when they go somewhere," Meredith said. "Thank goodness visitors from the States don't see BCTV."

"We're getting the older crowd," he said, "the 34-plus ones" and the audience laughed. "There are certain times of the year when there are problems on the highway but most of the time it is safe."

"We haven't begun to tap the tourism market," he added. "What we have to provide is quality and consistency."

On a question regarding gambling, he said, "we don't need it," and on one regarding future winter Olympics at Whistler, he said, "we're not big enough yet. You can't be a destination resort if people can't get to you."

After a break, a number of speakers discussed methods which could be used to stimulate economic development.

Irene Lugsdin, Community

Development Officer for the Sunshine Coast, outlined the various LEAD opportunities and said there are 13 in B.C. where funding has been made available. The program will help people who have ideas but need money.

Michelle Medicott from the local CEIC office spoke on the new federal job strategy programs, one of which is underway in Squamish at present. There are also programs for those requiring skill development and who have shortages in some essential skills.

Peter Lee, local government agent, spoke on programs to assist the small businessman. He said the communities must work together for economic renewal. He also outlined the aims of the Provincial Venture Capital Fund.

The final speaker was Louise Krohn of Capilano College who spoke on some of the things the college can do towards economic development and some of the programs that could be mounted.

Provincial forests are B.C.'s forgotten parks

B.C.'s provincial forest lands is the forgotten park system in B.C. and unmatched on the continent for its size and diversity, according to the Association of B.C. Professional Foresters.

There are more than 360 Provincial Parks in B.C., occupying about five million hectares of Crown land, but they represent only a fraction of the land being used for outdoor recreational use.

Unlike the single-use restriction in Provincial Parks, provincial forest lands are managed on a multiple-use basis. This system respects alternate forest land uses and accommodates them in a development plan that provides the maximum overall benefit to the province. Indeed, only 21.3 million of the 89 million hectares of provincial forest lands are directly available for logging and forestry.

Said Harry Marshall, spokesman for the Association of B.C. Professional Foresters, "For 14 years, the Ministry's recreation management branch program has provided a unique addition to the inventory of tourist attraction. It has done so without fanfare or advertising, although maps and information on local recreation opportunities are available on request at each of the Ministry's 46 district offices."

Marshall said about two million residents and visitors take yearly advantage of the more than 1,000 scenic recreation sites and 3,000 kilometres of trails provided. At least as many more, Marshall said, gain access to a safe forest environment along a road system built by the forest industry. The sites themselves are usually small, situated near lakes and rivers, and blend intimately with the natural surroundings.

"This park system even makes money," Marshall said. "There are no user charges for the recreation sites and trails but the Ministry estimates at least $300 million annually is indirectly generated by those making use of them."

Marshall said forest industry companies contribute further by keeping recreational site potential in mind when preparing and reviewing timber management plans. Some funds have been earmarked for recreational uses under Section 88 of the Forest Act but in addition, many companies have built and maintained sites at their own expense.

"British Columbia's professional foresters believe adequate recognition is often lacking of this successful blending of recreation into the resource management process, especially as pressure grows on the limited commodity of forest land for parks and other single-use purposes," Marshall added.
