FRENCH IMMERSION CLASSES APPROVED

The board of trustees for Howe Sound School District No. 48, approved late French immersion classes in the Squamish area.

The board which has been studying the possibility of having these classes, has consulted with parents and the staff of the schools in the district and some principals have visited schools where late French immersion is in place.

Surveys held earlier this year indicated that 50 to 60 students from Grades 4 and 5 would be interested in taking the classes. Following the survey it was decided that Mamquam Elementary School would be the appropriate site for such a program and Stawamus Elementary also expressed a keen interest in the program.

Principals Alex Marshall and Ian Kent visited schools in Surrey in which the late French immersion program is in place and they said there is sufficient interest to stage such a program, adequate funding is in place and there is sufficient space in which to operate the program. Pupil transport would be no problem but there may be difficulty in finding adequate staffing as the number of teachers who can give the course are limited.

The board heard presentations from Tom Rothney, Director of Education, the principals and parents, and decided to implement the provincially authorized Late French Immersion Program starting in September of this year. The classes will be in Grade 6 and will involve a minimum of 24 and a maximum of 30 students.

It also authorized a standing French Immersion Committee consisting of teachers, principals, parents, district staff, and trustees be established to work on the program.

Superintendent Trevor Harris was authorized to immediately recruit two teachers for the program which is scheduled to start in September.

Closures on Highway 99

Highway 99 will closed at Newman Creek, eight kilometres north of Horseshoe Bay, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 4 to 6.

Highway 99 will be open Friday, March 7 with intermittent closures scheduled throughout the day.

Reynolds appointed parliamentary secretary to health minister

Trustee concerned about proposed new program

School trustee Ardis Lawrence told the school board meeting last Wednesday she was concerned about a proposed new program which Mike Edwards, principal of Signal Hill Elementary School, had asked to be introduced to the Grade 5, 6 and 7 students. The program is called Planned Parenthood and deals with the physical and emotional changes which take place at puberty. Many schools use films on this subject of body changes and a resource person offers additional information and answers questions. Many schools use segregated classes and in most schools preliminary meetings are held with parents to discuss the project.

The request sparked some lively discussion at the meeting of trustees held on Feb. 26. Ardis Lawrence, trustee from Pemberton, said she wanted more information on what would be taught to the students.

"I feel it is a very delicate subject," she said "and I would want more parental input before we decided whether to have such a course introduced into our schools."

"I'm afraid that at the Grade 5 level the course and its contents may be too explicit and one which would be difficult to approach because it brings in such subjects as morality. I feel that at the Grade 5 level it is too early for such a program."

She also expressed her concern that it would be taught to mixed groups.

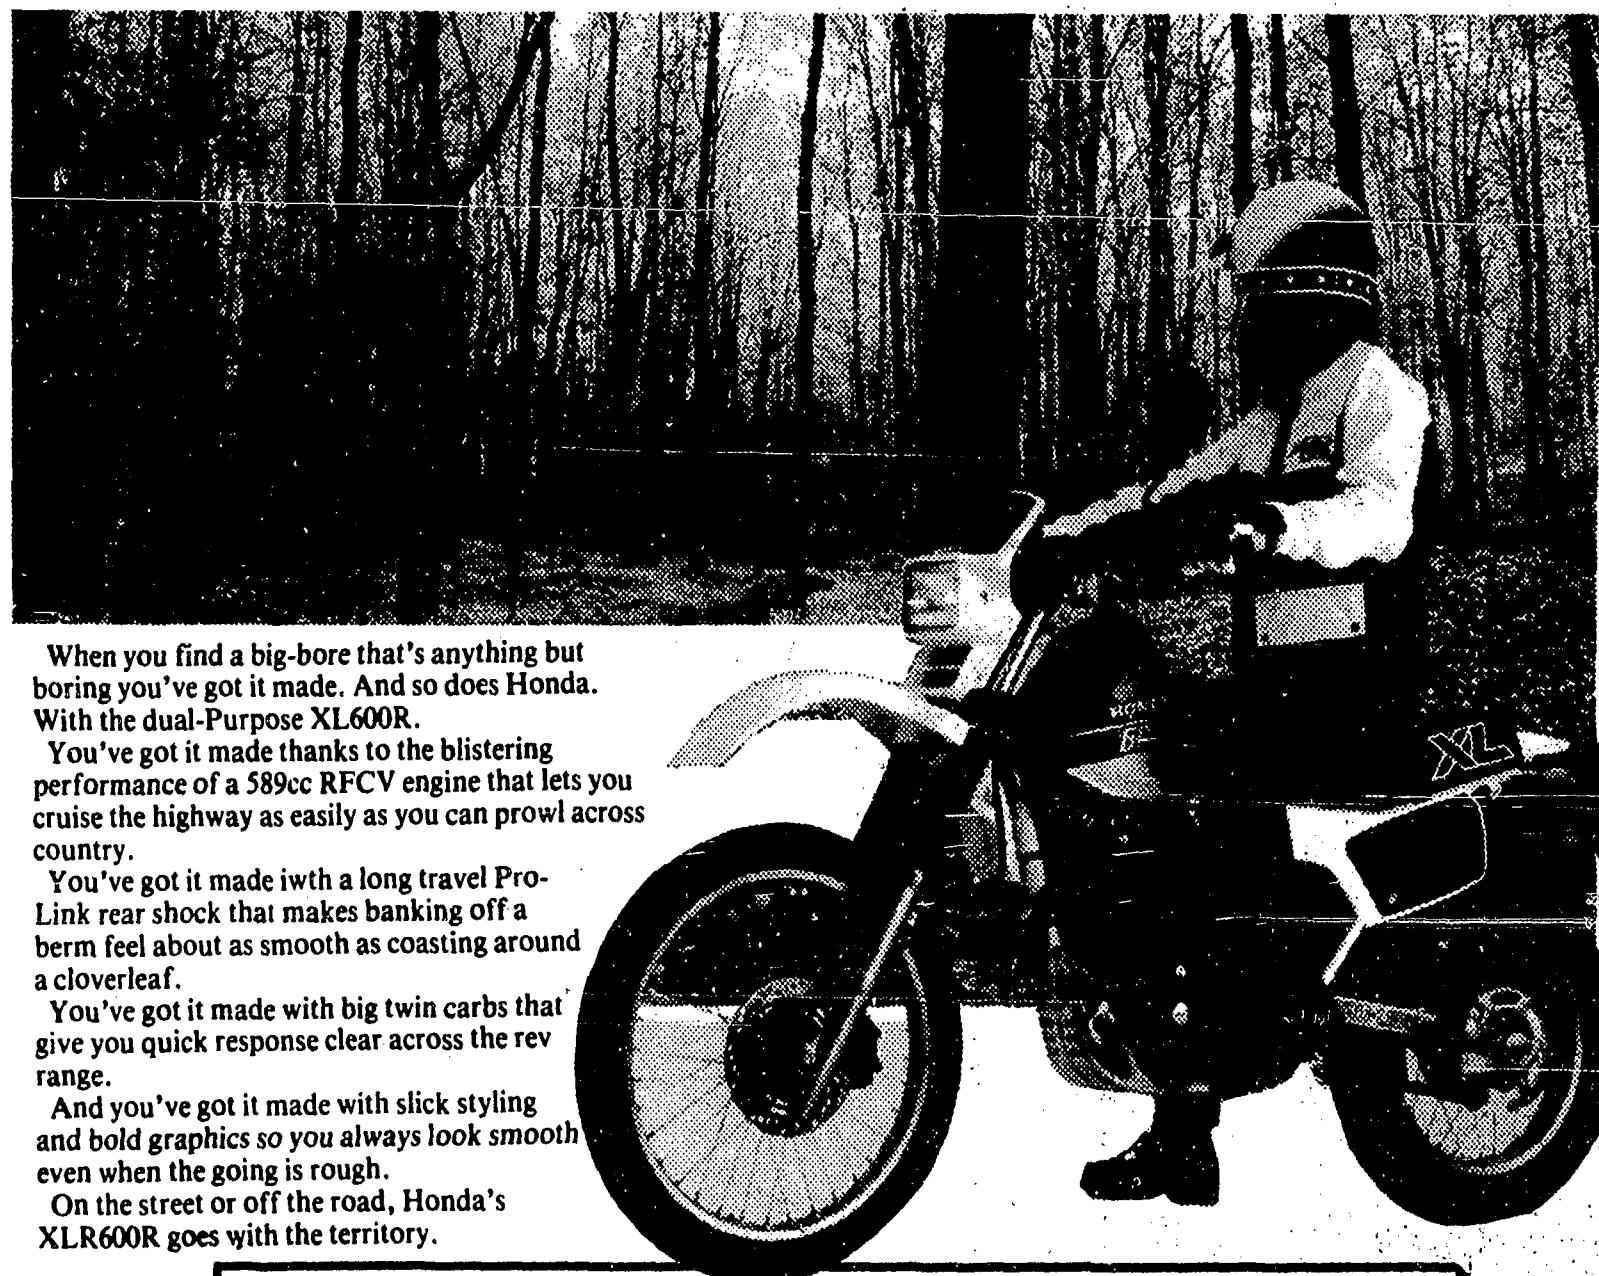

"Some of the information is necessary," she said, "but it should not be given in depth."

Lawrence said she believed that young people should get the information but wanted to know more about how it would be done. She heartily approved of the C.A.R.E. program which is given to the younger children and felt this could be valuable as well but wanted to know more about it and wanted the parents to learn more about it.

"Parents should be more involved," she said, "and we should ask them to learn about the program and see if they approve of it before we put it in the schools."

The board decided to take a further look at the program and find out more about it before either approving the project or not.

HONDA XL600R

When you find a big-bore that's anything but boring you've got it made. And so does Honda. With the dual-Purpose XL600R.

You've got it made thanks to the blistering performance of a 589cc RFCV engine that lets you cruise the highway as easily as you can prowl across country.

You've got it made with a long travel Pro-Link rear shock that makes banking off a berm feel about as smooth as coasting around a cloverleaf.

You've got it made with big twin carbs that give you quick response clear across the rev range.

And you've got it made with slick styling and bold graphics so you always look smooth even when the going is rough.

On the street or off the road, Honda's XLR600R goes with the territory.

Squamish residents sponsor needy children

Hospital tenders by mid-April

The Squamish Hospital Board is hoping to be able to call for tenders for the construction of the new hospital by mid-April.

Administrator John Dillabough said the revised plans including some changes will be submitted to Victoria by April 1 and two weeks from that date he expected approval would be given and the board could ask for tenders. The Squamish Lillooet Regional Hospital District has agreed to the funding for Squamish for capital items to the amount of $33,174. The board and the medical staff will now compile a list of the items according to priority.

Director of Nursing Gloria Healey told the board there was some consternation at the hospital when the bus went off the highway north of Squamish recently.

Conflicting reports reached the hospital regarding the number of people on the bus, some reports saying there were as many as 45 passengers. There was some confusion regarding implementation of the disaster plan, calling out extra help and arranging for emergency treatment.

Fortunately there were only two people on the bus and the situation was not as serious as it could be. But she suggested there should be more accurate information available. Dr. Shellenberg agreed with her.

Some 16 individuals, families or groups in Squamish participate in World Vision Canada's childcare programs, according to a newsletter published by World Vision.

Alan Hassell, spokesman for World Vision, a Christian private aid agency, said the Squamish residents join nearly 12,000 British Columbians participating through sponsorship and partnership to aid under-privileged children in less-developed countries.

According to World Vision, almost 750,000 children worldwide receive the basic necessities of nutrition, health care and education through World Vision's programs.

In the sponsorship program, each child is matched with a specific Canadian person or group -- a family, a church, or perhaps a service club. The sponsor contributes $23 each month to a fund from which the child's needs are provided. Sponsors can correspond through a World Vision interpreter, with the child. They receive at least one photograph of the child, plus periodic reports of school and health progress. The same fund also helps finance community development for the common benefit of all the children in a village -- such as a community water system or a farming project.

With the project partnership alternative, rather than matching donors with recipients for correspondence, the emphasis is more directly on community development for the benefit of entire families and villages. Partnership costs $18 per month.

Anyone wishing more information on World Vision can call the Vancouver office at 324-6368.

Jump in local construction encouraging

Referring to a building inspector's report to council for the month of January, Alderman Dave Stewart called the marked increase in local construction "encouraging" to the community.

"There is a substantial increase in activity in residential building and commercial building," Stewart noted.

According to the report, 19 building permits for various construction activities, including single family dwellings and commercial buildings, were issued last month compared to five permits for the same time period last year.

The permits issued represent a substantial $559,000 in building construction, a significant increase over last January's $29,000 in building construction.

Members of the Squamish Elks Club presented a set of "monkey bars" to the Squamish General Hospital. Nurses Darlene McKeown and Dorren Bullington were on hand to receive the much-needed equipment from Elks Bill Mitchell, Phil Hoy, Colin Nicholson, and Bill Strelaef.

International Women's Day nears

Women in the Squamish area will be contributing in their own way to the celebration of International Women's Day, March 8.

The Howe Sound Women's Centre will be holding its fourth annual Potluck Dinner at the Brackendale Art Gallery on March 5. Tickets for the dinner are sold out and the organizers of the dinner would like to thank everyone for continued support and sharing in the celebration.

On Saturday, March 8, there will be a parade in Vancouver starting at the Vancouver Art Gallery at 11 a.m. with a rally at noon. The main speaker will be Jessie Duarte, Transvaal Women's Federation, South Africa. Other speakers include: Anne Harvey (vice-president, B.C. Federation of Labour), Elaine Bernard (director, Labour Programs, S.F.U.), Libby Davies (alderwoman, City of Vancouver), Silva Tennenbeim (Lesbian Women), Terri Willie (Native Women), Jan Firdie (WAWAW), and Lee Lakeman (Rape Relief).

Also on March 8, an Information Day will be held at the Carnegie Centre, starting at 3 p.m. Workshops scheduled include Women Organizing for Peace, Disabled Women and Their Isolation Within the Women's Community, Women of Colour, Every Women's Right in Collective Action, Lesbian Women, Women of the Right, Rape Relief.

March 8 is also B.C. 86, an inquiry into the impact of provincial politics on women's issues and is organized by the B.C. Federation of Labour Women's Rights Committee. This event will be held at the Robson Square Media Centre from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The Howe Sound Women's Centre hopes many women in the Howe Sound area will be able to attend some of the special events planned to celebrate International Women's Day.

Dennis Locsin, along with employees Denise Ostergard and Karen Stach, are busy readying the new Work Wear World in the Chieftain Centre for its opening this week. The store will carry a full line of work clothing and fashions, and boasts 30 styles of work boots.

Since 1908, when women demonstrated to demand the right to vote, the prohibition of child labor, shorter working hours, better working conditions, and equal pay, the theme of International Women's Day has been "Bread and Roses." Bread symbolizes economic security and Roses stands for better life.

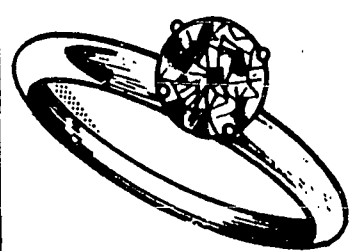

Inspired by the slogan, "Bread and Roses" chanted by the young mill women in the textile strike of 1912, James Oppenheim wrote the poem, "Bread and Roses."

A few verses are:

"As we come marching, marching, we battle too for men,
For they are women's children and we mother them again.
Our lives shall not be sweated from birth until life closes;
Hearts starve as well as bodies; give us bread, but give us roses!

As we come marching, marching, we bring the greater days.
The rising of the women means the rising of the race.
No more drudge and idleness that toil where one reposes,

But a sharing of life's glories: Bread and Roses!
Bread and Roses!"

Youth employment a priority

In the wake of the frustrating cancellation of Katimavik, the Federal Government has at least saved some face with its re-affirmation of its intention to carry over Challenge 85, a student summer employment program, into $986.

Last summer, in this riding of Cariboo-Chilcotin, a total of 565 students of were created with a total investment of $1,022,339. In B.C. alone, over 10,000 jobs were created by the program—a fair portion of the total of 90,000 student jobs that were created across the country.

The beauty of Challenge 86 is that it is not primarily a "make work" philosophy, devised by the government to keep idle students active. Challenge 86 involves the private sector, municipalities, and non-profit organizations by encouraging them to open their work-places to students.

The program allows students to work in their field of interest, adding fuel to the career-goal fire. In return, the program pays up to 50 percent (to a maximum of $3 per hour) of the student employee's wages.

Any employer eligible under the program and willing to give work to a student who needs desperately that extra money, confidence, and work experience, is urged to take part in Challenge 86.

Students today do not just want to work, they have to work. Rising tuition fees coupled with exorbitant living costs, mean, post-secondary education is becoming less a reality for many aspiring scholars.

This country's future lies in today's youth. We lost Katimavik, let us not lose a valuable student employment program like Challenge 86.

Tunnel talk "trendy"

Dear Editor:

The municipality of Whistler is to construct a tunnel under the highway so the golfers can meander safely from the town centre to the links. Tunnels are very trendy these days. If Maggie and Francois can have one, why can't we?

All very logical and commonsensical you may well say. Golf, on the other hand, isn't everyone's cup of tea. Like P.G. Woodhouse, I find it comically ludicrous. However, some of my best friends are golfers and even experts at the thing, including my good neighbour Bob Brown! The thought of any of them coming to harm as they stagger across the highway juggling their balls and pulling shopping carts, laden with sticks behind them, is disconcerting to say the least.

After all, for a miserable $500,000 the price is right. Inflation being what it is, it could cost a cool million this time next year; let's snap it up quick.

But, oh yes, but, where are the defenders of Milton Friedman and his Adam Smith school of economic theory which says, "the user must pay". Where now the indignant civic fathers, who wax eloquent against the cross-country ski crown as they slap a daily $4.50 "user fee" on them. Where now Doug Fox, Paul Burrows, and his worship Terrance Rodgers, not a whimper from any of them.

Aren't you going to rage on about 'no free lunches' to the golfers the way you did to the cross-country skiers? Your silence is deafening. Now let's get with it, here's a chance to pick up some loose change from the high rolling golf set. Let's get a toll booth on the tunnel! Matter of fact you could do a bit of penny pinching here by moving the one we have at Lost Lake over there for the summer. After all those Jack Nicklaus look-alikes who stay at the Delta don't pay taxes up here, unlike me these 20 years past.

Why be selective and pick on the skiers? And while you're at it what about the sewer? That costs a pretty penny. Why not a 'user-pay' box - 25 cents for every flush. Geoff Playfair, the bylaw officer could empty the boxes when he's out chasing wild dogs.

Of course, you'll need a bylaw to back up the tunnel toll booth, and prevent the likes of Bob Brown and his buddies from continuing to scamper over the road. Anything less than six months in Oakalla for a first offence won't stop them, believe me!

Of course you could let common sense prevail over ideological stupidity and put an end to the whole nonsense of 'user-pay'!

At the same time, perhaps you could explain to the taxpayers whatever happened to the $300,000 which was budgeted for the self-same tunnel by the original Whistler Land Company.

Secretary
Alta Lake Sports Club

Abortion:

another view

Dear Editor:

I read with interest Ms. Matheson's reply to Mr. Eby's letter on the subject of abortion.

I am dismayed by her line of reasoning which seems to be so prevalent these days. We are so in tune with our 'rights' that no one seems to be at all concerned about responsibilities any more.

We try to teach our children that there are consequences for our actions yet when it concerns us, we'd rather eliminate the consequences. Surely when a woman consents to intercourse with a man, she must know that there is some chance (however small) of conception. Having conceived, is it such an impossible task to nurture the child (fetus) for nine months to give a childless couple a lifetime of happiness? Ms.

Matheson says these women don't like to give their children away. Yet they can destroy them? I don't understand that kind of reasoning.

She also states that abortion is not an easy procedure to go through emotionally or physically. Nor is pregnancy and the giving up of a child, I'm sure. My husband and I have two beautiful children of our own and we've come to consider ourselves very fortunate. We know several couples that cannot have their own children. It is for them that I make my plea. No, I cannot dictate what you do with your body, but I make my plea to anyone out there considering their 'choices'. Before you do go ahead with an abortion, think of the joy you could give someone who would willingly take your unwanted child and love and raise it as their own.

"Skid road bum" demeaning

Dear Editor:

My husband Morton and I find that we must take issue with an article which appeared on page 19 of the February 18th issue of your valued newspaper.

The article dealt with the efforts of a Squamish minister, David Debney, to provide a more meaningful and interesting lifestyle for some unfortunate people: I am sure that you, presumably a resident of beautiful sea to sky country, would fully appreciate the value of life there as compared to the drab sometimes sordid life on "skid road" (I have also heard it referred to as skid row.)

I am particularly concerned about your inappropriate use of the term "skid road bum" in referring to my uncle Albert. Albert, who is now in his late sixties, was once the proprietor of a prosperous blacksmith shop in a medium sized community in Saskatchewan. He weathered the drought and depression with a steady trade in the shoeing of work horses and repairs to farm implements. With the coming of more prosperous times on the prairies farmers turned to tractors and the purchase of new equipment which did not need repair - business fell to nothing. Sick with worry he eventually fell victim to the evil John Barleycorn. He eventually awoke from an alcohol stupor on "skid road". Albert, a sensitive person, has made his contribution to the wealth of Canada through taxes on his earnings, meager as they were and taxes on everything he consumed. I think that he should be allowed to live his remaining life in pleasant surroundings.

I submit that you as Editor and your staff should be taken to task for using demeaning terms to describe unfortunate citizens who have run up on the shoals of life!

Sylvia Hensbee [Mrs.]
P.S. I will do my best to see that Uncle Albert does not see the February 18th issue.

Use of "bums" offensive

Dear Editor:

Every now and again I am roused from the usual somnolent diatribe in your paper, by an editorial or article that is so biased or negative in content that I am compelled to respond.

Such was your item pertaining to Rev. Daniel Debney and his plans to provide shelter and lodging for some of societies less fortunates.

To be more succinct, I find your use of the noun "bums" to enhance the adjective "skid-road", degrading, insensitive, callous and purblind at best. Perhaps a month's "holiday" with Emery Barnes would educate your scribe to some of the niceties of British Columbia's New Reality".

the Times howe soundings

BY ROSE TATLOW

By the time you read this I shall be holidaying in Mexico. In Ixtapa, mid-way between Puerto Vallarta and Acapulco, enjoying the sunshine, the sand and the sea.

A holiday at this time of year is perfect because by the time you come home it is spring and the flowers are starting to come out; the air is warmer; the birds are coming back and you know winter is over.

I am looking forward to Ixtapa. It will be warmer than San Carlos, but the ocean will also be warm. People who have been there before say it is lovely, a resort area built up by the government but close to authentic Mexican city of Zihautanejo, and there's marvellous browsing there. I'll spend most of my time loafing, reading, eating and sleeping but I do like looking in the shops and the markets, visiting the sights in the surrounding area and basking in the warmth and sunshine. As long as I don't sit in it and broil!!!

As Ixtapa is on the coast the seafood should be superb. I can already taste the shrimp and the red snapper and I'm certainly looking forward to the fruit platters for breakfast.

I know lots of people don't like the idea of Mexico. They are afraid of the water or the food but as long as you use common sense there's nothing to worry about. Don't eat fruit unless you peel it first; watch out for salads except in good restaurants and hotels and don't use ice unless it's in a good restaurant or hotel. And don't drink tap water. I always take Iomitol with me as well because I consider it good insurance.

I have only been sick once in all my visits to Mexico and that was my own fault. I had a drink in the airport at Puerto Vallarta with ice in it and by the time we got to Guadalajara I wasn't feeling very good.

I remember spending two days in bed and Beth got the doctor to me. It was just Montezuma's revenge bit I recall thinking how farsighted the builders of our motel were when they put the bathroom basin so close to the toilet. You could sit on one and be sick in the other!

One of my fondest memories of Mexico is the Guadalajara. There was a magnificent jacaranda tree in the courtyard of our motel and the ground was carpeted with the fallen blossoms. It was just like walking on a mauve-blue rug. Also in Guadalajara they have roses planted on the waste ground under the power line. B.C. Hydro take note!!

I can see the flowers already. The hibiscus will be in bloom and there will be bougainvillea spilling over the walls of the patios in flaming masses of red, orange, salmon, magenta, and white. The banana plants will have blossom and fruit on them at the same time and the tiny Mexican heart vine with its rosy heart shaped flowers will be growing along the roadsides. It always amazes me to see the fig trees, which we pay a fortune for when they are only a few feet high, growing to a height of 30 or 40 feet with huge glossy leaves. Just doesn't seem right somehow.

Hopefully there will be a chance to walk along the beach and find some shells but unless there has been a heavy surf recently to rool them up on the beaches they will all have been gathered. A beach walk after a storm is the time to find the best shells. There were some lovely ones at San Carlos, long slender spiral shells with unusual markings. I have a collection of shells gathered in Mexico and in Cartagena proudly displayed in the living room and I love them even if Beth does call them 'Dust catchers' and says if she had her way they would all be put in boxes and stored away. But I like looking at them and I enjoy recalling where they came from.

I must remember to take lots of film with me because I am sure to find something to photograph. With sand and sea there should be some marvellous sunsets and I am sure that in Zihautanejo I shall find some scenes to take pictures of. Each Mexican city has its central plaza, usually with a church or cathedral on one side and the municipal offices on another.

The flight down is at night but as I don't have any trouble sleeping an aeroplane I shall probably enjoy it. We arrive at 5:30 in the morning so I am sure I'll be ready for an additional sleep when I get there. But it will be one way to make sure I take it easy for the first day.

That's what they always tell you to do. Not to try and do too much as soon as you arrive but to take time to wind down and prepare to enjoy your holiday, and not to each too much or indulge in too much liquor.

local writer produces book on logging terminology

Have you ever wondered what a blowdown is? Or a bull cook or a burr? Or the meaning of the logging term cherry picking?

If so, you are like hundreds of other people who hear the terms used by the people working in the logging industry and can't imagine what they mean.

To answer these and other questions Joanne Dheilly has written Timber Talk, a glossary of logging terms as heard in the woods of British Columbia.

Dheilly finished the book while completing a course of studies at SFU and before leaving for Mexico to work as a program director at a Guide Association retreat.

The book, which contains definitions of logging terms from A Frame, two long logs braced in a A shape for logging at the water's edge, or an A-shaped framework of logs used for yarding and dumping logs, to wooding them down, leading trucks down as heavily as possible and a zoo, the bunkhouse where all the young men stay.

The book is lavishly illustrated with drawings and sketches by local artists Lesley Conway and Grant Meres, and also contains end papers showing logging had signals and a guyline pattern for a spar tree.

The book would make an interesting souvenir and should be a must for anyone who has worked in the woods or has any connection with logging.

Also having a hand in the project was Freda Van der Ree who works for the publisher of the book, and who is the successful author of a book on boating in the waters off British Columbia.

Oh those terms.... A blowdown is an area of timber blown down by high winds; a bull cook sweeps and cleans the bunkhouses and does general chores; he has nothing to do with cooking. And if you're bull cooking around you are goofing off or fooling around; A burr is the rough edges of a wedge or a hammer and cherry picking mean loading logs which have been dumped or left along a roadway or right of way, using a grapple or loading them directly on a truck.

Delving into the book of Peter's Quotations I found the following gems under competence and incompetence.

Public offices is the last refuge of the incompetent. Bois Penrose.

In a hierarchy every employee tends to rise to his level of incompetence. -Laurence J. Peter.

There are some days when I think I am going to die from an overdose of satisfaction. -Salvadore Dali.

Long-time Pemberton woman passes away

A long-time resident of Pemberton, Frances Effie Decker died at Mount St. Joseph's Hospital in Vancouver on Feb. 17, 1986.

She was predeceased by her husband, Jack, in 1972, and is survived by her four children, John of Cobble Hill, Frances (Antonelli) of Squamish, James (Jim) and Rosemary (Starks) both of Pemberton, eleven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

She was born Frances Booth at Lyn in Leeds County, Ontario on Dec. 20, 1894. Left motherless at an early age, she spent her school years as a convent boarder. She came west to Vancouver in 1914, where she worked as a legal secretary until her marriage to Jack Decker two years later. The couple lived first at Lake Buntzen, moving to a ranch 14 miles from Lone Butte around 1920. In 1927, looking to improve their prospects, they moved with their young family to the more fertile land of Pemberton Valley, settling on the farm now owned by David Valleau.

The next few years were busy ones for Frances, raising her four children, housekeeping, cooking, sewing, helping Jack on the farm, gardening, raising chickens, canning and making sure the grocery bill did not exceed $15 a month.

In May of 1933, Frances started out her long and dedicated community involvement as secretary of the newly formed Pemberton Branch of the Women's Auxiliary to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada - Pemberton's first women's club. Much of their efforts in the depression years were concentrated on sending old clothes and layettes to the destitute settlers of the Cariboo - for Frances remembered her old neighbours.

Long-time Pemberton resident, Frances Decker, lifetime member of the Pemberton Women's Institute, recently passed away at the age of 91.

Her interest in the church continued throughout the years and after the Missionary Society went in abeyance, it was to the home of Frances Decker that Bishop Gower came to inspire the formation of St. George's Church Guild. Later, she served as the church secretary at the time of the building of the new church in the village.

Frances also served as secretary to the Pemberton Meadows School Board and was, for 25 years, member of the Squamish Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

But her crowning achievements were to come through the Pemberton Women's Institute which she helped to organize and was the first President in 1940. She went on to serve the North Fraser District, advancing to Provincial level as Director in 1954, and finally President for the 1958-60 term. During the term, the Women's Institute Office was re-organized and an efficient system of bookkeeping set up - Frances' office training was invaluable to her then. The history book 'Modern Pioneers' was published during her term and in 1959 she went as delegate from B.C. to the world conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World held in Edinburgh. This conference sparked her life-long interest in international affairs and in particular the work of UNICEF and the Unitarian Services of Canada. It was during this period that she was appointed to the Provincial Indian Advisory Board.

In addition to her volunteer activities, Frances was a businesswoman in her own right, working as an Independent Insurance Agent from her valley home. She sold the business to Jim Elliott of Squamish about 12 years after she and Jack had moved to their retirement home in the village of Pemberton in 1960.

Always interested in writing, Frances contributed a weekly news column to the Bridge River and Lillooet in the fifties. In 1949, she won the Tweedsmuir Cup, given by the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada for the best essay in all of Canada on 'What the Women's Institute Means today'. 1977 saw the publication of 'Pemberton - the History of a Settlement' of which Frances was a co-author. That same year she received the Silver Jubilee Medal for the village of Pemberton 'for worthy and devoted service'. In 1980, due to ill health, she moved to Vancouver.

She will be remembered in Pemberton for the wide variety of her interests and her zest for life.

Representatives of the Finguard Chimney Fire Extinguishing Device, a new device designed to douse chimney fires, demonstrated their product to local members of the Squamish Fire Department.

New device provided to chimney fires

Local members of the Squamish Fire Department and other interested individuals were treated to a demonstration Feb. 26 of a new device whose manufacturers say will eliminate residential chimney fires.

Dan and Ken Stroud, representatives of the B.C. company, Finguard, simulated the extinguishing action of the device in a demonstration at the Squamish Fire Hall.

The Finguard Chimney Fire Extinguishing Unit, at a cost of about $375 plus a yearly servicing charge, is activated in the event of a chimney fire and proceeds to "mist" the inside of the chimney for a period of 30 minutes, emitting about two gallons of water.

The misting action, say the representatives, is sufficient to douse the chimney fire while protecting the interior of the home from smoke or water damage.

The device, which consists of a two gallon tank of pressurized water with a misting wand inserted into the chimney with an alarm system that sounds when alerted by a chimney fire.

According to company representatives, the device, invented by a Vernon fire marshal, has been approved by the National Research Council of Canada.

The representatives list some of the selling points of the device as affordable, easily installed and removed, no damage to chimney when activated, and the possibility of a reduction in home fire insurance for the homeowner.

Members of the local fire department were given the opportunity to ask questions about the device. Fire Chief Pat Hampson called the device, "interesting", but hesitated to agree with the company's claim that the device will "eliminate" the incidence of chimney fires in the home.

According to Hampson, the Squamish Fire Department responds to about 30 to 40 chimney fires each year. He said some of the chimney fires are very extensive and may burn for up to 45 minutes.

UPDATE

BY Cathy Dunlop

Have you ever wondered what parks staff do in the winter time? Well, they're busy doing a lot of things from refinishing picnic tables to writing reports and plans.

The most time-consuming job is planing, sanding, staining and varnishing 1200 picnic table planks. It takes about nine man months to complete the job. Many additional hours are spent putting them all back together again, and installing them in the 22 parks making up the Garibaldi/Sunshine Coast District.

Our office manager and clerk are always friendly and helpful in answering public telephone inquiries. They also process invoices and assemble month end attendance statistics. Typing reports, correspondence and preparing the budget are other duties they perform.

More and more contracts are being awarded each year in parks. Some are for full service contracts like at Brandywine Falls and Birkenhead Lake Parks. Others are construction contracts. Showers were constructed for example, in Alice Lake Park this winter. They were added to the two existing washroom buildings in the campground. Porpoise Bay Park at Sechelt had a toilet building constructed on contract. Park staff are still needed to prepare contract documents, process invoices and to monitor the project's progress.

Parks are checked on a weekly basis throughout the winter. Freezing pipes are a real concern at this time of year. During the ice skating season, the ice's thickness is checked periodically and warning signs posted if necessary.

Snow pack is analyzed weekly at the Diamond Head area of Garibaldi Park. Avalanche potential is determined. Poles marking the winter route to Elfin Lakes, and signs are checked. Estimates of visitor usage are also taken by the weekend rangers.

Long requisition lists for supplies are drawn up. It isn't easy figuring out the amount of toilet paper, garbage bags, cement, gravel and firewood needed for all those expected visitors. And we sure wouldn't want to run out of toilet paper.

District Manager, Jim Delikatny, has the complex task of determining what to spend the year's allocation of money on. So much could be done. Priority setting is really the only way to handle it.

Then Zone Supervisors have to figure out when and where to hire their seasonal employees. Because we want many of the parks ready by May 2 for EXPO, a few of the seasonals will be hired earlier. Many hundreds of tent sites will need upgrading.

So you see, park staff don't hibernate in the winter time.

Council grants $500 to Mountain Club Federation

Council granted $500 towards the costs incurred by the B.C. Federation of Mountain Clubs in its preparation of a feasibility study of development of the Chief.

The study included a conceptual plan for a campsite, picnic and viewing area at the Chief in the hopes of making the area more accessible for recreation.

Council had previously passed a motion at the June 11, 1985 council meeting giving approval-in-principle to the concept of developing the Chief as a climbing area.

On the request of council, the Federation submitted a report of costs incurred in the initial development stages.

Alderman Terrill Patterson voted against the motion to grant the Federation $500.

Squamish Junction Pavilion, photographed by Delle Booth.

This beautiful picture was the only entry in our photograph now for the future contest, so once again, we invite Squamish photography buffs to submit entries.

Photographs should be of any buildings in and about Squamish which will disappear or change over the years - e.g. - Robinson's Store will soon move to a new location and the old location become past history - sooner or later the bridge over the Blind Channel will be removed or enlarged - past history. Overwaitea is at its third location in a decade and we have no photos of the earlier stores - or the new one.

Photographs should be black and white preferable, 8x10 would be ideal, but smaller ones just as welcome. We would like to keep the negatives - but if this is not possible the actual photograph should be printed on a 'fibre base' paper (just ask when you take your films to be developed). The deadline for entries is May 20th.

All photographs and/or negatives should be left at the circulation desk marked 'Heritage Photos' with name of location, date of photograph, name of photographer.

If there are people in the photograph, if possible they should be identified. We have many photography books in our collection to answer all your questions. Check them out and be a part of community history.

Capilano College announces new president

Chairman of the Capilano College Board, Hilda Rizun, announced that effective February 19, 1986, Dr. Douglas K. Jardine was appointed the new president of Capilano College.

Jardine, a senior administrator of the college for the past fourteen years, has been acting principal since the departure of former principal, Paul Gallagher, in May of 1985.

Jardine has served as the Dean of Academic Studies and most recently as Dean of Instructional Services and filled the post of acting principal once before in 1976. Before coming to Capilano College Jardine had a practising and teaching background in physical chemistry.

The Board appointment of Jardine culminates a long search to fill the position of Chief Executive Officer. The search process involved a college wide Search Committee composed of faculty, staff, and Board representatives. Advertisements for the position were placed across Canada and a large number of applicants were screened. Finalists were interviewed by the Committee and College Board.

"We are pleased that we have found the right person and that Capilano College can now move ahead with a new president," said Board Chairman Hilda Rizun. "The Board is confident Dr. Jardine, with his excellent experience both in Capilano College and the B.C. College system, will provide the kind of strong and reasoned leadership the position requires."

"The Board and the College now look forward to working constructively and creatively with Dr. Jardine in furthering the substantial accomplishments of Capilano College and its reputation for instructional excellence and its reputation for instructional excellence and service to its community," she said.

Busy month for Venturers

by Gene Griffin

February has been a busy month for the Venturers. Our company has been working steadily on the weekends splitting wood down at the B.C. Rail compound in Squamish. We are trying to raise money for our canoe trip this summer. We would like to thank Lorne Bell of L & K Repairs and Helmut Scherer for the use of their hydraulic wood splitters. We would also like to thank Dwight McMillan for the use of his truck on a weekend and helping us to deliver the wood. We split about seven cords of wood in about five good six-hour days. We would like to give a special thanks to Steve MacDonald for donating his time and effort in helping us finish our project.

On Feb. 3 we held an Awards night to show our appreciation for all the help and support that Rick Hunter, James Tough and Bill Rempel have given us. On Feb. 4 the Venturers visited the Cub Pack at the Mamquam Elementary School. We played a game of soccer for the first half-hour, we didn't have a chance of scoring.

Then, for an hour we presented them with a slide presentation of last year's canoe trip and expedition to Mount Warner. Unfortunately, I was not a member then.

On Feb. 8 and 9, Mike Martin and Craig Clausen went with the Cubs to the Coast Mountain Outdoor School. When they returned they said it was fun; they did an excellent job, they helped the Cubs make shelters and had a game of Mad Trapper (Mike Martin was the Trapper). All of the Cubs had to chase Mike, only he was on snowshoes.

We have just recently purchased $1500 worth of camping equipment including three dome tents, 12 pairs of snowshoes, four pack stoves, and first aid equipment. On Feb. 23, Charlie Leski, Bruce MacDonald, Loni Pears and I got a chance to try the snowshoes out up at Diamond Head. The other members had other commitments to make. The RCMP gave us a ride up; about 10 minutes away from the parking lot because of road conditions. It was snowing up there. We put on our snowshoes and reached the parking lot at 9:30. We then hiked up to Red Heather, 6 km from the parking lot. When we got there we set up a shelter in the trees consisting of plastic ground sheets. We lit the stove and had some soup and a cup of hot chocolate. It then began raining. We got wet and decided to head down.

On the way down, we wished we had bought skis. We reached the parking lot at 1 p.m. We stopped there and had a snack. Shortly after we left. We tried to walk down as far as we could so the truck wouldn't have to go up the steep hills. Once we got to the main road we took off our snowshoes and walked. The truck picked us up at 2 p.m., the designated time. We were glad he was on time because we were quite wet. It was nice to get back home and put on some dry clothes. It was a lot of fun and we hope to have more adventures next month.

Long-time loggers Frank Wilson, Dennis Debeck, and Leo Davis, reminisce old times in the area at a gathering to celebrate Heritage Week at the Squamish Public Library.

Rotary student enjoys life in Norway

Rotary exchange student Kristina White has been in Stranda, Norway since last summer. In a recent letter received by the Times she gave the following report:

Everything in Norway is just wonderful and absolutely white! We have about 30 centimetres of snow. It is the kind of weather that only a penguin would go out in. Actually, it is quite warm, only -1 C.

I gave my first presentation to the Stranda Rotary Club. I have been to many meetings but I had never given a proper speech. I was a little nervous because the whole speech was given in Norwegian. Unfortunately many Norwegians do not know much more about Canada other than it is somewhere north of the United States. I was asked some very interesting questions.

Next week I shall be going to a city just outside Oslo with a choir I am in. There we will sing with another choir and be billeted out with them.

School is very good. Right now there are quite a few tests because we have winter holidays from Feb. 24 to March 2. In Norway they have more holidays than Canada.

At the beginning of March I will be moving in with another family but since they live only up the hill it will be very easy to move. I am trying to keep Mondays free to write letters but I haven't been very successful. I shall write again soon.

Epic Voyage

Members of the Squamish Yacht Club were treated to an outstanding slide presentation by Amy Boyer of Squamish, who at the age of 20, raced a 21 foot sailboat across the Atlantic single-handed.

The race started only two weeks after the 'Storm Fastnet' in 1979 when 15 sailors lost their lives off the Irish coast.

The first leg of the race from England to the Canary Islands was a real horror story with three severe storms one after another. Amy survived with a broken mast and injured spine and placed 11th up in the fleet. However her morale was low after this awesome experience and it took the inner resource of a determined strong willed person to carry on across the Atlantic to Antigua in the West Indies.

On the first day of the second leg, the boat developed a serious leak and Amy had to turn back for repairs. Again Amy had to rally her spirits and start out into the unknown. This time it was a good voyage and Amy with a true competitive spirit made up enough time to win the Womens Cup.

The following year Amy celebrated her 21st birthday in the same 21 foot sailboat in the middle of the Pacific Ocean, on her way along to Hawaii, in another race, the Trans-Pac, in which she placed third overall.

'Little Rascal' Amy's boat is now owned by Walter Clarke, a local sailing instructor who hopes Amy can spare a little time now and again, away from her new business, to go sailing in Howe Sound in the racing series sponsored by the Yacht Club.

KATIMAVIK

LIVING ON THE EDGE

by Nathalie Vallieres

No sooner than I became a Participant in the Katimavik Program than the government closed it down.

I do not much like this move of the government. Katimavik really helps all young people who have the opportunity to experience it. For example, at the North Vancouver Outdoor School, I have learned renovation skills, counselling skills and how to basically handle most tools. During billeting, I worked at Granny B's in Squamish and learned a lot about crafts. This week I am the Cook. I have learned about nutrition, meal planning and preparation and how to manage a home.

This program has taught me about respecting people and the environment and it has given me the chance to find happiness in myself. The closure of Katimavik does not affect me directly. But I am sad for Canada and all the young people who may have had the chance to go onto Katimavik.

Katimavik helps prepare the young generation for the responsibilities that will come our way. No Katimavik; no instruction. Where do we go? We did not get this type of instruction during school because Katimavik is a different kind of education. We teach ourselves with the facilitation of our group leader. We learn about the world outside the classroom walls and how to care for this world. We learn about each other: Anglophone and Francophone; Inuit and Ukrainian...we learn how to be Canadian. Katimavik takes us beyond our provincial borders.

Language, job skills, and people skills - this is Katimavik. Please think of Katimavik.

Productivity and cost control for Squamish area supervisors

Squamish organizations will benefit from a new productivity and cost control course developed by B.C.'s Open Learning Institute (OLI).

GTEC 152, delivered via home-study, will help supervisors systematically boost performance and minimize costs without leaving the region to take instruction.

"This new course offers supervisors in the Squamish area and other B.C. centres a good opportunity to improve their operating results, even in the absence of revenue increases-an important factor in times like these," said Dick Scales, OLI Director of Career, Technical and Vocational Programs.

"Its home study format allows supervisors to gain knowledge without losing work time in organizations that may already be running with minimal staff," he said.

Topics include the impact on productivity of materials flow and handling, work measurement and incentive systems. Facilities planning and layout, value analysis techniques, maintenance controls, automation and robotics are also discussed. Participants will be assisted by a subject expert tutor via toll-free long distance telephone.

"Productivity and Cost Control" was written by William F. Forest, a Vancouver consultant and 25 year veteran of industrial and management engineering in factory and health care. He is past president of the Canadian Society for Industrial Engineering and has lectured widely on productivity and cost control across Canada.

UNDERMANNED EAGLES EXIT RELUCTANTLY

If effort alone was the deciding issue, well at this moment the Squamish Eagles would be laying plans for a fifth and deciding game in Seattle.

Though any successful team has good work ethics, at times it takes a few added bonuses such as luck, the ability to finish off a scoring opportunity, the ability to stay out of the penalty box, defence, and of course goaltending.

Over the course of the four game series against the Seattle North West Americans, the Squamish Eagles just didn't get enough of these five combined ingredients and as a result of a 6-4 Sunday cliff hanger, have officially closed its first season of West Coast Junior Hockey.

But not one fan went away doubting the Eagles desire to prolong the issue. After coming off a 10-2 fall out on Saturday, when Seattle struck five times on the power play to put it away after a solid first period by both sides, Squamish could have easily decided to roll over and play dead, being down two games to one in the best out of five falls.

Instead, despite having half a dozen men on the bench for the second game in a row due to a rash of injuries, they put in an effort that made coach Barclay Craig and a packed arena proud. One change was the presence of Peter Milkovich between the pipes.

The Eagle's goaltender had returned from a field hockey trip to Pakistan on Saturday so Sunday's match was the first time he had been on skates in three weeks. A bigger difference, however, was a lack of the stupid penalties evident in game three.

In the latter match Squamish took 38 minutes in penalties. On Sunday they took 16 compared to 20 by the Americans. And indeed on the scoreboard the difference was the power play, Seattle earning their last four goals with the man advantage and their second as a direct result of an infraction.

Squamish managed but one, a centering pass from Gord Trenaman to Craig Warren at 15:22 of the second to make it 4-4. Two minutes later, after Allen Hayter collided with an American at the Eagle blue-line and was victimized for a charging minor, Seattle's Mike Murphy snuck in front to post the winner.

But it was a game in which lady luck abandoned the home side. The initial three American tallies, with the first coming just over a minute into the game, could all be categorized as garbage goals.

A rebound off the end boards enabled Dean Berg to snap a drive by Milkovich to open the scoring and then at 13:04, one second after Gary Watt left the sin bin, the puck popped out of the grasp of the Eagle keeper and bounced to B. Priest who connected in a mad scramble to make it 2-2.

On the Squamish side of the coin it was a story of missed opportunities. In the first period alone Myles Rosser was looking at two open nets but couldn't connect and later in the third, with the locals down 5-4 and on a two man advantage, Rosser hit the inside of the post.

Instead of deflecting in like a good little puck, it slipped back out and into the grasp of keeper Jerry Lee. Rosser, along with Dan Payne and Trenaman were the best men out on the ice, however, never letting up even with all the ice time.

Payne got the Eagles on board at 5:26 on the first, intercepting an errant pass and blowing a shot by Lee. Hayter gave Squamish its first lead of the weekend in a scramble before Rosser and Payne combined to set up Trenaman on a breakaway one minute to the buzzer for a 3-2 edge.

So it was not until 17:42 of the third period when the Americans struck on the power play to make it 6-4, the first time either side had a two point margin, that the outcome was evident.

On pure effort and hard work alone, the Eagles deserved a far better fate but then Seattle is the quality of team that nobody should be ashamed to lose to.

Ringette powering its way to Provincials

Success is a key word for Howe Sound Ringette's scheme of things this season and that success can be measured in more than one way.

Take the Petites for example. Using many underage players this young group of girls have quietly gone about compiling, as of February 23, a record of eleven wins in as many games, good enough for 22 points and an eight point bulge over second place Port Coquitlam.

Their most recent victims were the North West Van Tigers in a Sunday home contest. Barely four minutes into the match Kathryn Lynd hit the back of the net to place her team towards a 4-0 advantage before being forced to hold on for a 6-4 win.

Winning, however, isn't everything but with so many youngsters on the squad the future looks even more promising.

Meanwhile the Tweens are finding themselves in a somewhat tighter battle for top spot. Again, as of February 23, the locals are sporting a record of sixteen wins, one loss and two ties for 34 points, nine points up on second runners Langley.

The latter side though did have four games in hand over Howe Sound and the two teams are scheduled for a showdown on Sunday in the Civic Center at 12:00.

The big moment for the local Petites and Tweens is in two weeks time when the Provincial championships, March 13-16, kick off at Poco. Thirty-eight clubs will vie for B.C. titles in their respective divisions and Squamish has traditionally been competitive right to the end.

From all appearances Peter Martin seems to be looking at a horror scene but actually the fiery Scotsman is just admiring his own shot, something, as a soccer coach, he should tell his disciples never to do. In curling though you can get away with it.

Schutz wins B.C.R. mixed open

Stealing is a "past time" that usually results in one thing, incarceration.

But there is one past time where stealing is not only an art form of sorts but is done with open abandon and that past time is the sport of curling. They call it stealing for the simple fact that somebody is doing something they shouldn't do, taking points away from the rightful owner, otherwise known as the team with last rock.

Do it often enough and a close game can get blown wide open.

On Sunday Jim Schutz used this method to capture the title of the British Columbia Railway Mixed Open. By stealing a pair in both the fourth and fifth ends Schutz broke through a tight 2-1 game and went on to defeat the Rick Reimer rink 8-2 in seven frames.

The winning skip was backed up by Jane Robertson, Clint Robertson, and Glen Petruk. Reimer's foursome, which had to settle for second in the A event and the award for the best dressed team was made up of Ron Erickson, Francine Erickson, and Bud Stirman.

The twenty-four team, three event bonspiel featured, besides some rather strangely clad curlers that is, two sides from Prince George, another from Williams Lake and a pair from North Vancouver.

Don Woodman, ex of Squamish, was half of the latter department but he didn't have to resort to thievery to keep the Reimer name out of a first place spot. In a see-saw, eight end battle Woodman went into the final period down a point 5-4, but with the hammer.

Burying what proved to be the tying rock early and then hiding a second on the opposite side of the house, Woodman forced Dick Reimer to attempt to draw in the open. The result the North Vancouver skip was counting three and never needed his last shot to secure the B event title.

With Woodman were Malcolm McEwen, Gerry McLeod and Arlene Keeler while Valda Reimer, Ron Pickard and Jean Pickard rounded out Dick's foursome.

Meanwhile in the C final the only stealing done was done by Della Stinson, who pick-pocketed Dick Dorosh for a pair in the fifth. Dorosh had the final say, however, as he made his only shot of the eighth count, taking up a single tally and a 6-5 edge.

Dorosh's winning combination was made up of Debbie Piche, Don Dorosh, and Gloria Healey while Stinson had Rory Odenbach, Randy Roberts and Isabella Tonkin on her side.

Other winners were the Allan Ward and Russ Casemore rinks which finished third and fourth in the A respectively while in the B, third went to the Tom Johnstone squad and forth to Tom Bruvall.

In the C event Armand Constantin captured third and Ted Grymluk claimed fourth.

David Rushton, Statistic Canada Regional Director for B.C. and Yukon, welcomes Norm Blake, census area manager for Squamish, to the 1986 Census team. On June 3, Squamish residents will be asked to count themselves in.

Two in hospital following bus accident

Two Vancouver men were hospitalized following a bus accident on Highway 99 on Sunday, Feb. 23. Squamish RCMP received the call at 8:25 a.m. Sunday advising them a passenger bus had gone off the highway 1 km south of Swift Creek.

Passenger Carl Chamber was listed in critical condition in Lions Gate Hospital on Feb. 24. Bus driver Ralph Plant was listed in stable condition in Vancouver General Hospital.

When the call was received, RCMP were advised that there were at least six injured persons. Along with the police, the Squamish Fire Department and three ambulances attended the scene.

The bus was located approximately 100 feet down the bank. The driver and one passenger were located. At this time, it was learned that the bus was heading to Whistler empty and had picked up a person on the road who was having car trouble and taking him to help.

The passenger was severely injured and the driver who was in shock could not give any details. A good sweep was done by the emergency services at the scene but no other persons were found. This grid search was only done as a precautionary measure.

At the time of the accident, there was a build up of slush in the area.

The bus is owned by Perimeter Transport of Richmond.

Blake new census area manager for Squamish

The next Census of Population will take place on June 3.

Statistics Canada takes a Census every five years, collecting a wide range of facts and figures on the Canadian people. This routine inventory provides us with a unique and detailed database on the current social and economic conditions of the country. The Census gives us not only an up-to-date picture of ourselves, but also allows us to look into our past and to see something of our future, measuring changes and providing important insights on new trends that may be emerging.

In Squamish, Norm Blake will be responsible for making sure every household completes their Census questionnaire. He will supervise Census Representatives as they drop off forms to individual homes in the Squamish area.

Blake was a longtime employee of the provincial government and held administrative positions as a government agent in Williams Lake and Kamloops. He was Regional Government Agent in Kamloops supervising offices throughout an area similar to his assigned CAM territory.

This year, he and 21 other area managers will be in charge of about 4,500 temporary employees hired throughout B.C. and Yukon. Across Canada, 45,000 temporary positions have to be filled in order to complete Canada's largest survey. Statistics Canada's regional approach to conducting the Census means valuable economic spin-offs in employment and spending for communities.

Methods of collecting information will be as varied as the different types of communities in the province. In urban areas, residents will be asked to complete their questionnaire on June 3 and mail it to Statistics Canada immediately. In smaller centres, Census representatives will drop off and pick up completed forms in person.

The 1986 Census is expected to reveal that British Columbia's population has grown by more than six percent since 1981. At the same time the population count is being done, a Census of Agriculture will be undertaken to monitor Canada's food production.

Population and social statistics produced from the Census will determine, among other things, how much money the federal government will transfer to the provinces in upcoming years. In turn, the provincial government grants funds to municipalities based on their population. When someone doesn't fill in a Census questionnaire, the whole community loses - so count

B.C. Tel is giving its 1.3-million customers a chance to invite the world to EXPO 86 with a new long distance promotion beginning March 1.

Following Expo's highly successful "Invite the World" promotion, B.C. Tel, an official sponsor of EXPO 86 through its membership in Telecom Canada, has chosen to show its support for Expo by extending the promotion with a new contest.

Customers will have a chance to win one of five European vacations for two in Air Canada's world, including seven nights accommodation at an InterContinental hotel; a $300 meal allowance at the hotel, courtesy of en Route Credit Card, plus an additional $1,000 in cash to cover expenses.

Subscribers will also have a chance to win one of 1000 one-day passes to Expo 86.

To qualify, customers are required to make a minimum of three long distance calls, billed to their home number, inviting friends and relatives to Vancouver, B.C. for EXPO 86, May 2 through October 13. Only those long distance calls made between March 1 and April 30 apply.

All B.C. Tel residential subscribers will receive contest entry forms with their monthly telephone bills beginning this month. B.C. Tel will be mailing more than two-and-a-half million entry forms to customers between now and the end of April. These forms should be filled out with the three long distance numbers called and the dates the calls were made. Entries can either be mailed in a separate envelope to: "Invite the World to EXPO 86 with B.C. Tel", P.O. Box 82339, Burnaby, B.C. Telecom Canada's Pavilion, one of more than 80 on the Expo site, will feature a Circle-Vision 360 film - Portraits of Canada - produced by Walt Disney Productions.

Terminal fall short in Provincial cup

"I'm proud of our kids, they responded well."

For Doug Muir, a 3-1 defeat at the hands of McSween Selects in the first round of the provincial cup was not, by far, a moment to hang one's head in disappointment. Instead it was a game that showed the coach of the eleven-year-old, premier division Squamish Terminals, promising signs.

"It was a good experience for us," Muir said of playing a Metro division club, which is a step up from Premier,

"and they worked hard. I don't think I can point my finger at anyone and say they played any less than a good game." The difference though was the back line.

"We have a lot of potential back there, which is raw right now, but McSween's defence was very sure-footed and organized. In chasing the ball down in their own end they had the ability to turn with the ball and make a play while we still don't have the power to clear it at times."

Midway through the first half the Selects opened the scoring and then five minutes later got a lucky break as Squamish managed to maintain the pressure within the eighteen yard box, getting away half a dozen shots including one off the cross bar, but failing to capitalize.

McSween broke out of the scrimmage and potted the winning effort. In the second that lead was increased to 3-0 before Danny Muir made a good run down the left side and set up Matthew Kinnear in front to close out the scoring.

"They (McSween) were in a bit of a panic after we scored our goal," Muir said, "and we had a couple of chances to get a second one. Overall McSween deserved to win but with a little luck we could have won it. I think they were just a goal better than us."

Muir also cited several players for having exceptional games such as Kinnear, Muir, David Gaudin, Jerrod Cox and Michael Oord, the latter of which is a ten-year-old who "is really coming on, has good ball control and fits right in at midfield."

The Terminals still have the regular season as well as the North Shore District Premier Cup to look forward to and, as Muir put it, "if we play up to our standards we can win it."

Midgets earn silver in Terrace

With victories over New Westminster and 100 Mile House the Howe Sound Midget reps went as far as they could go at the B.C. Winter Games in Terrace.

But that was far enough for a silver medal as the local boys reached the finals against Comox. The latter squad built up a 3-0 advantage before Squamish stormed back to within one, only to get stung on an empty net effort that gave the Islanders a 4-2 victory.
