

vo Squamish residents going to the B.C. Government with a request for a public inquiry into the alleged "illegal" re-zoning of property in the Industrial Park, after receiving no satisfaction from Squamish council.

Brian Giles, local resident and member of the Squamish Estuary Conservation Society, told the Times last week following the Feb. 18 council meeting that it was "probable" a letter protesting the re-zoning of 22 acres in the Industrial Park will be sent to the Inspector of Municipalities of British Columbia.

"We didn't receive any satisfaction," Giles said of his presentation, along with resident Lynn Wilbur, to council on Feb. 18.

Giles said he and Wilbur had hoped council would pass a motion of intent to re-zone the property back to its original Industrial VII zoning from Industrial IV.

Giles said council's reluctance to pass such a motion or lift the matter from the table for resolution has prompted him to go ahead with his intention to address the matter with the Inspector of Municipalities.

"We really have no choice," Giles said.

"Council obviously doesn't care about the 63 people who packed the chambers," Giles added, referring to the Jan. 14 council meeting in which council, before a large group of concerned citizens, passed a motion to withdraw its offer to sell the property to Bradbury Chemical Corporation for the purpose of a pentachlorophenol (PCP) plant.

Giles and Wilbur appeared at the Feb. 18 meeting with a draft of a letter intended for the Inspector of Municipalities outlining the history of the re-zoning of the Industrial Park property and their concerns regarding the manner in which the re-zoning was undertaken by council and the possible ramifications of allowing the present zoning to exist.

Giles told council he and Wilbur were reluctant to send the letter to the Inspector and desired to warn council of their intention to do so before the letter's mailing.

"I don't think anyone wants this to happen," Giles told council.

"We should be able to take care of our own affairs in our own community," he added.

In the letter addressed to the Inspector, Giles and Wilbur maintained that the March 19 re-zoning of the 22 acres in the Industrial Park was in violation of the Official Community Plan (OCP).

"Council of the day was informed at this meeting that their re-zoning was in contravention of the Plan. They decided to ignore this warning and proceed without a public hearing and amendments to the OCP," the letter stated.

The letter went on to quote the definitions of "light" industry versus "heavy" industry as allowed under

WEATHER

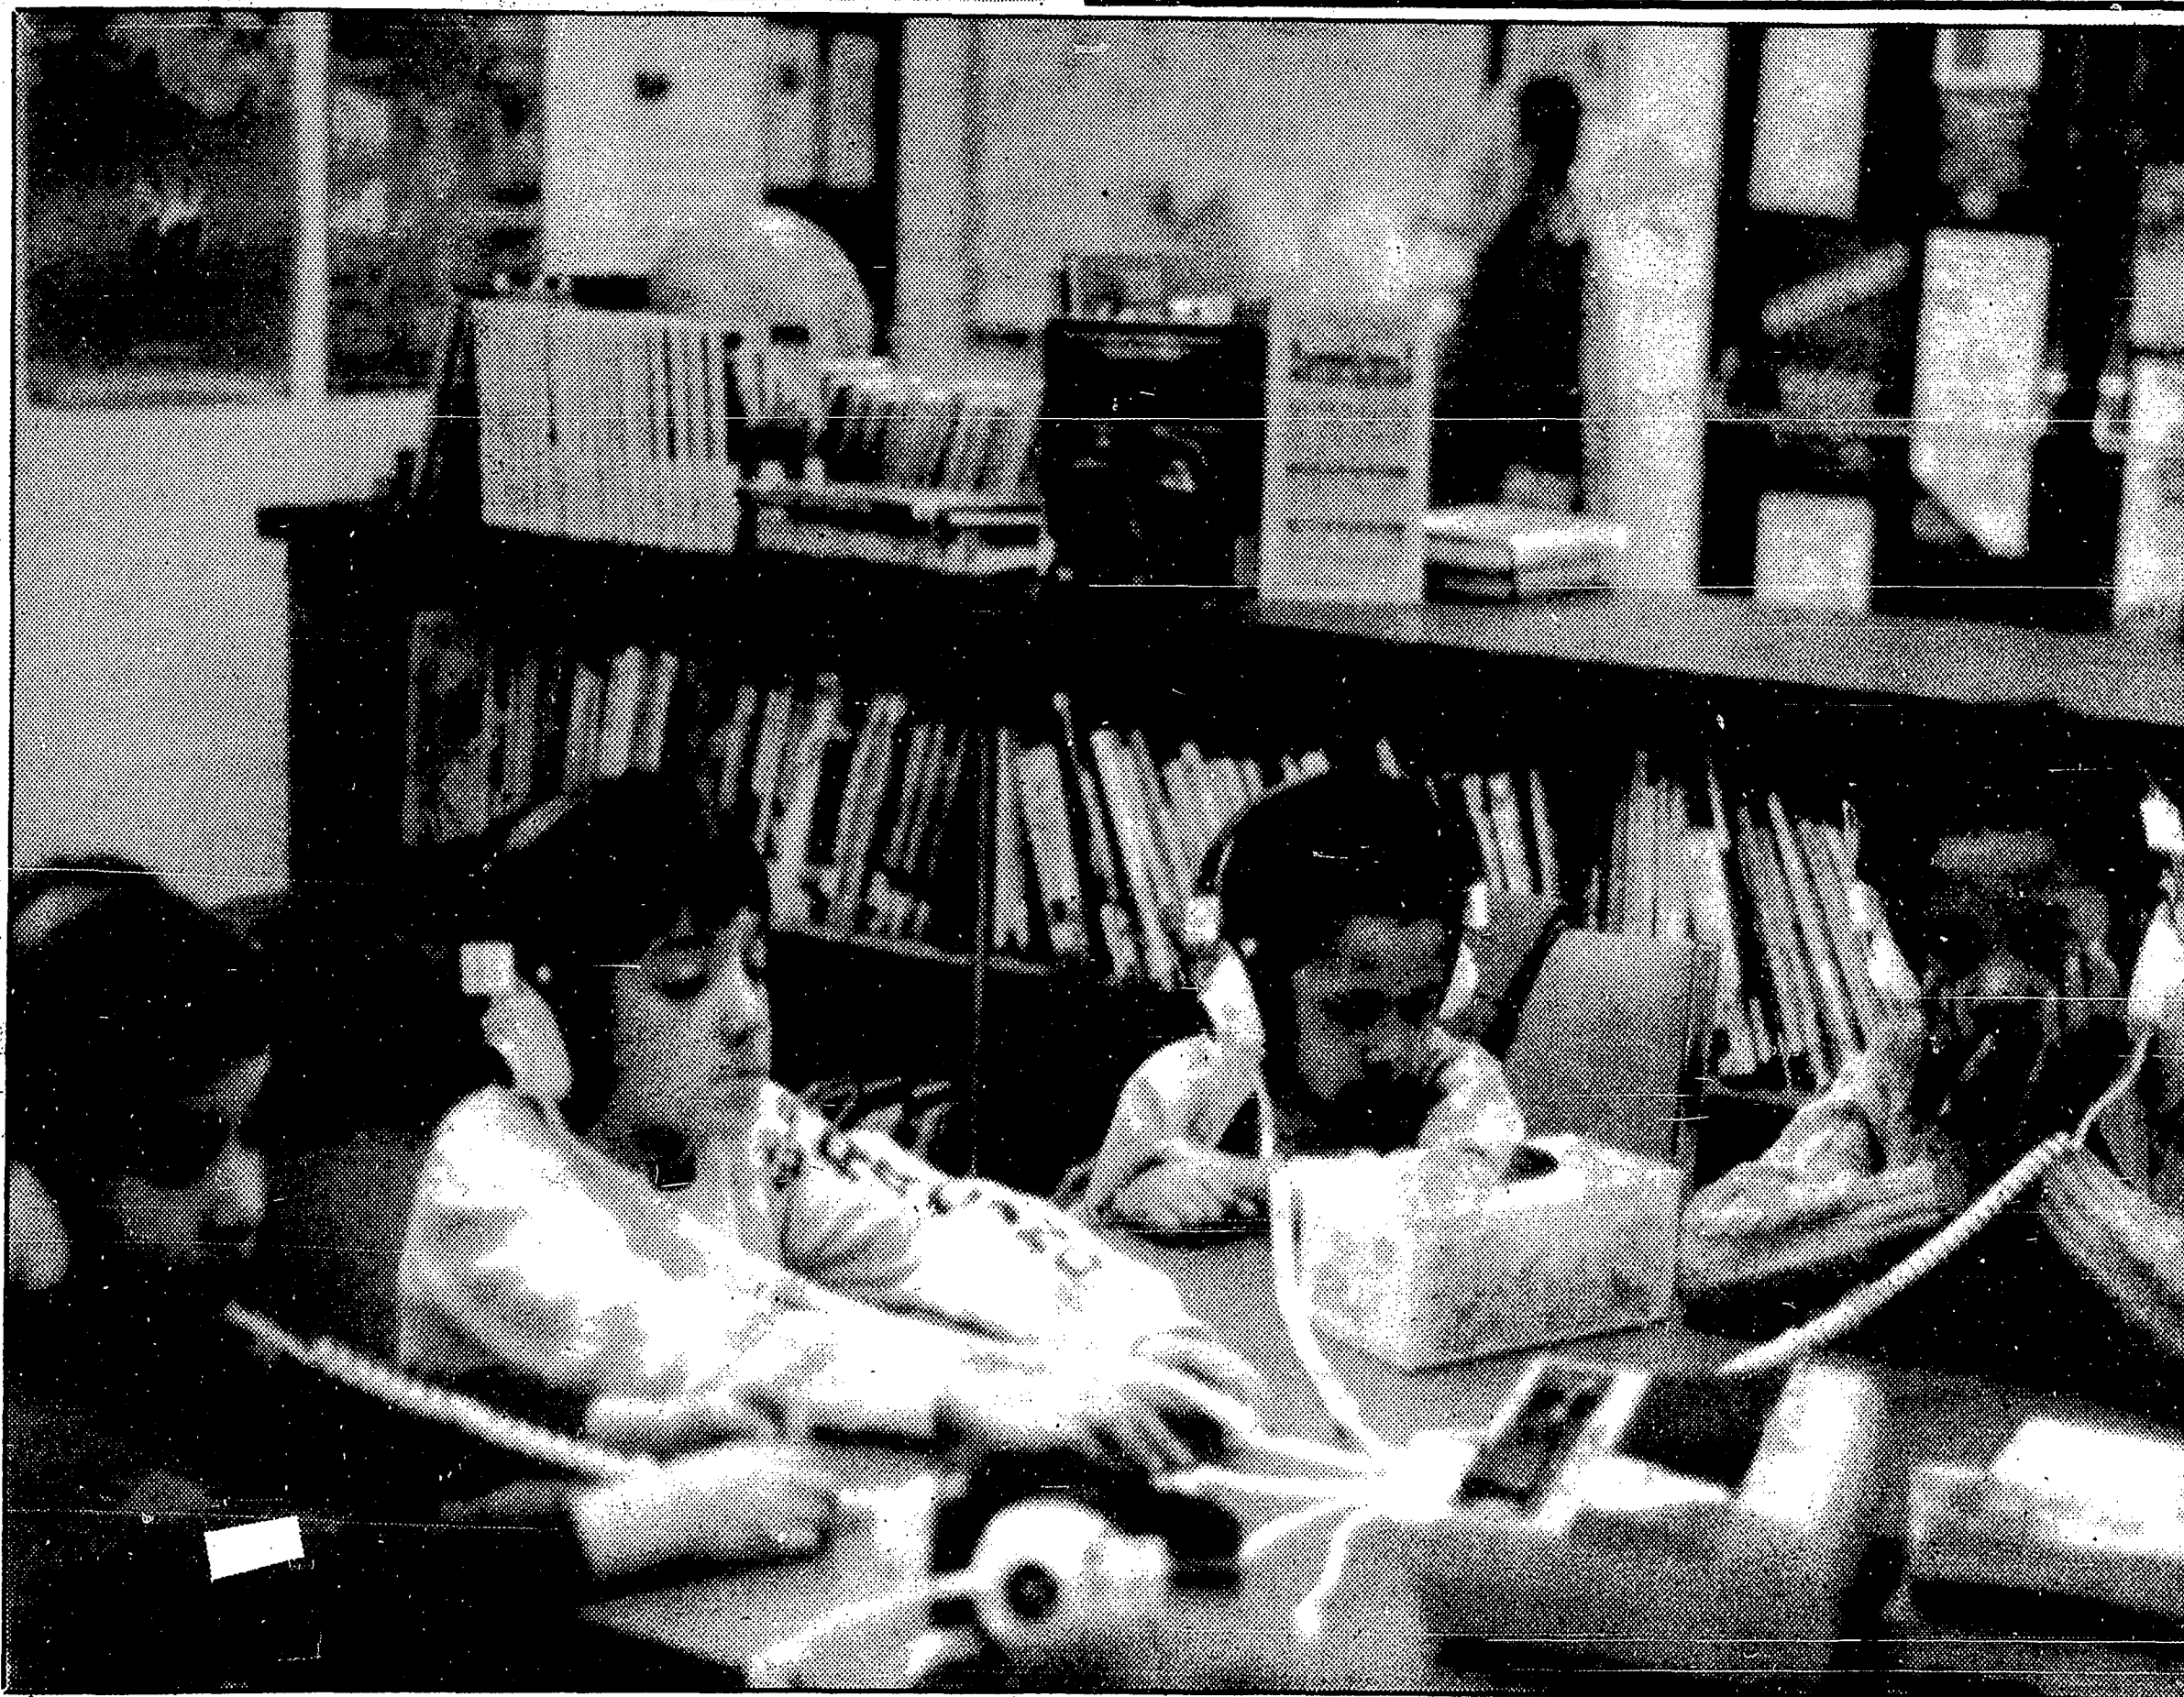

Springtime—did not arrive in the Squamish Valley last week nor did we have the high temperature in Canada!

Instead, 15 cm snow fell (12 cm of that on Dec. 15) and the temperature dipped to -13.2 C on Feb. 19. The high was 1 C on the 20th.

During the week, the sun shone 15.7 hours. A warming trend on the weekend with milder air moving in from the south should bring temperatures back to "normal".

Brochure to be updated

The glossy Squamish brochure will be updated as soon as possible in order to be ready for the summer tourist season.

A committee consisting of Chamber Manager Ollie Long, Nancy McCartney and Rose Tatlow, will look into obtaining new pictures for the brochure and possibly updating the copy.

The Chamber directors decided to see if a semi-glossy paper could be used, thus reducing the cost but not the clarity of the pictures. A matte paper would tend to lose definition of the pictures.

the present Industrial IV zoning. Such terms are defined in the OCP.

"It is our contention that re-zoning By-Laws Nos. 884 and 885 are illegal and we request your intervention in the form of a public inquiry as per Section #745 of the Municipal Act to restore the old zoning," the letter read.

Giles added at the Feb. 18 meeting: "The Emma Campbell piece (22 acres in Industrial Park) is a potential disaster. A zoning is a zoning."

Council stood firm in its reluctance to pass a motion regarding the matter pending a report from the By-Law Committee.

Earlier this year, the Industrial Development Committee recommended to council that the present Industrial IV zoning remain in effect.

Alderman Ron Barr, member of the Industrial Development Committee and Chairman of the By-Law Committee told council the Industrial Development Committee would stand by its original recommendation and he anticipated the By-Law Committee would reach the same conclusion.

Barr added he didn't believe there was a significant difference between the Industrial VII and Industrial IV zonings.

"I don't see the big dilemma," Barr said.

Mayor Egon Tobus told Giles and Wilbur council had acted reasonably in the entire matter and that nothing improper had taken place.

"An interested party made inquiries," Tobus said. "That's the only thing that happened. We only provided information with regard to financial matters."

"That's the facts as I see it," Tobus added, "and you may call me a liar."

Tobus also questioned the necessity of the council chambers packed with concerned residents in the Industrial Park area at the Jan. 14 meeting.

"I really can't understand why a group of people is so sensitive about it," Tobus said. "Council has always responded to the public. I don't understand your fears."

Giles blasted Tobus for his attempt to "shade" the matter, and made reference to the alderman in charge of the Industrial Park land sale at the time as having tried to "ram" the deal through regardless of public opinion. "That former alderman is still manipulating things,"

Giles said.

Alderman Corinne Lonsdale, while stating she was in favor of re-zoning the property to its original zoning, told Giles she took exception to his accusation that council was influenced by one alderman.

"I somehow had a feeling that you made a statement that Alderman (Wilf) Dowad snowballed us," Lonsdale said.

"I have a mind of my own," Lonsdale also protested the intended letter to the Inspector, calling it a "threat" to council.

"I see this as some type of threat," Lonsdale said.

Alderman Norm Verner added it would be an unnecessary expense to the municipality to re-zone the property again.

"I don't think we're going to go out and look for napalm factories," Verner quipped. "With the present zoning we have a little latitude."

An effort by Alderman Robert Ewacha to introduce a motion to re-zone the land upon receipt of the report from the By-Law Committee proved futile as the motion failed to entice a seconder.

An additional move by Alderman Terrill Patterson to have the matter lifted from the table to the By-Law Committee was defeated.

Committee takes stand on chemical spraying

Council accepted the recommendation from the newly formed Herbicide/Pesticide Committee to take a stand on the use and non-use of specific chemicals in the District.

Included in the recommendation is an all-out ban on the use of the chemicals, Gramoxone (Paraquat) and 2-4-D-phenoxy herbicide both extremely toxic and potentially harmful chemicals.

The Committee also recommended that Amitrol-T, Benlate, Casaron, System-480 EC, and Agri-mycin 17 be used with care pending further assessment.

Round-up Glyphosate is to be used only if no substitute is available, and Lime Sulphur, Granular Ureabore, and Fixed Copper are designated as acceptable for use.

The recommendations regarding the specific chemicals were made to the Committee in the form of a report submitted and researched by Citizens Opposed to Pesticide and Herbicide Spraying (C.O.P.H.S.), and the Squamish Estuary Conservation Society.

Prior to the Feb. 18 motion to accept the Committee's recommendations, council passed two motions on Oct. 8, 1985 with regard to chemical spraying in the District.

At that meeting, council decided, "that the District of Squamish work within its mandate to eliminate the use of pesticides within the District of Squamish and that they only be used under conditions of strict regulation, monitoring, and public knowledge, and further that Council develop and put into place a right-to-know policy."

In a second motion, passed at the Oct. 8 meeting, council decreed that "no spraying be done on the dykes".

Public forewarned of chemical spraying

Council approved a recommendation from the Herbicide/Pesticide Committee at the Feb. 18 meeting to post notice of chemical spraying in an effort to warn the public of potential hazard.

Alderman Norm Verner, chairman of the Herbicide/Pesticide Committee, told council the District will post a colored notice on the site to be sprayed prior to the chemical application. The notice will be given on large spraying jobs only, Verner added.

In addition, a notice will be placed in the Squamish Times newspaper for two publications to notify the public of the intention to spray pesticides or herbicides in a given area.

Verner said the newspaper notices will be placed for any "comprehensive chemical treatment" such as the spring and fall applications. He said the bulk of the District's spraying will take place in two one-week periods each year.

Council voted unanimously to accept the Committee's recommendations regarding the notices.

"It'll just give them (public) a little more warning," Alderman Corinne Lonsdale said.

Setting it straight!!!

Last week, the Squamish Times ran a story entitled "Local minister ordered to comply with Gov't regulations" in which the term, "skid road bums", was used.

The Times did not intend the usage of the term in any derogatory manner and wishes to apologize to individuals who may have been offended by it.

Computer study reveals water system weakness

A computer study of the Squamish water network system done by Web Engineering has enabled the District to pinpoint weaknesses in Squamish's water supply.

The study also indicates the possible effect on the water supply should additional large-scale subdivision or commercial development take place in the District.

The system will allow the District to anticipate added costs to the water system and enable officials to levy added costs against the developer as a development cost charge.

"In essence, the municipality has now the capability of more accurately calculating the overall effect of growth on the water system," said a report to council from the Works and Services Committee.

As a result of the computer study, several areas of the municipality have been identified as having a potential water supply problem. These areas include the Garibaldi Estates and the Northridge area.

According to the study, the cause of the potential water supply problem in these areas is a lack of capacity in several pipelines.

The study also revealed that while the present system is coping with the increasing demands on the water supply, "as the population grows the weak points will become more critical and the need to improve performance will become more imminent."

The study also provided several solutions to the increasing demand on the water supply, some of which are adjustments to the present system.

As a major solution to the problem, however, the study indicated that ultimately providing a supply from the Mashiter would provide a possible solution.

The study listed several advantages to acquiring a second water supply source including additional security of supply, reduced emphasis on enlarged arterial mains, and the capability of delivering large flows of water to meet emergency demands.

Residents fear sewage from proposed campground

Residents concerned that effluent from a proposed campground and trailer park on Highway 99 will filter into Dryden Creek filed a petition to council in protest.

Council attempted to alleviate the matter by approving an amendment to its original motion exempting the developer from the Sewer connection By-Law, to allow him to hook up to the municipal sewer system on Depot Road.

Under the new agreement between the municipality and the developer, represented by Steven Waslewsky of Dryden Creek Resorts, a "hybrid of sewer/septic system" would be installed by the developer.

The system would link up to the municipal sewer under Depot Road.

Waslewsky, in a letter addressed to John Payne, Works Superintendent, acknowledged the potential hazard to Dryden Creek under the original sewer intention.

"The data hitherto received from Department of Fisheries and Oceans and Fish and Wildlife, indicated potential impact on Dryden Creek would result from fluid wastes from the distribution lines," Waslewsky said.

He added the new sewer plan will eliminate the hazard.

"Disposing wastes to the municipal system would remove this hazard of adverse environmental impact," Waslewsky said. "Such a hybrid system would secure the creek against adverse impact for the least cost."

Alderman Ron Barr introduced a motion to amend the original council motion to allow the development, to include the new sewer alternative.

Waslewsky received approval from council in January for the development of a 35-unit campground and recreational centre, complete with hot tubs, pool, saunas, and possibly a small restaurant.

Waslewsky also proposed a trout hatchery on the surrounding crown land to the north of the proposed campground.

Local drugstores pull Tylenol capsules from shelves

Pharmasave said last week it removed Tylenol capsules from the shelves Feb. 18 at the request of the Canadian manufacturer of the drug and will not be bringing the product back into the store.

Rodger Herrick, pharmacist at the Cleveland Ave. store, said the capsules were pulled from the shelves and sent back to the manufacturer following an announcement from Johnson and Johnson Canada that it will stop making and selling over-the-counter Tylenol capsule products.

Peoples Drug Mart also confirmed its intention to pull Tylenol capsules from the shelves. A spokesman for the Chieftain Centre location said the removal of the Tylenol product refers to the capsules and not the tablets and caplets which will continue to be sold by the drugstore.

The recent action by the Squamish drugstore of pulling the Tylenol product from the shelves follows an earlier recall by Johnson and Johnson in the U.S. after the cyanide poisoning death of a New York woman.

The Johnson and Johnson company has said the recall of the capsule could cost the firm $150 million. The company suffered a $100 million loss in 1982 when the recall was instituted after seven Chicago residents died from Tylenol laced with cyanide.

Erosion threatens Mamquam river dykes

Squamish council is appealing to the Water Management Branch of the Ministry of Environment to share in the cost of protecting the Mamquam River dyke from further erosion.

In a letter to the Director of the Water Management Branch, Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus said erosion of a section of unprotected riverbank has developed on the Mamquam River and threatens the dyke.

"Unless remedial action is taken, the dyke will be threatened shortly," Tobus said.

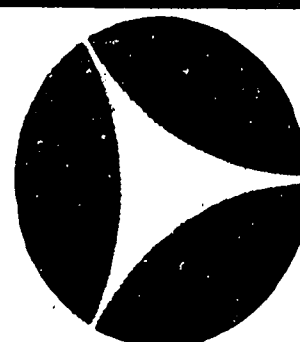

According to Tobus, the erosion starts at the lower end of existing rock rip-rap bank protection which was put into place in 1970.

Tobus said the erosion, which began in January, has already taken away up to 100 feet of sandy bank.

Under the cost-sharing agreement Squamish has with the Province regarding dyke construction, council is asking that the Province share in the construction of bank protection along the left bank of the Mamquam River downstream from the existing rip-rap.

Council is also asking the Province to increase the maximum cost of construction covered by the agreement to $225,000 with the District paying 25 percent of the costs and the Province covering the remaining 75 percent.

Repay debt owed to forests

In B.C. for many years high forest revenues have contributed directly and indirectly to the support of many public purposes. In other Canadian provinces far more money has been spent on forests than the amount extracted from them.

By 1983-84, British Columbians had spent $1.23 billion less on forests than they had collected directly from them. Only in five of the last 12 years have forest expenditures exceeded direct income, and the apparent 'debt' would be much larger if carried with interest.

We owe much to our forests. We have mined them. We have not done as much as we should to conserve, manage, measure, protect and renew them.

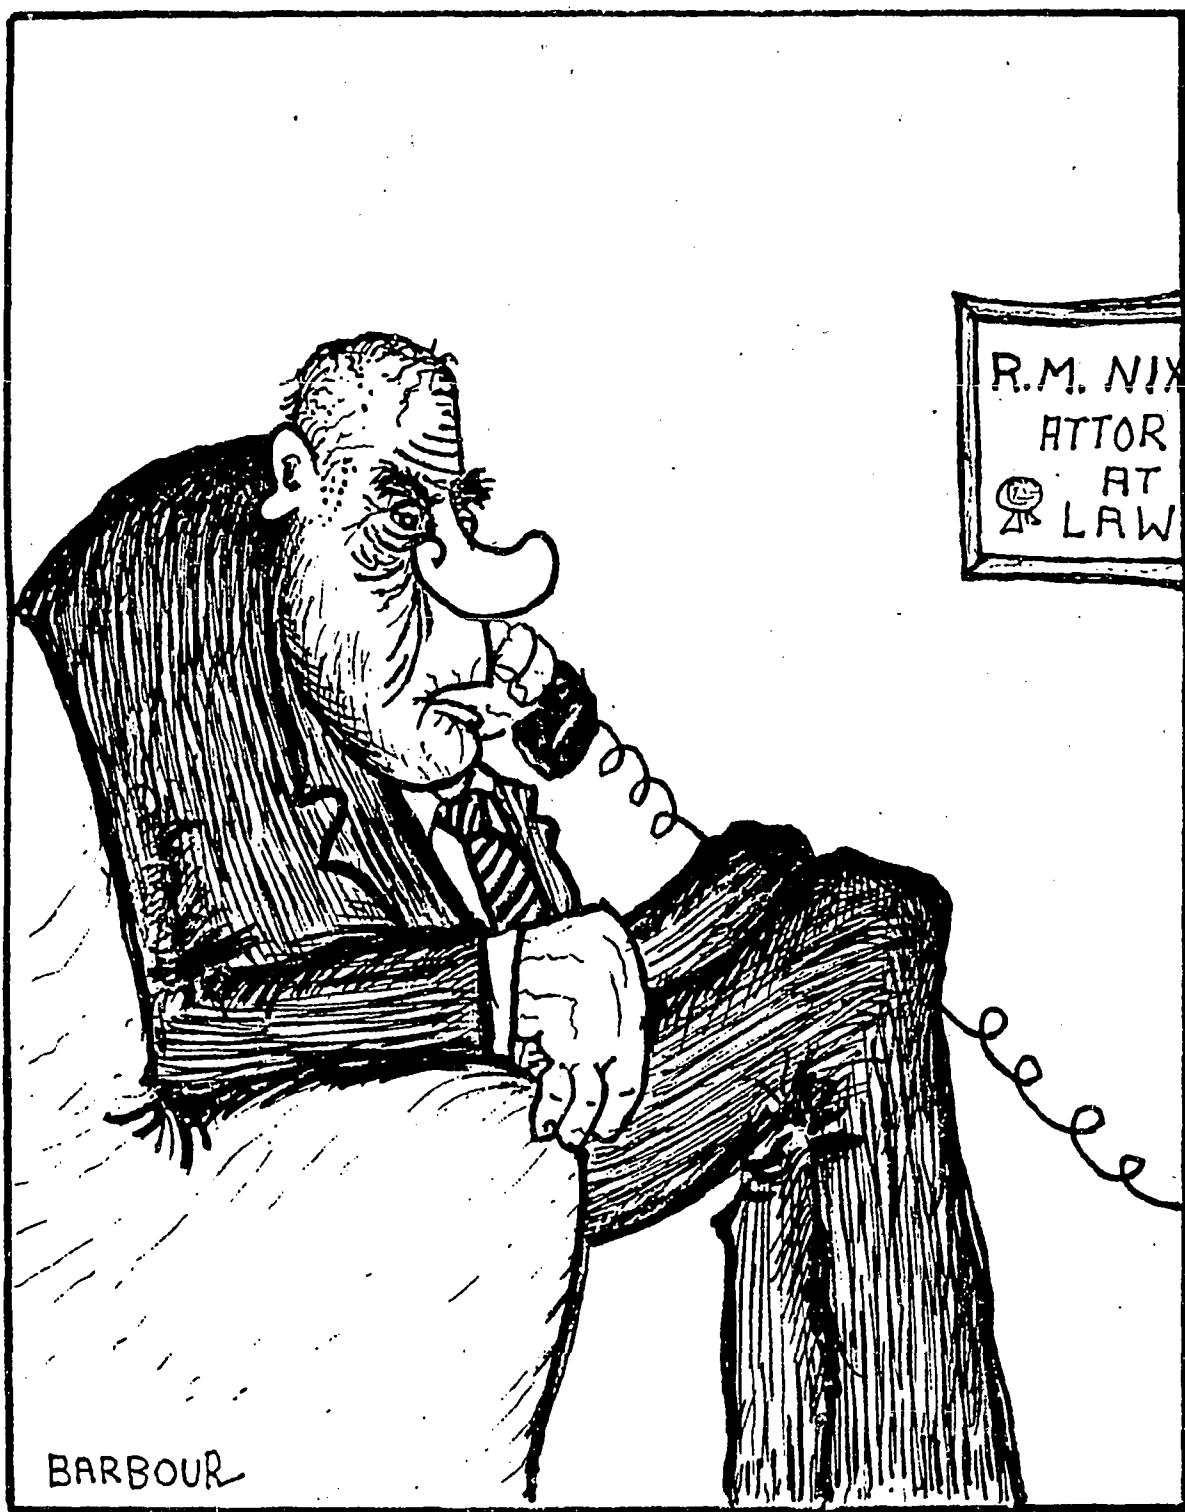

The picture is even worse if we expressed in terms of total revenues collected by senior governments from the B.C. forest sector. B.C. spent only 21 percent of its total forest-based income of $963.7 million on our forests in 1979 and the federal government spent only 1.1 percent of its total forest based revenue of $532.2 million on our forests. Spending has increased since 1979 and there has been improvement. But there is no danger of over-spending on our forests.

Efforts have been made to improve and expand planting and increases are planned to provide $200 million on forest renewal spending on Crown Land in B.C. by 1987-88.

However, the annual allowable cut in the province is still forecast to decline to the Forest and Range Resource Analysis two years ago.

Other options must be developed to inject even more money into the forestry funding formula if we are to support our threatened Annual Allowable Cut and begin to pay the debt we owe our forests.

Abortion is a choice

Dear Editor:

Mr. Eby asked some questions in his letter to the Editor Feb. 18/86 that I feel strongly compelled to answer.

He asked what the difference was between killing an eight week from conception baby and killing an eight week old from the mother's womb baby (his terms).

An eight week fetus is not a baby or child but rather a potential person. At eight weeks gestation, the fetus could not survive outside the womb and is therefore part of a woman's body that no one but herself has the right to control. An eight week old child is a viable person, and if it were killed this would be murder. I find it rather absurd to compare an eight week fetus to a person.

To educate Mr. Eby, almost all abortions are performed during the first trimester of pregnancy. It is generally believed that up until the twelfth week the fetus does not have the developed senses or part of the brain needed to feel anything other than vibrations. We're talking about a fetus approx. the size of a silver dollar and weighing two ounces. Terminating the pregnancy during the first three months gives the woman a much smaller chance of risk to her health and well being than it would in a second trimester abortion, which is always avoided whenever possible.

He talks of seeing the fetus on a high-tech scan. I doubt very strongly that he could see anything on a screen of an eight week fetus with the naked eye. I had an ultra sound test done at 31 weeks gestation and without the technician showing me where the head and heart was (the only identifiable parts I could see), I would not have known what I was looking at.

He says women have a choice before they get pregnant. Do they?

Many, many women are using one form or another of birth control when they become pregnant. This includes the Pill and IUD, (both a risk to a woman's health), the diaphragm, foams, jellies and condoms. Once again the responsibility for preventing pregnancy is thrown in the woman's lap. She cannot get pregnant by herself! Men must take responsibility too!

He says a woman has the choice to either keep the baby or give it up for adoption. If women don't want to be pregnant, they don't have to be. They are not incubators. They don't have to grow babies for other people. They don't like to give their children away. Could you Mr. Eby?

As for keeping the baby, I kept mine and it seems to be a direct route to guaranteed poverty. Women still only earn 63 cents for every dollar a man earns. When you take into account the high cost of good daycare, a woman earns just barely enough to get by on, if she can find a job at all.

He mentioned the phrase birth control via abortion. Shame on you Mr. Eby! I have never heard, seen, or read of one woman who used abortion as a birth control method. I have heard of women opting for abortion due to birth control failure and of women who became pregnant when their lover lied to them about being sterile. Abortion is never an easy choice and is not an easy procedure to go through emotionally or physically, and the only women I've heard of that feel guilt are those that call themselves 'born again' and now feel they have the right to dictate to other women what they can or can't do with their own bodies. The option of abortion was certainly okay when they needed a way out though.

What I always find rather ridiculous is the extremely high proportion of men in the anti-choice movement.

Until men start to financially support their children, take responsibility for their care and home life, stop physically and sexually abusing their wives and children, work towards universal daycare, and speak out on behalf of single mothers who need a living wage to support their children then as far as I'm concerned they have no right to tell women what they can do with their bodies and ultimately with their lives.

We will not be controlled Mr. Eby, any more than you would let your reproductive system be controlled by other people.

In case you're curious, I've had two abortions, I am the single mother of a beautiful and very wanted three year old and have recently had myself sterilized and I have absolutely no regrets or guilt whatsoever!

Opinion Time

"Does the recent incidence of train disaster make you afraid to ride trains?"

Rebecca Hurley and Michelle Cattermole, students:

"No, if you don't take chances you won't get anywhere in life. Just driving in your car you're taking a chance."

Lisa McCall, housekeeper:

"Yes, definitely, because it happens so often like plane crashes."

Zabeena Basha, student:

"No, because you never know when accidents happen so you just have to take the risk".

Laine Board, student:

"No because accidents happen. You don't want to live your life in a shell."

"I had a farm in Africa" was the way Isak Dinesen's 'Out of Africa' began and the same phrase opened the movie which we saw recently. I remember reading the book, which consisted of vignettes about the years she spent in Kenya between 1913 and the late 1930's shortly after it came out and the pictures she evoked of her life in Kenya, the animals, the people and her memories of safaris were sharp and brilliant.

The movie, while presenting a more colorful story of her life in Kenya, still stayed close to the facts. The obvious star of the movie was the scenery and the animals were close behind. The wide sweeps of prairies, the beautiful hills and mountains and the deep gullies and ravines all piled with animals, were breathtaking. The flat topped acacia trees, a distinct part of the African landscape, the swarms of birds on the shores of the African lakes and the stark outlines of elephants against the skyline, all evoked a scene of wilderness and splendor.

I have never been too taken with Meryl Streep but she was ideal for the part. As the delicately reared young Danish girl of good family, who left for Africa to marry her lover's brother after an unhappy romance, and to escape from her mother, she was winsome and charming, yet exuded an inner strength which seemed at odds with her bearing.

She arrived at Mombassa with trucks and crates of silver, crystal and china, as well as many other personal belongings, to create a civilized home in an outpost of the British Empire. Her husband, an engaging rogue who would sooner hunt animals and pursue other women than settle down to farm, left her to her own devices and she bought the land, oversaw the clearing of it and the planting of coffee trees although she was warned the climate was really too high for coffee.

He spend much of his time away from home and left her to manage the farm and the native employees. Her relationship with her employees and her concern for their welfare led to arrange for an infirmary where she treated them and later a school for their children.

Some of this could also have been the result of the repressed maternal instinct. Through her husband's infidelities she contracted syphilis and had to return to Denmark for treatment. The disease left her incapable of bearing children.

As Baroness Karen von Blixen she took her place in the social life of the colony and was very conscious of her title and position. Yet she could be tender and charming and appeared to be best as a hostess in her home where she kept all the trappings of civilization even in the wilderness.

The movie deals with her romance with Dennis Fitch-Hatton, the "white hunter" who showed her his Africa, the Africa of the hunt, of the wild beasts and the constant dangers in the wilderness. In once scene, where they face a charging lion, he waits for her to kill it, thus showing his faith in her ability. To me, some of the most beautiful scenes in the movie occurred when he took her for a flight over the country surrounding her farm and she had a bird's eye view of her properties and countryside.

Her obvious delight in the experience revealed her love for her adopted country. After her divorce from her husband, Fitch-Hatton made her home his resting spot between safaris. Often he would be gone for months at a time and she managed the farm alone, with the help of her native employees.

Robert Redford played the part of Hatton, and while a friend said he considered him miscast, he did portray the aristocratic Englishman who found his niche in taking hunting parties on safari. Even camped in the bush he still had the linen covered tables, fine china and crystal, as well as imported wines. And his collection of books and music were left in his room at the farm.

Perhaps her finest scenes were where she showed her insecurity, her need to possess her lover and her desire for marriage which eventually led to their estrangement.

A succession of poor years when her crops failed, the destruction of the mill by fire and the death of Fitch-Hatton in an aeroplane accident, led to losing the farm, and she returned to Denmark, to live out her life at the family home.

She buried him in the Ngong hills which rose above the farm, and one of the final scenes in the movie with a pair of lions resting on his grave, seemed to almost be a symbol.

There were few dry eyes in the theater when the movie ended. The photography, particularly of the countryside and the animals, was superb; the musical score was suitable and the acting, especially by Streep and the man who played the part of her husband was exceptional.

The Squamish Public Library has a magnificent book of pictures of Africa, issued to coincide with the 100th anniversary of her birth. It is beautiful and while it is one the books on which a deposit must be paid (which is returned when the book is brought back) if you are interested it is well worth borrowing.

I know that I enjoyed it and I also enjoyed re-reading her book "Out of Africa".

Two groups hold Father and Son Banquet

The 4th and 6th Scout, Cub and Beaver groups held their annual Father and Son Banquet in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Feb. 18.

Pat Hurford, chairman of the groups, welcomed everyone and introduced the head table following the Flag Break and Scout silence in honour of Wilf Pickard.

Head table guests included East Howe Sound District Chairman Bill Brown and Shirley Brown, Pat Hurford, Treasurer Ken Nevers, Dave Richardson, Squamish Fire-fighters, the sponsoring group, Rev. and Mrs. J. Purdie, Rose Tatlow and Brenda Triance, secretary of the group.

Dinner was provided by the mothers who sent casseroles of chili or spaghetti and salads with two large cakes, provided by the Fire-fighters, for dessert.

Reports from the chairman, secretary, treasurer and fund-raiser followed the dinner and then there were section reports by Scout Leader Gerry Christie, Cub Leader Jim O'Neill and Beaver Leader Cathy Blom.

Pat Hurford presented a pin to Grant Danielson, a Beaver adviser for five years, and to Mike Smith, Scout adviser.

A special presentation was made to Ralph Marsh, a former Scout leader, aged 68, who heard of the need for a Scout leader and came out of retirement to run the troop for a year and prepare the boys to attend the jamboree at Guelph last year. He even spent a wet weekend at a camp at Alice Lake with the boys last year! Tony Biggin-Pound made the presentation.

Following the presentations, Dave Richardson conducted the annual meeting which saw Pat Hurford re-elected chairman, Ken Nevers as treasurer, Brenda Triance, secretary, Darlene McNeil, fund-raiser and Richard Fox, quartermaster.

The position of vice-chairman is still open and hopefully someone will be found to fill it in the near future.

Bill Brown officiated at the swearing-in ceremony for the officers.

During the evening the Beavers, Cub and Scouts presented skits which the appreciative audience enjoyed.

Spring has definitely signalled that it is on its way. In my garden the yellow winter jasmine is blooming and there are even some snowdrops out in the lawn under the mock orange bush. I found the snowdrops on Feb. 7, the earliest I have ever seen them. So that must be sign of something or other.

Appeal hearing on proposed Round-up spraying

The Ministry of Forests has scheduled an appeal hearing for March 5 in Squamish regarding the Ministry's intention to apply the herbicide Round-up in the Cheekye Fan area.

The Ministry intends to apply the herbicide in an area on the Cheekye Road west of Highway 99 and adjacent to the municipal sanitary landfill.

The purpose of the spraying is to suppress brush competition to a young plantation.

Alderman Norm Verner, chairman of the Herbicide-Pesticide Committee requested council approve a council representative attend the hearing to ask that all applications of the herbicide be well-posted on site for public information.

Responding to a question from Alderman Terrill Patterson, Verner told council the Committee would not question the Ministry's intention to apply the herbicide.

"Our concern is letting the public know," Verner said.

Asked Alderman Robert Ewacha, "Can't they use something else besides Round-up in the area?"

Verner responded by saying the Ministry has not yet found any reason not to apply the herbicide.

"There's no cheaper alternative for our committee to object to it," Verner added.

The motion to allow a council representative to attend the appeal hearing was passed, with Ewacha voting against the motion.

Hospital board compiles list of local contractors for new hospital

The Squamish General Hospital Board is currently compiling a list of contractors, construction workers, tradespeople and laborers who are interested in performing work on the construction of the new hospital facility.

Peter Gordon, chairman of the Hospital Board, said the list is being compiled to aid local contractors in obtaining work on the hospital construction.

Gordon said the completed list will be included in all tender packages distributed for the contracting job.

He added although having one's name on the list does not guarantee employment on the construction job, it will provide general contractors with a resource list of local available workers.

"Contractors would not be obligated to hire local people but it would be in their best interest to do so," Gordon said.

Anyone interested in having his name on the list is urged to fill out the required form at the Chamber of Commerce office at Squamish Junction.

Deadline for inclusion on the list is March 15, 1986.

Park bleacher proposal lifted from the bench

A proposal to upgrade the bleachers at Centennial Field by the Howe Sound Men's and Ladies' Ball was given approval by council at the Feb. 18 meeting after having been left "sitting on the bench" for almost a year.

Dave Morris, representative of the ballplayers, appeared before council at the Feb. 4 meeting to find out what had happened to plans for new bleachers first brought forward a year ago.

At the meeting, Morris was told by council that the matter had been lost in the committee system but that the Parks and Recreation Commission would entertain the proposal at its next meeting.

The Committee, at its Feb. 10 meeting, passed a recommendation to council that council support the original proposal of the Free Standing Bleacher cover for Diamond No. 5 which was brought to council on April 30 last year.

The Committee also approved the removal of 22 standing trees from the municipal sanitary landfill site to provide materials for the cover.

The construction, in addition, must be built in accordance with municipal building codes.

Council further waived the cost of necessary municipal permits for the construction, provided the ballplayers cover the $200 stumpage fee for the removal of the trees.

Alderman Corinne Londale, member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, added the Commission desired the outside of the cover to be pleasing to the eye, and suggested a mural be painted on it.

Venturers will be busy preparing for summer trip

The Squamish Venturer group, along with advisor Kevin Woods, are now busy with winter survival techniques but will soon be cutting firewood and preparing for a canoeing trip on the Columbia River and a houseboat adventure on Shuswap Lake.

Venturers, a member of the Scouting family, is open to youths between 15 and 18 years of age. According to Jack Francis, who has been with the company for a year, they are teenagers trying to seek challenges in the outdoors. Gene Griffin and Bruce MacDonald, who are new Venturers, said they are eager to accept the challenges and experience of being a Venturer.

The Venturers, like all Scouting groups, have a sponsor. Their sponsor is the local branch of the RCMP which provides the charter, makes sure there is adequate leadership, and helps with transportation if needed.

Woods has nine youths in the company, which is chartered for 20, and he says he would welcome 11 more. At present, they are all from Brackendale and the Highlands and he would like to see wider representation in the group. The company meets each Monday at Howe Sound Secondary School. Anyone wishing to join the group is asked to call Woods at 898-5449.

At present the group is busy working on survival training. They see films on outdoor survival and after the learning experience they play games in the gym.

Jack Francis said the Venturers are trying to get out at least once a month in winter and summer for a camping or overnight trip. Most of the training is provided by their adviser but he would welcome assistance.

Each year, the Venturers have a major project, usually a canoe trip. Last year they travelled 70 to 100 miles on the Chilcotin River and spent 13 days on the trip. Two years ago, they spent two weeks on a canoe and camping trip.

This year, the Venturers are planning a canoe trip down the Columbia River from Fairmont Hot Springs to Donald Station, a distance of 235 km. Afterwards, the group will go to the Shuswap Lakes where they will rent a houseboat and spend five days on the lake.

Last weekend the boys enjoyed a snowshoe hike to Diamond Head to try out their new snowshoes. On Feb. 28, they are going to Blackcomb to ski. In March, they will be taking the WCB course in First Aid and survival.

From March 31 to April 5, the group will experience a winter camp in the headwaters of the Mamquam River with no tents!

On April 14, they will be canvassing for the Cancer Society and later in April they will start canoe training for the summer trip.

Training will continue in May and June along with wood cutting to raise funds for the trip which will take place in late July.

Woods estimated the trip would cost $3,000 and the boys will be cutting firewood to help pay the cost.

If you are between the ages of 15 and 18 and would like to become a Venturer, it will cost $22 to register before March 1. This covers registration in the national, provincial and district group, national liability insurance and national indemnity and travel insurance including dental bills not insured by any other method.

Woods added that a new uniform costs almost $40 but they have some second hand uniforms at a lower rate and if one does not have the funds to purchase a uniform, sponsors can be found.

Francis, Griffin and MacDonald said being a Venturer is a commitment. It takes a lot of time and work but it is also a lot of fun.

Jack Francis, Gene Griffin and Bruce MacDonald are three of the Venturers now working on their winter survival programs who will be working hard cutting firewood to pay for their summer canoe trip down the Columbia River.

Alderman protests beer garden permits

Squamish Alderman Terrill Patterson protested against the approval of 12 applications from various community groups to hold beer gardens in 1986.

"They're taking away business from the local establishments", Patterson told council.

Council approved the 12 requests, with Patterson voting against the motion to approve.

Dave Morris, present in the council chambers at the Feb. 18 meeting, told council that the community groups are in fact enhancing business in local establishments.

Morris, representative of the Howe Sound Men's and Ladies' Ball, said ballplayers regularly fill the local establishments after coming off the field.

The request for beer garden permits came from several baseball organizations, including Slow Pitch, and the various Howe Sound teams.

Requests also came from the Expo Society and the Loggers Sports Association.

Abandoned car baffles police

Squamish RCMP were stumped after being alerted of an abandoned car near Brohm Ridge on Highway 99 by the Department of Highways.

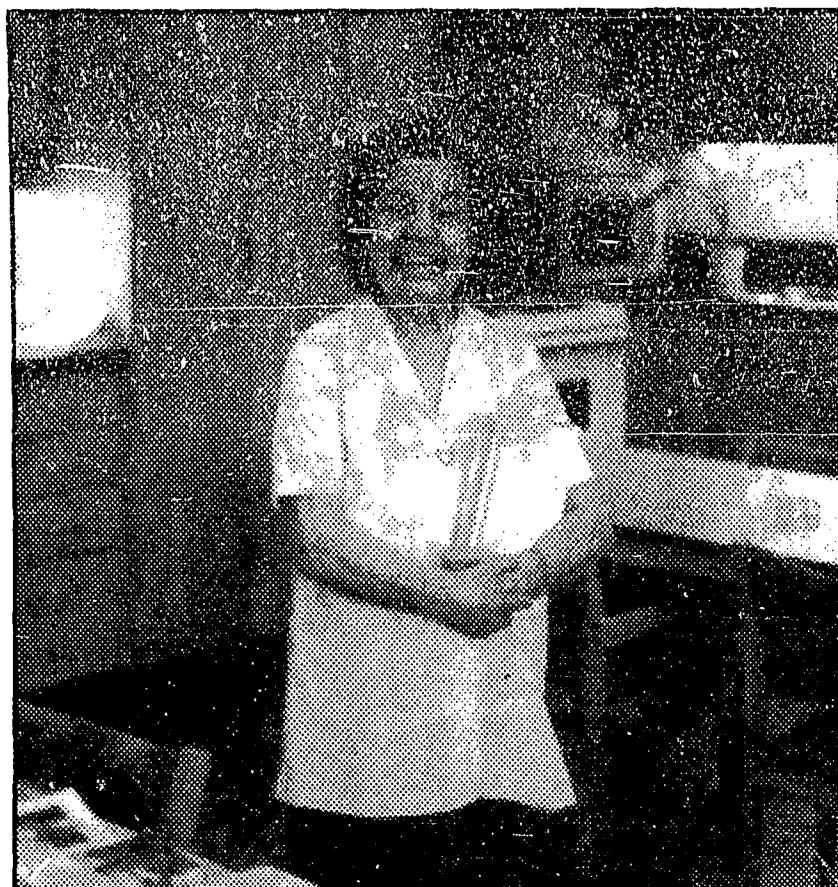

S/Sgt. Dan Leroux, of the Squamish Detachment of the RCMP, said the blue Honda two-door was found idling at the side of the road with its headlights on at 9:15 p.m. on Feb. 20.

Police checked the surrounding area for the driver but could only find tracks in the snow beside the car and down the highway.

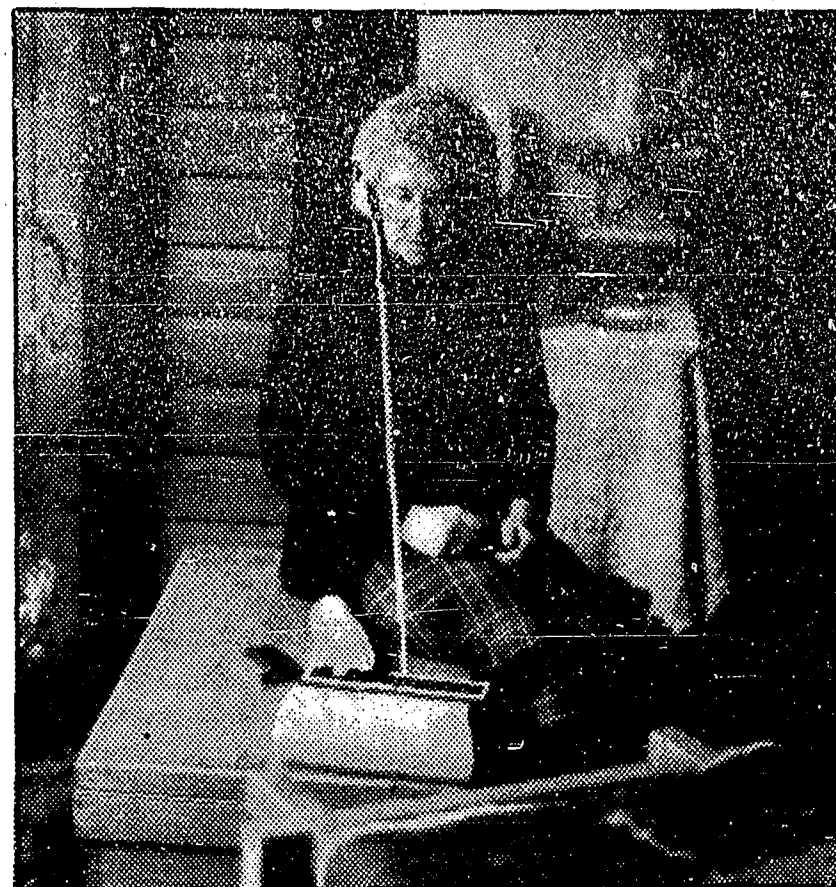

After finding out the owner of the car from the registration, police checked local motels, hotels, the owner's Vancouver address, and the owner's parents' home in Vancouver, but to no avail.

Police later discovered the owner, Jennifer Collins, spent the night in Whistler with a friend after locking her keys in the car while stopped on the highway to clean the car's headlights.

Collins was scheduled to return to Squamish Feb. 21 to retrieve her vehicle.

The hair color is lighter and the body is thinner, but Valerie Harper is still a familiar small-screen favorite. This week, the actress returns to TV in "Valerie," a new sitcom officially premiering Monday, March 3 on NBC. Jason Bateman co-stars as Miss Harper's eldest son David.

Newly refurbished room at the Squamish Hotel is just one of 15 rooms available. The Squamish Hotel has recently undergone $200,000 worth of renovations.

The finishing touches of about $200,000 in renovations are currently being done to the Squamish Hotel.

The newly refurbished hotel now sports new carpeting, linen, drapery, and ceilings. The renovations include the transformation of the 19 old rooms into 15, complete with ensuite baths. In addition, the rooms are adorned with new, built-in furnishings.

Hotel owner Fay Tepper, along with her husband Menachem, said it was "high time" the hotel underwent renovation. Tepper said she expects to attract a steady clientele and hopes to re-coup the expenditures on the renovations.

The Teppers have owned the Squamish Hotel for just over four years.

KATIMAVIK LIVING ON THE EDGE

by Christophe Simon

When I arrived in Squamish, I was really surprised to come to such a very beautiful place. After a month, I found the people to be very kind and sociable. Now, after two months, I realize that it is going to be very difficult to go back to Quebec. I know I can come back and that I will be welcome. But something leaves me feeling very sad. When I think about the people who now cannot go onto the Katimavik program now that the Federal Government has discontinued it, I feel sad. All the things I have seen and all the things I have learned after this year, there will be no such opportunity for young Canadians. I am one of the last participants to have the opportunity to live the Katimavik experience. I finish in Laval and as I leave the program, Katimavik is history. I suppose that being young is a liability in the eyes of the government. We are not worthwhile enough for an investment of 20 million. I wonder what the government really considers more important than the education of Canadians and the development of communities in Canada?

Before I leave for Laval, I would like to thank all of you in Squamish for your hospitality and help. I would like to especially thank my biller family, Steve and Elinore MacDonald; the N.V.O.S. staff, John Moffat, John L'hiondelle and all the rest; and Dale Martelli, my group leader. All of these people made my time here one of the best times of my life. My life has changed since Katimavik. I have begun to discover how large our world is and I have begun to learn about the meaning of helping one's neighbour. My English is better and I have picked up so many work skills that there is not the space here to list them. Katimavik will be a great loss for Canada.

I have learned about Third World assistance and I know we have much we can share. I do not understand why we do not have enough to develop our own country. The government is not cutting any of the programs that help the Third World but they are cutting Katimavik. I just don't understand.

The Katimavik program and Squamish made a good team and we are all the winners. Thank you, Squamish and good bye, Katimavik.

Firefighters to feast once more

The mounties may always get their man, but the Squamish Volunteer Firefighters got their banquet.

With a little persuasion from Mayor Egon Tobus, council voted to host a banquet for volunteer firefighters despite an earlier bout of indecision.

"You all know the nature of our fire protection," Tobus told council.

He added two or three volunteer firefighters are eligible for awards this year and suggested the banquet would be an ideal place for the awards to be made.

Council voted unanimously to host the banquet which will cost up to $2,400 to the municipality.

The banquet is traditionally held in March.

Just in Time

BY MAUREEN GILMOUR

This week at the Squamish Library, two National Film Board films will be shown. Tonight's presentation is entitled "The Passionate Canadians" part one - Tom Thompson. On Wednesday evening, part two will be the "The Group of Seven". The time is at 7:15 p.m. each night. The films run for approximately 56 minutes each and are described as colorful and interesting.

Registration for Howe Sound Baseball (shudder shudder in the snow!) will be held in the Civic Centre on Wednesday and Thursday, March 5 and 6 from 7 to 9 p.m. This includes Little League, Junior, Senior, Babe Ruth etc. If you wish more information call 898-5682 (registrar) or 898-5746 (executive). Spring is just around the corner—isn't it?

Gordon and Maxine Kent returned home a couple of weeks ago after enjoying life on the Island of Maui for 14 days.

Patience—is the ability to remain silent and hungry when everybody else at the potluck dinner gets served first.

Wedding anniversary wishes to: Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Currie, Mr. and Mrs. B. Emoff and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bean.

Last week was Guide-Scout Week but I would also like to "salute" the Squamish Junior Forest Wardens Club for their fine achievement last year. Winning the Fred Dietrich Memorial Trophy is something to be proud of and the leaders and supportive parents must also take credit for this award.

Living on the West Coast, we were all so smug about the early arrival of spring! Well we certainly got a great shock in the form of heavy snow and freezing temperatures. Did you take time to look around the Valley and admire the beauty of the many snow capped mountains? Often we take the magnificent scenery for granted until we have a relative or friend visiting and then we are full of pride as we "show them around".

Stork Story - CHILDS - Grant and Laura Childs are pleased to announce the arrival of their son, Jeremy Travis, born in the Grace Hospital, Vancouver on Feb. 10, weighing 9 lbs. 9 ozs. In Squamish, the proud grandparents are Walter and Ruth Childs and Earl and Marlene Leach.

IT'S SHOWTIME!! - The Howe Sound Drama Club will be casting this Thursday for a contemporary play "The Second Time Around". The location is 40309 Ayr Drive and the time is 7:30 p.m. Eight characters aged from teenagers to mid-sixties are required. If you've ever had that urge to perform turn up and take a bow. Also needed are backstage personnel from stage managers to nail pointers. Mark your calendar for Feb. 27—it might be the start of something big—like maybe Meryl Streep or Pee-Wee Herman!!!

Federal pension cheques will be in the post offices tomorrow.

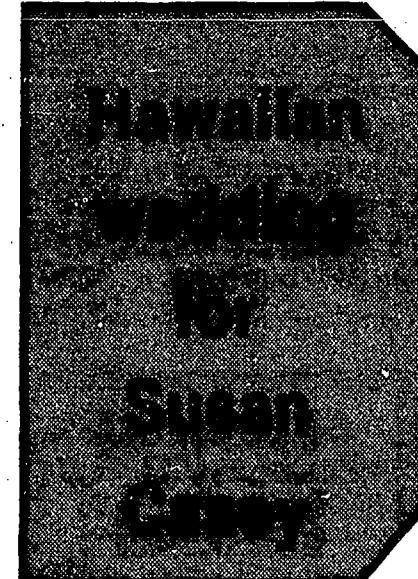

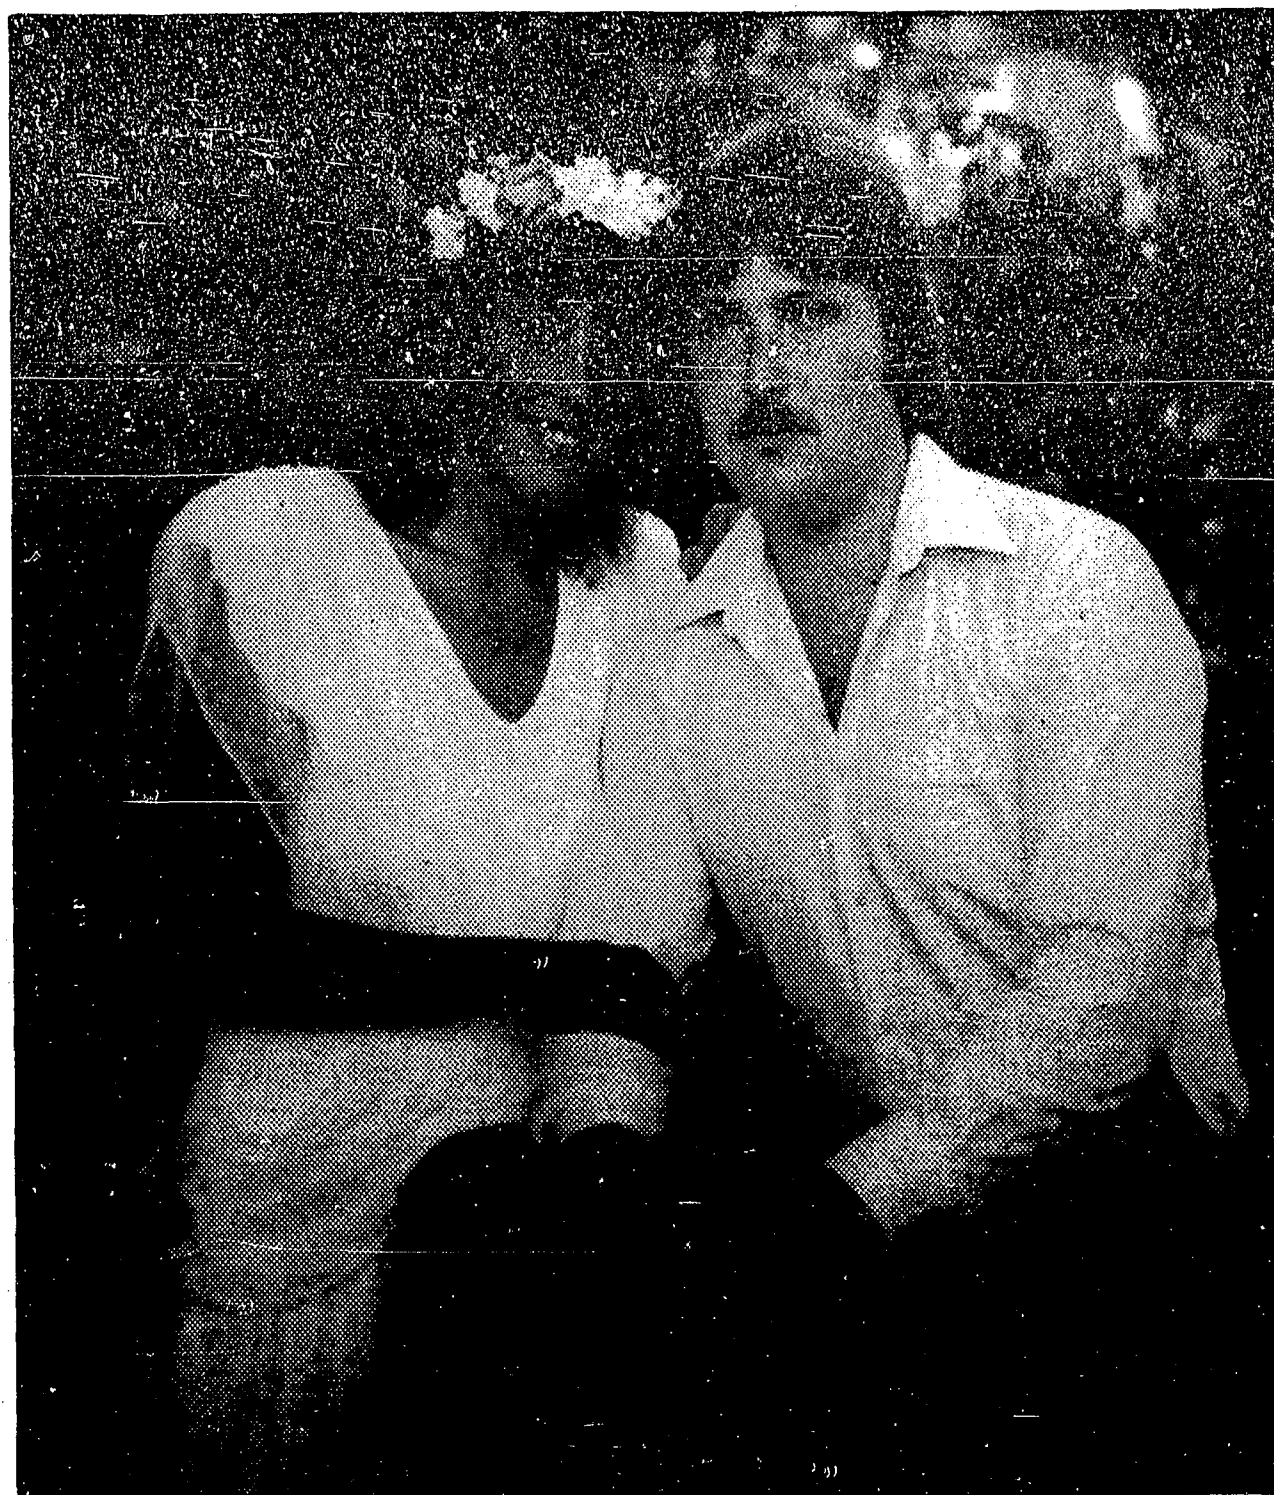

Birthday wishes to: Leesa Warner, Janessa Cameron, Mrs. Harriett Gravenor, Terry Nichols, Sheena Manson, Jeremy Purdie, Krista Mulhern, Dave Hinds, Marlene Garraway, Sean Mills, Kevin Hickman, Scott Hunter, Diana Miorin, Shannon Donald, Susanne Musselwhite, Philip Owen, Bill Allen, Jason Jones, David Golaiy, Barb Cates, Kaila Lynne Hecker, Christine McBride, Jeffery Osterberg, Kevin Hales, Allisa McKay, Christopher Long, Salvatore Calandra, Steven Pilkington, Michelle Humphries, Tyler Smith and Denise Thorne.

First birthday wishes to Master James Buchanan who celebrates on Friday. Special birthday greetings to Mrs. Georgina McKenzie who will celebrate her 93rd birthday on Friday.

It's good to see John Plaatjes, principal of Mamquam Elementary School out and about after his recent illness. He and his wife, Aneline were overwhelmed with the many gifts and moral support given them by parents, children, friends and acquaintances, teachers, administrators and the school board. John is recuperating and is looking forward to returning to school some time after the Spring Break.

The public meeting re bed and breakfast scheduled for the Brackendale Art Gallery tonight has been cancelled.

The beautiful Banyan Tree Courtyard in Lahaina, Maui was the setting for the December 7 wedding uniting in marriage Susan Louise Casey, daughter of Mrs. Llewella Casey of Squamish and Blake Henry Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hopkins also of Squamish. The 4:30 p.m. ceremony was officiated by Rev. H.B. Freeland.

The bride's wedding dress was three quarter length with Swiss dotted lace and tiered skirt. A head lei of pink roses and white carnations adorned her dark hair. Susan and Blake spent a wonderful honeymoon in Maui and Waikiki.

On their return to Squamish, where they will reside, Mrs. Casey hosted a reception for the newlyweds.

The wedding photographer was Pierre of Lahaina.

St. Joseph's hosts World Day of Prayer

On Friday, March 7, church members across Canada will join Christians throughout the world to observe the 99th World Day of Prayer.

Written this year by Australian church women, the topic for the service is "Choose Life in Its Fullness". This is a time when the burning issue of peace with justice is confronted with problems such as famine and hunger, racism and torture, military aggression and terrorism. The service raises social and ethical questions about current issues such as genetic engineering, unemployment and poverty, child neglect and the boredom of affluence.

The cover for the service folder has been created by an Aboriginal school boy and portrays in symbolism the going forth of the disciples with the message of Christ to the whole of creation.

This year the host church in Squamish is St. Joseph's on 4th Avenue. Several churches in the community are taking part and the service commences at 1 p.m. Babysitting is available in the church hall and refreshments will be served following the service.

The World Day of Prayer in Canada is sponsored by the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada which represent eleven of the major denominations in the country. WICC works in conjunction with the International World Day of Prayer Committee which is made up of representatives from 170 countries. Last year grants were applied to Third World projects and to women's projects in Canada as well as the Canadian Bible Society.

AND THAT THIS IS THE FIRST OF TWO SUCH PUBLICATIONS

Funds allotted for Paradise Valley road upgrade

Council approved a recommendation from the Works and Services Committee at the Feb. 18 meeting to allocate $25,000 towards an upgrading of the Paradise Valley Road.

The upgrade will include the removal of asphalt and the application of gravel. The Committee made its recommendations in lieu of an original suggestion of re-paving the road at a cost of $60,000 to the District.

The decision to upgrade the road came after a report from Works Superintendent John Payne indicating the road has now reached the stage where it is beyond the capability of the public works crew to maintain a safe condition.

The District spent approximately $3,500 in 1985 patching the road, and a total of $17,000 was spent on the road system in the Cheakamus.

THANK YOU

Thank you ever so much for your encouragement to "get better" through your cards, prayers & love. And for all the many plates of cakes and cookies including farm fresh eggs. All were very much appreciated and we thank you.

Ever so grateful

SQUAMISH SURPRISES SEATTLE

When the Squamish Eagles squeaked into the West Coast Junior Hockey League playoffs it seemed the last team on earth the locals wanted to play against was the Seattle North-West Americans.

After all the travel and lodging costs for the best out of five series alone would drain any organization's bank account, even more so when one considers these sides represent the two geographic extremities of the division. But for the Eagles and its fans it meant more than that.

It went beyond the first place, and obvious class of the league, versus the sixth place, a margin of 16 points. Quite simply it was the record books. In five meetings the Americans dominated the Eagles on the scoreboard in all but one, a 9-8 overtime decision on October 20, twice hitting double figures enroute to outproducing the locals 46-22.

So when news of the 11-2 thumping suffered by Squamish in Seattle for game one of the quarterfinals first filtered back north fan reaction was....well, it was typical. Besides hopeless shrugs such remarks as "not surprising", "oh, Christ" to a simple "hmpf" were duly recorded.

Nothing against the Eagles and coach Barclay Craig but as the records have shown, very few expected the series to go beyond the minimum three games.

But what's this? You're joking? Squamish seven, Seattle five?

Everything from "now that doesn't seem right, does it" to "c'mon, you're kidding. What was the score really?" shot back.

"I don't know what they did, especially after losing 11-2 on Saturday," said club president Paul Lethbridge when he heard of Sunday night's results from Washington, "but I tip my hat to them for doing it."

Indeed the 7-5 victory, the first against the Americans, not only evens the series at one game apiece but guarantees local fans of at least two more games before the end of the season. Game three is slated for the Civic Center for 6:00 p.m. this Saturday while game four goes Sunday at 1:00 p.m.

Whatever they do, let's hope they do it again.

ICE CHIPS - Season ticket holders get in Saturday's playoff game free as part of the season package.

Gary Wong shows his form on Saturday during the B.C. Hydro bonspiel won by the Mike Pennent rink. Two separate company spiels hit the ice on the weekend with 12 teams competing in the Hydro while 14 others swept in on Sunday for the Hospital Spiel.

Curling Corner

Believe it or not, there are still a few people out there ignorant of the fact that a sport is currently enjoying a rebirth of sorts in Squamish.

Not that it was ever dead in the hearts of die hard fans after literally burning to the ground a few years back but the Howe Sound Curling Club was for all intents and purposes a club that existed on paper. Now, in its first season in a brand new rink adjacent to the golf and country club the organization is waging an active campaign to introduce the game to those who in the past never gave the sport a passing thought.

Of course, the first step for any club is a junior program and Howe Sound has a few promising curlers in that department. Recently, Squamish was to play host to an eight team junior bonspiel with four squads from the home rink and another four from out of town taking part.

Snow put an end to those thoughts but a one day, round-robin, between the local foursomes took place with Dan Tichauer coming out as the winner.

But there is another way of probing for potential new curlers and that is via company spiels. On the weekend two such tournaments occurred with B.C. Hydro employees, et al, taking over the ice on Saturday, and the Squamish Hospital moving in on Sunday.

Twelve rinks competed in the former group with Mike Tennent skipping his way to the title, leading all the way in the three game competition to beat out the Karen Vanzella foursome. In third place was Lauri Vanzella.

The Hospital 'Spiel' however proved to be somewhat tighter, competition wise as 14 teams entered. By the end of the day three of those sides led by Don Dorosh, Bruno Marini, and Jan Hinkema were tied for first place, at 25 points apiece. Each club earned three points for a win, two for a tie and an additional tally for every point scored during the game.

To break the deadlock each skip was given one attempt at a draw shot with the closest awarded first place, the farthest getting third. Dorosh made fellow team members Audrey Furniss, Laura Borough and Gordon Doyle happy by sliding up to the back of the four foot to beat out Marini's draw to the twelve, leaving Hinkema to settle for third.

This weekend B.C. Railway takes over for a two day spiel in what has been one of the most successful and competitive company tournaments in club history.

Strikes -n- Spares

How many of you watched the Championship 5 Pin Bowling T.V. Series that ended on Feb. 15th?

This five week series was great to watch, considering the bowlers were amateurs who qualified in their own centres first.

Some of the games were not that high but I'm sure those bowlers felt excitement, pressure and, like a lot of bowlers, may had had an "off" day.

Russel Hunt, the B.C. contender, flew back to Victoria a happy man having won the championship and $10,000. Hunt is a former Y.B.C. member. Next year's first prize will be $25,000 for this event.

The Bowl For Millions Celebrity Bowl held on Feb. 7 and 8 was a huge success once again. This is a community effort and the people who sponsored, the bowlers are to be congratulated for making this event successful. Thanks to Mrs. Hazel Giese and Wendy Brown for their co-operation and assistance.

The Valentine's Special Pins Over Average Tour-

namment was held on Feb. 6. Top prize was a $50 certificate for the Country Kitchen restaurant. Lynda Quaife, who bowls Tues. evenings, was reluctant to enter as she felt she didn't have a chance with a 157 average. Lynda was glad she did, having bowled 116 pins over her average. Lois Hundey came in a close second with plus 103 and George Binning was third with plus 93.

The 7 Strikes Money Pot is not getting much of a chance to build up as there have been two winners this month. Ed Antosh won it on Feb. 3, ending with a 317 single.

On Feb. 19 George Binning had a good day in the Golden Age league. He rolled 308 in the first game. In his second game, he had eight strikes in a row for a 376 single and the 7 Strikes Pot. George tripled a nice high of 910 for the day.

Don't forget our Five Buck Special every Friday and Saturday nites from 9:30 p.m. to midnight. All you can bowl for $5.

Participate - bring a friend bowling.

Performers wanted for Fringe Festival

Applications are now being accepted for individuals and some groups wishing to participate in the 1986 Vancouver Fringe Festival of alternate theatre and performance art, scheduled to run Sept. 12 to 21.

Deadline for submissions to the Vancouver Fringe is April 30, with productions accepted on a first-come, first-served basis.

"The Fringe Festival is expanding this year to offer performances by 100 groups to help celebrate Vancouver's Centennial," said Joanna Maratta, producer of the 1985 Fringe Festival and artistic director of TheatreSpace, which sponsors the event.

Last September, the inaugural Vancouver Fringe Festival featured 70 productions of 225 performances over the 10-day spectacle which drew 4500 audience members to seven performance venues in Mt. Pleasant.

In addition to a 40 percent increase in the number of performance groups for 1986 the Vancouver Fringe Festival will add a cabaret-style theatre to its roster of stage venues in the Mt. Pleasant neighborhood clustered around Main Street.

Maratta said a Fringe Club is planned where performers and audience members can get together for a drink and discussion after performances.

The Fringe Forum is a fourth new feature planned for the 1986 festival, Maratta added.

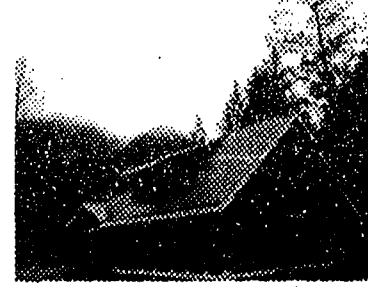

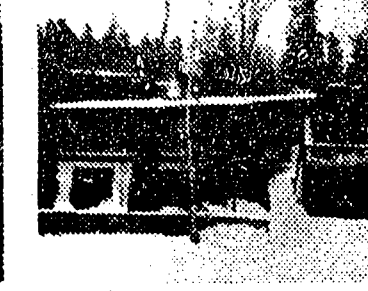

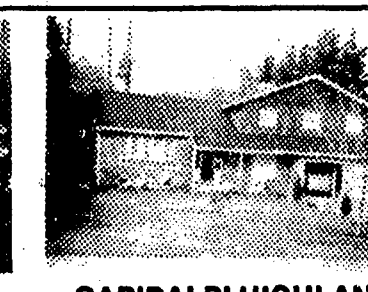

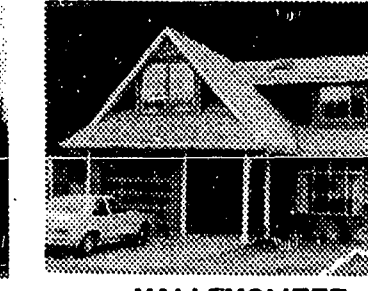

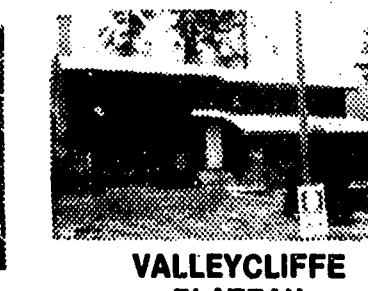

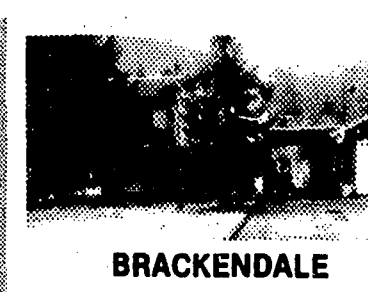

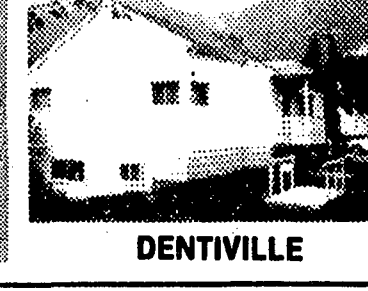

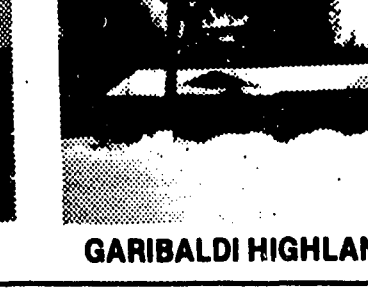

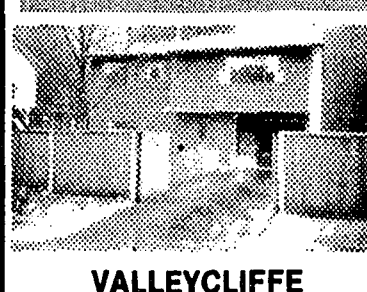

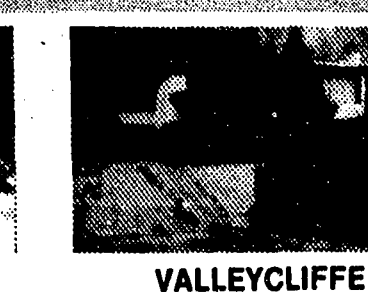

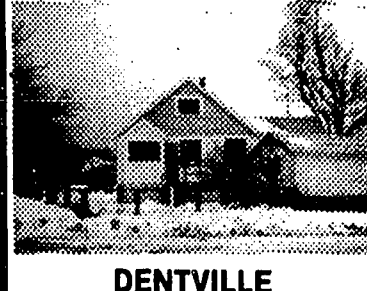

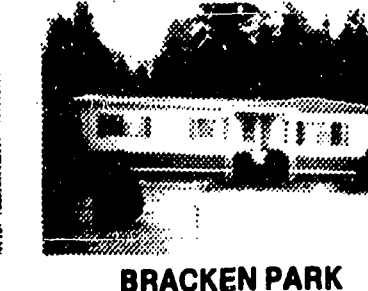

"In our call for Fringe submissions, we've asked groups to indicate if they'd be interested in taking part in a series of workshops and seminars during the festival," she said.

Topics for the Fringe Forums include Women in the Arts: Where are We? and Performance Art/Performing Art: Crossing Disciplines with the public invited to attend most sessions.

For application forms, please phone 681-0818 or write, TheatreSpace, 1142 Homer St., Vancouver, B.C., V6B 2X1.

Tourism Association boosts budget

Minister of Tourism Claude Richmond announced at the Feb. 8 Annual General Meeting of the Tourism Association of Southwestern B.C. that the 1986-1987 Southwestern B.C. budget has been increased to $1.25 million from $400,000.

Richmond was among the more than 100 tourism promoters who met at the Pan Pacific Vancouver Hotel for the general meeting.

Also, at the meeting, the new Association logo and marketing theme "Discover Our Worlds" was launched. The phrase refers to the five destination areas within the Southwestern B.C. region: Sea-to-Sky Country, Downtown B.C., Sunshine Coast, Fraser Valley Heritage Country and Rainbow Country.

"This is a real boost to all the people of the region who have been working so energetically and enthusiastically to better our share of tourism receipts," said John Allen, president of the Association.

At the meeting, Shirley Henry was elected Director-at-Large for the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District.

Britannia to make more trips
this summer

Graham Clarke and David Kyle of Harbour Ferries told the monthly luncheon meeting of the Squamish Chamber of Commerce the Britannia would be making more trips this year, a total of 92 during the season.

They said the ship was committed to Squamish and they want to bring the vessel to Squamish this summer. They are looking forward to arriving at the new site at the foot of Main Street.

Kyle said they were investigating other trips beside the Royal Hudson combination and mentioned a snow boat as well as all-year cruises.

Kyle added that marketing surveys have been done and the average tourist carried on the ship is over 35 years of age, quiet, and interested in good quality souvenirs with a local flavor such as Indian carvings and authentic Canadiana items.

They would like to be entertained and are interested in history and local culture.

He pointed out the cost of the combination trip, one way on the Royal Hudson and the other on the Britannia, had not increased in price but was still $38 per adult.

A meeting with Weldwood officials followed the luncheon meeting and was most productive. One positive development is the construction of a viewing stand near the dumping operations where visitors will be able to see the trucks unloaded and the boom boats busy working with the logs.

Council Briefs

UPDATE

BY Cathy Dunlop

By Cathy Dunlop

Council received a report from the District of Squamish Dog Pound which indicated a slight decrease in total revenue for January 1986 over the same period last year.

Also down were the number of animals impounded.

Council approved an application from MacMillan Bloedel to the Ministry of Lands, Parks and Housing for a right-of-way for the purpose of road access to a private log dump just north of Indian Reserve No. 24 and the Stawamus River.

Council approved the licence for a period of five years.

According to a report from the Fire Department for the month of January, the incidence of response to chimney fires is down from the same period last year.

The Parks and Recreation Commission approved a request from the P.P.W.C. Hockey Tournament to cancel public skating on March 30 to allow for the tournament.

Tournament organizers were requested to cover the costs of advertising this cancellation in the Squamish Times for two weeks prior to the tournament date.

Council adopted the District of Squamish Dykes, Berms, Drainage Channel and Flood Control Appurtenances Loan Authorization By-Law No. 909, 1985.

Council adopted the District of Squamish Zoning Amendment By-Law (Decade International Developments Ltd.) No. 903, 1985.

Council adopted the District of Squamish Official Community Plan Amendment By-Law (Decade International Developments Ltd.) No. 904, 1985.

The Garibaldi/Sunshine Coast District of B.C.'s Provincial Parks (based at Alice Lake) and the local department of the Ministry of Highways have been working together on development of a pull-out/rest stop and information kiosk for Highway 99. The kiosk would be located at the base of the Chief.

The theme of the kiosk is "Sea-to-Sky Country Attractions". Its objective is "to increase awareness in Highway 99 travellers of the eight provincial parks and the four communities along the highway corridor so that they are inspired to stop and spend time in the area."

If travellers stop and read the kiosk signs, they will hopefully plan to visit a park for a day, or make plans for a future camping trip. Parks to be covered include Porteau Cove, Murrin, Shannon Falls, Alice Lake, Brandywine Falls, Garibaldi, Nairn Falls and Birkenhead Lake. Murrin and Shannon Falls will be combined on one sign to allow the Chief to be covered on a sign by itself. A general overview of Britannia Beach, Squamish, Whistler and Pemberton will finish off the Sea-to-Sky Country story.

B.C. Parks will design and construct the kiosk, and write the text for the twelve information signs. Each sign will have a title grabbing people's attention. The proposed title for Porteau Cove for example is "The Ocean At Your Feet," and for the Chief "The World's Second Largest Batholith." This will be followed by a 50 to 100 word text, then two or three photographs.

The location of the pull-out and kiosk provides a good view of the Chief and Mount Garibaldi. Eventually picnic tables, garbage cans, and maybe even spotting scopes may be put in place. In fact, people could spend quite a bit of time watching climbers and taking photographs. Our target for completion is July 31, 1986. When some of those millions of people at Expo decide to visit Sea-to-Sky Country, we'll be ready for them.

New member sought for Flood Control Committee

Council passed a motion at the Feb. 11 meeting to advertise for a new member to sit on the Flood Control Committee of council.

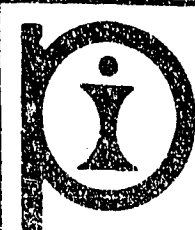

Council made the decision following a suggestion from Alderman Norm Verner that members of the public be invited to sit on the committee.

"I think it would be nice to have some more input from the public," Verner told council.

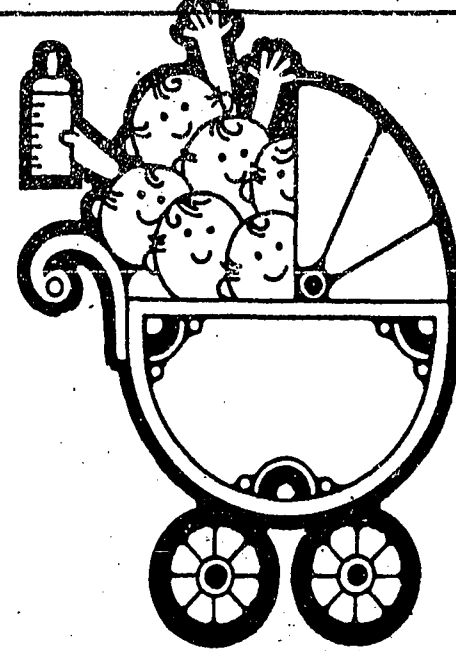

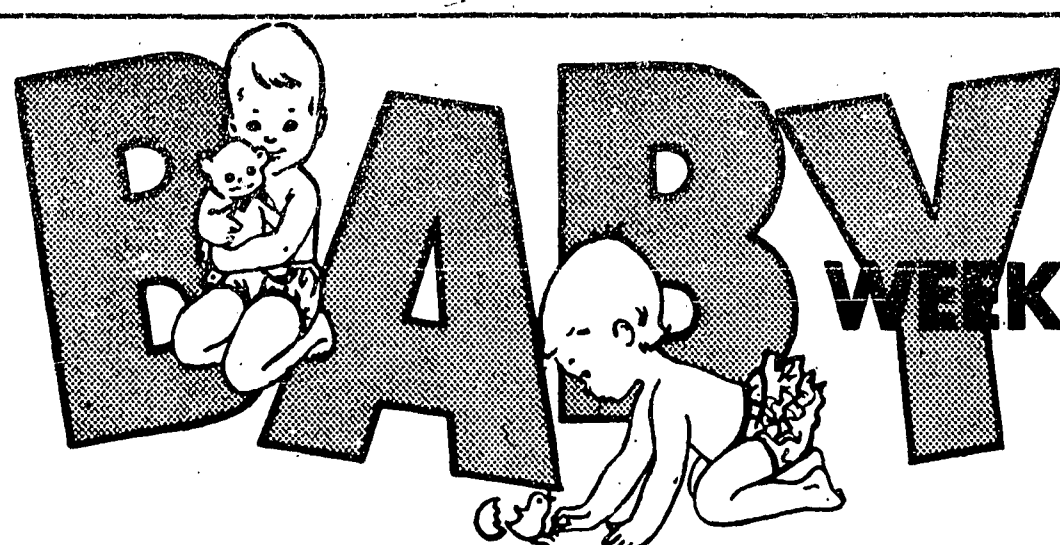

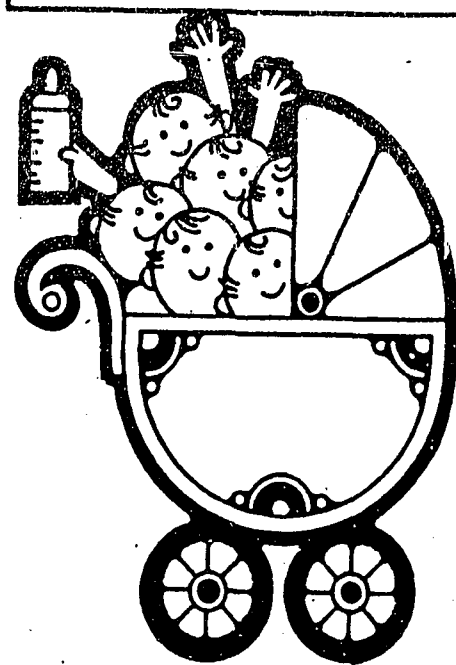

In addition to the new committee member, council accepted a recommendation of six other committee members from the already existing Flood Control Committee.

Council approved the following committee members for 1986: Alderman Robert Ewacha and Ron Barr, Frank Wilson, Clayton Thorne (Foreman), John Payne (Works superintendent), Bob Cameron (Ministry of Environment).

In a report to council, the Flood Control Committee said it wished to have members representing council, private citizens, staff and the Ministry of Environment.
