Community Futures committee announced

A committee comprised of representatives of local business, government, labor and community has been formed under Community Futures, a federal-government project established through the Canadian Job Strategy program.

The Community Futures Committee includes the following members:

Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus, Pemberton Mayor Shirley Henry; Whistler Alderman Ted Nebbeling; Dr. Laverne Kindree, representing Squamish Chamber of Commerce; Bill Lewis, superintendent, Squamish Weldwood sawmill; Peter Gordon, owner of Iryl Bird; May Harris, Squamish Band Educational coordinator; Chief Leonard Andrew, Mt. Currie Indian Band; and Ron Pritchard, national vice-president, PPWC.

The committee, to represent communities in the Squamish-Pemberton area, was announced June 24 by Employment and Immigration Minister Benoit Boucher.

Community Futures was designed to help communities hard hit by layoffs or chronic unemployment to identify, develop and implement measures to expand employment and help individuals adjust to their economic environment, according to the government.

The task of the committee will be to look at opportunities for developing and diversifying the local economy, using funds from the federal government.

The Squamish-Pemberton area was selected as one of the communities eligible for assistance under the Community Futures program in January, thanks in large part to the efforts of Mike Osborn, manager of the Local Economic and Renewal Development Project at Capilano College, Alexander said log-jams are a constant danger.

"They never go away; you have to read the river and avoid them. Any raft in a log-jam is useless."

According to Crowe, Dynamic Descents has cancelled its next four trips while the lawyers, RCMP, and insurance companies conduct investigations, and pending a provincial government inquest.

But Alexander says it's business as usual.

"Of course, it's going to scare some people away," he said, "but we've actually had more bookings than cancellations. It's a river and does have inherent dangers - things can go on."

who initiated the area's application for consideration, along with MP Lorne Greenaway, and various community representatives.

Included in the area to receive assistance are Britannia Beach, Whistler, Pemberton, Pemberton Meadows, Mt. Currie, Birken and D'Arcy.

Under the program, the committee may recommend one or more program options to help workers start businesses, learn new skills, or relocate to seek jobs. There is also a provision for the establishment of a Business Development Centre to provide advice and equity investment in new or existing firms.

As a participant in the program, Squamish can look forward to a variety of federally assisted proposals for economic recovery.

Once such proposal is "self-employment initiatives" which will help unemployed workers become self-employed by providing income support of up to $180 a week for one year to enable individuals to start their own business.

People currently receiving unemployment insurance and welfare will be eligible, providing they have some equity investment of their own, such as loans from relatives or friends, or savings.

A second proposal is the "Business Development Centre" which will provide locally managed technical and advisory services to small businesses as well as loan investment assistance of up to $75,000 per firm from a $1.5 million investment fund.

Community Futures will also provide for assistance to unemployed, employed and self-employed people in obtaining occupational training which will provide needed skills or increase earnings and employability.

Other areas in B.C. designated as Community Futures areas include Williams Lake, 100 Mile House, McLeese Lake, Likely, Horsefly, Canim Lake, Bridge Lake, 70 Mile House, Hagensborg, and Stuie.

Bears back in town

Three bears have been destroyed by Wildlife and Fisheries officials, and numerous others sighted so far this year, according to Wildlife Conservation Officer Bob Reynolds.

Reynolds confirmed that three "large, aggressive males" have been destroyed and another one translocated to Whistler, after they were found foraging in residential areas in Squamish.

He added that his office receives about two reports of bear sightings daily.

Reynolds said the Fisheries and Wildlife Branch tries to relocate offending bears if possible, but due to limited manpower is unable to relocate all of the animals. Reynolds added that many of the bears trapped must be destroyed because once they have become accustomed to feeding from residential garbages, they lose their fear of humans and are thus a threat to the public.

"There's no other way to deal with them," Reynolds said.

Last year, the Branch was plagued with bear sightings, and officials were kept busy, with a total of 67 bears destroyed throughout Squamish, Whistler, and Pemberton, and another 20 to 25 bears trapped.

"We had very little recourse," Reynolds said. "We had to take a direct approach."

Reynolds attributed the over-abundance of bears in residential areas last year to a lack of berry crops in the mountainous regions, which normally provide food for the bears.

"The bears are seeking an alternate food supply," Reynolds said.

He said the Branch is hoping the bear problem will have subsided somewhat this year, but added that indications to date are that the bears are back in town.

"There's no shortage of bears."

Petition circulating for ParaTransit

A petition is currently circulating through Squamish, urging the B.C. Government to establish a special local bus service for the elderly and handicapped in Squamish.

The proposed ParaTransit Service, if approved for Squamish, will be established in cooperation with B.C. Transit, who will administer the service and provide an operating subsidy. The remainder of the cost of the service will be borne by the user and the district.

The ParaTransit Service, proposed by the Squamish Intermediate Care Society, was endorsed by Squamish Council last December. Council also agreed to pay 25 percent of the cost of a feasibility study into the transit service.

At that time, Wilf Dowad, representative of the Intermediate Care Society, told council that results of a preliminary survey conducted by the Society identified over 80 individuals in Squamish who required assistance in obtaining transportation in town for essential purposes.

Eligible users of the service, according to Dowad, will include the elderly, wheelchair-bound individuals, and the handicapped. Users will include residents of the long-term care facility as well as those who live independently throughout the community.

If approved, B.C. Transit and the district will sign a five-year agreement for the service. B.C. Transit arranges an operating company to carry out the service and administers the overall program, providing an operating subsidy which will cover the bulk of the operating cost of the program.

Based on the operating costs incurred by a similar service in Williams Lake, Squamish's share of the cost of the service could amount to between $7,000 and $8,000, with B.C. Transit's share around $30,000. Cost to the user would be about $1 per ride.

B.C. Transit is currently operating the ParaTransit Service in other communities throughout B.C., including Comox, Cranbrook, and the Sunshine Coast.

The service is intended for communities where population densities would not warrant a conventional transit system, and can be a combination of fixed-route transit and door-to-door demand responsive service.

Petitions are available at the following locations: Wagon Wheel Restaurant; Eagle Run Store, Brackenbrook, and the Sunshine Mart, The Coffee Bean, Senior Citizens' office, Cedars and Manor residences, The Doughnut Shop, Mykonos Restaurant, Government Agent's Office, Mountain Burger House, Valley Hardware, municipal hall, Squamish Public Library, laundromat, Squamish Indian Band Centre, Valleycliffe Grocery, Pharmasave Drugstore, Chieftain Hotel, Sikh Temple, Legion Clubhouse, Hol'n One Donut and Sandwich House, Squamish Hotel, Da Pizza Factory.

Local hospital reps attend conference

Fast approaching changes in B.C.'s health care system were forecast by speakers at the recent annual general meeting of the B.C. Health Association (BCHA) in Vancouver, attended by Sonya McCarthy, trustee, and John Dillabough, administrator, representing Squamish General Hospital.

McCarthy and Dillabough were among 560 trustees and administrators who attended the three-day event, hosted by the BCHA, which represents all general hospitals, most extended care facilities, and many continuing care facilities as well as a number of health-related agencies in the province.

Outgoing Board Chairman Dr. Thelma Sharp told the meeting to be prepared for mergers and integration of facilities and services, and commented on the new demands upon hospital and continuing care facilities.

"If the pot of money is not increasing, the expectations of the citizenship are not decreasing, and we have already trimmed the fat learned to do more with less, then what other alternative is there but to reorganize the system that already exists?", Cook said.

She said there are indications of these changes as seen in management mergers, reduction of acute care beds, increase in long-term care beds and rapid increase in outpatient and ambulatory care services.

BCHA's new Board Chairman, Tom Stokie, emphasized in his inaugural address that "technological change is occurring at an unprecedented rate and those procedures which were experimental a short time ago are now routine, and achievements of medical technology in years to come cannot even be imagined at this time."

Stokie said technological and demographic changes will be factors in a further change "of far-reaching significance; namely the realization that funding may become the limiting factor in controlling the delivery of health care."

"When this happens, our society could be confronted with ethical, moral and legal problems that will require collective courage of great magnitude in order to be solved."

Local researcher offers insight into young drivers

The way you drive will have a decidedly strong impact on the way your children handle the wheel.

That was just one of the conclusions of Dr. Peter Rothe, School Board Trustee and editor and principle investigator for "Rethinking Young Drivers", a research document recently released by the Insurance Corporation of B.C. (ICBC).

Rothe, a researcher for ICBC, based his findings on a survey conducted of 1,376 secondary school students in grades 10 through 12, including students at Howe Sound Secondary School in Squamish, on a wide range of relevant topics, including lifestyle, relationships with peers and parents, their driving habits, and attitudes towards risk-taking and drinking/driving.

One of the report's findings was that parental example has a powerful influence on teen drivers. In fact, young people are more like the rest of the driving population than they or their elders think. The attitude of boys particularly, is often molded before their first formal driving lesson. As a result, their behaviour behind the wheel is not deviant but simply patterned on their parents.

"In the intimate personal context of the passenger compartment, they begin to learn not only driving-related skills, but also the appropriateness of certain attitudes," the report said.

"Many of the routine activities in which young drivers engage and regard as safe, are dangerous. However, drivers of all ages engage in such activities."

The central message in the report is that society's attitude towards young drivers must change radically if there is to be any major improvement in driving standards of the 16-21 years old age group.

In fact, the report urges society to adopt a more positive, pro-active approach to young drivers. Among its recommendations are: children should have access to safe driving instructional material long before they are old enough to get behind the wheel; since teaching sons to drive is still a significant "rite of passage", fathers should be recognized for their efforts and provided with information to help them to do a better job. In fact, parents should be more involved in young driver training; driver training should deal with the fact that 16-18 year olds are more likely to have a number of passengers and tend to be distracted by their companions and loud music on the car stereo, a scenario that can lead to serious mishaps; we should attempt to detach the car from its potent image of masculinity.

The research was carried out in rural, urban and suburban locations throughout B.C. Questionnaires were completed by 1,376 students in grades 10, 11 and 12 attending secondary schools in Chilliwack, Courtenay, Cranbrook, the Gulf Islands, Howe Sound, the Okanagan, Prince George, Sooke, and West Vancouver. Permission from parents and teachers and agreement from the students themselves were obtained before the project began.

In addition, 40 group interviews were conducted, as well as interviews with 130 young drivers from the Lower Mainland who were involved in injury-producing crashes.

The report, whose contributors included Rothe, Ken Stoddard of U.B.C. and Peter Cooper, of ICBC, has been presented to international conferences on human behaviour and traffic safety research in San Diego and Amsterdam.

According to ICBC, the research findings will help further development of ICBC's existing school programs. ICBC allocates $3 million annually to traffic safety education in schools and communities, and the co-funding of CounterAttack against drinking/driving.

Better late than never?

The announcement of a major probe into the sport of whitewater rafting in the wake of the Canada Day tragedy near Squamish is a welcome relief to recreationists, but comes too late for the victims and their families who fell prey to the ill-regulated sport.

It appears that lives must be lost before the provincial government will decide to take responsibility and institute regulations and guidelines for what is obviously a dangerous and risky sport.

Whitewater rafting, heli-skiing, skydiving, and any of the so-called "thrill" sports should be accountable to pre-determined safety standards, and owners and operators of such ventures should be properly qualified and licensed.

Environment Minister Bruce Strachan's earlier claim that the whitewater rafting industry is not his responsibility is a blatant cop-out. Since when is the safety of British Columbians on B.C.'s waterways not within the Ministry of Environment's jurisdiction?

In the wake of Expo '86, B.C. is betting heavily on the return of visitors to boost the province's tourism revenue. But all the p.r. and hype in the world will not undo the damage to credibility that can result from such tragedies as the July 1 Elaho rafting trip.

It is unfortunate for the victims that government action has been precipitated by their tragic deaths, but hopefully the outcome will be stricter rules guiding the sport to ensure that others do not suffer.

It's better late than never.

Time

Q: Should people be allowed to raft so-called wild rivers such as the Elaho?

Keith Berens: "It's a matter of individual choice. It's a high-risk sport. No one plans on something like this -- it just happens."

Sandra Wellbourn: "If you're doing something like that you're taking a risk, but I don't think people should control what you do in that respect."

Joan Atlas: "I believe that they (rivers) should be regulated and rated for safety, then if something happens they (rafters) know about it (the risks involved)."

John Kelson: "Of course they should. Society shouldn't prevent people from making a decision to enjoy themselves. Otherwise we would knit for fun."

Let the Businessman pay

Dear Editor:

Reading the last issue of your paper I was alarmed to find that the proposal to "revitalize" the downtown core is on the table again.

While not being against the proposal on principle I have strong objections to the financing formula as stated by two aldermen quoted. Last time I looked (yesterday) downtown was a picture of "vitality" while the rest of the community showed very few "vital signs", to use some medical terminology.

While the downtown core has adequate and wide sidewalks, cement curbs and no open ditches the overwhelming majority of streets in our community are still "blessed" with unsightly open ditches, no cement curbs and no sidewalks. The time to ask the homeowners to underwrite this scheme has come when the last ditch has been filled and the last street has at least one sidewalk.

While a cost/benefit analysis shows that all the benefits will accrue to the business and/or property owners, the homeowners will be saddled with the lion's share of the cost. A more realistic proposal would be for the affected owners to foot the whole bill since they are also the sole gainers.

From the fact sheet which came with this year's tax notice I'd like to quote just one line "...industry in particular and business to a lesser degree have received continuing relief of taxation." Hopefully, one day soon, it will be the homeowner who will be on the receiving end of such largesse, or am I too optimistic here?

May I remind the business community of some of the more philosophical directives emanating from our provincial government which it never tires to slavishly follow like gospel, to name a few "Restraint", "New Reality", "There is no free lunch" and "User Pay".

Unless I missed something I was under the impression that all the aforementioned were to apply collectively to the whole spectrum of society and not selectively as some cynics claim.

Lest I am accused of being anti-business, let me assure all that I am not but, pro-homeowner I certainly am, and a long suffering one at that. I shall watch with great interest, and so should every other homeowner, the voting alignment on council on this issue bearing in mind that the next municipal election is only a mere four months away.

Teacher bashing alive and well

Dear Editor:

My letter seems to have made its point. The loggers have convinced me that they are not lazy and deserve their hard-earned pittance; the longshoremen stand more that they sit and are certainly not overpaid and the dentists and doctors do not own all of the real estate in Squamish. And teacher-bashing is alive and well.

Jason Whitaker is convinced the curriculum is wrong and that teachers conspire to teach an irrelevant stack of information in order to push their socialist aims and the "not so lazy logger" is certain that Howe Sound Secondary is responsible for his illiteracy.

I suggest that Mr. Whitaker attack the source of set curriculum: the Ministry of Education i.e. the Social Credit Government. I am certain that the Minister will be as pleased to implement his theories on a proper curriculum as McMillan will be on his theories of excellent logging techniques. Teachers have a little input into basic curriculum as loggers have in reforestation.

The "not so lazy logger's" illiteracy is certainly the fault of the system and this Province's lack of concern with education but to blame Howe Sound Secondary School is like blaming the faller for destroying the environment. Our present approach in this province to social ills is self-improvement. We don't have enough money or compassion to assist battered women or feed our school children never mind to educate those who escaped the system without the basic skills of reading and writing.

I suggest we stop attacking the basis around which our future might be better. Schools and teachers are the means through which we might escape the darkness that envelops so many of us. If they seem inadequate let's act positively to ensure better education and support the people who can give it to us.

Bill Featherston

Support Bill 19, 20

Dear Editor:

Bills 19 and 20 are steps in the right direction.

Every union's mandate is to, blindly and automatically, demand more rights and privileges for the members. Unions have no mandate to and will not set standards of competence or discipline members. The BCTF occasionally pays lip-service to the welfare of students but does not and cannot represent their interests. B.C. students desperately need a Teachers College.

Comments from unionists, no matter how sincere or learned, must be taken for what they are, biased, self-serving misinformation.

Loggers, longshoremen, dentists, doctors, etc., do not and cannot ruin the education of hundreds of students. It is asinine to state that if we have incompetents in other industries then we must condone incompetent teachers in the education industry! Our two billion dollar education industry is being run by and for teachers while hundreds of students are being frustrated, turned off and short-changed.

Bills 19 and 20 address some of the rights and privileges of students and deserve your full support!

J.J. Helmers

P.S. I've never met a lazy logger or attacked a teacher??

What does one do on a hot weekend at the end of June? If you've got any sense you stay home and keep as cool as you can. But if you're like me you go to Vancouver to visit relatives. Fortunately, their apartment block has a swimming pool... and you guessed it, I really enjoyed my first swim of the year. Thank goodness the water was warm because I like to dive right in and get wet all at once. I can't wait for the swimming pool to open and plan to make regular visits to the pool on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and start the day off right.

Shopping at Lonsdale Quay is always fun. The fresh fruits and vegetables are always so much more attractive and seem so much fresher and brighter than they do in the stores. And there is such a selection. I particularly like the fresh pasta and always come home with some angel hair or fettuccini, and maybe some exotic type. I like tortellini and must try some of the spinach rolls one of these days.

The selection of olives and other relishes is so much more varied. I came home with some olives and some feta cheese for a Greek salad, as well as some pasta, and it will taste good.

We've discovered a shortcut and a solution to the parking problem there. If you drive up to the second level you can park right beside a door that leads into the main floor of the market and you don't have to walk for a long distance and use the elevator. Sure makes things easier especially if you have a lame knee like I have.

We enjoyed eating lunch outdoors and watching the shipping in the harbour. There were several large freighters anchored in the inlet and one of them was just starting to leave so we watched it weigh anchor and swing out into the shipping lanes and head for another port.

It's a fascinating place to people-watch and speculate about what other eaters are doing there, and look at all the people clad in every mixture of clothing from shorts and skimpy tops to bright print dresses and pant suits. It was much too hot for a pant suit but a cotton skirt and top was the ideal solution.

We had to laugh at the street-wise cat we saw outside the market. She was crossing the street and walked down one side of the street to a crosswalk, crossed it, and then walked down the other side to wherever she was going. Obviously she knew what crosswalks were for!

On a sunny day a drive around the park is always fun and this time we went to see the artists painting in the park. There were many painters out with their work, ranging from portraits to scenes. There were many with an oriental influence and I loved some of them with birds and flowers. One I particularly liked was of three small birds perched on a leafless branch.

There was another on a black background of a cougar in the woods and it was beautiful. But anything with cats would draw my attention. The oriental-type florals were also beautiful, but too many of them looked as if they were copies of mountains and lakes, with nothing outstanding about them, although there was one of some snowy peaks shrouded in clouds which was striking.

We drove around the park and really enjoyed watching the kids in the new pool by Lumberman's Arch. They were enjoying themselves and it was a perfect day for kids and water. Oddly enough, there were no birds around Lost Lagoon. They must have been on the other side in the shade!

Driving down the Sound, I was amazed at the number of foxgloves on the side of the road. The tall spikes of white and purple blossoms thickly stud the grass in some areas and almost look as if they have been planted. Maybe Highways has planted them just as they did the lupins, which make such a splash of color earlier in the spring.

Noticed also that the sedum was blooming along the rocky cliffs. Wherever there is a bit of water they grow lushly and carpet the rocks. On the Upper Levels highway the butterfly bush was starting to bloom in the grassy area which divides the traffic lanes. These are beautiful but I remember one year I broke off some spikes to bring home for the house. I was so disappointed when I found they were full of bugs!

The ocean spray was also blooming on the rocky cliffs above the highway. This is another flower which is disappointing when it is picked but the creamy sprays arching over the shrub are beautiful. They are so aptly named as they do look like spray foaming over the rocks.

Coming home on Sunday night the freighters moored in English Bay lay in a sea of molten gold with the white-sailed pleasure boats flitting around them. Vancouver is a beautiful city!

And when I got home my cats were so glad to see me. They hate being cooped up, even for a day but I don't like them out at night.

In the trees around the yard the birds were murmuring; the red-winged blackbird who returns each year, was calling sleepily and the mother duck who lives in the Blind Channel had her flock out for an evening swim. I counted at least eight ducklings and hope she manages to keep them. So often the raccoons and other animals prey on them and she loses most of her flock.

The garden is so cool once evening comes and there is just enough breeze to keep the bugs away. Night falls and the hot day ends. Thank goodness we live in a country where it cools off at night and one can bear to sleep.

UPDATE

by Cathy Dunlop

Feel good about yourself and nature by hiking a trail in B.C. Parks. This information can enhance your appreciation of the hike and the park.

July 12th marks our First Annual Trails Day in local provincial parks. Hiking is great exercise, and can be enjoyed by all ages. Why not gather family and friends together and participate in this special event?

Guided hikes will be offered in Alice Lake and Garibaldi Provincial Parks on Trails Day. In Alice Lake Park, the 2.5 km trail around Stump Lake would be suitable for families with small children. The guided walk around Stump Lake will leave from the lake's parking lot at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

In Garibaldi Park, three different guided hikes will be offered: to Garibaldi Lake, to Elfin Lakes in the Diamond Head Area, and to Singing Pass behind Whistler Mountain. Park staff will meet hikers at these trailheads at 10 a.m.

For the Garibaldi Park hikes, you'll need to be well-prepared for an entire day's excursion. Bring a daypack, sweater, camera, lunch, insect repellent, and wear comfortable running shoes. Heavy, thick-soled hiking boots are not necessary.

During Garibaldi Park's guides hikes, you'll learn about the area's fascinating geography and geology. Discover how fire and ice have created unusual features in the park such as The Black Tusk and Table Mountain.

To reach the trailhead for the Garibaldi Lake hike, turn east off of Highway 99, 40 km north of Squamish. A 2.4 km paved road leads to the parking lot. From here it's about a three to four hour moderate hike along a wide, well-maintained route for 9 km with an 810 metre elevation gain. Once at Garibaldi Lake, you can hike further on your own to the Black Tusk, the core of an extinct volcano, or meander through meadows brimming with colourful alpine wild flowers. The area is truly a photographer's paradise.

For the Diamond Head Area hike, turn off of Highway 99 onto Mamquam Road, 4 km north of Squamish. Take the logging road past the Mashiter River bridge. It is 16 km from the highway to the parking lot. A vehicle with good ground clearance is best for this gravel road.

The hike of Elfin Lakes is 11.2 km long with an elevation change of 600 metres. The third guided hike to Singing Pass provides magnificent views of the Fitzsimmons and Spearhead Mountain Ranges and Cheakamus Glacier. For access, take the road toward Blackcomb Mountain ski lifts behind Whistler Village. Follow the signs to the logging road that veers to the right and passes under the ski lift.

Brackendale Secondary may take two weeks at Easter

Under a proposal by Brackendale Secondary School Principal, Graham Dickson, students of that school may have a two-week Easter holiday in 1988.

Dickson's plan, which he presented to the School Board at its June 24 meeting, would have teachers take four of their six non-instructional (or professional development) days before the start of the official school year.

Teachers would attend school "for regular working hours from Tuesday, Sept. 1 to Friday Sept. 4," Dickson said in his proposal to the Board. These days would be used to set the year's goals, develop action plans, plan for departments, and conduct workshops, he said.

This plan is preferable to the usual practice of having professional days sporadically throughout the year, Dickson said, because one-day sessions allow the discussion of problems and new techniques to deal with them, but don't give teachers enough time to prepare for their implementation.

"You often get so involved with your classes and studies that it's difficult to pursue group activities."

Dickson said his entire staff supports the proposal. But Trustee Peter Rothe said he thought the purpose of professional development days was to meet issues as they are identified.

"It seems to me you are changing the meaning of professional development." But Dickson said his staff "find a day-long non-instructional day that they're not able to follow-up on frustrating."

"I wonder what the public would think of the longer holiday," School Board Chairman, Shirley Brown, said.

Dickson said the proposal has been tried in Summerland, B.C., and parental complaints were "non-existent." He said junior high students are self-sufficient, and many parents would be happy to have "babysitters they don't have to pay."

Having the four non-instructional days at the beginning of the year, Dickson said, takes advantage of teachers' start-up enthusiasm.

"The key time of the year to establish the tone and rapport with the kids is the first two or three weeks of the year."

Superintendent of Schools, Trevor Harris, said the proposal does not contravene the Ministry of Education's defined school year.

"You cannot alter the days when the children should attend, but for the teachers you can."

The 1987-1988 School year is Sept. 8 to June 30, he said.

Trustee Ellenore Ross said that the proposal caused two problems: She said that in taking four of the six professional development days, Brackendale would not be able to participate in one of the two district-wide days already scheduled (Oct. 23 and Feb. 5), and this would require that school buses be run on the day for Brackendale - an extra expense to the Board.

Dickson said only two buses would be required, but agreed that Brackendale would not participate in the Oct. 23 professional day.

"Could that be a trend then?" Rothe asked, "that there won't be any more district-wide days?"

"I would hope that this program be tried," Dickson said. He said he intends to survey parents to get their reaction to an extended Easter Holiday.

The Board voted to defer a decision on the proposal until its July 8 meeting pending the receipt of further information and in-camera discussion.

Top Japanese students visit Squamish

Twenty-three of Japan's top junior highschool students will spend five days in Squamish in July learning English, enjoying social and recreational activities, and mixing with families in the community.

The trip to Canada and Squamish was awarded to top junior highschool students in the district of Koto-Ku in Tokyo, paid for by their city hall. Eleven girls and 12 boys will make up the group, who will stay in Squamish July 16 to 31.

The program is sponsored by Capilano College and although it is the first of its kind in Squamish, Cap College has been running similar programs in North Vancouver for several years.

The students, who range in age from 14 to 16, will be staying with local families. Louise Krohn, program coordinator for Cap College, said the college has enough homes now to accommodate the students, but is looking particularly for families with children to host the students, as past experience has indicated the Japanese students prefer to stay with families with children.

The students will be accompanied by a highschool principal, two teachers, and a representative of the school board, who hope to meet other teachers and host families in an effort to get to know Canadians better.

Krohn said the students have all had two years of English language instruction so their grasp of the language will be "limited." "They'll communicate with signs and hands," Krohn said.

While in Squamish, the students will participate in a variety of activities, including morning English classes taught by Cap College faculty. Graham Dickson, Brackendale Junior Secondary principal, has arranged meetings and is planning a ballgame between the Japanese and Canadian students.

The Japanese teachers will present greetings on behalf of the Koto-Ku district to Mayor Egon Tobus on July 27. Other activities include a trip to Whistler and a day on the waterslides, picnic at Alice Lake, and a "photo-video day."

Cutting the birthday cake...

Rough and tumble...

Cake, hot dogs, ice cream are the order of the day.

Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus welcomes party-goers to Canada's birthday bash.

Young gymnasts perform for spectators.

Junior Forest Wardens conduct tree identification.

What do you give as a 120th birthday present? How about a crowd of party-goers, a lot of music and entertainment, hot sun, suds, and hot dogs galore, and a huge, gooey, calorie-laden birthday cake to boot.

Hundreds of Squamish citizens, young and old, mingled with Royal Hudson visitors July 1 to celebrate Canada's 120th birthday at Squamish Junction.

And what a birthday bash it was.

The events started at 10 a.m. with a pet show and children's races at Stan Clarke Park, with youngsters and various two and four-legged companions vying for ribbons and other honors.

At 10:30 a.m., three teams competing for the coveted clam chowder title fired up their propane stoves in front of the pavilion as part of The Great Chowder Cook-off, commencing what proved to be two hours of chopping, stirring, and tasting as The District, Elks, and Chamber of Commerce put their culinary skills to test.

At noon precisely, Royal Canadian Legion President L.C. Minchin performed the official flag-raising ceremony at Stan Clarke Park, with local Scouts, Girl Guides, Elks and RCMP in attendance, and accompanied by the Squamish Pipe Band led by Pipe Major Ian Walker.

Members of the public joined in singing the national anthem, followed by the royal anthem, "God Save The Queen," and watched as various groups gave the official salute to mark Canada Day.

Real police work for TV cop Waxman

By Evan Levine

Some actors go to the library to research characters they're going to play. Al Waxman, who portrays Lt. Samuels on CBS's "Cagney & Lacey," got himself involved in a situation involving the Toronto police, a handgun and a man wielding a knife instead.

Al Waxman

Waxman was with a friend - a member of the Toronto police force - in an unmarked police car. "We were parked by the curb when we saw this guy creating a public disturbance," the actor remembers. "We told him to stop, but he didn't listen. By this time, a crowd was gathering. Then the guy came over and stuck a knife through a window. My friend pulled his gun and turned to me and said, 'I needed this?' He calmly dealt with the guy while I called for backup. Throughout the whole situation, even though he was scared, my friend didn't shout, he didn't hurt anyone. He managed to subdue a potentially explosive situation. He handled it beautifully because he'd learned how to control his fear. I always remember that when I'm playing Samuels."

Toronto-born Waxman, who starred in "The King of Kensington," one of Canada's biggest TV hits, has spent a lot of time with police, both on stakeouts and observing day-to-day work, and is an honorary New York police lieutenant.

"A lot of police work is just routine stuff," he observes. "One of the things that makes 'Cagney & Lacey' so good is that it's not just action-oriented. It focuses on behavior and relationships."

"The cops I know love the show. I think it certainly merits respect," says the actor. He knows that it's primarily a show about the two female leads, and he doesn't mind. "I fight for what's right for my character," he claims. "I would like to see more of Samuels' personal life, but he's such a workaholic. The important thing is that the show overall doesn't settle for less than the best."

Waxman, who has directed many of the show's episodes, claims that television is his favorite medium.

"It's the closest to now, to the pulse of what's happening," he explains, noting that Samuels has mellowed over the years. "It makes people aware of certain thoughts. In this case, I think there are a lot of men like Samuels, who may be started out as chauvinists but need to know that women can be just as good cops as men."

"Of course," he says thoughtfully, "for an actor, radio is good too. It's a medium where you don't have to shave and can come to work in your pajamas."

Canada's 120th birthday

Squamish Mayor Egon Tobus welcomed the crowd to Canada's 120th birthday party, saying that he felt proud and fortunate to have chosen Squamish as his home.

Highlight of the ceremony was the cutting of the birthday cake, arranged by the Folkfest group, and the timely arrival of the Royal Hudson Steam Train which added a trainload of out-of-town guests to the party. The visitors were given a hearty welcome from Chamber President Gary Zukowski, and the sounds of the Pipe Band.

Other activities included performances by the Squamish Indian Band dancers, East Indian dancers, fitness and gymnastics displays, Loggers Sports display, and tree identification by the Junior Forest Wardens.

Throughout the activities, this year's Timber Queen contestants circulated through the crowd handing out pins and flags, making their first official public appearance. The 1986 Miss Squamish, Alisa Lange, and princess Joelle Babuin, were also on hand at what would be one of their last official functions as reigning royalty.

Party-goers also enjoyed a refreshment garden, while others quelled their hunger on hot dogs and other goodies.

Winner of the clam chowder contest was the District of Squamish team, comprised of Aldermen Corinne Lonsdale, Garth McCreedy, and Robert Ewacha. The Chamber of Commerce team, with members Gary Zukowski, Nancy McCartney, and Doreen Shaw, won for best costumes. Both teams were awarded plaques.

Local RCMP, Legion, Scouts and Guides join in the official salute.

The Squamish Pipe Band, led by Pipe Major Ian Walker, greets Royal Hudson visitors to Canada's birthday party.

What a team! Aldermen Garth McCreedy, Corinne Lonsdale, and Lonni Ewacha prove there's more to life than inside the council chambers. They won the Great Chowder Cook-off, representing the district.

The Junior Forest Wardens are leaving on a cross Canada trip on July 15, concluding at the Junior Forest Warden's National Campout of Oyama (in the Okanagan) from August 23 to 29. The young people thank the people of Squamish for their support and generosity in all the many fund raising activities undertaken by the JF Wardens to make this trip possible.

Maxine Kent spent two weeks in St. Stephen, New Brunswick visiting her parents and many relatives. Just recently, Maxine and her husband Gordon took a trip to Tumbler Ridge.

Congrats also to: Andy Dawson, Michael Albrecht, Dean Boland, Scott Ross, Chad Honey, Brian Fletcher, Ralph Schmich, Robert Middelman, Nicole Buck, Wendy McLeod, Darlene Kelley, Mark Lerch, John Vinson, P.J. Mangan, Tanyia Confortin, Carly Lyn Scheideman, Robbie Rogers, Steven Harris, Max Kinaken, Kristina White, Larry Flath, Jonathan Jardine, Shaya Carlson, Karina Leveque, Samantha Cooper and Emily Sutcliffe.

Two little ones, Miss Jennifer Cyr and Master Derek Thomson-McCall celebrate first birthdays this week.

Do you agree—it's tough to find oneself over the hill and not be able to recall ever having been on top of it?

Stork Story - BREWER - Robert and Patty Brewer are pleased to announce the birth of their second child, a son, Christopher Robert, born on June 20 in the Squamish General Hospital, weighing 6 lbs 12 ozs. Sharing in all the happiness and excitement are Christopher's sister Charlene Louise, along with the proud grandparents, Darryl and Sharon Brewer of Squamish and Jim and Lorraine Hurry of Canim Lake. The thrilled great grandparents are Mrs. Alice Rhodes of Summerland and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Flanders of Armstrong. This lucky little fellow also has a great great grandfather, Mr. Charlie Wheeler of Summerland.

The popular "Our Night" returns to the Howe Sound Women's Centre tomorrow evening, July 8 at 7 p.m. The "Our Night" will consist of a short business meeting, followed by games. All women are welcome and you are invited to take along your favourite game - trivial pursuit, scrabble, whatever. The Centre will provide the milk and cookies.

Stork Story - DEREWIANKO - Ken and Susan Derewianko (nee Gatzke) are pleased to announce the birth of their first born, twin sons. Bryce Robert, weighing 7 lbs 12 ozs. and Ross Peter, weighing 7 lbs. 8½ ozs. were born in the Royal Columbian Hospital on July 10. Ken and Susan live in Coquitlam. Proud grandparents are Mrs. Lil Gatzke of North Vancouver (formerly of Squamish) and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Derewianko of Vancouver.

The Howe Sound Minor Hockey Association would appreciate boys returning their equipment - shirts etc, now that the hockey season is over. There should be 17 shirts per team but unfortunately, no team has a complete set. Sponsors pay for part of the cost of each shirt and the Association would like to have them all returned. To arrange for a pickup, please call Susan at 898-1537.

Cowboy John would like to nominate Roy Calkins for the "Good Joe Award". Cowboy John was riding his horse last Thursday when it was "spooked" by something and it jumped in front of the McBride Trucking truck, driven by Roy. This experienced driver had noticed the horse acting up and he managed to stop the truck in the nick of time - averting a serious accident!

Stork Story - WILKES - It's a boy! Allan and Kathy are pleased to announce the birth of their third child, Alexander Gordon, born at 7:37 p.m. on June 18 in the Squamish General Hospital, weighing 7 lbs. 8 ozs. Thrilled with their new baby brother are Janice and A.J. Also proud are grandparents Richard and Myrtle Walker, Dennis and Karen Wilkes and Monty and Dot Raine. Special thanks are extended to Dr. Cudmore and the nursing staff for the safe arrival of this new bundle of joy!

A two week vacation took Geoff and Chris Burnett to Kimberley for a reunion and to Alberta to visit relatives.

Wedding anniversary wishes to: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Boni, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Hurren, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Langstaff, Mr. and Mrs. Vern LaFavor, Mr. and Mrs. Kelli Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Terry James, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Burritt, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nyiri, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cuthbert, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harley, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Teel, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Rick Boys.

The flag almost didn't get raised on Canada Day! Legion president and flagraiser L.C. "Minch" Minchin checked the flag pole at Stan Clarke Park on June 30, only to find that the lanyard was jammed - it had slipped out of the pulley. To the rescue late Tuesday afternoon came fellow legionnaire Hank Clarke of Alta Lake Electric, who made a "death defying swoop up" with his cherry picker to untangle the lanyard. The flag was raised flawlessly on July 1!

Visitors at the home of Fern Green last week were Andy and Nellie Greatrex from Nanoose Bay along with their daughter, Penny Nelson and grandchildren Brenda and Paddy from Spokane, Washington. They were here for the Woodfibre reunion.

50th wedding anniversary for Fred & Mary Bennett

The families of Fred and Mary Bennett held an Open House on June 27, in honor of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

Sons Michael and David, their wives Carol and Louise, and grandchildren, Steven, Ricky, Joseph and Dionne, made it a wonderful day. They were greatly assisted by many friends, including Helen Kirby and Bertha Johnson.

Fred and Mary exchanged their marriage vows in St. Andrew's Wesley United Church, Vancouver, on June 24, 1937. The Bennetts moved to Squamish in 1959.

The Open House was held in the lounge of the Squamish Manor, where the Bennetts reside.

Dick Smith, Mary's brother, reminisced about the years past and told some amusing stories. He also read greetings from dignitaries in Victoria and Ottawa, while his son David videotaped the affair.

Michael Bennett gave a warm, meaningful toast to his parents, which Fred responded to.

Fred and Mary Bennett

Mayor Egon Tobus and his wife Marie attended the tea. Out-of-town visitors were Mary's sister, Elsie Blair from Vancouver, niece Joyce Martin and her husband George from Idaho, Elda Mason from Nanaimo, Fred's cousin Edith and her husband, Joe Zenyk from Vancouver, Betty Waters from North Vancouver and Jim and Peg Phillips from Surrey. Many congratulatory cards from friends across Canada and friends and relations who could not attend, were opened and their messages shared. The head table was centered with a beautiful anniversary cake, garden floral arrangement and an arrangement from Mayor Tobus and the Council. A lovely Memory Book of white satin and lace was presented to Fred and Mary, which was made by their daughter-in-law, Carol Bennett.

Husband and wife graduate from U.B.C.

At the graduation ceremonies, Christine had the honour of giving the Valedictorian address.

The Van der Rees are moving to Victoria, where Farrell will be employed as a civil engineer.

Woodfibre 1987: A striking mixture of early to mid-1900s and late 1980s technology. "I'd give it about a nine-and-a-half out of ten for efficiency," said Woodfibre Mill Superintendent Vern Johnson.

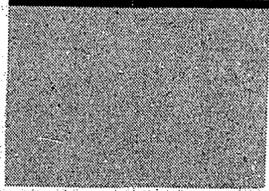

The Continuous Kamyrr Digester. Senior Kamyrr Operator, Robert McKone, explained that the digester takes in wood chips and liquor (a mixture of water and lye) at the top, passes them through a series of screens, cooks them at 310°F, and produces brownstock pulp and black liquor. The Kamyrr can produce 600 tons of pulp a day at peak production, McKone said.

Rebels, Roadrunners poised for re-match

Since day one of the creation of the Squamish Ball Hockey League some four years ago it has been quite obvious which two teams stood out as the strongest.

Season after season the predictable has happened with the Highlander Rebels and the Roadrunners facing off in the finals and this year seems to be no exception as the arch-rivals are both one win away from securing another crack at each other.

Thursday night, which opened the best out of three semi-finals on two fronts, merely strengthened that thought as the Rebels trounced the under-manned Burger Baron 16-3 while Merv Foote's Men's Wear found themselves with a short bench and thus on the wrong end of an 11-2 courtesy of the Roadrunners.

In the former match the Rebs opened up on an 8-0 first half lead and increased that margin to ten before the Baron's Jeff Stewart finally beat Steve Bruun. Just over one minute later Dave Perault and Daryl Hedin closed the gap to 10-3 but it was still the width of a gorge especially in light of the Highlander fire power which, after its breather, quickly got back on track with Dan Ellis leading the way with the hat trick and a pair of assists.

Pat Crowther also notched a five point night, two of them goals, while Dan Townsend, Kevin Pederson, Norm Cyrene, and Dave Sweeney notched pairs each and Rick Rosser, Myles Rosser and Geoff Furniss adding singles.

Not to be outdone the Roadrunners tried to outdo the Rebels performance in the former's battle against Merv Foote's. And they came close, surging into a 7-0 half-time advantage and never looking back as Rob Confortin led with a goal and five assists followed by a hat trick, for a five point game, from Bob Mahnger.

Gary Trento and Keith Downer each put two behind Murray Thrower while Parker Cook, Dan Merlo, and Ed Bachuk scored singles. For Merv's only Steve Vroom and Peter Vukonic found the net behind Richard Newman.

Game two for both series are tonight at 7:30 p.m. and if all goes to form the best out of five finals could start as early as Thursday.

Youth program fosters cultural understanding

Youngsters between the ages of 12 and 18 have the opportunity of take part in a unique summer recreational program which is designed to bring together native and non-native youth to help them discover the world within themselves, the cultural worlds between them, and the wonders of the natural world around them.

The Stein Rediscovery program, a charitable organization supported by both private and public agencies, conducts a series of two-week wilderness adventures for young people in the Stein River Valley, about 50 miles from Whistler.

The program was established to develop intercultural communication, education, and appreciation of wilderness heritage, and is modelled after the highly successful Rediscovery program which has been operating for the past eight years on the Queen Charlotte Islands, bringing together hundreds of Haida and non-native youth to learn about the Haida heritage.

Presiding over the program locally is a Board comprised of six members, one native and one non-native, from the three communities of Lytton, Lillooet, and Mt. Currie.

This summer, 80 youngsters will take part in the program, which is in its second summer of operation. There are five sessions between July 2 and Sept. 4, with two nine-day sessions for young teens and three two-week sessions for older teens. Participants pay a camp fee of $9 a day, and all food, transportation, and equipment are provided.

During each session, local elders, along with camp staff, offer a variety of activities, including survival skills, food foraging, traditional crafts, nature appreciation, and sports. This year, campers will also help in the construction of a traditional pithouse.

Many of the activities are based on traditional native practices, with the Stein Valley itself the location of puberty training and spiritual questing.

Perhaps the most important activity the campers take part in is the solo, or "vision quest", a traditional rite of passage on the North American continent for the past 20,000 years, where participants undertake a 24-hour period of voluntary solitude.

Along with the summer youth program, an adult session is being considered for early September, and interested individuals should contact the Stein Rediscovery Trust, Box 195, Lytton, B.C. V0K 1Z0.

Local athlete awarded trophy

Local athlete Danny Forman, member of the Squamish Harriers, was awarded a soapstone carving for Most Outstanding Jumper at a track meet held recently in Langley.

Forman's high jump was just 1 cm off the meet record, placing him fourth in B.C. in his age group. Other Squamish Harriers performed well in the meet, bringing home 13 medals.

Personal bests were achieved by Jamie Cudmore and Shaun Lawrence in shotput, and by Forman, Lawrence, and Kevin Barr in the 200 m.

School patrollers celebrate year-end

Some 86 student school cross-walk patrollers from Brackendale, Squamish, Stawamus and Valleycliffe Elementary schools, accompanied by nine teachers and parent chaperones, as well as Constables Van Tassel and Meward, were treated to a Vancouver trip June 12.

The group visited the H.R. MacMillan Planetarium and Conservatory and later, were served a lunch, compliments of MacDonald's Restaurant.

This successful trip was organized to reward the school patrollers for a job well done. During the 1986-87 school year, there were no pedestrian accidents at school crosswalks manned by patrollers.

The rally was made possible by Howe Sound School District No. 48, the Squamish RCMP, and the Squamish Lions Club, who sponsor the School Crosswalk patrol.

A trip to the H.R. MacMillan Planetarium and Conservatory was given these students, who are cross walk patrollers at schools in Squamish.
