VOL. 33 NO. 44 47 CIRCULATION 3600 TUESDAY NOVEMBER 24, 1987

By Sandy Paterson

There was glorious Squamish sunshine and boundless enthusiasm at Valleycliffe Elementary's Nov. 17 simulation of the Olympic torch relay.

Flag waving students gathered outside, and the school choir led the singing of O Canada.

Provincial and territorial pennants marked the playground to create a map of Canada. Toques were presented, courtesy of Wayne Braun from the Squamish Shell station, to the children who were selected to be the official torch runners.

At the torch lighting ceremony the torch was "lit" from the "Olympic" flame. Each class paraded to their designated province where they cheered ecstatically as the torch passed by. As the torch reached Calgary the entire student body congregated to give a final cheer.

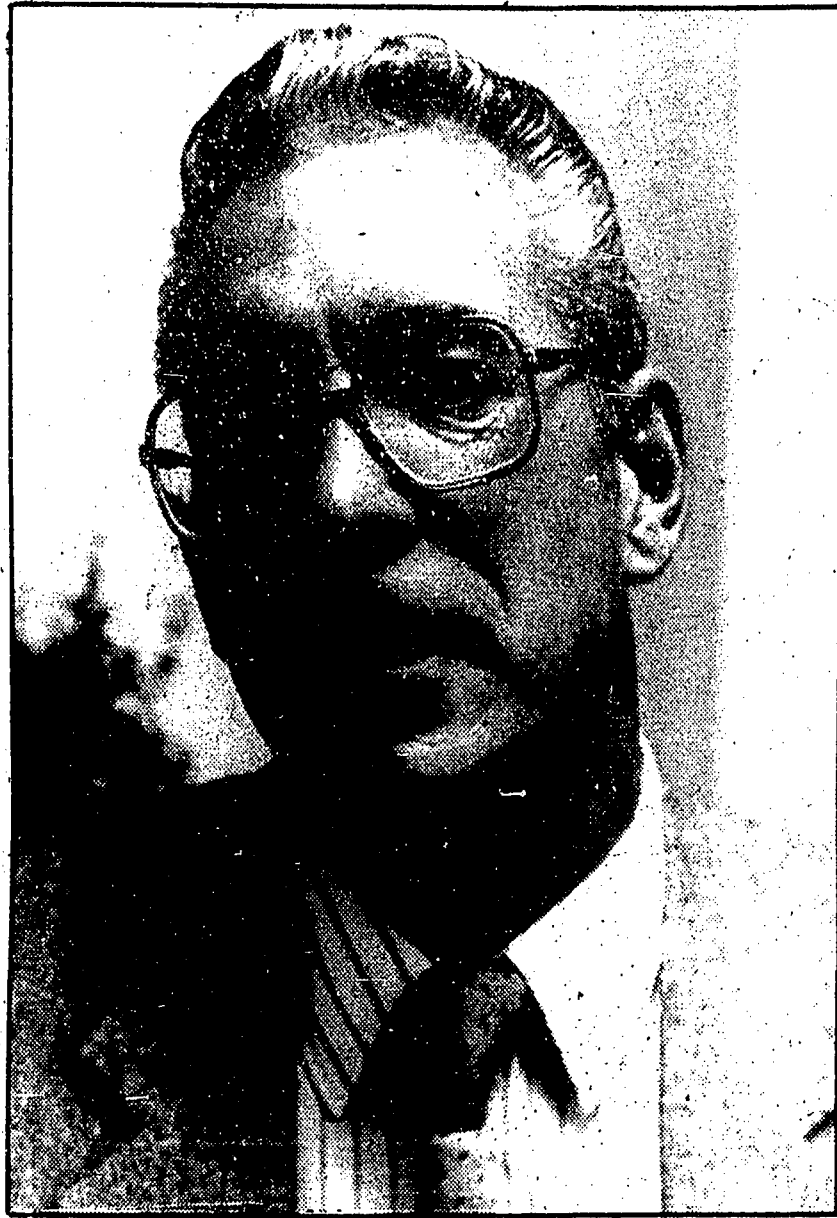

Valleycliffe students were encouraged to learn more about the geography of their country as the torch travels 18,000 km across Canada.

Student torch carriers at Valleycliffe Elementary School pose after a Nov. 14 simulation of the olympic torch relay. About 230 kids took part in the exercise, School Librarian Sandy Paterson said.

Patterson and pool out, voters say

Two new faces will join aldermanic incumbent Ron Barr on Squamish council this year, as a result of the municipal election held Nov. 21 in Squamish.

Newcomers Brian Giles, a realtor, and Lynn Wilbur, maintenance supervisor for the school district, along with incumbent Barr, were chosen by voters from among a total of nine aldermanic candidates in this civic election.

For Barr, an accountant for Squamish Terminals, this election victory marks the start of his fifth consecutive term on council as alderman.

Barr led the pack, picking up a total of 1,524 votes, with Giles coming in second with 1,016 votes and Wilbur netting 867 votes, narrowly beating fourth and fifth place finishers Bill Featherston, with 846 votes, and Bob Splinter with 838 votes.

Coming in sixth place with 705 votes was incumbent Robert Ewacha; seventh place went to Marie Atkin with 458 votes, incumbent Terrill Patterson picked up 420 votes and eighth position, and finally, Debby Forsyth rounded out the list with 222 votes.

In the school board trustee race, Robert McCormick, a millwright who served on the board from 1974 to 1977 for two terms, easily beat out rival candidate Terrill Patterson. McCormick picked up a total of 1,950 votes, with Patterson taking 493 votes.

Squamish voters also voted overwhelmingly against the leisure pool proposal, with a total of 1,517 voting no to the proposal that the Regional District take on the pool as a function of the regional district. Some 933 voters marked their ballots in favor of the pool plan.

Brackendale subdivision gets nod

A proposal to subdivide a parcel of land in Brackendale, south of Bracken Park, and change its zoning to Rural I from its present Rural II, got a nod from council to proceed following a public hearing held Nov. 17 in the municipal hall.

Several area residents turned up at the hearing to question landowner Bruce Kehler who, along with the Clausen family, intends to subdivide the land into five lots to accommodate five single dwelling homes.

They have made application to have the Official Community Plan and the zoning by-law amended to accommodate the proposed subdivision. The Rural I zoning will allow the land to be subdivided into parcels of two acres; whereas the Rural II zoning stipulated that land holdings must be 10 acres or more. Land usage as outlined in the zoning by-law will remain the same under the Rural I zoning.

Foremost on the mind of at least one neighboring resident who attended the public hearing was the likelihood of livestock wandering onto neighboring properties from the subdivision, which will allow for such farm animals.

"We live right cheek-by-jowl to them, and their chickens can come right onto our property," said one resident. "We've got to have protection," added the resident, who proposed the developer maintain a "green belt" between the subdivision and area properties, "or we're going to have chicken every Sunday."

Residents were informed that although the zoning allows for such livestock, it states that the animals must not "create a nuisance" to neighbors.

Concern was also voiced over the effect of the proposed subdivision on wildlife in the area, particularly herons.

Kehler said the intention was to build single family homes on the two-acre lots which, he believed, would not encroach on area wildlife. He said he has already talked to local residents to determine where the heron nests are located in an effort to avoid disturbing them. Kehler also responded to concern voiced over drainage in the subdivision by saying that he plans to meet with the Works and Services Committee to address that matter. He added that the proposal must also be approved by the Ministry of Environment before it can proceed.

Clerk Bill Bloxham confirmed the Ministry of Environment's involvement in the matter, and added the Ministry has indicated that Rural I is the best zoning for land usage in the area.

The RED BALLOON HIGHLANDS MALL

The B.C. Lions Society may have to cough up even more money to cover property taxes on its Easter Seal Camp for handicapped children, if Alderman Terrill Patterson has his way. Patterson urged council at the Nov. 17 meeting to abandon its plans to assist the Society in lobbying the provincial government for tax exemption, in light of his recent discovery that the Society is claiming exemption on two separate parcels of property at the camp instead of one exemption on the entire property.

"They're getting double what they're supposed to have," Patterson told council.

"We will not pay their taxes for them. They will pay the right amount of taxes."

The Society this year has been notified to pay some $1,700 in property taxes, which, it said, is the first tax assessment of its kind on Society-owned property in 40 years.

Council decided to go ahead with the tax assessment after Patterson discovered a section in the Municipal Act which stated that tax exemption on property belonging to charities and other organizations can only apply to two hectares; remaining properties must be taxed.

But according to Patterson, the Society has divided its camp into two parcels, thereby claiming tax exemption on two acres on each of the parcels.

"This way, they can subdivide their property into five lots and pay nothing," Patterson said.

Treasurer Charlie Schilberg said the Society is able to claim the exemption, and that the tax assessment was applied in accordance with the Assessment Act.

"I have no authority to do otherwise," Schilberg told council. Other members of council expressed reluctance to pursue additional taxation of the camp.

"I feel uncomfortable with it," Alderman Ron Barr said, adding that council should sit down with the B.C. Lions Society before taking any further action in the matter.

Meanwhile, after being turned down by council in its request for a grant from the District to cover the taxes, the Society recently announced an increase in its Easter Seal Pool rental fee to the municipality to $40, up from $25.

In response to the increase, council has directed the Parks and Recreation Commission to review the municipality's lease of the pool to determine whether or not to continue to use that facility.

Patterson pans Xmas party

Squamish council has a new addition to its ranks: Scrooge.

For the third year running, Alderman Terrill Patterson voted against a motion of council to contribute funds towards the annual municipal "Christmas Party" for staff, council and invited guests.

Patterson called the annual get-together "a full day wasted by the bureaucracy which could be spent doing something worthwhile", and voted against the motion to contribute $300 to the party.

"If this is indeed a 'council' party, you should wait and see if the new council wants to waste money," Patterson added.

Centennial weekend planned for May

The Squamish Centennial Committee has set aside the May 24th weekend as the Centennial Weekend, with tentative plans for a big birthday bash, inviting former residents back to Squamish, a parade, a May Day ceremony, and a Victorian High Tea.

The pavilion at Squamish Junction is being considered as the site of these events.

Meanwhile, the Committee is laying plans for celebrations throughout 1988 to mark the centennial of the founding of Squamish.

Plans for other events will be outlined as they are developed.

Tree thinning in watershed poses concern

Members of Squamish council and administration voiced concern at the Nov. 17 meeting over plans by the Ministry of Forests and Lands to conduct a juvenile spacing program in the Stawamus watershed, citing such threats to the water supply as spilled diesel fuel and litter.

"I'm very nervous about my watershed," Works Superintendent John Payne said.

"We don't want any activity in there."

Added Mayor Egon Tobus: "We are very much concerned about it. It is our life."

Representatives of the Ministry appeared before council to address the Ministry's intention to conduct a juvenile spacing program, a silvicultural treatment of removing immature trees to allow remaining trees to grow to a large uniform size, in the Stawamus River drainage, Squamish's watershed and source of water supply.

According to Don Sluggett, district manager of the Squamish Forest Service, the program will reduce the density of young coniferous trees on the project areas from 3,000 to 4,000 stems per hectare, to council, adding that a "young, thrifty stand" holds 600 stems per hectare. Sluggett said some 30 hectares of immature stands in the Stawamus River drainage have been earmarked for treatment this winter.

"Spacing will leave the stands in a condition where the remaining trees will grow to a large, uniform size, fully occupying the site," Sluggett said.

Members of council expressed concern over the potential impacts of the program on the water supply.

In response to a question from Alderman Ron Barr over the clean-up of the operation and the potential for flow problems in the river, Sluggett said contracts with firms involved stipulate conditions with respect to litter and acceptable performance.

The work, Sluggett said, will be done by six to eight men over a period of one to two months using only chainsaws and pickup trucks. He added that in an effort to protect water quality, the treatment area boundaries are located no closer to the Stawamus River than 50 metres, and small streams and roadside ditches will be kept clear of all slash.

Responding to a question from Alderman Chuck Harvey over plans for fertilization of the area, Sluggett said there are no plans for fertilization and, given the low elevation and close proximity to the river, it is unlikely that fertilization would be considered in the future.

Harvey also expressed concern that the thinning program would eventually increase the logging potential of the area.

"We consider that our watershed and we don't want any logging in that watershed."

"We hope it will remain untouched. You're looking at it as a renewable resource for logging and we're looking at it as our watershed."

But according to Sluggett, only about 13 percent of the watershed has had logging activity on it; the remaining 87 percent is in its natural state.

"There are very few watersheds in B.C. that aren't logged," Sluggett pointed out in there, somebody has been." Alderman Robert Ewacha expressed further concern over the potential for diesel contaminating the water supply, citing a recent incident where a logging truck overturned spilling its fuel into the river.

Despite council's concerns, Sluggett stressed the necessity of the program. "We feel we are managing the area to accommodate the needs of the municipality."

Scott Crescent re-opens

What started as a simple request for road repair ended up in the closing of the road altogether, much to the wrath of local residents and users of Scott Crescent who, armed with a petition containing 87 names, managed to persuade council to re-open the road.

Council voted Nov. 17 to rescind a motion made back in September to close Scott Crescent from the intersection of Clarke Drive and Scott Crescent to a point adjacent to the Howe Sound Motel.

Along with council's rescinding motion came a barrage of apologies from members.

"All I can do is apologize," Mayor Egon Tobus told the crowd of area residents who attended the meeting.

"I have great difficulty understanding how, when it was a request for repair, it was blocked off."

"Governments sometimes work in mysterious ways."

Alderman Ron Barr, chairman of the Works and Services Committee who made the recommendation to council to close the road, also extended his apologies to the residents, saying he was "led down the garden path".

"It was a mistake on my part based on information I received."

Council originally voted to close the road after receiving a letter from an area resident requesting repair work to the broken pavement on Scott Crescent. A gate was positioned to block off the road.

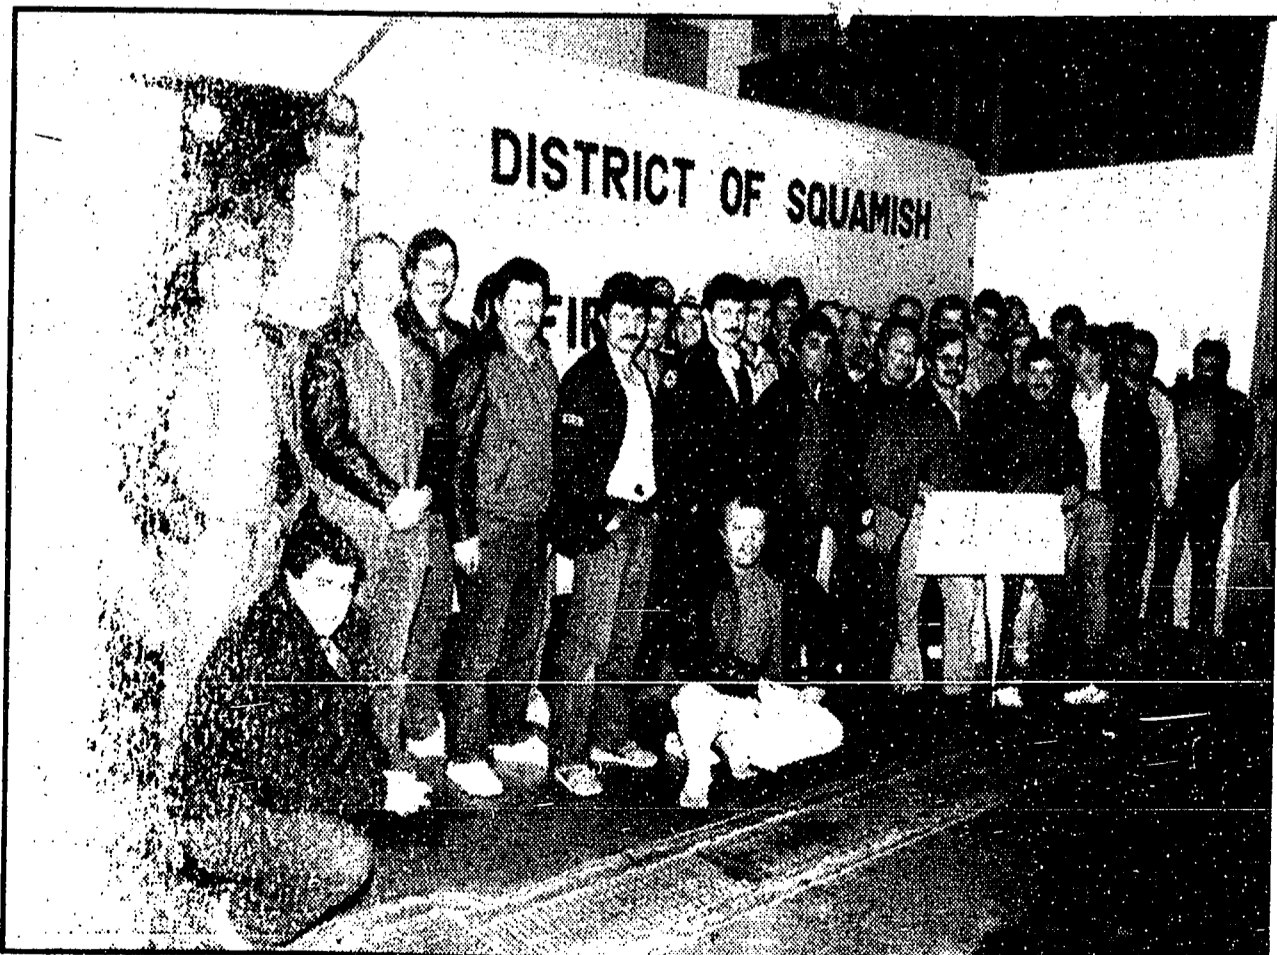

Since that time, according to Clerk Bill Bloxham, several trees along the road have been cut, presumably for firewood, with debris left behind.

The closing of the road infuriated local residents, who saw Scott Crescent as a convenient alternate route to Valleycliffe. The road closure also resulted in the "landlocking" of one of the area properties, whose legal access is off Scott Crescent.

And according to Bloxham, council's authority is "limited" when it comes to closing roads, as such authority is derived from both the Municipal Act and the Motor Vehicle Act.

The RCMP were also solicited for their opinion in the matter and, according to Bloxham, stated a preference to have the road remain open to divert traffic in the event of a motor vehicle accident resulting in the closing of the highway.

Scott Crescent was part of the original highway between Squamish and Britannia before Highway 99 was constructed.

No wonder kids want to grow up to be firemen. Members of the Squamish Firefighters Association pose with fundraiser Uffe Hansen, and Fire Chief Pat Hampson. The firefighters donated more than $11,000 to the hospital board Nov. 14 to pay for extras (TVs, additional beds and table and chair sets) in the pediatric wing of the new hospital.

Should the Lion's Club be taxed in accordance with the Municipal Act, or should it be exempt from taxes?

Brian Cheal:
"If the by-law states that they are required to pay taxes, they have to be taxed. It's the by-law that should be examined."

A proposal

Dear Editor:

Are minimum-wage employers heartless, inconsiderate, unthinking exploiters?

Do they ever pause to wonder how their employees can afford non-luxury items like food, clothing and shelter? Sure, some workers are students, living at home, but even they cannot build up much savings to be used for extra education. Often too, these unfortunate workers are kept on a part-time basis so no benefits need to be provided.

Some minimum-wage companies spend millions on advertising and good public relations, social programs, while depriving their workers of a living wage!

Do union bosses, who often claim that they represent THE workers of B.C., ever consider the plight of these workers? Or are they too busy protecting their power base with the fat-cat union workers?

Couldn't these rich unions (out of charity) set up a committee and a hot line to assist the minimum-wage workers and ensure that their employers at least comply with federal and provincial labor laws? Surely they realize that government bureaucrats are as ineffective in protecting workers, as they are in delivering the mail or in any other government initiatives.

Jack J. Helmers

Dear Editor:

Without knocking Gary Hendrickson's 40th birthday I would like to know how they can justify a full two page layout about his birthday party when the sports section is allowed just one page at the most.

People sponsoring sports teams are getting a little upset with not seeing their teams' names in the paper. It seems to me this paper is run by advertisements. Without these sponsors' ads in the paper there would be no paper.

I've been approached by teams and sponsors who wish a bit more sports or they will pull their ads. It is the wish of myself and others in the sports community to see in this paper more of sports in the paper and less gossip.

Christmas Spirit

Bah humbug to Alderman Terrill "Scrooge" Patterson who, in his incessant pursuit to banish unnecessary expenditure of public monies, voted once again against the annual municipal staff party.

For a measly $300, party-goers, who include staff and council members, get a little music, some tasty tidbits, and a chance to join in the celebration of the festive season with fellow co-workers. In return, council and administration get a well-fed, morale-boosted staff and a chance to bestow a little goodwill on a group of workers who may otherwise go unrecognized.

A waste of public money? Maybe. But then the same might be said about Christmas trees, wreaths, tinsel, gingerbread men, cranberry sauce, sleighrides and houselights.

Ditto, Patterson, for that second bit of cheer aimed at the B.C. Lions Society For Crippled Children, in the form of a demand for re-evaluation of the Society's taxation assessment.

You won, the Society pays. Is it really necessary to run them further aground? Show a little Christmas cheer. After all, 'tis the season to be merry.

It must have been 30 years ago when I first saw "South Pacific" at the Theatre Under The Stars. Beth was with me and I remember we were both impressed with the young singer who sang the role of Lieut. Cable. It was Bob Goulet. So you can imagine what a thrill it was to see it again when the touring company visited Vancouver.

In the intervening years, I had seen the movie and loved it. The story is rather thin, but aren't all musical comedy stories just something to hang the songs on? It was quite a departure too, to have the main male interest an older man, and I can remember a friend of mine saying when Ezio Pinza sang the role of Emile de Becque in the Broadway musical, he did more for males over 50 than anyone else in history. The fact that he won the affections of the young nurse seemed to do something for the male ego.

Robert Goulet was just as impressive in the role of the planter as he had been years ago, and his voice was as powerful as ever. When he sang "Some Enchanted Evening" and "This Nearly Was Mine", it was just as compelling as it had been when the famous operatic basso sang it years ago.

Some city commentators had referred to the musical comedy as dated. Of course it was dated. Anything set in the South Pacific islands during the last World War is dated. That's the same as saying "The Merry Widow" was dated. They have to be if they reflect the era in which they were produced or the time when the story occurred.

The musical is composed of a series of vignettes set on an island in the South Pacific, and the flimsy tales are the thread which hold the the well-known tunes together.

Basically, it is the story of a young American nurse who falls in love with a middle-aged French planter who has lived on the island for years and who has two half-caste children. In the armed camp on the island are sailors, seabees and marines, and they are led by an engaging rogue, Luther Billis, who has cornered the souvenir market and who wants to get over the sea to Bali Hai to secure some boar's teeth used in religious ceremonies.

But he has problems. The island is off-limits to enlisted personnel because the French have sent all their young women there to keep them from the G.I.s. Also on the island is Liat, the beautiful young daughter of Bloody Mary, a local Tonkinese woman who is also in the souvenir business.

Lieut. Joseph Cable, a young Marine officer, enters the scene. He has been assigned to the duty of persuading de Becque, who knows the islands well, to go with him to an island, watch for Japanese ships, and send the information back to headquarters. De Becque refuses because he is in love with Nellie, the nurse, and doesn't want to risk losing her. But without him there is no mission.

Meanwhile Cable, who is an officer, visits Bali Hai and falls in love with Liat. But, trapped by his prejudices, he is unable to face marrying a girl of another race.

Meanwhile, Nellie discovers that de Becque has two children from his first marriage to a Polynesian woman and her prejudices prevent her from marrying him. After her refusal, de Becque joins Cable in his mission and, after an initial success, they are detected and Cable is killed. Realizing that she may have lost her love, Nellie faces the fact that her prejudices are minimal and she returns to his house and his children where he finds them on his return.

But this is the story that ties together such songs as those already mentioned, as well as "Younger Than Springtime", sung by Cable to Liat, and the powerful anti-prejudice "You've Got To Be Carefully Taught."

The scenes with the seabees and the sailors are amusing and add a light touch to the story. They also introduce some vigorous athletic dancing and some beautiful voices. There is the famous hair-washing scene, where Nellie tries to "Wash That Man Right Out Of My Hair", and songs featuring Bloody Mary.

The scenes were beautiful. The backdrop of the ocean, palms, and the mystical outline of Bali Hai floating on the ocean, evoked the beauty of the South Pacific and the leisurely life of the Polynesians.

The singing was excellent. Goulet, as advertised, was the star, and while he lived up to his billing, there was more to the production than just him. He brought a comfortable worldliness to his role as Emile de Becque, the expatriate plantation owner who falls in love with the young nurse. His voice is still clear and powerful, and he brings a human quality to what could essentially be a static role.

Amy Jo Phillips sang the role of Bloody Mary and was an engaging rascal, while Paul Keith played Luther Billis, the conniving seabee. They provided comic relief.

If there was any criticism it was that Rebecca Andrew as Nellie was just too cutesy and kittenish for the part. You wondered how she ever managed to achieve the responsibility of being a navy nurse, she was just so flighty.

And there could have been a reprise at the end of the play with just another few lines from Goulet about "Some Enchanted Evening."

But it was a feast for the senses, and if it was dated perhaps we could do with a bit more of that dating, when despite the fact that the world was at war, it seemed to be much more innocent than it is today.

Longtime Squamish residents sought

Have you lived in Squamish for 60 years? Or does it just seem that you have?

But, seriously, the Squamish Centennial Committee is looking for the names of people who have lived in the Squamish Valley, including the Cheakamus and Upper Squamish, for 60 years, so they can be specially honored during Centennial Year.

Some names which come to mind immediately include Mildred MacDonald and Evelyn Smith. Myrtle Hemdl was away for awhile, but must have lived here for 60 years, and Laurie Midnight could probably fit in the same category.

Others who come to mind are: Bob Armstrong, whose great-grandparents, the Robertsons, were the original settlers; his wife Hazel; John Downer, Ruth Wilson (Downer), C.F. McKinnon, Ivo and Lil Confortin, Leo and Irene Davis, Marge Keyes, Vi Binning, Cy Marchant, Harvey, John, Jim and Marshall Hurren, Jo and Owen Reeves, Mavis Butterworth, Sylvia Buchanan, and Fern Green.

There must have been others on the list. If you know of anyone who has lived here for 60 years or longer, please contact the Chamber of Commerce at 892-9244 or Rose Tatlow at 892-3993.

LEGAL TIPS

The feature is published through the sponsorship of Paul, Race and Stacey, Barristers and Solicitors

Fighting a Wrongful Dismissal By the Law Society of B.C.

Have you been fired unjustly? If you are a non-union employee you should know what recourse you have if you believe you have been wrongfully dismissed.

You can be "dismissed" from your job in several ways. The obvious example is when you are actually fired, but there is also constructive dismissal.

It would amount to constructive dismissal if you were (a) demoted without your consent, (b) given a less prestigious position because of corporate re-organization, (c) ordered to move to a different job location which was not part of the agreement, (d) subject to a salary reduction or a change in your job condition to encourage you to quit.

Keep in mind that if you are dismissed for just cause you are entitled to nothing. Examples of just cause are stealing, punching the boss, being unqualified for the job, willful disobedience on important matters, or being generally incompetent.

Just cause does not include corporate reorganization, a personality conflict with the boss, or looking for another job (so long as you divulge your job search to the boss).

If you are wrongfully dismissed, you are entitled to damages. How much you will get depends upon a number of factors. The court will consider your age, the length of employment, your qualifications and experience, and the likelihood of your finding other suitable employment. With long-term employees the court could give from nine to 18 months salary.

If you feel that you have been wrongfully dismissed, there are things you can do to protect your cause of action. Do not accept your transfer or demotion of not justified. Do not accept money from your boss in settlement.

If you are fired, look for a job immediately and keep notes of where you looked. You must try to minimize your losses. If you do nothing to find a new job, the court may not give you any damages or, at least, may severely limit the amount.

If you feel you have a cause of action, see a lawyer immediately.

Paper-hangers top merchant hit list

John Van Tassel

certain that the concerns of local businesses will again centre on fraud, he said the RCMP will include a questionnaire in the December issue of the Chamber Bulletin to determine "the perceived threat." This will be correlated to the actual crime statistics for the area to form a more accurate picture of the enforcement and prevention measures necessary.

"The security expense has to be in line with what you're protecting," Van Tassel concluded.

The two crimes that local merchants are most concerned about are fraud and NSF (non-sufficient funds) cheques. Cst. John Van Tassel, crime prevention co-ordinator for the Squamish detachment of the RCMP, told the Chamber of Commerce Nov. 17.

Van Tassel said more than 125 merchants turned out to a business crime prevention seminar he conducted last year, and it soon became apparent that "paper-hangers" (people who pass bad cheques) were their main concern.

But he added: "We have several crimes in the community that directly affect merchants."

These crimes include shoplifting, fraud, theft, break and enter, and vandalism, he said. And in order to protect itself, a business must employ "target hardening techniques."

"The merchant has got to go through (his) building as a criminal would," Van Tassel said.

The RCMP have developed a number of pamphlets addressing various aspects of target hardening and compiled them in a robbery prevention kit, he said. The kit is given to merchants at the seminar and is available to the public at events such as the Trade Fair or throughout the year from the detachment office.

Other programs target specific crimes such as "Taking Aim against Vandalism", which is directed at businesses and schools.

"A large majority of the vandalism in Squamish is (done by) kids. We go out and target the kids, we let them know what a mischief (charge) is, and we let them know what effects it could have in their lives now and later."

Van Tassel said most of the vandalism done by kids is directed at schools.

Another program involves a security survey done by a member of the local detachment on request of the business. Points from cash handling to door and window security are examined, and a four-page analysis is produced. The business owner receives a copy of the recommendations, and another copy is filed at the local detachment.

"It's not a catch-all, and it's not a guarantee, but it will certainly reduce the opportunity for crime."

Van Tassel said he also hopes to introduce a program locally that he found effective in his last posting.

The "fan-out procedure" is a telephone network that allows the RCMP to communicate specific information about criminals (like paper-hangers) or crimes to an entire community in a short period of time. The police would call one designated business and that business would, in turn, phone another until all had been informed. The last on the list returns a call to the RCMP, who then know that all have received the information.

"It's a good system; we used it up north when I was there."

Van Tassel said he has not yet set a date, but there will be a 1988 business crime prevention seminar in the early spring.

New charter coach service

A new Squamish-based charter coach service available Dec. 1 will take you anywhere you want to go within a 100-mile radius of town, Alpine Adventure Tours Manager Doug Banner says.

Alpine applied to the motor carrier commission for a limited charter licence, and letters in support of the licence application were sent by local groups, including the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Kinsmen, and the Highlander Hotel, he says.

A 45-passenger six cylinder diesel GMC transit coach was purchased for the service.

Restrictions on the limited charter licence beyond the 100-mile limit are that the bus must be rented to one person, and an hourly rate as opposed to individual fares be charged, Banner explains. For this reason he expects most of the business to come from organized groups such as highschool students, construction workers, and pensioners who need transportation to Whistler or Vancouver.

One month's work has already been booked, he says.

The main advantage of the new service, Banner says, is the bus is actually based in Squamish.

"There's been no bus based here before."

Rates will be $60 for the first hour, and $45 per hour for the 45-passenger bus, $40 per hour for the 25-passenger bus, with a one-and-a-half hour minimum for both.

The service will be based out of the Alpine Adventure Tours/Air Alps office at the Squamish airport.

For more information phone 898-9016.

Alpine Adventure Tours Manager Doug Banner, and Coach Operator Andy DeBoer aboard the company's new charter coach. The bus will be available for charters within a 100-mile radius of Squamish as of Dec. 1. Banner said his is the first local charter service with a bus based in Squamish.

Watch where you cut that Christmas tree

Cutting Christmas trees for personal use within the Squamish Forest District is restricted to B.C. Hydro transmission line rights-of-way over Crown land (except those areas posted), or on private land with the owner's consent.

A permit is not required to cut and transport one tree per family.

The B.C. Forest Service will be monitoring this activity to ensure the set guidelines are followed.

Cap celebrates College Week

Thank You

The Clarke family wish to express appreciation for all the cards, flowers, donations, love & support given in the recent bereavement. Hank will be missed by all, as he was loved by all. Special thanks to Dr. Lam & hospital staff for their understanding & care given.

Capilano College in Squamish will be among the many colleges and technical institutes across Canada celebrating the second annual College Week '87 Nov. 23 to 29.

During College Week, coordinated by the Association of Canadian Community Colleges (ACCC), a non-profit organization providing research, information and liaison services for and about the college community, local colleges and institutes will be attempting to generate public awareness.

This year's theme is "Our Colleges...Building Community from Coast to Coast", and the ACCC is hoping to highlight and celebrate the "tremendous social, economic and cultural impact of colleges on the communities they serve," according to Yves Sanssouci, president.

Locally, representatives of Capilano College say the college is "proud to have been a member of the Squamish community for the past 14 years", and looks forward to many more successful years meeting the post-secondary educational needs of the community.

Over the years, Capilano College in Squamish has offered a variety of credit courses in Art, English, Psychology, Philosophy, Religious Studies, Fine Arts, Geography, Math, French, Sociology, Anthropology, and History.

The college's credit career and vocational programs have included: Long Term Care Aide, Business Office Training, Accounting, Small Business Management, Canadian Business Law, Marketing, Personnel Management, Taxation and Introduction to Business.

In addition, Adult Basic Upgrading courses have been offered since 1976, as well as a wide array of non-credit courses and workshops.

The college also offers, free to the community, the services of the library, counselling centre, and achievement resource centre.

New campus opens in Sechelt

The new Sechelt campus of Capilano College was officially opened Oct. 16 by Stan Hagen, Minister of Advanced Education and Training, who presided over the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

The new 6,300 sq. ft. building is only slightly larger than the leased space it replaces, but a flexible design by Sunshine Coast architect Kevin Ryan will allow for some increase in the programs and services that the College can provide.

Following the opening ceremonies, the Sechelt campus hosted an open house, which was attended by about 200 people.

Hilda Rizun, chairman of the Capilano College Board, said she was pleased by the turnout.

"I am delighted with the enthusiasm and support that have been shown by the community on the Sunshine Coast," Rizun said.

Capilano College, which maintains a campus in Squamish, has been offering programs on the Sunshine Coast since 1977 and has had an office there since 1980. Approximately 500 students take courses through the Sechelt campus, not including additional students enrolled in programs offered through the College's Aquaculture Centre, or people using the services of the Small Business Development Centre.

Locals compete for top billing

A smokey room, an under-sized stage, and a capacity crowd of inebriated patrons — the venue in which many of today's top bands cut their teeth.

And thanks to Holly Wood and Mario (The Producer) Iacovone, more than 20 local vocalists will get a small taste of the big time in a shot at stardom Iacovone's calling. "So You Want to Sing."

"There's lots of good talent here in Squamish."

Contestants choose their own material and belt it out accompanied by either pre-recorded tapes, or Holly Wood and The Producer.

"We try to get them into the studio for a day to rehearse before the contest," Iacovone said.

The contest has generated a tremendous amount of interest, he said, pointing toward the standing-room-only pub.

"A lot of it is people (contestants) bringing their friends, but this place is never this busy on a Sunday night."

The winner of the first (Nov. 15) elimination round was 13-year-old Jennifer Bugermeister singing the Madonna hit "Laisla Bonita." Jennifer will advance to the Grand Final Dec. 13 and compete for a cash prize of $200, Iacovone said.

Second-place finishers were Lavon Garrett singing "The Rose," and Mosese Vatuloka with Iggy Pop's "Wild One." Scott Olson sang "Hound Dog," and Jeff Cyr performed The Eagles' hit "Take it Easy." Iacovone said winners are determined by audience response.

The contest will continue every Sunday at 8:45 p.m. in the Squamish Hotel Pub until the Dec. 13 Grand Final.

"It's good entertainment," Iacovone said.

Tourism program for women planned

A full-time, eight-month tourism management program for women is being planned by Capilano College, provided there is sufficient interest and need.

The program would be funded by the Canada Employment and Immigration Centre (CEIC) and would be open to women who have been away from the work force for three years or more and who have been primarily engaged in full-time homemaking activities.

Classes would be held in Squamish, but participants would have to travel to Whistler or Vancouver for the on-the-job training component. While in the program, students will receive a small training allowance from the CEIC.

CEIC is prepared to fund this program for women in Squamish if there is sufficient interest. Anyone interested in taking this program, or obtaining further information, is urged to call 892-5322 between 12:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, before Nov. 27.

He's a wild one. So You Want to Sing contestant Mosese Vatuloka belts out his rendition of the latest Iggy Pop chart-topper for an enthusiastic crowd in the Squamish Hotel Pub Nov. 15. The contest will continue every Sunday until the Grand Final Dec. 13, Contest Organizer Mario Iacovone said.

Second-place finisher Lavon Garrett sings "The Rose" during a So You Want to Sing contest in the Squamish Hotel Pub Nov. 15. The contest will continue every Sunday until Dec. 13, and the Grand Final winner will receive $200, Organizer Mario Iacovone said.

When you make a purchase at any one of 17 local businesses between Nov. 23 and Dec. 5, you'll be given more than a smile with your change, according to Chamber of Commerce Merchant's Committee Chairman Norm Verner.

Participating merchants will be distributing Squamish "Dollars" totalling five per cent of the total price of your purchase of goods or services.

For example, if you make a $50 purchase, you'll be given $2.50 in Squamish "Dollars."

The dollars can be spent on an additional purchase in the same store, or can be used in any other participating store. The only restriction is that dollars can't be used as a price reduction on the purchase during which they are acquired, Verner says.

He says the main reason for circulation of the dollars is to give residents who do their Christmas shopping locally a break, and he hopes the dollars will "provide a shopping-mall effect" to spread business around.

Stores that would normally be in competition for business should end up sharing business, Verner says.

"If someone makes a purchase in Irlly Bird, he may go to Garibaldi Building Supplies to spend his Squamish Dollars."

He also hopes the dollars will encourage people to make additional purchases, or upgrade to purchases that they previously didn't think they could afford.

The dollars come in denominations of 5-, 10-, 25-, 50-cents, $1, and $5, and show the Jolly Fat Man on the front left side pointing to the value. The bold words Squamish "Dollars" are printed on the right. A list of participating merchants is printed on the reverse.

The dollars are printed in blue ink, Verner says, to make duplication difficult.

"If they're photocopied they turn black."

The dollars will only be distributed for two weeks, but they will be redeemable until Dec. 24.

Participating merchants are: Fashionality, Garibaldi Building Supplies, Irlly Bird, Marylyne's Salon of Beauty, Merv Foote's Men's Wear, Mountain View Jewellers, Needles and Pins, Road Runner Sporting Goods, Reflections 1-Hour Photo Finishing, Save On Furniture, Ships Gallery, Squamish Jewellers, Squamish Pet Food and Supply Store, Squamish Shoe Centre, The Pair Tree, and Workwear World.

Seaside Taxi and Aaron Cabs will accept the dollars as a discount on fare -- to encourage people to take a cab rather than drive -- but they will not be distributing them.

"It's nice that the merchants are getting together and trying to show their appreciation," Verner says.

CAR & CYCLE CARE

Include tire rotation in car care schedule

"LET IT snow," say the owners of front-wheel drive cars who can enjoy plowing through winter with ease.

The concentration of the engine and transmission's weight over the driving wheels greatly improves traction.

However, this feature does put a disproportionate load on the car's front tires, which not only steer and drive the car, but also carry extra braking burden plus most of the weight. Front tires may wear twice as fast as rear, which is why most manufacturers emphasize the importance of periodic tire rotation, (criss-crossing of tires), on front-wheel drive vehicles.

For optimum wear tires should be rotated about every 10,000 km to 13,000 km. Look for unusual tread wear patterns, sometimes signalled by a thumping sound or excessive tire noise on smooth roads.

Such conditions may have been caused by incorrect wheel alignment, worn suspension parts or incorrect inflation. Rotating tires will help, but may camouflage the real trouble which should be corrected in the interests, not only of longer tire wear, but safe steering control.

Recommended rotation pattern on front-wheel drive vehicles is to move the two front tires to the rear, same side, then the rear tires to the opposite sides on the front. The spare can be included in the rotation on cars with conventional spare tires.

If tires are wearing evenly, why not leave them be until the front, or driving, tires are worn out? There are two good reasons.

First, a car handles better when tire tread patterns are evenly worn. Also, if the tires are allowed to wear out at the same rate, the new set of tires at replacement time may be of upgraded technology, giving the car the benefit of improved ride and handing.

Further, it may be possible to buy a set of four more economically than two pairs at different times.

When rotating tires, be sure to check and adjust inflation. On some cars, there will be a difference between recommended inflation of front vs. rear. Also, if alignment and/or balancing has not been done in a year or so, this might be the most convenient time to do so.

Council ponders economic development proposal

Squamish council tabled a proposal put forward by Capilano College to join forces with Whistler, Pemberton and the Regional District in setting up an Economic Development Office for the Howe Sound Corridor.

Council will re-address the matter at the Dec. 8 meeting.

Council voted to table the proposal for further discussion in light of several concerns expressed by members over various aspects of the plan, as outlined by Alan Smith, Director of Planning for Capilano College.

Of primary concern among council members is the method of funding set up in the program, which will see the District of Squamish providing $5,000 and the Squamish Chamber of Commerce providing $5,000, plus office space and secretarial services, at a cost of $15,000. For their share, Whistler and Pemberton will be required to provide office space and secretarial services only. The provincial government is expected to match the local contributions with a $37,500 grant.

"It is proposed that Squamish put up the only actual cash support grants, the other areas providing solely services/space in kind," said the proposal.

The proposal said in return, Squamish, "which has the greatest need of any of the three municipalities (on a ratio of economic depression to population)", could claim one-half of the allotted time for services provided by the Economic Development Officer (EDO).

And that method of funding has members of council concerned.

"We're asked to put up two-thirds of the money and supplies and receive one-half the services of the officer. I think we're being robbed," Alderman Ron Barr said at the Nov. 17 meeting.

Added Alderman Corinne Lonsdale: "What happens in the future? Would we be responsible for wages (of the EDO) if the (provincial) grant is cut off? What happens two years down the road?"

Under the proposal, a steering committee comprised of representatives of Squamish, Whistler and Pemberton, and the Regional District (representing all the unincorporated areas), would be set up to hire, fund and oversee the EDO.

Fifty percent of the total funding of $75,000—or $37,500—would come from the provincial Ministry of Economic Development COED program, with the member communities making up the rest in "cash or kind."

An EDO has been identified as needed in the Howe Sound Corridor to develop a comprehensive strategy and economic action plan, implement it, and market it.

"There are ample economic opportunities for the Corridor, starting at the southwest gateway and largest population centre of Squamish (and Britannia), up through the successful world-class resort area of Whistler, to the beauties and tranquility of the Pemberton valley," the proposal said.

The EDO, the proposal stated, "will provide an excellent vehicle for a united front through which the communities can take the fullest advantage of the many current provincial and federal funding/support opportunities."

Alderman Garth McCreedy urged council to pass a motion to participate in the program.

"We have to take the initiative," McCreedy said. "It's an opportunity for us to take a little bit of our destiny in our own hands."

But at least one member of council appeared skeptical.

"The whole thing is a big crock," Alderman Robert Ewacha said.

"We're going to be nickel-and-dime. I don't like to bring these little make-work projects in."

DO YOU HAVE AN INSERT IN YOUR FIREPLACE?

Many inserts in use do not have a direct connection to the chimney flue. This can be very dangerous as creosote will collect behind the insert or is swept behind it when cleaning your chimney. Since inserts weigh hundreds of kilograms, there is a dangerous temptation not to remove the insert for cleaning. The creosote will ignite causing a very serious fire.

NORTH SHORE DISTRIBUTORS can solve this problem by installing a "Direct Positive Flue Connection and an approved clean-out opening above the appliance. You will never have to remove your insert for cleaning again, and it will improve your insert efficiency.

We also carry the FINGARD AUTOMATIC CHIMNEY FIRE EXTINGUISHING SYSTEM. Installing a FINGARD can lower your insurance costs and give you and your family protection and peace of mind. Don't gamble with fire - you'll lose.

Gifts for the Canadian Mental Health Association will be taken to North Vancouver during the first week in December. New items, unwrapped, are still being accepted at Merv Foote's Men's Wear or at the Times office. Mildred Campbell, the local coordinator, said money gifts are also acceptable. Cheques should be made out to "Canadian Mental Health."

Stork Story--SMITH--Mick and Lisa are pleased to announce the arrival of a new little sister for Michael. Carley Erin was born in the Lions Gate Hospital on Nov. 6, weighing 6 lbs. 3 ozs. Proud grandparents are Murray and Demi Smith of Victoria, and Teresa Ash, also of Victoria. The parents extend special thanks to Dr. Vincent Scali and Dr. Janice Raymond.

On the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary, an open house will be held in the Elks Hall on Sunday, Nov. 29, from 1 to 4 p.m., to honor long-time residents Ed and Vi Antosh.

It was so successful last year that the Ladies Auxiliary to the Royal Canadian Legion is planning another Christmas Boutique. It will be held in the Legion Hall from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. this Friday. Delicious homemade meat pies, chili, etc. will be offered to supper "goers", and as well there will be a good selection of arts and crafts items, baked goods, and several raffles. L.C. "Minch" Minchin has once again made and decorated a rich fruitcake and some lucky winner will take it home.

Those celebrating birthdays this week are: Alejandra Metzler, Steven Sprague, Art Keyes, Owen Reeve, Doug Wilkinson, Eric Olson, Jody Hopkins, Mathew Burns, Julie Durant, Lenore Carmichael, Dave Watt, Ruth Wilson, Glen Antosh, Shevaun Rudkin, David Hermon, Trevor Tiedi, Linda Lawrence, Robin Hancock, Stephen Emard, Gray Mitchell, Jack Selby, Shelly Bedres, Cory Russell, Val Blackman, and Kelly Bandy.

Good wishes also to: Derek Wilson, Kees Venekamp, Kenny Munro, Don Schultheiss, Ruth Lloyd, Gina Cragg, Tyrell Dawson, Shaun Rempel, Brent Olson, Tricia Langley, Wendy Wilson, Oliver Ogilvie, Audrey McDougall, Lennie Berg, Erin Hyslop, Bill McAdam, Judy Crowston, Carol Raffaele, Andrew Hofman, and Mickey Mathauser.

Master Max Roy celebrates his first birthday on Thursday.

A Craft Fair will be held at Hilltop House tomorrow (25th) from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The residents have been busy making dolls, slippers, Christmas wreaths, ornaments, and ceramics, and they invite you to come and look at their work. You just might find that special gift you were hoping to find for a relative or friend. Everyone is invited.

Wedding anniversary wishes to: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Nissen, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Conway, Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Dowad, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laforest, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Valteau, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Berry, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Nokes.

At noon hour on Friday, the Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants will hold a Christmas Fashion Preview. There are a limited number of tickets available at: Adam & Eve Hair, Country Store, Howe Sound Men's Wear, Workwear World, Fashionality, Saan, and Red Balloon.

The largest Christmas bazaar in this community will be held this Saturday in the Civic Centre from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. St. John's Anglican Church Women have been preparing for this event all year, and once again the selection of handcrafted items, sewing and knitted goods, novelties and home baking will be of excellent quality. A sample of some of the articles is displayed in the window of the former Honey Pot store on Cleveland Ave.

On Nov. 14, Leslie and Kobey Kearney travelled to Vancouver Island to attend a silver wedding anniversary for former residents, George and Diane Papineau. Held in the Westerley Hotel in Courtenay, it was a complete surprise for the Papineaus, and the celebration, attended by 80 people, was arranged by their sons, Billy, Tim and Darcy, and daughter Shawna. The Papineaus send greetings back to all their friends in Squamish. George and Diane reside in Black Creek.

Santa's volunteer elves are waiting to receive letters from all you "good" boys and girls. Address your letters to: Santa Claus, c/o North Pole, HOH OHO. To ensure an answer from Santa, be sure to include your name, address, and postal code. The good folks at Canada Post will make sure your letter gets to Santa.

Thinking about Christmas, two productions in December will bring great enjoyment to all members of your family. On Dec. 4 and 5, Lynette Kelley's Garibaldi School of Dance will present "The Wonder of Christmas" in the Civic Centre, and in North Van's Centennial Theatre on Dec. 6. The Kiwanis Club of Squamish Valley is co-sponsoring these recitals. The Company will also perform in Whistler on Dec. 13.

Pre-teens, teenagers, and "older" types will appear in the Howe Sound Drama Club's presentation of "Christmas Cards". Directed by Peg Tinney, the dates for the cast to perform are Dec. 18, 19 and 20 in the Civic Centre.

Twenty-year-old Colin Kearney is in Johannesburg, South Africa, on an extended visit to grandparents and other relatives. While we ready for colder weather and more rain, Colin is experiencing very hot weather.

The Junior Forest Wardens held a great Halloween party on Oct. 31. The costumes were really imaginative, and finally coming out on top as winner for the girls was Dionne Bennett, with Eric Sandberg taking home the boys' prize. This year's door prize was fifty $1 coins. They were stashed in a handmade cedar chest and the happy winner was Jennifer McCulloch. The next event planned by the JF Wardens will be a Valentine's dance for teens.

In "News Briefs" last week, there was an item re: the fact that hunting of migratory birds is permitted in the Squamish Estuary. If you object to this ruling, a lady at 892-9236 would like to hear from you (afternoons or evenings).

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Squamish is sending entry forms in the mail this week to businesses, service clubs, etc. re: Bowl For Millions '88. Anyone or group interested but who did not receive a form is asked to call BB/BS at 892-3125. There is always a need for big brothers and sisters, and a call to this number will give you all the information you require.

"Seasoned" actors and actresses, as well as newcomers, are invited to an open casting of the play, "Lord Arthur Savile's Crime." The comedy will be presented by the Howe Sound Drama Club in February or March, and anyone interested in getting involved is asked to be at the Brackendale Art Gallery between 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 30. Can't make it that night or require more info? Call 898-5023.

September wedding in Squamish United Church

It was a beautiful sunny day for the wedding of Theresa Marie Moule, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Moule of Squamish, and Maurice Paul Behrner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Behrner, also of Squamish.

The bride and groom exchanged their marriage vows before Rev. Chris Burnett in a 3 p.m. double ring ceremony on Sept. 5 in Squamish United Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional gown of white chiffon over taffeta. The bodice featured a V-neckline, edged with white lace and with long full lace sleeves caught in a tight cuff. The full skirt featured a chiffon scalloped overskirt with two lace tiers at the hem and swept back into a full train. Theresa's long veil was edged with lace matching the gown and fell from a lace cap. The bride's jewelry was a white pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from her maternal grandmother, and a watch, belonging to the bride's great grandmother. A cascading silk bouquet of white roses was carried by a smiling bride.

Maid of Honor, Janice Moule, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids, Vicky and Ione Behrner, sisters of the groom, wore identical three-quarter length dresses, with three-quarter length sleeves and lace panels on the bodice. Janice's dress was mint green with shoes to match, and she carried a bouquet of silk white roses and carnations. Ione and Vicky's dresses were a peach color with shoes to match, and they each carried bouquets of silk roses and carnations.

Miss Tanya Staats, the bride's cousin from Fruitvale, was the flower girl, and she looked sweet in a yellow floor-length dress with a white lace overlay. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white silk flowers.

A handsome ringbearer was Joey Staats, the bride's cousin, of Squamish.

Kevin Gilmour supported the groom as best man, and ushering duties were shared by Glen Valteau and Kevin Doherty.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moule chose a mint green street-length dress with matching colored veiled hat and shoes and white corsage.

Mrs. Behrner, the groom's mother, chose a turquoise blue street-length dress with matching colored shoes and white corsage.

At a reception at the Legion hall, Wilf Murphy, a friend of the bride's family, from Gold-bridge, acted as master of ceremonies.

The bride's uncle, John Staat, was pleased to give the traditional toast to the bride.

Out-of-town guests included the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Behrner, and uncle and aunt, Fred and Diane Behrner, and Jeff and Alison from Kelowna, and friends, Alf and Sharon Angell from Clinton.

Relatives of the bride were her great uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Knight of Albany, Oregon, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Noble, and cousins, Rick and Teresa Staats of Fruitvale, and uncle, Mr. Melvin Noble of Naksup, and friends, Louise, Ray, John and Chuck Scheerschmidt of New Denver.

Before leaving for a week's honeymoon in Disneyland, the bride donned a two-piece pale pink suit with white lace collar and white accessories.

The wedding photographs were taken by Sharon Popoff, and the video by Ted Popoff, cousins of the bride, from Ladner.

Paul and Theresa are making their home in Squamish.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Behrner

Retirement party for Erma Mitchell

When Erma Mitchell went to the Wagon Wheel Restaurant on the evening of Nov. 7, she thought she was going to a birthday party for friends, Ed Aldridge, Les Moule and Rod Farquharson.

These gentlemen did celebrate their birthdays but the real reason for the gathering of friends and family was to honor Erma on the occasion of her retirement.

A nurse, Mrs. Mitchell over the past 25 years has worked in the hospital, at Dr. Kindree's medical clinic for a number of years, and lately, at optometrist Dr. McRoberts' office.

The celebration was organized by Art and Anne Reynolds and Edith Moule, and it almost left Erma "speechless." She was thrilled with all the accolades bestowed upon her. She was presented with a large photograph album which she said she would keep her busy in her retirement filling it.

Future bright for Ringettes

In years past the Howe Sound Ringette Association, most notably in its first years of operation, not only struggled to ice two teams but also struggled to find competitors willing to play in Squamish.

How times have indeed changed. Over the past two years, at least, the game has taken off on the local front, gaining in not just popularity but in the skill level as well what with the petites earning first B and then A provincial titles and the tweens coming within a hair of doing the same and both teams doing it with many under age players.

Perhaps because of this on-ice success, and a few other changes in the league, Howe Sound not only has plenty of competitors which know they have to come prepared to work hard in order to win but they also have enough players this season to field four sides for the first time.

Forty-two players, the highest registered ever, comprise the nine and under novices, the eleven and under petites, the thirteen and under tweens and the fifteen and under juniors.

The latter squad, which is in its first year will be representing zone five at the B.C. Winter Games in Dawson Creek on March 10-13.

On the weekend the 1987/88 season officially got under way for these four clubs, three of which ended in victories as the tweens used home ice advantage on Saturday to score a 7-4 win over Delta. On the same day some solid goaltending by Andrea Gross helped but didn't change the outcome of a 10-3 loss at the hands of Aldergrove.

Then, on Sunday, the petites knocked off Clearbrook 11-6 while the juniors slipped past Ladner 7-6.

Obviously one game does not a season make but the numbers on the scoreboard and on the bench show that the Howe Sound Ringette Association has come a long way from its first days and with more and more younger players joining things can only get better.

After a quick start to their 1987 campaign the Howe Sound midget rep squad stumbled a bit this week with back-to-back losses.

On Wednesday Killarney, one of the teams Howe Sound is competing with for a berth in the winter games, scored a 6-1 triumph over Squamish and on Sunday a free-wheeling West Vancouver, after building up a 2-0 first period lead never looked back in taking a well deserved 4-1 win on Civic Centre ice.

Though keeper Daryn Yonin was sharp on a number of serves and Howe Sound was more than willing to take part in a physical game, West Vancouver had that extra jump in skating and passing and were especially effective on the power play in which they struck twice including the last which came with 29 seconds left in the game.

Meanwhile the bantams showed continued improvement as they tied 6-6 with Aldergrove on Saturday in a well-played match. On Sunday the team was in West Van though results of the match are not available.

The Howe Sound Men's Hockey League is barely five games old for each team and already it seems to be turning into a four way battle.

In past years there were the Whistler Winterhawks and Triple C Logging and then everyone else. But this season, due in part to the draft, the division is more competitive with any one particular side capable of giving another a run for their money.

Up in the running and challenging the once-considered shoe-in finalists are the Whistler Sabres, which are tied for top spot with the Winterhawks, and the Triton Hawks, which are currently sitting in third spot.

On Sunday, one night after drawing to a 4-4 saw-off with Squamish Heating, Triton had a chance to close the gap on the front-runners and open it up on the fourth place Triple C when they took on the Winterhawks. The latter however, needing the win to draw even in points with the Sabres got what they wanted by eking out a 2-1 margin of victory.

That meant Triple C, after suffering an earlier 6-5 loss from Whistler were able to gain some ground on Sunday as they knocked off the Terminal Exporters 7-3.

Keith Downer broke the game open mid-way through the first period in that latter contest when he spun in the slot and hit the roof of the net to put the Exporters up front.

But at 8:33 Randy Leblanc converted a goal mouth pass to put Logging on the board and the flood gates opened as Dennis Stockley scored on a breakaway moments later, followed quickly by a smart three-way passing play that resulted in Rob Confortin running the count up to 3-1.

Triple C's Kevin Kindret would notch the winner before the end of the frame as he wheeled around in front and picked off the corner on the back-hand.

Meanwhile Hunter's Trucking got an empty net goal from Mike Anthony, who deked a goalie that wasn't there, to secure their first win in a long time, a 6-4 edge over the Exporters.

In soccer the Squamish Overwaitea under 18 squad suffered an emotional 1-0 loss to the Kerrisdale Whitecaps on Saturday, losing it, as coach Tom Vukonic said later "in a 15 minute period in which we stopped playing soccer."

The thirteen and under Squamish Terminals got goals by Dennis MacDonald and David Gaudin on Saturday enroute to a 2-1 win over Killarney.

MacDonald put the Terminals up 1-0 in the first half when he headed in a Gaudin corner kick.

In the second half however Killarney came back, tying it up off a free kick from 30 yards out with a shot that was deflected into the corner. Later they threatened to take the lead in a goal mouth scramble but keeper Jordan Stinson smothered a rebound off the post on the goal line.

But with less than five minutes to go Gaudin chased down a loose ball in front of the goalie and pumped in the winner.

In the Howe Sound Men's Soccer League only two games were played with DeCook Trucking and Local 170 claiming wins by default over Brackendale and McBride Trucking respectively.

But on the field while Khalsa was knocking off Klahanie the Native Sons were beating Corsa Cycles 3-1.

A pair of goals by Ed Zimmaro paced the Cliffside Hotspurs to a 2-0 shutout win over Billarney Stone.

In a mid-field battle in which neither side really dominated the Hotspurs simply made the most of their opportunities as Zimmaro notched the winner in the first half when he was able to let loose with shot during a scramble in front of the Billarney net.

Zimmaro connected again in the second when he curled a perfect free kick drive from 20 yards out around the defensive wall and into the corner.

Evans Lake offers winter camp

Children who enjoy the challenges and fun of summer camp are being offered a similar experience in the winter.

During the Christmas holidays, the Evans Lake Forestry Centre is once again inviting children to attend the popular Winter Camp.

This year, two camp sessions are scheduled: Dec. 20 to 23, and Dec. 27 to 30.

Winter Camp is an opportunity for children ages nine to 13 to spend four days during their school break participating in winter recreational activities and learning about the outdoors.

Activities include snowshoeing, skating, tobogganing, ice fishing, campfire programs, arts and crafts, and hiking. Learning sessions involve experiences in forestry, winter woodcraft and lore, forest awareness, first aid, orienteering, and animal studies, all of which are designed to increase the camper's knowledge of the forest.

The Evans Lake Forestry Centre, located 13 km north of Squamish, is operated by the B.C. Forestry Association, and is accredited by the B.C. Camping Association with regard to meeting standards for safety, health, and qualified leadership.

All camp buildings are heated, the meals are nutritious, and the showers are hot. Following the day's activities, evenings are spent around the fireplace in the Recreation Hall exchanging stories, roasting marshmallows, and sipping hot chocolate.

For more information, or to register for Winter Camp, phone the B.C. Forestry Association at 688-6684, or write to #1430-1100 Melville St., Vancouver, B.C., V6E 4A6.

Dancers bring Christmas wonder to Squamish

The Garibaldi School of Dance will perform a production called "The Wonder of Christmas" Dec. 4 and 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Squamish Civic Centre, Director Lynette Kelley said.

The program includes a jazz-dance version of "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," and excerpts from "Visions of Sugar Plums" in classical ballet style. Each performance will involve about 150 dancers from Whistler and Squamish, Kelley said.

Other performances will be in North Vancouver at Centennial Theatre Dec. 6, at noon and 3 p.m., and in Whistler at the Rainbow Theatre on Dec. 13 at 3 p.m. The Squamish performance is being co-sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Tickets are Adults $4; seniors and students $2.

Dancers from the Garibaldi School of Dance rehearse a jazz-dance version of "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" in the Squamish Civic Centre Nov. 10 in preparation for a performance entitled "The Wonder of Christmas." The production will involve more than 150 dancers from Whistler and Squamish.

Royal Hudson Olympic trip called off

It just would have cost too much.

Despite more than 500 inquiries and tentative bookings, the Royal Hudson will not be going to the 1988 Winter Olympics in Calgary, Royal Hudson Steam Train Society General Manager Ron Treend said.

Treend said outfitting the 47-year-old engine and its cars for the severe winter weather conditions it would have encountered on the 900 km trip, and the demands of the rail companies with which it would have had to interconnect to reach Calgary, pushed costs through the ceiling.

In September he was optimistic the trip would go ahead, but at that time final costing of the winterization had not been completed. The trip would have been the first scheduled passenger trip through the Rockies in daylight, Treend said.

All the people who expressed an interest in the trip will be written and informed of the decision, he said.

"It leaked out to the media. We never did announce that we were going."

Hudson society plans second Lillooet trip

The Royal Hudson's stand-by steam engine, the 3716, and a number of the cars used on the North Vancouver to Squamish run, will be making a second trip to Lillooet Feb. 5 and 6, Royal Hudson Steam Train Society Manager, Ron Treend, said.

He said a similar trip in October was extremely successful.

"(Last time) we were well-received by people all along the route. Hundreds and hundreds turned out in Lillooet and put on a really good show for us."

Treend said the trip's schedule will be similar to the October one: water stops in Squamish and Pemberton on the way up, arrive in Pemberton at about 6 p.m. for an overnight stay, and return the next day. Up to 150 people are expected for the excursion, he said.

"It's an ideal place for us to go. We can use one crew; we don't have to change crews."

Enjoy the comfort of electric heat for half what you would normally pay.

Switch to Electric Plus from oil, propane or wood.

Big savings with special rate.

Our special Electric Plus rate of 2.5 cents per kilowatt-hour gives you electric heat for about half what you would normally pay for firm electricity. It can save you up to 50% on fuel if you now heat with oil or propane, and even more in some cases. The same combination of comfort, convenience and savings is now available for homes heated by wood, too.

Use our low-interest financing.

Converting to Electric Plus is easy with our special financing at only 8½%. It covers residential equipment and installation costs up to $2,500, more than adequate for most homes. It's available through contractors on approved credit and can be conveniently repaid on your Hydro bill.

How Electric Plus works for you.

You purchase electricity at the special rate whenever surplus hydroelectric energy is available. You keep your fuel-fired heating system - oil, propane, wood or coal - as a back-up for times when surplus electricity is interrupted. We will limit interruptions to a maximum of only 120 days between now and March 1991.

You qualify for Electric Plus by wiring for a new meter, which we will install, and having a back-up system which uses fuel stored on your property. Customers now heating with natural gas are not eligible.

The special low Electric Plus rate of 2.5 cents a kilowatt-hour will stay until March 1991. Even after that, surplus interruptible hydro will cost substantially less than firm electricity.

Regular customers now using electric heat can also get the low Electric Plus rate by installing fuel-fired back-up systems.

Same low rate for commercial customers.

You can get Electric Plus for business use, too. Switching to Electric Plus from oil or propane can result in substantial savings on space, water and process heating. As with residential Electric Plus, you keep your fuel-fired heating system as a back-up. And you get the same special rate of 2.5 cents for the first 8,000 kilowatt-hours a month. If you use more, the rate reduces to 1.8 cents. We have special financing for commercial customers.

Call a contractor today.

The sooner you act, the sooner your Electric Plus savings start adding up. So call your local electrical or heating contractor today for an estimate. Or call your nearest Hydro office for a free analysis of your potential savings with Electric Plus.

Anglican Church Women's Christmas Bazaar Saturday

The needles have been clicking, the sewing machines whirling, the dried flowers sorted, and the ovens producing, as St. John's Anglican Church Women prepare for yet another Christmas Bazaar.

Once again, it will be held in the Civic Centre on Saturday, Nov. 28, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The assortment of handcrafted articles is quite amazing, and the quality is second to none. The prices are held to a fair and reasonable level, and there is something to be had in every price range.

Santa has promised to pay a visit again this year, and the children can visit the Christmas Cracker Tree to buy a surprise for fifty cents, and then have their faces painted for the occasion.

The usual variety of items is available, from second-hand treasures at the White Elephant table, to beautiful hand-made corsages for Christmas, dried flower and pine cone arrangements, delicious baking, Christmas novelties (some "cute cats" this year!), Christmas wreaths, place mats and runners, and some lovely aprons. For children's gifts, dolls and toys will be available, all handmade too.

After you have completed your shopping, we invite you to relax with an afternoon tea of the old-fashioned kind.

An added attraction this year will be the lovely floral applique sampler quilt on display, with tickets for sale until 3 p.m. when the winning one will be chosen.

Bring your friends and come along, rain or shine, to enjoy an afternoon with the ACW ladies. The proceeds of the bazaar go entirely to support the work of the Anglican Church.
