University deal public this week?

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

An announcement on the private university proposed for Squamish is expected this week, though the university proponents are releasing no details.

Peter Ufford, the project leader for the private university, called The Chief Aug. 22, but did not provide specifics on what the announcement might be. He is unavailable until Aug. 29.

Ufford was on a contract to the Howe Sound Educational Foundation (HSEF) to the end of June, when a decision on a location for the university's campus was expected.

Ten locations, including one north of the downtown, are under consideration.

A previous offer of 400 hectares by the Tiampo family in May of 1999 was withdrawn the following December.

It was also learned this week Peter Emberley, the university's academic project manager, is returning to Carleton University in Ottawa this fall to teach.

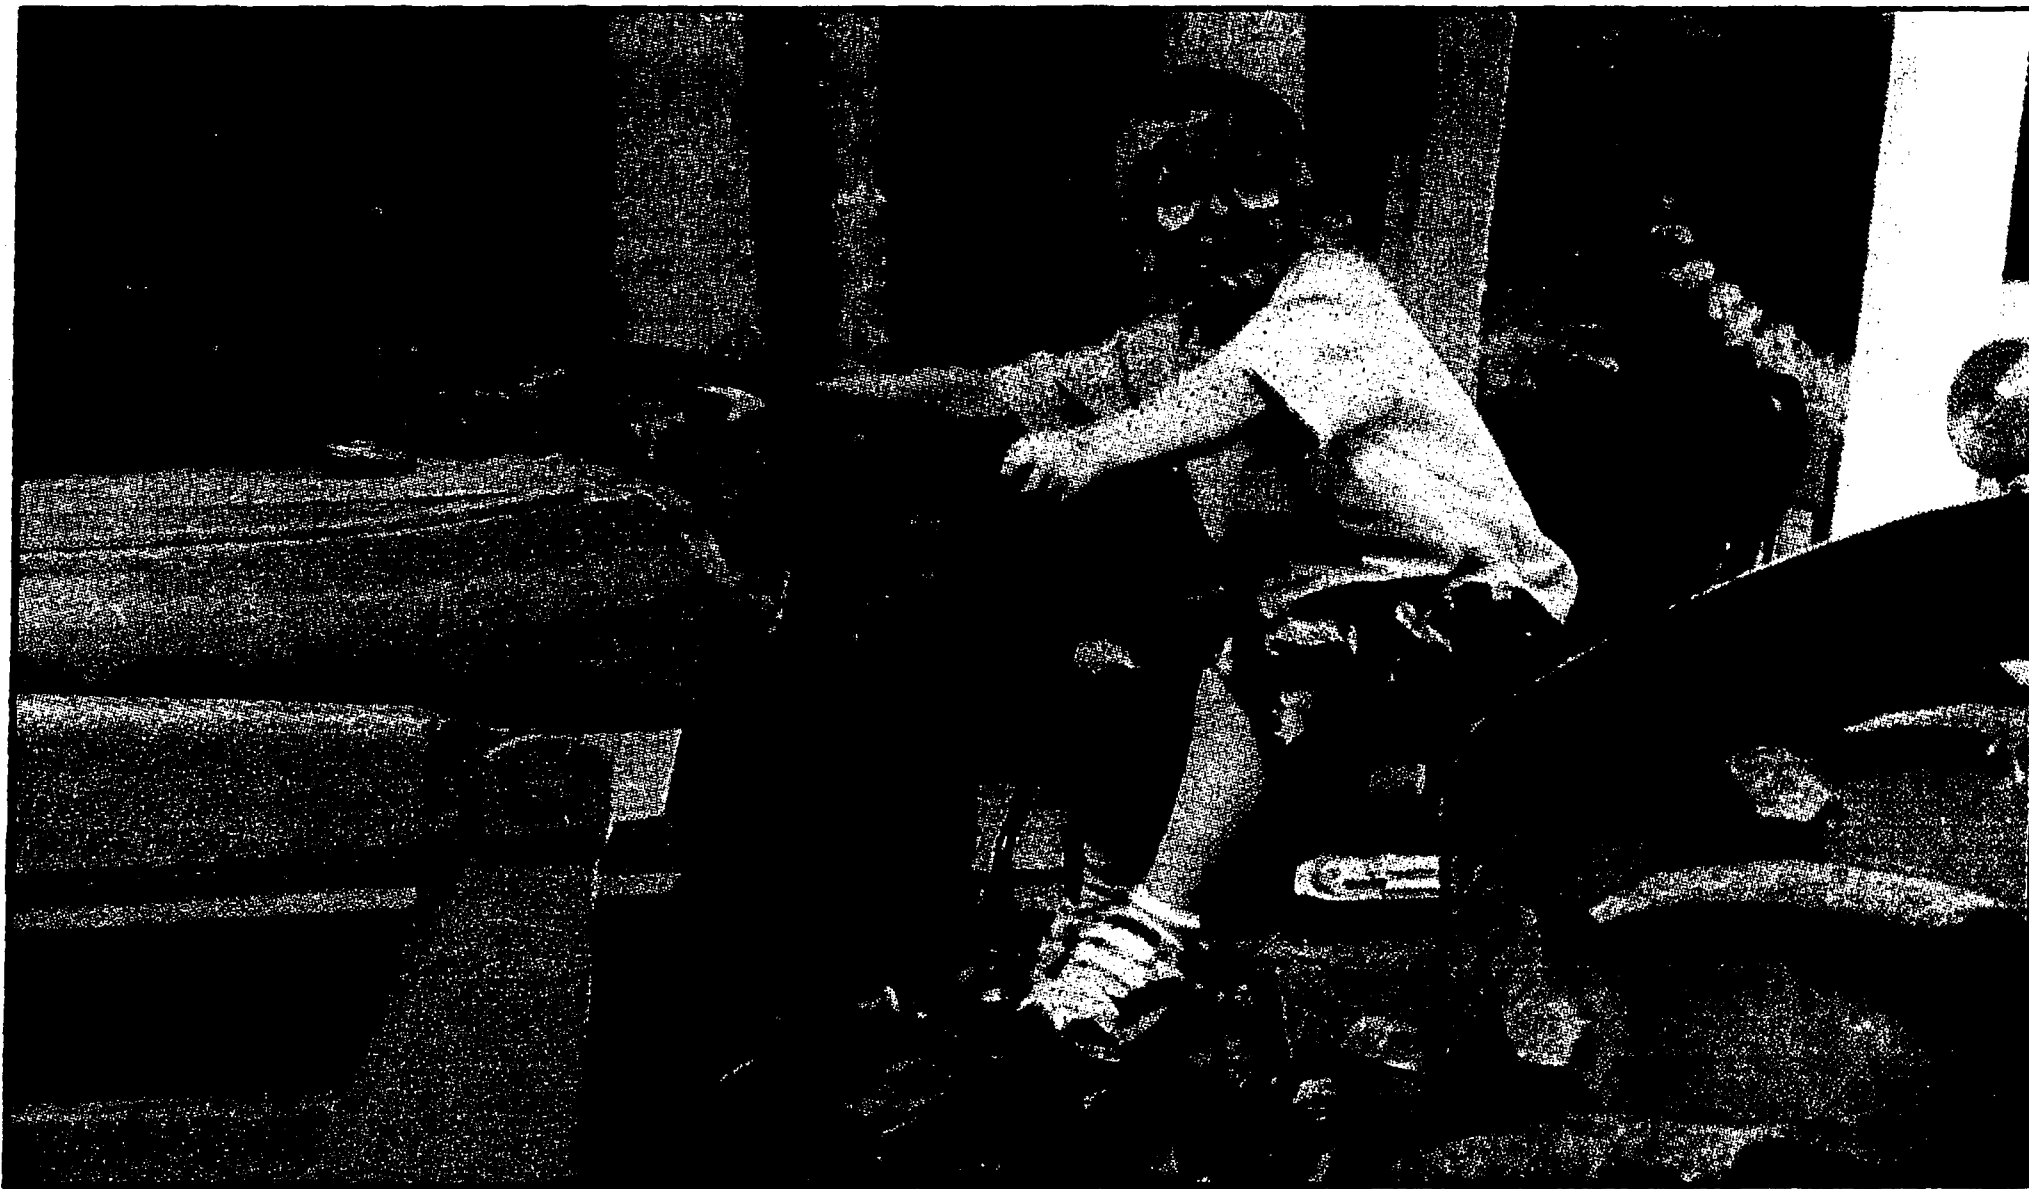

Emberley said Thursday he decided to cancel his planned leave of absence from Carleton when the HSEF advised him in March they would be not be in a position to cover his salary.

Emberley was previously on one-year sabbatical.

"The general plan is for me to come back in April or May," he said.

The 2000-01 academic year starts beyond that point, but Emberley's teaching obligations — in history and political philosophy courses — end in April.

However, Emberley's return to Ottawa should not hinder his duties as academic manager. He noted most of the work involves the telephone or e-mail, and face-to-face meetings usually require a plane trip anyways. However, he will no longer be in the university's Squamish office on Wednesdays.

Stolen truck joyride ends in death

BY IAN JACQUES
Reporter

A joyride in a stolen vehicle ended in tragedy after a fiery accident last Tuesday morning.

John Robert Vinson, 21, of Squamish died when the 1986 Nissan pick-up truck he was driving smashed into a dump truck just before 7 a.m. on Government Road, south of the Squamish Airport.

The vehicle had previously been reported stolen.

Initial investigation by Squamish RCMP indicates that the pickup failed to negotiate a right hand curve, causing it to cross the centre line into the southbound lane.

A 1992 Kenworth dump truck, pulling a pup trailer, was travelling southbound at the time and saw the truck in his lane, but a collision was unavoidable.

"The driver of the dump truck attempted to avoid a collision, but was unable to and the driver's side of the pick-up truck struck the driver's side of the dump truck," said Cpl. Don Orthner.

"From what I've been told, it was a high speed, horrific collision."

Vinson was seriously injured in the accident and died later in Squamish General Hospital as a result of his injuries, while a passenger in the vehicle is still in serious condition at Vancouver General Hospital. The driver of the dump truck was shaken up, but not injured.

"The Nissan hit the dump truck with so much impact that it was knocked back almost 13 feet and the Nissan spun out and ended up in the middle of the road," Orthner said.

The force of impact ruptured the fuel tank on the dump truck and the fuel spilled out onto the road. When the first officer arrived, Const. Pat Lussier, the Nissan was on fire and she used her extinguisher to put out the flames.

"Had she not arrived that quickly, we might have had more than one fatality."

The roadway between Mt. Garibaldi cemetery and Ross Road was closed for more than eight hours as emergency crews and RCMP cleared the scene. Chemicals had to be used to mop up the fuel spill and an investigation team was called in.

RCMP are still investigating to determine if any charges will be laid against the passenger. "It's very difficult to lay charges in a case like this," said Orthner.

In an interview with The Chief Monday, Vinson's father Fred praised the efforts of police, paramedics and hospital staff involved.

"I hope the young people in Squamish will recognize that speed was a factor in this," he said.

"It was a high-speed, horrific collision."

Blockade goes up as police end 24-hour presence in Elaho

BY TIM SHOULTS
Editor

Protesters returned to blockade a logging road in the Elaho Valley Monday, less than 48 hours after RCMP ended their 24-hour presence in the area.

International Forest Products (Interfor) employees found the Elaho Main logging road blocked at Mile 39 by a lone male hanging 50 feet above the ground in a tripod at 6:30 a.m. yesterday morning.

The tripod was surrounded by a "large blockade" of logs and barbed wire, according to a man identifying himself as Jonah from the group Friends of the Elaho.

Police on their way to Lava Creek for a regular patrol arrived at 7:30 a.m. and placed the man under arrest for a criminal charge mischief.

Police had maintained 24-hour presence in the Lava Creek area near Mile 65 since the last protest blockade in the Elaho was dismantled Aug. 2. They suspended their full-time presence Saturday at 4 p.m. and went to random patrols.

Keith Rush of Interfor said about 50 employees and contractors were sent home due to the blockade.

Police were preparing to extract the man from the tripod as of press time Monday afternoon.

Schools expand, but their budgets are cramped

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

As schools prepare to open for the 2000-2001 school year next Tuesday, several renovations and upgrades could have local students dodging ladders, though the results should be more than worth the bother.

At Brackendale Secondary School, students will spend the first half of the year dealing with the renovation of most of their 21-year-old school.

"The biggest disruption is of course at Brackendale Secondary, because it's both a renovation project as well as an addition," Nancy Edwards, district secretary-treasurer, said Friday.

"It really requires the co-operation of everyone."

The 3,596 square metres of additions will mostly be complete when students return to classes; the 1,600 square metres of renovations should be finished before January 2001.

Mamquam Elementary School students will also see a renovation, though far less drastic.

Some $36,000 will be devoted to improving the washrooms at MES, last upgraded in the 1970s.

Other capital works are the continuing health and safety improvements at Stawamus, Squamish and Mamquam elementary schools.

Edwards said, however, most of the work should be done after school, so students will experience minimal disruptions at most.

Squamish Elementary School may also see work begun late in the year on the addition of six new classrooms and an elevator, but Edwards said this is only a possibility at this point.

Space-wise, Howe Sound's

total of 39 portables will remain unchanged, though one was moved from Howe Sound Secondary School to Pemberton over the summer.

2001-02 will bring a significant change to the portable situation, as BSS' expansion will eliminate not only its own six portables, but likely four of the five at HSSS.

Currently, about 50 Grade 8-10 students who should attend BSS are bussed to HSSS for lack of space; when complete the expansion will allow BSS to accommodate all the students in its catchment area.

Unfortunately, while the schools are growing roomier, their budgets are getting more cramped.

Despite an increase of almost $1 million over 1999-2000, there are actually fewer dollars per student in this year's $29.9-million operating budget.

The increase in funding from the Ministry of Education won't cover the 21 new students the district is expecting in September.

The $1 million is already spoken for because of five items:

- $100,000 set aside for negotiated CUPE wage increases;

- $378,000 for the two per cent wage increase in the third year of the teacher's contract;

- $175,000 for wage increases tied to seniority;

- $136,000 to reduce primary class sizes as required by contract; and

- A 60-student difference between provincial (4,620 students) and district (4,560) estimates on enrollment. If those 60 students fail to materialize, the Ministry of Education will take back the $213,000 it budgeted.

Of the budget, $21.5 million (74.2 per cent) goes to instruction, $4.14 million (14.3 per cent) goes to operations and maintenance, $2.64 million (9.1 per cent) to district and school-based administration and $711,882 (2.5 per cent) to transportation and housing.

"We never have adequate funding for education," superintendent Dr. Linda Rossler said Friday.

This may become more obvious once a new contract for CUPE support workers is signed; they have been without one since December 1998. A new teacher's contract also comes up for negotiation this year. Though negotiated provincially, Howe Sound's teachers will likely raise the issue of the district's 19:1 student-teacher ratio.

"It's a little bit higher than the rest of the province, by about 1.4 students per teacher," Rossler said.

She pointed out, however, Howe Sound's decentralized budget allows individual schools to determine the number of teachers they need for their specific circumstances.

She also noted the teacher's contract specifies no more than 20 students in a kindergarten class and no more than 22 in Grades 1-3.

Police to internally investigate arrested man's death

An internal police investigation has been launched after a 47-year-old man from the Lower Mainland died after collapsing in police custody Aug. 20.

An officer from RCMP

headquarters in Vancouver will review the circumstances surrounding the arrest of a man on the side of Hwy. 99 10 km north of Squamish.

The man collapsed and stopped breathing as officers were putting handcuffs on the man, whose erratic behaviour had been reported to police by several bystanders.

He died later at Squamish General Hospital.

Besides the Vancouver

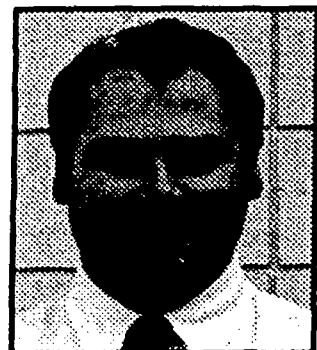

police, the B.C. Coroner's Service will also be involved in the investigation.

"This is standard process whenever a suspect dies in police custody," said RCMP Sgt. Gary Brine.

Chief wins national award

Squamish's newspaper has won national recognition yet again. The Chief achieved first place in the Canadian Community Newspaper Association (CCNA)'s Best Newspaper Competition for Best Advertising Design.

The award was announced at the CCNA's annual convention in Magog, Quebec last month. The award was given for The Chief's special section on Squamish Station Shopping Centre which ran last November. The section featured a history of the shopping centre and inter-views with local merchants. The judge's comments praise The Chief's effective use of photography and artwork — "Nice and clean with high impact."

"We are pleased to be recognized yet again at the national level by our peers," said Chief publisher Penny Graham.

The CCNA represents more than 680 community newspapers with 10.5 million adult readers across Canada.

Canadian Tire plans delayed

Store could still open next spring with approvals

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

A proposed spring opening for anchor tenant Canadian Tire is not in danger by a delayed submission of final plans for the Garibaldi Village mall/condo development, say proponents.

The last time Robert Weston, vice-president of development for Calgary-based Canadian Destination Properties Inc., met with Squamish council he said the final designs would be in to the District of Squamish by mid-August.

This could have allowed staff to process the application for a comprehensive development zone (CDZ) at Mamquam Road and Hwy. 99 in time for the Sept. 5 meeting of council.

Instead, the zoning application process will not begin until council's Sept. 19 meeting.

"There's a phenomenal amount of work required for that submission," Weston said Friday. "It's taking a little longer than we expected. We've revised our submission schedule to the first week of September."

A CDZ application requires the developer to provide final plans on almost every detail, from building design to material type to plant species in the landscaping.

This application will deal only with the first phase of Garibaldi Village, which comprises 2,300 square metres of retail space in addition to the Canadian Tire outlet's 3,540.

The submission was delayed in July when council and staff objected to Canadian Tire's flat roof, a violation of Squamish's design guidelines. The proponents came back Aug. 1 with a canopied design to partially disguise the roofline.

CDP has promised the rest of the development will include plenty of pitched roofs as per Squamish's requirements.

"They [council and staff] haven't seen our final drawings yet, but we're preparing them to address the issues the district has brought forward," Weston said.

If the CDZ is given first and second reading Sept. 19, the requirement for a public hearing and two weeks' advertisement of such would still mean adoption could not happen until the second week of October, even if council holds a special meeting.

Weston said, however, the delay should not impact on the spring opening of Canadian Tire or the rest of Phase 1 construction.

Groundbreaking is planned for November and council would be advised of any changes, a Canadian Tire official said Friday.

Squamish players assaulted in Vancouver soccer league play

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Squamish United '97 FC saw its summer soccer season come to a crashing halt Aug. 19 — but it wasn't for lack of effort on the field.

Several Squamish players were injured in a brawl allegedly instigated by the Vietnamese club, their opponents in the Vancouver Summer Soccer League game.

According to team sources, fans came on to the pitch waving socks "loaded" with objects as weapons and players on the field stripped their jerseys off to not be identified.

Vietnamese players grabbed the corner posts used to mark off the out-of-bounds area and hit Squamish player Dave Gaudin over the head.

Gaudin required 28 stitches to close the wound.

Another Squamish player was allegedly jumped by three or four Vietnamese players.

Vancouver police were called in and they eventually restored order.

"It was a very sad day so far as we were concerned," said team spokesman Bob Smith. "This was a league for us to train in and give these young kids experience, not to bash each other up."

Squamish coach Jose Oreamuno said the league has decided to cancel the rest of the playoffs and suspend operations.

"It's very unfortunate, because we were the top team and the team to beat," he said.

Oreamuno was unsure whether the league would press charges.

"As far as we're concerned, we just want to forget about the whole thing."

League officials were unavailable for comment when contacted by The Chief.

GBA suit against paper awaits trial

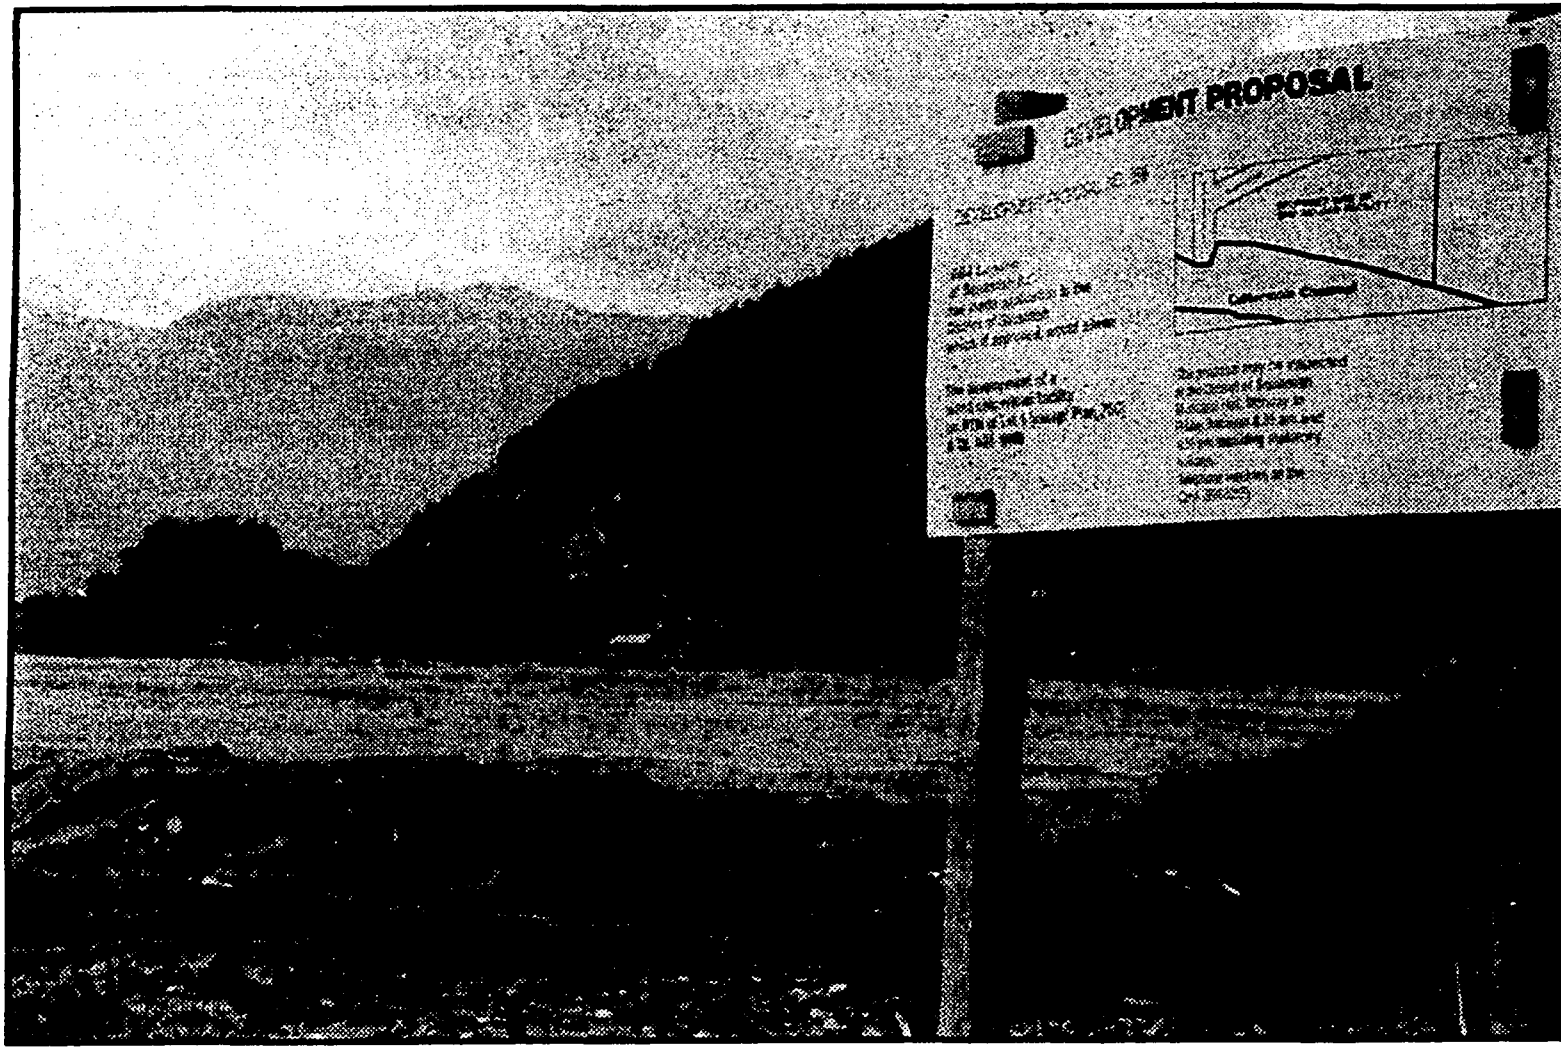

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

A libel suit against the Vancouver Sun newspaper over the wood chip handling facility being developed on Cattermole Slough is awaiting a trial date.

The suit, filed by facility proponents GBA Logging Ltd. over an article printed May 1, claims damages against Pacific Press, the Vancouver Sun and Brian Morton, the journalist who wrote the article, for allegedly trivializing the quality and monetary value of the facility.

GBA filed the suit May 3; the defendants have since filed their statement of defence. A trial date is still to be set.

In the meantime, both sides of the debate over the facility wait for a decision on a separate suit against the development permit granted to GBA. Citizens for a Healthy,

Work continues at GBA Logging's wood chip handling facility.

Innovative, Progressive Squamish (CHIPS) went to court asking to overturn Squamish council's May 2 decision to approve the per-

Arguments concluded July 7, but no decision has been rendered.

When contacted Friday,

GBA President Greg Richmond declined to comment on the suits or how construction of the facility is progressing.

Attorney General, Crown may reconsider civil disobedience policy

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

The province's policy on civil disobedience that has effectively forced forestry companies to get injunctions to work around protesters is under review.

Squamish's forestry task force met last month with Austin Cullen, the assistant deputy attorney general, and regional Crown Counsel Michael Hicks.

The task force was struck in June to raise the media profile of the forestry side of the debate over the upper Elaho Valley, involve the community and lobby the province.

It includes representatives of council, IWA, Soo Coalition for Sustainable Forests, Squamish Nation and International Forest Products' (Interfor) Squamish Lumber and Empire Logging divisions, as well as the company's public relations firm.

Squamish RCMP detachment commander S/Sgt. Cliff Doherty also attended the meeting, though he is not a member of the task force.

A meeting with Forests Minister Jim Doyle July 6 was to include a representative of the attorney general, but one never showed up.

Cullen explained the policy of preferring to not charge people criminally for acts of civil disobedience came about in 1989. A trial of 70 anti-mining protesters took about a year and a half and resulted in 95 per cent acquittals.

"It [civil disobedience] is clearly misbehaviour, we're not arguing that," he said. "The question becomes what is the most effective method of dealing with it."

Cullen said a charge of contempt of court, based on violation of an injunction, is easier to prove and allows for group trials. However, Cullen acknowledged recent judicial decisions regarding injunctions against logging protests have criticized that policy.

"I think we legitimately have to take a look at our policy," he said.

"I'm very pleased to see the AG and the Crown [Counsel] are reviewing the policy and hope to see improvement," said Doherty. "We're not dealing with hundreds of people, we're dealing with a small group that is causing a great deal of grief for this community ... that can be dealt with quite easily under the Criminal Code."

Health Unit plugs 'do-it-yourself' HIV tests

Sea to Sky
infection rate double provincial average

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Despite the best efforts of educators, various groups and agencies, the rate of infection for HIV/AIDS in the Sea to Sky corridor is not going down.

That has public health officials worried, and in response, Coast Garibaldi Health Unit (CGHU) is tackling the problem head-on with a new "Do-it-yourself" test campaign to reach every at-risk person in the corridor.

The campaign will include a new brochure called the "D-I-Y HIV Test" and a poster blitz.

At risk according to CGHU is anyone who engages in unprotected sex, shares needles or who has received blood transfusions.

According to statistics, Greater Vancouver may have the highest rate of infection, but Sea to Sky comes in second and that infection rate is approximately double that of the remainder of the province.

"In 1999, 56 people were living with HIV and there were 16 deaths due to AIDS in the Coast Garibaldi Region," said Marilyn McIvor, public health nursing manager. Since disease, such as this one, is not reportable, these numbers most likely represent a significant underestimation of the actual number in the region.

"It's not the numbers that are shocking — it's the rate."

Another concern arose recently as health authorities became aware of an HIV-positive predator who was knowingly transmitting the virus to his partners.

Medical health officer Dr. Paul Martiquet confirmed Thursday that the man is living on the Sunshine Coast and the matter has been dealt with.

"Essentially the man was issued an order by myself to not have sexual relations without protection and he must inform his partners beforehand," Martiquet said. "We have been monitoring the situation and he has been complying with the orders fully. Anyone can become infected and our concern is for those people who do not believe they are at risk."

The incident on the Sunshine Coast is somewhat similar to that of former Squamish resident Henry Gerard Cuerrier, who was charged with two counts of aggravated assault in 1995 after he allegedly had unprotected sex with two women while knowing he was HIV-positive. The case went to the Supreme Court, which overturned Cuerrier's acquittal by the lower courts and ordered a new trial in September 1998.

In June of last year, Crown counsel decided to not proceed with another trial.

"The message we're trying to get out there is to be self-aware," Martiquet said.

Squamish Search and Rescue and paramedics remove a man from a helicopter after an airlift from Garibaldi Provincial Park Saturday. The helicopter touched down on a cul-de-sac off Industrial Way.

Man airlifted from Garibaldi Park

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

A 46-year-old Coquitlam man was shaken up, but otherwise uninjured after he had to be airlifted from Garibaldi Provincial Park while on a hike Saturday.

Squamish Search and Rescue (SAR) crews, BC Ambulance paramedics, BC

Parks and a Blackcomb helicopter responded to the call shortly before noon.

The man was hiking down from Black Tusk towards Taylor Meadows with his family when he suffered and apparent heart attack and collapsed on the trail.

His family immediately called 911 on their cell phone and a BC Parks officer hiked up to the area as SAR crews were dispatched.

"Having that constant, first-hand communication from someone on the scene really helped us," said municipal emergency coordinator Nathan Dubeck. "Just like last week, we worked really well with BC Ambulance and BC Parks and fortunately, the subject turned out to be okay."

The man was airlifted to a landing area just off Industrial Way in Squamish where awaiting medical crews took him to Squamish General Hospital for observation.

"From what I understand from the paramedics, our subject was feeling much better when they arrived," Dubeck said. "He was sitting up in the helicopter."

Police Blotter

Accident shuts down 99

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Speed was a contributing factor in a three-vehicle accident that shut down Hwy. 99 about an hour last day.

Shortly after 6 p.m. on Aug. 17, a 17-year-old youth lost control of his BMW going around a curve near Furry Creek, spinning the vehicle across the centreline of the highway.

An approaching station wagon slammed on its brakes, but collided with the BMW and within seconds a third vehicle was on top of the accident and collided with the station wagon.

Fortunately injuries were minor and only one person had to be taken to hospital," said Cpl. Don Orthner of the Stawamus RCMP.

The Vancouver teen was charged with speeding and failing to keep to the right.

Police are looking for suspects after a late night break-in at Valleycliffe on Aug. 17. The suspects entered the Chestnut Avenue home through an unlocked sliding glass door and stole four items, including a ring.

The owners of the home were inside at the time of the theft, police suspect, but didn't hear anything.

Police are still investigating.

Theft from autos were again a major problem in the corridor, as thieves drove up and down Hwy. 99 causing havoc.

On Aug. 16, suspects broke into a locked vehicle parked at the Stawamus Chief parking lot grabbing CDs, two portable CD players, credit cards, cash and travelers cheques.

Shortly after the first incident, suspects hit a vehicle parked at Porteau Cove.

"The occupants said they left the vehicle for only 20 minutes, but they left the driver's side door open," Orthner said. When they returned, they found a cell phone, $500 in travelers cheques, credit cards, passports and cash missing from their bags.

On Aug. 17, suspects hit Porteau Cove and the Stawamus Chief parking lot again between 4 and 7 p.m.

Suspects grabbed camping gear, a laptop computer, cash, plane tickets, credit cards and cell phones in the pair of break-ins.

In both cases, the owners had locked their vehicles, but the suspects somehow made their way inside.

There was another theft on Aug. 19 near the Deeks Creek Trail and three more on Aug. 21, one at Shannon Falls and two at the Stawamus Chief.

"This is really starting to get out of hand," Orthner said. "In almost all the cases the owners locked their vehicles, so I suspect, the people who are doing this must have a slim jim. To make matters even more frustrating, when the owners returned to their vehicles, they found them locked, so the suspects must be locking the doors after they are finished."

Police once again want to remind the public to not leave anything in their vehicles when parking at or near recreation sites.

Anyone who may have been in any of these areas during the times of the thefts are asked to call police to report the suspicious activity.

"We need to get some help from the public in tracking these suspects down," he said.

Last gasp in the Elaho?

Signs of the impending end of summer: the shortening of the days, the rush of back-to-school shopping and, in Squamish, the annual late-season assault by protesters on the Elaho Valley.

Silly season is just about over, and it looks to have been largely a bust from the protesters' perspective. The predictions by environmental groups of 1,000 arrests in the valley have fallen flat, and the public (read Vancouver) imagination has been more preoccupied with who would be voted off the island in Survivor than with who's in the trees in TFL 38.

But as protesters return to the Elaho this week for what appears to be one final gasp for recognition before the snow flies (and school goes back into session), at least we'll get to see if the provincial Attorney General and Crown counsel will walk their talk and make sure more criminal charges stick against the protesters.

The first protesters charged with criminal charges of mischief, intimidation and obstruction appear in Squamish provincial court today (Aug. 29), and their fate before the courts may determine whether late summer in the Elaho stays peaceful or becomes the storm that follows the calm. Punishment is supposed to deter the wrongdoer from misbehaviour. But arrests for violating International Forest Products' civil injunction have done little more than give the protesters a soapbox to preach from — even when they're nailed with stiff sentences, as several protesters were earlier this summer.

The criminal charges pressed against tree-sitters who came down Aug. 2 and 24-hour patrols by RCMP seem to have cooled the protesters' ardour. Earlier this year, protest groups were crowing over the possibility of 1,000 arrests in the Elaho Valley. But that was talking about arrests for violating a "bubble zone" injunction in the Upper Elaho, not criminal charges. A charge of contempt of court is like a badge of honour in the environmental movement; an attraction rather than a deterrent.

A criminal charge of obstructing a road, on the other hand, is a more serious matter. It stays on the offender's criminal record, making it harder to travel internationally or find work later in life.

The willingness of the Attorney General and Crown counsel to use the tools at their command — and the court's decision when those criminally charged come to trial today — is now critical.

If the charges fail, it will mean another tense fall in the Elaho. But if they stand, the threat of real punishment may take the wind of the already flagging sails of the protesters — and calm the storm in the Elaho.

Patience pays off with a fine Fall Fair

The Brackendale Farmers Institute could give lessons to the rest of us in patience.

After 43 years of working and waiting, their dreams came to fruition Saturday as the Brackendale Fall Fair debuted in its new home on Government Road — a site the BFI has been after since 1957.

The site is accessible, high-profile and perfectly suited to the cavalcade of activities that make the Fall Fair a great community event.

While the former hallmark of the Fall Fair has been the exhibitor's tent, this year's version has multiple attractions, with the petting zoo, hayrides, face painting, live entertainment, arts and crafts and fresh food drawing people of all ages in and keeping them entertained all day.

The Fall Fair, despite its name, is a great way to celebrate the approaching end of summer in Squamish, and we're pleased to see it settled in its new home. Thanks and congratulations to the organizers for their hard work, their dedication and, above all, their patience.

SECURITY GETS BEEFED UP:

Surviving Survivor

Thursday morning was not the most productive day in our office — and I'm willing to bet it wasn't where you work, either.

In fact, if I had criminal tendencies (which, of course, I don't), I'd have picked Thursday morning as the ideal time to rob a bank.

Why? Because at that time, everybody in the world was gathered around the office coffee pot or water cooler, discussing the three-hour finale of the TV "reality" show Survivor.

As you can likely tell, I'm not a fan. I think there's enough reality to be interested in without creating some for the sake of TV ratings.

But apparently, some 50 million people across North America were interested enough to make it a smash hit — and a cash cow. Apparently the winner of the $1-million prize for outlasting his fellow castaways could have used his winnings to buy 45 seconds worth of advertising on the show's finale.

Among those 50 million fans were my parents, who came to visit me recently and on finding out I don't have cable, insisted on going to the neighbourhood pub to demand they put the show on the big screen.

While there, I got to see the insidious effect of this show on people. The pub staff didn't want to put the show on the big screen, which was reserved for sports, so they tucked us into an empty corner with one of the smaller TVs.

Within 10 minutes, the small corner was full, and the public demand put Survivor on the big screen. That's how I got to see my one and only episode of the show.

And to be honest, it wasn't that bad — not that great either, but not unwatchable TV. It's an exercise in mass collective voyeurism, which proves that even reality can be made interesting enough for TV — given heavy editing, of course.

That's when I realized it's not the show that bothers me as much as people's reactions to it. The obsessive front-page media coverage by supposedly respectable national newspapers over the outcome of a TV show, capped by the National Post devoting the first five pages of its Thursday morning paper to the outcome, was probably the scariest part of it. Forget Mother

Tim

THE VIEW FROM HERE

Theresa's death being overshadowed by Princess Diana's; the Pope wouldn't have made the front section of the Post if he'd died Wednesday. The whole thing takes P.T. Barnum's famous quote one step further: not only is there a sucker born every minute, but they can be made to act like lemmings, too. But in the end, they got me; there I was Wednesday, playing piano with a TV on in the next room. I turn my head for a moment just to catch them naming Richard (no last name required, apparently) as the "winner" of a million dollars for the mere price of gross physical indignities and being on public display as a conniving villain-type for 16 weeks on a "reality show".

Hopefully now we can get back to reality — not the made-for-TV kind.

LETTER OF THE WEEK

EcoFest organizer responds

Editor,

I am responding to a letter from Warren Friesen regarding EcoFest 2000.

Thank you for your interest! Our fourth annual event was a great success with over 400 people visiting the site.

Unfortunately, there was a miscommunication with Carney's Waste Systems and due to the statutory holiday Mile 36 was not serviced until mid-day Tuesday, Aug. 8.

I personally visited the site again Tuesday evening and without doubt Mile 36 was cleaner than it had been in years!

Regarding our attendees we drew from Squamish, Vancouver, and Whistler. Not surprisingly EcoFest, although a "public" event, was frequented by active and fringe activists in the National Park movement.

The Elaho Awards were presented to Betty Krawczyk and Sharai Mustatia, two leaders in the wilderness preservation campaign.

Regarding the Western Canada Wilderness Committee, they in fact did not have official representation at EcoFest 1. But we are eagerly anticipating Joe Foy's rousing talk at our sequel EcoFest 2, Sept. 30 Vancouver.

Damian Kettlewell
BC EcoEvent
Chairperson

P.S. Please inquire with your employer, Interfor, why fallen timber cannot be re-assigned to other areas in TFL 38 while the Elaho/national park debate is being settled?

Yes, the debate is still ongoing.

Letters to the Editor

Eco-unfriendly tourism?

Editor,
I think we must get something clear to Whistler council and others concerned with logging in the Whistler area. Remember Whistler was once a beautiful forest with old growth trees, animals, deer, grizzlies and lakes for fishing. Then came the tourists. The forest was clear-cut and the animals chased away. Then the land was paved over with asphalt and concrete so the chance of the land rejuvenating is impossible. It's poisoned now. The rivers are polluted, killing fish and all water life with sewage. At least when the loggers log an area under strict government codes, they plant new trees for the future generations, make new habitat for wildlife. They take the time to upgrade the rivers for better spawning grounds. The forest will grow back in most cases healthier than before. Animals thrive on new growth.

Remember Canadians live here, tourists only visit. Why do we have to sacrifice our forests for them?

How many bears were killed in Whistler last year? How many bears were killed by loggers? Whistler wins this one.

Disgusted by Valleycliffe mess

Editor,
We have been living here in Squamish for three months now and I love it. We picked Valleycliffe to start out as it was close to work and close to a park for our toddler.

I am sad to say how disgusted I am in this area and probably won't last too much longer.

A day in Valleycliffe: wake to barking dogs all over our neighborhood (very early in the morning), cars and motorcycles speeding out of their driveways, (everyone seems to drive like maniacs around here and I have witnessed several times children not buckled in). I decide to walk to the park, only to stumble across broken beer bottles en route. I think I can let my daughter out of the stroller to enjoy the park as one would normally do, only to find dog crap right in the park area, broken glass, garbage and cigarette butts all over. I say to her sorry honey you can't play in this park but I will give you a slide. I look down the slide to find one of the four teenagers who had just left had obviously spit down it. Lovely!

What is it around here? Does anyone know the meaning of respect and safety, especially for our innocent children?

Lisa Saunders

Handouts are the problem, says Reynolds

Editor,
I read with interest in the Aug. 22 edition of The Chief, "The problem with politicians," submitted by Mr. Harry J. Sanders of Britannia Beach.

I have to concur with Mr. Sanders. The problem is one of over 100 years of government handouts on questionable, resource draining projects. Until the government is changed we will see more of the same. It is heartening to see Mr. Sanders, and I suspect others, recognize the problem. I would urge Mr. Sanders and others to get involved in the political process and demand that the government reduce taxes, reduce this waste of taxpayers' dollars and let the economy work on its own. The Canadian Alliance is calling for just that kind of policy.

John Reynolds
M.P., West Vancouver-Sunshine Coast

Cheakamus bridge a dangerous disgrace

Editor,
The road surface of the bridge across the Cheakamus river at Sun Wolf is a total disgrace. There are potholes of several inches in depth and some are 12 inches in diameter! You can poke right into the concrete rebar area underneath. Has anybody at Municipal Hall got an idea how much it will cost when the bridge, due to lousy upkeep, will have to be replaced? Water is seeping into the core and will ruin the structure in a short period of time. What is council going to do about this? Last year, half of the surface was repaired! What a joke! It's like replacing half the tires of your car, yet, the rest are worn down to the steel wire!

In general, the roads in our area look very bad. The edges are not supported so that the hard top surface collapses and large patches of tar are falling out. Council surely is saving money in the wrong places.

Ferdinand Vondruska
Upper Cheakamus

It's Ottawa who's lazy, not the Maritimers

Over the past week, much has been made of comments attributed to a Canadian Alliance official John Mykytyshyn who suggested "Maritimers are lazy." These intemperate and misguided comments forced his resignation as a party official. And rightly so! If Mr. Mykytyshyn wanted to discuss federal grants and programs he should have spoken to that issue. He would have found receptive ears to that has become a wasteful, expensive and anything but an efficacious program to create lasting employment and growth.

These economic development grant programs, not only in Atlantic Canada, but nation-wide, have become the anacea for fixing problems, repeated by successive liberal and Conservative federal governments. Simply put, have they accomplished what they purport to do? Has Atlantic Canada, in particular, been delivered into a more self-sufficient and sustainable economy? I think we all know the answers to these questions.

The problem, per se, is not with the attitude of Atlantic Canadians. It is with the successive federal politicians and their governments, who see the answer to every problem is to buy your way out of it. Misguided and tired subsidy policies have become the easy option. Just throw money at it and the problem will disappear.

No one can blame Atlantic Canadians for procreating this myth. The blame rests squarely with both the federal government and the provincial governments of the Atlantic provinces.

The Canadian Alliance would change that direction

John Reynolds

and offer Maritimers real hope and opportunity and a chance for them to stand on their own. We would lower taxes, improve transportation and communication infrastructure, and develop broad-based and sustainable trade with the New England states. We believe in a policy of respect for Maritimers. We acknowledge their abilities, industrious nature and energy. We believe they want to escape the yoke of subsidies and work with dignity and cause, like any other part of Canada.

We do not believe in third-world politics and policies to keep Canadians dependent.

ATV tours planned for TFL 38

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

An ATV tour featuring the beauty of Tree Farm Licence 38 is in the works for two Squamish couples.

Sea to Sky Eco Tours Ltd. has applied to the B.C. Assets and Lands Corporation (BCAL) for a licence of occupation to run all-terrain vehicle tours on the logging roads of the TFL.

The business is a venture between Tom and Shawn Franklin and David and Jill Gourlay. Jill Gourlay is the president of Sea to Sky Eco Tours.

"The nice thing about it is it's a locally-based company owned and operated by local people," David Gourlay said Saturday.

Approximately $100,000 is needed to start up the tours, and it would be spent here, he said.

Though they haven't nailed down the specifics yet, Gourlay said the tours would be half-day or four-hour tours that include lunch or an evening meal, depending on the time of day. They would be conducted by operators who not only know how to ride ATVs, but about the area they are in. The operations of an active tree farm as well as old-growth and second-growth forests would be a major component of that knowledge.

"When you get up into the vantage spots off some of those spurs [roads], the view is spectacular," he said.

Sea to Sky Eco Tours hopes to capitalize on the fierce competition in Whistler, where room for tours is relatively scarce.

"Millions of dollars go from Vancouver to Whistler every year, and little of it stops here," he said. "It's funny. People in Britain I've talked to have heard of Whistler and of Brackendale [because of the eagles], but they've never heard of Squamish."

"It's such a massive area," he said. "There's so much to show people in the Squamish Valley that they don't have in Whistler. They don't have the salmon runs in Whistler, they don't have the eagles."

There is no time frame for approval of Sea to Sky Eco Tours' tenure. However, they are currently doing public advertising, which includes 30-45 days for public response. If there are no objections, the application then goes to BCAL's land officer for evaluation.

"We know this is a first, and without the support we've received from Interfor [International Forest Products] it'd never happen," said Gourlay, who repeatedly praised the forestry company for its willingness to work with the eco-tourism company.

It was in consultation with

Interfor that concerns over safe use of the logging road, including avoiding the logging trucks, were resolved.

The company also wants to avoid getting caught up in the politics between the forest industry and environmental groups trying to vilify Interfor.

Another company, Eco-Mountain Tours Ltd., which offers day hikes in the Elaho Valley, has accused Interfor of not living up to its claims of co-operation with eco-tourism companies.

They cite the harvesting of two cutblocks north of Lava Creek that include portions of a trail EcoMountain uses as an

Another groovy year for Sea to Sky Singers

That's Murray and Sue Purdie swinging into the 60s theme at the wind-up party of the Sea to Sky Singers' spring season in May.

If you love to sing, why not join the choir this fall?

Rehearsals are held in the Baptist Church every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

For a voice placement interview contact Sheron Johnson at 892-9892. Interviews will be held on Sept. 5 from 6:30 p.m. and also on Sept. 12 from 6:30 p.m. See you there!

Camelot tickets go on sale

Tickets for the Howe Sound Players' production of the musical "Camelot" went on sale yesterday at local ticket outlets and online.

The famous Lerner and Loewe musical will run at the Eagle Eye Community Theatre in Howe Sound Secondary School Oct. 4-7 and Oct. 11-14, and features Laura Dorosh, Ian Brown, Marie Carlson and Tim Shoults, with Richard Wallace as King Arthur.

Famous songs from the Lerner and Loewe musical include "If Ever I Would Leave You" and "The Simple Joys of Maidenhood" as well as the title song "Camelot".

Roseanna Rudolph is directing the production, with Tim Shoults as musical director.

Tickets are $15 for adults and $12 for students and seniors and are available at Mostly Books downtown, Barb's Beehive at Eagle Run in Brackendale and Highland Video.

They are also available on the internet on Mountain Internet's Camelot page at www.mntn.net/camelot.

They're the law on the water

Editor's note: This is the first in a five-part series on Squamish's river and watershed environments. This week we look at the role of Fishery Officers in enforcement and education on Squamish's waterways.

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

The RCMP keep the peace on land, but it's up to a different police force to lay down the law on the water.

The federal Department of Fisheries and Oceans (DFO) has its own force here in Squamish: a trio of trained — and armed — peace officers.

And just like the police, enforcing the rules and regulations is only part of the job.

"We're community police officers, it's just that we do a lot of work on the water as well," said Fishery Officer Murray Gilchrist. "We have partnerships with many groups and enforcement for us is a last resort option. Ideally, the best day for us is when we're out on the water, seeing people having a great time fishing, but within all the rules."

Gilchrist and his fellow officers, David Loop and Rob Harris, are stepping up their public education campaign, with a planned new program called River Watch (see story this page) and a higher public profile. "Public education and awareness of the rules and what we do is very important for the public to see and understand."

Three officers might sound like a lot until you take a look at the patrol area — all of Howe Sound, the Squamish River and tributaries and into the Lillooet River.

"It's a vast area to keep track of," Gilchrist said. "We have a lot of people who live and fish here and then once the fall hits, people flock here from the Lower Mainland and the rest of the province to fish. It takes a lot to keep things under control."

When it comes to river patrol, the officers check to make sure the fishing nets are in compliance with the rules, are marked correctly and trying to establish a presence in the water.

They are also checking water qualities, pollution levels and habitat stocks.

"A lot of times it's just ignorance on the part of the people," Harris said. "We just don't make these rules up. They are all posted at our office, on the web and in the fishing guides that are handing out when you get your licence. We aren't the bad guys here. If people just take the time to do their homework, there wouldn't be any problems, but unfortunately that's not always the case."

When there are problems, they're ready. Fisheries officers are fully armed with a sidearm, handcuffs, baton, and even body armour.

"It might sound like we're going to war, but it's a risky business out there on the water," Gilchrist said. "We train with the RCMP and have all the tools of the trade, just like a police officer. At times were the only ones out there to uphold the laws on the water."

"Federal enforcement is a risky job sometimes," Harris added. "Almost everyone has a knife and 75 per cent of the fisherman have a rifle. You don't know what their backgrounds are or what is going to happen."

"There are lots of cases where officers have been attacked on the water."

Fishery Officers Rob Harris and Murray Gilchrist patrol Squamish's waterways.

Get involved with River Watch

Fishery officers are looking for a few extra pairs of eyes to keep watch on Squamish's waterways.

River Watch is a new community-based program designed to raise the profile of Squamish's rivers.

Fishery Officer Murray Gilchrist is hoping to model the program after similar programs tried around the province.

"There is no real set formula; all you need is to get together people who are keen on the river system," Gilchrist said.

Fisheries currently works with a number of groups in the community and they want to channel that energy into a more organized plan of action.

"We have a positive relationship with RCMP, Search and Rescue and with the Squamish Nation and I would like to see that increase," he said. "I also think there are a lot of community-minded people out there that care about the river and what goes on in Squamish. They just don't know how to get involved or up until now have the means to get involved."

Gilchrist is looking to start the program in early October. "I think there is a definite need for something like this in Squamish."

"We have people out there who are abusing the system, poaching and fishing illegally and I think the public wants to help and with more people involved, it's a lot easier to start solving the problems."

Anyone with information or suggestions to help fisheries start the program can call the Squamish Field Office at 892-3230.

Five years ago this week

Seventy skateboarders hit the brand-new surface of the skate park at Brennan Park as it opened.

The brainchild of local youth worker John Harvey, the project gained credibility when the Rotary Club threw its support behind the idea.

Harvey attributed the successful completion of the $30,000 park to dozens of local businesses and contractors donating cash, supplies and services.

Police building land deal progresses

The next step in securing a site for a new RCMP detachment building could be complete next month, if the province holds to its schedule.

The District of Squamish and the B.C. Assets and Land Corporation (BCAL) are working on a transfer agreement for the Crown land along Finch Drive between Hwy. 99 and Loggers Lane. That land is part of an exchange between the district and the province agreed to when the Stawamus Chief was made a provincial park in 1996.

The ball fields under construction there are under a licence of occupation.

For the RCMP/Squamish Emergency Program building proposed for that location, the district is seeking a separate agreement.

Farmer's market starts downtown

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Cleveland Avenue will be alive with fresh fruits and organic specialties on Saturday morning.

Root Stalk, a new farmer's market, is set to be unveiled and will run every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Halloween.

The market is the brainchild of Shealagh King, who last brought Squamish the Summer Solstice Festival, and promises to have something for everyone.

"It basically answers a demand from both the public and the vendors who want to participate," King said.

"I don't want to take anything away from the merchants who are in the area. I think the market will be a chance to highlight more of our arts and culture and complement what we already have in the area."

The market will be located right beside Mostly Books on the corner of Cleveland and Victoria Street and will also feature music, woodwork, essential oils, herbs, pottery and soaps.

"The vendors have just fallen into my lap," she said.

"Whistler has their market on Sundays, and I didn't want to compete with that, so now both the public and the vendors have the opportunity to do both."

A fine Fall Fair

Congratulations to the Brackendale Farmers Institute for another successful Fall Fair. This one is especially special because of its location. The Farmer's Institute has worked extremely hard preparing the land for the newest crop — a park for people of Squamish and a permanent home for the Brackendale Fall Fair.

The new location gave the fair a totally new feeling but didn't detract from the business at hand, primarily the showcasing of Sea to Sky's produce, preserves, crafts, animals and assorted goodies from the garden and kitchen. Congratulations to all the ribbon winners, but a special shout-out to everyone who volunteered. This is truly a community event that shows the great things we can do when we work together.

On a personal note, I would like to thank Kathleen Mannan for having the Brackendale Fall Fair literally in her back yard for so many years while the Brackendale Farmer's Institute Park was established. Her hard work and selfless devotion helps to make Brackendale a place we are proud to call home.

Monthly bird count set for Sunday

Even though the 43 bird species observed on the Squamish Estuary monthly count of Aug. 6 was below average, the six participants were treated to some fine sightings of "good birds." Three Northern Goshawks were viewed over a 45-minute period by the east-side party, while the west-siders had a Red-tailed Hawk and a Northern Harrier. There were two Lesser Yellowlegs and 20 Least Sandpipers in the East Marsh and two Cliff Swallows flying with the 100 Barn Swallows near Squamish Terminals. Two Peregrine Falcons were seen on Aug. 7 and again Aug. 14. One of them on the 7th was eating one of the Lesser Yellowlegs!

Four ruffed grouse were observed in the Site A forest on Aug. 12 and 14. Also seen there on Aug. 14 was a Barn Owl, the first record for that species in the estuary, qualifying it as the "Bird of the Month" and bringing the Squamish Estuary bird checklist total to 217 species. The next monthly bird count will be held on Sunday, Sept. 3, meeting at 7 a.m. at Howe Sound Inn and Pub.

Gearing up for Community Futures Month

The month of September has traditionally been a very busy month of activity for the Sea to Sky Community and for Community Futures in particular. This year marks one of our busiest Septembers in years.

On Monday, Sept. 11, Community Futures Week is launched in small towns throughout the country. This is the first year such a designation has been made and we look forward to sharing our successes with you like never before.

On Sept. 12, as a part of Community Futures Week, we are hosting a full day "e-business basics" workshop that will take place at the Howe Sound Inn. The cost of this event is only $39 and includes lunch.

The workshop itself will address such topics as: web design, pricing issues, marketing, partnering in e-business, security and privacy issues, and the presenters will be able to answer any question you may ask. The workshop is designed to assist people in small business or those people considering taking the plunge.

Earlier this year we hosted an e-commerce workshop in Whistler and it was the most successful workshop that we have put on.

There is a large appetite for e-business these days, so act quickly to secure your seat at this full day interactive workshop.

The following day, Community Futures Week continues with a full day Marketing workshop at the Best Western Sea to Sky Hotel.

The cost for this workshop is also $39 and likewise includes lunch. This workshop will address the many facets of comprehensive marketing of your business.

Please note that if you register for both workshops, the fee is only $59—this will save you $19. With this savings, the lunches on the two days are effectively free—so please don't tell us there is no free lunch anymore.

On Thursday, Sept. 14, our office will host a full day open house to invite everyone to see our office, meet our staff, and enjoy some complimentary refreshments and snacks.

Jeff Dawson

On Sunday, Sept. 17, the Terry Fox run takes place throughout B.C., Canada and in fact the world. In Squamish, our office has served as coordinator of the event for the past few years. This year's event promises to surpass previous years on both the fun meter and in the amount of dollars raised for cancer research.

Our busy month wraps up with an evening workshop entitled "Selling Skills for Small Business" which will be held at our office on Monday, Sept. 25.

For more information on any of these events, please call our office during normal business hours at 892-5467, or email us at: cfdc@moun-tain-inter.net.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given in accordance with Section 892 of the Local Government Act that a second PUBLIC HEARING will be held on Thursday, September 7, 2000, at 7:00 p.m., in the Mamquam Room of the Best Western Sea to Sky Hotel, 40330 Tantalus Rd., Garibaldi Highlands, Squamish, BC to consider the following By-law:

1. "Squamish-Lillooet Regional District Official Community Plan Amendment Bylaw No. 692, 1999":

The purpose of Bylaw 692 is to incorporate amendments to the Whistler South Official Community Plan Bylaw No. 495 based on a statutory 5 year review of the plan. The amendment includes renaming the plan as the "Electoral Area D Official Community Plan". Bylaw 692 also establishes a framework for future planning at the "sub area" level within Electoral Area D that will provide greater detail about the scale, density, form and character of future development in Area D. Bylaw 692 recommends that sub area plans be considered for Howe Sound East, Upper Squamish Valley, Pinecrest/Black Tusk and the remainder of Area D including Callaghan Valley and Garibaldi at Squamish.

Since the first public hearing in March, 2000, Bylaw No. 692 has been amended to clarify planning principles for sub areas. Reference to "urban" development in Howe Sound East has been deleted. Bylaw 692 recognizes the significant development potential of Howe Sound East and indicates that the overall scale of development and future character of each community (Britannia, Furry Creek and Porteau Cove) will be determined by the sub-area plan. The Howe Sound East Sub Area Plan is to be guided by 12 principles relating to provision of parks/open space, community facilities, a range of housing types and densities, affordable housing in Britannia Beach, commercial development opportunities, infrastructure delivery, consultation with First Nations and environmental protection. The Upper Squamish Sub Area plan is to focus on basic land use issues that reflect the rural values of the community and recognize the limitations to development due to flood hazard and the ALR. Pinecrest/Black Tusk Sub Area planning will make provision for future development that respects the character and scale of the existing community and recognizes the constraints imposed by the Garibaldi Civil Defense Zone hazard.

A copy of the proposed Official Community Plan By-law and relevant background documents may be inspected at the Regional District Office, 1350 Aster Street, Pemberton, BC during office hours 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday (excepting Public Holidays) August 22, 23, 24, 25, 28, 29, 30, 31, and September 1, 5, 6, and 7, 2000. A copy of the Notice and proposed by-law may also be viewed at the District of Squamish Municipal Office, 37955 - 2nd Avenue, Squamish, B.C., or the SLRD website: www.slrd.bc.ca.

The Public Hearing on Squamish-Lillooet Regional District Official Community Plan Amendment Bylaw No. 692, 1999 is to be chaired by a delegate of the Board. A copy of the Board resolution making the delegation is available for public inspection along with copies of the Squamish-Lillooet Regional District Official Community Plan Amendment Bylaw No. 692, 1999 as set out in this notice.

All persons who believe that their interest in property is affected by the proposed Official Community Plan Amendment By-law No. 692 shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard or to present written submissions respecting matters contained in the By-Law at the Public Hearing. If you are unable to attend the hearing, you are invited to forward written submissions to the Regional District Office in advance of the Public Hearing date.

Steven Omstead, Manager of Planning and Development

Squamish in the fast lane

Mark Aisbett carries his town's colours into the Molson Vancouver Indy this weekend

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Speed has always been in his blood.

For as long as Squamish's Mark Aisbett can remember, finding ways to get an adrenaline rush has been his goal.

A professional stunt man and head precision driving instructor for Ross Bentley's (World Champion World Sports Car Series) company, Driving Unlimited, Aisbett will be burning up the track around False Creek this weekend during the Molson Indy Vancouver.

Aisbett will be racing his 1971 Datsun 240Z in the Sports Car Club of B.C.'s (SCCBC) Invitational Sedan race on Saturday before the big boys take over in Sunday's Molson Indy.

It will be Aisbett's first time in the Molson Indy, while friend and fellow driver, Whistler's Paul Bunbury, will be competing in his third Molson Indy race in his 1986 Honda CRV.

"I started doing stunts in 1987 and learned to be a professional driver from there," Aisbett said. "Doing spins and slides and seeing how fast we could push things was just a great high, that I decided to get into serious racing about two years ago. This year, it's been full time along with the stunt work and for me, this race is going to be the ultimate."

The SCCBC race is one of the support events surrounding the Molson Indy race.

It features 45 minutes of racing action on Saturday with a total of 50 cars with drivers from across Canada and the Central and Western U.S.

The sedan race is made up of ex-street cars turned race cars and range from Trans Ams and Camaros to Jaguars and Fieros.

"It's a rush to watch the sedans on the track because they are classed according to their engine capabilities and upgrades, so that the race is evened out to mainly focus on the driver's capabilities," he said. "It's always a thrill to see a little engine that could outperform the big expensive cars. In this race, it can happen."

So far this season, Aisbett has been successful in the SCCBC series.

At River's Edge Raceway in Mission Aug. 6, he was second overall out of four classes.

"We're going to do a lot of prep work because this is the big one for me," Aisbett said. "Usually, it's just me and my wife Monique, but for this race I have a full pit crew. I just want to focus on the driving and I don't want to have to worry about checking the tire pressure.

IAN JACQUES/
THE CHIEF

Mark Aisbett races his 1971 Datsun 240Z at the Molson Vancouver Indy this Saturday.

As a driver, it's very important for me to visualize the race and get myself mentally prepared. We're still over a week away, but I can't wait to get on the track."

The weekend starts for Aisbett on Friday with a practice at 8 a.m. followed by qualifying at 4:45 p.m. and 5:20 p.m.

On Saturday, there is a warm-up session for the drivers at 1 p.m. with the race set to go at 5 p.m.

And you won't have any trouble spotting his car on the track as they plan to adorn the outside with all of their sponsors from Squamish, including The Chief.

"Certainly top 10 would be great, but a spot on the podium would be the ultimate," he said. "We've received so much support from the people of Squamish, it would be nice to get on the winner's podium for them."

"I just want to put in a solid race, and see where it takes us."

Gardner strikes out at worlds

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Their bats went ice cold at the wrong time.

Greg Gardner GM Men's Fastpitch Club were bounced out of the North American Fastpitch Association (NAFA) World Series in Fargo, North Dakota Thursday after three straight losses.

Gardner started play Aug. 23, losing a 1-0 heartbreaker to the Omaha Metros from Nebraska.

Doug Allin pitched a strong game for Gardner, allowing only three hits. Allin's only mistake was one pitch — it ended up over the fence.

Game two was another tight affair, with Gardner on the short end of another 1-0 game to Shenanigan's Fastpitch Club.

Terrance Shedlock got the start for Gardner and was equally as strong as Allin, giving up the lone run on only a pair of hits.

"Our pitching and defence was tremendous, our bats just went super cold," said player/manager John Stuart. "It just wasn't a case of a few of the guys struggling, the whole team went into a slump."

In game three, Gardner's bats woke up a bit, as they held leads of 3-0 and 5-4, but couldn't hold on to the lead losing 9-5 to the Toronto Jaguars.

"It's heartbreaking, embarrassing, but the bottom line is, I think we were just a little too confident going in," Stuart said.

Pirates plunder in lightning at provincials

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Hail, thunder and lightning plagued the Squamish Pirates in their bid for gold at last weekend's Provincial Swim Championships, sending swimmers dashing for cover at the outdoor Spani pool in Coquitlam.

But, the foul weather didn't stop the Pirates' quest, as the club sent three members to the medal podium.

Kelly Kaye won gold in the Division eight 100m breaststroke, and Theresa Erickson and Alison MacKellar who won bronze as members of the Vancouver and District Division one medley relay team.

Theresa swam breaststroke and Alison, the butterfly on the relay team, along with two members from the North Vancouver Cruisers.

The rest of the Pirates team achieved some major personal accomplishments.

The Division one girls relay team (Pirate Pretties) put in a strong performance, finishing fourth in the province in the medley relay, with Claire Ourom swimming backstroke, Theresa breaststroke, Alison butterfly and Amy O'Brien freestyle.

The same team also finished seventh in the freestyle relay.

In Division six, the Beach Babes (Tamara Loney, Alysha Loney, Shawna Erickson and Deanna Erickson) put in a good performance, coming 15th in the heats for the 200m freestyle relay.

In the individual events, Alison reached the final of the Division one girls 50m butterfly, finishing sixth. She also qualified for the consolation finals, finishing 12th in the 50m freestyle, 12th in the 100m individual medley and 13th in the 100m freestyle.

Kelly, who took over as head coach this month from Erin Otto, also reached the finals of the Division eight girls 50m butterfly and 50m freestyle, where she finished fourth.

Other swimmers reached the consolation finals.

In Division one girls, Claire finished 12th in the 50m breaststroke and 15th in the 100m freestyle while Theresa finished 15th in the 50m breaststroke.

In Division three girls, Deanna Erickson finished 15th in the 50m breaststroke.

In Division three boys, Linden Drygas finished 13th in the 50m freestyle and Jordan Mulholland finished 16th in the 50m butterfly.

In Division five boys, Philip MacKellar came 15th in the 100m butterfly and finished 21st in the heats in the Division five boys 50m butterfly.

Philip also represented the Vancouver and District Region by swimmer butterfly on the 4x50m medley relay team, which finished fourth.

Also competing was Tamara, who was unfortunate in the 200m individual medley when she was disqualified for her backstroke turn, for the first time in six years.

Jordan and Linden also swam on the Division three boys Regional Medley Relay team, but were disqualified.

Hogg grabs tour win

Squamish's Ashley Hogg was the story at the fifth stop on the Canada Post Sea to Sky Junior golf tour Aug. 15 in Pemberton.

Hogg's career round of 75 gave her the junior girls title on a spectacular afternoon.

On the par three 17th, Hogg played a brilliant five iron shot to within two feet of the hole and made birdie.

She then birdied the 18th to close out her solid round and capture the title.

Hogg was not the only player to have their best round of the year — Whistler's Sandy Tyler shot 83 to win the junior boys low net, while fellow Whistlerite Trevor O'Reilly made three birdies on the day to finish second on the junior boys side with a score of 75.

Other top scores from the day included Squamish's Scott Sellers with a 77 and Stephanie Sellers with a 96.

Rock solid

Three members of the Squamish Rock Boxing Club are in sunny California this week competing in one of the biggest tournaments in North America.

Wayne Jackson, Steve Featherston and Nadine Wagner are in Los Angeles for the Blue and Gold tournament competing alongside 250 other boxing hopefuls.

Jackson will compete in the super heavyweight class, Featherston in the 156-pound weight class and Wagner in the 106-pound weight class.

Iron six finish in style

They're all a little sore, but Squamish should be proud of six athletes who finished the Ironman Triathlon in Penticton on Sunday.

Gord Addison finished with an overall time of 10:47:29 with Patrick Wadge close on his heels in a time of 10:57:41.

Stephan Guerin was next in a time of 12:26:10 with Dawn Kardos breaking the tape in a time of 13:01:03.

Andrea Kardos was the next to finish as she came in with a time of 14:20:50.

Mae Palm rounded out the results as she finished strong in a time of 15:16:06.

"It was a pretty hard and I think the last portion was the toughest for everyone," Addison said from Penticton on Monday morning.

It's beginning to look a lot like school

The Labour Day weekend coming up heralds the end of summer holidays for students and teachers and the beginning of a new school year starting on Sept. 5. Although they might not readily admit to it, I think most students are glad to be getting back to the books.

On Sunday (Sept. 3), families are invited to the Labour Day Picnic sponsored by the Squamish & District Labour Committee. It will be held at the Squamish Pavilion from noon to 4 p.m. and will include kids games, face painting and music. Hot dogs, chips and pop will be served up to hungry participants.

The Squamish Estuary conservation Society invites birders to take part in the monthly bird count on Sunday (Sept. 3). Those interested are asked to meet at the Howe Sound Inn at 7 a.m. Jim Wisnia is the count coordinator and if you wish more information, contact him at 898-2000.

After a refreshing break, the Sea to Sky Singers will resume weekly practices starting Tuesday (Sept. 5) in the Squamish Baptist Church. New members are always welcome and voice placement interviews will be held at 6:30 p.m. For an appointment please call Sharon Johnson at 892-9892. Regular members are asked to be at the church at 7 p.m. for registration. The choir director is Colleen Koop and she is looking forward to beginning a new season with this very enthusiastic group.

Back to School Daze is planned at the Aquatic Centre this Friday (Sept. 1) from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Join the staff for fun games like sponge shoot, backwards basketball, balloon toss, jello eating and more.

Registrations are now being taken at the Brennan Park Recreation Centre for Fall Tot Time. Keep your eyes alert as the Fall recreation brochures will be in the mail soon.

A 30-year Howe Sound Secondary School reunion is planned for Saturday, Sept. 30 at the Squamish Valley Golf and Country Club. Most former students have been notified and many have committed to attending but some have not registered or paid their fees as yet. Please do so as soon as possible and if you wish more information, call Joanne at 898-5177 or Nancy at 892-9236.

Stork Story - KORMENDY - Chris and Marcy (nee Drenka) Kormendy are pleased to announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, Eden Hope, weighing 8 lb. 8 oz and born in the Squamish General Hospital on Aug. 15. The proud grandparents are Wayne and Rae Drenka and Rick and Leslie Kormendy of Squamish. Also welcoming baby Eden are great-grandparents Bob and Rose Buss of Surrey and Clair Howe of Chilliwack. Chris and Marcy express special thanks to Doctors Weins, Doyle and Patterson and all the nurses and staff at SGH.

Take the family out to Alice Lake tonight (Aug. 29) for the last Family Fun Night of the summer. This evening of fun is co-sponsored by B.C. Parks and the Brennan Park Recreation Centre. Activities get underway at 7:30 p.m.

In his 65th year, Walter Clarke has done the Victoria-Maui race and the return journey in the 50-foot Windshadow. September marks 40 years of marriage to Charlotte in October as well as Walter's official retirement. The year 2000 is certainly proving to be a memoorable one for the Clarkes.

The Squamish Gardeners are pleased to be having David Tarrant visit Squamish with a presentation at the Eagle Eye Community Theatre on Sept. 7. He is a highly respected horticultural expert and host of the CBC's television show the Canadian Gardener. Tickets are available at Billie's Bouquet at $5 for members and $8 for non-members.

Three youngsters celebrate first birthdays this week and they are: Alex Schultheiss on Aug. 31, Samantha Ryan-Hansen on Sept. 1, and Rachel Brown-Higgins on Sept. 2.

Congratulations to long-time residents Karol and Maria Misiurka, who will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary this Saturday (Sept. 2) surrounded by family and friends. Although both Karol and Maria were born in Poland, they moved extensively throughout Europe and

Bike trails built this weekend

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

Get your best gloves on, grab your shovel and be prepared to get a little dirty this weekend.

Members of the International Mountain Bike Association (IMBA) will be in Squamish promoting trail maintenance — one of only two stops in B.C. this year.

The weekend will be broken down into two components centered around a trail building school.

On Saturday morning starting at 9 a.m., there will be a slide presentation on proper trail construction, followed by lunch at the Howe Sound Inn and Brew Pub.

In the afternoon, participants will take what they've learned from the slide presentation during an on-trail evaluation session.

On Sunday, the school is wrapped up with on-site trail construction all day also encompassing members of the Squamish Off Road Cycling Association (SORCA).

"If you ever wanted to learn more about trail maintenance or getting involved, this is for you," said organizer Brad Walkey. "We see this as not only a chance for our SORCA members to get involved, but getting new people involved in the community as well. If you have your own tools — bring them, because you'll need them."

There is a $10 fee for the school and even if you can't take part in both sessions, Walkey is encouraging people to make it out on Sunday.

The trail that will be worked on is the Power Smart Trails just off Diamond Head Road.

"If we can get three to four km of trail built, it'll be a great legacy for us," said SORCA president Cliff Miller, who is also helping to organize the event.

For more information, check out the SORCA website at SORCA.org, register through Walkey by email at trailrat@look.ca or call him at 898-9855.

COMMERCIAL RECREATION GUIDES AND OPERATORS

Closing Date for New Park Use Permit Applications

BC Parks will be accepting applications for non-exclusive commercial recreation guiding activities in provincial parks in the Garibaldi/Sunshine Coast District for a limited time only.

Commercial recreation tour guides, operators and instructors wishing to operate within these parks for the winter 2000/01 and summer 2001 operating seasons must apply in writing to the district office. Opportunities are limited.

All applications must be received at the district office by October 6, 2000.

This requirement will assist BC Parks in processing application in an efficient and timely manner which, in turn, will provide successful applicants with a certainty of business operations in provincial parks ahead of the operating season.

Applications received at a later date may not be processed for the upcoming season.

Successful applicants will be required to provide proof of applicable insurance and pay a permit fee of $100.00 plus GST, per park, for a maximum one-year permit.

For further information and/or a park use permit application package; please contact the district office at:

Have you had a relaxing summer vacation? The "Back to School" signs tell us that summer is just about over and are a reminder to us that it's time to resume our many church activities on a more regular basis.

First of all, you are invited to a family picnic on September 10, (late noon). For more info, call Knights of Columbus: 898-3164.

To register your child for religious instruction or for detailed information regarding the same, please call Mary Durig: 898-9434.

When choosing your child's' extracurricular activities, please make your child's religious instruction a priority.

Keep posted for our adult religious ed programs.
