Downtown university site possible

Cattermole rezoning may still affect decision on pilot campus

By Darren Gallagher
 Reporter

A downtown campus for the private university is up for consideration in, even as deadlines are extended for the sale of land destined for its campus.

The District of Squamish put out a call for proposals Feb. 12 for Lot R, a 26-hectare parcel of land bounded by Pemberton Avenue and Bailey Street between Fourth and Sixth avenues.

The land was assessed at a value of $10,000 on July 21, 2000.

Municipal land cannot be sold unless it goes through a public call for proposals, even if the district has only one interested party.

"We are considering submitting a proposal for a pilot campus on Lot R," Peter Ufford, the project leader for the Howe Sound Educational Foundation said Friday.

The HSEF is the non-profit entity set up to realize the dream of project leader David Strangway, the former president of UBC.

"They [district] need somebody like me... somebody has to step up and make that first significant downtown investment," said Ufford.

A pilot campus on Lot R could accommodate 200 students, as well as the market housing needed to finance the project.

Once district approvals are granted, Ufford said, making September 2004 a "very comfortable date" for opening, with September 2003 a possibility.

The call for proposals includes a requirement to either construct a seniors resource and activity centre, or provide 1,010 square metres of space, or finance a centre elsewhere.

"Bottom line was we intended for [developers] to provide a seniors resource and activity centre," Mayor Corinne Lonsdale said Friday. Proposals must be in by April 9; council's decision is expected in May.

However, the re-emergence of B.A. Logging Ltd.'s wood chip mill facility proposal for the Cattermole mill is a concern for the HSEF.

Lot R, a 26-acre parcel at the north end of downtown Squamish, may be the site of the university's pilot campus.

"While we have no opposition to the development of a downtown wood chip facility we now know categorically it would have an effect on us financially if it were in that location," said Ufford.

"We now know it wouldn't have cancelled our project in Squamish, it would certainly have hampered the creation of a pilot campus downtown."

The HSEF is now waiting to see the outcome of G.B.A.'s application to rezone its site to allow the chip facility; plans to immediately build the facility were scrapped earlier this month when financier Howe Sound Pulp and Paper backed out.

In the meantime, the HSEF is working on satisfying conditions of sale attached to 114 hectares southeast of the Garibaldi Highlands. The HSEF signed a $2-million purchase agreement with Merrill & Ring Sept. 5.

That land isn't sufficient for the complete university, which would cost approximately $120 million and house 1,200 students at completion.

Though financing is in place, the HSEF wants to extend the deadline to begin the Official Community Plan and zoning amendment process from March 1 to June 29.

Ufford met with council Feb. 20 to discuss this and other matters relating to the university.

"In order for us to do the readings, they have to submit the necessary information," Lonsdale said.

"The ball's in their court."

Billy straight to trial

Direct indictment granted in seniors assault case

By Ian Jacques
 Reporter

Twenty-six-year-old Brendan Dominic Billy will be going to trial a little earlier than expected.

It was reported last week that the former resident of Squamish accused of sexually assaulting three seniors Jan. 14 would be back in court Aug. 20 for a preliminary inquiry, but on Thursday a new development in the case changed things.

Crown counsel Trevor Cockfield confirmed that they have been granted permission from the deputy attorney general to directly indict Billy, thus bypassing the preliminary hearing.

"It's very rare to see something like this granted direct indictment," Cockfield said.

"The nature of the case was a factor, but because we're before the courts, I can't comment any further."

Cockfield said Crown counsel in Squamish has sent all files pertaining to the case to the B.C. Supreme Court in Vancouver for review.

Cockfield hopes that a decision on a trial date from the Supreme Court will be made in the next month or so.

Billy was denied bail by a North Vancouver judge Feb. 6, meaning he will be in custody at least until a trial is complete or a guilty plea entered.

The Lower Mainland resident faces three charges of sexual assault, two charges of assault with a weapon — specifically a knife and a rolling pin — and one count of uttering a threat.

Billy was arrested at the Manors housing complex after police received a pair of reports of sexual assaults.

Protesters get reduced jail time

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

Two more Elaho protesters had their prison sentences cut last week as the B.C. Court of Appeal once again decided penalties imposed for contempt of court were too harsh.

One of the two who successfully appealed their sentences was Barney Kern, 36.

Along with Betty Krawczyk, 73, Kern shared the distinction of being handed the harshest penalty in B.C. history for contempt of court, a year in jail.

Krawczyk's sentence was reduced to time served — four months and 10 days — Jan. 25.

On Feb. 20, Kern and Justin Paine, 19, won appeals of sentences handed out by B.C. Supreme Court Justice Glen Parrett for breaching an injunction against interfering with logging by International Forest Products Ltd. in the upper Elaho Valley in 1999.

Kern's sentence was cut to six months from one year, and Paine's to time served — 32 days — from 60 days.

Barney Kern

Betty Krawczyk

The Appeal Court again tossed out Parrett's prohibition of parole for Elaho protesters; Kern was released Oct. 27 after launching his appeal, but had already served 42 days and will be eligible for parole in 18.

Paine, who was 17 at the time of the offence, must live at his mother's home in Ontario and attend school, which he was doing prior to returning to B.C. for the appeal.

Including Kern and Paine, five of 13 people Parrett convicted of illegal protests in the Elaho have successfully appealed their sentence.

Appeals are still in the works for Reasha Wolfe and Chris Nolan.

"If there's anything these sentences and appeals have shown, it's the great inequity between those in the timber industry who have been charged with violent crimes ... and environmental protesters who have been charged with non-violent actions," said Joe Foy of the Western Canada Wilderness Committee.

That subsequent protesters have been dealt with via Criminal Code offers has Foy said, because it means sentencing is based on established guidelines.

He noted an Elaho protester who illegally blockaded a road Oct. 23 was given a sentence much like those handed out to five loggers who destroyed the protest camp in the Elaho on Sept. 15, 1999.

Krawczyk, who staged her protests on the law of the B.C. Legislature, made a return to the court in a more official fashion in spring.

The 73-year-old activist has put her name forward as a nominee for the Green Party in the Vancouver-Kensington riding where, successful, she would be Premier Ujjal Dosanjh's seat.

Open houses planned to review new LRMP

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

The public gets its first look at the plan to determine how land in the Squamish Forest District is used this week as open houses start Thursday.

The Sea to Sky land and resource management plan (LRMP) would determine how to manage areas for resource extraction, commercial recreational use and the level of each type of use in various areas.

The open houses will feature maps and members of the inter-agency planning team available to answer questions.

"The primary purpose of the open houses is to receive public input on the issues and problems that need to be addressed the LRMP," Peter Jones, program manager for B.C.'s Land Use Co-ordination Office (LUCO), said Friday.

Squamish's open house will take place Tuesday, March 6 from 5-9 p.m. at the Best Western Sea to Sky Hotel.

Budget cuts on the way

Council sends 4% tax increase back to staff

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

The District of Squamish is facing an $862,000 budget shortfall, but councillors have already stated they're unwilling to make up such a sum with property tax increases.

Council had its first discussion of the draft 2001 budget Feb. 13 at a committee of the whole meeting.

The three primary reasons for the shortfall are a federally-determined $308,000 increase in the cost of the RCMP, the lack of a surplus from 2000 (surpluses usually run a round $300,000) and an anticipated one to two per cent increase in the district's $5 million in staff wages under a new collective agreement.

Staff recommended a four per cent tax increase to cut the deficit to $500,000, and an additional $400,000 cut in capital spending. Councillors directed staff to come back with recommendations to reduce spending and balance the $21,894,210 budget.

"You cut services or increase revenues, that's the only way to get rid of a deficit," Mayor Corinne Lonsdale said Wednesday.

"We're in an $862,000 deficit, and that's not something we're willing to look at," she said of making up the deficit with higher taxes.

"We're milking the business cow pretty good right now ... and I don't think the residents will be willing to pay either," district administrator Grant McRadu. "It's scraping bottom at this point."

Most communities use such a process every three or four years, he said.

"Over the last two years we've done zero-based budgets. And over the last two years we've increased our expenditures by almost a million dollars," said Coun. Paul Lalli.

Anema warned against significantly cutting capital projects like roads or sewer systems, though they're a favorite target during deficit reductions.

"Short-term relief, at the expense of the long term."

Coun. Raj Kahlon said at the Feb. 13 meeting.

"In tough times you have to tighten the belt, and it is tough times," said Coun. Rick King of cutting services, but expressed hope developments like Garibaldi Village mall would make 2002 better.

Anema noted staff already cut the deficit from $1.23 million, but decisions on the level of service offered to the community are up to council, not staff, he said.

A survey will be included in the next district newsletter to determine the community's budget priorities.

The district once again pursued a 90 per cent base budget, in which staff must justify expenditures beyond 90 per cent of last year's budget.

Kim Anema, district manager of financial services, said the repeated use of this process is very difficult for staff, almost offensive.

"We've done it a couple years in a row," said dis-

New investor sought for Garibaldi at Squamish

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

Wolfgang Richter has another 60 days to secure a new investor for Garibaldi at Squamish, the proposed ski resort on Brohm Ridge.

Richter's company, Garibaldi Alpen, was given exclusive rights to develop a four-season resort in the area, but had to complete a master plan under an environmental assessment (EA) and the Canadian Alpine Ski Policy (CASP) within four years.

The four years end Feb. 28.

The loss of one of three investors early in 1999 derailed the company's ability to complete the work, estimated to cost $6 million.

Charles Littledale, senior land officer for B.C. Assets and Land Corporation (BCAL), last met with Richter and a potential investor Feb. 13.

"We're working on extending the deadline for two months and we've just sent a letter to Wolfgang in that regard," Littledale said.

The extension will give Garibaldi Alpen time to negociate with investors, and meet the province's requirements to expose who will be involved in the project.

Once the legal agreements are in place, BCAL will consider additional extensions to complete the EA and CASP processes.

Since losing the investor, Richter has made a number of predictions as to when the EA and CASP would be completed.

The latest called for the process to be done and provincial approval issued in last September.

Student numbers dropping at Stawamus

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

Out-of-bounds students at Valleycliffe and Squamish elementary schools will be required to attend Stawamus Elementary School next year because Stawamus' enrolment is too small.

At their meeting Feb. 14, Howe Sound school district's board of trustees passed several motions to deal with the declining enrolment at Stawamus, which has fallen to the point where other schools contributed financially to the school's budget this year.

Starting in September, all students at Valleycliffe who live in another catchment area will be enrolled at that area's school, and all new students in Stawamus' catchment area must attend Stawamus.

Estimates put Valleycliffe at 22 students over capacity next year; 33 students who should be at Stawamus attend Valleycliffe. "We don't have room at our other schools for those 134 students [at Stawamus]. For the time being we have to keep that school open and viable," said board chair Amy Shoup.

"Stawamus is not financially viable," said superintendent of schools Linda Rossler.

Chris Platz, chairman of the district parents advisory committee, pointed out a number of families have attended Valleycliffe for years and the board will likely face appeals of the policies.

A Valleycliffe parent himself, Platz said granting one appeal would be like opening up the floodgates.

"We want to make sure we can provide the same kind of service that every school in the district can provide," Stawamus' principal, Brent Spiedel, said Thursday.

"In a small school like this, one or two kids who are of a higher learning need can really make a difference."

Special needs children often cost more than the province provides; finding the rest of the money in a budget based on 134 students is far more difficult than in a budget based on 1,200 students, Spiedel said.

While one of the board's motions was to identify facilities needing upgrades in the Stawamus and Valleycliffe area, Spiedel pointed out Stawamus' design isn't necessarily a bad thing.

Classrooms are far larger in an old school, the school's isolated position means no traffic and makes strangers highly visible, and the heating/ventilation systems have all been upgraded in the last year.

"I think this is a great place for kids," said Spiedel. "As far as the staff and programs go we take a back seat to no one."

More talk radio for tourists

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

A proposal to bring a new medium to attract highway travellers into Squamish received support from council Feb. 20, but no financial commitments.

TravelTalk is a project of the Cameron Bell consultancy, whose principal partner is a veteran of broadcast journalism.

Bell came to council Feb. 13 with a proposal to create a low-power FM radio to serve a 15-kilometre broadcast area north of and in Squamish.

"People who are travelling need information and want information," Bell said. "Whether they are from home or more they rely on a narrow range of information resources."

Each 20-minute program would feature both permanent attractions, such as hiking trails, and special events like the eagles or Loggers Sports.

"The program is tailored to how long it takes to run through the corridor," Bell said.

Run by a computer, the script could be changed daily via telephone, but TravelTalk's experience at its Port Alberni station has even aggressive marketing resulting in only three to four changes a week.

"I know it's difficult to envision yourself in a vehicle listening to that, but when you see it coming at you on the highway it's really quite effective," said Coun. Wendy Magee.

On a trip through the area, Magee said, the TravelTalk program resulted in her stopping in Port Alberni twice when she otherwise wouldn't have stopped at all.

Bell noted the Port Alberni visitor centre offered a coupon book, advertising it on TravelTalk; people picked them up at the rate of one an hour.

Each hour includes six minutes of advertising, or two minutes per program, Bell explained. If the district were to purchase all six minutes, it would cost less than $43,000 for the year. The advertising time could then be resold or used by the district for additional information.

Alternatively, another agency such as the Chamber of Commerce, to which Bell also made a presentation, could sell the advertising.

In Port Alberni, TravelTalk was operated on a fee-for-service contract with a business improvement association until last year. Ads are now being sold through the local tourism association.

Council offered Bell a letter of support for the proposal, to use when approaching the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission for licensing and the Ministry of Transportation and Highways for signage.

They did not make any commitments to buy any advertising, however.

Brit mine clean-up deadline extended

By DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

Companies potentially responsible for the cleanup of Britannia Mine will have a little longer to solidify a deal reached with the provincial government, courtesy of a vacation.

Named as potentially responsible parties are Atlantic Richfield Corp. (ARCO), Canzinc Ltd., and Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa) and three subsidiaries, Ivaco/Arrowhead Metals Ltd., and the federal and provincial governments.

The agreement in principle was negotiated between the private companies and the province, but does not include landowner Copper Beach Estates Ltd. (CBEL) or the federal government.

It was subject to conditions that had to be satisfied by Feb. 28, but due to the vacation of Ron Driedger, deputy director of waste management for the B.C. environment ministry, the conditions are being held in abeyance until March 5.

If the deal is not signed off on by all parties, including the province, by then, Driedger has said remediation orders will be used to compel action.

In the meantime, Britannia Beach residents are watching the situation very carefully.

In April 1999, CBEL president Tim Drummond promised residents to give Britannia Beach to the tenants as part of the remediation process.

However, that promise was based on a cleanup plan that fell through.

"We are being reassured by everybody the community will be looked after, but nobody knows how," land transfer committee member Betty Shore said Friday.

School board upgrade at $237,000

BY DARREN GALLAGHER
Reporter

A renovation of the Howe Sound School District board offices could be under way as early as this week after trustees approved the $237,316 contract with Willow Spring Construction on Feb. 14.

The work will add a second fire-proof vault for storage of documents legislation requires be kept safe, a dedicated storage room, four new offices and two meeting rooms, one of which will be created by converting two other rooms.

The work also includes ventilation and heating upgrades similar to those done at three older elementary schools.

The renovation will also allow the board meeting room to be locked off from the rest of the offices, making it available to rent.

The board of trustees bought locally when looking at bids for a replacement service truck from Greg Gardner GM.

The bids from Gardner and instead of the lower bidders Carter Chevrolet Oldsmobile in North Vancouver specified identical vehicles, but Gardner's bid of $23,075 was $996 higher than Carter — the budget was $28,000.

A motion to buy the vehicle from Carter was defeated with board chairwoman Amy Shoup and Trustee Don Ross in the minority. They opposed buying the vehicle from Greg Gardner.

Trustee Judy Bourhis said good relations with the corporate community is worth paying a little more.

Trustee Andr e Janyk said buying the vehicle from the company that would service it could mean getting breaks on maintenance.

Police Blotter

24unches fly after rear-ender

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

48-year-old former resident of Squamish now living in Vancouver is facing numerous charges after a two-vehicle accident turned ugly last

Feb. 16 just before 2 Squamish RCMP were called to Hwy. 99 and Cleveland Avenue.

Additional 911 calls indicated as a result of the accident two men were involved in a fight.

When police arrived, witnesses advised that one man had been driving dangerously and had deliberately caused the second man to rear-end the vehicle, according to Det. Allison Good.

Other police investigation revealed that the first man had allegedly struck the second man and left the scene.

The first man smashed the hood of a third vehicle at the accident scene and fled on foot," Good said.
Fortunately, due to the cooperation of witnesses, police were able to locate and identify the first man.

RCMP are forwarding a recommendation to Crown counsel for several criminal charges including impaired driving and refusing to provide a breath sample.

A 40-year-old Washington state woman will be back in court next month to set a trial date in connection with the driving death of a Mayne Island man in late November of last year.

Carolyn Keyes will be in Squamish provincial court
March 13, where a trial date will likely be set.

Keyes is charged with impaired driving causing death, operating a vehicle while impaired and refusing to provide a breath sample.

The charges stem from an accident Nov. 30 on Hwy. 99 when the vehicle Keyes was driving allegedly struck another vehicle driven by Kevin Piertzac.

A 30-year-old Squamish man is facing impaired driving charges after allegedly crashing into a BC Hydro box.

Last Saturday night (Feb.
17) RCMP and Squamish Fire Rescue crews were called to a home on Ayr Drive.

According to Const. Scott
Stoughton, the suspect backed into the Hydro box and then left the scene.

"The box was in flames
when a witness called fire crews," Stoughton said.

"Thanks to witness information and a description of the vehicle we were able to locate it later on Government Road."

Police arrested the man and he will appear in Squamish provincial court to answer to the charges later in March.

BC Hydro reported that power was out in the area for several hours that night and estimate the damage to the power box to be between $5,000 and $7,000.

Police are looking for suspects after a break-in at a Kingswood Road home.

On Feb. 14 just after 4 p.m., police were called after the home owner discovered that two boat motors, a Mercury five-horsepower and a Honda three-horsepower, were stolen from the back of his boat parked in his driveway.

Police are still investigating.

Two bikes were stolen from a Hwy. 99 residence on Feb.
15 just after 5 p.m.

A red Norco boys 15-speed mountain bike and a black boys BMX bike with 20" tires were stolen from the home.

The mountain bike was later found by the owners destroyed, while the second bike has yet to be recovered.

Police have no suspects.

A few bad apples hurt us all

Editor,
This is only aimed at the people who have behaved so poorly. Unfortunately, a few bad apples reflect negatively on all of you.
I would like to tell you about a man; a good man and a good family. Before you publicly cheer, high-five or pat each other on the back, please allow me my two bits. Just so no one screams "bias!" I will state that I am a friend of the Richmond family. I could not be at the meeting Feb. 5 as I didn't dare bring my children to witness the barbarism. I will have to live with that.

What you will have to live with is far worse, however. Mr. Sutherland was quoted spewing untruths as to why the deal with G.B.A. fell through. It certainly was not because they finally saw things your way. I am all for democracy and your right to express your opinion. What you are not entitled to is to try to ruin families' lives and then gloat.
Your group has proven that any number of tricks (bussing people in, enhancing applause) are justified to get what you want. I'm sure there are people in your group who truly believed their position was good for the environment. I wonder if they know that some in their camp were motivated by jealousy and greed?

Indeed, there are people in the logging industry and those who want to build townhouses there that were serving only themselves.
I cannot speak for the other families of G.B.A., as I do not know them. I can, however, attest to what kind of people the Richmond family are.
I feel obligated to state that not only have I not discussed these issues in depth with Greg, he doesn't know of this letter. He will read this when you do. This family has faced more personal tragedy and adversity than any other family I know. It is incredible how much they have had to overcome. Not only did they, they did it with pride and dignity and then gave so much to this town.

Not only has it been G.B.A. that has taken the high road throughout this, no one should forget that council approved the permit. Based on this, people risked it all. You will never know how much this has cost them and I'm sure you don't care. Now you say you didn't mean for that to happen. Well you don't get to play that card. You can't pretend to be concerned now. I doubt this has cost any of you one dime of your own money.

People wonder why good, hard-working families are leaving Squamish. This type of behaviour, mentality and refusal to grow is a big part of it.
As a home-owning taxpayer I hope G.B.A. sues this city (and members of your group if possible) for this nightmare.
We will all have to pay for it but that is O.K. with me.
You people should hang your heads in shame that you are so gleefully destroying people's lives. These people put everything on the line only after being given the go-ahead. Also, I went down to the site. If you people didn't want it there, you simply didn't want it anywhere, regardless of your statements otherwise.

I just thought you needed reminding that this "facility", this "thing" that you fought to destroy are actually people; people I'd choose to be friends with any day over the likes of you.
Suzanne Edmundson
Squamish

Time to harness our energies in a positive way

Editor,
Well, congratulations to the CHIPS people. They've succeeded far beyond their modest dreams.
Not only has the chip reload facility been relocated from the Squamish port area; it's been relocated right out of the District.
As they have stated that they are not a one-issue group, I'm sure they will not be content to rest on their laurels.

What's next? Get rid of that ugly sawmill across from their condos?
They can actually see and hear it! And it even produces chips. Or the Interfor log sort? It's only as far south as the reload proposal, and they make chips out of logs.
From the letters to the various papers and the public meeting presentations, I got the feeling that many people who opposed the facility were against it solely because it was industrial. How many people have actually gone out and seen where it is physically and then placed it on a map? And read the relevant sections of the Official Community Plan?

The facility would have been in the Squamish port area, not the downtown south area. The OCP recommends expansion of the port, specifically with industries that utilize both rail and sea.

Some people would have been affected by the reload facility, i.e., the residents of the south end of Second Avenue.
The extreme southeast residence would have been kitty-corner (across Cattermole Slough) to the extreme northwest of the facility.

However the area has been zoned industrial for almost 50 years and the OCP does mention the possibility of higher noise levels due to industrial and commercial operations.
Other than signing G.B.A.'s petition, I have been silent during all this as it didn't really affect me and I assumed everything was being handled "in the normal way." And I take comfort in the thought that, even if Squamish were to lose its industrial tax base and our taxes soared, the taxes on my shack will still be much less than the taxes of those who killed the project.

And, yes, harness some of that excess energy to clean up the waterfront from Marina Estates to the Yacht Club.
Vic Drought
Squamish

Can't understand all the hostility

Editor,
Prior to my retirement in 1997, I had worked extensively at the Fiberco chip handling facility in North Vancouver. Over a period of 20 years, I had worked in all production phases of that operation; the movement of log cars, operating the log loader and operating the chip loader.
The hostile opposition to the chip facility proposal by some in the public is the one thing I don't understand. It is natural for people to fear the unknown and I suspect that this fear was exploited by self-interest groups to create a furor that it did. I believe that a lot of people were fed misinformation and were misguided in their assumptions about such a facility.

There is nothing dirty about a chip handling facility; it would have looked like the Taj Mahal amid the existing mess in the proposed area. I have seen the design and G.B.A Logging was actually sacrificing production in favor of environmental concerns.
The noise level was such that it would have been all but negligible away from the plant area. Air quality would not be adversely affected because safeguards were in place to contain any dust. In fact, the community has more to fear from neighbourhood wood-burning appliances than they would ever have to fear from the chip facility.
It is sad that the community has lost the chance at some secondary industry. Apart from the full-time, well-paid jobs it would have provided, it would have been an ideal setting for the creation of a fibre-board manufacturing plant in the area.

Inevitably, and unfortunately, it is the youth of the community who will suffer. It is they who will have to leave home and family to find jobs where they can work more than 20 hours a week or where employment is not restricted by the seasons.
To those of you who opposed this splendid opportunity, I can only say "Shame! You have committed an act of regression."
George F. Miller
Britannia Beach

Freedom of speech has been abused

Editor,
My wife and I have had the (unfortunate) opportunity of witnessing first-hand conversations regarding the chip facility. We both feel that it is good to express our thoughts and feelings on any issue and are glad we live in a country that allows this freedom. However, this freedom has on many occasions been abused. Many of the conversations we witnessed became so passionate at times that they actually turned to personal attacks on the owners of G.B.A.
We would like to express our sincerest regrets to G.B.A Logging Ltd. It has been and still is an upstanding company which has employed people from this community, paying them well for their services, offering them an opportunity to invest in this community and offering this community a portion of growth financially. It has operated its business always on a business level, has invested millions of dollars into the community over the years, has conducted itself in a more-than-professional manner over the CHIPS issue even though they have been attacked personally by people who have fed mostly on innuendo, not facts.

We agree with tourism but how can that exist without business and investment. Boardwalks, small stores, uniqueness, quaintness, etc., are all good ideas for the community but in reality minimum wage will never allow people the opportunity to invest.

All we ask of the people of Squamish who can see themselves in any of the above is to take stock of who you are, do some self-purification (get rid of the mud in your lives), apologies would be appropriate. Remember, as a community we have to build bridges rather than tear them down. There's now a lot of bridges to be rebuilt, let's get started. As for G.B.A, well, we can only wish them the very best.

Army Cadets going strong

Editor,
We would like to take this opportunity to point out there are many good things that go on in our community of Squamish.

This past weekend, 2277 6 Field Engineer Squadron Army Cadet Corps participated in a safety and law enforcement exercise. It was community spirit and a "can do" attitude that made this event a success.

In all 18 cadets were put through an emergency first aid course, a fire fighting demonstration and fireman's sports, topped off by the local RCMP dog handlers coming out to show off their talents.

Fun and education was the target of our staff officers and by all accounts, this was accomplished.

The following people are recognized for their participation in this event: Capt. A. Bone of Victoria for teaching emergency first aid; Cpl. Darik Schaap, Darwin, Const. Murray Watt and Chase for their great police dog demonstration; Squamish Fire Rescue members Bob Fulton and Russ Inouye for giving up a Sunday morning (on short notice); BC Rail for seeing the advantage of letting the cadet program utilize their facility; and especially 835 Griffin Air Cadet Squadron for backing the Army Cadets in our bid to share their facility.

2277-6 Field Engineer Squadron Army Cadet Corps would also like to thank the Royal Canadian Legion and the Squamish Valley Rod and Gun Club for their continued support of our programs and initiatives.

The co-operation of these two organizations exemplifies the community spirit of Squamish.

It is co-operation like this that has always characterized Squamish in our minds. Let us all remember how special this community is.

Council should be given some words of wisdom

Editor,
So it was those pesky folk from Whistler?

I am most grateful to Holly Raschella for enlightening readers of The Chief.

I was perplexed why 2,000 people had packed that fateful Monday meeting at the civic centre, expressing such concerted opposition to the proposed woodchip location.

Now, we can see it all.

That Monday was a poor night on television, so 2,000 of the citizens of Whistler jumped into their cars and drove hell-for-leather down to Squamish.

Perhaps with a view to beautifying their own rundown town, they had all seized this unique opportunity of studying the actions of a far-sighted mayor.

Someone who had already spent a good slice of the civic budget on a development officer and an official plan for beautifying the waterfront, and was now prepared to enhance this still further, bull-doing through plans for a shunting yard at the water's edge, rail cars decorated with green ribbon to symbolize our concern for the urban environment, and a woodchip pile of exemplary size at the end of downtown's main street.

But then I began to have my doubts. It strained my credibility just a little to imagine that all of the indigenous people, the Chamber of Commerce, the loggers, and the countless other citizens who expressed their opposition to the mayoral plan were residents of Whistler.

So, as Squamish seeks to extricate itself from the mess that unwise political promises and decisions have created, let us not blame those pesky people in Whistler or Vancouver! Rather, I would commend to council some words of wisdom from the great statesman Lord Canning: a ruler rules with the consent of the people.

Cancer patients get a lift

By TIM SHOULTS
Editor

Getting there is half the fun but when you're being treated for cancer, it's no fun at all. Driving from Squamish to appointments at Vancouver cancer clinics isn't an option for cancer patients. Neither is public transportation isn't a convenient or comfortable option after the draining experience of treatment. The Squamish unit of the Canadian Cancer Society is taking action to help local cancer patients get to and from treatment with a volunteer driver program. The Canadian Cancer Society already offers the program in the Lower Mainland, with service extending as far as Chilliwack, according to Lail Weeks, president of the Squamish branch. "We thought 'why not here?'" Weeks said. The program has been approved by the Canadian Cancer Society's Vancouver chapter, and now the Squamish branch is looking for volunteer drivers. Volunteer drivers (who are reimbursed for mileage costs) must own their own vehicles, have a safe driving record and take a training program. Most importantly, drivers have to be friendly and caring and available during the day for patients. "There's a time commitment," said Weeks. There's also already a demand for the service — after asking the Vancouver chapter of the Society for assistance setting up the program, the Squamish branch received three calls from people looking for help getting to appointments. "Volunteer drivers can make a tremendous difference in the lives of patients and their families by providing free transportation when there are no other options," said Weeks. For more information on the program or to volunteer, call Marion Biln at 892-2293.

ANNOUNCING

$200 rebate for every Hydro customer

BC Hydro has booked very strong profits this year. As residential electricity customers — and as the owners of BC Hydro — you deserve to share in that success.

That's why, in addition to continuing the Hydro rate freeze in place since 1993, the BC government and Hydro have announced a $200 energy rebate for every residential electricity customer.

Look for the rebate on your Hydro bill — in the form of a $200 credit to your account.

ANNOUNCING

Home heating help for those who need it most

Paying heating bills is especially difficult for low-income families, seniors and those with fixed incomes.

That's why the BC government is also providing $50 to single persons and $100 to families with low and fixed incomes. This is in addition to the $200 rebate that every residential electricity customer receives.

If you receive a GST credit based on your 1999 income information and meet BC residency requirements, you qualify for this assistance and will receive a cheque in the mail.

If you have any questions about the energy rebate or home heating assistance, call us toll-free, at 1-866-356-5941.

Squamish tenor set to sing

BY TIM SHOULTS
Editor

Patrick McCrum finally has a place to sing.

When the local tenor released his first CD, Schubert Lieder, in 1999, he told The Chief he wanted to give a recital in Squamish, but found it difficult to find a space with the right acoustics for a vocal performance.

Thanks to the Squamish Baptist Church, which last year opened its new acoustically-friendly sanctuary, he can finally take the stage again in his home town.

An Afternoon of Music is the theme for a recital Sunday (March 4) at 2 p.m. at Squamish Baptist Church featuring McCrum and collaborative accompanist Christopher Foley, who accompanied McCrum on piano on his CD.

Joining McCrum for duets are Vancouver-based sopranos Melody Mercredi, Colleen Renihan and Wendy M. Hatala, fellow students of McCrum in master classes at the Vancouver Academy of Music (VAM), while Squamish resident and Vancouver Symphony Orchestra musician Nicola Everton will accompany on clarinet for several pieces.

McCrum, a retired school teacher and former professional church chorister, has been singing as a soloist for the past 15 years under the wing of Phyllis Mailing of the VAM. Highlights of his vocal career include a solo in Handel's Messiah with the Vancouver Symphony.

Sunday's program features songs by Bach, Schubert, Brahms, Benjamin Britten, Manuel De Falla, Jean Coulthard, Fauré and Donizetti, as well as two original songs written by McCrum himself.

McCrum started preparing for the recital about a month ago.

"All sorts of people have helped...it's become almost a community effort," said McCrum, pointing out special contributions from the Howe Sound Performing Arts Association and the Squamish Baptist Church.

He's particularly excited about singing in the church's new sanctuary — a return of sorts, since his last solo recital in Squamish about 10 years ago was in the Baptist Church's old sanctuary.

"It was OK, but it's nothing like the new one," said McCrum. "The acoustics in it are wonderful ... the amount of reverberation is almost too much. I'm looking forward to singing in it very much."

Tickets for the recital are $15 each and are available at the door and at Xanthine's, Mostly Books and Highland Video.

TIM SHOULTS/THE CHIEF

Piano Six artist Janina Fialkowska (second from right) was welcomed to Squamish by (from left) Ann Wilson, Carol Grolman and Joanna Schwarz, who spearheaded the Howe Sound Performing Arts Association effort to bring a concert grand to Squamish.

Piano Six packs them in

By TIM SHOULTS
Editor

"She can come back and play her piano anytime."

That's what Carol Grolman of the Howe Sound Performing Arts Association said after Janina Fialkowska finished a stunning display of virtuosity at the Eagle Eye Community Theatre Feb. 20.

"Her" piano was a reference to Fialkowska's benefit concert in April 1997, which raised more than $20,000 for the HSPAA towards its Yamaha C-7 concert grand piano.

Since that concert four years ago and the purchase of HSPAA's own instrument, several world-class musicians have graced its keys, thanks to the Piano Six series, a group of six world-renowned Canadian pianists — including Fialkowska — who each have committed to 10 concerts per year in smaller Canadian centres for 10 years.

Fialkowska, the fourth Piano Six artist to come to Squamish, dazzled a near-capacity audience at the Eagle Eye with a challenging programme of Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn/Liszt and four Chopin ballads.

While her Mozart and Beethoven highlighted both her graceful performance style and impeccable, almost effortless technique, it was on Liszt's fantasy based on Mendelssohn's Midsummer Night's Dream "Wedding March" — the most famous post-wedding music in history — that Fialkowska's brilliance really came shining through.

This was a piece for four hands, played with two, and Fialkowska looked like she hardly broke a sweat as she danced over variation after crazed variation on the main theme.

Fialkowska's showmanship extended beyond her fingers to her relaxed rapport with an appreciative audience.

"Everyone knows that to get a grant out of the Canadian government you have to play a Canadian piece," she noted dryly before launching into a piece by John Burge, Everything Waits for the Lilacs, with the additional caveat: "If you don't like it, it's short."

Poetry played a major role in the programme, with the Burge piece, all four Chopin ballads and the encore, a Liszt piece based on a song by Robert Schumann, based on poems.

After this type of performance, it's clear that "poetry in motion" is more than a cliché.

Soccer returns to the pitch

BY IAN JACQUES

The race for the playoffs began on Sunday at Centennial Fields as the G&T Pool and Spa Men's Soccer League returned to action. Four games highlighted week 12 as the league resumed play after their mid-season break.

F.C. Khalsa continued its strong play remaining the only undefeated team with a hard-fought 2-1 win over Cliffside Pub.

Khalsa opened the scoring about five minutes into the contest as Eric Brusse picked up a loose ball in the box after a corner kick.

Khalsa went up 2-0 just before half-time as Adrian Oreumano was sent in on a partial break and beat Cliffside keeper Shane Hurren with a low shot into the corner of the net.

Cliffside used the half-time break to re-group and responded with a spirited second half.

Rick Grant pulled Cliffside to within one goal as he scored with about 15 minutes remaining.

The field was cut in half for the remainder of the game as Cliffside pushed all their men forward in an effort to get the tying goal, but it was in vain.

Orange Crush picked up a much-needed win over the Brew Pub by a score of 2-1.

Crush now sits just one point behind Cliffside for fifth spot and is just five points behind third-place Longhorn Pub from Whistler.

Greg Joseph Sr. got Crush off to a good start scoring minutes into the game and Senan Joseph followed that up with a goal later in the half.

The Brew Pub battled back in the second half as Scott Laurant found the back of the Crush net.

Both teams traded scoring chances throughout the remainder of the game, but Crush held on in the end for the win.

In the battle for Whistler bragging rights, Amsterdam F.C. picked up a 1-0 win over Longhorn.

Jimmy Walker provided the lone goal as he fired a rocket from about 25 yards out in the first half.

With the win, Amsterdam moves three points up on Longhorn and sits all alone in second spot.

In the exhibition game, Ellis Moving and Storage picked up a 6-2 win over the Carney's Over 35 Recycleman.

Ron Rosser scored twice for Ellis while singles went to Didier Toutain, Dan Girard, Richard Collins and Jamie Ellis.

Week 13 action is this Sunday starting at 10:30 a.m. and sees Longhorn taking on the Brew Pub, Cliffside meeting Orange Crush, Ellis versus Amsterdam and Khalsa against Carney's in the exhibition game.

The Squamish Youth Soccer Association was also back in full swing over the weekend.

On Saturday Blue Bomber shutout Purple Punishers 4-0 and Silver Wings beat Green Gryffindors 2-0 in Junior girls action.

Locals rule Sea to Sky Open Squash tourney

BY IAN JACQUES

Squamish squash players showed that they could play with the best in the province over the weekend at the Squamish Squash Club.

Local players took home nine top three placings among the six divisions including sweeping the Women's C event at the seventh annual Sea to Sky Open Squash Tournament.

Gloria McQuaid, Sylvia MacKay and Trish Bowdler finished one through three in the Women's C event, while Keith Shrubbsall won the Men's C event.

James Rogers of Vancouver was second while Shane Kramps, also of Vancouver, was the consolation winner. Squamish Chamber of Commerce president Jeff McKenzie traded in his gavel for his squash racket to capture top spot in the Men's D event with Max Fleming of Furry Creek finishing second and Raj Kahlon coming in third.

Roman Buska was the top player in the Men's Novice event with Al Gray of Abbotsford finishing in second and Steve Lonergan of Squamish in third.

In the Men's B event, Grant Gardner and Phil Beatty, both from West Vancouver finished first and second respectively, while Mike McQuaid of Squamish was the consolation winner.

The highlight event of the weekend was the Men's A — the second time this tournament has featured the 'A' draw.

In all 14 men entered, with the final match a repeat of last year's final between Rob Eberhard of Whistler and Mark Koroll of Vancouver.

Koroll won the title in a five-match thriller. Both players plan to return again next year.

In all 52 participants entered this year's tournament from as far away as Vernon.

ski challenge to help those disabled

By IAN JACQUES
Reporter

There is a chance to have some fun in the snow and help benefit a great charity in the process. The ninth annual Challenge Benefit ski race is set for Sunday (March 4) at Blackcomb Mountain in Whistler. The event will raise funds for the Disabled Skiers Association of B.C. (DSA) and will be held at Kokanee Ski Machine on Garibaldi. The race is designed for recreational skiers with race times at 10 a.m. Teams consist of three people of your choice plus one person with a disability. The cost to enter is $500 per team and $50 per team mascot.

This is a dual slalom race with each team member taking two runs on the same course. Following the team's first run, each member submits an estimated time for his or her second run. The team that comes closest to their combined times wins. Each participating team and mascots will receive Blackcomb lift tickets, a BBQ lunch, and chances to win prizes during the après-ski ceremony at the Fairmont Chateau Whistler Resort. The funds raised from the event go towards specialized equipment, learn to ski programs, instructor clinics and the opportunity for people of all ages and abilities throughout B.C. to enjoy the sport of skiing.

"It's really just designed to be a fun, casual event," said Bruce Lebas, a director with the DSABC. "It's quite an eye-opener seeing what these disabled athletes can do. This fund-raiser has been quite successful in the past and we're hoping that businesses and community groups in Squamish and throughout the Sea to Sky corridor will come out and get involved." This is the DSABC's main fund raising event for the year. To receive an entry form, or for more information, call Lebas at 892-2216 or you can reply via e-mail at dsabc@dsabc.com.

The germ pneumococcal can cause serious infection of the blood, lungs (pneumonia) or the lining of the brain (meningitis).

Prevention is possible with the pneumococcal vaccine. This safe vaccine is free to anyone over the age of 65 and people 2-64 years with a chronic health condition. (Please call Coast Garibaldi Health at 892-2293 to make an appointment at our clinics: Wednesday, March 14, 2001).

Hockey sales legit: RCMP

By TIM SHOULTS
Editor

Another telephone solicitation campaign in the Sea to Sky corridor is legitimate, according to local police. On Wednesday, March 7, an annual Battle of the Badges hockey game will pit Vancouver City Police officers against a team of RCMP officers from Squamish, Whistler and Pemberton, with all monies raised going to the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) programs in the Sea to Sky corridor. Representatives of Xentel Corporation are phoning local households to sell tickets to the event, Const. Lee Hamilton of the Whistler RCMP detachment said Thursday.

"We wanted people to make sure it is a legitimate sale," said Hamilton, adding that the representatives will not be asking for credit cards or other payment over the phone.

Those interested in purchasing tickets will receive them in the mail along with an invoice.

Any residents with questions about the campaign or Battle of the Badges can call Const. Hamilton at Whistler RCMP at (604) 932-3044.

Sports Briefs

Team Reps keep winning

The Squamish Eagles returned to action last Friday with an exhibition game against West Van. It was the first game back for Steven Luca after recovering from a hamstring injury.

On Saturday the playoffs began in earnest with the Eagles traveling to North Vancouver for the first game of the series. Led by the line of Keegan Doherty (2 goals), Steve Burritt (1 goal) and Brad Sander (2 assists) the Eagles picked up a 4-1

Wilson and Erica Liechti scored the goals while Liz Carraco and Megan Foster split the duties in goal.

Kelsey Biln and Cheryl Caldwell were also outstanding on defence.

There were some anxious moments during the second period when the opposition was on strong, but brilliant defending by Steven and a light-reel goal by Steve Ennis stopped the sure.

Girls win again

The Squamish U18 girls' hockey team look unstoppable this season.

The squad continued its winning play on Sunday at Tennial Fields with a convincing 4-0 win over the Fern Force to solidify their hold on first place. Megan Fulton, Jennine

Request for initial expressions of interest

Continuing Care Renewal

On December 5, 2000, the Government of British Columbia announced its health action plan to improve patient care. One part of the plan is Continuing Care Renewal, which includes a provincial commitment to open 2,000 new residential care beds by the end of 2005.

New residential care facilities will be built in communities throughout BC. The exact locations will depend on local bed capacity and demand.

Under continuing care renewal, the beds are expected to be integrated with other health-care services such as assisted living, day programs, home care, home support, primary care and outreach services.

To meet this commitment, preliminary expressions of interest and qualifications are invited from anyone interested in participating, including:

- Not-for-profit organizations
- Other care providers and developer-operators
- The development industry (architects, consultants, appraisers, finance, etc.)
- Health-care consultants and service planners

World Day of Prayer service on Friday

The Valleycliffe Christian Fellowship Church will host the annual World Day of Prayer service in our community on Friday, March 2 at 7:30 p.m.

The service this year was written by the women of Samoa and the theme of the service is Informed Prayer — Prayerful Action.

World Day of Prayer is a worldwide movement of Christian women who observe a common day of prayer carried out by women and men.

For those with little children, day care will be available. Following the service, refreshments will be served.

Hats off to the elementary and high school students who have been raising money for the Mama School in Guadalajara, Mexico and to the students from Brackendale and Howe Sound secondary schools who will be going for a week to the Mama School, a charity-run school for street children.

The Global Awareness benefit dinner at HSSS this Friday, March 2 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. will give a big boost to the fund-raising.

Along with the South American cuisine and entertainment, there will also be a silent auction. Pick up your tickets at $10 each from Mostly Books, Goffinet Refinishing on Second Avenue, HSSS library and from Brackendale and Garibaldi Highlands elementary schools.

The Music in the Afternoon concert will feature members and associates of the Vancouver Academy of Music and will be held in the Squamish Baptist Church (2262 Read Cresc.) on Sunday, March 4 from 2 to 4 p.m. Local tenor Patrick McCrum will perform along with sopranos Melody Mercredi, Colleen Renihan and Wendy Hatala, Christopher Foley accompanying on piano and on clarinet, Vancouver Symphony Orchestra musician Nicola Everton. Tickets at $15 each are available at Mostly Books, Xanthine's and Highland Video.

KIDSfest is soon approaching and this celebration of children's theatre naturally has many young performers ready to strut their stuff along with a few adult cast members.

Performances are set for March 8 and 9 in the Eagle Eye Community Theatre at 7 p.m. each evening when six short plays will be performed. This will be an event for all ages so please plan on attending.

Tickets are available from Mostly Books and Highland Video at $7 for adults and $5 for students and seniors.

Tomorrow, (Feb. 28) there will be a free information session on Parenting after Separation.

It helps families adjust to the challenges following separation and the session is offered by the province of British Columbia.

Topics covered include the impact of separation on you and your children, strategies to help families adjust to the changes and effective ways to communicate and problem solve to build a positive parenting arrangement.

The session will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. To pre-register please call Donna Brown, MA Parents 'R' Forever at toll free 1-877-202-1114. Please note, spouses cannot attend the same session.

The support given to the Order of the Eastern Star Lodge's Valentine Tea and raffle was much appreciated by the members.

The raffle winners were Ted Morris of Sorrento, Verna Harrison of Delta and Caren Candy of Squamish. The door prize was won by Ruth Wilson.

I believe the annual fund-raising campaign for the B.C. and Yukon Heart and Stroke Foundation was a successful one in our community.

However, if you were not canvassed but would like to give an income tax deductible donation, the address is Box 433, Squamish, VON 3G0.

Stork Story — BURROUGHS/WILKINSON — Congratulations to Richard and Lori on the birth of their second son, Jacob David Richard, born in the Squamish General Hospital on Jan. 12, weighing 8 lbs. 1 oz. This is a new brother for Kyle. The proud grandparents are Larry and Laura Burroughs of Squamish and Janice and James Wilkinson of Surrey. Equally proud great grandparents are H.N. (Curly) MacLellan of Squamish, Frances MacLellan of Okanagan Falls, Al Burroughs of Squamish and Sharon Burroughs of Courtenay.

For International Women's Day on March 8, a dinner program including entertainment will celebrate this special event in Squamish at the Best Western Sea to Sky Hotel. Tickets are available at the Howe Sound Women's Centre at $16 or if you wish more information call 892-5748. In 1997, the United Nations resolution was passed calling for all countries of the world to celebrate a day of women's rights and international peace.

What an enjoyable afternoon was had watching the Squamish Skating Club's presentation of 2001 — The New Ice Age.

From the youngest skaters to the senior members it was a professional show in all aspects including the scenery,

Maureen Gilmour

Continued next time.... "So why are you a Christian, anyway?" Sarah asked, digging at a stubborn weed. Surprised, I looked up from the unyielding patch of dirt I was trying to loosen with my trowel. This summer, I vowed, this weed patch was gonna be a flower bed. "I mean," she continued, "aren't all religions the same? Isn't Jesus just like Buddha or Mohammed or Confucius? They all preached about being good and loving your neighbor and all that stuff." I thoughtfully picked some rocks out of the dirt while I formulated an answer for my friend. "Well, actually, Jesus isn't the same as the other religious leaders", I began. "Jesus was the only one to heal the sick and raise the dead. He was also the only religious leader to claim to be the resurrection and the life. He said, 'anyone who believes in me will live even though they die' (John 11:25). Jesus was the only leader to die as a sacrifice for the sins of all people from every tribe, people, language and nation (Rev. 5:9). Jesus was also the only religious leader to rise from the dead. His resurrection is God's declaration with power that Jesus is the Son of God (Rom 1:4). He will also return one day in Glory to rule the nations." Sarah didn't speak for a moment and we worked together in silence. I worked the soil through my fingers and prayed that it would be fertile.
